9 The king's secretaries were summoned at that time, in the third month, which is the month of Sivan, on the twenty-third day; and an edict was written, according to all that Mordecai commanded, to the Jews and to the satraps and the governors and the officials of the provinces from India to Ethiopia, one hundred twenty-seven provinces, to every province in its own script and to every people in its own language, and also to the Jews in their script and their language. 10 He wrote letters in the name of King Ahasuerus, sealed them with the king's ring, and sent them by mounted couriers riding on fast steeds bred from the royal herd. 11 By these letters the king allowed the Jews who were in every city to assemble and defend their lives, to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate any armed force of any people or province that might attack them, with their children and women, and to plunder their goods 12 on a single day throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar. 13 A copy of the writ was to be issued as a decree in every province and published to all peoples, and the Jews were to be ready on that day to take revenge on their enemies. 14 So the couriers, mounted on their swift royal steeds, hurried out, urged by the king's command. The decree was issued in the citadel of Susa.

15 Then Mordecai went out from the presence of the king, wearing royal robes of blue and white, with a great golden crown and a mantle of fine linen and purple, while the city of Susa shouted and rejoiced. 16 For the Jews there was light and gladness, joy and honor. 17 In every province and in every city, wherever the king's command and his edict came, there was gladness and joy among the Jews, a festival and a holiday. Furthermore, many of the peoples of the country professed to be Jews, because the fear of the Jews had fallen upon them.

The origins of Purim; the Jews triumph over their enemies

1 Now in the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, on the thirteenth day, when the king's command and edict were about to be executed, on the very day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to gain power over them, but which had been changed to a day when the Jews would gain power over their foes, 2 the Jews gathered in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to lay hands on those who had sought their ruin; and no one could withstand them, because the fear of them had fallen upon all peoples. 3 All the officials of the provinces, the satraps and the governors, and the royal officials were supporting the Jews, because the fear of Mordecai had fallen upon them. 4 For Mordecai was powerful in the king's house, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces as the man Mordecai grew more and more powerful. 5 So the Jews struck down all their enemies with the sword, slaughtering, and destroying them, and did as they pleased to those who hated them. 6 In the citadel of Susa the Jews killed and destroyed five hundred people. 7 They killed Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, 8 Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, 9 Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, Vaizatha, 10 the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews; but they did not touch the plunder.

11 That very day the number of those killed in the citadel of Susa was reported to the king. 12 The king said to Queen Esther, "In the citadel of Susa the Jews have killed five hundred people and also the ten sons of Haman. What have they done in the rest of the king's provinces? Now what is your petition? It shall be granted you. And what further is your request? It shall be fulfilled." 13 Esther said, "If it pleases the king, let the Jews who are in Susa be allowed tomorrow also to do according to this day's edict, and let the ten sons of Haman be hanged on the gallows." 14 So the king commanded this to be done; a decree was issued in Susa, and the ten sons of Haman were hanged. 15 The Jews who were in Susa gathered also on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar and they killed three hundred persons in Susa; but they did not touch the plunder.

16 Now the other Jews who were in the king's provinces also gathered to defend their lives, and gained relief from their enemies, and killed seventy-five thousand of those who hated them; but they laid no hands on the plunder. 17 This was on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth day they rested and made that a day of feasting and gladness.

18 But the Jews who were in Susa gathered on the thirteenth day and on the fourteenth, and rested on the fifteenth day, making that a day of feasting and gladness. 19 Therefore the Jews of the villages, who live in the open towns, hold the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day for gladness and feasting, a holiday on which they send gifts of food to one another.

The inauguration of the feast of Purim

20 Mordecai recorded these things, and sent letters to all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, both near and far, 21 enjoining them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar and also the fifteenth day of the same month, year by year, 22 as the days on which the Jews gained relief from their enemies, and as the month that had been turned for them from sorrow into gladness and from mourning into a holiday; that they should make them days of feasting and gladness, days for sending gifts of food to one another and presents to the poor. 23 So the Jews adopted as a custom what they had begun to do, as Mordecai had written to them.

24 Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews to destroy them, and had cast Pur — that is "the lot" — to crush and destroy them; 25 but when Esther came before the king, he gave orders in writing that the wicked plot that he had devised against the Jews should come upon his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the gallows. 26 Therefore these days are called Purim, from the word Pur. Thus because of all that was written in this letter, and of what they had faced in this matter, and of what had happened to them, 27 the Jews established and accepted as a custom for themselves and their descendants and all who joined them, that without fail they would continue to observe these two days every year, as it was written and at the time appointed. 28 These days should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, in every family, province, and city; and these days of Purim should never fall into disuse among the Jews, nor should the commemoration of these days cease among their descendants.

29 Queen Esther daughter of Abihail, along with the Jew Mordecai, gave full written authority, confirming this second letter about Purim. 30 Letters were sent wishing peace and security to all the Jews, to the one hundred twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, 31 and giving orders that these days of Purim should be observed at their appointed seasons, as the Jew Mordecai and Queen Esther enjoined on the Jews, just as they had laid down for themselves and for their descendants regulations concerning their fasts and their lamentations. 32 The command of Queen Esther fixed these practices of Purim, and it was recorded in writing.

Postscript: the greatness of Ahasuerus and Mordecai

1 King Ahasuerus laid tribute on the land and on the islands of the sea. 2 All the acts of his power and might, and the full account of the high honor of Mordecai, to which the king advanced him, are they not written in the annals of the kings of Media and Persia? 3 For Mordecai the Jew was next in rank to King Ahasuerus, and he was powerful among the Jews and popular with his many kindred, for he sought the good of his people and interceded for the welfare of all his descendants.

INTRODUCTION TO THE POETICAL AND WISDOM BOOKS

Contents and Placement

The Poetical and Wisdom Books — Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Solomon — do not form a totally coherent unit, especially when compared to other canonical divisions, such as the Historical Books or the Prophetic Books. These five books were written or collected at widely different times and consist of a number of literary types: love poetry (the Song of Solomon), Temple liturgy (Psalms), and wisdom literature (Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes). It is also likely that they entered the canon for quite different reasons: Psalms was used for prayers; the Song of Solomon was probably first canonized as an ancient erotic poem used in wedding ceremonies; while Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes may have been placed together in the canon because all three belong to a category of writings known as wisdom literature.

"Wisdom literature" describes works that do not focus on the nation Israel, on its great formative historical memories, such as Exodus and conquest, on the Temple and Jerusalem, and on covenant as the central theological notion binding together God, the people Israel, and the land of Israel. Wisdom books are thus in some ways a departure from the concerns of other biblical books. They share, rather, as their focus, reflection on universal human concerns, especially the understanding of individual experiences and the maintenance of ordered relationships that lead both to success on the human (social) plane and to divine approval. In more recent scholarship, the concept of "wisdom" has been criticized as too elastic and amorphous. Indeed, the three wisdom books in this collection are remarkably different from one another and do not form a clear unit: Proverbs, in contrast to Job, suggest that the righteous are rewarded and do not suffer, while Ecclesiastes, in contrast to both Job and Proverbs, is deeply skeptical of the utility of wisdom. In addition, "wisdom" is a modern category, deriving from the beginning of the twentieth century, and thus Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes were not originally grouped together on generic grounds. They nevertheless share a thematic interdependence. Proverbs provides a normative version of a type of ancient Near Eastern thought that looked for pattern and repetition in nature and in the moral life. In this tradition, the regular recurrence of natural phenomena could provide an analogy to guide human beings in their social interactions:

As charcoal is to hot embers and wood to fire,
so is a quarrelsome person for kindling strife (26.21).

The inevitability of the natural occurrence is mirrored in the inevitability of the social one. This kind of thinking then was extended to moral behavior, with the argument that good behavior, like good farming practice, will be rewarded:

Anyone who tends a fig tree will eat its fruit,
and anyone who takes care of a master will be honored

Job and Ecclesiastes relate to this normative tradition in different ways. Job denies the inevitability of rewards for living an upright life and decisively refutes the idea that human suffering is always deserved. Ecclesiastes treats the idea of inevitability in another way: The natural repetitions of seasons, tasks, and occupations become the image of futility. Each therefore, depends on the reader's acquaintance with the normative tradition. It should be noted that the themes of the wisdom tradition are continued in the Apocryphal/ Deuterocanonical books of the Wisdom of Solomon and Sirach (Ecclesiasticus), both of which combine didactic themes and style familiar especially from the book of Proverbs with retrospective summaries of Israel's history.

Though these five books are loosely described as Poetical Books, they are not all poetry, nor are all biblical poetic works found in this canonical section. Although Ecclesiastes contains some poetical sections, such as the poem of 3.1-8 ("For everything there is a season..."), or quoted poetic proverbs (e.g., 7.1-6), the book is predominantly prose. Additionally, the nature of the poetry in these books is quite different, ranging from the highly structured, largely static poetry of Proverbs, to the intensely erotic, more free-flowing poetry of Song of Solomon.

The creation of a canonical division called the "Poetical Books" is a relatively late development. In Jewish tradition these five books are included in the Writings, the third division of the canon; their order varies in different sources. The earliest evidence for seeing these five books as a unit comes from the second century CE, though it took many centuries for these five books, in the order found here, to be recognized as the third section of the Bible. The order of these books was variable, and some traditions placed them at the end of the Christian Old Testament, while others put them as the second part of that book immediately following the Pentateuch. Its current placement in English Bibles follows some manuscript traditions which most likely sought to organize the first section of the Bible by placing the Torah, the most authoritative section, first, followed by works about the past (the Historical Books), books about the present (the Poetical Books), and books about the future (the Prophetic Books). This arrangement, which places the prophets last, would be especially significant once the Hebrew Bible became the Old Testament and was seen as a kind of introduction to the New Testament. The Prophetic Books would then immediately precede the Gospels as prophecy followed by fulfillment.

Authorship

At least four of the five Poetical Books cohere in terms of traditionally ascribed authorship. Many of the Psalms contain superscriptions or titles incorporating "of David," and many early Jewish and Christian traditions ascribe the Psalter as a whole to David. Proverbs 1.1 ("The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel"), 10.1, and 25.1 explicitly ascribe (sections of) that book to Solomon. Ecclesiastes, in its opening chapter, presents itself as the work of "the Teacher, when king over Israel in Jerusalem" (1.12; cf. 1.1); Jewish and Christian tradition understands this royal teacher to be Solomon, who is described in 1 Kings as being exceedingly rich, just like the protagonist of Ecclesiastes. Finally, the Song of Solomon opens with an explicit (but secondary) ascription of authorship: "The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's." Given the clear connection of Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Solomon to David and Solomon, it is noteworthy that some early Christian interpreters connected Job as well to the period of Solomon. It is thus likely that this canonical division of five books came into being as the compilations connected to David and Solomon, and was only secondarily labeled the "Poetical Books." The traditional attributions of authorship, however, have for the most part been rejected by modern scholarship; see the Introduction to each book for a detailed discussion.

The Characteristics of Biblical Poetry

These books do, as noted above, incorporate a large amount of poetry, so it is appropriate to here examine the basic structures of biblical poetry. Poetry is a cross-cultural phenomenon: Most cultures distinguish between an everyday type of discourse (prose), and heightened discourse (poetry, and also philosophy). This heightening may be accomplished in a number of different ways, which include the use of figuration (e.g., metaphor, simile), meter, and certain types of sound patterning, such as alliteration and rhyme. Yet there is no cross-cultural pattern for poetry. Thus Hebrew poetry, unlike its classical English counterpart, has neither (true) rhythm nor rhyme; nevertheless, it is poetic in that it uses certain devices in significant enough concentration to distinguish it from everyday speech, or prose. Obviously, the prose-poetry distinction is relative rather than absolute; as in English, we may speak of poetic prose or prosaic poetry. Thus, "pure prose" and "pure poetry" should be seen as opposites on a continuum, within which a large variety of possibilities evince themselves in the Bible as in other literary traditions.

The main shared characteristic between typical English poetry and biblical poetry is the use of figuration. This may be seen, for example, in Ps 23. The central image of this psalm is introduced by the metaphor, "The Lord is my shepherd" (v. 1). The following verses unveil or clarify the meaning of this metaphor, noting in vv. 22-3 how God, the ideal shepherd, tends his people/sheep:

He makes me lie down in green pastures;
 he leads me beside still waters;
 he restores my soul.
 He leads me in right paths
 for his name's sake.

Psalm 1 is characterized by a set of two contrasting similes: the righteous

...are like trees
 planted by streams of water,
 which yield their fruit in its season,
 and their leaves do not wither (v. 3), while the wicked "are like chaff that the wind drives away" (v. 4). The Song of Solomon is especially rich in similes and metaphors, as in the beginning of ch 2:

I am a rose of Sharon,
 a lily of the valleys.
 As a lily among brambles,
 so is my love among maidens.
 As an apple tree among the trees of the wood,
 so is my beloved among young men.
 With great delight I sat in his shadow,
 and his fruit was sweet to my taste.

The main characteristic of biblical poetry, nevertheless, is not figuration, but parallelism, in which most poetic lines may be divided into two (or sometimes three) parts; the second part of the line is intimately connected to the first part, and typically seconds it in some way. For example, Ps 6.2 reads:

Be gracious to me, O Lord, for I am languishing;
 O Lord, heal me, for my bones are shaking with terror.

The verse clearly divides into two more or less equal sections, and each element in the first part is mirrored, seconded, or paralleled in the second: Be gracious to me || heal me; O Lord || O Lord; for I am languishing || for my bones are shaking with terror. This parallelism, which is not typical of biblical prose, serves as the backbone of biblical poetry.

Since the eighteenth century, it has been customary to see three main types of parallelism in the Bible: synonymous, antithetical, and synthetic. The quotation above from Ps 6.2 is an example of synonymous parallelism. Antithetical parallelism can be seen in Prov 10.1:

A wise child makes a glad father,
but a foolish child is a mother's grief.

In this balanced, two-part line, "a wise child" is antithetical, or opposite, to "a foolish child," and "makes a glad father" is antithetical to "is a mother's grief." In synthetic parallelism, the second part of the line completes the thought of the first part, and is neither the same nor the opposite. For example, Song 1.9 reads:

I compare you, my love,
to a mare among Pharaoh's chariots.

Here the second part concludes the thought of the first.

The appropriateness of the three labels — synonymous, antithetical, and synthetic — which were accepted in biblical scholarship for two centuries, has now been called into question on several grounds. First, some have noted that languages have no true synonyms; thus "synonymous parallelism" is a misleading term. Furthermore, very often two parallel words can be similar, but are not truly synonymous, as may be seen in the example of Ps 6.2: "I am languishing" || "my bones are shaking with terror." The term antithetical parallelism has been questioned because not all elements of part B are the antithesis of part A. This may be seen in the example from Prov 10.1, where "child" is used in both parts A and B; a true antithesis might contrast a "wise child" with a "foolish parent." Finally, "synthetic" has been criticized as too vague a term. These criticisms should not be underestimated. Nevertheless, the three terms, if understood as ideal types from which actual lines may deviate to a greater or lesser extent, remain useful.

A much more serious criticism of the classical model emerged in the mid-1980s when several scholars began to question the notion that parallelism is formulaic in that the second half of the poetic line typically adds little to the line, but merely seconds it. Several scholars have suggested just the opposites, that the second part heightens or extends the first. Thus, the typical biblical verse should be read "A, and even more so, B." According to this model, which has gained substantial support in the last two decades, we would not read Ps 6.2b, "O Lord, heal me, for my bones are shaking with terror" as a type of filler that merely restates "Be gracious to me, O Lord, for I am languishing." Rather we would understand the verse as a whole as: "Be gracious to me, O Lord, for I am languishing," and moreover, "O Lord, heal me, for my bones are shaking with terror," where the claim "for my bones are shaking with terror" is a more vivid description that intensifies the verse's opening "for I am languishing."

Sometimes it is quite clear that the second part of the verse does not merely parallel the first but does go beyond it in some significant fashion, and thus justifies this newer model. Yet, there are a substantial number of cases in which the second part actually does seem to function as a mere filler, carrying little if any semantic weight, let alone intensifying the first. For example, the major image of Ps 121 is the ability of God to protect the individual. This is expressed at the psalm's center, where God is imagined metaphorically as a "shade" (v. 5) from the intense Mediterranean heat. The psalm continues (v. 6): "The sun shall not strike you by day, nor the moon by night." Clearly, the second part, "nor the moon by night" is not an intensification; in fact, it makes no sense, since no one in ancient Israel was afflicted with moonburn or moonstroke. The second part here is probably an antithetical filler and carries no semantic weight. It should be seen as part of an ancient Near Eastern and biblical patten of word pairs, where a particular word (e.g., "sun" or "father") automatically evokes a related ("synonymous" or "antithetical") word (e.g., "moon" or "mother").

Thus, parallelism is much more complicated than would appear on the surface. Clearly it is characterized by sets of lines, each of which may be divided into two parts, typically of the same length and mirroring each other on the semantic, syntactic, and phonological levels. It is unclear if the second should typically be read as an intensification of the first, or as a filler that carries little or no semantic value. This uncertainty is extremely frustrating, not only because it leaves us unsure how to read much of biblical poetry, especially the extent to which we do or do not need to pay close attention to the second half of the line, but also because our understanding of biblical poetry will affect our reconstruction of many Israelite institutions. To return to Prov 10.1 — "A A wise child makes a glad father, but a foolish child is a mother's grief" — if we follow the older understanding of parallelism, the second half is largely a filler, indicating that the father had the major role in the child's upbringing in ancient Israel, while if we follow the newer understanding, where the second intensifies the first, the mother was primarily responsible for the child.

Another area that has engendered significant controversy over the last few decades concerns the extent to which meter or rhythm existed in biblical poetry. Much of this debate concerns the definition of meter. In English and other modern Western languages, meter is generally understood as a pattern of stressed and unstressed syllables; if this is how we should understand it in biblical poetic texts, these texts in their current form lack meter or rhythm. Metrical patterns can only be found in biblical texts if they are emended or reconstructed extensively. There is, however, a tendency for the parts of each line, in most poetic genres, to be approximately the same length. There is some possibility that this reflects the remnant of some metrical system, and that at an earlier time, each part had not only the same length, but the same meter, but this pattern of stressed and unstressed syllables has been lost as a result of changes in the pronunciation of ancient Hebrew. More likely, the similarity of length is part of the larger system of parallelism, which encouraged each part to mirror its counterpart in length, as well as in semantic, syntactic, and phonological structure. Scholars have until recently been primarily concerned with the line as the main unit of biblical poetry. This is not really surprising, given how foreign biblical parallelism is to the modern Western (but not the ancient Near Eastern) ear. This interest in the line has obscured the significance of the strophe or stanza and of the poem as a whole. But the last few decades have seen a legitimate return to these larger units. For example, it had become a habit when studying passages like Job 3 to concentrate solely on the parallelism of lines like v. 5:

Let gloom and deep darkness claim it.
 Let clouds settle upon it;
 let the blackness of the day terrify it.

Now, in addition to this type of analysis, scholars study how the poet uses images of day and night, light and darkness, throughout the chapter, in order to create this exquisite poem. This is not, however, an either-or proposition: By studying how the individual line functions as poetry and how these lines join together into stanzas, which combine into complete poems, we gain a much fuller appreciation and understanding of these Poetical Books.

JOB

Introduction

The book of Job is named after its protagonist, innocent man who suffered loss and endured pain through no fault of his own. For many, the man Job is most well-known through the cliché about "the patience of Job," derived from the traditional translation of Jas 5.11. The Greek term that is translated as "patience," however, means not so much patience as "endurance," "persistence," or "steadfastness." And, indeed, the Job that one encounters in the book that bears his name is not patient, but he is persistent in his claim that he has suffered undeservedly.

The provenance of the book is unknown. Its author is anonymous, while its date and place of origin are matters of debate. Most scholars place the bulk of the book, if not its final form, somewhere between the seventh and the fourth centuries BCE, although also recognizing that the final form is the result of a complex history of transmission. The prose framework, what are now the book's prologue (1.1-2.13) and epilogue (42.7-17), consists of a narrative that is likely based on an ancient folktale about the undeserved suffering and final restoration of the protagonist. The rest of the book consists of dialogues (written in poetic style) between Job and the friends who had ostensibly come to comfort him (3.1-31.40), and between Job and God (38.1-42.6). Intruding into this material are a poetic interlude on the inaccessibility of Wisdom (28.1-28) and the speeches of Elihu (32.1-37.24) that appear to have been added at a later time. Interpreters have called attention to certain linguistic and stylistic shifts, as well as occasional inconsistencies in the story line. Such discrepancies have been explained in terms of multiple authors, a single author with multiple sources, a primary work that has been redacted two or three times, or a single author who has worked with the materials over a long period of time.

Whatever the truth, the book in its present form must be read as a whole.

Although the book of Job in its entirety is unique in ancient literature, it draws on a variety of traditions and genres that were known throughout the ancient Near East. The character of Job himself is presented as a non-Israelite from the land of Uz (perhaps northern Arabia), and it is likely that versions of the story of Job were told by many of the peoples of the region. In the sixth century BCE the prophet Ezekiel mentions Job, along with Noah and Dan'el, as heroes of antiquity who saved others by their righteousness (Ezek 14.14, 20). Despite its mention by Ezekiel, this Dan'el (spelled "Daniel" in the NRSV translation, but footnoted as "Danel") is not the same Daniel as the biblical book of that name, but an ancient Canaanite king whose story is known from the tablets found in the ruins of the second millennium BCE city of Ugarit. Similar to Ezekiel's setting of Job among the legendary figures of antiquity is the way in which the prose tale presents Job as someone who apparently lived in the remote ancestral period.

The influence of ancient Near Eastern literary forms and traditions are also evident in the poetic dialogues. The problem of enigmatic suffering was one that was explored in Mesopotamian literature in poetic compositions in which a righteous or emblematic sufferer described his sufferings, his confusion about the cause of his misery, and his passionate desire for restoration (e.g., "I will Praise the Lord of Wisdom" and the "Sumerian Job"). The most striking similarity, however, exists between the dialogue sections of Job and "The Babylonian Theodicy." In this composition an unnamed sufferer and his friend speak alternately in a cycle of twenty-seven speeches. The sufferer protests his misery, describing the injustice of the world and the unfairness of the gods. His friend attempts to defend the rationality of the world and urges his friend to seek the mercy of the gods. In contrast to Job, however, "The Babylonian Theodicy" ends without any appearance of the deity or narrative resolution.

Finally, the book of Job contains many allusions to mythological traditions known throughout the ancient Near East. Repeated reference is made to the cosmogonic struggle between God and the sea, especially as represented by the dragon of chaos, Rahab or Leviathan (3.8; 7.12; 10.13; 26.12/ 38.3-11; 41.1-34). It is often suggested that the long descriptions of Behemoth and Leviathan in chs 40-41 draw on Egyptian imagery from the myths of Horus and Seth. The descriptions of creation and of cosmic geography in chs 26 and 38 also evoke the mythic traditions common to Israel and the other cultures of the Near East.

Like other wisdom literature in the Hebrew Bible, the book of Job does not make reference to specific Israelite legal or historical traditions. It does, however, make a rich use of psalmic and other wisdom traditions. In the dialogues the characters often make use of proverbs (e.g., 5.10, 17; 8.11; 12.11) or hymns (e.g., 5.8-16). Job is particularly adept at evoking a hymn or psalm only to parody it. Although the clearest example is his parody of Psalm 8 in 7.17-19, he uses this technique often (9.5-12; 12.13-25).

The enigma of the suffering of the righteous and the good fortune of the wicked was one addressed by Israelite literature, both in the psalms and in other wisdom texts. Although not prominent in the book of Proverbs, it emerges more strongly in the later wisdom books of Ecclesiastes and Sirach. Several Psalms also address aspects of these issues (Ps 37; 39; 49; 73), but they do not exhibit the radical protest and questioning that one finds in the book of Job.

Distinctive to the book of Job is the way it situates these issues. The book is neither a treatise on innocent suffering, as often supposed, nor an apology for God's justice in the face of inexplicable human suffering. Rather, the principal theological issue that the book raises is, ironically, the question posed by the adversary in the divine council (see 1.9): Will mortals be religious ("fear God") apart from rewards and punishment? As the dialogue develops, however, the questions of divine justice that torture Job's mind are not satisfactorily met by the arguments of the friends. Job himself seeks to imagine a way in which he might go to trial with God for a vindication of his righteousness and perhaps an acknowledgment from God of God's mistreatment of Job (9.2-35; 13.13-28; 16.18-22; 19.23-27; 23.1-7; 31.35-37). Yet when God answers Job, it is neither as the friends have imagined God would speak nor as Job had hoped God would answer him. The meaning and significance of the divine speeches continue to be among the most debated issues of the book. Some interpret the speeches as a repudiation of a human's right to question God. Others understand them as a necessary correction to Job's too limited understanding of the nature of the cosmos as a place where all suffering can be reduced to legal categories of guilt or innocence. All agree that the extraordinary beauty of the poetry is part of its meaning. Perhaps the very elusiveness of the divine speeches implies that no answer from God to Job's questions can satisfy the human intellect. But as is known by anyone, that is not true to our experience as humans. We yearn for a response to the problem of evil, and continue to in part because the book of Job provided no answer for us. Yet the ending suggest that there is a resolution to be found in the depths of a pious life lived before a mysterious God.

1 There was once a man in the land of Uz whose name was Job. That man was blameless and upright, one who feared God and turned away from evil. 2 There were born to him seven sons and three daughters. 3 He had seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred donkeys, and very many servants; so that this man was the greatest of all the people of the east. 4 His sons used to go and hold feasts in one another's houses in turn; and they would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them. 5 And when the feast days had run their course, Job would send and sanctify them, and he would rise early in the morning and offer burnt offerings according to the number of them all; for Job said, "It may be that my children have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts." This is what Job always did.

6 One day the heavenly beings came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan also came among them. 7 The LORD said to Satan, "Where have you come from?" Satan answered the LORD, "From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it." 8 The LORD said to Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job? There is no one like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man who fears God and turns away from evil." 9 Then Satan answered the LORD, "Does Job fear God for nothing? 10 Have you not put a fence around him and his house and all that he has, on every side? You have blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land. 11 But stretch out your hand now, and touch all that he has, and he will curse you to your face." 12 The LORD said to Satan, "Very well, all that he has is in your power; only do not stretch out your hand against him!" So Satan went out from the presence of the LORD.

13 One day when his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the eldest brother's house, 14 a messenger came to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing and the donkeys were feeding beside them, 15 and the Sabeans fell on them and carried them off, and killed the servants with the edge of the sword; I alone have escaped to tell you." 16 While he was still speaking, another came and said, "The fire of God fell from heaven and burned up the sheep and the servants, and consumed them; I alone have escaped to tell you." 17 While he was still speaking, another came and said, "The Chaldeans formed three columns, made a raid on the camels and carried them off, and killed the servants with the edge of the sword; I alone have escaped to tell you." 18 While he was still speaking, another came and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house, 19 and suddenly a great wind came across the desert, struck the four corners of the house, and it fell on the young people, and they are dead; I alone have escaped to tell you."

20 Then Job arose, tore his robe, shaved his head, and fell on the ground and worshiped. 21 He said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return there; the LORD gave, and the LORD has taken away; blessed be the name of the LORD."

22 In all this Job did not sin or charge God with wrongdoing.

[Job 2]

1 One day the heavenly beings came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan also came among them to present himself before the LORD. 2 The LORD said to Satan, "Where have you come from?" Satan answered the LORD, "From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it." 3 The LORD said to Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job? There is no one like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man who fears God and turns away from evil. He still persists in his integrity, although you incited me against him, to destroy him for no reason." 4 Then Satan answered the LORD, "Skin for skin! All that people have they will give to save their lives. 5 But stretch out your hand now and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse you to your face." 6 The LORD said to Satan, "Very well, he is in your power; only spare his life."

7 So Satan went out from the presence of the LORD, and inflicted loathsome sores on Job from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head. 8 Job took a potsherd with which to scrape himself, and sat among the ashes.

9 Then his wife said to him, "Do you still persist in your integrity? Curse God, and die." 10 But he said to her, "You speak as any foolish woman would speak. Shall we receive the good at the hand of God, and not receive the bad?" In all this Job did not sin with his lips.

11 Now when Job's three friends heard of all these troubles that had come upon him, each of them set out from his home — Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. They met together to go and console and comfort him. 12 When they saw him from a distance, they did not recognize him, and they raised their voices and wept aloud; they tore their robes and threw dust in the air upon their heads. 13 They sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his suffering was very great.

1 After this Job opened his mouth and cursed the day of his birth. 2 Job said:

3 "Let the day perish in which I was born,
and the night that said,
'A man-child is conceived.'

4 Let that day be darkness!
May God above not seek it,
or light shine on it.

5 Let gloom and deep darkness claim it.
Let clouds settle upon it;
let the blackness of the day terrify it.

6 That night — let thick darkness seize it!
let it not rejoice among the days of the year;
let it not come into the number of the months.

7 Yes, let that night be barren;
let no joyful cry be heard in it.

8 Let those curse it who curse the Sea,
those who are skilled to rouse up Leviathan.

9 Let the stars of its dawn be dark;
let it hope for light, but have none;
may it not see the eyelids of the morning —

10 because it did not shut the doors of my mother's womb, and hide trouble from my eyes.

11 "Why did I not die at birth,
come forth from the womb and expire?

12 Why were there knees to receive me,
or breasts for me to suck?

13 Now I would be lying down and quiet;
I would be asleep; then I would be at rest

14 with kings and counselors of the earth
who rebuild ruins for themselves,

15 or with princes who have gold,
who fill their houses with silver.

- 16 Or why was I not buried like a stillborn child,
like an infant that never sees the light?
- 17 There the wicked cease from troubling,
and there the weary are at rest.
- 18 There the prisoners are at ease together;
they do not hear the voice of the taskmaster.
- 19 The small and the great are there,
and the slaves are free from their masters.
- 20 "Why is light given to one in misery,
and life to the bitter in soul, 21 who long for death, but it does not come,
and dig for it more than for hidden treasures;
22 who rejoice exceedingly,
and are glad when they find the grave?
23 Why is light given to one who cannot see the way,
whom God has fenced in?
24 For my sighing comes like my bread,
and my groanings are poured out like water.
25 Truly the thing that I fear comes upon me,
and what I dread befalls me.
26 I am not at ease, nor am I quiet;
I have no rest; but trouble comes."

[Job 4]

Eliphaz's first discourse

- 1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered:
2 "If one ventures a word with you, will you be offended?
But who can keep from speaking?
3 See, you have instructed many;
you have strengthened the weak hands.
4 Your words have supported those who were stumbling,
and you have made firm the feeble knees.
5 But now it has come to you, and you are impatient;
it touches you, and you are dismayed.
6 Is not your fear of God your confidence,
and the integrity of your ways your hope?"

- 7 "Think now, who that was innocent ever perished?
Or where were the upright cut off?
- 8 As I have seen, those who plow iniquity and sow trouble reap the same.
- 9 By the breath of God they perish,
and by the blast of his anger they are consumed.
- 10 The roar of the lion, the voice of the fierce lion,
and the teeth of the young lions are broken.
- 11 The strong lion perishes for lack of prey,
and the whelps of the lioness are scattered.
- 12 "Now a word came stealing to me,
my ear received the whisper of it.
- 13 Amid thoughts from visions of the night,
when deep sleep falls on mortals,
- 14 dread came upon me, and trembling,
which made all my bones shake.
- 15 A spirit glided past my face;
the hair of my flesh bristled.
- 16 It stood still,
but I could not discern its appearance.
A form was before my eyes;
there was silence, then I heard a voice:
- 17 'Can mortals be righteous before God?
Can human beings be pure before their Maker?
- 18 Even in his servants he puts no trust,
and his angels he charges with error;
- 19 how much more those who live in houses of clay,
whose foundation is in the dust,
who are crushed like a moth.
- 20 Between morning and evening they are destroyed;
they perish forever without any regarding it.
- 21 Their tent-cord is plucked up within them,
and they die devoid of wisdom.'

[Job 5]

- 1 "Call now; is there anyone who will answer you?
To which of the holy ones will you turn?
- 2 Surely vexation kills the fool,
and jealousy slays the simple.
- 3 I have seen fools taking root,
but suddenly I cursed their dwelling.
- 4 Their children are far from safety,
they are crushed in the gate,
and there is no one to deliver them.
- 5 The hungry eat their harvest,
and they take it even out of the thorns;
and the thirsty pant after their wealth.
- 6 For misery does not come from the earth,
nor does trouble sprout from the ground;
- 7 but human beings are born to trouble
just as sparks fly upward.

- 8 "As for me, I would seek God,
and to God I would commit my cause.
- 9 He does great things and unsearchable,
marvelous things without number.
- 10 He gives rain on the earth and sends waters on the fields;
- 11 he sets on high those who are lowly,
and those who mourn are lifted to safety.
- 12 He frustrates the devices of the crafty,
so that their hands achieve no success.
- 13 He takes the wise in their own craftiness;
and the schemes of the wily are brought to a quick end.
- 14 They meet with darkness in the daytime,
and grope at noonday as in the night.
- 15 But he saves the needy from the sword of their mouth,
from the hand of the mighty.
- 16 So the poor have hope,
and injustice shuts its mouth.

- 17 "How happy is the one whom God reproves;
therefore do not despise the discipline of the Almighty.
- 18 For he wounds, but he binds up;
he strikes, but his hands heal.
- 19 He will deliver you from six troubles;
in seven no harm shall touch you.
- 20 In famine he will redeem you from death,
and in war from the power of the sword.
- 21 You shall be hidden from the scourge of the tongue,
and shall not fear destruction when it comes.
- 22 At destruction and famine you shall laugh,
and shall not fear the wild animals of the earth.
- 23 For you shall be in league with the stones of the field,
and the wild animals shall be at peace with you.
- 24 You shall know that your tent is safe,
you shall inspect your fold and miss nothing.
- 25 You shall know that your descendants will be many,
and your offspring like the grass of the earth.
- 26 You shall come to your grave in ripe old age,
as a shock of grain comes up to the threshing floor in its season.
- 27 See, we have searched this out; it is true.
Hear, and know it for yourself."

[Job 6]

Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
- 2 "O that my vexation were weighed,
and all my calamity laid in the balances!
- 3 For then it would be heavier than the sand of the sea;
therefore my words have been rash.
- 4 For the arrows of the Almighty are in me;
my spirit drinks their poison;
the terrors of God are arrayed against me.
- 5 Does the wild ass bray over its grass,
or the ox low over its fodder?
- 6 Can that which is tasteless be eaten without salt,
or is there any flavor in the juice of mallows?

- 7 My appetite refuses to touch them;
they are like food that is loathsome to me.
- 8 "O that I might have my request,
and that God would grant my desire;
9 that it would please God to crush me,
that he would let loose his hand and cut me off!
10 This would be my consolation;
I would even exult in unrelenting pain;
for I have not denied the words of the Holy One.
- 11 What is my strength, that I should wait?
And what is my end, that I should be patient?
12 Is my strength the strength of stones,
or is my flesh bronze?
13 In truth I have no help in me,
and any resource is driven from me.
- 14 "Those who withhold kindness from a friend
forsake the fear of the Almighty.
15 My companions are treacherous like a torrent-bed,
like freshets that pass away, 16 that run dark with ice,
turbid with melting snow.
17 In time of heat they disappear;
when it is hot, they vanish from their place.
18 The caravans turn aside from their course;
they go up into the waste, and perish.
19 The caravans of Tema look,
the travelers of Sheba hope.
20 They are disappointed because they were confident;
they come there and are confounded.
21 Such you have now become to me;
you see my calamity, and are afraid.
22 Have I said, 'Make me a gift'?
Or, 'From your wealth offer a bribe for me'?
23 Or, 'Save me from an opponent's hand'?
Or, 'Ransom me from the hand of oppressors'?

- 24 "Teach me, and I will be silent;
 make me understand how I have gone wrong.
- 25 How forceful are honest words!
 But your reproof, what does it reprove?
- 26 Do you think that you can reprove words,
 as if the speech of the desperate were wind?
- 27 You would even cast lots over the orphan,
 and bargain over your friend.
- 28 "But now, be pleased to look at me;
 for I will not lie to your face.
- 29 Turn, I pray, let no wrong be done.
 Turn now, my vindication is at stake.
- 30 Is there any wrong on my tongue?
 Cannot my taste discern calamity?

[Job 7]

- 1 "Do not human beings have a hard service on earth, and are not their days like the days of a laborer?
- 2 Like a slave who longs for the shadow,
 and like laborers who look for their wages,
- 3 so I am allotted months of emptiness,
 and nights of misery are apportioned to me.
- 4 When I lie down I say, 'When shall I rise?'
 But the night is long,
 and I am full of tossing until dawn.
- 5 My flesh is clothed with worms and dirt;
 my skin hardens, then breaks out again.
- 6 My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle,
 and come to their end without hope.
- 7 "Remember that my life is a breath;
 my eye will never again see good.
- 8 The eye that beholds me will see me no more;
 while your eyes are upon me, I shall be gone.
- 9 As the cloud fades and vanishes,
 so those who go down to Sheol do not come up;

- 10 they return no more to their houses,
nor do their places know them any more.
- 11 "Therefore I will not restrain my mouth;
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.
- 12 Am I the Sea, or the Dragon,
that you set a guard over me?
- 13 When I say, 'My bed will comfort me,
my couch will ease my complaint,'
- 14 then you scare me with dreams
and terrify me with visions,
- 15 so that I would choose strangling
and death rather than this body.
- 16 I loathe my life; I would not live forever.
Let me alone, for my days are a breath.
- 17 What are human beings, that you make so much of them,
that you set your mind on them,
- 18 visit them every morning,
test them every moment?
- 19 Will you not look away from me for a while,
let me alone until I swallow my spittle?
- 20 If I sin, what do I do to you, you watcher of humanity?
Why have you made me your target?
Why have I become a burden to you?
- 21 Why do you not pardon my transgression
and take away my iniquity?
For now I shall lie in the earth;
you will seek me, but I shall not be."

[Job 8]

Bildad's first discourse

- 1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered:
2 "How long will you say these things,
and the words of your mouth be a great wind?
3 Does God pervert justice?
Or does the Almighty pervert the right?"

- 4 If your children sinned against him,
he delivered them into the power of their transgression.
- 5 If you will seek God
and make supplication to the Almighty,
- 6 if you are pure and upright,
surely then he will rouse himself for you and restore to you your rightful place.
- 7 Though your beginning was small,
your latter days will be very great.
- 8 "For inquire now of bygone generations,
and consider what their ancestors have found;
- 9 for we are but of yesterday, and we know nothing,
for our days on earth are but a shadow.
- 10 Will they not teach you and tell you
and utter words out of their understanding?
- 11 "Can papyrus grow where there is no marsh?
Can reeds flourish where there is no water?
- 12 While yet in flower and not cut down,
they wither before any other plant.
- 13 Such are the paths of all who forget God;
the hope of the godless shall perish.
- 14 Their confidence is gossamer,
a spider's house their trust.
- 15 If one leans against its house, it will not stand;
if one lays hold of it, it will not endure.
- 16 The wicked thrive before the sun,
and their shoots spread over the garden.
- 17 Their roots twine around the stoneheap;
they live among the rocks.
- 18 If they are destroyed from their place,
then it will deny them, saying, 'I have never seen you.'
- 19 See, these are their happy ways,
and out of the earth still others will spring.
- 20 "See, God will not reject a blameless person,
nor take the hand of evildoers.

- 21 He will yet fill your mouth with laughter,
and your lips with shouts of joy.
22 Those who hate you will be clothed with shame,
and the tent of the wicked will be no more."

[Job 9]

Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
2 "Indeed I know that this is so;
but how can a mortal be just before God?
3 If one wished to contend with him,
one could not answer him once in a thousand.
4 He is wise in heart, and mighty in strength
— who has resisted him, and succeeded? — 5 he who removes mountains, and they do not know it,
when he overturns them in his anger;
6 who shakes the earth out of its place,
and its pillars tremble;
7 who commands the sun, and it does not rise;
who seals up the stars;
8 who alone stretched out the heavens
and trampled the waves of the Sea;
9 who made the Bear and Orion,
the Pleiades and the chambers of the south;
10 who does great things beyond understanding,
and marvelous things without number.
11 Look, he passes by me, and I do not see him;
he moves on, but I do not perceive him.
12 He snatches away; who can stop him?
Who will say to him, 'What are you doing?'
- 13 "God will not turn back his anger;
the helpers of Rahab bowed beneath him.
14 How then can I answer him,
choosing my words with him?
15 Though I am innocent, I cannot answer him;
I must appeal for mercy to my accuser.

- 16 If I summoned him and he answered me,
I do not believe that he would listen to my voice.
- 17 For he crushes me with a tempest,
and multiplies my wounds without cause;
- 18 he will not let me get my breath,
but fills me with bitterness.
- 19 If it is a contest of strength, he is the strong one!
If it is a matter of justice, who can summon him?
- 20 Though I am innocent, my own mouth would condemn me;
though I am blameless, he would prove me perverse.
- 21 I am blameless; I do not know myself;
I loathe my life.
- 22 It is all one; therefore I say,
he destroys both the blameless and the wicked.
- 23 When disaster brings sudden death,
he mocks at the calamity of the innocent.
- 24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked;
he covers the eyes of its judges —
if it is not he, who then is it?
- 25 "My days are swifter than a runner;
they flee away, they see no good.
- 26 They go by like skiffs of reed,
like an eagle swooping on the prey.
- 27 If I say, 'I will forget my complaint;
I will put off my sad countenance and be of good cheer,'
- 28 I become afraid of all my suffering,
for I know you will not hold me innocent.
- 29 I shall be condemned;
why then do I labor in vain?
- 30 If I wash myself with soap
and cleanse my hands with lye,
- 31 yet you will plunge me into filth,
and my own clothes will abhor me.
- 32 For he is not a mortal, as I am, that I might answer him,
that we should come to trial together.
- 33 There is no umpire between us,
who might lay his hand on us both.

34 If he would take his rod away from me,
 and not let dread of him terrify me, 35 then I would speak without fear of him,
 for I know I am not what I am thought to be.

[Job 10]

1 "I loathe my life;
 I will give free utterance to my complaint;
 I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.
 2 I will say to God, Do not condemn me;
 let me know why you contend against me.
 3 Does it seem good to you to oppress, to despise the work of your hands
 and favor the schemes of the wicked?
 4 Do you have eyes of flesh?
 Do you see as humans see?
 5 Are your days like the days of mortals,
 or your years like human years,
 6 that you seek out my iniquity
 and search for my sin,
 7 although you know that I am not guilty,
 and there is no one to deliver out of your hand?
 8 Your hands fashioned and made me;
 and now you turn and destroy me.
 9 Remember that you fashioned me like clay;
 and will you turn me to dust again?
 10 Did you not pour me out like milk
 and curdle me like cheese?
 11 You clothed me with skin and flesh,
 and knit me together with bones and sinews.
 12 You have granted me life and steadfast love,
 and your care has preserved my spirit.
 13 Yet these things you hid in your heart;
 I know that this was your purpose.
 14 If I sin, you watch me,
 and do not acquit me of my iniquity.

15 If I am wicked, woe to me!
 If I am righteous, I cannot lift up my head,
 for I am filled with disgrace
 and look upon my affliction.
 16 Bold as a lion you hunt me;
 you repeat your exploits against me.
 17 You renew your witnesses against me,
 and increase your vexation toward me;
 you bring fresh troops against me.

 18 "Why did you bring me forth from the womb?
 Would that I had died before any eye had seen me, 19 and were as though I had not been,
 carried from the womb to the grave.
 20 Are not the days of my life few?
 Let me alone, that I may find a little comfort 21 before I go, never to return, to the land of gloom and deep darkness, 22 the land of gloom and chaos,
 where light is like darkness."

[Job 11]
Zophar's first discourse

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered:
 2 "Should a multitude of words go unanswered,
 and should one full of talk be vindicated?
 3 Should your babble put others to silence,
 and when you mock, shall no one shame you?
 4 For you say, 'My conduct is pure,
 and I am clean in God's sight.'
 5 But O that God would speak,
 and open his lips to you,
 6 and that he would tell you the secrets of wisdom!
 For wisdom is many-sided.
 Know then that God exacts of you less than your guilt deserves.

- 7 "Can you find out the deep things of God?
 Can you find out the limit of the Almighty?
 8 It is higher than heaven — what can you do?
 Deeper than Sheol — what can you know?
 9 Its measure is longer than the earth,
 and broader than the sea.
 10 If he passes through, and imprisons,
 and assembles for judgment, who can hinder him?
 11 For he knows those who are worthless;
 when he sees iniquity, will he not consider it?
 12 But a stupid person will get understanding,
 when a wild ass is born human.
- 13 "If you direct your heart rightly,
 you will stretch out your hands toward him.
 14 If iniquity is in your hand, put it far away,
 and do not let wickedness reside in your tents.
 15 Surely then you will lift up your face without blemish;
 you will be secure, and will not fear.
 16 You will forget your misery;
 you will remember it as waters that have passed away.
 17 And your life will be brighter than the noonday;
 its darkness will be like the morning.
 18 And you will have confidence, because there is hope;
 you will be protected and take your rest in safety.
 19 You will lie down, and no one will make you afraid;
 many will entreat your favor.
 20 But the eyes of the wicked will fail;
 all way of escape will be lost to them,
 and their hope is to breathe their last."

[Job 12]
Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
 2 "No doubt you are the people,
 and wisdom will die with you.

- 3 But I have understanding as well as you;
I am not inferior to you.
Who does not know such things as these?
- 4 I am a laughingstock to my friends;
I, who called upon God and he answered me,
a just and blameless man, I am a laughingstock.
- 5 Those at ease have contempt for misfortune,
but it is ready for those whose feet are unstable.
- 6 The tents of robbers are at peace,
and those who provoke God are secure,
who bring their god in their hands.
- 7 "But ask the animals, and they will teach you;
the birds of the air, and they will tell you;
- 8 ask the plants of the earth, and they will teach you;
and the fish of the sea will declare to you.
- 9 Who among all these does not know that the hand of the LORD has done this?
- 10 In his hand is the life of every living thing
and the breath of every human being.
- 11 Does not the ear test words
as the palate tastes food?
- 12 Is wisdom with the aged,
and understanding in length of days?
- 13 "With God are wisdom and strength;
he has counsel and understanding.
- 14 If he tears down, no one can rebuild;
if he shuts someone in, no one can open up.
- 15 If he withholds the waters, they dry up;
if he sends them out, they overwhelm the land.
- 16 With him are strength and wisdom;
the deceived and the deceiver are his.
- 17 He leads counselors away stripped,
and makes fools of judges.
- 18 He looses the sash of kings,
and binds a waistcloth on their loins.

- 19 He leads priests away stripped,
and overthrows the mighty.
- 20 He deprives of speech those who are trusted,
and takes away the discernment of the elders.
- 21 He pours contempt on princes,
and looses the belt of the strong.
- 22 He uncovers the deeps out of darkness,
and brings deep darkness to light.
- 23 He makes nations great, then destroys them;
he enlarges nations, then leads them away.
- 24 He strips understanding from the leaders of the earth,
and makes them wander in a pathless waste.
- 25 They grope in the dark without light;
he makes them stagger like a drunkard.

[Job 13]

- 1 "Look, my eye has seen all this,
my ear has heard and understood it.
- 2 What you know, I also know;
I am not inferior to you.
- 3 But I would speak to the Almighty,
and I desire to argue my case with God.
- 4 As for you, you whitewash with lies;
all of you are worthless physicians.
- 5 If you would only keep silent,
that would be your wisdom!
- 6 Hear now my reasoning,
and listen to the pleadings of my lips.
- 7 Will you speak falsely for God,
and speak deceitfully for him?
- 8 Will you show partiality toward him,
will you plead the case for God?
- 9 Will it be well with you when he searches you out?
Or can you deceive him, as one person deceives another?
- 10 He will surely rebuke you
if in secret you show partiality.

- 11 Will not his majesty terrify you,
and the dread of him fall upon you?
- 12 Your maxims are proverbs of ashes,
your defenses are defenses of clay.
- 13 "Let me have silence, and I will speak,
and let come on me what may.
- 14 I will take my flesh in my teeth,
and put my life in my hand.
- 15 See, he will kill me; I have no hope;
but I will defend my ways to his face.
- 16 This will be my salvation,
that the godless shall not come before him.
- 17 Listen carefully to my words,
and let my declaration be in your ears.
- 18 I have indeed prepared my case;
I know that I shall be vindicated.
- 19 Who is there that will contend with me?
For then I would be silent and die.
- 20 Only grant two things to me,
then I will not hide myself from your face:
- 21 withdraw your hand far from me,
and do not let dread of you terrify me.
- 22 Then call, and I will answer;
or let me speak, and you reply to me.
- 23 How many are my iniquities and my sins?
Make me know my transgression and my sin.
- 24 Why do you hide your face,
and count me as your enemy?
- 25 Will you frighten a windblown leaf
and pursue dry chaff?
- 26 For you write bitter things against me,
and make me reap the iniquities of my youth.
- 27 You put my feet in the stocks,
and watch all my paths;
you set a bound to the soles of my feet.
- 28 One wastes away like a rotten thing,
like a garment that is moth-eaten.

[Job 14]

- 1 "A mortal, born of woman, few of days and full of trouble, 2 comes up like a flower and withers,
 flees like a shadow and does not last.
3 Do you fix your eyes on such a one?
 Do you bring me into judgment with you?
4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
 No one can.
5 Since their days are determined,
 and the number of their months is known to you,
 and you have appointed the bounds that they cannot pass, 6 look away from them, and desist,
 that they may enjoy, like laborers, their days.
- 7 "For there is hope for a tree,
 if it is cut down, that it will sprout again,
 and that its shoots will not cease.
8 Though its root grows old in the earth,
 and its stump dies in the ground, 9 yet at the scent of water it will bud
 and put forth branches like a young plant.
10 But mortals die, and are laid low;
 humans expire, and where are they?
11 As waters fail from a lake,
 and a river wastes away and dries up, 12 so mortals lie down and do not rise again;
 until the heavens are no more, they will not awake
 or be roused out of their sleep.
13 O that you would hide me in Sheol,
 that you would conceal me until your wrath is past,
 that you would appoint me a set time, and remember me!
14 If mortals die, will they live again?
 All the days of my service I would wait until my release should come.
15 You would call, and I would answer you;
 you would long for the work of your hands.

- 16 For then you would not number my steps,
 you would not keep watch over my sin;
 17 my transgression would be sealed up in a bag,
 and you would cover over my iniquity.
- 18 "But the mountain falls and crumbles away,
 and the rock is removed from its place;
 19 the waters wear away the stones;
 the torrents wash away the soil of the earth;
 so you destroy the hope of mortals.
 20 You prevail forever against them, and they pass away;
 you change their countenance, and send them away.
 21 Their children come to honor, and they do not know it;
 they are brought low, and it goes unnoticed.
 22 They feel only the pain of their own bodies,
 and mourn only for themselves."

[Job 15]
Eliphaz's second discourse

- 1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered:
 2 "Should the wise answer with windy knowledge,
 and fill themselves with the east wind?
 3 Should they argue in unprofitable talk,
 or in words with which they can do no good?
 4 But you are doing away with the fear of God,
 and hindering meditation before God.
 5 For your iniquity teaches your mouth,
 and you choose the tongue of the crafty.
 6 Your own mouth condemns you, and not I;
 your own lips testify against you.
- 7 "Are you the firstborn of the human race?
 Were you brought forth before the hills?
 8 Have you listened in the council of God?
 And do you limit wisdom to yourself?

- 9 What do you know that we do not know?
What do you understand that is not clear to us?
- 10 The gray-haired and the aged are on our side,
those older than your father.
- 11 Are the consolations of God too small for you,
or the word that deals gently with you?
- 12 Why does your heart carry you away,
and why do your eyes flash,
- 13 so that you turn your spirit against God,
and let such words go out of your mouth?
- 14 What are mortals, that they can be clean?
Or those born of woman, that they can be righteous?
- 15 God puts no trust even in his holy ones,
and the heavens are not clean in his sight;
- 16 how much less one who is abominable and corrupt,
one who drinks iniquity like water!
- 17 "I will show you; listen to me;
what I have seen I will declare —
- 18 what sages have told,
and their ancestors have not hidden,
- 19 to whom alone the land was given,
and no stranger passed among them.
- 20 The wicked writhe in pain all their days,
through all the years that are laid up for the ruthless.
- 21 Terrifying sounds are in their ears;
in prosperity the destroyer will come upon them.
- 22 They despair of returning from darkness,
and they are destined for the sword.
- 23 They wander abroad for bread, saying, 'Where is it?'
They know that a day of darkness is ready at hand;
- 24 distress and anguish terrify them;
they prevail against them, like a king prepared for battle.
- 25 Because they stretched out their hands against God,
and bid defiance to the Almighty,
- 26 running stubbornly against him
with a thick-bossed shield;

27 because they have covered their faces with their fat,
 and gathered fat upon their loins, 28 they will live in desolate cities,
 in houses that no one should inhabit,
 houses destined to become heaps of ruins;
 29 they will not be rich, and their wealth will not endure,
 nor will they strike root in the earth;
 30 they will not escape from darkness;
 the flame will dry up their shoots,
 and their blossom will be swept away by the wind.
 31 Let them not trust in emptiness, deceiving themselves;
 for emptiness will be their recompense.
 32 It will be paid in full before their time,
 and their branch will not be green.
 33 They will shake off their unripe grape, like the vine,
 and cast off their blossoms, like the olive tree.
 34 For the company of the godless is barren,
 and fire consumes the tents of bribery.
 35 They conceive mischief and bring forth evil and their heart prepares deceit. "

[Job 16]
Job's response

1 Then Job answered:
 2 "I have heard many such things;
 miserable comforters are you all.
 3 Have windy words no limit?
 Or what provokes you that you keep on talking?
 4 I also could talk as you do,
 if you were in my place;
 I could join words together against you,
 and shake my head at you.
 5 I could encourage you with my mouth,
 and the solace of my lips would assuage your pain.
 6 "If I speak, my pain is not assuaged,
 and if I forbear, how much of it leaves me?

- 7 Surely now God has worn me out;
he has made desolate all my company.
- 8 And he has shriveled me up,
which is a witness against me;
my leanness has risen up against me,
and it testifies to my face.
- 9 He has torn me in his wrath, and hated me;
he has gnashed his teeth at me;
my adversary sharpens his eyes against me.
- 10 They have gaped at me with their mouths;
they have struck me insolently on the cheek;
they mass themselves together against me.
- 11 God gives me up to the ungodly,
and casts me into the hands of the wicked.
- 12 I was at ease, and he broke me in two;
he seized me by the neck and dashed me to pieces;
he set me up as his target;
- 13 his archers surround me.
He slashes open my kidneys, and shows no mercy;
he pours out my gall on the ground.
- 14 He bursts upon me again and again;
he rushes at me like a warrior.
- 15 I have sewed sackcloth upon my skin,
and have laid my strength in the dust.
- 16 My face is red with weeping,
and deep darkness is on my eyelids,
- 17 though there is no violence in my hands,
and my prayer is pure.
- 18 "O earth, do not cover my blood;
let my outcry find no resting place.
- 19 Even now, in fact, my witness is in heaven,
and he that vouches for me is on high.
- 20 My friends scorn me;
my eye pours out tears to God,
- 21 that he would maintain the right of a mortal with God,
as one does for a neighbor.

22 For when a few years have come,
I shall go the way from which I shall not return.

[Job 17]

- 1 My spirit is broken, my days are extinct,
the grave is ready for me.
- 2 Surely there are mockers around me,
and my eye dwells on their provocation.
- 3 "Lay down a pledge for me with yourself;
who is there that will give surety for me?
- 4 Since you have closed their minds to understanding,
therefore you will not let them triumph.
- 5 Those who denounce friends for reward —
the eyes of their children will fail.
- 6 "He has made me a byword of the peoples,
and I am one before whom people spit.
- 7 My eye has grown dim from grief,
and all my members are like a shadow.
- 8 The upright are appalled at this,
and the innocent stir themselves up against the godless.
- 9 Yet the righteous hold to their way,
and they that have clean hands grow stronger and stronger.
- 10 But you, come back now, all of you,
and I shall not find a sensible person among you.
- 11 My days are past, my plans are broken off,
the desires of my heart.
- 12 They make night into day;
'The light,' they say, 'is near to the darkness.'
- 13 If I look for Sheol as my house,
if I spread my couch in darkness,
- 14 if I say to the Pit, 'You are my father,'
and to the worm, 'My mother,' or 'My sister,'
- 15 where then is my hope?
Who will see my hope?

16 Will it go down to the bars of Sheol?
 Shall we descend together into the dust?"

[Job 18]

Bildad's second discourse

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered:
 2 "How long will you hunt for words?
 Consider, and then we shall speak.
 3 Why are we counted as cattle?
 Why are we stupid in your sight?
 4 You who tear yourself in your anger —
 shall the earth be forsaken because of you,
 or the rock be removed out of its place?

5 "Surely the light of the wicked is put out,
 and the flame of their fire does not shine.
 6 The light is dark in their tent,
 and the lamp above them is put out.
 7 Their strong steps are shortened,
 and their own schemes throw them down.
 8 For they are thrust into a net by their own feet,
 and they walk into a pitfall.
 9 A trap seizes them by the heel;
 a snare lays hold of them.
 10 A rope is hid for them in the ground,
 a trap for them in the path.
 11 Terrors frighten them on every side,
 and chase them at their heels.
 12 Their strength is consumed by hunger,
 and calamity is ready for their stumbling.
 13 By disease their skin is consumed,
 the firstborn of Death consumes their limbs.
 14 They are torn from the tent in which they trusted,
 and are brought to the king of terrors.
 15 In their tents nothing remains;
 sulfur is scattered upon their habitations.

- 16 Their roots dry up beneath,
and their branches wither above.
- 17 Their memory perishes from the earth,
and they have no name in the street.
- 18 They are thrust from light into darkness,
and driven out of the world.
- 19 They have no offspring or descendant among their people,
and no survivor where they used to live.
- 20 They of the west are appalled at their fate,
and horror seizes those of the east.
- 21 Surely such are the dwellings of the ungodly, such is the place of those who do not know God."

[Job 19]Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
- 2 "How long will you torment me,
and break me in pieces with words?
- 3 These ten times you have cast reproach upon me;
are you not ashamed to wrong me?
- 4 And even if it is true that I have erred,
my error remains with me.
- 5 If indeed you magnify yourselves against me,
and make my humiliation an argument against me,
- 6 know then that God has put me in the wrong,
and closed his net around me.
- 7 Even when I cry out, 'Violence!' I am not answered;
I call aloud, but there is no justice.
- 8 He has walled up my way so that I cannot pass,
and he has set darkness upon my paths.
- 9 He has stripped my glory from me,
and taken the crown from my head.
- 10 He breaks me down on every side, and I am gone,
he has uprooted my hope like a tree.
- 11 He has kindled his wrath against me,
and counts me as his adversary.

- 12 His troops come on together;
they have thrown up siegeworks against me,
and encamp around my tent.
- 13 "He has put my family far from me,
and my acquaintances are wholly estranged from me.
- 14 My relatives and my close friends have failed me;
15 the guests in my house have forgotten me;
my serving girls count me as a stranger;
I have become an alien in their eyes.
- 16 I call to my servant, but he gives me no answer;
I must myself plead with him.
- 17 My breath is repulsive to my wife;
I am loathsome to my own family.
- 18 Even young children despise me;
when I rise, they talk against me.
- 19 All my intimate friends abhor me,
and those whom I loved have turned against me.
- 20 My bones cling to my skin and to my flesh,
and I have escaped by the skin of my teeth.
- 21 Have pity on me, have pity on me, O you my friends,
for the hand of God has touched me!
- 22 Why do you, like God, pursue me,
never satisfied with my flesh?
- 23 "O that my words were written down!
O that they were inscribed in a book!
- 24 O that with an iron pen and with lead
they were engraved on a rock forever!
- 25 For I know that my Redeemer lives,
and that at the last he will stand upon the earth;
- 26 and after my skin has been thus destroyed,
then in my flesh I shall see God,
- 27 whom I shall see on my side,
and my eyes shall behold, and not another.
My heart faints within me!

28 If you say, 'How we will persecute him!'
 and, 'The root of the matter is found in him';
 29 be afraid of the sword,
 for wrath brings the punishment of the sword,
 so that you may know there is a judgment."

[Job 20]

Zophar's second discourse

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered:
 2 "Pay attention! My thoughts urge me to answer,
 because of the agitation within me.
 3 I hear censure that insults me,
 and a spirit beyond my understanding answers me.
 4 Do you not know this from of old,
 ever since mortals were placed on earth,
 5 that the exulting of the wicked is short,
 and the joy of the godless is but for a moment?
 6 Even though they mount up high as the heavens,
 and their head reaches to the clouds,
 7 they will perish forever like their own dung;
 those who have seen them will say, 'Where are they?'
 8 They will fly away like a dream, and not be found;
 they will be chased away like a vision of the night.
 9 The eye that saw them will see them no more,
 nor will their place behold them any longer.
 10 Their children will seek the favor of the poor,
 and their hands will give back their wealth.
 11 Their bodies, once full of youth,
 will lie down in the dust with them.

12 "Though wickedness is sweet in their mouth,
 though they hide it under their tongues, 13 though they are loath to let it go,
 and hold it in their mouths, 14 yet their food is turned in their stomachs;
 it is the venom of asps within them.

- 15 They swallow down riches and vomit them up again;
 God casts them out of their bellies.
- 16 They will suck the poison of asps;
 the tongue of a viper will kill them.
- 17 They will not look on the rivers,
 the streams flowing with honey and curds.
- 18 They will give back the fruit of their toil,
 and will not swallow it down;
 from the profit of their trading
 they will get no enjoyment.
- 19 For they have crushed and abandoned the poor,
 they have seized a house that they did not build.
- 20 "They knew no quiet in their bellies;
 in their greed they let nothing escape.
- 21 There was nothing left after they had eaten;
 therefore their prosperity will not endure.
- 22 In full sufficiency they will be in distress;
 all the force of misery will come upon them.
- 23 To fill their belly to the full God will send his fierce anger into them,
 and rain it upon them as their food.
- 24 They will flee from an iron weapon;
 a bronze arrow will strike them through.
- 25 It is drawn forth and comes out of their body,
 and the glittering point comes out of their gall;
 terrors come upon them.
- 26 Utter darkness is laid up for their treasures;
 a fire fanned by no one will devour them;
 what is left in their tent will be consumed.
- 27 The heavens will reveal their iniquity,
 and the earth will rise up against them.
- 28 The possessions of their house will be carried away,
 dragged off in the day of God's wrath.
- 29 This is the portion of the wicked from God,
 the heritage decreed for them by God."

[Job 21]
Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
- 2 "Listen carefully to my words,
and let this be your consolation.
- 3 Bear with me, and I will speak;
then after I have spoken, mock on.
- 4 As for me, is my complaint addressed to mortals?
Why should I not be impatient?
- 5 Look at me, and be appalled,
and lay your hand upon your mouth.
- 6 When I think of it I am dismayed,
and shuddering seizes my flesh.
- 7 Why do the wicked live on,
reach old age, and grow mighty in power?
- 8 Their children are established in their presence,
and their offspring before their eyes.
- 9 Their houses are safe from fear,
and no rod of God is upon them.
- 10 Their bull breeds without fail;
their cow calves and never miscarries.
- 11 They send out their little ones like a flock,
and their children dance around.
- 12 They sing to the tambourine and the lyre,
and rejoice to the sound of the pipe.
- 13 They spend their days in prosperity,
and in peace they go down to Sheol.
- 14 They say to God, 'Leave us alone!
We do not desire to know your ways.
- 15 What is the Almighty, that we should serve him?
And what profit do we get if we pray to him?'
- 16 Is not their prosperity indeed their own achievement?
The plans of the wicked are repugnant to me.

- 17 "How often is the lamp of the wicked put out?
How often does calamity come upon them?
How often does God distribute pains in his anger?

- 18 How often are they like straw before the wind,
and like chaff that the storm carries away?
- 19 You say, 'God stores up their iniquity for their children.'
Let it be paid back to them, so that they may know it.
- 20 Let their own eyes see their destruction,
and let them drink of the wrath of the Almighty.
- 21 For what do they care for their household after them,
when the number of their months is cut off?
- 22 Will any teach God knowledge,
seeing that he judges those that are on high?
- 23 One dies in full prosperity,
being wholly at ease and secure, 24 his loins full of milk
and the marrow of his bones moist.
- 25 Another dies in bitterness of soul,
never having tasted of good.
- 26 They lie down alike in the dust,
and the worms cover them.
- 27 "Oh, I know your thoughts,
and your schemes to wrong me.
- 28 For you say, 'Where is the house of the prince?
Where is the tent in which the wicked lived?'
- 29 Have you not asked those who travel the roads,
and do you not accept their testimony, 30 that the wicked are spared in the day of calamity,
and are rescued in the day of wrath?
- 31 Who declares their way to their face,
and who repays them for what they have done?
- 32 When they are carried to the grave,
a watch is kept over their tomb.
- 33 The clods of the valley are sweet to them;
everyone will follow after,
and those who went before are innumerable.
- 34 How then will you comfort me with empty nothings?
There is nothing left of your answers but falsehood."

[Job 22]
Eliphaz's third discourse

- 1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered:
2 "Can a mortal be of use to God?
 Can even the wisest be of service to him?
3 Is it any pleasure to the Almighty if you are righteous, or is it gain to him if you make your ways blameless?
4 Is it for your piety that he reproves you,
 and enters into judgment with you?
5 Is not your wickedness great?
 There is no end to your iniquities.
6 For you have exacted pledges from your family for no reason,
 and stripped the naked of their clothing.
7 You have given no water to the weary to drink,
 and you have withheld bread from the hungry.
8 The powerful possess the land,
 and the favored live in it.
9 You have sent widows away empty-handed,
 and the arms of the orphans you have crushed.
10 Therefore snares are around you,
 and sudden terror overwhelms you, 11 or darkness so that you cannot see;
 a flood of water covers you.
- 12 "Is not God high in the heavens?
 See the highest stars, how lofty they are!
13 Therefore you say, 'What does God know?
 Can he judge through the deep darkness?
14 Thick clouds enwrap him, so that he does not see,
 and he walks on the dome of heaven.'
15 Will you keep to the old way that the wicked have trod?
16 They were snatched away before their time;
 their foundation was washed away by a flood.
17 They said to God, 'Leave us alone,'
 and 'What can the Almighty do to us?'

- 18 Yet he filled their houses with good things —
but the plans of the wicked are repugnant to me.
19 The righteous see it and are glad;
the innocent laugh them to scorn,
20 saying, 'Surely our adversaries are cut off,
and what they left, the fire has consumed.'
- 21 "Agree with God, and be at peace;
in this way good will come to you.
22 Receive instruction from his mouth,
and lay up his words in your heart.
23 If you return to the Almighty, you will be restored,
if you remove unrighteousness from your tents, 24 if you treat gold like dust,
and gold of Ophir like the stones of the torrent-bed, 25 and if the Almighty is your gold
and your precious silver, 26 then you will delight yourself in the Almighty,
and lift up your face to God.
27 You will pray to him, and he will hear you,
and you will pay your vows.
28 You will decide on a matter, and it will be established for you,
and light will shine on your ways.
29 When others are humiliated, you say it is pride;
for he saves the humble.
30 He will deliver even those who are guilty;
they will escape because of the cleanness of your hands."

[Job 23]

Job's response

- 1 Then Job answered:
2 "Today also my complaint is bitter;
his hand is heavy despite my groaning.
3 Oh, that I knew where I might find him,
that I might come even to his dwelling!

- 4 I would lay my case before him,
and fill my mouth with arguments.
- 5 I would learn what he would answer me,
and understand what he would say to me.
- 6 Would he contend with me in the greatness of his power?
No; but he would give heed to me.
- 7 There an upright person could reason with him,
and I should be acquitted forever by my judge.
- 8 "If I go forward, he is not there;
or backward, I cannot perceive him;
- 9 on the left he hides, and I cannot behold him;
I turn to the right, but I cannot see him.
- 10 But he knows the way that I take;
when he has tested me, I shall come out like gold.
- 11 My foot has held fast to his steps;
I have kept his way and have not turned aside.
- 12 I have not departed from the commandment of his lips;
I have treasured in my bosom the words of his mouth.
- 13 But he stands alone and who can dissuade him?
What he desires, that he does.
- 14 For he will complete what he appoints for me;
and many such things are in his mind.
- 15 Therefore I am terrified at his presence;
when I consider, I am in dread of him.
- 16 God has made my heart faint;
the Almighty has terrified me;
- 17 If only I could vanish in darkness,
and thick darkness would cover my face!

[Job 24]

- 1 "Why are times not kept by the Almighty,
and why do those who know him never see his days?
- 2 The wicked remove landmarks;
they seize flocks and pasture them.
- 3 They drive away the donkey of the orphan;
they take the widow's ox for a pledge.

- 4 They thrust the needy off the road;
the poor of the earth all hide themselves.
- 5 Like wild asses in the desert
they go out to their toil, scavenging in the wasteland
food for their young.
- 6 They reap in a field not their own
and they glean in the vineyard of the wicked.
- 7 They lie all night naked, without clothing,
and have no covering in the cold.
- 8 They are wet with the rain of the mountains,
and cling to the rock for want of shelter.
- 9 "There are those who snatch the orphan child from the breast,
and take as a pledge the infant of the poor.
- 10 They go about naked, without clothing;
though hungry, they carry the sheaves;
- 11 between their terraces they press out oil;
they tread the wine presses, but suffer thirst.
- 12 From the city the dying groan,
and the throat of the wounded cries for help;
yet God pays no attention to their prayer.
- 13 "There are those who rebel against the light,
who are not acquainted with its ways,
and do not stay in its paths.
- 14 The murderer rises at dusk
to kill the poor and needy,
and in the night is like a thief.
- 15 The eye of the adulterer also waits for the twilight,
saying, 'No eye will see me';
and he disguises his face.
- 16 In the dark they dig through houses;
by day they shut themselves up;
they do not know the light.
- 17 For deep darkness is morning to all of them;
for they are friends with the terrors of deep darkness.

- 18 "Swift are they on the face of the waters;
 their portion in the land is cursed;
 no treader turns toward their vineyards.
- 19 Drought and heat snatch away the snow waters;
 so does Sheol those who have sinned.
- 20 The womb forgets them;
 the worm finds them sweet;
 they are no longer remembered;
 so wickedness is broken like a tree.
- 21 "They harm the childless woman,
 and do no good to the widow.
- 22 Yet God prolongs the life of the mighty by his power;
 they rise up when they despair of life.
- 23 He gives them security, and they are supported;
 his eyes are upon their ways.
- 24 They are exalted a little while, and then are gone;
 they wither and fade like the mallow;
 they are cut off like the heads of grain.
- 25 If it is not so, who will prove me a liar,
 and show that there is nothing in what I say?"

[Job 25]

Bildad speaks

- 1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered:
- 2 "Dominion and fear are with God;
 he makes peace in his high heaven.
- 3 Is there any number to his armies?
 Upon whom does his light not arise?
- 4 How then can a mortal be righteous before God?
 How can one born of woman be pure?
- 5 If even the moon is not bright and the stars are not pure in his sight,
- 6 how much less a mortal, who is a maggot,
 and a human being, who is a worm!"

[Job 26]Job interrupts

- 1 Then Job answered:
- 2 "How you have helped one who has no power!
How you have assisted the arm that has no strength!
- 3 How you have counseled one who has no wisdom,
and given much good advice!
- 4 With whose help have you uttered words,
and whose spirit has come forth from you?

Bildad continues

- 5 The shades below tremble,
the waters and their inhabitants.
- 6 Sheol is naked before God,
and Abaddon has no covering.
- 7 He stretches out Zaphon over the void,
and hangs the earth upon nothing.
- 8 He binds up the waters in his thick clouds,
and the cloud is not torn open by them.
- 9 He covers the face of the full moon,
and spreads over it his cloud.
- 10 He has described a circle on the face of the waters,
at the boundary between light and darkness.
- 11 The pillars of heaven tremble,
and are astounded at his rebuke.
- 12 By his power he stilled the Sea;
by his understanding he struck down Rahab.
- 13 By his wind the heavens were made fair;
his hand pierced the fleeing serpent.
- 14 These are indeed but the outskirts of his ways;
and how small a whisper do we hear of him!
But the thunder of his power who can understand?"

[Job 27]
Job continues

- 1 Job again took up his discourse and said:
2 "As God lives, who has taken away my right,
 and the Almighty, who has made my soul bitter, 3 as long as my breath is in me
 and the spirit of God is in my nostrils, 4 my lips will not speak falsehood,
 and my tongue will not utter deceit.
5 Far be it from me to say that you are right;
 until I die I will not put away my integrity from me.
6 I hold fast my righteousness, and will not let it go;
 my heart does not reproach me for any of my days.
- 7 "May my enemy be like the wicked,
 and may my opponent be like the unrighteous.
8 For what is the hope of the godless when God cuts them off,
 when God takes away their lives?
9 Will God hear their cry
 when trouble comes upon them?
10 Will they take delight in the Almighty?
 Will they call upon God at all times?
11 I will teach you concerning the hand of God;
 that which is with the Almighty I will not conceal.
12 All of you have seen it yourselves;
 why then have you become altogether vain?
- 13 "This is the portion of the wicked with God,
 and the heritage that oppressors receive from the Almighty:
14 If their children are multiplied, it is for the sword;
 and their offspring have not enough to eat.
15 Those who survive them the pestilence buries,
 and their widows make no lamentation.
16 Though they heap up silver like dust,
 and pile up clothing like clay — 17 they may pile it up, but the just will wear it, and the innocent will divide the silver.

- 18 They build their houses like nests,
 like booths made by sentinels of the vineyard.
- 19 They go to bed with wealth, but will do so no more;
 they open their eyes, and it is gone.
- 20 Terrors overtake them like a flood;
 in the night a whirlwind carries them off.
- 21 The east wind lifts them up and they are gone;
 it sweeps them out of their place.
- 22 It hurls at them without pity;
 they flee from its power in headlong flight.
- 23 It claps its hands at them,
 and hisses at them from its place.

[Job 28]

A poem on Wisdom

- 1 "Surely there is a mine for silver,
 and a place for gold to be refined.
- 2 Iron is taken out of the earth,
 and copper is smelted from ore.
- 3 Miners put an end to darkness,
 and search out to the farthest bound
 the ore in gloom and deep darkness.
- 4 They open shafts in a valley away from human habitation;
 they are forgotten by travelers,
 they sway suspended, remote from people.
- 5 As for the earth, out of it comes bread;
 but underneath it is turned up as by fire.
- 6 Its stones are the place of sapphires,
 and its dust contains gold.
- 7 "That path no bird of prey knows,
 and the falcon's eye has not seen it.
- 8 The proud wild animals have not trodden it;
 the lion has not passed over it.
- 9 "They put their hand to the flinty rock,
 and overturn mountains by the roots.

- 10 They cut out channels in the rocks,
and their eyes see every precious thing.
- 11 The sources of the rivers they probe;
hidden things they bring to light.
- 12 "But where shall wisdom be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
- 13 Mortals do not know the way to it,
and it is not found in the land of the living.
- 14 The deep says, 'It is not in me,'
and the sea says, 'It is not with me.'
- 15 It cannot be gotten for gold,
and silver cannot be weighed out as its price.
- 16 It cannot be valued in the gold of Ophir,
in precious onyx or sapphire.
- 17 Gold and glass cannot equal it,
nor can it be exchanged for jewels of fine gold.
- 18 No mention shall be made of coral or of crystal;
the price of wisdom is above pearls.
- 19 The chrysolite of Ethiopia cannot compare with it,
nor can it be valued in pure gold.
- 20 "Where then does wisdom come from?
And where is the place of understanding?
- 21 It is hidden from the eyes of all living,
and concealed from the birds of the air.
- 22 Abaddon and Death say,
'We have heard a rumor of it with our ears.'
- 23 "God understands the way to it,
and he knows its place.
- 24 For he looks to the ends of the earth,
and sees everything under the heavens.
- 25 When he gave to the wind its weight,
and apportioned out the waters by measure;
- 26 when he made a decree for the rain,
and a way for the thunderbolt;
- 27 then he saw it and declared it;
he established it, and searched it out.

28 And he said to humankind,
 'Truly, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom;
 and to depart from evil is understanding.'

[Job 29]
Job's speech

1 Job again took up his discourse and said:
2 "O that I were as in the months of old,
 as in the days when God watched over me;
3 when his lamp shone over my head,
 and by his light I walked through darkness;
4 when I was in my prime,
 when the friendship of God was upon my tent;
5 when the Almighty was still with me,
 when my children were around me;
6 when my steps were washed with milk,
 and the rock poured out for me streams of oil!
7 When I went out to the gate of the city,
 when I took my seat in the square, 8 the young men saw me and withdrew,
 and the aged rose up and stood;
9 the nobles refrained from talking,
 and laid their hands on their mouths;
10 the voices of princes were hushed,
 and their tongues stuck to the roof of their mouths.
11 When the ear heard, it commended me,
 and when the eye saw, it approved;
12 because I delivered the poor who cried,
 and the orphan who had no helper.
13 The blessing of the wretched came upon me,
 and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.
14 I put on righteousness, and it clothed me;
 my justice was like a robe and a turban.
15 I was eyes to the blind,
 and feet to the lame.
16 I was a father to the needy,
 and I championed the cause of the stranger.

- 17 I broke the fangs of the unrighteous,
and made them drop their prey from their teeth.
18 Then I thought, 'I shall die in my nest,
and I shall multiply my days like the phoenix;
19 my roots spread out to the waters,
with the dew all night on my branches;
20 my glory was fresh with me,
and my bow ever new in my hand.'
- 21 "They listened to me, and waited,
and kept silence for my counsel.
22 After I spoke they did not speak again,
and my word dropped upon them like dew.
23 They waited for me as for the rain;
they opened their mouths as for the spring rain.
24 I smiled on them when they had no confidence;
and the light of my countenance they did not extinguish.
25 I chose their way, and sat as chief,
and I lived like a king among his troops,
like one who comforts mourners.

[Job 30]

- 1 "But now they make sport of me,
those who are younger than I,
whose fathers I would have disdained
to set with the dogs of my flock.
2 What could I gain from the strength of their hands?
All their vigor is gone.
3 Through want and hard hunger
they gnaw the dry and desolate ground, 4 they pick mallow and the leaves of bushes,
and to warm themselves the roots of broom.
5 They are driven out from society;
people shout after them as after a thief.
6 In the gullies of wadis they must live,
in holes in the ground, and in the rocks.

- 7 Among the bushes they bray;
 under the nettles they huddle together.
- 8 A senseless, disreputable brood,
 they have been whipped out of the land.
- 9 "And now they mock me in song;
 I am a byword to them.
- 10 They abhor me, they keep aloof from me;
 they do not hesitate to spit at the sight of me.
- 11 Because God has loosed my bowstring and humbled me,
 they have cast off restraint in my presence.
- 12 On my right hand the rabble rise up;
 they send me sprawling,
 and build roads for my ruin.
- 13 They break up my path,
 they promote my calamity;
 no one restrains them.
- 14 As through a wide breach they come;
 amid the crash they roll on.
- 15 Terrors are turned upon me;
 my honor is pursued as by the wind,
 and my prosperity has passed away like a cloud.
- 16 "And now my soul is poured out within me;
 days of affliction have taken hold of me.
- 17 The night racks my bones,
 and the pain that gnaws me takes no rest.
- 18 With violence he seizes my garment;
 he grasps me by the collar of my tunic.
- 19 He has cast me into the mire,
 and I have become like dust and ashes.
- 20 I cry to you and you do not answer me;
 I stand, and you merely look at me.
- 21 You have turned cruel to me;
 with the might of your hand you persecute me.
- 22 You lift me up on the wind, you make me ride on it,
 and you toss me about in the roar of the storm.

- 23 I know that you will bring me to death,
and to the house appointed for all living.
- 24 "Surely one does not turn against the needy,
when in disaster they cry for help.
- 25 Did I not weep for those whose day was hard?
Was not my soul grieved for the poor?
- 26 But when I looked for good, evil came;
and when I waited for light, darkness came.
- 27 My inward parts are in turmoil, and are never still;
days of affliction come to meet me.
- 28 I go about in sunless gloom;
I stand up in the assembly and cry for help.
- 29 I am a brother of jackals,
and a companion of ostriches.
- 30 My skin turns black and falls from me,
and my bones burn with heat.
- 31 My lyre is turned to mourning,
and my pipe to the voice of those who weep.

[Job 31]

- 1 "I have made a covenant with my eyes;
how then could I look upon a virgin?
- 2 What would be my portion from God above,
and my heritage from the Almighty on high?
- 3 Does not calamity befall the unrighteous,
and disaster the workers of iniquity?
- 4 Does he not see my ways,
and number all my steps?
- 5 "If I have walked with falsehood,
and my foot has hurried to deceit —
- 6 let me be weighed in a just balance, and let God know my integrity! —
- 7 if my step has turned aside from the way,
and my heart has followed my eyes,
and if any spot has clung to my hands;

8 then let me sow, and another eat;
and let what grows for me be rooted out.

9 "If my heart has been enticed by a woman,
and I have lain in wait at my neighbor's door;
10 then let my wife grind for another,
and let other men kneel over her.

11 For that would be a heinous crime;
that would be a criminal offense;
12 for that would be a fire consuming down to Abaddon,
and it would burn to the root all my harvest.

13 "If I have rejected the cause of my male or female slaves,
when they brought a complaint against me;
14 what then shall I do when God rises up?
When he makes inquiry, what shall I answer him?
15 Did not he who made me in the womb make them?
And did not one fashion us in the womb?

16 "If I have withheld anything that the poor desired,
or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail, 17 or have eaten my morsel alone,
and the orphan has not eaten from it — 18 for from my youth I reared the orphan like a father, and from my mother's womb I guided the widow — 19 if I have seen anyone perish for lack of clothing, or a poor person without covering, 20 whose loins have not blessed me,
and who was not warmed with the fleece of my sheep;
21 if I have raised my hand against the orphan,
because I saw I had supporters at the gate;
22 then let my shoulder blade fall from my shoulder,
and let my arm be broken from its socket.
23 For I was in terror of calamity from God,
and I could not have faced his majesty.

24 "If I have made gold my trust,
or called fine gold my confidence;

25 if I have rejoiced because my wealth was great,
 or because my hand had gotten much;
 26 if I have looked at the sun when it shone,
 or the moon moving in splendor, 27 and my heart has been secretly enticed,
 and my mouth has kissed my hand;
 28 this also would be an iniquity to be punished by the judges,
 for I should have been false to God above.

29 "If I have rejoiced at the ruin of those who hated me, or exulted when evil overtook them — 30 I have not let my mouth sin
 by asking for their lives with a curse — 31 if those of my tent ever said,
 'O that we might be sated with his flesh!' —
 32 the stranger has not lodged in the street;
 I have opened my doors to the traveler —
 33 if I have concealed my transgressions as others do,
 by hiding my iniquity in my bosom, 34 because I stood in great fear of the multitude,
 and the contempt of families terrified me,
 so that I kept silence, and did not go out of doors —
 35 O that I had one to hear me!
 (Here is my signature! Let the Almighty answer me!)
 O, that I had the indictment written by my adversary!
 36 Surely I would carry it on my shoulder;
 I would bind it on me like a crown;
 37 I would give him an account of all my steps;
 like a prince I would approach him.

38 "If my land has cried out against me,
 and its furrows have wept together;
 39 if I have eaten its yield without payment,
 and caused the death of its owners;
 40 let thorns grow instead of wheat,
 and foul weeds instead of barley."
 The words of Job are ended.

[Job 32]Elihu's disputations; prose and poetic introduction

1 So these three men ceased to answer Job, because he was righteous in his own eyes. 2 Then Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite, of the family of Ram, became angry. He was angry at Job because he justified himself rather than God; 3 he was angry also at Job's three friends because they had found no answer, though they had declared Job to be in the wrong. 4 Now Elihu had waited to speak to Job, because they were older than he. 5 But when Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouths of these three men, he became angry.

6 Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite answered:

"I am young in years,
and you are aged;
therefore I was timid and afraid
to declare my opinion to you.

7 I said, 'Let days speak,
and many years teach wisdom.'

8 But truly it is the spirit in a mortal,
the breath of the Almighty, that makes for understanding.

9 It is not the old that are wise,
nor the aged that understand what is right.

10 Therefore I say, 'Listen to me;
let me also declare my opinion.'

11 "See, I waited for your words,
I listened for your wise sayings,
while you searched out what to say.

12 I gave you my attention,
but there was in fact no one that confuted Job,
no one among you that answered his words.

13 Yet do not say, 'We have found wisdom;
God may vanquish him, not a human.'

14 He has not directed his words against me,
and I will not answer him with your speeches.

- 15 "They are dismayed, they answer no more;
they have not a word to say.
- 16 And am I to wait, because they do not speak,
because they stand there, and answer no more?
- 17 I also will give my answer;
I also will declare my opinion.
- 18 For I am full of words;
the spirit within me constrains me.
- 19 My heart is indeed like wine that has no vent;
like new wineskins, it is ready to burst.
- 20 I must speak, so that I may find relief;
I must open my lips and answer.
- 21 I will not show partiality to any person or use flattery toward anyone.
- 22 For I do not know how to flatter —
or my Maker would soon put an end to me!

[Job 33]

- 1 "But now, hear my speech, O Job,
and listen to all my words.
- 2 See, I open my mouth;
the tongue in my mouth speaks.
- 3 My words declare the uprightness of my heart,
and what my lips know they speak sincerely.
- 4 The spirit of God has made me,
and the breath of the Almighty gives me life.
- 5 Answer me, if you can;
set your words in order before me; take your stand.
- 6 See, before God I am as you are;
I too was formed from a piece of clay.
- 7 No fear of me need terrify you;
my pressure will not be heavy on you.

Elihu's first disputation

- 8 "Surely, you have spoken in my hearing,
and I have heard the sound of your words.

- 9 You say, 'I am clean, without transgression;
I am pure, and there is no iniquity in me.
10 Look, he finds occasions against me,
he counts me as his enemy;
11 he puts my feet in the stocks,
and watches all my paths.'
- 12 "But in this you are not right. I will answer you:
God is greater than any mortal.
13 Why do you contend against him, saying, 'He will answer none of my words'?
14 For God speaks in one way,
and in two, though people do not perceive it.
15 In a dream, in a vision of the night,
when deep sleep falls on mortals,
while they slumber on their beds, 16 then he opens their ears,
and terrifies them with warnings, 17 that he may turn them aside from their deeds,
and keep them from pride, 18 to spare their souls from the Pit,
their lives from traversing the River.
19 They are also chastened with pain upon their beds,
and with continual strife in their bones, 20 so that their lives loathe bread,
and their appetites dainty food.
21 Their flesh is so wasted away that it cannot be seen;
and their bones, once invisible, now stick out.
22 Their souls draw near the Pit,
and their lives to those who bring death.
23 Then, if there should be for one of them an angel, a mediator, one of a thousand,
one who declares a person upright, 24 and he is gracious to that person, and says,
'Deliver him from going down into the Pit;
I have found a ransom;
25 let his flesh become fresh with youth;
let him return to the days of his youthful vigor';

- 26 then he prays to God, and is accepted by him,
 he comes into his presence with joy,
 and God repays him for his righteousness.
- 27 That person sings to others and says,
 'I sinned, and perverted what was right,
 and it was not paid back to me.
- 28 He has redeemed my soul from going down to the Pit,
 and my life shall see the light.'
- 29 "God indeed does all these things,
 twice, three times, with mortals,
 30 to bring back their souls from the Pit,
 so that they may see the light of life.
- 31 Pay heed, Job, listen to me;
 be silent, and I will speak.
- 32 If you have anything to say, answer me;
 speak, for I desire to justify you.
- 33 If not, listen to me;
 be silent, and I will teach you wisdom."

[Job 34]

Elihu's second disputation

- 1 Then Elihu continued and said:
 2 "Hear my words, you wise men,
 and give ear to me, you who know;
 3 for the ear tests words
 as the palate tastes food.
- 4 Let us choose what is right;
 let us determine among ourselves what is good.
- 5 For Job has said, 'I am innocent,
 and God has taken away my right;
 6 in spite of being right I am counted a liar;
 my wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.'
- 7 Who is there like Job,
 who drinks up scoffing like water,
 8 who goes in company with evildoers
 and walks with the wicked?

9 For he has said, 'It profits one nothing to take delight in God.'

10 "Therefore, hear me, you who have sense,
far be it from God that he should do wickedness,
and from the Almighty that he should do wrong.

11 For according to their deeds he will repay them,
and according to their ways he will make it befall them.

12 Of a truth, God will not do wickedly,
and the Almighty will not pervert justice.

13 Who gave him charge over the earth and who laid on him the whole world?

14 If he should take back his spirit to himself,
and gather to himself his breath,

15 all flesh would perish together,
and all mortals return to dust.

16 "If you have understanding, hear this;
listen to what I say.

17 Shall one who hates justice govern?
Will you condemn one who is righteous and mighty,

18 who says to a king, 'You scoundrel!'
and to princes, 'You wicked men!';

19 who shows no partiality to nobles,
nor regards the rich more than the poor,
for they are all the work of his hands?

20 In a moment they die;
at midnight the people are shaken and pass away,
and the mighty are taken away by no human hand.

21 "For his eyes are upon the ways of mortals,
and he sees all their steps.

22 There is no gloom or deep darkness
where evildoers may hide themselves.

23 For he has not appointed a time for anyone to go before God in judgment.

24 He shatters the mighty without investigation, and sets others in their place.

25 Thus, knowing their works,
 he overturns them in the night, and they are crushed.
 26 He strikes them for their wickedness while others look on, 27 because they turned aside from following him,
 and had no regard for any of his ways, 28 so that they caused the cry of the poor to come to him, and he heard the cry of the afflicted —
 29 When he is quiet, who can condemn?
 When he hides his face, who can behold him,
 whether it be a nation or an individual? — 30 so that the godless should not reign,
 or those who ensnare the people.

31 "For has anyone said to God,
 'I have endured punishment; I will not offend any more;
 32 teach me what I do not see;
 if I have done iniquity, I will do it no more'?
 33 Will he then pay back to suit you,
 because you reject it?
 For you must choose, and not I;
 therefore declare what you know.
 34 Those who have sense will say to me,
 and the wise who hear me will say, 35 'Job speaks without knowledge,
 his words are without insight.'
 36 Would that Job were tried to the limit,
 because his answers are those of the wicked.
 37 For he adds rebellion to his sin;
 he claps his hands among us,
 and multiplies his words against God."

[Job 35]
Elihu's third disputation

1 Elihu continued and said:
 2 "Do you think this to be just?
 You say, 'I am in the right before God.'

- 3 If you ask, 'What advantage have I?
How am I better off than if I had sinned?'
- 4 I will answer you and your friends with you.
- 5 Look at the heavens and see;
observe the clouds, which are higher than you.
- 6 If you have sinned, what do you accomplish against him?
And if your transgressions are multiplied, what do you do to him?
- 7 If you are righteous, what do you give to him;
or what does he receive from your hand?
- 8 Your wickedness affects others like you,
and your righteousness, other human beings.
- 9 "Because of the multitude of oppressions people cry out;
they call for help because of the arm of the mighty.
- 10 But no one says, 'Where is God my Maker,
who gives strength in the night,
11 who teaches us more than the animals of the earth,
and makes us wiser than the birds of the air?'
- 12 There they cry out, but he does not answer,
because of the pride of evildoers.
- 13 Surely God does not hear an empty cry,
nor does the Almighty regard it.
- 14 How much less when you say that you do not see him,
that the case is before him, and you are waiting for him!
- 15 And now, because his anger does not punish,
and he does not greatly heed transgression,
- 16 Job opens his mouth in empty talk,
he multiplies words without knowledge."

[Job 36]
Elihu's fourth disputation

- 1 Elihu continued and said:
- 2 "Bear with me a little, and I will show you,
for I have yet something to say on God's behalf.
- 3 I will bring my knowledge from far away,
and ascribe righteousness to my Maker.

- 4 For truly my words are not false;
one who is perfect in knowledge is with you.
- 5 "Surely God is mighty and does not despise any;
he is mighty in strength of understanding.
- 6 He does not keep the wicked alive,
but gives the afflicted their right.
- 7 He does not withdraw his eyes from the righteous,
but with kings on the throne
he sets them forever, and they are exalted.
- 8 And if they are bound in fetters
and caught in the cords of affliction, 9 then he declares to them their work
and their transgressions, that they are behaving arrogantly.
- 10 He opens their ears to instruction,
and commands that they return from iniquity.
- 11 If they listen, and serve him,
they complete their days in prosperity,
and their years in pleasantness.
- 12 But if they do not listen, they shall perish by the sword,
and die without knowledge.
- 13 "The godless in heart cherish anger;
they do not cry for help when he binds them.
- 14 They die in their youth,
and their life ends in shame.
- 15 He delivers the afflicted by their affliction,
and opens their ear by adversity.
- 16 He also allured you out of distress
into a broad place where there was no constraint,
and what was set on your table was full of fatness.
- 17 "But you are obsessed with the case of the wicked;
judgment and justice seize you.
- 18 Beware that wrath does not entice you into scoffing,
and do not let the greatness of the ransom turn you aside.
- 19 Will your cry avail to keep you from distress,
or will all the force of your strength?

- 20 Do not long for the night,
when peoples are cut off in their place.
- 21 Beware! Do not turn to iniquity;
because of that you have been tried by affliction.
- 22 See, God is exalted in his power;
who is a teacher like him?
- 23 Who has prescribed for him his way,
or who can say, 'You have done wrong'?
- 24 "Remember to extol his work,
of which mortals have sung.
- 25 All people have looked on it;
everyone watches it from far away.
- 26 Surely God is great, and we do not know him;
the number of his years is unsearchable.
- 27 For he draws up the drops of water;
he distills his mist in rain,
- 28 which the skies pour down
and drop upon mortals abundantly.
- 29 Can anyone understand the spreading of the clouds,
the thunderings of his pavilion?
- 30 See, he scatters his lightning around him
and covers the roots of the sea.
- 31 For by these he governs peoples;
he gives food in abundance.
- 32 He covers his hands with the lightning,
and commands it to strike the mark.
- 33 Its crashing tells about him;
he is jealous with anger against iniquity.

[Job 37]

- 1 "At this also my heart trembles,
and leaps out of its place.
- 2 Listen, listen to the thunder of his voice
and the rumbling that comes from his mouth.
- 3 Under the whole heaven he lets it loose,
and his lightning to the corners of the earth.

- 4 After it his voice roars;
 he thunders with his majestic voice
 and he does not restrain the lightnings when his voice is heard.
- 5 God thunders wondrously with his voice;
 he does great things that we cannot comprehend.
- 6 For to the snow he says, 'Fall on the earth';
 and the shower of rain, his heavy shower of rain,
7 serves as a sign on everyone's hand,
 so that all whom he has made may know it.
- 8 Then the animals go into their lairs
 and remain in their dens.
- 9 From its chamber comes the whirlwind,
 and cold from the scattering winds.
- 10 By the breath of God ice is given,
 and the broad waters are frozen fast.
- 11 He loads the thick cloud with moisture;
 the clouds scatter his lightning.
- 12 They turn round and round by his guidance,
 to accomplish all that he commands them
 on the face of the habitable world.
- 13 Whether for correction, or for his land,
 or for love, he causes it to happen.
- 14 "Hear this, O Job;
 stop and consider the wondrous works of God.
- 15 Do you know how God lays his command upon them,
 and causes the lightning of his cloud to shine?
- 16 Do you know the balancings of the clouds,
 the wondrous works of the one whose knowledge is perfect, 17 you whose garments are hot
 when the earth is still because of the south wind?
- 18 Can you, like him, spread out the skies,
 hard as a molten mirror?
- 19 Teach us what we shall say to him;
 we cannot draw up our case because of darkness.
- 20 Should he be told that I want to speak?
 Did anyone ever wish to be swallowed up?

- 21 Now, no one can look on the light
 when it is bright in the skies,
 when the wind has passed and cleared them.
- 22 Out of the north comes golden splendor;
 around God is awesome majesty.
- 23 The Almighty — we cannot find him;
 he is great in power and justice,
 and abundant righteousness he will not violate.
- 24 Therefore mortals fear him;
 he does not regard any who are wise in their own conceit."

[Job 38]

God speaks from the whirlwind

- 1 Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind:
 2 "Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge?
 3 Gird up your loins like a man,
 I will question you, and you shall declare to me.
- 4 "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth?
 Tell me, if you have understanding.
- 5 Who determined its measurements — surely you know!
 Or who stretched the line upon it?
- 6 On what were its bases sunk,
 or who laid its cornerstone
- 7 when the morning stars sang together
 and all the heavenly beings shouted for joy?
- 8 "Or who shut in the sea with doors
 when it burst out from the womb? —
- 9 when I made the clouds its garment,
 and thick darkness its swaddling band,
- 10 and prescribed bounds for it,
 and set bars and doors,
- 11 and said, 'Thus far shall you come, and no farther,
 and here shall your proud waves be stopped'?

12 "Have you commanded the morning since your days began,
and caused the dawn to know its place, 13 so that it might take hold of the skirts of the earth,
and the wicked be shaken out of it?
14 It is changed like clay under the seal,
and it is dyed like a garment.
15 Light is withheld from the wicked,
and their uplifted arm is broken.

16 "Have you entered into the springs of the sea,
or walked in the recesses of the deep?
17 Have the gates of death been revealed to you,
or have you seen the gates of deep darkness?
18 Have you comprehended the expanse of the earth?
Declare, if you know all this.
19 "Where is the way to the dwelling of light,
and where is the place of darkness, 20 that you may take it to its territory
and that you may discern the paths to its home?
21 Surely you know, for you were born then,
and the number of your days is great!

22 "Have you entered the storehouses of the snow,
or have you seen the storehouses of the hail, 23 which I have reserved for the time of trouble,
for the day of battle and war?
24 What is the way to the place where the light is distributed,
or where the east wind is scattered upon the earth?

25 "Who has cut a channel for the torrents of rain,
and a way for the thunderbolt,
26 to bring rain on a land where no one lives,
on the desert, which is empty of human life, 27 to satisfy the waste and desolate land,
and to make the ground put forth grass?

28 "Has the rain a father,
or who has begotten the drops of dew?

- 29 From whose womb did the ice come forth,
and who has given birth to the hoarfrost of heaven?
- 30 The waters become hard like stone,
and the face of the deep is frozen.
- 31 "Can you bind the chains of the Pleiades,
or loose the cords of Orion?
- 32 Can you lead forth the Mazzaroth in their season,
or can you guide the Bear with its children?
- 33 Do you know the ordinances of the heavens?
Can you establish their rule on the earth?
- 34 "Can you lift up your voice to the clouds,
so that a flood of waters may cover you?
- 35 Can you send forth lightnings, so that they may go and say to you, 'Here we are'?
- 36 Who has put wisdom in the inward parts,
or given understanding to the mind?
- 37 Who has the wisdom to number the clouds?
Or who can tilt the waterskins of the heavens, 38 when the dust runs into a mass
and the clods cling together?
- 39 "Can you hunt the prey for the lion,
or satisfy the appetite of the young lions, 40 when they crouch in their dens,
or lie in wait in their covert?
- 41 Who provides for the raven its prey,
when its young ones cry to God,
and wander about for lack of food?

[Job 39]

- 1 "Do you know when the mountain goats give birth?
Do you observe the calving of the deer?
- 2 Can you number the months that they fulfill,
and do you know the time when they give birth,
3 when they crouch to give birth to their offspring,
and are delivered of their young?

4 Their young ones become strong, they grow up in the open;
they go forth, and do not return to them.

5 "Who has let the wild ass go free?
Who has loosed the bonds of the swift ass,
6 to which I have given the steppe for its home,
the salt land for its dwelling place?

7 It scorns the tumult of the city;
it does not hear the shouts of the driver.

8 It ranges the mountains as its pasture,
and it searches after every green thing.

9 "Is the wild ox willing to serve you?
Will it spend the night at your crib?

10 Can you tie it in the furrow with ropes,
or will it harrow the valleys after you?

11 Will you depend on it because its strength is great,
and will you hand over your labor to it?

12 Do you have faith in it that it will return,
and bring your grain to your threshing floor?

13 "The ostrich's wings flap wildly,
though its pinions lack plumage.

14 For it leaves its eggs to the earth,
and lets them be warmed on the ground,

15 forgetting that a foot may crush them,
and that a wild animal may trample them.

16 It deals cruelly with its young, as if they were not its own;
though its labor should be in vain, yet it has no fear;

17 because God has made it forget wisdom,
and given it no share in understanding.

18 When it spreads its plumes aloft,
it laughs at the horse and its rider.

19 "Do you give the horse its might?
Do you clothe its neck with mane?

20 Do you make it leap like the locust?
Its majestic snorting is terrible.

- 21 It paws violently, exults mightily;
it goes out to meet the weapons.
- 22 It laughs at fear, and is not dismayed;
it does not turn back from the sword.
- 23 Upon it rattle the quiver,
the flashing spear, and the javelin.
- 24 With fierceness and rage it swallows the ground;
it cannot stand still at the sound of the trumpet.
- 25 When the trumpet sounds, it says 'Aha!'
From a distance it smells the battle,
the thunder of the captains, and the shouting.
- 26 "Is it by your wisdom that the hawk soars,
and spreads its wings toward the south?
- 27 Is it at your command that the eagle mounts up and makes its nest on high?
- 28 It lives on the rock and makes its home
in the fastness of the rocky crag.
- 29 From there it spies the prey;
its eyes see it from far away.
- 30 Its young ones suck up blood;
and where the slain are, there it is."

[Job 40]Question and response

- 1 And the LORD said to Job:
- 2 "Shall a faultfinder contend with the Almighty?
Anyone who argues with God must respond."
- 3 Then Job answered the LORD:
- 4 "See, I am of small account; what shall I answer you?
I lay my hand on my mouth.
- 5 I have spoken once, and I will not answer;
twice, but will proceed no further."

God's second speech

6 Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind:

7 "Gird up your loins like a man;

I will question you, and you declare to me.

8 Will you even put me in the wrong?

Will you condemn me that you may be justified?

9 Have you an arm like God,

and can you thunder with a voice like his?

10 "Deck yourself with majesty and dignity;

clothe yourself with glory and splendor.

11 Pour out the overflowings of your anger,

and look on all who are proud, and abase them.

12 Look on all who are proud, and bring them low;

tread down the wicked where they stand.

13 Hide them all in the dust together;

bind their faces in the world below.

14 Then I will also acknowledge to you that your own right hand can give you victory.

15 "Look at Behemoth,

which I made just as I made you;

it eats grass like an ox.

16 Its strength is in its loins,

and its power in the muscles of its belly.

17 It makes its tail stiff like a cedar;

the sinews of its thighs are knit together.

18 Its bones are tubes of bronze,

its limbs like bars of iron.

19 "It is the first of the great acts of God —

only its Maker can approach it with the sword.

20 For the mountains yield food for it

where all the wild animals play.

21 Under the lotus plants it lies,

in the covert of the reeds and in the marsh.

- 22 The lotus trees cover it for shade;
the willows of the wadi surround it.
- 23 Even if the river is turbulent, it is not frightened;
it is confident though Jordan rushes against its mouth.
- 24 Can one take it with hooks or pierce its nose with a snare?

[Job 41]

- 1 "Can you draw out Leviathan with a fishhook,
or press down its tongue with a cord?
- 2 Can you put a rope in its nose,
or pierce its jaw with a hook?
- 3 Will it make many supplications to you?
Will it speak soft words to you?
- 4 Will it make a covenant with you to be taken as your servant forever?
- 5 Will you play with it as with a bird,
or will you put it on leash for your girls?
- 6 Will traders bargain over it?
Will they divide it up among the merchants?
- 7 Can you fill its skin with harpoons,
or its head with fishing spears?
- 8 Lay hands on it;
think of the battle; you will not do it again!
- 9 Any hope of capturing it will be disappointed;
were not even the gods overwhelmed at the sight of it?
- 10 No one is so fierce as to dare to stir it up.
Who can stand before it?
- 11 Who can confront it and be safe?
— under the whole heaven, who?
- 12 "I will not keep silence concerning its limbs,
or its mighty strength, or its splendid frame.
- 13 Who can strip off its outer garment?
Who can penetrate its double coat of mail?
- 14 Who can open the doors of its face?
There is terror all around its teeth.

- 15 Its back is made of shields in rows,
shut up closely as with a seal.
- 16 One is so near to another
that no air can come between them.
- 17 They are joined one to another;
they clasp each other and cannot be separated.
- 18 Its sneezes flash forth light,
and its eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.
- 19 From its mouth go flaming torches;
sparks of fire leap out.
- 20 Out of its nostrils comes smoke,
as from a boiling pot and burning rushes.
- 21 Its breath kindles coals,
and a flame comes out of its mouth.
- 22 In its neck abides strength,
and terror dances before it.
- 23 The folds of its flesh cling together;
it is firmly cast and immovable.
- 24 Its heart is as hard as stone,
as hard as the lower millstone.
- 25 When it raises itself up the gods are afraid;
at the crashing they are beside themselves.
- 26 Though the sword reaches it, it does not avail,
nor does the spear, the dart, or the javelin.
- 27 It counts iron as straw,
and bronze as rotten wood.
- 28 The arrow cannot make it flee;
slingstones, for it, are turned to chaff.
- 29 Clubs are counted as chaff;
it laughs at the rattle of javelins.
- 30 Its underparts are like sharp potsherds;
it spreads itself like a threshing sledge on the mire.
- 31 It makes the deep boil like a pot;
it makes the sea like a pot of ointment.
- 32 It leaves a shining wake behind it;
one would think the deep to be white-haired.
- 33 On earth it has no equal,
a creature without fear.

34 It surveys everything that is lofty;
it is king over all that are proud."

[Job 42]

Job's second response

1 Then Job answered the LORD:
2 "I know that you can do all things,
and that no purpose of yours can be thwarted.
3 'Who is this that hides counsel without knowledge?'
Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand, things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.
4 'Hear, and I will speak;
I will question you, and you declare to me.'
5 I had heard of you by the hearing of the ear,
but now my eye sees you;
6 therefore I despise myself,
and repent in dust and ashes."

Epilogue

7 After the LORD had spoken these words to Job, the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite: "My wrath is kindled against you and against your two friends; for you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has. 8 Now therefore take seven bulls and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering; and my servant Job shall pray for you, for I will accept his prayer not to deal with you according to your folly; for you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has done." 9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did what the LORD had told them; and the LORD accepted Job's prayer.

10 And the LORD restored the fortunes of Job when he had prayed for his friends; and the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had before. 11 Then there came to him all his brothers and sisters and all who had known him before, and they ate bread with him in his house; they showed him sympathy and comforted him for all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him; and each of them gave him a piece of money and a gold ring. 12 The LORD blessed the latter days of Job more than his beginning; and he had fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand donkeys. 13 He also had seven sons and three daughters. 14 He named the first Jemimah, the second Keziah, and the third Keren-happuch. 15 In all the land there were no women so beautiful as Job's daughters; and their father gave them an inheritance along with their brothers. 16 After this Job lived one hundred and forty years, and saw his children, and his children's children, four generations. 17 And Job died, old and full of days.

PSALMS

Introduction

The Psalms is a collection of sung poetic prayers (see the Introduction to the Poetical and Wisdom Books) associated with divine worship in Israel. The word "psalm" is derived from the Greek "psalmos," which translates the Hebrew "mizmor"; these all mean a song recited to the accompaniment of a stringed instrument. The times of composition for the psalms range across at least five centuries; the earliest psalm is probably Ps 29, which is adapted from early Canaanite worship, while several psalms contain contextual (e.g., Ps 126), linguistic, or other evidence that they are from the postexilic period (Ps 51; 114; 137). While psalms are Judean in origin, the language or internal references in several psalms suggest that they originated in the Northern Kingdom (e.g., Ps 80 and 81, which contain references to Joseph); these most likely were brought to Judah after the destruction of the Northern Kingdom in 722 BCE. The majority of the psalms, however, originated in the preexilic, monarchic period, and are associated with the Jerusalem Temple.

The psalms likely functioned as a musical libretto for sections of the Temple worship, though exactly when and how they were used is unclear. Psalm 118.27, "The Lord is God, and he has given us light. Bind the festal procession with branches, up to the horns of the altar" suggests that some psalms were used in connection to the sacrifices, while Ps 141.2, "Let my prayer be counted as incense before you, and the lifting up of my hands as an evening sacrifice" might indicate that some were recited when the incense was offered. Several psalms contain allusions to musical performance (e.g., 13.6; 26.7; 30.4; 33.2-3), and many of the superscriptions (headings, though not included in this specific online version — see the NRSV) contain detailed, technical references to how the performance should be completed. Unfortunately, many of the technical terms that are ubiquitous in the psalms, including the frequent "Selah," are imperfectly understood, and it is thus very difficult to reconstruct with any certainty exactly how these poems were performed. (The term "Selah" was not included in this online version of Psalms.)

From the beginning of the 20th century, many attempts have been made, especially by biblical scholars interested in form criticism (see "Form Criticism" in the related essays section), to follow clues in the psalms, in order to reconstruct the original "Sitz im Leben," or setting in life, of the psalms. This scholarship has suggested that the psalms are to be divided into several genres. The two main types are laments, forming approximately a third of the Psalter, and hymns. Laments can be either individual (Ps 3) or communal (Ps 44). The lament's component parts include the invocation of the name of God, the complaint wherein the psalmist describes the distress experienced, and appeals for divine intervention. Many of these laments include expressions of trust, couched in the past (Ps 6.9, "The Lord has heard my supplication; the Lord accepts my prayer"). It is unclear if this is a reflection of the psalmist's great faith, which is furthered through the recitation of the psalms, or if part of the recitation of the psalm might have included a response to the lament by a cultic official, and the the psalmist might have expressed trust only after this divine reassurance, which does not usually appear in the psalm. The hymns typically focus on the role of God as creator (e.g., Ps 8; 19, 104) or redeemer (Ps 66; 98). These hymns are not connected to specific requests; they are reflective of the religious individual, who wants to have a close connection with God, in the belief that "It is good to give thanks to the Lord, to sing praise to your name, O Most High" (Ps 92.1). The Hebrew title of Psalms, "tehillim" ("praises"), reflects the significance of the genre of hymns to the book.

Still other types of psalms may be isolated in Psalms. For example, Ps 15, which recounts the ideal qualities of the individual who "may abide in your tent" and "may dwell on your holy hill" (v. 1) is likely an entrance liturgy, recited by the worshiper while approaching the Temple. There are several royal psalms (Ps 2), which focus on the king. The number of these psalms, and by extension, the extent to which the Psalter should be viewed as a work with specifically royal focus, is debated, with some scholars contending that the "I" of the Psalter is typically the king. A handful of psalms (e.g., 37; 119) contain the vocabulary of the wisdom books — Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes — and focus on issues that characterize those books, such as righteousness in contrast to evil; for this reason, they are often called wisdom psalms. Several psalms, especially 93-99, focus on the kingship of God; it is unclear how these might have been used ritually, and especially if they might reflect a Judean New Year festival, which had significant parallels to a Babylonian festival, in which the deity was ritually reinstated as king. Form critics continue to debate the genres of specific psalms, the number of different genres contained in the Psalter, and the psalms' Sitz im Leben, namely the ways in which they were connected to ancient Israelite worship.

The book of Psalms came together over a long period of time. This is clear from the final verse of Ps 72, "The prayers of David son of Jesse are ended." This is further reflected through the existence of several collections or anthologies within the Psalter; the clearest of these is composed of Ps 120-134, each of which begins "A song of ascents." Ps 42-83 are also a collection ("the elohistic Psalter"); these typically call the deity "elohim" (translated "God"), rather than "yhwh" (translated "Lord"), which typifies the rest of the Psalter. A comparison of Ps 14 to the parallel Ps 53 (from the elohistic Psalter) is especially enlightening as an illustration of the anthological nature of the Psalter. Clusters of psalms also begin or end with the words "halelu-yah," "Praise the Lord" (Ps 105-106; 111-113; 115-117; 146-150).

This brief reconstruction of the history of the Psalter indicates that the early Jewish and Christian tradition, reflected among the Dead Sea community as well, that David composed the entirety of the book of Psalms, is secondary. The tradition arose from an interpretation of the many psalms that do begin "of David," a phrase understood to mean of Davidic authorship, as well as the traditions in other books that David was a poet and musician (1 Sam 16.16-17; 2 Sam 1.17-27) and the patron of the Jerusalem Temple (1 Chr 29.1-5), constructed by his son, Solomon. The historical headings of several psalms (not included in this online NRSV version; see a print version) (Ps 3; 18; 34; 51) reflect early exegetical attempts to link the psalms with incidents in the life of David in 1-2 Samuel. This desire to connect the psalms directly to the life of David is further shown in additional historical headings found in the Septuagint, the second-century BCE translation of the Bible, as well as in later Jewish exegesis. These illustrate a movement away from understanding Psalms as a loose collection of liturgical works, to viewing it as a thematic book.

This attempt to understand Psalms as a book is echoed in the manner in which the book is subdivided into five parts or books, through the secondary insertion of doxologies (detailed praises of God), at the end of Ps 41; 72; 89; 106, and through the functioning of the last psalm(s) of the Psalter (Ps 146-150 alone) as a doxology. Thus the book in its final form is structure as a Pentateuch (five books), just like the Torah. The reference to "the Torah (NRSV "law") of the Lord" in the introductory psalm (v. 2) suggests that, at some level, the book of Psalms as a whole is to be read as Torah and is to be studied as Torah. This may represent the period after the destruction of the Second Temple (70 CE), when study of psalms replaced their liturgical recitation.

There are thus many ways that the individual psalms might be read. In their earliest stages, they are individual compositions, recited for particular occasions at a variety of sacred sites. Later, some of these were anthologized, and might be understood within the anthology that they are in; e.g., Ps 123 might be understood within the Songs of Ascent. Finally, individual psalms might be understood within the Psalter as a book, either narrating a biography of David, or a book of teaching like the Torah. The main function of psalms within later Jewish and Christian tradition, however, has been as a type of inspirational literature, where later worshipers may find proper words in tradition to express the depths of their religious experience and feelings.

BOOK I (PSALMS 1-41)[Psalms 1]*The two ways

- 1 Happy are those who do not follow the advice of the wicked,
 or take the path that sinners tread,
 or sit in the seat of scoffers;
- 2 but their delight is in the law of the LORD,
 and on his law they meditate day and night.
- 3 They are like trees
 planted by streams of water,
 which yield their fruit in its season,
 and their leaves do not wither.
 In all that they do, they prosper.
- 4 The wicked are not so,
 but are like chaff that the wind drives away.
- 5 Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment,
 nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous;
- 6 for the LORD watches over the way of the righteous,
 but the way of the wicked will perish.

[Psalm 2]God's royal son

- 1 Why do the nations conspire,
 and the peoples plot in vain?
- 2 The kings of the earth set themselves,
 and the rulers take counsel together,
 against the LORD and his anointed, saying,
- 3 "Let us burst their bonds asunder,
 and cast their cords from us."
- 4 He who sits in the heavens laughs;
 the LORD has them in derision.

- 5 Then he will speak to them in his wrath,
and terrify them in his fury, saying,
6 "I have set my king on Zion, my holy hill."
- 7 I will tell of the decree of the LORD:
He said to me, "You are my son;
today I have begotten you.
8 Ask of me, and I will make the nations your heritage,
and the ends of the earth your possession.
9 You shall break them with a rod of iron,
and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel."
- 10 Now therefore, O kings, be wise;
be warned, O rulers of the earth.
11 Serve the LORD with fear,
with trembling 12 kiss his feet,
or he will be angry, and you will perish in the way;
for his wrath is quickly kindled.

Happy are all who take refuge in him.

[Psalm 3]
Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 O LORD, how many are my foes!
Many are rising against me;
2 many are saying to me,
"There is no help for you in God."
- 3 But you, O LORD, are a shield around me,
my glory, and the one who lifts up my head.
4 I cry aloud to the LORD,
and he answers me from his holy hill.
- 5 I lie down and sleep;
I wake again, for the LORD sustains me.
6 I am not afraid of ten thousands of people who have set themselves against me all around.

7 Rise up, O LORD!
 Deliver me, O my God!
 For you strike all my enemies on the cheek;
 you break the teeth of the wicked.

8 Deliverance belongs to the LORD;
 may your blessing be on your people!

[Psalm 4]
Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 Answer me when I call, O God of my right!
 You gave me room when I was in distress.
 Be gracious to me, and hear my prayer.

2 How long, you people, shall my honor suffer shame?
 How long will you love vain words, and seek after lies?

3 But know that the LORD has set apart the faithful for himself;
 the LORD hears when I call to him.

4 When you are disturbed, do not sin;
 ponder it on your beds, and be silent.

5 Offer right sacrifices,
 and put your trust in the LORD.

6 There are many who say, "O that we might see some good!
 Let the light of your face shine on us, O LORD!"

7 You have put gladness in my heart
 more than when their grain and wine abound.

8 I will both lie down and sleep in peace;
 for you alone, O LORD, make me lie down in safety.

[Psalm 5]Prayer for access to the Temple

- 1 Give ear to my words, O LORD;
give heed to my sighing.
- 2 Listen to the sound of my cry,
my King and my God,
for to you I pray.
- 3 O LORD, in the morning you hear my voice;
in the morning I plead my case to you, and watch.

- 4 For you are not a God who delights in wickedness;
evil will not sojourn with you.
- 5 The boastful will not stand before your eyes;
you hate all evildoers.
- 6 You destroy those who speak lies;
the LORD abhors the bloodthirsty and deceitful.

- 7 But I, through the abundance of your steadfast love,
will enter your house,
I will bow down toward your holy temple
in awe of you.
- 8 Lead me, O LORD, in your righteousness
because of my enemies;
make your way straight before me.

- 9 For there is no truth in their mouths;
their hearts are destruction;
their throats are open graves;
they flatter with their tongues.
- 10 Make them bear their guilt, O God;
let them fall by their own counsels;
because of their many transgressions cast them out,
for they have rebelled against you.

- 11 But let all who take refuge in you rejoice;
let them ever sing for joy.
Spread your protection over them,
so that those who love your name may exult in you.
- 12 For you bless the righteous, O LORD;
you cover them with favor as with a shield.

[Psalm 6]

Prayer for healing

- 1 O LORD, do not rebuke me in your anger,
or discipline me in your wrath.
- 2 Be gracious to me, O LORD, for I am languishing;
O LORD, heal me, for my bones are shaking with terror.
- 3 My soul also is struck with terror,
while you, O LORD — how long?
- 4 Turn, O LORD, save my life;
deliver me for the sake of your steadfast love.
- 5 For in death there is no remembrance of you;
in Sheol who can give you praise?
- 6 I am weary with my moaning;
every night I flood my bed with tears;
I drench my couch with my weeping.
- 7 My eyes waste away because of grief;
they grow weak because of all my foes.
- 8 Depart from me, all you workers of evil,
for the LORD has heard the sound of my weeping.
- 9 The LORD has heard my supplication;
the LORD accepts my prayer.
- 10 All my enemies shall be ashamed and struck with terror;
they shall turn back, and in a moment be put to shame.

[Psalm 7]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 O LORD my God, in you I take refuge;
 save me from all my pursuers, and deliver me,
2 or like a lion they will tear me apart;
 they will drag me away, with no one to rescue.
- 3 O LORD my God, if I have done this,
 if there is wrong in my hands,
4 if I have repaid my ally with harm
 or plundered my foe without cause, 5 then let the enemy pursue and overtake me,
 trample my life to the ground,
 and lay my soul in the dust.
- 6 Rise up, O LORD, in your anger;
 lift yourself up against the fury of my enemies;
 awake, O my God; you have appointed a judgment.
7 Let the assembly of the peoples be gathered around you,
 and over it take your seat on high.
- 8 The LORD judges the peoples;
 judge me, O LORD, according to my righteousness
 and according to the integrity that is in me.
- 9 O let the evil of the wicked come to an end,
 but establish the righteous,
 you who test the minds and hearts,
 O righteous God.
- 10 God is my shield,
 who saves the upright in heart.
- 11 God is a righteous judge,
 and a God who has indignation every day.
- 12 If one does not repent, God will whet his sword;
 he has bent and strung his bow; 13 he has prepared his deadly weapons,
 making his arrows fiery shafts.

- 14 See how they conceive evil,
and are pregnant with mischief,
and bring forth lies.
- 15 They make a pit, digging it out,
and fall into the hole that they have made.
- 16 Their mischief returns upon their own heads,
and on their own heads their violence descends.
- 17 I will give to the LORD the thanks due to his righteousness, and sing praise to the name of the LORD, the Most High.

[Psalm 8]Praise of the creator

- 1 O LORD, our Sovereign,
how majestic is your name in all the earth!
- You have set your glory above the heavens.
- 2 Out of the mouths of babes and infants
you have founded a bulwark because of your foes,
to silence the enemy and the avenger.
- 3 When I look at your heavens, the work of your fingers,
the moon and the stars that you have established;
4 what are human beings that you are mindful of them,
mortals that you care for them?
- 5 Yet you have made them a little lower than God,
and crowned them with glory and honor.
- 6 You have given them dominion over the works of your hands;
you have put all things under their feet,
7 all sheep and oxen,
and also the beasts of the field,
8 the birds of the air, and the fish of the sea,
whatever passes along the paths of the seas.
- 9 O LORD, our Sovereign,
how majestic is your name in all the earth!

[Psalm 9]Victory over enemies and petition for justice

- 1 I will give thanks to the LORD with my whole heart;
I will tell of all your wonderful deeds.
- 2 I will be glad and exult in you;
I will sing praise to your name, O Most High.
- 3 When my enemies turned back,
they stumbled and perished before you.
- 4 For you have maintained my just cause;
you have sat on the throne giving righteous judgment.
- 5 You have rebuked the nations, you have destroyed the wicked;
you have blotted out their name forever and ever.
- 6 The enemies have vanished in everlasting ruins;
their cities you have rooted out;
the very memory of them has perished.
- 7 But the LORD sits enthroned forever,
he has established his throne for judgment.
- 8 He judges the world with righteousness;
he judges the peoples with equity.
- 9 The LORD is a stronghold for the oppressed,
a stronghold in times of trouble.
- 10 And those who know your name put their trust in you,
for you, O LORD, have not forsaken those who seek you.
- 11 Sing praises to the LORD, who dwells in Zion.
Declare his deeds among the peoples.
- 12 For he who avenges blood is mindful of them;
he does not forget the cry of the afflicted.
- 13 Be gracious to me, O LORD.
See what I suffer from those who hate me;
you are the one who lifts me up from the gates of death,

- 14 so that I may recount all your praises,
and, in the gates of daughter Zion,
rejoice in your deliverance.
- 15 The nations have sunk in the pit that they made;
in the net that they hid has their own foot been caught.
- 16 The LORD has made himself known, he has executed judgment;
the wicked are snared in the work of their own hands.
- 17 The wicked shall depart to Sheol,
all the nations that forget God.
- 18 For the needy shall not always be forgotten,
nor the hope of the poor perish forever.
- 19 Rise up, O LORD! Do not let mortals prevail;
let the nations be judged before you.
- 20 Put them in fear, O LORD;
let the nations know that they are only human.

[Psalm 10]

- 1 Why, O LORD, do you stand far off?
Why do you hide yourself in times of trouble?
- 2 In arrogance the wicked persecute the poor —
let them be caught in the schemes they have devised.
- 3 For the wicked boast of the desires of their heart,
those greedy for gain curse and renounce the LORD.
- 4 In the pride of their countenance the wicked say, "God will not seek it out"; all their thoughts are, "There is no God."
- 5 Their ways prosper at all times;
your judgments are on high, out of their sight;
as for their foes, they scoff at them.
- 6 They think in their heart, "We shall not be moved;
throughout all generations we shall not meet adversity."

7 Their mouths are filled with cursing and deceit and oppression;
under their tongues are mischief and iniquity.

8 They sit in ambush in the villages;
in hiding places they murder the innocent.

Their eyes stealthily watch for the helpless;
9 they lurk in secret like a lion in its covert;
they lurk that they may seize the poor;
they seize the poor and drag them off in their net.

10 They stoop, they crouch,
and the helpless fall by their might.

11 They think in their heart, "God has forgotten,
he has hidden his face, he will never see it."

12 Rise up, O LORD; O God, lift up your hand;
do not forget the oppressed.

13 Why do the wicked renounce God,
and say in their hearts, "You will not call us to account"?

14 But you do see! Indeed you note trouble and grief, that you may take it into your hands;
the helpless commit themselves to you;
you have been the helper of the orphan.

15 Break the arm of the wicked and evildoers;
seek out their wickedness until you find none.

16 The LORD is king forever and ever;
the nations shall perish from his land.

17 O LORD, you will hear the desire of the meek;
you will strengthen their heart, you will incline your ear

18 to do justice for the orphan and the oppressed,
so that those from earth may strike terror no more.

[Psalm 11]The Lord, just protector of the upright

- 1 In the LORD I take refuge; how can you say to me,
 "Flee like a bird to the mountains;
- 2 for look, the wicked bend the bow,
 they have fitted their arrow to the string,
 to shoot in the dark at the upright in heart.
- 3 If the foundations are destroyed,
 what can the righteous do?"

- 4 The LORD is in his holy temple;
 the LORD's throne is in heaven.
 His eyes behold, his gaze examines humankind.
- 5 The LORD tests the righteous and the wicked,
 and his soul hates the lover of violence.
- 6 On the wicked he will rain coals of fire and sulfur;
 a scorching wind shall be the portion of their cup.
- 7 For the LORD is righteous;
 he loves righteous deeds;
 the upright shall behold his face.

[Psalm 12]Prayer for deliverance and divine response

- 1 Help, O LORD, for there is no longer anyone who is godly;
 the faithful have disappeared from humankind.
- 2 They utter lies to each other;
 with flattering lips and a double heart they speak.

- 3 May the LORD cut off all flattering lips,
 the tongue that makes great boasts,
- 4 those who say, "With our tongues we will prevail;
 our lips are our own — who is our master?"

- 5 "Because the poor are despoiled, because the needy groan,
I will now rise up," says the LORD;
"I will place them in the safety for which they long."
6 The promises of the LORD are promises that are pure, silver refined in a furnace on the ground,
purified seven times.
- 7 You, O LORD, will protect us;
you will guard us from this generation forever.
- 8 On every side the wicked prowl,
as vileness is exalted among humankind.

[Psalm 13]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 How long, O LORD? Will you forget me forever?
How long will you hide your face from me?
2 How long must I bear pain in my soul,
and have sorrow in my heart all day long?
How long shall my enemy be exalted over me?
- 3 Consider and answer me, O LORD my God!
Give light to my eyes, or I will sleep the sleep of death,
4 and my enemy will say, "I have prevailed";
my foes will rejoice because I am shaken.
- 5 But I trusted in your steadfast love;
my heart shall rejoice in your salvation.
- 6 I will sing to the LORD,
because he has dealt bountifully with me.

[Psalm 14]

Condemnation of foolish evildoers

- 1 Fools say in their hearts, "There is no God."
They are corrupt, they do abominable deeds;
there is no one who does good.

- 2 The LORD looks down from heaven on humankind
to see if there are any who are wise,
who seek after God.
- 3 They have all gone astray, they are all alike perverse;
there is no one who does good,
no, not one.
- 4 Have they no knowledge, all the evildoers
who eat up my people as they eat bread,
and do not call upon the LORD?
- 5 There they shall be in great terror,
for God is with the company of the righteous.
- 6 You would confound the plans of the poor,
but the LORD is their refuge.
- 7 O that deliverance for Israel would come from Zion!
When the LORD restores the fortunes of his people,
Jacob will rejoice; Israel will be glad.

[Psalm 15]Ritual for admission into the Temple

- 1 O LORD, who may abide in your tent?
Who may dwell on your holy hill?
- 2 Those who walk blamelessly, and do what is right,
and speak the truth from their heart;
- 3 who do not slander with their tongue,
and do no evil to their friends,
nor take up a reproach against their neighbors;
- 4 in whose eyes the wicked are despised,
but who honor those who fear the LORD;
who stand by their oath even to their hurt;

5 who do not lend money at interest,
and do not take a bribe against the innocent.

Those who do these things shall never be moved.

[Psalm 16]

A prayer for admission to the Temple

1 Protect me, O God, for in you I take refuge.

2 I say to the LORD, "You are my Lord;
I have no good apart from you."

3 As for the holy ones in the land, they are the noble,
in whom is all my delight.

4 Those who choose another god multiply their sorrows;
their drink offerings of blood I will not pour out or take their names upon my lips.

5 The LORD is my chosen portion and my cup;
you hold my lot.

6 The boundary lines have fallen for me in pleasant places;
I have a goodly heritage.

7 I bless the LORD who gives me counsel;
in the night also my heart instructs me.

8 I keep the LORD always before me;
because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved.

9 Therefore my heart is glad, and my soul rejoices;
my body also rests secure.

10 For you do not give me up to Sheol,
or let your faithful one see the Pit.

11 You show me the path of life.
In your presence there is fullness of joy;
in your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

[Psalm 17]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Hear a just cause, O LORD; attend to my cry;
 give ear to my prayer from lips free of deceit.
- 2 From you let my vindication come;
 let your eyes see the right.

- 3 If you try my heart, if you visit me by night,
 if you test me, you will find no wickedness in me;
 my mouth does not transgress.
- 4 As for what others do, by the word of your lips
 I have avoided the ways of the violent.
- 5 My steps have held fast to your paths;
 my feet have not slipped.

- 6 I call upon you, for you will answer me, O God;
 incline your ear to me, hear my words.
- 7 Wondrously show your steadfast love,
 O savior of those who seek refuge
 from their adversaries at your right hand.

- 8 Guard me as the apple of the eye;
 hide me in the shadow of your wings,
- 9 from the wicked who despoil me,
 my deadly enemies who surround me.
- 10 They close their hearts to pity;
 with their mouths they speak arrogantly.
- 11 They track me down; now they surround me;
 they set their eyes to cast me to the ground.
- 12 They are like a lion eager to tear,
 like a young lion lurking in ambush.

- 13 Rise up, O LORD, confront them, overthrow them!
 By your sword deliver my life from the wicked,
 14 from mortals — by your hand, O LORD —
 from mortals whose portion in life is in this world.
 May their bellies be filled with what you have stored up for them;
 may their children have more than enough;
 may they leave something over to their little ones.
- 15 As for me, I shall behold your face in righteousness;
 when I awake I shall be satisfied, beholding your likeness.

[Psalm 18]

A royal thanksgiving hymn

- 1 I love you, O LORD, my strength.
 2 The LORD is my rock, my fortress, and my deliverer,
 my God, my rock in whom I take refuge,
 my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold.
 3 I call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praised,
 so I shall be saved from my enemies.
- 4 The cords of death encompassed me;
 the torrents of perdition assailed me;
 5 the cords of Sheol entangled me;
 the snares of death confronted me.
- 6 In my distress I called upon the LORD;
 to my God I cried for help.
 From his temple he heard my voice,
 and my cry to him reached his ears.
- 7 Then the earth reeled and rocked;
 the foundations also of the mountains trembled
 and quaked, because he was angry.
 8 Smoke went up from his nostrils,
 and devouring fire from his mouth;
 glowing coals flamed forth from him.

- 9 He bowed the heavens, and came down;
thick darkness was under his feet.
- 10 He rode on a cherub, and flew;
he came swiftly upon the wings of the wind.
- 11 He made darkness his covering around him,
his canopy thick clouds dark with water.
- 12 Out of the brightness before him
there broke through his clouds hailstones and coals of fire.
- 13 The LORD also thundered in the heavens,
and the Most High uttered his voice.
- 14 And he sent out his arrows, and scattered them;
he flashed forth lightnings, and routed them.
- 15 Then the channels of the sea were seen,
and the foundations of the world were laid bare
at your rebuke, O LORD,
at the blast of the breath of your nostrils.
- 16 He reached down from on high, he took me;
he drew me out of mighty waters.
- 17 He delivered me from my strong enemy,
and from those who hated me;
for they were too mighty for me.
- 18 They confronted me in the day of my calamity;
but the LORD was my support.
- 19 He brought me out into a broad place;
he delivered me, because he delighted in me.
- 20 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness;
according to the cleanness of my hands he recompensed me.
- 21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD,
and have not wickedly departed from my God.
- 22 For all his ordinances were before me,
and his statutes I did not put away from me.
- 23 I was blameless before him,
and I kept myself from guilt.

- 24 Therefore the LORD has recompensed me according to my righteousness, according to the cleanness of my hands in his sight.
- 25 With the loyal you show yourself loyal;
with the blameless you show yourself blameless;
- 26 with the pure you show yourself pure;
and with the crooked you show yourself perverse.
- 27 For you deliver a humble people,
but the haughty eyes you bring down.
- 28 It is you who light my lamp;
the LORD, my God, lights up my darkness.
- 29 By you I can crush a troop,
and by my God I can leap over a wall.
- 30 This God — his way is perfect;
the promise of the LORD proves true;
he is a shield for all who take refuge in him.
- 31 For who is God except the LORD?
And who is a rock besides our God? —
- 32 the God who girded me with strength, and made my way safe.
- 33 He made my feet like the feet of a deer,
and set me secure on the heights.
- 34 He trains my hands for war,
so that my arms can bend a bow of bronze.
- 35 You have given me the shield of your salvation,
and your right hand has supported me;
your help has made me great.
- 36 You gave me a wide place for my steps under me,
and my feet did not slip.
- 37 I pursued my enemies and overtook them;
and did not turn back until they were consumed.
- 38 I struck them down, so that they were not able to rise;
they fell under my feet.
- 39 For you girded me with strength for the battle;
you made my assailants sink under me.
- 40 You made my enemies turn their backs to me,
and those who hated me I destroyed.

41 They cried for help, but there was no one to save them;
they cried to the LORD, but he did not answer them.

42 I beat them fine, like dust before the wind;
I cast them out like the mire of the streets.

43 You delivered me from strife with the peoples;
you made me head of the nations;
people whom I had not known served me.

44 As soon as they heard of me they obeyed me;
foreigners came cringing to me.

45 Foreigners lost heart,
and came trembling out of their strongholds.

46 The LORD lives! Blessed be my rock,
and exalted be the God of my salvation,

47 the God who gave me vengeance
and subdued peoples under me;

48 who delivered me from my enemies;
indeed, you exalted me above my adversaries;
you delivered me from the violent.

49 For this I will extol you, O LORD, among the nations,
and sing praises to your name.

50 Great triumphs he gives to his king,
and shows steadfast love to his anointed,
to David and his descendants forever.

[Psalm 19]

Hymn to God the creator and lawgiver

1 The heavens are telling the glory of God;
and the firmament proclaims his handiwork.

2 Day to day pours forth speech,
and night to night declares knowledge.

3 There is no speech, nor are there words;
their voice is not heard;

4 yet their voice goes out through all the earth,
and their words to the end of the world.

In the heavens he has set a tent for the sun,
5 which comes out like a bridegroom from his wedding canopy,
and like a strong man runs its course with joy.

6 Its rising is from the end of the heavens,
and its circuit to the end of them;
and nothing is hid from its heat.

7 The law of the LORD is perfect,
reviving the soul;
the decrees of the LORD are sure,
making wise the simple;
8 the precepts of the LORD are right,
rejoicing the heart;
the commandment of the LORD is clear,
enlightening the eyes;
9 the fear of the LORD is pure,
enduring forever;
the ordinances of the LORD are true
and righteous altogether.

10 More to be desired are they than gold,
even much fine gold;
sweeter also than honey,
and drippings of the honeycomb.

11 Moreover by them is your servant warned;
in keeping them there is great reward.
12 But who can detect their errors?
Clear me from hidden faults.
13 Keep back your servant also from the insolent;
do not let them have dominion over me.
Then I shall be blameless,
and innocent of great transgression.

14 Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable to you,
O LORD, my rock and my redeemer.

[Psalm 20]Prayer for the king's victory in battle

- 1 The LORD answer you in the day of trouble!
The name of the God of Jacob protect you!
- 2 May he send you help from the sanctuary,
and give you support from Zion.
- 3 May he remember all your offerings,
and regard with favor your burnt sacrifices.
- 4 May he grant you your heart's desire,
and fulfill all your plans.
- 5 May we shout for joy over your victory,
and in the name of our God set up our banners.
May the LORD fulfill all your petitions.
- 6 Now I know that the LORD will help his anointed;
he will answer him from his holy heaven
with mighty victories by his right hand.
- 7 Some take pride in chariots, and some in horses,
but our pride is in the name of the LORD our God.
- 8 They will collapse and fall,
but we shall rise and stand upright.
- 9 Give victory to the king, O LORD;
answer us when we call.

[Psalm 21]Royal thanksgiving for victory

- 1 In your strength the king rejoices, O LORD,
and in your help how greatly he exults!
- 2 You have given him his heart's desire,
and have not withheld the request of his lips.
- 3 For you meet him with rich blessings;
you set a crown of fine gold on his head.
- 4 He asked you for life; you gave it to him —
length of days forever and ever.

- 5 His glory is great through your help;
splendor and majesty you bestow on him.
- 6 You bestow on him blessings forever;
you make him glad with the joy of your presence.
- 7 For the king trusts in the LORD, and through the steadfast love of the Most High he shall not be moved.
- 8 Your hand will find out all your enemies;
your right hand will find out those who hate you.
- 9 You will make them like a fiery furnace
when you appear.
The LORD will swallow them up in his wrath,
and fire will consume them.
- 10 You will destroy their offspring from the earth,
and their children from among humankind.
- 11 If they plan evil against you,
if they devise mischief, they will not succeed.
- 12 For you will put them to flight;
you will aim at their faces with your bows.
- 13 Be exalted, O LORD, in your strength!
We will sing and praise your power.

[Psalm 22]

Prayer of a person abandoned by God

- 1 My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?
Why are you so far from helping me, from the words of my groaning?
- 2 O my God, I cry by day, but you do not answer;
and by night, but find no rest.
- 3 Yet you are holy,
enthroned on the praises of Israel.
- 4 In you our ancestors trusted;
they trusted, and you delivered them.

- 5 To you they cried, and were saved;
in you they trusted, and were not put to shame.
- 6 But I am a worm, and not human;
scorned by others, and despised by the people.
- 7 All who see me mock at me;
they make mouths at me, they shake their heads;
- 8 "Commit your cause to the LORD; let him deliver — let him rescue the one in whom he delights!"
- 9 Yet it was you who took me from the womb;
you kept me safe on my mother's breast.
- 10 On you I was cast from my birth, and since my mother bore me you have been my God.
- 11 Do not be far from me,
for trouble is near
and there is no one to help.
- 12 Many bulls encircle me,
strong bulls of Bashan surround me;
- 13 they open wide their mouths at me,
like a ravening and roaring lion.
- 14 I am poured out like water,
and all my bones are out of joint;
my heart is like wax;
it is melted within my breast;
- 15 my mouth is dried up like a potsherd,
and my tongue sticks to my jaws;
you lay me in the dust of death.
- 16 For dogs are all around me;
a company of evildoers encircles me.
My hands and feet have shriveled;
- 17 I can count all my bones.
They stare and gloat over me;
- 18 they divide my clothes among themselves,
and for my clothing they cast lots.

- 19 But you, O LORD, do not be far away!
 O my help, come quickly to my aid!
20 Deliver my soul from the sword,
 my life from the power of the dog!
21 Save me from the mouth of the lion!

From the horns of the wild oxen you have rescued me.

- 22 I will tell of your name to my brothers and sisters;
 in the midst of the congregation I will praise you:
23 You who fear the LORD, praise him!
 All you offspring of Jacob, glorify him;
 stand in awe of him, all you offspring of Israel!
24 For he did not despise or abhor
 the affliction of the afflicted;
 he did not hide his face from me,
 but heard when I cried to him.

- 25 From you comes my praise in the great congregation;
 my vows I will pay before those who fear him.
26 The poor shall eat and be satisfied;
 those who seek him shall praise the LORD.
 May your hearts live forever!

- 27 All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the LORD;
 and all the families of the nations
 shall worship before him.

- 28 For dominion belongs to the LORD,
 and he rules over the nations.

- 29 To him, indeed, shall all who sleep in the earth bow down;
 before him shall bow all who go down to the dust,
 and I shall live for him.

- 30 Posterity will serve him;
 future generations will be told about the Lord, 31 and proclaim his deliverance to a people yet unborn,
 saying that he has done it.

[Psalm 23]The Lord as Shepherd-king and host

- 1 The LORD is my shepherd, I shall not want.
 2 He makes me lie down in green pastures;
 he leads me beside still waters;
 3 he restores my soul.
 He leads me in right paths
 for his name's sake.
- 4 Even though I walk through the darkest valley,
 I fear no evil;
 for you are with me;
 your rod and your staff —
 they comfort me.
- 5 You prepare a table before me
 in the presence of my enemies;
 you anoint my head with oil;
 my cup overflows.
- 6 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
 all the days of my life,
 and I shall dwell in the house of the LORD
 my whole life long.

[Psalm 24]A liturgy on entering the sanctuary

- 1 The earth is the LORD's and all that is in it,
 the world, and those who live in it;
 2 for he has founded it on the seas,
 and established it on the rivers.
- 3 Who shall ascend the hill of the LORD?
 And who shall stand in his holy place?
 4 Those who have clean hands and pure hearts,
 who do not lift up their souls to what is false,
 and do not swear deceitfully.

5 They will receive blessing from the LORD,
and vindication from the God of their salvation.

6 Such is the company of those who seek him,
who seek the face of the God of Jacob.

7 Lift up your heads, O gates!
and be lifted up, O ancient doors!
that the King of glory may come in.

8 Who is the King of glory?
The LORD, strong and mighty,
the LORD, mighty in battle.

9 Lift up your heads, O gates!
and be lifted up, O ancient doors!
that the King of glory may come in.

10 Who is this King of glory?
The LORD of hosts,
he is the King of glory.

[Psalm 25]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 To you, O LORD, I lift up my soul.

2 O my God, in you I trust;
do not let me be put to shame;
do not let my enemies exult over me.

3 Do not let those who wait for you be put to shame;
let them be ashamed who are wantonly treacherous.

4 Make me to know your ways, O LORD;
teach me your paths.

5 Lead me in your truth, and teach me,
for you are the God of my salvation;
for you I wait all day long.

6 Be mindful of your mercy, O LORD, and of your steadfast love,
for they have been from of old.

- 7 Do not remember the sins of my youth or my transgressions;
according to your steadfast love remember me,
for your goodness' sake, O LORD!
- 8 Good and upright is the LORD;
therefore he instructs sinners in the way.
- 9 He leads the humble in what is right,
and teaches the humble his way.
- 10 All the paths of the LORD are steadfast love and faithfulness,
for those who keep his covenant and his decrees.
- 11 For your name's sake, O LORD,
pardon my guilt, for it is great.
- 12 Who are they that fear the LORD?
He will teach them the way that they should choose.
- 13 They will abide in prosperity,
and their children shall possess the land.
- 14 The friendship of the LORD is for those who fear him,
and he makes his covenant known to them.
- 15 My eyes are ever toward the LORD,
for he will pluck my feet out of the net.
- 16 Turn to me and be gracious to me,
for I am lonely and afflicted.
- 17 Relieve the troubles of my heart,
and bring me out of my distress.
- 18 Consider my affliction and my trouble,
and forgive all my sins.
- 19 Consider how many are my foes,
and with what violent hatred they hate me.
- 20 O guard my life, and deliver me;
do not let me be put to shame, for I take refuge in you.
- 21 May integrity and uprightness preserve me,
for I wait for you.
- 22 Redeem Israel, O God,
out of all its troubles.

[Psalm 26]
Prayer for divine justice

- 1 Vindicate me, O LORD,
for I have walked in my integrity,
and I have trusted in the LORD without wavering.
- 2 Prove me, O LORD, and try me;
test my heart and mind.
- 3 For your steadfast love is before my eyes,
and I walk in faithfulness to you.

- 4 I do not sit with the worthless,
nor do I consort with hypocrites;
- 5 I hate the company of evildoers,
and will not sit with the wicked.

- 6 I wash my hands in innocence,
and go around your altar, O LORD,
- 7 singing aloud a song of thanksgiving,
and telling all your wondrous deeds.
- 8 O LORD, I love the house in which you dwell,
and the place where your glory abides.
- 9 Do not sweep me away with sinners,
nor my life with the bloodthirsty,
- 10 those in whose hands are evil devices,
and whose right hands are full of bribes.

- 11 But as for me, I walk in my integrity;
redeem me, and be gracious to me.
- 12 My foot stands on level ground;
in the great congregation I will bless the LORD.

[Psalm 27]Protection in the Temple of the trustworthy God

- 1 The LORD is my light and my salvation;
whom shall I fear?
The LORD is the stronghold of my life;
of whom shall I be afraid?
- 2 When evildoers assail me to devour my flesh —
my adversaries and foes —
they shall stumble and fall.
- 3 Though an army encamp against me,
my heart shall not fear;
though war rise up against me,
yet I will be confident.
- 4 One thing I asked of the LORD,
that will I seek after:
to live in the house of the LORD
all the days of my life,
to behold the beauty of the LORD,
and to inquire in his temple.
- 5 For he will hide me in his shelter
in the day of trouble;
he will conceal me under the cover of his tent;
he will set me high on a rock.
- 6 Now my head is lifted up above my enemies all around me,
and I will offer in his tent
sacrifices with shouts of joy;
I will sing and make melody to the LORD.

- 7 Hear, O LORD, when I cry aloud,
 be gracious to me and answer me!
 8 "Come," my heart says, "seek his face!"
 Your face, LORD, do I seek.
 9 Do not hide your face from me.

- Do not turn your servant away in anger,
 you who have been my help.
 Do not cast me off, do not forsake me,
 O God of my salvation!
 10 If my father and mother forsake me,
 the LORD will take me up.

- 11 Teach me your way, O LORD,
 and lead me on a level path
 because of my enemies.
 12 Do not give me up to the will of my adversaries,
 for false witnesses have risen against me,
 and they are breathing out violence.

- 13 I believe that I shall see the goodness of the LORD
 in the land of the living.
 14 Wait for the LORD;
 be strong, and let your heart take courage;
 wait for the LORD!

[Psalm 28]

Royal plea for deliverance from enemies

- 1 To you, O LORD, I call;
 my rock, do not refuse to hear me,
 for if you are silent to me,
 I shall be like those who go down to the Pit.
 2 Hear the voice of my supplication,
 as I cry to you for help,
 as I lift up my hands
 toward your most holy sanctuary.

- 3 Do not drag me away with the wicked,
with those who are workers of evil,
who speak peace with their neighbors,
while mischief is in their hearts.
- 4 Repay them according to their work,
and according to the evil of their deeds;
repay them according to the work of their hands;
render them their due reward.
- 5 Because they do not regard the works of the LORD,
or the work of his hands,
he will break them down and build them up no more.
- 6 Blessed be the LORD,
for he has heard the sound of my pleadings.
- 7 The LORD is my strength and my shield;
in him my heart trusts;
so I am helped, and my heart exults,
and with my song I give thanks to him.
- 8 The LORD is the strength of his people;
he is the saving refuge of his anointed.
- 9 O save your people, and bless your heritage;
be their shepherd, and carry them forever.

[Psalm 29]Hymn to the God of the storm

- 1 Ascribe to the LORD, O heavenly beings,
ascribe to the LORD glory and strength.
- 2 Ascribe to the LORD the glory of his name;
worship the LORD in holy splendor.
- 3 The voice of the LORD is over the waters;
the God of glory thunders,
the LORD, over mighty waters.
- 4 The voice of the LORD is powerful;
the voice of the LORD is full of majesty.

- 5 The voice of the LORD breaks the cedars;
the LORD breaks the cedars of Lebanon.
- 6 He makes Lebanon skip like a calf,
and Sirion like a young wild ox.
- 7 The voice of the LORD flashes forth flames of fire.
- 8 The voice of the LORD shakes the wilderness;
the LORD shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.
- 9 The voice of the LORD causes the oaks to whirl,
and strips the forest bare;
and in his temple all say, "Glory!"
- 10 The LORD sits enthroned over the flood;
the LORD sits enthroned as king forever.
- 11 May the LORD give strength to his people!
May the LORD bless his people with peace!

[Psalm 30]

Thanksgiving after recovery from illness

- 1 I will extol you, O LORD, for you have drawn me up,
and did not let my foes rejoice over me.
- 2 O LORD my God, I cried to you for help,
and you have healed me.
- 3 O LORD, you brought up my soul from Sheol, restored me to life from among those gone down to the Pit.
- 4 Sing praises to the LORD, O you his faithful ones,
and give thanks to his holy name.
- 5 For his anger is but for a moment;
his favor is for a lifetime.
Weeping may linger for the night,
but joy comes with the morning.
- 6 As for me, I said in my prosperity,
"I shall never be moved."

7 By your favor, O LORD,
 you had established me as a strong mountain;
 you hid your face;
 I was dismayed.

8 To you, O LORD, I cried,
 and to the LORD I made supplication:

9 "What profit is there in my death,
 if I go down to the Pit?

 Will the dust praise you?

 Will it tell of your faithfulness?

10 Hear, O LORD, and be gracious to me!
 O LORD, be my helper!"

11 You have turned my mourning into dancing;
 you have taken off my sackcloth
 and clothed me with joy,

12 so that my soul may praise you and not be silent.
 O LORD my God, I will give thanks to you forever.

[Psalm 31]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 In you, O LORD, I seek refuge;
 do not let me ever be put to shame;
 in your righteousness deliver me.

2 Incline your ear to me;
 rescue me speedily.
 Be a rock of refuge for me,
 a strong fortress to save me.

3 You are indeed my rock and my fortress;
 for your name's sake lead me and guide me,

4 take me out of the net that is hidden for me,
 for you are my refuge.

5 Into your hand I commit my spirit;
 you have redeemed me, O LORD, faithful God.

- 6 You hate those who pay regard to worthless idols,
but I trust in the LORD.
- 7 I will exult and rejoice in your steadfast love,
because you have seen my affliction;
you have taken heed of my adversities,
- 8 and have not delivered me into the hand of the enemy;
you have set my feet in a broad place.
- 9 Be gracious to me, O LORD, for I am in distress;
my eye wastes away from grief,
my soul and body also.
- 10 For my life is spent with sorrow,
and my years with sighing;
my strength fails because of my misery,
and my bones waste away.
- 11 I am the scorn of all my adversaries,
a horror to my neighbors,
an object of dread to my acquaintances;
those who see me in the street flee from me.
- 12 I have passed out of mind like one who is dead;
I have become like a broken vessel.
- 13 For I hear the whispering of many — terror all around! —
as they scheme together against me,
as they plot to take my life.
- 14 But I trust in you, O LORD;
I say, "You are my God."
- 15 My times are in your hand;
deliver me from the hand of my enemies and persecutors.
- 16 Let your face shine upon your servant;
save me in your steadfast love.
- 17 Do not let me be put to shame, O LORD,
for I call on you;
let the wicked be put to shame;
let them go dumbfounded to Sheol.

- 18 Let the lying lips be stilled
that speak insolently against the righteous with pride and contempt.
- 19 O how abundant is your goodness
that you have laid up for those who fear you,
and accomplished for those who take refuge in you,
in the sight of everyone!
- 20 In the shelter of your presence you hide them
from human plots;
you hold them safe under your shelter
from contentious tongues.
- 21 Blessed be the LORD,
for he has wondrously shown his steadfast love to me when I was beset as a city under siege.
- 22 I had said in my alarm,
"I am driven far from your sight."
But you heard my supplications
when I cried out to you for help.
- 23 Love the LORD, all you his saints.
The LORD preserves the faithful,
but abundantly repays the one who acts haughtily.
- 24 Be strong, and let your heart take courage,
all you who wait for the LORD.

[Psalm 32]

The happiness of the penitent and forgiven

- 1 Happy are those whose transgression is forgiven,
whose sin is covered.
- 2 Happy are those to whom the LORD imputes no iniquity,
and in whose spirit there is no deceit.

- 3 While I kept silence, my body wasted away through my groaning all day long.
- 4 For day and night your hand was heavy upon me;
my strength was dried up as by the heat of summer.
- 5 Then I acknowledged my sin to you,
and I did not hide my iniquity;
I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD,"
and you forgave the guilt of my sin.
- 6 Therefore let all who are faithful offer prayer to you;
at a time of distress, the rush of mighty waters
shall not reach them.
- 7 You are a hiding place for me;
you preserve me from trouble;
you surround me with glad cries of deliverance.
- 8 I will instruct you and teach you the way you should go;
I will counsel you with my eye upon you.
- 9 Do not be like a horse or a mule, without understanding,
whose temper must be curbed with bit and bridle,
else it will not stay near you.
- 10 Many are the torments of the wicked,
but steadfast love surrounds those who trust in the LORD.
- 11 Be glad in the LORD and rejoice, O righteous,
and shout for joy, all you upright in heart.

[Psalm 33]Praise of God, creator and redeemer

- 1 Rejoice in the LORD, O you righteous.
Praise befits the upright.
- 2 Praise the LORD with the lyre;
make melody to him with the harp of ten strings.
- 3 Sing to him a new song;
play skillfully on the strings, with loud shouts.

- 4 For the word of the LORD is upright,
and all his work is done in faithfulness.
- 5 He loves righteousness and justice;
the earth is full of the steadfast love of the LORD.
- 6 By the word of the LORD the heavens were made,
and all their host by the breath of his mouth.
- 7 He gathered the waters of the sea as in a bottle;
he put the deeps in storehouses.
- 8 Let all the earth fear the LORD;
let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him.
- 9 For he spoke, and it came to be;
he commanded, and it stood firm.
- 10 The LORD brings the counsel of the nations to nothing;
he frustrates the plans of the peoples.
- 11 The counsel of the LORD stands forever,
the thoughts of his heart to all generations.
- 12 Happy is the nation whose God is the LORD,
the people whom he has chosen as his heritage.
- 13 The LORD looks down from heaven;
he sees all humankind.
- 14 From where he sits enthroned he watches
all the inhabitants of the earth —
- 15 he who fashions the hearts of them all,
and observes all their deeds.
- 16 A king is not saved by his great army;
a warrior is not delivered by his great strength.
- 17 The war horse is a vain hope for victory,
and by its great might it cannot save.
- 18 Truly the eye of the LORD is on those who fear him,
on those who hope in his steadfast love,
- 19 to deliver their soul from death,
and to keep them alive in famine.

- 20 Our soul waits for the LORD;
 he is our help and shield.
- 21 Our heart is glad in him,
 because we trust in his holy name.
- 22 Let your steadfast love, O LORD, be upon us,
 even as we hope in you.

[Psalm 34]

Prayer for deliverance from trouble

- 1 I will bless the LORD at all times;
 his praise shall continually be in my mouth.
- 2 My soul makes its boast in the LORD;
 let the humble hear and be glad.
- 3 O magnify the LORD with me,
 and let us exalt his name together.
- 4 I sought the LORD, and he answered me,
 and delivered me from all my fears.
- 5 Look to him, and be radiant;
 so your faces shall never be ashamed.
- 6 This poor soul cried, and was heard by the LORD,
 and was saved from every trouble.
- 7 The angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them.
- 8 O taste and see that the LORD is good;
 happy are those who take refuge in him.
- 9 O fear the LORD, you his holy ones,
 for those who fear him have no want.
- 10 The young lions suffer want and hunger,
 but those who seek the LORD lack no good thing.
- 11 Come, O children, listen to me;
 I will teach you the fear of the LORD.
- 12 Which of you desires life,
 and covets many days to enjoy good?
- 13 Keep your tongue from evil,
 and your lips from speaking deceit.

- 14 Depart from evil, and do good;
seek peace, and pursue it.
- 15 The eyes of the LORD are on the righteous,
and his ears are open to their cry.
- 16 The face of the LORD is against evildoers,
to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.
- 17 When the righteous cry for help, the LORD hears,
and rescues them from all their troubles.
- 18 The LORD is near to the brokenhearted,
and saves the crushed in spirit.
- 19 Many are the afflictions of the righteous,
but the LORD rescues them from them all.
- 20 He keeps all their bones;
not one of them will be broken.
- 21 Evil brings death to the wicked,
and those who hate the righteous will be condemned.
- 22 The LORD redeems the life of his servants;
none of those who take refuge in him will be condemned.

[Psalm 35]

Royal prayer for deliverance

- 1 Contend, O LORD, with those who contend with me;
fight against those who fight against me!
- 2 Take hold of shield and buckler,
and rise up to help me!
- 3 Draw the spear and javelin
against my pursuers;
say to my soul,
"I am your salvation."
- 4 Let them be put to shame and dishonor
who seek after my life.
Let them be turned back and confounded who devise evil against me.
- 5 Let them be like chaff before the wind,
with the angel of the LORD driving them on.

- 6 Let their way be dark and slippery,
with the angel of the LORD pursuing them.
- 7 For without cause they hid their net for me;
without cause they dug a pit for my life.
- 8 Let ruin come on them unawares.
And let the net that they hid ensnare them;
let them fall in it — to their ruin.
- 9 Then my soul shall rejoice in the LORD,
exulting in his deliverance.
- 10 All my bones shall say,
"O LORD, who is like you?
You deliver the weak
from those too strong for them,
the weak and needy from those who despoil them."
- 11 Malicious witnesses rise up;
they ask me about things I do not know.
- 12 They repay me evil for good;
my soul is forlorn.
- 13 But as for me, when they were sick,
I wore sackcloth;
I afflicted myself with fasting.
I prayed with head bowed on my bosom,
as though I grieved for a friend or a brother;
- 14 I went about as one who laments for a mother,
bowed down and in mourning.
- 15 But at my stumbling they gathered in glee,
they gathered together against me;
ruffians whom I did not know
tore at me without ceasing;
- 16 they impiously mocked more and more,
gnashing at me with their teeth.

- 17 How long, O LORD, will you look on?
Rescue me from their ravages,
my life from the lions!
- 18 Then I will thank you in the great congregation;
in the mighty throng I will praise you.
- 19 Do not let my treacherous enemies rejoice over me,
or those who hate me without cause wink the eye.
- 20 For they do not speak peace,
but they conceive deceitful words
against those who are quiet in the land.
- 21 They open wide their mouths against me;
they say, "Aha, Aha,
our eyes have seen it."
- 22 You have seen, O LORD; do not be silent!
O Lord, do not be far from me!
- 23 Wake up! Bestir yourself for my defense, for my cause, my God and my Lord!
- 24 Vindicate me, O LORD, my God,
according to your righteousness,
and do not let them rejoice over me.
- 25 Do not let them say to themselves,
"Aha, we have our heart's desire."
Do not let them say, "We have swallowed you up."
- 26 Let all those who rejoice at my calamity
be put to shame and confusion;
let those who exalt themselves against me
be clothed with shame and dishonor.
- 27 Let those who desire my vindication
shout for joy and be glad,
and say evermore,
"Great is the LORD,
who delights in the welfare of his servant."
- 28 Then my tongue shall tell of your righteousness
and of your praise all day long.

[Psalm 36]Hymn of rejoicing in the Temple

- 1 Transgression speaks to the wicked
 deep in their hearts;
 there is no fear of God
 before their eyes.
- 2 For they flatter themselves in their own eyes
 that their iniquity cannot be found out and hated.
- 3 The words of their mouths are mischief and deceit;
 they have ceased to act wisely and do good.
- 4 They plot mischief while on their beds;
 they are set on a way that is not good;
 they do not reject evil.

- 5 Your steadfast love, O LORD, extends to the heavens,
 your faithfulness to the clouds.
- 6 Your righteousness is like the mighty mountains,
 your judgments are like the great deep;
 you save humans and animals alike, O LORD.

- 7 How precious is your steadfast love, O God!
 All people may take refuge in the shadow of your wings.
- 8 They feast on the abundance of your house,
 and you give them drink from the river of your delights.
- 9 For with you is the fountain of life;
 in your light we see light.

- 10 O continue your steadfast love to those who know you,
 and your salvation to the upright of heart!
- 11 Do not let the foot of the arrogant tread on me,
 or the hand of the wicked drive me away.
- 12 There the evildoers lie prostrate;
 they are thrust down, unable to rise.

[Psalm 37]The certainty of retribution

- 1 Do not fret because of the wicked;
do not be envious of wrongdoers,
- 2 for they will soon fade like the grass,
and wither like the green herb.

- 3 Trust in the LORD, and do good;
so you will live in the land, and enjoy security.
- 4 Take delight in the LORD,
and he will give you the desires of your heart.

- 5 Commit your way to the LORD;
trust in him, and he will act.
- 6 He will make your vindication shine like the light,
and the justice of your cause like the noonday.

- 7 Be still before the LORD, and wait patiently for him;
do not fret over those who prosper in their way,
over those who carry out evil devices.

- 8 Refrain from anger, and forsake wrath.
Do not fret — it leads only to evil.
- 9 For the wicked shall be cut off,
but those who wait for the LORD shall inherit the land.

- 10 Yet a little while, and the wicked will be no more;
though you look diligently for their place, they will not be there.
- 11 But the meek shall inherit the land,
and delight themselves in abundant prosperity.

- 12 The wicked plot against the righteous,
and gnash their teeth at them;
- 13 but the LORD laughs at the wicked,
for he sees that their day is coming.

- 14 The wicked draw the sword and bend their bows
to bring down the poor and needy,
to kill those who walk uprightly;
15 their sword shall enter their own heart,
and their bows shall be broken.
- 16 Better is a little that the righteous person has
than the abundance of many wicked.
17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken,
but the LORD upholds the righteous.
- 18 The LORD knows the days of the blameless,
and their heritage will abide forever;
19 they are not put to shame in evil times,
in the days of famine they have abundance.
- 20 But the wicked perish,
and the enemies of the LORD are like the glory of the pastures;
they vanish — like smoke they vanish away.
- 21 The wicked borrow, and do not pay back,
but the righteous are generous and keep giving;
22 for those blessed by the LORD shall inherit the land,
but those cursed by him shall be cut off.
- 23 Our steps are made firm by the LORD,
when he delights in our way;
24 though we stumble, we shall not fall headlong,
for the LORD holds us by the hand.
- 25 I have been young, and now am old,
yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken or their children begging bread.
26 They are ever giving liberally and lending,
and their children become a blessing.

27 Depart from evil, and do good;
so you shall abide forever.

28 For the LORD loves justice;
he will not forsake his faithful ones.

The righteous shall be kept safe forever,
but the children of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 The righteous shall inherit the land,
and live in it forever.

30 The mouths of the righteous utter wisdom,
and their tongues speak justice.

31 The law of their God is in their hearts;
their steps do not slip.

32 The wicked watch for the righteous,
and seek to kill them.

33 The LORD will not abandon them to their power, or let them be condemned when they are brought to trial.

34 Wait for the LORD, and keep to his way,
and he will exalt you to inherit the land;
you will look on the destruction of the wicked.

35 I have seen the wicked oppressing,
and towering like a cedar of Lebanon.

36 Again I passed by, and they were no more;
though I sought them, they could not be found.

37 Mark the blameless, and behold the upright,
for there is posterity for the peaceable.

38 But transgressors shall be altogether destroyed;
the posterity of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 The salvation of the righteous is from the LORD;
he is their refuge in the time of trouble.

40 The LORD helps them and rescues them;
he rescues them from the wicked, and saves them,
because they take refuge in him.

[Psalm 38]Prayer for healing

- 1 O LORD, do not rebuke me in your anger,
or discipline me in your wrath.
- 2 For your arrows have sunk into me,
and your hand has come down on me.

- 3 There is no soundness in my flesh
because of your indignation;
there is no health in my bones
because of my sin.
- 4 For my iniquities have gone over my head;
they weigh like a burden too heavy for me.

- 5 My wounds grow foul and fester
because of my foolishness;
- 6 I am utterly bowed down and prostrate;
all day long I go around mourning.
- 7 For my loins are filled with burning,
and there is no soundness in my flesh.
- 8 I am utterly spent and crushed;
I groan because of the tumult of my heart.

- 9 O Lord, all my longing is known to you;
my sighing is not hidden from you.
- 10 My heart throbs, my strength fails me;
as for the light of my eyes — it also has gone from me.
- 11 My friends and companions stand aloof from my affliction,
and my neighbors stand far off.

- 12 Those who seek my life lay their snares;
those who seek to hurt me speak of ruin,
and meditate treachery all day long.

- 13 But I am like the deaf, I do not hear;
like the mute, who cannot speak.
- 14 Truly, I am like one who does not hear,
and in whose mouth is no retort.
- 15 But it is for you, O LORD, that I wait;
it is you, O Lord my God, who will answer.
- 16 For I pray, "Only do not let them rejoice over me,
those who boast against me when my foot slips."
- 17 For I am ready to fall,
and my pain is ever with me.
- 18 I confess my iniquity;
I am sorry for my sin.
- 19 Those who are my foes without cause are mighty,
and many are those who hate me wrongfully.
- 20 Those who render me evil for good are my adversaries because I follow after good.
- 21 Do not forsake me, O LORD;
O my God, do not be far from me;
- 22 make haste to help me,
O Lord, my salvation.

[Psalm 39]

The brevity of human life

- 1 I said, "I will guard my ways
that I may not sin with my tongue;
I will keep a muzzle on my mouth
as long as the wicked are in my presence."
- 2 I was silent and still;
I held my peace to no avail;
my distress grew worse,
- 3 my heart became hot within me.
While I mused, the fire burned;
then I spoke with my tongue:

- 4 "LORD, let me know my end,
and what is the measure of my days;
let me know how fleeting my life is.
- 5 You have made my days a few handbreadths,
and my lifetime is as nothing in your sight.
Surely everyone stands as a mere breath.
- 6 Surely everyone goes about like a shadow.
Surely for nothing they are in turmoil;
they heap up, and do not know who will gather.
- 7 "And now, O Lord, what do I wait for?
My hope is in you.
- 8 Deliver me from all my transgressions.
Do not make me the scorn of the fool.
- 9 I am silent; I do not open my mouth,
for it is you who have done it.
- 10 Remove your stroke from me;
I am worn down by the blows of your hand.
- 11 "You chastise mortals
in punishment for sin,
consuming like a moth what is dear to them;
surely everyone is a mere breath.
- 12 "Hear my prayer, O LORD,
and give ear to my cry;
do not hold your peace at my tears.
For I am your passing guest,
an alien, like all my forebears.
- 13 Turn your gaze away from me, that I may smile again, before I depart and am no more."

[Psalm 40]Thanksgiving for deliverance and prayer for help

- 1 I waited patiently for the LORD;
 he inclined to me and heard my cry.
- 2 He drew me up from the desolate pit,
 out of the miry bog,
 and set my feet upon a rock,
 making my steps secure.
- 3 He put a new song in my mouth, a song of praise to our God.
 Many will see and fear,
 and put their trust in the LORD.
- 4 Happy are those who make the LORD their trust,
 who do not turn to the proud,
 to those who go astray after false gods.
- 5 You have multiplied, O LORD my God,
 your wondrous deeds and your thoughts toward us;
 none can compare with you.
 Were I to proclaim and tell of them,
 they would be more than can be counted.

- 6 Sacrifice and offering you do not desire,
 but you have given me an open ear.
 Burnt offering and sin offering
 you have not required.
- 7 Then I said, "Here I am;
 in the scroll of the book it is written of me.
- 8 I delight to do your will, O my God;
 your law is within my heart."

- 9 I have told the glad news of deliverance
 in the great congregation;
 see, I have not restrained my lips,
 as you know, O LORD.

- 10 I have not hidden your saving help within my heart,
I have spoken of your faithfulness and your salvation;
I have not concealed your steadfast love and your faithfulness from the great congregation.
- 11 Do not, O LORD, withhold
your mercy from me;
let your steadfast love and your faithfulness
keep me safe forever.
- 12 For evils have encompassed me
without number;
my iniquities have overtaken me,
until I cannot see;
they are more than the hairs of my head,
and my heart fails me.
- 13 Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me;
O LORD, make haste to help me.
- 14 Let all those be put to shame and confusion
who seek to snatch away my life;
let those be turned back and brought to dishonor
who desire my hurt.
- 15 Let those be appalled because of their shame
who say to me, "Aha, Aha!"
- 16 But may all who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you;
may those who love your salvation
say continually, "Great is the LORD!"
- 17 As for me, I am poor and needy,
but the Lord takes thought for me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
do not delay, O my God.

[Psalm 41]
Prayer for healing

- 1 Happy are those who consider the poor;
the LORD delivers them in the day of trouble.
- 2 The LORD protects them and keeps them alive;
they are called happy in the land.
You do not give them up to the will of their enemies.
- 3 The LORD sustains them on their sickbed;
in their illness you heal all their infirmities.

- 4 As for me, I said, "O LORD, be gracious to me;
heal me, for I have sinned against you."
- 5 My enemies wonder in malice
when I will die, and my name perish.
- 6 And when they come to see me, they utter empty words,
while their hearts gather mischief;
when they go out, they tell it abroad.
- 7 All who hate me whisper together about me;
they imagine the worst for me.

- 8 They think that a deadly thing has fastened on me,
that I will not rise again from where I lie.
- 9 Even my bosom friend in whom I trusted,
who ate of my bread, has lifted the heel against me.
- 10 But you, O LORD, be gracious to me,
and raise me up, that I may repay them.

- 11 By this I know that you are pleased with me;
because my enemy has not triumphed over me.
- 12 But you have upheld me because of my integrity,
and set me in your presence forever.

- 13 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting.
Amen and Amen.

BOOK II (PSALMS 42–72)[Psalm 42]*Thirst for the living God

- 1 As a deer longs for flowing streams,
so my soul longs for you, O God.
- 2 My soul thirsts for God,
for the living God.
When shall I come and behold
the face of God?
- 3 My tears have been my food
day and night,
while people say to me continually,
"Where is your God?"
- 4 These things I remember,
as I pour out my soul:
how I went with the throng,
and led them in procession to the house of God,
with glad shouts and songs of thanksgiving,
a multitude keeping festival.
- 5 Why are you cast down, O my soul,
and why are you disquieted within me?
Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
my help 6 and my God.
- My soul is cast down within me;
therefore I remember you
from the land of Jordan and of Hermon,
from Mount Mizar.
- 7 Deep calls to deep
at the thunder of your cataracts;
all your waves and your billows
have gone over me.
- 8 By day the LORD commands his steadfast love,
and at night his song is with me,
a prayer to the God of my life.

9 I say to God, my rock,
 "Why have you forgotten me?
 Why must I walk about mournfully
 because the enemy oppresses me?"

10 As with a deadly wound in my body,
 my adversaries taunt me,
 while they say to me continually,
 "Where is your God?"

11 Why are you cast down, O my soul,
 and why are you disquieted within me?
 Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
 my help and my God.

[Psalm 43]

Thirst for the living God

1 Vindicate me, O God, and defend my cause against an ungodly people;
 from those who are deceitful and unjust
 deliver me!

2 For you are the God in whom I take refuge;
 why have you cast me off?
 Why must I walk about mournfully
 because of the oppression of the enemy?

3 O send out your light and your truth;
 let them lead me;
 let them bring me to your holy hill
 and to your dwelling.

4 Then I will go to the altar of God,
 to God my exceeding joy;
 and I will praise you with the harp,
 O God, my God.

5 Why are you cast down, O my soul,
 and why are you disquieted within me?
 Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
 my help and my God.

[Psalm 44]

Prayer for divine help after a national defeat

1 We have heard with our ears, O God,
 our ancestors have told us,
 what deeds you performed in their days,
 in the days of old:
 2 you with your own hand drove out the nations,
 but them you planted;
 you afflicted the peoples,
 but them you set free;
 3 for not by their own sword did they win the land,
 nor did their own arm give them victory;
 but your right hand, and your arm,
 and the light of your countenance,
 for you delighted in them.

4 You are my King and my God;
 you command victories for Jacob.
 5 Through you we push down our foes;
 through your name we tread down our assailants.
 6 For not in my bow do I trust,
 nor can my sword save me.
 7 But you have saved us from our foes,
 and have put to confusion those who hate us.
 8 In God we have boasted continually,
 and we will give thanks to your name forever.

9 Yet you have rejected us and abased us,
 and have not gone out with our armies.
 10 You made us turn back from the foe,
 and our enemies have gotten spoil.

- 11 You have made us like sheep for slaughter,
and have scattered us among the nations.
- 12 You have sold your people for a trifle,
demanding no high price for them.
- 13 You have made us the taunt of our neighbors,
the derision and scorn of those around us.
- 14 You have made us a byword among the nations,
a laughingstock among the peoples.
- 15 All day long my disgrace is before me,
and shame has covered my face
- 16 at the words of the taunters and revilers,
at the sight of the enemy and the avenger.
- 17 All this has come upon us,
yet we have not forgotten you,
or been false to your covenant.
- 18 Our heart has not turned back,
nor have our steps departed from your way,
- 19 yet you have broken us in the haunt of jackals,
and covered us with deep darkness.
- 20 If we had forgotten the name of our God,
or spread out our hands to a strange god,
- 21 would not God discover this?
For he knows the secrets of the heart.
- 22 Because of you we are being killed all day long,
and accounted as sheep for the slaughter.
- 23 Rouse yourself! Why do you sleep, O Lord?
Awake, do not cast us off forever!
- 24 Why do you hide your face?
Why do you forget our affliction and oppression?
- 25 For we sink down to the dust;
our bodies cling to the ground.
- 26 Rise up, come to our help.
Redeem us for the sake of your steadfast love.

[Psalm 45]A royal wedding song

- 1 My heart overflows with a goodly theme;
I address my verses to the king;
my tongue is like the pen of a ready scribe.
- 2 You are the most handsome of men;
grace is poured upon your lips;
therefore God has blessed you forever.
- 3 Gird your sword on your thigh, O mighty one,
in your glory and majesty.
- 4 In your majesty ride on victoriously
for the cause of truth and to defend the right;
let your right hand teach you dread deeds.
- 5 Your arrows are sharp
in the heart of the king's enemies;
the peoples fall under you.
- 6 Your throne, O God, endures forever and ever.
Your royal scepter is a scepter of equity;
- 7 you love righteousness and hate wickedness.
Therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions;
- 8 your robes are all fragrant with myrrh and aloes and cassia.
From ivory palaces stringed instruments make you glad;
- 9 daughters of kings are among your ladies of honor;
at your right hand stands the queen in gold of Ophir.
- 10 Hear, O daughter, consider and incline your ear;
forget your people and your father's house,
- 11 and the king will desire your beauty.
Since he is your lord, bow to him;
- 12 the people of Tyre will seek your favor with gifts,
the richest of the people 13 with all kinds of wealth.

- The princess is decked in her chamber with gold-woven robes;
 14 in many-colored robes she is led to the king;
 behind her the virgins, her companions, follow.
 15 With joy and gladness they are led along
 as they enter the palace of the king.
- 16 In the place of ancestors you, O king, shall have sons;
 you will make them princes in all the earth.
 17 I will cause your name to be celebrated in all generations;
 therefore the peoples will praise you forever and ever.

[Psalm 46]

Praise of Zion and its victorious king

- 1 God is our refuge and strength,
 a very present help in trouble.
 2 Therefore we will not fear, though the earth should change,
 though the mountains shake in the heart of the sea;
 3 though its waters roar and foam,
 though the mountains tremble with its tumult.
- 4 There is a river whose streams make glad the city of God,
 the holy habitation of the Most High.
 5 God is in the midst of the city; it shall not be moved;
 God will help it when the morning dawns.
 6 The nations are in an uproar, the kingdoms totter;
 he utters his voice, the earth melts.
 7 The LORD of hosts is with us;
 the God of Jacob is our refuge.
- 8 Come, behold the works of the LORD;
 see what desolations he has brought on the earth.
 9 He makes wars cease to the end of the earth;
 he breaks the bow, and shatters the spear;
 he burns the shields with fire.
 10 "Be still, and know that I am God!
 I am exalted among the nations,
 I am exalted in the earth."

11 The LORD of hosts is with us;
the God of Jacob is our refuge.

[Psalm 47]

God's enthronement

- 1 Clap your hands, all you peoples;
shout to God with loud songs of joy.
- 2 For the LORD, the Most High, is awesome,
a great king over all the earth.
- 3 He subdued peoples under us,
and nations under our feet.
- 4 He chose our heritage for us,
the pride of Jacob whom he loves.
- 5 God has gone up with a shout,
the LORD with the sound of a trumpet.
- 6 Sing praises to God, sing praises;
sing praises to our King, sing praises.
- 7 For God is the king of all the earth;
sing praises with a psalm.
- 8 God is king over the nations;
God sits on his holy throne.
- 9 The princes of the peoples gather
as the people of the God of Abraham.
For the shields of the earth belong to God;
he is highly exalted.

[Psalm 48]

Praise of Zion

- 1 Great is the LORD and greatly to be praised
in the city of our God.
His holy mountain, 2 beautiful in elevation,
is the joy of all the earth,
Mount Zion, in the far north,
the city of the great King.

- 3 Within its citadels God
has shown himself a sure defense.
- 4 Then the kings assembled,
they came on together.
- 5 As soon as they saw it, they were astounded;
they were in panic, they took to flight;
- 6 trembling took hold of them there,
pains as of a woman in labor,
- 7 as when an east wind shatters
the ships of Tarshish.
- 8 As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the LORD of hosts,
in the city of our God,
which God establishes forever.
- 9 We ponder your steadfast love, O God,
in the midst of your temple.
- 10 Your name, O God, like your praise,
reaches to the ends of the earth.
Your right hand is filled with victory.
- 11 Let Mount Zion be glad,
let the towns of Judah rejoice
because of your judgments.
- 12 Walk about Zion, go all around it,
count its towers,
- 13 consider well its ramparts;
go through its citadels,
that you may tell the next generation
- 14 that this is God,
our God forever and ever.
He will be our guide forever.

[Psalm 49]Transcience of life and wealth

- 1 Hear this, all you peoples;
 give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
- 2 both low and high,
 rich and poor together.
- 3 My mouth shall speak wisdom;
 the meditation of my heart shall be understanding.
- 4 I will incline my ear to a proverb;
 I will solve my riddle to the music of the harp.

- 5 Why should I fear in times of trouble,
 when the iniquity of my persecutors surrounds me,
- 6 those who trust in their wealth
 and boast of the abundance of their riches?
- 7 Truly, no ransom avails for one's life,
 there is no price one can give to God for it.
- 8 For the ransom of life is costly,
 and can never suffice,
- 9 that one should live on forever
 and never see the grave.

- 10 When we look at the wise, they die;
 fool and dolt perish together
 and leave their wealth to others.
- 11 Their graves are their homes forever,
 their dwelling places to all generations,
 though they named lands their own.
- 12 Mortals cannot abide in their pomp;
 they are like the animals that perish.

- 13 Such is the fate of the foolhardy,
the end of those who are pleased with their lot.
- 14 Like sheep they are appointed for Sheol;
Death shall be their shepherd;
straight to the grave they descend,
and their form shall waste away;
Sheol shall be their home.
- 15 But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol,
for he will receive me.
- 16 Do not be afraid when some become rich,
when the wealth of their houses increases.
- 17 For when they die they will carry nothing away;
their wealth will not go down after them.
- 18 Though in their lifetime they count themselves happy
— for you are praised when you do well for yourself —
- 19 they will go to the company of their ancestors,
who will never again see the light.
- 20 Mortals cannot abide in their pomp;
they are like the animals that perish.

[Psalm 50]
Theophany of the divine judge

- 1 The mighty one, God the LORD, speaks and summons the earth
from the rising of the sun to its setting.
- 2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
God shines forth.
- 3 Our God comes and does not keep silence,
before him is a devouring fire,
and a mighty tempest all around him.
- 4 He calls to the heavens above
and to the earth, that he may judge his people:
- 5 "Gather to me my faithful ones,
who made a covenant with me by sacrifice!"

- 6 The heavens declare his righteousness,
for God himself is judge.
- 7 "Hear, O my people, and I will speak,
O Israel, I will testify against you.
I am God, your God.
- 8 Not for your sacrifices do I rebuke you;
your burnt offerings are continually before me.
- 9 I will not accept a bull from your house,
or goats from your folds.
- 10 For every wild animal of the forest is mine,
the cattle on a thousand hills.
- 11 I know all the birds of the air,
and all that moves in the field is mine.
- 12 "If I were hungry, I would not tell you,
for the world and all that is in it is mine.
- 13 Do I eat the flesh of bulls,
or drink the blood of goats?
- 14 Offer to God a sacrifice of thanksgiving, and pay your vows to the Most High.
- 15 Call on me in the day of trouble;
I will deliver you, and you shall glorify me."
- 16 But to the wicked God says:
"What right have you to recite my statutes,
or take my covenant on your lips?
- 17 For you hate discipline,
and you cast my words behind you.
- 18 You make friends with a thief when you see one,
and you keep company with adulterers.
- 19 "You give your mouth free rein for evil,
and your tongue frames deceit.
- 20 You sit and speak against your kin;
you slander your own mother's child.
- 21 These things you have done and I have been silent;
you thought that I was one just like yourself.
But now I rebuke you, and lay the charge before you.

- 22 "Mark this, then, you who forget God, or I will tear you apart, and there will be no one to deliver.
23 Those who bring thanksgiving as their sacrifice honor me;
to those who go the right way
I will show the salvation of God."

[Psalm 51]Prayer for forgiveness

- 1 Have mercy on me, O God,
according to your steadfast love;
according to your abundant mercy
blot out my transgressions.
2 Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity,
and cleanse me from my sin.
3 For I know my transgressions,
and my sin is ever before me.
4 Against you, you alone, have I sinned,
and done what is evil in your sight,
so that you are justified in your sentence
and blameless when you pass judgment.
5 Indeed, I was born guilty,
a sinner when my mother conceived me.
6 You desire truth in the inward being;
therefore teach me wisdom in my secret heart.
7 Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean;
wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.
8 Let me hear joy and gladness;
let the bones that you have crushed rejoice.
9 Hide your face from my sins,
and blot out all my iniquities.
10 Create in me a clean heart, O God,
and put a new and right spirit within me.
11 Do not cast me away from your presence,
and do not take your holy spirit from me.

- 12 Restore to me the joy of your salvation,
and sustain in me a willing spirit.
- 13 Then I will teach transgressors your ways,
and sinners will return to you.
- 14 Deliver me from bloodshed, O God,
O God of my salvation,
and my tongue will sing aloud of your deliverance.
- 15 O Lord, open my lips,
and my mouth will declare your praise.
- 16 For you have no delight in sacrifice;
if I were to give a burnt offering, you would not be pleased.
- 17 The sacrifice acceptable to God is a broken spirit;
a broken and contrite heart, O God, you will not despise.
- 18 Do good to Zion in your good pleasure;
rebuild the walls of Jerusalem,
- 19 then you will delight in right sacrifices,
in burnt offerings and whole burnt offerings;
then bulls will be offered on your altar.

[Psalm 52]

Divine judgment against an oppressor

- 1 Why do you boast, O mighty one,
of mischief done against the godly?
All day long 2 you are plotting destruction.
Your tongue is like a sharp razor,
you worker of treachery.
- 3 You love evil more than good,
and lying more than speaking the truth.
- 4 You love all words that devour,
O deceitful tongue.
- 5 But God will break you down forever;
he will snatch and tear you from your tent;
he will uproot you from the land of the living.

6 The righteous will see, and fear,
and will laugh at the evildoer, saying, 7 "See the one who would not take refuge in God,
but trusted in abundant riches,
and sought refuge in wealth!"

8 But I am like a green olive tree
in the house of God.
I trust in the steadfast love of God
forever and ever.
9 I will thank you forever,
because of what you have done.
In the presence of the faithful
I will proclaim your name, for it is good.

[Psalm 53]

Condemnation of foolish evildoers

1 Fools say in their hearts, "There is no God."
They are corrupt, they commit abominable acts;
there is no one who does good.

2 God looks down from heaven on humankind
to see if there are any who are wise,
who seek after God.

3 They have all fallen away, they are all alike perverse;
there is no one who does good,
no, not one.

4 Have they no knowledge, those evildoers,
who eat up my people as they eat bread,
and do not call upon God?

5 There they shall be in great terror,
in terror such as has not been.
For God will scatter the bones of the ungodly;
they will be put to shame, for God has rejected them.

6 O that deliverance for Israel would come from Zion!
When God restores the fortunes of his people,
Jacob will rejoice; Israel will be glad.

[Psalm 54]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 Save me, O God, by your name, and vindicate me by your might.

2 Hear my prayer, O God;
give ear to the words of my mouth.

3 For the insolent have risen against me,
the ruthless seek my life;
they do not set God before them.

4 But surely, God is my helper;
the Lord is the upholder of my life.

5 He will repay my enemies for their evil.
In your faithfulness, put an end to them.

6 With a freewill offering I will sacrifice to you;
I will give thanks to your name, O LORD, for it is good.

7 For he has delivered me from every trouble,
and my eye has looked in triumph on my enemies.

[Psalm 55]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Give ear to my prayer, O God;
do not hide yourself from my supplication.
- 2 Attend to me, and answer me;
I am troubled in my complaint.
I am distraught ³ by the noise of the enemy,
because of the clamor of the wicked.
For they bring trouble upon me,
and in anger they cherish enmity against me.
- 4 My heart is in anguish within me,
the terrors of death have fallen upon me.
- 5 Fear and trembling come upon me,
and horror overwhelms me.
- 6 And I say, "O that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly away and be at rest;
- 7 truly, I would flee far away;
I would lodge in the wilderness;
- 8 I would hurry to find a shelter for myself
from the raging wind and tempest."
- 9 Confuse, O Lord, confound their speech;
for I see violence and strife in the city.
- 10 Day and night they go around it
on its walls,
and iniquity and trouble are within it;
- 11 ruin is in its midst;
oppression and fraud
do not depart from its marketplace.
- 12 It is not enemies who taunt me —
I could bear that;
it is not adversaries who deal insolently with me —
I could hide from them.

- 13 But it is you, my equal,
 my companion, my familiar friend, 14 with whom I kept pleasant company;
 we walked in the house of God with the throng.
15 Let death come upon them;
 let them go down alive to Sheol;
 for evil is in their homes and in their hearts.
16 But I call upon God,
 and the LORD will save me.
17 Evening and morning and at noon
 I utter my complaint and moan,
 and he will hear my voice.
18 He will redeem me unharmed
 from the battle that I wage,
 for many are arrayed against me.
19 God, who is enthroned from of old,
 will hear, and will humble them —
 because they do not change,
 and do not fear God.
- 20 My companion laid hands on a friend
 and violated a covenant with me 21 with speech smoother than butter,
 but with a heart set on war;
 with words that were softer than oil,
 but in fact were drawn swords.
- 22 Cast your burden on the LORD,
 and he will sustain you;
 he will never permit
 the righteous to be moved.
- 23 But you, O God, will cast them down into the lowest pit;
 the bloodthirsty and treacherous
 shall not live out half their days.
But I will trust in you.

[Psalm 56]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Be gracious to me, O God, for people trample on me;
all day long foes oppress me;
- 2 my enemies trample on me all day long,
for many fight against me.
O Most High, 3 when I am afraid,
I put my trust in you.
- 4 In God, whose word I praise,
in God I trust; I am not afraid;
what can flesh do to me?
- 5 All day long they seek to injure my cause;
all their thoughts are against me for evil.
- 6 They stir up strife, they lurk,
they watch my steps.
As they hoped to have my life,
- 7 so repay them for their crime;
in wrath cast down the peoples, O God!
- 8 You have kept count of my tossings;
put my tears in your bottle.
Are they not in your record?
- 9 Then my enemies will retreat
in the day when I call.
This I know, that God is for me.
- 10 In God, whose word I praise,
in the LORD, whose word I praise,
- 11 in God I trust; I am not afraid.
What can a mere mortal do to me?
- 12 My vows to you I must perform, O God;
I will render thank offerings to you.
- 13 For you have delivered my soul from death,
and my feet from falling,
so that I may walk before God
in the light of life.

[Psalm 57]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me,
for in you my soul takes refuge;
in the shadow of your wings I will take refuge,
until the destroying storms pass by.
- 2 I cry to God Most High,
to God who fulfills his purpose for me.
- 3 He will send from heaven and save me,
he will put to shame those who trample on me.
God will send forth his steadfast love and his faithfulness.

- 4 I lie down among lions that greedily devour human prey;
their teeth are spears and arrows,
their tongues sharp swords.

- 5 Be exalted, O God, above the heavens.
Let your glory be over all the earth.

- 6 They set a net for my steps;
my soul was bowed down.
They dug a pit in my path,
but they have fallen into it themselves.
- 7 My heart is steadfast, O God,
my heart is steadfast.
I will sing and make melody.
- 8 Awake, my soul!
Awake, O harp and lyre!
I will awake the dawn.
- 9 I will give thanks to you, O Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing praises to you among the nations.
- 10 For your steadfast love is as high as the heavens;
your faithfulness extends to the clouds.

- 11 Be exalted, O God, above the heavens.
Let your glory be over all the earth.

[Psalm 58]A curse upon enemies

- 1 Do you indeed decree what is right, you gods?
Do you judge people fairly?
- 2 No, in your hearts you devise wrongs;
your hands deal out violence on earth.
- 3 The wicked go astray from the womb;
they err from their birth, speaking lies.
- 4 They have venom like the venom of a serpent,
like the deaf adder that stops its ear,
5 so that it does not hear the voice of charmers
or of the cunning enchanter.
- 6 O God, break the teeth in their mouths;
tear out the fangs of the young lions, O LORD!
- 7 Let them vanish like water that runs away;
like grass let them be trodden down and wither.
- 8 Let them be like the snail that dissolves into slime;
like the untimely birth that never sees the sun.
- 9 Sooner than your pots can feel the heat of thorns,
whether green or ablaze, may he sweep them away!
- 10 The righteous will rejoice when they see vengeance done;
they will bathe their feet in the blood of the wicked.
- 11 People will say, "Surely there is a reward for the righteous;
surely there is a God who judges on earth."

[Psalm 59]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Deliver me from my enemies, O my God;
protect me from those who rise up against me.
- 2 Deliver me from those who work evil;
from the bloodthirsty save me.

3 Even now they lie in wait for my life;
the mighty stir up strife against me.
For no transgression or sin of mine, O LORD,
4 for no fault of mine, they run and make ready.

Rouse yourself, come to my help and see!
5 You, LORD God of hosts, are God of Israel.
Awake to punish all the nations;
spare none of those who treacherously plot evil.
6 Each evening they come back,
howling like dogs
and prowling about the city.
7 There they are, bellowing with their mouths,
with sharp words on their lips —
for "Who," they think, "will hear us?"

8 But you laugh at them, O LORD;
you hold all the nations in derision.
9 O my strength, I will watch for you;
for you, O God, are my fortress.
10 My God in his steadfast love will meet me;
my God will let me look in triumph on my enemies.

11 Do not kill them, or my people may forget;
make them totter by your power, and bring them down,
O Lord, our shield.
12 For the sin of their mouths, the words of their lips,
let them be trapped in their pride.
For the cursing and lies that they utter,
13 consume them in wrath;
consume them until they are no more.
Then it will be known to the ends of the earth
that God rules over Jacob.

14 Each evening they come back,
howling like dogs
and prowling about the city.

15 They roam about for food,
and growl if they do not get their fill.

16 But I will sing of your might;
I will sing aloud of your steadfast love in the morning.
For you have been a fortress for me
and a refuge in the day of my distress.

17 O my strength, I will sing praises to you,
for you, O God, are my fortress,
the God who shows me steadfast love.

[Psalm 60]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 O God, you have rejected us, broken our defenses;
you have been angry; now restore us!

2 You have caused the land to quake; you have torn it open;
repair the cracks in it, for it is tottering.

3 You have made your people suffer hard things;
you have given us wine to drink that made us reel.

4 You have set up a banner for those who fear you,
to rally to it out of bowshot.

5 Give victory with your right hand, and answer us,
so that those whom you love may be rescued.

6 God has promised in his sanctuary:
"With exultation I will divide up Shechem,
and portion out the Vale of Succoth.

7 Gilead is mine, and Manasseh is mine;
Ephraim is my helmet;
Judah is my scepter.

8 Moab is my washbasin;
on Edom I hurl my shoe;
over Philistia I shout in triumph."

- 9 Who will bring me to the fortified city?
 Who will lead me to Edom?
 10 Have you not rejected us, O God?
 You do not go out, O God, with our armies.
 11 O grant us help against the foe,
 for human help is worthless.
 12 With God we shall do valiantly;
 it is he who will tread down our foes.

[Psalm 61]
Protection in the Temple

- 1 Hear my cry, O God;
 listen to my prayer.
 2 From the end of the earth I call to you,
 when my heart is faint.
- Lead me to the rock
 that is higher than I;
 3 for you are my refuge,
 a strong tower against the enemy.
- 4 Let me abide in your tent forever,
 find refuge under the shelter of your wings.
 5 For you, O God, have heard my vows;
 you have given me the heritage of those who fear your name.
- 6 Prolong the life of the king;
 may his years endure to all generations!
 7 May he be enthroned forever before God;
 appoint steadfast love and faithfulness to watch over him!
- 8 So I will always sing praises to your name,
 as I pay my vows day after day.

[Psalm 62]
Trust in God

- 1 For God alone my soul waits in silence;
from him comes my salvation.
- 2 He alone is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress; I shall never be shaken.

- 3 How long will you assail a person,
will you batter your victim, all of you,
as you would a leaning wall, a tottering fence?
- 4 Their only plan is to bring down a person of prominence.
They take pleasure in falsehood;
they bless with their mouths,
but inwardly they curse.

- 5 For God alone my soul waits in silence,
for my hope is from him.
- 6 He alone is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress; I shall not be shaken.
- 7 On God rests my deliverance and my honor;
my mighty rock, my refuge is in God.

- 8 Trust in him at all times, O people;
pour out your heart before him;
God is a refuge for us.

- 9 Those of low estate are but a breath,
those of high estate are a delusion;
in the balances they go up;
they are together lighter than a breath.
- 10 Put no confidence in extortion,
and set no vain hopes on robbery;
if riches increase, do not set your heart on them.

11 Once God has spoken;
twice have I heard this:
that power belongs to God,
12 and steadfast love belongs to you, O Lord.
For you repay to all
according to their work.

[Psalm 63]
Thirsting for God

1 O God, you are my God, I seek you,
my soul thirsts for you;
my flesh faints for you,
as in a dry and weary land where there is no water.
2 So I have looked upon you in the sanctuary,
beholding your power and glory.
3 Because your steadfast love is better than life,
my lips will praise you.
4 So I will bless you as long as I live;
I will lift up my hands and call on your name.
5 My soul is satisfied as with a rich feast,
and my mouth praises you with joyful lips
6 when I think of you on my bed,
and meditate on you in the watches of the night;
7 for you have been my help,
and in the shadow of your wings I sing for joy.
8 My soul clings to you;
your right hand upholds me.

9 But those who seek to destroy my life
shall go down into the depths of the earth;
10 they shall be given over to the power of the sword,
they shall be prey for jackals.
11 But the king shall rejoice in God;
all who swear by him shall exult,
for the mouths of liars will be stopped.

[Psalm 64]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Hear my voice, O God, in my complaint;
 preserve my life from the dread enemy.
- 2 Hide me from the secret plots of the wicked,
 from the scheming of evildoers,
- 3 who whet their tongues like swords,
 who aim bitter words like arrows,
- 4 shooting from ambush at the blameless;
 they shoot suddenly and without fear.
- 5 They hold fast to their evil purpose;
 they talk of laying snares secretly,
 thinking, "Who can see us?
- 6 Who can search out our crimes?
 We have thought out a cunningly conceived plot."
 For the human heart and mind are deep.

- 7 But God will shoot his arrow at them;
 they will be wounded suddenly.
- 8 Because of their tongue he will bring them to ruin;
 all who see them will shake with horror.
- 9 Then everyone will fear;
 they will tell what God has brought about,
 and ponder what he has done.

- 10 Let the righteous rejoice in the LORD
 and take refuge in him.
 Let all the upright in heart glory.

[Psalm 65]Thanksgiving for agricultural bounty

- 1 Praise is due to you,
 O God, in Zion;
 and to you shall vows be performed,
- 2 O you who answer prayer!
 To you all flesh shall come.
- 3 When deeds of iniquity overwhelm us,
 you forgive our transgressions.
- 4 Happy are those whom you choose and bring near
 to live in your courts.
 We shall be satisfied with the goodness of your house,
 your holy temple.

- 5 By awesome deeds you answer us with deliverance,
 O God of our salvation;
 you are the hope of all the ends of the earth
 and of the farthest seas.
- 6 By your strength you established the mountains;
 you are girded with might.
- 7 You silence the roaring of the seas,
 the roaring of their waves,
 the tumult of the peoples.
- 8 Those who live at earth's farthest bounds are awed by your signs;
 you make the gateways of the morning and the evening shout for joy.

- 9 You visit the earth and water it,
 you greatly enrich it;
 the river of God is full of water;
 you provide the people with grain,
 for so you have prepared it.
- 10 You water its furrows abundantly,
 settling its ridges,
 softening it with showers,
 and blessing its growth.

- 11 You crown the year with your bounty;
your wagon tracks overflow with richness.
12 The pastures of the wilderness overflow,
the hills gird themselves with joy, 13 the meadows clothe themselves with flocks,
the valleys deck themselves with grain,
they shout and sing together for joy.

[Psalm 66]Praise of God the savior

- 1 Make a joyful noise to God, all the earth;
2 sing the glory of his name;
give to him glorious praise.
3 Say to God, "How awesome are your deeds!
Because of your great power, your enemies cringe before you.
4 All the earth worships you;
they sing praises to you,
sing praises to your name."

5 Come and see what God has done:
he is awesome in his deeds among mortals.
6 He turned the sea into dry land;
they passed through the river on foot.
There we rejoiced in him,
7 who rules by his might forever,
whose eyes keep watch on the nations —
let the rebellious not exalt themselves.

8 Bless our God, O peoples,
let the sound of his praise be heard, 9 who has kept us among the living,
and has not let our feet slip.
10 For you, O God, have tested us;
you have tried us as silver is tried.
11 You brought us into the net;
you laid burdens on our backs;

- 12 you let people ride over our heads;
 we went through fire and through water;
 yet you have brought us out to a spacious place.
- 13 I will come into your house with burnt offerings;
 I will pay you my vows,
14 those that my lips uttered
 and my mouth promised when I was in trouble.
- 15 I will offer to you burnt offerings of fatlings,
 with the smoke of the sacrifice of rams;
 I will make an offering of bulls and goats.
- 16 Come and hear, all you who fear God,
 and I will tell what he has done for me.
- 17 I cried aloud to him,
 and he was extolled with my tongue.
- 18 If I had cherished iniquity in my heart,
 the Lord would not have listened.
- 19 But truly God has listened;
 he has given heed to the words of my prayer.
- 20 Blessed be God,
 because he has not rejected my prayer
 or removed his steadfast love from me.

[Psalm 67]Thanksgiving for agricultural bounty

- 1 May God be gracious to us and bless us
 and make his face to shine upon us,
- 2 that your way may be known upon earth,
 your saving power among all nations.
- 3 Let the peoples praise you, O God;
 let all the peoples praise you.

4 Let the nations be glad and sing for joy,
for you judge the peoples with equity
and guide the nations upon earth.

5 Let the peoples praise you, O God;
let all the peoples praise you.

6 The earth has yielded its increase;
God, our God, has blessed us.

7 May God continue to bless us;
let all the ends of the earth revere him.

[Psalm 68]

A victory hymn

1 Let God rise up, let his enemies be scattered;
let those who hate him flee before him.

2 As smoke is driven away, so drive them away;
as wax melts before the fire,
let the wicked perish before God.

3 But let the righteous be joyful;
let them exult before God;
let them be jubilant with joy.

4 Sing to God, sing praises to his name;
lift up a song to him who rides upon the clouds —
his name is the LORD —
be exultant before him.

5 Father of orphans and protector of widows is God in his holy habitation.

6 God gives the desolate a home to live in;
he leads out the prisoners to prosperity,
but the rebellious live in a parched land.

7 O God, when you went out before your people,
when you marched through the wilderness,

- 8 the earth quaked, the heavens poured down rain
at the presence of God, the God of Sinai,
at the presence of God, the God of Israel.
- 9 Rain in abundance, O God, you showered abroad;
you restored your heritage when it languished;
- 10 your flock found a dwelling in it;
in your goodness, O God, you provided for the needy.
- 11 The Lord gives the command;
great is the company of those who bore the tidings:
- 12 "The kings of the armies, they flee, they flee!"
The women at home divide the spoil,
- 13 though they stay among the sheepfolds —
the wings of a dove covered with silver,
its pinions with green gold.
- 14 When the Almighty scattered kings there,
snow fell on Zalmon.
- 15 O mighty mountain, mountain of Bashan;
O many-peaked mountain, mountain of Bashan!
- 16 Why do you look with envy, O many-peaked mountain,
at the mount that God desired for his abode,
where the LORD will reside forever?
- 17 With mighty chariotry, twice ten thousand,
thousands upon thousands,
the Lord came from Sinai into the holy place.
- 18 You ascended the high mount, leading captives in your train
and receiving gifts from people, even from those who rebel against the LORD God's abiding there.
- 19 Blessed be the Lord,
who daily bears us up;
God is our salvation.
- 20 Our God is a God of salvation,
and to GOD, the Lord, belongs escape from death.

- 21 But God will shatter the heads of his enemies,
the hairy crown of those who walk in their guilty ways.
- 22 The Lord said,
"I will bring them back from Bashan,
I will bring them back from the depths of the sea,
23 so that you may bathe your feet in blood, so that the tongues of your dogs may have their share
from the foe."
- 24 Your solemn processions are seen, O God,
the processions of my God, my King, into the sanctuary — 25 the singers in front, the musicians last,
between them girls playing tambourines:
- 26 "Bless God in the great congregation,
the LORD, O you who are of Israel's fountain!"
- 27 There is Benjamin, the least of them, in the lead,
the princes of Judah in a body,
the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali.
- 28 Summon your might, O God;
show your strength, O God, as you have done for us before.
- 29 Because of your temple at Jerusalem
kings bear gifts to you.
- 30 Rebuke the wild animals that live among the reeds,
the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples.
Trample under foot those who lust after tribute;
scatter the peoples who delight in war.
- 31 Let bronze be brought from Egypt;
let Ethiopia hasten to stretch out its hands to God.
- 32 Sing to God, O kingdoms of the earth;
sing praises to the Lord,
- 33 O rider in the heavens, the ancient heavens;
listen, he sends out his voice, his mighty voice.
- 34 Ascribe power to God,
whose majesty is over Israel;
and whose power is in the skies.

35 Awesome is God in his sanctuary,
 the God of Israel;
 he gives power and strength to his people.

Blessed be God!

[Psalm 69]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Save me, O God,
 for the waters have come up to my neck.
- 2 I sink in deep mire,
 where there is no foothold;
 I have come into deep waters,
 and the flood sweeps over me.
- 3 I am weary with my crying;
 my throat is parched.
 My eyes grow dim
 with waiting for my God.
- 4 More in number than the hairs of my head
 are those who hate me without cause;
 many are those who would destroy me,
 my enemies who accuse me falsely.
 What I did not steal must I now restore?
- 5 O God, you know my folly;
 the wrongs I have done are not hidden from you.
- 6 Do not let those who hope in you be put to shame because of me,
 O Lord GOD of hosts;
 do not let those who seek you be dishonored because of me,
 O God of Israel.
- 7 It is for your sake that I have borne reproach,
 that shame has covered my face.
- 8 I have become a stranger to my kindred,
 an alien to my mother's children.

- 9 It is zeal for your house that has consumed me;
the insults of those who insult you have fallen on me.
- 10 When I humbled my soul with fasting,
they insulted me for doing so.
- 11 When I made sackcloth my clothing, I became a byword to them.
- 12 I am the subject of gossip for those who sit in the gate,
and the drunkards make songs about me.
- 13 But as for me, my prayer is to you, O LORD.
At an acceptable time, O God,
in the abundance of your steadfast love, answer me.
With your faithful help 14 rescue me
from sinking in the mire;
let me be delivered from my enemies
and from the deep waters.
- 15 Do not let the flood sweep over me,
or the deep swallow me up,
or the Pit close its mouth over me.
- 16 Answer me, O LORD, for your steadfast love is good;
according to your abundant mercy, turn to me.
- 17 Do not hide your face from your servant,
for I am in distress — make haste to answer me.
- 18 Draw near to me, redeem me,
set me free because of my enemies.
- 19 You know the insults I receive,
and my shame and dishonor;
my foes are all known to you.
- 20 Insults have broken my heart,
so that I am in despair.
I looked for pity, but there was none;
and for comforters, but I found none.
- 21 They gave me poison for food,
and for my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.

- 22 Let their table be a trap for them,
a snare for their allies.
- 23 Let their eyes be darkened so that they cannot see,
and make their loins tremble continually.
- 24 Pour out your indignation upon them,
and let your burning anger overtake them.
- 25 May their camp be a desolation;
let no one live in their tents.
- 26 For they persecute those whom you have struck down,
and those whom you have wounded, they attack still more.
- 27 Add guilt to their guilt;
may they have no acquittal from you.
- 28 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living;
let them not be enrolled among the righteous.
- 29 But I am lowly and in pain;
let your salvation, O God, protect me.
- 30 I will praise the name of God with a song;
I will magnify him with thanksgiving.
- 31 This will please the LORD more than an ox
or a bull with horns and hoofs.
- 32 Let the oppressed see it and be glad;
you who seek God, let your hearts revive.
- 33 For the LORD hears the needy,
and does not despise his own that are in bonds.
- 34 Let heaven and earth praise him,
the seas and everything that moves in them.
- 35 For God will save Zion
and rebuild the cities of Judah;
and his servants shall live there and possess it;
- 36 the children of his servants shall inherit it,
and those who love his name shall live in it.

[Psalm 70]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Be pleased, O God, to deliver me.
O LORD, make haste to help me!
- 2 Let those be put to shame and confusion
who seek my life.
Let those be turned back and brought to dishonor
who desire to hurt me.
- 3 Let those who say, "Aha, Aha!"
turn back because of their shame.
- 4 Let all who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you.
Let those who love your salvation say evermore, "God is great!"
- 5 But I am poor and needy;
hasten to me, O God!
You are my help and my deliverer;
O LORD, do not delay!

[Psalm 71]Prayer in old age

- 1 In you, O LORD, I take refuge;
let me never be put to shame.
- 2 In your righteousness deliver me and rescue me;
incline your ear to me and save me.
- 3 Be to me a rock of refuge,
a strong fortress, to save me,
for you are my rock and my fortress.
- 4 Rescue me, O my God, from the hand of the wicked,
from the grasp of the unjust and cruel.
- 5 For you, O Lord, are my hope,
my trust, O LORD, from my youth.

- 6 Upon you I have leaned from my birth;
it was you who took me from my mother's womb.
My praise is continually of you.
- 7 I have been like a portent to many,
but you are my strong refuge.
- 8 My mouth is filled with your praise,
and with your glory all day long.
- 9 Do not cast me off in the time of old age;
do not forsake me when my strength is spent.
- 10 For my enemies speak concerning me,
and those who watch for my life consult together.
- 11 They say, "Pursue and seize that person whom God has forsaken,
for there is no one to deliver."
- 12 O God, do not be far from me;
O my God, make haste to help me!
- 13 Let my accusers be put to shame and consumed;
let those who seek to hurt me
be covered with scorn and disgrace.
- 14 But I will hope continually,
and will praise you yet more and more.
- 15 My mouth will tell of your righteous acts,
of your deeds of salvation all day long,
though their number is past my knowledge.
- 16 I will come praising the mighty deeds of the Lord God,
I will praise your righteousness, yours alone.
- 17 O God, from my youth you have taught me,
and I still proclaim your wondrous deeds.
- 18 So even to old age and gray hairs,
O God, do not forsake me, until I proclaim your might
to all the generations to come.
Your power 19 and your righteousness, O God,
reach the high heavens.

- You who have done great things,
O God, who is like you?
- 20 You who have made me see many troubles and calamities will revive me again;
from the depths of the earth
you will bring me up again.
- 21 You will increase my honor,
and comfort me once again.
- 22 I will also praise you with the harp
for your faithfulness, O my God;
I will sing praises to you with the lyre,
O Holy One of Israel.
- 23 My lips will shout for joy
when I sing praises to you;
my soul also, which you have rescued.
- 24 All day long my tongue will talk of your righteous help,
for those who tried to do me harm
have been put to shame, and disgraced.

[Psalm 72]The Davidic king and the dynasty

- 1 Give the king your justice, O God,
and your righteousness to a king's son.
- 2 May he judge your people with righteousness,
and your poor with justice.
- 3 May the mountains yield prosperity for the people,
and the hills, in righteousness.
- 4 May he defend the cause of the poor of the people,
give deliverance to the needy,
and crush the oppressor.
- 5 May he live while the sun endures,
and as long as the moon, throughout all generations.
- 6 May he be like rain that falls on the mown grass,
like showers that water the earth.

7 In his days may righteousness flourish
and peace abound, until the moon is no more.

8 May he have dominion from sea to sea,
and from the River to the ends of the earth.

9 May his foes bow down before him,
and his enemies lick the dust.

10 May the kings of Tarshish and of the isles render him tribute,
may the kings of Sheba and Seba
bring gifts.

11 May all kings fall down before him,
all nations give him service.

12 For he delivers the needy when they call,
the poor and those who have no helper.

13 He has pity on the weak and the needy,
and saves the lives of the needy.

14 From oppression and violence he redeems their life;
and precious is their blood in his sight.

15 Long may he live!

May gold of Sheba be given to him.

May prayer be made for him continually,
and blessings invoked for him all day long.

16 May there be abundance of grain in the land;
may it wave on the tops of the mountains;
may its fruit be like Lebanon;
and may people blossom in the cities
like the grass of the field.

17 May his name endure forever,
his fame continue as long as the sun.

May all nations be blessed in him;
may they pronounce him happy.

18 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
 who alone does wondrous things.
 19 Blessed be his glorious name forever;
 may his glory fill the whole earth.
 Amen and Amen.

20 The prayers of David son of Jesse are ended.

BOOK III (PSALMS 73–89)

[Psalm 73]

A meditation on the justice of God

1 Truly God is good to the upright,
 to those who are pure in heart.
 2 But as for me, my feet had almost stumbled;
 my steps had nearly slipped.
 3 For I was envious of the arrogant;
 I saw the prosperity of the wicked.

4 For they have no pain;
 their bodies are sound and sleek.
 5 They are not in trouble as others are;
 they are not plagued like other people.
 6 Therefore pride is their necklace;
 violence covers them like a garment.
 7 Their eyes swell out with fatness;
 their hearts overflow with follies.
 8 They scoff and speak with malice;
 loftily they threaten oppression.
 9 They set their mouths against heaven,
 and their tongues range over the earth.

10 Therefore the people turn and praise them,
 and find no fault in them.
 11 And they say, "How can God know?
 Is there knowledge in the Most High?"

- 12 Such are the wicked;
 always at ease, they increase in riches.
- 13 All in vain I have kept my heart clean and washed my hands in innocence.
- 14 For all day long I have been plagued,
 and am punished every morning.
- 15 If I had said, "I will talk on in this way,"
 I would have been untrue to the circle of your children.
- 16 But when I thought how to understand this,
 it seemed to me a wearisome task,
- 17 until I went into the sanctuary of God;
 then I perceived their end.
- 18 Truly you set them in slippery places;
 you make them fall to ruin.
- 19 How they are destroyed in a moment,
 swept away utterly by terrors!
- 20 They are like a dream when one awakes;
 on awaking you despise their phantoms.
- 21 When my soul was embittered,
 when I was pricked in heart,
- 22 I was stupid and ignorant;
 I was like a brute beast toward you.
- 23 Nevertheless I am continually with you;
 you hold my right hand.
- 24 You guide me with your counsel,
 and afterward you will receive me with honor.
- 25 Whom have I in heaven but you?
 And there is nothing on earth that I desire other than you.
- 26 My flesh and my heart may fail,
 but God is the strength of my heart and my portion forever.
- 27 Indeed, those who are far from you will perish;
 you put an end to those who are false to you.
- 28 But for me it is good to be near God;
 I have made the Lord GOD my refuge,
 to tell of all your works.

[Psalm 74]Zion attacked, the Temple destroyed

- 1 O God, why do you cast us off forever?
Why does your anger smoke against the sheep of your pasture?
- 2 Remember your congregation, which you acquired long ago,
which you redeemed to be the tribe of your heritage.
Remember Mount Zion, where you came to dwell.
- 3 Direct your steps to the perpetual ruins;
the enemy has destroyed everything in the sanctuary.

- 4 Your foes have roared within your holy place;
they set up their emblems there.
- 5 At the upper entrance they hacked
the wooden trellis with axes.
- 6 And then, with hatchets and hammers,
they smashed all its carved work.
- 7 They set your sanctuary on fire;
they desecrated the dwelling place of your name,
bringing it to the ground.
- 8 They said to themselves, "We will utterly subdue them";
they burned all the meeting places of God in the land.

- 9 We do not see our emblems;
there is no longer any prophet,
and there is no one among us who knows how long.
- 10 How long, O God, is the foe to scoff?
Is the enemy to revile your name forever?
- 11 Why do you hold back your hand;
why do you keep your hand in your bosom?

- 12 Yet God my King is from of old,
working salvation in the earth.
- 13 You divided the sea by your might;
you broke the heads of the dragons in the waters.
- 14 You crushed the heads of Leviathan;
you gave him as food for the creatures of the wilderness.

- 15 You cut openings for springs and torrents;
you dried up ever-flowing streams.
- 16 Yours is the day, yours also the night;
you established the luminaries and the sun.
- 17 You have fixed all the bounds of the earth;
you made summer and winter.
- 18 Remember this, O LORD, how the enemy scoffs,
and an impious people reviles your name.
- 19 Do not deliver the soul of your dove to the wild animals;
do not forget the life of your poor forever.
- 20 Have regard for your covenant,
for the dark places of the land are full of the haunts of violence.
- 21 Do not let the downtrodden be put to shame;
let the poor and needy praise your name.
- 22 Rise up, O God, plead your cause;
remember how the impious scoff at you all day long.
- 23 Do not forget the clamor of your foes,
the uproar of your adversaries that goes up continually.

[Psalm 75]

Thanksgiving for divine victory over evil

- 1 We give thanks to you, O God;
we give thanks; your name is near.
People tell of your wondrous deeds.
- 2 At the set time that I appoint
I will judge with equity.
- 3 When the earth totters, with all its inhabitants,
it is I who keep its pillars steady.
- 4 I say to the boastful, "Do not boast,"
and to the wicked, "Do not lift up your horn;
- 5 do not lift up your horn on high,
or speak with insolent neck."

- 6 For not from the east or from the west
and not from the wilderness comes lifting up; 7 but it is God who executes judgment,
putting down one and lifting up another.
8 For in the hand of the LORD there is a cup with foaming wine, well mixed;
he will pour a draught from it,
and all the wicked of the earth
shall drain it down to the dregs.
9 But I will rejoice forever;
I will sing praises to the God of Jacob.
- 10 All the horns of the wicked I will cut off,
but the horns of the righteous shall be exalted.

[Psalm 76]
Praise of Zion

- 1 In Judah God is known,
his name is great in Israel.
2 His abode has been established in Salem,
his dwelling place in Zion.
3 There he broke the flashing arrows,
the shield, the sword, and the weapons of war.
- 4 Glorious are you, more majestic
than the everlasting mountains.
5 The stouthearted were stripped of their spoil;
they sank into sleep;
none of the troops
was able to lift a hand.
6 At your rebuke, O God of Jacob,
both rider and horse lay stunned.

7 But you indeed are awesome!
 Who can stand before you
 when once your anger is roused?
 8 From the heavens you uttered judgment;
 the earth feared and was still 9 when God rose up to establish judgment,
 to save all the oppressed of the earth.

10 Human wrath serves only to praise you,
 when you bind the last bit of your wrath around you.
 11 Make vows to the LORD your God, and perform them;
 let all who are around him bring gifts
 to the one who is awesome, 12 who cuts off the spirit of princes,
 who inspires fear in the kings of the earth.

[Psalm 77]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 I cry aloud to God, aloud to God, that he may hear me.
 2 In the day of my trouble I seek the Lord;
 in the night my hand is stretched out without wearying;
 my soul refuses to be comforted.
 3 I think of God, and I moan;
 I meditate, and my spirit faints.
 4 You keep my eyelids from closing;
 I am so troubled that I cannot speak.
 5 I consider the days of old,
 and remember the years of long ago.
 6 I commune with my heart in the night;
 I meditate and search my spirit:
 7 "Will the Lord spurn forever,
 and never again be favorable?
 8 Has his steadfast love ceased forever?
 Are his promises at an end for all time?"

- 9 Has God forgotten to be gracious?
Has he in anger shut up his compassion?"
- 10 And I say, "It is my grief that the right hand of the Most High has changed."
- 11 I will call to mind the deeds of the LORD;
I will remember your wonders of old.
- 12 I will meditate on all your work,
and muse on your mighty deeds.
- 13 Your way, O God, is holy.
What god is so great as our God?
- 14 You are the God who works wonders;
you have displayed your might among the peoples.
- 15 With your strong arm you redeemed your people,
the descendants of Jacob and Joseph.
- 16 When the waters saw you, O God,
when the waters saw you, they were afraid;
the very deep trembled.
- 17 The clouds poured out water;
the skies thundered;
your arrows flashed on every side.
- 18 The crash of your thunder was in the whirlwind;
your lightnings lit up the world;
the earth trembled and shook.
- 19 Your way was through the sea,
your path, through the mighty waters;
yet your footprints were unseen.
- 20 You led your people like a flock
by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

[Psalm 78]

Israel's rebellion in the wilderness

- 1 Give ear, O my people, to my teaching;
incline your ears to the words of my mouth.
- 2 I will open my mouth in a parable;
I will utter dark sayings from of old,

- 3 things that we have heard and known,
that our ancestors have told us.
- 4 We will not hide them from their children;
we will tell to the coming generation
the glorious deeds of the LORD, and his might,
and the wonders that he has done.
- 5 He established a decree in Jacob,
and appointed a law in Israel,
which he commanded our ancestors
to teach to their children;
- 6 that the next generation might know them,
the children yet unborn,
and rise up and tell them to their children,
- 7 so that they should set their hope in God,
and not forget the works of God,
but keep his commandments;
- 8 and that they should not be like their ancestors,
a stubborn and rebellious generation,
a generation whose heart was not steadfast,
whose spirit was not faithful to God.
- 9 The Ephraimites, armed with the bow, turned back on the day of battle.
- 10 They did not keep God's covenant,
but refused to walk according to his law.
- 11 They forgot what he had done,
and the miracles that he had shown them.
- 12 In the sight of their ancestors he worked marvels
in the land of Egypt, in the fields of Zoan.
- 13 He divided the sea and let them pass through it,
and made the waters stand like a heap.
- 14 In the daytime he led them with a cloud,
and all night long with a fiery light.
- 15 He split rocks open in the wilderness,
and gave them drink abundantly as from the deep.
- 16 He made streams come out of the rock,
and caused waters to flow down like rivers.

- 17 Yet they sinned still more against him,
 rebellng against the Most High in the desert.
- 18 They tested God in their heart
 by demanding the food they craved.
- 19 They spoke against God, saying,
 "Can God spread a table in the wilderness?
- 20 Even though he struck the rock so that water gushed out and torrents overflowed,
 can he also give bread,
 or provide meat for his people?"
- 21 Therefore, when the LORD heard, he was full of rage;
 a fire was kindled against Jacob,
 his anger mounted against Israel,
- 22 because they had no faith in God,
 and did not trust his saving power.
- 23 Yet he commanded the skies above,
 and opened the doors of heaven;
- 24 he rained down on them manna to eat,
 and gave them the grain of heaven.
- 25 Mortals ate of the bread of angels;
 he sent them food in abundance.
- 26 He caused the east wind to blow in the heavens,
 and by his power he led out the south wind;
- 27 he rained flesh upon them like dust,
 winged birds like the sand of the seas;
- 28 he let them fall within their camp,
 all around their dwellings.
- 29 And they ate and were well filled,
 for he gave them what they craved.
- 30 But before they had satisfied their craving,
 while the food was still in their mouths,
- 31 the anger of God rose against them
 and he killed the strongest of them,
 and laid low the flower of Israel.
- 32 In spite of all this they still sinned;
 they did not believe in his wonders.

- 33 So he made their days vanish like a breath,
and their years in terror.
- 34 When he killed them, they sought for him;
they repented and sought God earnestly.
- 35 They remembered that God was their rock,
the Most High God their redeemer.
- 36 But they flattered him with their mouths;
they lied to him with their tongues.
- 37 Their heart was not steadfast toward him;
they were not true to his covenant.
- 38 Yet he, being compassionate,
forgave their iniquity,
and did not destroy them;
often he restrained his anger,
and did not stir up all his wrath.
- 39 He remembered that they were but flesh,
a wind that passes and does not come again.
- 40 How often they rebelled against him in the wilderness and grieved him in the desert!
- 41 They tested God again and again,
and provoked the Holy One of Israel.
- 42 They did not keep in mind his power,
or the day when he redeemed them from the foe;
- 43 when he displayed his signs in Egypt,
and his miracles in the fields of Zoan.
- 44 He turned their rivers to blood,
so that they could not drink of their streams.
- 45 He sent among them swarms of flies, which devoured them,
and frogs, which destroyed them.
- 46 He gave their crops to the caterpillar,
and the fruit of their labor to the locust.
- 47 He destroyed their vines with hail,
and their sycamores with frost.
- 48 He gave over their cattle to the hail,
and their flocks to thunderbolts.
- 49 He let loose on them his fierce anger,
wrath, indignation, and distress,
a company of destroying angels.

50 He made a path for his anger;
he did not spare them from death,
but gave their lives over to the plague.

51 He struck all the firstborn in Egypt,
the first issue of their strength in the tents of Ham.

52 Then he led out his people like sheep,
and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.

53 He led them in safety, so that they were not afraid;
but the sea overwhelmed their enemies.

54 And he brought them to his holy hill,
to the mountain that his right hand had won.

55 He drove out nations before them;
he apportioned them for a possession
and settled the tribes of Israel in their tents.

56 Yet they tested the Most High God,
and rebelled against him.
They did not observe his decrees,

57 but turned away and were faithless like their ancestors;
they twisted like a treacherous bow.

58 For they provoked him to anger with their high places;
they moved him to jealousy with their idols.

59 When God heard, he was full of wrath,
and he utterly rejected Israel.

60 He abandoned his dwelling at Shiloh,
the tent where he dwelt among mortals,

61 and delivered his power to captivity,
his glory to the hand of the foe.

62 He gave his people to the sword,
and vented his wrath on his heritage.

63 Fire devoured their young men,
and their girls had no marriage song.

64 Their priests fell by the sword,
and their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then the Lord awoke as from sleep,
like a warrior shouting because of wine.

66 He put his adversaries to rout;
he put them to everlasting disgrace.

67 He rejected the tent of Joseph,
 he did not choose the tribe of Ephraim;
 68 but he chose the tribe of Judah,
 Mount Zion, which he loves.
 69 He built his sanctuary like the high heavens,
 like the earth, which he has founded forever.
 70 He chose his servant David,
 and took him from the sheepfolds;
 71 from tending the nursing ewes he brought him to be the shepherd of his people Jacob,
 of Israel, his inheritance.
 72 With upright heart he tended them,
 and guided them with skillful hand.

[Psalm 79]

The Temple destroyed

1 O God, the nations have come into your inheritance;
 they have defiled your holy temple;
 they have laid Jerusalem in ruins.
 2 They have given the bodies of your servants
 to the birds of the air for food,
 the flesh of your faithful to the wild animals of the earth.
 3 They have poured out their blood like water
 all around Jerusalem,
 and there was no one to bury them.
 4 We have become a taunt to our neighbors,
 mocked and derided by those around us.

 5 How long, O LORD? Will you be angry forever?
 Will your jealous wrath burn like fire?
 6 Pour out your anger on the nations
 that do not know you,
 and on the kingdoms
 that do not call on your name.
 7 For they have devoured Jacob
 and laid waste his habitation.

- 8 Do not remember against us the iniquities of our ancestors;
 let your compassion come speedily to meet us,
 for we are brought very low.
- 9 Help us, O God of our salvation,
 for the glory of your name;
 deliver us, and forgive our sins,
 for your name's sake.
- 10 Why should the nations say,
 "Where is their God?"
 Let the avenging of the outpoured blood of your servants
 be known among the nations before our eyes.
- 11 Let the groans of the prisoners come before you;
 according to your great power preserve those doomed to die.
- 12 Return sevenfold into the bosom of our neighbors
 the taunts with which they taunted you, O Lord!
- 13 Then we your people, the flock of your pasture,
 will give thanks to you forever;
 from generation to generation we will recount your praise.

[Psalm 80]

Prayer for deliverance from national enemies

- 1 Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel,
 you who lead Joseph like a flock!
 You who are enthroned upon the cherubim, shine forth
- 2 before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh.
 Stir up your might,
 and come to save us!
- 3 Restore us, O God;
 let your face shine, that we may be saved.
- 4 O LORD God of hosts,
 how long will you be angry with your people's prayers?
- 5 You have fed them with the bread of tears,
 and given them tears to drink in full measure.

- 6 You make us the scorn of our neighbors;
our enemies laugh among themselves.
- 7 Restore us, O God of hosts;
let your face shine, that we may be saved.
- 8 You brought a vine out of Egypt;
you drove out the nations and planted it.
- 9 You cleared the ground for it;
it took deep root and filled the land.
- 10 The mountains were covered with its shade,
the mighty cedars with its branches;
- 11 it sent out its branches to the sea,
and its shoots to the River.
- 12 Why then have you broken down its walls,
so that all who pass along the way pluck its fruit?
- 13 The boar from the forest ravages it,
and all that move in the field feed on it.
- 14 Turn again, O God of hosts;
look down from heaven, and see;
have regard for this vine,
15 the stock that your right hand planted.
- 16 They have burned it with fire, they have cut it down;
may they perish at the rebuke of your countenance.
- 17 But let your hand be upon the one at your right hand,
the one whom you made strong for yourself.
- 18 Then we will never turn back from you;
give us life, and we will call on your name.
- 19 Restore us, O LORD God of hosts;
let your face shine, that we may be saved.

[Psalm 81]A hymn for the feast of booths

- 1 Sing aloud to God our strength;
 shout for joy to the God of Jacob.
- 2 Raise a song, sound the tambourine,
 the sweet lyre with the harp.
- 3 Blow the trumpet at the new moon,
 at the full moon, on our festal day.
- 4 For it is a statute for Israel,
 an ordinance of the God of Jacob.
- 5 He made it a decree in Joseph,
 when he went out over the land of Egypt.

I hear a voice I had not known:

- 6 "I relieved your shoulder of the burden;
 your hands were freed from the basket.
- 7 In distress you called, and I rescued you;
 I answered you in the secret place of thunder;
 I tested you at the waters of Meribah.
- 8 Hear, O my people, while I admonish you;
 O Israel, if you would but listen to me!
- 9 There shall be no strange god among you;
 you shall not bow down to a foreign god.
- 10 I am the LORD your God,
 who brought you up out of the land of Egypt.
 Open your mouth wide and I will fill it.

- 11 "But my people did not listen to my voice;
 Israel would not submit to me.
- 12 So I gave them over to their stubborn hearts,
 to follow their own counsels.
- 13 O that my people would listen to me,
 that Israel would walk in my ways!
- 14 Then I would quickly subdue their enemies,
 and turn my hand against their foes.

- 15 Those who hate the LORD would cringe before him,
and their doom would last forever.
16 I would feed you with the finest of the wheat,
and with honey from the rock I would satisfy you."

[Psalm 82]

A vision of the divine judge

- 1 God has taken his place in the divine council;
in the midst of the gods he holds judgment:
2 "How long will you judge unjustly
and show partiality to the wicked?
3 Give justice to the weak and the orphan;
maintain the right of the lowly and the destitute.
4 Rescue the weak and the needy;
deliver them from the hand of the wicked."
5 They have neither knowledge nor understanding,
they walk around in darkness;
all the foundations of the earth are shaken.
6 I say, "You are gods,
children of the Most High, all of you;
7 nevertheless, you shall die like mortals,
and fall like any prince."
8 Rise up, O God, judge the earth;
for all the nations belong to you!

[Psalm 83]

Prayer for deliverance from national enemies

- 1 O God, do not keep silence;
do not hold your peace or be still, O God!
2 Even now your enemies are in tumult;
those who hate you have raised their heads.
3 They lay crafty plans against your people;
they consult together against those you protect.

- 4 They say, "Come, let us wipe them out as a nation;
let the name of Israel be remembered no more."
5 They conspire with one accord;
against you they make a covenant —
6 the tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites,
Moab and the Hagrites,
7 Gebal and Ammon and Amalek,
Philistia with the inhabitants of Tyre;
8 Assyria also has joined them;
they are the strong arm of the children of Lot.
- 9 Do to them as you did to Midian,
as to Sisera and Jabin at the Wadi Kishon, 10 who were destroyed at En-dor,
who became dung for the ground.
11 Make their nobles like Oreb and Zeeb,
all their princes like Zebah and Zalmunna, 12 who said, "Let us take the pastures of God
for our own possession."
- 13 O my God, make them like whirling dust,
like chaff before the wind.
14 As fire consumes the forest,
as the flame sets the mountains ablaze, 15 so pursue them with your tempest
and terrify them with your hurricane.
16 Fill their faces with shame,
so that they may seek your name, O LORD.
17 Let them be put to shame and dismayed forever;
let them perish in disgrace.
18 Let them know that you alone,
whose name is the LORD,
are the Most High over all the earth.

[Psalm 84]
Pilgrimage to Zion

- 1 How lovely is your dwelling place,
 O LORD of hosts!
- 2 My soul longs, indeed it faints
 for the courts of the LORD;
 my heart and my flesh sing for joy
 to the living God.

- 3 Even the sparrow finds a home,
 and the swallow a nest for herself,
 where she may lay her young,
 at your altars, O LORD of hosts,
 my King and my God.
- 4 Happy are those who live in your house,
 ever singing your praise.

- 5 Happy are those whose strength is in you,
 in whose heart are the highways to Zion.
- 6 As they go through the valley of Baca
 they make it a place of springs;
 the early rain also covers it with pools.
- 7 They go from strength to strength;
 the God of gods will be seen in Zion.

- 8 O LORD God of hosts, hear my prayer;
 give ear, O God of Jacob!
- 9 Behold our shield, O God;
 look on the face of your anointed.

- 10 For a day in your courts is better than a thousand elsewhere.
 I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God
 than live in the tents of wickedness.

- 11 For the LORD God is a sun and shield;
he bestows favor and honor.
No good thing does the LORD withhold from those who walk uprightly.
- 12 O LORD of hosts,
happy is everyone who trusts in you.

[Psalm 85]Prayer for divine favor and blessing

- 1 LORD, you were favorable to your land;
you restored the fortunes of Jacob.
- 2 You forgave the iniquity of your people;
you pardoned all their sin.
- 3 You withdrew all your wrath;
you turned from your hot anger.
- 4 Restore us again, O God of our salvation,
and put away your indignation toward us.
- 5 Will you be angry with us forever?
Will you prolong your anger to all generations?
- 6 Will you not revive us again,
so that your people may rejoice in you?
- 7 Show us your steadfast love, O LORD,
and grant us your salvation.
- 8 Let me hear what God the LORD will speak,
for he will speak peace to his people,
to his faithful, to those who turn to him in their hearts.
- 9 Surely his salvation is at hand for those who fear him,
that his glory may dwell in our land.
- 10 Steadfast love and faithfulness will meet;
righteousness and peace will kiss each other.
- 11 Faithfulness will spring up from the ground,
and righteousness will look down from the sky.

- 12 The LORD will give what is good,
and our land will yield its increase.
13 Righteousness will go before him,
and will make a path for his steps.

[Psalm 86]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Incline your ear, O LORD, and answer me,
for I am poor and needy.
2 Preserve my life, for I am devoted to you;
save your servant who trusts in you.
You are my God; 3 be gracious to me, O Lord,
for to you do I cry all day long.
4 Gladden the soul of your servant,
for to you, O Lord, I lift up my soul.
5 For you, O Lord, are good and forgiving,
abounding in steadfast love to all who call on you.
6 Give ear, O LORD, to my prayer;
listen to my cry of supplication.
7 In the day of my trouble I call on you,
for you will answer me.
- 8 There is none like you among the gods, O Lord,
nor are there any works like yours.
9 All the nations you have made shall come and bow down before you, O Lord,
and shall glorify your name.
10 For you are great and do wondrous things;
you alone are God.
11 Teach me your way, O LORD,
that I may walk in your truth;
give me an undivided heart to revere your name.
12 I give thanks to you, O Lord my God, with my whole heart,
and I will glorify your name forever.
13 For great is your steadfast love toward me;
you have delivered my soul from the depths of Sheol.

- 14 O God, the insolent rise up against me;
 a band of ruffians seeks my life,
 and they do not set you before them.
- 15 But you, O Lord, are a God merciful and gracious,
 slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love and faithfulness.
- 16 Turn to me and be gracious to me;
 give your strength to your servant;
 save the child of your serving girl.
- 17 Show me a sign of your favor,
 so that those who hate me may see it and be put to shame,
 because you, LORD, have helped me and comforted me.

[Psalm 87]
Praise of Zion

- 1 On the holy mount stands the city he founded;
 2 the LORD loves the gates of Zion
 more than all the dwellings of Jacob.
- 3 Glorious things are spoken of you,
 O city of God.
- 4 Among those who know me I mention Rahab and Babylon; Philistia too, and Tyre, with Ethiopia —
 "This one was born there," they say.
- 5 And of Zion it shall be said,
 "This one and that one were born in it";
 for the Most High himself will establish it.
- 6 The LORD records, as he registers the peoples,
 "This one was born there."
- 7 Singers and dancers alike say,
 "All my springs are in you."

[Psalm 88]
A Job-like lament

- 1 O LORD, God of my salvation,
 when, at night, I cry out in your presence,
2 let my prayer come before you;
 incline your ear to my cry.
- 3 For my soul is full of troubles,
 and my life draws near to Sheol.
4 I am counted among those who go down to the Pit;
 I am like those who have no help,
5 like those forsaken among the dead,
 like the slain that lie in the grave,
 like those whom you remember no more,
 for they are cut off from your hand.
6 You have put me in the depths of the Pit,
 in the regions dark and deep.
7 Your wrath lies heavy upon me,
 and you overwhelm me with all your waves.
- 8 You have caused my companions to shun me;
 you have made me a thing of horror to them.
 I am shut in so that I cannot escape;
9 my eye grows dim through sorrow.
 Every day I call on you, O LORD;
 I spread out my hands to you.
- 10 Do you work wonders for the dead?
 Do the shades rise up to praise you?
11 Is your steadfast love declared in the grave,
 or your faithfulness in Abaddon?
12 Are your wonders known in the darkness,
 or your saving help in the land of forgetfulness?
- 13 But I, O LORD, cry out to you;
 in the morning my prayer comes before you.
14 O LORD, why do you cast me off?
 Why do you hide your face from me?

- 15 Wretched and close to death from my youth up,
I suffer your terrors; I am desperate.
- 16 Your wrath has swept over me;
your dread assaults destroy me.
- 17 They surround me like a flood all day long;
from all sides they close in on me.
- 18 You have caused friend and neighbor to shun me;
my companions are in darkness.

[Psalm 89]

The king defeated, the dynasty at an end

- 1 I will sing of your steadfast love, O LORD, forever;
with my mouth I will proclaim your faithfulness
to all generations.
- 2 I declare that your steadfast love is established forever;
your faithfulness is as firm as the heavens.
- 3 You said, "I have made a covenant with my chosen one,
I have sworn to my servant David:
4 'I will establish your descendants forever,
and build your throne for all generations.'"
- 5 Let the heavens praise your wonders, O LORD,
your faithfulness in the assembly of the holy ones.
- 6 For who in the skies can be compared to the LORD?
Who among the heavenly beings is like the LORD,
7 a God feared in the council of the holy ones,
great and awesome above all that are around him?
- 8 O LORD God of hosts,
who is as mighty as you, O LORD?
Your faithfulness surrounds you.
- 9 You rule the raging of the sea;
when its waves rise, you still them.
- 10 You crushed Rahab like a carcass;
you scattered your enemies with your mighty arm.
- 11 The heavens are yours, the earth also is yours;
the world and all that is in it — you have founded them.

- 12 The north and the south — you created them;
Tabor and Hermon joyously praise your name.
- 13 You have a mighty arm;
strong is your hand, high your right hand.
- 14 Righteousness and justice are the foundation of your throne;
steadfast love and faithfulness go before you.
- 15 Happy are the people who know the festal shout,
who walk, O LORD, in the light of your countenance;
- 16 they exult in your name all day long,
and extol your righteousness.
- 17 For you are the glory of their strength;
by your favor our horn is exalted.
- 18 For our shield belongs to the LORD,
our king to the Holy One of Israel.
- 19 Then you spoke in a vision to your faithful one, and said:
"I have set the crown on one who is mighty,
I have exalted one chosen from the people.
- 20 I have found my servant David;
with my holy oil I have anointed him;
- 21 my hand shall always remain with him;
my arm also shall strengthen him.
- 22 The enemy shall not outwit him,
the wicked shall not humble him.
- 23 I will crush his foes before him
and strike down those who hate him.
- 24 My faithfulness and steadfast love shall be with him;
and in my name his horn shall be exalted.
- 25 I will set his hand on the sea
and his right hand on the rivers.
- 26 He shall cry to me, 'You are my Father,
my God, and the Rock of my salvation!'
- 27 I will make him the firstborn,
the highest of the kings of the earth.
- 28 Forever I will keep my steadfast love for him,
and my covenant with him will stand firm.
- 29 I will establish his line forever,
and his throne as long as the heavens endure.

- 30 If his children forsake my law
and do not walk according to my ordinances, 31 if they violate my statutes
and do not keep my commandments, 32 then I will punish their transgression with the rod and their iniquity with scourges;
33 but I will not remove from him my steadfast love,
or be false to my faithfulness.
34 I will not violate my covenant,
or alter the word that went forth from my lips.
35 Once and for all I have sworn by my holiness;
I will not lie to David.
36 His line shall continue forever,
and his throne endure before me like the sun.
37 It shall be established forever like the moon,
an enduring witness in the skies."
- 38 But now you have spurned and rejected him;
you are full of wrath against your anointed.
39 You have renounced the covenant with your servant;
you have defiled his crown in the dust.
40 You have broken through all his walls;
you have laid his strongholds in ruins.
41 All who pass by plunder him;
he has become the scorn of his neighbors.
42 You have exalted the right hand of his foes;
you have made all his enemies rejoice.
43 Moreover, you have turned back the edge of his sword,
and you have not supported him in battle.
44 You have removed the scepter from his hand,
and hurled his throne to the ground.
45 You have cut short the days of his youth;
you have covered him with shame.
- 46 How long, O LORD? Will you hide yourself forever?
How long will your wrath burn like fire?
47 Remember how short my time is —
for what vanity you have created all mortals!

48 Who can live and never see death?
 Who can escape the power of Sheol?

49 Lord, where is your steadfast love of old,
 which by your faithfulness you swore to David?
 50 Remember, O Lord, how your servant is taunted;
 how I bear in my bosom the insults of the peoples, 51 with which your enemies taunt, O LORD,
 with which they taunted the footsteps of your anointed.

52 Blessed be the LORD forever.
 Amen and Amen.

BOOK IV (PSALMS 90–106)

[Psalm 90]

The eternity of God and the brevity of human life

1 Lord, you have been our dwelling place
 in all generations.
 2 Before the mountains were brought forth,
 or ever you had formed the earth and the world,
 from everlasting to everlasting you are God.
 3 You turn us back to dust,
 and say, "Turn back, you mortals."
 4 For a thousand years in your sight
 are like yesterday when it is past, or like a watch in the night.
 5 You sweep them away; they are like a dream,
 like grass that is renewed in the morning;
 6 in the morning it flourishes and is renewed;
 in the evening it fades and withers.
 7 For we are consumed by your anger;
 by your wrath we are overwhelmed.

- 8 You have set our iniquities before you,
our secret sins in the light of your countenance.
- 9 For all our days pass away under your wrath;
our years come to an end like a sigh.
- 10 The days of our life are seventy years,
or perhaps eighty, if we are strong;
even then their span is only toil and trouble;
they are soon gone, and we fly away.
- 11 Who considers the power of your anger?
Your wrath is as great as the fear that is due you.
- 12 So teach us to count our days
that we may gain a wise heart.
- 13 Turn, O LORD! How long?
Have compassion on your servants!
- 14 Satisfy us in the morning with your steadfast love,
so that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.
- 15 Make us glad as many days as you have afflicted us,
and as many years as we have seen evil.
- 16 Let your work be manifest to your servants,
and your glorious power to their children.
- 17 Let the favor of the Lord our God be upon us,
and prosper for us the work of our hands —
O prosper the work of our hands!

[Psalm 91]

God the protector from demonic foes

- 1 You who live in the shelter of the Most High,
who abide in the shadow of the Almighty,
2 will say to the LORD, "My refuge and my fortress;
my God, in whom I trust."
3 For he will deliver you from the snare of the fowler and from the deadly pestilence;

- 4 he will cover you with his pinions,
and under his wings you will find refuge;
his faithfulness is a shield and buckler.
- 5 You will not fear the terror of the night,
or the arrow that flies by day,
6 or the pestilence that stalks in darkness,
or the destruction that wastes at noonday.
- 7 A thousand may fall at your side,
ten thousand at your right hand,
but it will not come near you.
- 8 You will only look with your eyes
and see the punishment of the wicked.
- 9 Because you have made the LORD your refuge,
the Most High your dwelling place, 10 no evil shall befall you,
no scourge come near your tent.
- 11 For he will command his angels concerning you to guard you in all your ways.
- 12 On their hands they will bear you up,
so that you will not dash your foot against a stone.
- 13 You will tread on the lion and the adder,
the young lion and the serpent you will trample under foot.
- 14 Those who love me, I will deliver;
I will protect those who know my name.
- 15 When they call to me, I will answer them;
I will be with them in trouble,
I will rescue them and honor them.
- 16 With long life I will satisfy them,
and show them my salvation.

[Psalm 92]Thanksgiving for deliverance from enemies

- 1 It is good to give thanks to the LORD,
to sing praises to your name, O Most High;
- 2 to declare your steadfast love in the morning,
and your faithfulness by night,
- 3 to the music of the lute and the harp,
to the melody of the lyre.
- 4 For you, O LORD, have made me glad by your work;
at the works of your hands I sing for joy.

- 5 How great are your works, O LORD!
Your thoughts are very deep!
- 6 The dullard cannot know,
the stupid cannot understand this:
- 7 though the wicked sprout like grass
and all evildoers flourish,
they are doomed to destruction forever,
- 8 but you, O LORD, are on high forever.
- 9 For your enemies, O LORD,
for your enemies shall perish;
all evildoers shall be scattered.
- 10 But you have exalted my horn like that of the wild ox;
you have poured over me fresh oil.
- 11 My eyes have seen the downfall of my enemies;
my ears have heard the doom of my evil assailants.

- 12 The righteous flourish like the palm tree,
and grow like a cedar in Lebanon.
- 13 They are planted in the house of the LORD;
they flourish in the courts of our God.
- 14 In old age they still produce fruit;
they are always green and full of sap,
- 15 showing that the LORD is upright;
he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him.

[Psalm 93]The LORD's Enthronement

- 1 The LORD is king, he is robed in majesty;
 the LORD is robed, he is girded with strength.
 He has established the world; it shall never be moved;
- 2 your throne is established from of old;
 you are from everlasting.
- 3 The floods have lifted up, O LORD,
 the floods have lifted up their voice;
 the floods lift up their roaring.
- 4 More majestic than the thunders of mighty waters,
 more majestic than the waves of the sea,
 majestic on high is the LORD!
- 5 Your decrees are very sure;
 holiness befits your house,
 O LORD, forevermore.

[Psalm 94]Prayer for deliverance from evildoers

- 1 O LORD, you God of vengeance,
 you God of vengeance, shine forth!
- 2 Rise up, O judge of the earth;
 give to the proud what they deserve!
- 3 O LORD, how long shall the wicked,
 how long shall the wicked exult?
- 4 They pour out their arrogant words;
 all the evildoers boast.
- 5 They crush your people, O LORD,
 and afflict your heritage.
- 6 They kill the widow and the stranger,
 they murder the orphan,
- 7 and they say, "The LORD does not see;
 the God of Jacob does not perceive."

- 8 Understand, O dullest of the people;
fools, when will you be wise?
- 9 He who planted the ear, does he not hear?
He who formed the eye, does he not see?
- 10 He who disciplines the nations,
he who teaches knowledge to humankind,
does he not chastise?
- 11 The LORD knows our thoughts,
that they are but an empty breath.
- 12 Happy are those whom you discipline, O LORD,
and whom you teach out of your law, 13 giving them respite from days of trouble,
until a pit is dug for the wicked.
- 14 For the LORD will not forsake his people;
he will not abandon his heritage;
15 for justice will return to the righteous,
and all the upright in heart will follow it.
- 16 Who rises up for me against the wicked?
Who stands up for me against evildoers?
- 17 If the LORD had not been my help,
my soul would soon have lived in the land of silence.
- 18 When I thought, "My foot is slipping,"
your steadfast love, O LORD, held me up.
- 19 When the cares of my heart are many,
your consolations cheer my soul.
- 20 Can wicked rulers be allied with you,
those who contrive mischief by statute?
- 21 They band together against the life of the righteous,
and condemn the innocent to death.
- 22 But the LORD has become my stronghold,
and my God the rock of my refuge.
- 23 He will repay them for their iniquity
and wipe them out for their wickedness;
the LORD our God will wipe them out.

[Psalm 95]
God's kingship

- 1 O come, let us sing to the LORD;
 let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation!
- 2 Let us come into his presence with thanksgiving;
 let us make a joyful noise to him with songs of praise!
- 3 For the LORD is a great God,
 and a great King above all gods.
- 4 In his hand are the depths of the earth;
 the heights of the mountains are his also.
- 5 The sea is his, for he made it,
 and the dry land, which his hands have formed.
- 6 O come, let us worship and bow down,
 let us kneel before the LORD, our Maker!
- 7 For he is our God,
 and we are the people of his pasture,
 and the sheep of his hand.
 O that today you would listen to his voice!
- 8 Do not harden your hearts, as at Meribah,
 as on the day at Massah in the wilderness,
- 9 when your ancestors tested me,
 and put me to the proof, though they had seen my work.
- 10 For forty years I loathed that generation and said, "They are a people whose hearts go astray,
 and they do not regard my ways."
- 11 Therefore in my anger I swore,
 "They shall not enter my rest."

[Psalm 96]
The LORD's enthronement

- 1 O sing to the LORD a new song;
 sing to the LORD, all the earth.
- 2 Sing to the LORD, bless his name;
 tell of his salvation from day to day.

- 3 Declare his glory among the nations,
his marvelous works among all the peoples.
- 4 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised;
he is to be revered above all gods.
- 5 For all the gods of the peoples are idols,
but the LORD made the heavens.
- 6 Honor and majesty are before him;
strength and beauty are in his sanctuary.
- 7 Ascribe to the LORD, O families of the peoples,
ascribe to the LORD glory and strength.
- 8 Ascribe to the LORD the glory due his name;
bring an offering, and come into his courts.
- 9 Worship the LORD in holy splendor;
tremble before him, all the earth.
- 10 Say among the nations, "The LORD is king!
The world is firmly established; it shall never be moved.
He will judge the peoples with equity."
- 11 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice;
let the sea roar, and all that fills it;
- 12 let the field exult, and everything in it.
Then shall all the trees of the forest sing for joy
- 13 before the LORD; for he is coming,
for he is coming to judge the earth.
He will judge the world with righteousness,
and the peoples with his truth.

[Psalm 97]

The LORD's enthronement

- 1 The LORD is king! Let the earth rejoice;
let the many coastlands be glad!
- 2 Clouds and thick darkness are all around him;
righteousness and justice are the foundation of his throne.
- 3 Fire goes before him,
and consumes his adversaries on every side.
- 4 His lightnings light up the world;
the earth sees and trembles.

- 5 The mountains melt like wax before the LORD,
before the Lord of all the earth.
- 6 The heavens proclaim his righteousness;
and all the peoples behold his glory.
- 7 All worshipers of images are put to shame,
those who make their boast in worthless idols;
all gods bow down before him.
- 8 Zion hears and is glad,
and the towns of Judah rejoice,
because of your judgments, O God.
- 9 For you, O LORD, are most high over all the earth;
you are exalted far above all gods.
- 10 The LORD loves those who hate evil;
he guards the lives of his faithful;
he rescues them from the hand of the wicked.
- 11 Light dawns for the righteous,
and joy for the upright in heart.
- 12 Rejoice in the LORD, O you righteous,
and give thanks to his holy name!

[Psalm 98]
God's kingship

- 1 O sing to the LORD a new song,
for he has done marvelous things.
His right hand and his holy arm
have gotten him victory.
- 2 The LORD has made known his victory;
he has revealed his vindication in the sight of the nations.
- 3 He has remembered his steadfast love and faithfulness
to the house of Israel.
All the ends of the earth have seen
the victory of our God.

- 4 Make a joyful noise to the LORD, all the earth;
break forth into joyous song and sing praises.
- 5 Sing praises to the LORD with the lyre,
with the lyre and the sound of melody.
- 6 With trumpets and the sound of the horn make a joyful noise before the King, the LORD.
- 7 Let the sea roar, and all that fills it;
the world and those who live in it.
- 8 Let the floods clap their hands;
let the hills sing together for joy
- 9 at the presence of the LORD, for he is coming to judge the earth.
He will judge the world with righteousness,
and the peoples with equity.

[Psalm 99]

The LORD's enthronement

- 1 The LORD is king; let the peoples tremble!
He sits enthroned upon the cherubim; let the earth quake!
- 2 The LORD is great in Zion;
he is exalted over all the peoples.
- 3 Let them praise your great and awesome name.
Holy is he!
- 4 Mighty King, lover of justice,
you have established equity;
you have executed justice
and righteousness in Jacob.
- 5 Extol the LORD our God;
worship at his footstool.
Holy is he!
- 6 Moses and Aaron were among his priests,
Samuel also was among those who called on his name.
They cried to the LORD, and he answered them.

7 He spoke to them in the pillar of cloud;
 they kept his decrees,
 and the statutes that he gave them.

8 O LORD our God, you answered them;
 you were a forgiving God to them,
 but an avenger of their wrongdoings.

9 Extol the LORD our God,
 and worship at his holy mountain;
 for the LORD our God is holy.

[Psalm 100]

Praise of God from the nations

1 Make a joyful noise to the LORD, all the earth.

2 Worship the LORD with gladness;
 come into his presence with singing.

3 Know that the LORD is God.
 It is he that made us, and we are his;
 we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

4 Enter his gates with thanksgiving,
 and his courts with praise.
 Give thanks to him, bless his name.

5 For the LORD is good;
 his steadfast love endures forever,
 and his faithfulness to all generations.

[Psalm 101]

The king as wise ruler

1 I will sing of loyalty and of justice;
 to you, O LORD, I will sing.
 2 I will study the way that is blameless.
 When shall I attain it?

- I will walk with integrity of heart
within my house;
- 3 I will not set before my eyes
anything that is base.
I hate the work of those who fall away;
it shall not cling to me.
- 4 Perverseness of heart shall be far from me;
I will know nothing of evil.
- 5 One who secretly slanders a neighbor
I will destroy.
A haughty look and an arrogant heart
I will not tolerate.
- 6 I will look with favor on the faithful in the land,
so that they may live with me;
whoever walks in the way that is blameless
shall minister to me.
- 7 No one who practices deceit
shall remain in my house;
no one who utters lies
shall continue in my presence.
- 8 Morning by morning I will destroy all the wicked in the land, cutting off all evildoers
from the city of the LORD.

[Psalm 102]

Prayer for personal and national restoration

- 1 Hear my prayer, O LORD;
let my cry come to you.
- 2 Do not hide your face from me
in the day of my distress.
Incline your ear to me;
answer me speedily in the day when I call.

- 3 For my days pass away like smoke,
and my bones burn like a furnace.
- 4 My heart is stricken and withered like grass;
I am too wasted to eat my bread.
- 5 Because of my loud groaning
my bones cling to my skin.
- 6 I am like an owl of the wilderness,
like a little owl of the waste places.
- 7 I lie awake;
I am like a lonely bird on the housetop.
- 8 All day long my enemies taunt me;
those who deride me use my name for a curse.
- 9 For I eat ashes like bread,
and mingle tears with my drink,
- 10 because of your indignation and anger;
for you have lifted me up and thrown me aside.
- 11 My days are like an evening shadow;
I wither away like grass.
- 12 But you, O LORD, are enthroned forever;
your name endures to all generations.
- 13 You will rise up and have compassion on Zion,
for it is time to favor it;
the appointed time has come.
- 14 For your servants hold its stones dear,
and have pity on its dust.
- 15 The nations will fear the name of the LORD,
and all the kings of the earth your glory.
- 16 For the LORD will build up Zion;
he will appear in his glory.
- 17 He will regard the prayer of the destitute,
and will not despise their prayer.
- 18 Let this be recorded for a generation to come,
so that a people yet unborn may praise the LORD:
- 19 that he looked down from his holy height,
from heaven the LORD looked at the earth,

20 to hear the groans of the prisoners,
 to set free those who were doomed to die;
 21 so that the name of the LORD may be declared in Zion,
 and his praise in Jerusalem, 22 when peoples gather together,
 and kingdoms, to worship the LORD.

23 He has broken my strength in midcourse;
 he has shortened my days.
 24 "O my God," I say, "do not take me away
 at the midpoint of my life,
 you whose years endure
 throughout all generations."

25 Long ago you laid the foundation of the earth,
 and the heavens are the work of your hands.
 26 They will perish, but you endure;
 they will all wear out like a garment.
 You change them like clothing, and they pass away;
 27 but you are the same, and your years have no end.
 28 The children of your servants shall live secure;
 their offspring shall be established in your presence.

[Psalm 103]
Praise of the savior God

1 Bless the LORD, O my soul,
 and all that is within me,
 bless his holy name.
 2 Bless the LORD, O my soul,
 and do not forget all his benefits —
 3 who forgives all your iniquity,
 who heals all your diseases,
 4 who redeems your life from the Pit,
 who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy,
 5 who satisfies you with good as long as you live
 so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's.

- 6 The LORD works vindication
and justice for all who are oppressed.
- 7 He made known his ways to Moses,
his acts to the people of Israel.
- 8 The LORD is merciful and gracious,
slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.
- 9 He will not always accuse,
nor will he keep his anger forever.
- 10 He does not deal with us according to our sins,
nor repay us according to our iniquities.
- 11 For as the heavens are high above the earth,
so great is his steadfast love toward those who fear him;
- 12 as far as the east is from the west,
so far he removes our transgressions from us.
- 13 As a father has compassion for his children,
so the LORD has compassion for those who fear him.
- 14 For he knows how we were made;
he remembers that we are dust.
- 15 As for mortals, their days are like grass;
they flourish like a flower of the field;
- 16 for the wind passes over it, and it is gone,
and its place knows it no more.
- 17 But the steadfast love of the LORD is from everlasting to everlasting on those who fear him,
and his righteousness to children's children,
- 18 to those who keep his covenant
and remember to do his commandments.
- 19 The LORD has established his throne in the heavens,
and his kingdom rules over all.
- 20 Bless the LORD, O you his angels,
you mighty ones who do his bidding,
obedient to his spoken word.
- 21 Bless the LORD, all his hosts,
his ministers that do his will.
- 22 Bless the LORD, all his works,
in all places of his dominion.
Bless the LORD, O my soul.

[Psalm 104]God the creator and sustainer

- 1 Bless the LORD, O my soul.
 O LORD my God, you are very great.
 You are clothed with honor and majesty,
2 wrapped in light as with a garment.
 You stretch out the heavens like a tent,
3 you set the beams of your chambers on the waters,
 you make the clouds your chariot,
 you ride on the wings of the wind,
4 you make the winds your messengers,
 fire and flame your ministers.
- 5 You set the earth on its foundations,
 so that it shall never be shaken.
6 You cover it with the deep as with a garment;
 the waters stood above the mountains.
7 At your rebuke they flee;
 at the sound of your thunder they take to flight.
8 They rose up to the mountains, ran down to the valleys
 to the place that you appointed for them.
9 You set a boundary that they may not pass,
 so that they might not again cover the earth.
- 10 You make springs gush forth in the valleys;
 they flow between the hills, 11 giving drink to every wild animal;
 the wild asses quench their thirst.
12 By the streams the birds of the air have their habitation;
 they sing among the branches.
13 From your lofty abode you water the mountains;
 the earth is satisfied with the fruit of your work.

- 14 You cause the grass to grow for the cattle,
and plants for people to use,
to bring forth food from the earth, 15 and wine to gladden the human heart,
oil to make the face shine,
and bread to strengthen the human heart.
16 The trees of the LORD are watered abundantly,
the cedars of Lebanon that he planted.
17 In them the birds build their nests;
the stork has its home in the fir trees.
18 The high mountains are for the wild goats;
the rocks are a refuge for the coney.
19 You have made the moon to mark the seasons;
the sun knows its time for setting.
20 You make darkness, and it is night,
when all the animals of the forest come creeping out.
21 The young lions roar for their prey,
seeking their food from God.
22 When the sun rises, they withdraw and lie down in their dens.
23 People go out to their work and to their labor until the evening.
- 24 O LORD, how manifold are your works!
In wisdom you have made them all;
the earth is full of your creatures.
25 Yonder is the sea, great and wide,
creeping things innumerable are there,
living things both small and great.
26 There go the ships,
and Leviathan that you formed to sport in it.
- 27 These all look to you to give them their food in due season; 28 when you give to them, they gather it up;
when you open your hand, they are filled with good things.

- 29 When you hide your face, they are dismayed;
when you take away their breath, they die
and return to their dust.
- 30 When you send forth your spirit, they are created;
and you renew the face of the ground.
- 31 May the glory of the LORD endure forever;
may the LORD rejoice in his works —
- 32 who looks on the earth and it trembles,
who touches the mountains and they smoke.
- 33 I will sing to the LORD as long as I live;
I will sing praise to my God while I have being.
- 34 May my meditation be pleasing to him,
for I rejoice in the LORD.
- 35 Let sinners be consumed from the earth,
and let the wicked be no more.
Bless the LORD, O my soul.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 105]

Recital of God's saving acts for Israel

- 1 O give thanks to the LORD, call on his name,
make known his deeds among the peoples.
- 2 Sing to him, sing praises to him;
tell of all his wonderful works.
- 3 Glory in his holy name;
let the hearts of those who seek the LORD rejoice.
- 4 Seek the LORD and his strength;
seek his presence continually.
- 5 Remember the wonderful works he has done,
his miracles, and the judgments he has uttered,
- 6 O offspring of his servant Abraham,
children of Jacob, his chosen ones.

7 He is the LORD our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
8 He is mindful of his covenant forever,
of the word that he commanded, for a thousand generations, 9 the covenant that he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
10 which he confirmed to Jacob as a statute,
to Israel as an everlasting covenant, 11 saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan
as your portion for an inheritance."

12 When they were few in number,
of little account, and strangers in it, 13 wandering from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another people, 14 he allowed no one to oppress them;
he rebuked kings on their account, 15 saying, "Do not touch my anointed ones;
do my prophets no harm."

16 When he summoned famine against the land,
and broke every staff of bread,
17 he had sent a man ahead of them,
Joseph, who was sold as a slave.
18 His feet were hurt with fetters,
his neck was put in a collar of iron;
19 until what he had said came to pass,
the word of the LORD kept testing him.
20 The king sent and released him;
the ruler of the peoples set him free.
21 He made him lord of his house,
and ruler of all his possessions, 22 to instruct his officials at his pleasure,
and to teach his elders wisdom.

- 23 Then Israel came to Egypt;
 Jacob lived as an alien in the land of Ham.
- 24 And the LORD made his people very fruitful,
 and made them stronger than their foes,
25 whose hearts he then turned to hate his people,
 to deal craftily with his servants.
- 26 He sent his servant Moses,
 and Aaron whom he had chosen.
- 27 They performed his signs among them,
 and miracles in the land of Ham.
- 28 He sent darkness, and made the land dark;
 they rebelled against his words.
- 29 He turned their waters into blood,
 and caused their fish to die.
- 30 Their land swarmed with frogs,
 even in the chambers of their kings.
- 31 He spoke, and there came swarms of flies,
 and gnats throughout their country.
- 32 He gave them hail for rain,
 and lightning that flashed through their land.
- 33 He struck their vines and fig trees,
 and shattered the trees of their country.
- 34 He spoke, and the locusts came,
 and young locusts without number;
- 35 they devoured all the vegetation in their land,
 and ate up the fruit of their ground.
- 36 He struck down all the firstborn in their land,
 the first issue of all their strength.
- 37 Then he brought Israel out with silver and gold,
 and there was no one among their tribes who stumbled.
- 38 Egypt was glad when they departed,
 for dread of them had fallen upon it.
- 39 He spread a cloud for a covering,
 and fire to give light by night.

40 They asked, and he brought quails,
 and gave them food from heaven in abundance.
 41 He opened the rock, and water gushed out;
 it flowed through the desert like a river.
 42 For he remembered his holy promise,
 and Abraham, his servant.
 43 So he brought his people out with joy,
 his chosen ones with singing.
 44 He gave them the lands of the nations,
 and they took possession of the wealth of the peoples, 45 that they might keep his statutes
 and observe his laws.
 Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 106]

Confession of national sin

1 Praise the LORD!
 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good;
 for his steadfast love endures forever.
 2 Who can utter the mighty doings of the LORD,
 or declare all his praise?
 3 Happy are those who observe justice,
 who do righteousness at all times.

 4 Remember me, O LORD, when you show favor to your people;
 help me when you deliver them;
 5 that I may see the prosperity of your chosen ones,
 that I may rejoice in the gladness of your nation,
 that I may glory in your heritage.
 6 Both we and our ancestors have sinned;
 we have committed iniquity, have done wickedly.
 7 Our ancestors, when they were in Egypt,
 did not consider your wonderful works;
 they did not remember the abundance of your steadfast love,
 but rebelled against the Most High at the Red Sea.
 8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake,
 so that he might make known his mighty power.

- 9 He rebuked the Red Sea, and it became dry;
he led them through the deep as through a desert.
- 10 So he saved them from the hand of the foe,
and delivered them from the hand of the enemy.
- 11 The waters covered their adversaries;
not one of them was left.
- 12 Then they believed his words;
they sang his praise.
- 13 But they soon forgot his works;
they did not wait for his counsel.
- 14 But they had a wanton craving in the wilderness,
and put God to the test in the desert;
- 15 he gave them what they asked,
but sent a wasting disease among them.
- 16 They were jealous of Moses in the camp,
and of Aaron, the holy one of the LORD.
- 17 The earth opened and swallowed up Dathan,
and covered the faction of Abiram.
- 18 Fire also broke out in their company;
the flame burned up the wicked.
- 19 They made a calf at Horeb
and worshiped a cast image.
- 20 They exchanged the glory of God
for the image of an ox that eats grass.
- 21 They forgot God, their Savior,
who had done great things in Egypt,
- 22 wondrous works in the land of Ham,
and awesome deeds by the Red Sea.
- 23 Therefore he said he would destroy them —
had not Moses, his chosen one,
stood in the breach before him,
to turn away his wrath from destroying them.

- 24 Then they despised the pleasant land,
having no faith in his promise.
- 25 They grumbled in their tents,
and did not obey the voice of the LORD.
- 26 Therefore he raised his hand and swore to them
that he would make them fall in the wilderness, 27 and would disperse their descendants among the nations, scattering them over the lands.
- 28 Then they attached themselves to the Baal of Peor,
and ate sacrifices offered to the dead;
29 they provoked the LORD to anger with their deeds,
and a plague broke out among them.
- 30 Then Phinehas stood up and interceded,
and the plague was stopped.
- 31 And that has been reckoned to him as righteousness
from generation to generation forever.
- 32 They angered the LORD at the waters of Meribah,
and it went ill with Moses on their account; 33 for they made his spirit bitter,
and he spoke words that were rash.
- 34 They did not destroy the peoples,
as the LORD commanded them, 35 but they mingled with the nations
and learned to do as they did.
- 36 They served their idols,
which became a snare to them.
- 37 They sacrificed their sons
and their daughters to the demons; 38 they poured out innocent blood,
the blood of their sons and daughters,
whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan;
and the land was polluted with blood.
- 39 Thus they became unclean by their acts,
and prostituted themselves in their doings.
- 40 Then the anger of the LORD was kindled against his people,
and he abhorred his heritage;

- 41 he gave them into the hand of the nations,
so that those who hated them ruled over them.
- 42 Their enemies oppressed them,
and they were brought into subjection under their power.
- 43 Many times he delivered them,
but they were rebellious in their purposes,
and were brought low through their iniquity.
- 44 Nevertheless he regarded their distress
when he heard their cry.
- 45 For their sake he remembered his covenant,
and showed compassion according to the abundance of his steadfast love.
- 46 He caused them to be pitied
by all who held them captive.
- 47 Save us, O LORD our God,
and gather us from among the nations,
that we may give thanks to your holy name
and glory in your praise.
- 48 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting.
And let all the people say, "Amen."
Praise the LORD!

BOOK V (PSALMS 107–150)

[Psalm 107]

Thanksgiving for return from exile

- 1 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good;
for his steadfast love endures forever.
- 2 Let the redeemed of the LORD say so,
those he redeemed from trouble
- 3 and gathered in from the lands,
from the east and from the west,
from the north and from the south.

- 4 Some wandered in desert wastes,
finding no way to an inhabited town;
5 hungry and thirsty,
their soul fainted within them.
6 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
and he delivered them from their distress;
7 he led them by a straight way,
until they reached an inhabited town.
8 Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love,
for his wonderful works to humankind.
9 For he satisfies the thirsty,
and the hungry he fills with good things.
- 10 Some sat in darkness and in gloom,
prisoners in misery and in irons,
11 for they had rebelled against the words of God,
and spurned the counsel of the Most High.
12 Their hearts were bowed down with hard labor;
they fell down, with no one to help.
13 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress;
14 he brought them out of darkness and gloom,
and broke their bonds asunder.
15 Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love,
for his wonderful works to humankind.
16 For he shatters the doors of bronze,
and cuts in two the bars of iron.
- 17 Some were sick through their sinful ways,
and because of their iniquities endured affliction;
18 they loathed any kind of food,
and they drew near to the gates of death.
19 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress;
20 he sent out his word and healed them,
and delivered them from destruction.
21 Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love,
for his wonderful works to humankind.

- 22 And let them offer thanksgiving sacrifices,
and tell of his deeds with songs of joy.
- 23 Some went down to the sea in ships,
doing business on the mighty waters;
24 they saw the deeds of the LORD,
his wondrous works in the deep.
- 25 For he commanded and raised the stormy wind,
which lifted up the waves of the sea.
- 26 They mounted up to heaven, they went down to the depths;
their courage melted away in their calamity; 27 they reeled and staggered like drunkards,
and were at their wits' end.
- 28 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
and he brought them out from their distress;
29 he made the storm be still,
and the waves of the sea were hushed.
- 30 Then they were glad because they had quiet,
and he brought them to their desired haven.
- 31 Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love,
for his wonderful works to humankind.
- 32 Let them extol him in the congregation of the people,
and praise him in the assembly of the elders.
- 33 He turns rivers into a desert,
springs of water into thirsty ground, 34 a fruitful land into a salty waste,
because of the wickedness of its inhabitants.
- 35 He turns a desert into pools of water,
a parched land into springs of water.
- 36 And there he lets the hungry live,
and they establish a town to live in;
37 they sow fields, and plant vineyards,
and get a fruitful yield.
- 38 By his blessing they multiply greatly,
and he does not let their cattle decrease.

39 When they are diminished and brought low through oppression, trouble, and sorrow, 40 he pours contempt on princes
 and makes them wander in trackless wastes; 41 but he raises up the needy out of distress,
 and makes their families like flocks.
 42 The upright see it and are glad;
 and all wickedness stops its mouth.
 43 Let those who are wise give heed to these things,
 and consider the steadfast love of the LORD.

[Psalm 108]

Request for victory over national enemies

1 My heart is steadfast, O God, my heart is steadfast;
 I will sing and make melody.
 Awake, my soul!
 2 Awake, O harp and lyre!
 I will awake the dawn.
 3 I will give thanks to you, O LORD, among the peoples,
 and I will sing praises to you among the nations.
 4 For your steadfast love is higher than the heavens,
 and your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.

 5 Be exalted, O God, above the heavens,
 and let your glory be over all the earth.
 6 Give victory with your right hand, and answer me,
 so that those whom you love may be rescued.

 7 God has promised in his sanctuary:
 "With exultation I will divide up Shechem,
 and portion out the Vale of Succoth.
 8 Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine;
 Ephraim is my helmet;
 Judah is my scepter.
 9 Moab is my washbasin;
 on Edom I hurl my shoe;
 over Philistia I shout in triumph."

- 10 Who will bring me to the fortified city?
 Who will lead me to Edom?
- 11 Have you not rejected us, O God?
 You do not go out, O God, with our armies.
- 12 O grant us help against the foe,
 for human help is worthless.
- 13 With God we shall do valiantly;
 it is he who will tread down our foes.

[Psalm 109]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Do not be silent, O God of my praise.
- 2 For wicked and deceitful mouths are opened against me,
 speaking against me with lying tongues.
- 3 They beset me with words of hate,
 and attack me without cause.
- 4 In return for my love they accuse me,
 even while I make prayer for them.
- 5 So they reward me evil for good,
 and hatred for my love.
- 6 They say, "Appoint a wicked man against him;
 let an accuser stand on his right.
- 7 When he is tried, let him be found guilty;
 let his prayer be counted as sin.
- 8 May his days be few;
 may another seize his position.
- 9 May his children be orphans,
 and his wife a widow.
- 10 May his children wander about and beg;
 may they be driven out of the ruins they inhabit.
- 11 May the creditor seize all that he has;
 may strangers plunder the fruits of his toil.
- 12 May there be no one to do him a kindness,
 nor anyone to pity his orphaned children.
- 13 May his posterity be cut off;
 may his name be blotted out in the second generation.

- 14 May the iniquity of his father be remembered before the LORD, and do not let the sin of his mother be blotted out.
- 15 Let them be before the LORD continually,
and may his memory be cut off from the earth.
- 16 For he did not remember to show kindness,
but pursued the poor and needy
and the brokenhearted to their death.
- 17 He loved to curse; let curses come on him.
He did not like blessing; may it be far from him.
- 18 He clothed himself with cursing as his coat,
may it soak into his body like water,
like oil into his bones.
- 19 May it be like a garment that he wraps around himself, like a belt that he wears every day."
- 20 May that be the reward of my accusers from the LORD,
of those who speak evil against my life.
- 21 But you, O LORD my Lord,
act on my behalf for your name's sake;
because your steadfast love is good, deliver me.
- 22 For I am poor and needy,
and my heart is pierced within me.
- 23 I am gone like a shadow at evening;
I am shaken off like a locust.
- 24 My knees are weak through fasting;
my body has become gaunt.
- 25 I am an object of scorn to my accusers;
when they see me, they shake their heads.
- 26 Help me, O LORD my God!
Save me according to your steadfast love.
- 27 Let them know that this is your hand;
you, O LORD, have done it.
- 28 Let them curse, but you will bless.
Let my assailants be put to shame; may your servant be glad.
- 29 May my accusers be clothed with dishonor;
may they be wrapped in their own shame as in a mantle.

- 30 With my mouth I will give great thanks to the LORD;
I will praise him in the midst of the throng.
31 For he stands at the right hand of the needy,
to save them from those who would condemn them to death.

[Psalm 110]
The Davidic king

- 1 The LORD says to my lord,
"Sit at my right hand
until I make your enemies your footstool."

2 The LORD sends out from Zion
your mighty scepter.
Rule in the midst of your foes.
3 Your people will offer themselves willingly on the day you lead your forces
on the holy mountains.
From the womb of the morning,
like dew, your youth will come to you.
4 The LORD has sworn and will not change his mind,
"You are a priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek."

5 The Lord is at your right hand;
he will shatter kings on the day of his wrath.
6 He will execute judgment among the nations,
filling them with corpses;
he will shatter heads
over the wide earth.
7 He will drink from the stream by the path;
therefore he will lift up his head.

[Psalm 111]Praise of God for his wondrous deeds

1 Praise the LORD!

I will give thanks to the LORD with my whole heart,
in the company of the upright, in the congregation.

2 Great are the works of the LORD,
studied by all who delight in them.

3 Full of honor and majesty is his work,
and his righteousness endures forever.

4 He has gained renown by his wonderful deeds;
the LORD is gracious and merciful.

5 He provides food for those who fear him;
he is ever mindful of his covenant.

6 He has shown his people the power of his works,
in giving them the heritage of the nations.

7 The works of his hands are faithful and just;
all his precepts are trustworthy.

8 They are established forever and ever,
to be performed with faithfulness and uprightness.

9 He sent redemption to his people;
he has commanded his covenant forever.
Holy and awesome is his name.

10 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom;
all those who practice it have a good understanding.
His praise endures forever.

[Psalm 112]The contrasting fates of the righteous and the wicked

1 Praise the LORD!

Happy are those who fear the LORD,
who greatly delight in his commandments.

2 Their descendants will be mighty in the land;
the generation of the upright will be blessed.

3 Wealth and riches are in their houses,
and their righteousness endures forever.

- 4 They rise in the darkness as a light for the upright;
they are gracious, merciful, and righteous.
- 5 It is well with those who deal generously and lend,
who conduct their affairs with justice.
- 6 For the righteous will never be moved;
they will be remembered forever.
- 7 They are not afraid of evil tidings;
their hearts are firm, secure in the LORD.
- 8 Their hearts are steady, they will not be afraid;
in the end they will look in triumph on their foes.
- 9 They have distributed freely, they have given to the poor;
their righteousness endures forever;
their horn is exalted in honor.
- 10 The wicked see it and are angry;
they gnash their teeth and melt away;
the desire of the wicked comes to nothing.

[Psalm 113]

Praise of the divine name

- 1 Praise the LORD!
Praise, O servants of the LORD;
praise the name of the LORD.
- 2 Blessed be the name of the LORD
from this time on and forevermore.
- 3 From the rising of the sun to its setting
the name of the LORD is to be praised.
- 4 The LORD is high above all nations,
and his glory above the heavens.
- 5 Who is like the LORD our God,
who is seated on high,
6 who looks far down
on the heavens and the earth?
7 He raises the poor from the dust,
and lifts the needy from the ash heap,

8 to make them sit with princes,
 with the princes of his people.
 9 He gives the barren woman a home,
 making her the joyous mother of children.
 Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 114]

Praise of God of the Exodus

1 When Israel went out from Egypt,
 the house of Jacob from a people of strange language,
 2 Judah became God's sanctuary,
 Israel his dominion.

 3 The sea looked and fled;
 Jordan turned back.
 4 The mountains skipped like rams,
 the hills like lambs.

 5 Why is it, O sea, that you flee?
 O Jordan, that you turn back?
 6 O mountains, that you skip like rams?
 O hills, like lambs?

 7 Tremble, O earth, at the presence of the LORD,
 at the presence of the God of Jacob, 8 who turns the rock into a pool of water,
 the flint into a spring of water.

[Psalm 115]

The LORD's supremacy over the gods

1 Not to us, O LORD, not to us, but to your name give glory, for the sake of your steadfast love and your faithfulness.
 2 Why should the nations say,
 "Where is their God?"

- 3 Our God is in the heavens;
he does whatever he pleases.
- 4 Their idols are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
- 5 They have mouths, but do not speak;
eyes, but do not see.
- 6 They have ears, but do not hear;
noses, but do not smell.
- 7 They have hands, but do not feel;
feet, but do not walk;
they make no sound in their throats.
- 8 Those who make them are like them;
so are all who trust in them.
- 9 O Israel, trust in the LORD!
He is their help and their shield.
- 10 O house of Aaron, trust in the LORD!
He is their help and their shield.
- 11 You who fear the LORD, trust in the LORD!
He is their help and their shield.
- 12 The LORD has been mindful of us; he will bless us;
he will bless the house of Israel;
he will bless the house of Aaron;
- 13 he will bless those who fear the LORD,
both small and great.
- 14 May the LORD give you increase,
both you and your children.
- 15 May you be blessed by the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.
- 16 The heavens are the LORD's heavens,
but the earth he has given to human beings.
- 17 The dead do not praise the LORD,
nor do any that go down into silence.

18 But we will bless the LORD
from this time on and forevermore.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 116]
Thanksgiving for healing

1 I love the LORD, because he has heard my voice and my supplications.
2 Because he inclined his ear to me,
therefore I will call on him as long as I live.
3 The snares of death encompassed me;
the pangs of Sheol laid hold on me;
I suffered distress and anguish.
4 Then I called on the name of the LORD:
"O LORD, I pray, save my life!"

5 Gracious is the LORD, and righteous;
our God is merciful.
6 The LORD protects the simple;
when I was brought low, he saved me.
7 Return, O my soul, to your rest,
for the LORD has dealt bountifully with you.

8 For you have delivered my soul from death,
my eyes from tears,
my feet from stumbling.
9 I walk before the LORD
in the land of the living.
10 I kept my faith, even when I said,
"I am greatly afflicted";
11 I said in my consternation,
"Everyone is a liar."

12 What shall I return to the LORD
for all his bounty to me?
13 I will lift up the cup of salvation
and call on the name of the LORD,

- 14 I will pay my vows to the LORD
in the presence of all his people.
- 15 Precious in the sight of the LORD
is the death of his faithful ones.
- 16 O LORD, I am your servant;
I am your servant, the child of your serving girl.
You have loosed my bonds.
- 17 I will offer to you a thanksgiving sacrifice
and call on the name of the LORD.
- 18 I will pay my vows to the LORD
in the presence of all his people,
- 19 in the courts of the house of the LORD,
in your midst, O Jerusalem.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 117]

Praise of God from the nations

- 1 Praise the LORD, all you nations!
Extol him, all you peoples!
- 2 For great is his steadfast love toward us,
and the faithfulness of the LORD endures forever.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 118]

Thanksgiving for victory in battle

- 1 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good;
his steadfast love endures forever!
- 2 Let Israel say,
"His steadfast love endures forever."
- 3 Let the house of Aaron say,
"His steadfast love endures forever."
- 4 Let those who fear the LORD say,
"His steadfast love endures forever."

- 5 Out of my distress I called on the LORD;
the LORD answered me and set me in a broad place.
- 6 With the LORD on my side I do not fear.
What can mortals do to me?
- 7 The LORD is on my side to help me;
I shall look in triumph on those who hate me.
- 8 It is better to take refuge in the LORD
than to put confidence in mortals.
- 9 It is better to take refuge in the LORD
than to put confidence in princes.
- 10 All nations surrounded me;
in the name of the LORD I cut them off!
- 11 They surrounded me, surrounded me on every side;
in the name of the LORD I cut them off!
- 12 They surrounded me like bees;
they blazed like a fire of thorns;
in the name of the LORD I cut them off!
- 13 I was pushed hard, so that I was falling,
but the LORD helped me.
- 14 The LORD is my strength and my might;
he has become my salvation.
- 15 There are glad songs of victory in the tents of the righteous:
"The right hand of the LORD does valiantly;
- 16 the right hand of the LORD is exalted;
the right hand of the LORD does valiantly."
- 17 I shall not die, but I shall live,
and recount the deeds of the LORD.
- 18 The LORD has punished me severely,
but he did not give me over to death.
- 19 Open to me the gates of righteousness,
that I may enter through them
and give thanks to the LORD.
- 20 This is the gate of the LORD;
the righteous shall enter through it.

- 21 I thank you that you have answered me
and have become my salvation.
- 22 The stone that the builders rejected
has become the chief cornerstone.
- 23 This is the LORD's doing;
it is marvelous in our eyes.
- 24 This is the day that the LORD has made;
let us rejoice and be glad in it.
- 25 Save us, we beseech you, O LORD!
O LORD, we beseech you, give us success!
- 26 Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the LORD.
We bless you from the house of the LORD.
- 27 The LORD is God,
and he has given us light.
Bind the festal procession with branches,
up to the horns of the altar.
- 28 You are my God, and I will give thanks to you;
you are my God, I will extol you.
- 29 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever.

[Psalm 119]

Meditation on God's law

- 1 Happy are those whose way is blameless,
who walk in the law of the LORD.
- 2 Happy are those who keep his decrees,
who seek him with their whole heart,
- 3 who also do no wrong,
but walk in his ways.
- 4 You have commanded your precepts
to be kept diligently.
- 5 O that my ways may be steadfast
in keeping your statutes!
- 6 Then I shall not be put to shame,
having my eyes fixed on all your commandments.

- 7 I will praise you with an upright heart,
when I learn your righteous ordinances.
- 8 I will observe your statutes;
do not utterly forsake me.
- 9 How can young people keep their way pure?
By guarding it according to your word.
- 10 With my whole heart I seek you;
do not let me stray from your commandments.
- 11 I treasure your word in my heart,
so that I may not sin against you.
- 12 Blessed are you, O LORD;
teach me your statutes.
- 13 With my lips I declare
all the ordinances of your mouth.
- 14 I delight in the way of your decrees
as much as in all riches.
- 15 I will meditate on your precepts,
and fix my eyes on your ways.
- 16 I will delight in your statutes;
I will not forget your word.
- 17 Deal bountifully with your servant,
so that I may live and observe your word.
- 18 Open my eyes, so that I may behold wondrous things out of your law.
- 19 I live as an alien in the land;
do not hide your commandments from me.
- 20 My soul is consumed with longing
for your ordinances at all times.
- 21 You rebuke the insolent, accursed ones,
who wander from your commandments;
- 22 take away from me their scorn and contempt,
for I have kept your decrees.
- 23 Even though princes sit plotting against me,
your servant will meditate on your statutes.
- 24 Your decrees are my delight,
they are my counselors.

- 25 My soul clings to the dust;
 revive me according to your word.
- 26 When I told of my ways, you answered me;
 teach me your statutes.
- 27 Make me understand the way of your precepts,
 and I will meditate on your wondrous works.
- 28 My soul melts away for sorrow;
 strengthen me according to your word.
- 29 Put false ways far from me;
 and graciously teach me your law.
- 30 I have chosen the way of faithfulness;
 I set your ordinances before me.
- 31 I cling to your decrees, O LORD;
 let me not be put to shame.
- 32 I run the way of your commandments,
 for you enlarge my understanding.
- 33 Teach me, O LORD, the way of your statutes,
 and I will observe it to the end.
- 34 Give me understanding, that I may keep your law
 and observe it with my whole heart.
- 35 Lead me in the path of your commandments,
 for I delight in it.
- 36 Turn my heart to your decrees,
 and not to selfish gain.
- 37 Turn my eyes from looking at vanities;
 give me life in your ways.
- 38 Confirm to your servant your promise,
 which is for those who fear you.
- 39 Turn away the disgrace that I dread,
 for your ordinances are good.
- 40 See, I have longed for your precepts;
 in your righteousness give me life.
- 41 Let your steadfast love come to me, O LORD,
 your salvation according to your promise.
- 42 Then I shall have an answer for those who taunt me,
 for I trust in your word.

- 43 Do not take the word of truth utterly out of my mouth,
for my hope is in your ordinances.
- 44 I will keep your law continually,
forever and ever.
- 45 I shall walk at liberty,
for I have sought your precepts.
- 46 I will also speak of your decrees before kings,
and shall not be put to shame;
- 47 I find my delight in your commandments,
because I love them.
- 48 I revere your commandments, which I love,
and I will meditate on your statutes.
- 49 Remember your word to your servant,
in which you have made me hope.
- 50 This is my comfort in my distress,
that your promise gives me life.
- 51 The arrogant utterly deride me,
but I do not turn away from your law.
- 52 When I think of your ordinances from of old,
I take comfort, O LORD.
- 53 Hot indignation seizes me because of the wicked,
those who forsake your law.
- 54 Your statutes have been my songs
wherever I make my home.
- 55 I remember your name in the night, O LORD,
and keep your law.
- 56 This blessing has fallen to me,
for I have kept your precepts.
- 57 The LORD is my portion;
I promise to keep your words.
- 58 I implore your favor with all my heart;
be gracious to me according to your promise.
- 59 When I think of your ways,
I turn my feet to your decrees;
- 60 I hurry and do not delay
to keep your commandments.

- 61 Though the cords of the wicked ensnare me,
I do not forget your law.
- 62 At midnight I rise to praise you,
because of your righteous ordinances.
- 63 I am a companion of all who fear you,
of those who keep your precepts.
- 64 The earth, O LORD, is full of your steadfast love;
teach me your statutes.
- 65 You have dealt well with your servant,
O LORD, according to your word.
- 66 Teach me good judgment and knowledge,
for I believe in your commandments.
- 67 Before I was humbled I went astray,
but now I keep your word.
- 68 You are good and do good;
teach me your statutes.
- 69 The arrogant smear me with lies,
but with my whole heart I keep your precepts.
- 70 Their hearts are fat and gross,
but I delight in your law.
- 71 It is good for me that I was humbled,
so that I might learn your statutes.
- 72 The law of your mouth is better to me than thousands of gold and silver pieces.
- 73 Your hands have made and fashioned me;
give me understanding that I may learn your commandments.
- 74 Those who fear you shall see me and rejoice,
because I have hoped in your word.
- 75 I know, O LORD, that your judgments are right,
and that in faithfulness you have humbled me.
- 76 Let your steadfast love become my comfort
according to your promise to your servant.
- 77 Let your mercy come to me, that I may live;
for your law is my delight.

- 78 Let the arrogant be put to shame,
because they have subverted me with guile;
as for me, I will meditate on your precepts.
- 79 Let those who fear you turn to me,
so that they may know your decrees.
- 80 May my heart be blameless in your statutes,
so that I may not be put to shame.
- 81 My soul languishes for your salvation;
I hope in your word.
- 82 My eyes fail with watching for your promise;
I ask, "When will you comfort me?"
- 83 For I have become like a wineskin in the smoke,
yet I have not forgotten your statutes.
- 84 How long must your servant endure?
When will you judge those who persecute me?
- 85 The arrogant have dug pitfalls for me;
they flout your law.
- 86 All your commandments are enduring;
I am persecuted without cause; help me!
- 87 They have almost made an end of me on earth;
but I have not forsaken your precepts.
- 88 In your steadfast love spare my life,
so that I may keep the decrees of your mouth.
- 89 The LORD exists forever;
your word is firmly fixed in heaven.
- 90 Your faithfulness endures to all generations;
you have established the earth, and it stands fast.
- 91 By your appointment they stand today,
for all things are your servants.
- 92 If your law had not been my delight,
I would have perished in my misery.
- 93 I will never forget your precepts,
for by them you have given me life.
- 94 I am yours; save me,
for I have sought your precepts.

- 95 The wicked lie in wait to destroy me,
but I consider your decrees.
- 96 I have seen a limit to all perfection,
but your commandment is exceedingly broad.
- 97 Oh, how I love your law!
It is my meditation all day long.
- 98 Your commandment makes me wiser than my enemies,
for it is always with me.
- 99 I have more understanding than all my teachers,
for your decrees are my meditation.
- 100 I understand more than the aged,
for I keep your precepts.
- 101 I hold back my feet from every evil way,
in order to keep your word.
- 102 I do not turn away from your ordinances,
for you have taught me.
- 103 How sweet are your words to my taste,
sweeter than honey to my mouth!
- 104 Through your precepts I get understanding;
therefore I hate every false way.
- 105 Your word is a lamp to my feet
and a light to my path.
- 106 I have sworn an oath and confirmed it,
to observe your righteous ordinances.
- 107 I am severely afflicted;
give me life, O LORD, according to your word.
- 108 Accept my offerings of praise, O LORD,
and teach me your ordinances.
- 109 I hold my life in my hand continually,
but I do not forget your law.
- 110 The wicked have laid a snare for me,
but I do not stray from your precepts.
- 111 Your decrees are my heritage forever;
they are the joy of my heart.
- 112 I incline my heart to perform your statutes forever, to the end.

- 113 I hate the double-minded,
but I love your law.
- 114 You are my hiding place and my shield;
I hope in your word.
- 115 Go away from me, you evildoers,
that I may keep the commandments of my God.
- 116 Uphold me according to your promise, that I may live,
and let me not be put to shame in my hope.
- 117 Hold me up, that I may be safe and have regard for your statutes continually.
- 118 You spurn all who go astray from your statutes;
for their cunning is in vain.
- 119 All the wicked of the earth you count as dross;
therefore I love your decrees.
- 120 My flesh trembles for fear of you,
and I am afraid of your judgments.
- 121 I have done what is just and right;
do not leave me to my oppressors.
- 122 Guarantee your servant's well-being;
do not let the godless oppress me.
- 123 My eyes fail from watching for your salvation,
and for the fulfillment of your righteous promise.
- 124 Deal with your servant according to your steadfast love,
and teach me your statutes.
- 125 I am your servant; give me understanding,
so that I may know your decrees.
- 126 It is time for the LORD to act,
for your law has been broken.
- 127 Truly I love your commandments
more than gold, more than fine gold.
- 128 Truly I direct my steps by all your precepts;
I hate every false way.
- 129 Your decrees are wonderful;
therefore my soul keeps them.
- 130 The unfolding of your words gives light;
it imparts understanding to the simple.

- 131 With open mouth I pant,
because I long for your commandments.
- 132 Turn to me and be gracious to me,
as is your custom toward those who love your name.
- 133 Keep my steps steady according to your promise,
and never let iniquity have dominion over me.
- 134 Redeem me from human oppression,
that I may keep your precepts.
- 135 Make your face shine upon your servant,
and teach me your statutes.
- 136 My eyes shed streams of tears
because your law is not kept.
- 137 You are righteous, O LORD,
and your judgments are right.
- 138 You have appointed your decrees in righteousness
and in all faithfulness.
- 139 My zeal consumes me
because my foes forget your words.
- 140 Your promise is well tried,
and your servant loves it.
- 141 I am small and despised,
yet I do not forget your precepts.
- 142 Your righteousness is an everlasting righteousness,
and your law is the truth.
- 143 Trouble and anguish have come upon me,
but your commandments are my delight.
- 144 Your decrees are righteous forever;
give me understanding that I may live.
- 145 With my whole heart I cry; answer me, O LORD.
I will keep your statutes.
- 146 I cry to you; save me,
that I may observe your decrees.
- 147 I rise before dawn and cry for help;
I put my hope in your words.
- 148 My eyes are awake before each watch of the night,
that I may meditate on your promise.

- 149 In your steadfast love hear my voice;
O LORD, in your justice preserve my life.
- 150 Those who persecute me with evil purpose draw near;
they are far from your law.
- 151 Yet you are near, O LORD,
and all your commandments are true.
- 152 Long ago I learned from your decrees
that you have established them forever.
- 153 Look on my misery and rescue me,
for I do not forget your law.
- 154 Plead my cause and redeem me;
give me life according to your promise.
- 155 Salvation is far from the wicked,
for they do not seek your statutes.
- 156 Great is your mercy, O LORD;
give me life according to your justice.
- 157 Many are my persecutors and my adversaries,
yet I do not swerve from your decrees.
- 158 I look at the faithless with disgust,
because they do not keep your commands.
- 159 Consider how I love your precepts;
preserve my life according to your steadfast love.
- 160 The sum of your word is truth;
and every one of your righteous ordinances endures forever.
- 161 Princes persecute me without cause,
but my heart stands in awe of your words.
- 162 I rejoice at your word
like one who finds great spoil.
- 163 I hate and abhor falsehood,
but I love your law.
- 164 Seven times a day I praise you for your righteous ordinances.
- 165 Great peace have those who love your law;
nothing can make them stumble.
- 166 I hope for your salvation, O LORD,
and I fulfill your commandments.

- 167 My soul keeps your decrees;
I love them exceedingly.
- 168 I keep your precepts and decrees,
for all my ways are before you.
- 169 Let my cry come before you, O LORD;
give me understanding according to your word.
- 170 Let my supplication come before you;
deliver me according to your promise.
- 171 My lips will pour forth praise,
because you teach me your statutes.
- 172 My tongue will sing of your promise,
for all your commandments are right.
- 173 Let your hand be ready to help me,
for I have chosen your precepts.
- 174 I long for your salvation, O LORD,
and your law is my delight.
- 175 Let me live that I may praise you,
and let your ordinances help me.
- 176 I have gone astray like a lost sheep; seek out your servant,
for I do not forget your commandments.

[Psalm 120]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 In my distress I cry to the LORD,
that he may answer me:
- 2 "Deliver me, O LORD,
from lying lips,
from a deceitful tongue."
- 3 What shall be given to you?
And what more shall be done to you,
you deceitful tongue?
- 4 A warrior's sharp arrows,
with glowing coals of the broom tree!

- 5 Woe is me, that I am an alien in Meshech,
that I must live among the tents of Kedar.
- 6 Too long have I had my dwelling among those who hate peace.
- 7 I am for peace;
but when I speak,
they are for war.

[Psalm 121]

On pilgrimage to Jerusalem

- 1 I lift up my eyes to the hills —
from where will my help come?
- 2 My help comes from the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.
- 3 He will not let your foot be moved;
he who keeps you will not slumber.
- 4 He who keeps Israel
will neither slumber nor sleep.
- 5 The LORD is your keeper;
the LORD is your shade at your right hand.
- 6 The sun shall not strike you by day,
nor the moon by night.
- 7 The LORD will keep you from all evil;
he will keep your life.
- 8 The LORD will keep your going out and your coming in
from this time on and forevermore.

[Psalm 122]
Praise of Zion

- 1 I was glad when they said to me,
 "Let us go to the house of the LORD!"
- 2 Our feet are standing within your gates, O Jerusalem.
- 3 Jerusalem — built as a city that is bound firmly together.
- 4 To it the tribes go up,
 the tribes of the LORD,
 as was decreed for Israel,
 to give thanks to the name of the LORD.
- 5 For there the thrones for judgment were set up,
 the thrones of the house of David.
- 6 Pray for the peace of Jerusalem:
 "May they prosper who love you.
- 7 Peace be within your walls,
 and security within your towers."
- 8 For the sake of my relatives and friends
 I will say, "Peace be within you."
- 9 For the sake of the house of the LORD our God,
 I will seek your good.

[Psalm 123]
Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 To you I lift up my eyes,
 O you who are enthroned in the heavens!
- 2 As the eyes of servants
 look to the hand of their master,
 as the eyes of a maid
 to the hand of her mistress,
 so our eyes look to the LORD our God,
 until he has mercy upon us.

- 3 Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us,
for we have had more than enough of contempt.
4 Our soul has had more than its fill
of the scorn of those who are at ease,
of the contempt of the proud.

[Psalm 124]

Thanksgiving for national deliverance

- 1 If it had not been the LORD who was on our side
— let Israel now say —
2 if it had not been the LORD who was on our side,
when our enemies attacked us,
3 then they would have swallowed us up alive,
when their anger was kindled against us;
4 then the flood would have swept us away,
the torrent would have gone over us;
5 then over us would have gone
the raging waters.

6 Blessed be the LORD,
who has not given us
as prey to their teeth.
7 We have escaped like a bird
from the snare of the fowlers;
the snare is broken,
and we have escaped.

8 Our help is in the name of the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.

[Psalm 125]
A psalm of trust

- 1 Those who trust in the LORD are like Mount Zion,
which cannot be moved, but abides forever.
- 2 As the mountains surround Jerusalem,
so the LORD surrounds his people,
from this time on and forevermore.
- 3 For the scepter of wickedness shall not rest
on the land allotted to the righteous,
so that the righteous might not stretch out their hands to do wrong.
- 4 Do good, O LORD, to those who are good,
and to those who are upright in their hearts.
- 5 But those who turn aside to their own crooked ways
the LORD will lead away with evildoers.
Peace be upon Israel!

[Psalm 126]
Thanksgiving from returning exiles

- 1 When the LORD restored the fortunes of Zion,
we were like those who dream.
- 2 Then our mouth was filled with laughter,
and our tongue with shouts of joy;
then it was said among the nations,
"The LORD has done great things for them."
- 3 The LORD has done great things for us,
and we rejoiced.

- 4 Restore our fortunes, O LORD,
like the watercourses in the Negeb.
- 5 May those who sow in tears
reap with shouts of joy.
- 6 Those who go out weeping,
bearing the seed for sowing,
shall come home with shouts of joy,
carrying their sheaves.

[Psalm 127]The blessings of family life

- 1 Unless the LORD builds the house,
 those who build it labor in vain.
 Unless the LORD guards the city,
 the guard keeps watch in vain.
- 2 It is in vain that you rise up early
 and go late to rest,
 eating the bread of anxious toil;
 for he gives sleep to his beloved.

- 3 Sons are indeed a heritage from the LORD,
 the fruit of the womb a reward.
- 4 Like arrows in the hand of a warrior
 are the sons of one's youth.
- 5 Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them.
 He shall not be put to shame
 when he speaks with his enemies in the gate.

[Psalm 128]The blessings of family life

- 1 Happy is everyone who fears the LORD,
 who walks in his ways.
- 2 You shall eat the fruit of the labor of your hands;
 you shall be happy, and it shall go well with you.

- 3 Your wife will be like a fruitful vine
 within your house;
 your children will be like olive shoots
 around your table.
- 4 Thus shall the man be blessed
 who fears the LORD.

- 5 The LORD bless you from Zion.
 May you see the prosperity of Jerusalem
 all the days of your life.
- 6 May you see your children's children.
 Peace be upon Israel!

[Psalm 129]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 "Often have they attacked me from my youth"
 — let Israel now say —
- 2 "often have they attacked me from my youth,
 yet they have not prevailed against me.
- 3 The plowers plowed on my back;
 they made their furrows long."
- 4 The LORD is righteous;
 he has cut the cords of the wicked.
- 5 May all who hate Zion
 be put to shame and turned backward.
- 6 Let them be like the grass on the housetops
 that withers before it grows up,
- 7 with which reapers do not fill their hands
 or binders of sheaves their arms,
- 8 while those who pass by do not say,
 "The blessing of the LORD be upon you!
 We bless you in the name of the LORD!"

[Psalm 130]

A cry from the depths

- 1 Out of the depths I cry to you, O LORD.
- 2 Lord, hear my voice!
 Let your ears be attentive
 to the voice of my supplications!
- 3 If you, O LORD, should mark iniquities,
 Lord, who could stand?

- 4 But there is forgiveness with you,
so that you may be revered.
- 5 I wait for the LORD, my soul waits,
and in his word I hope;
- 6 my soul waits for the Lord
more than those who watch for the morning,
more than those who watch for the morning.
- 7 O Israel, hope in the LORD!
For with the LORD there is steadfast love,
and with him is great power to redeem.
- 8 It is he who will redeem Israel
from all its iniquities.

[Psalm 131]

A prayer of humble trust

- 1 O LORD, my heart is not lifted up,
my eyes are not raised too high;
I do not occupy myself with things too great and too marvelous for me.
- 2 But I have calmed and quieted my soul,
like a weaned child with its mother;
my soul is like the weaned child that is with me.
- 3 O Israel, hope in the LORD
from this time on and forevermore.

[Psalm 132]

The LORD's choice of David and Zion

- 1 O LORD, remember in David's favor
all the hardships he endured;
- 2 how he swore to the LORD
and vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob,
- 3 "I will not enter my house
or get into my bed;

4 I will not give sleep to my eyes
or slumber to my eyelids, 5 until I find a place for the LORD,
a dwelling place for the Mighty One of Jacob."

6 We heard of it in Ephrathah;
we found it in the fields of Jaar.

7 "Let us go to his dwelling place;
let us worship at his footstool."

8 Rise up, O LORD, and go to your resting place,
you and the ark of your might.

9 Let your priests be clothed with righteousness,
and let your faithful shout for joy.

10 For your servant David's sake
do not turn away the face of your anointed one.

11 The LORD swore to David a sure oath
from which he will not turn back:

"One of the sons of your body
I will set on your throne.

12 If your sons keep my covenant
and my decrees that I shall teach them,
their sons also, forevermore,
shall sit on your throne."

13 For the LORD has chosen Zion;
he has desired it for his habitation:

14 "This is my resting place forever;
here I will reside, for I have desired it.

15 I will abundantly bless its provisions;
I will satisfy its poor with bread.

16 Its priests I will clothe with salvation,
and its faithful will shout for joy.

17 There I will cause a horn to sprout up for David;
I have prepared a lamp for my anointed one.

18 His enemies I will clothe with disgrace,
but on him, his crown will gleam."

[Psalm 133]Prayer for national unity

- 1 How very good and pleasant it is when kindred live together in unity!
- 2 It is like the precious oil on the head,
running down upon the beard,
on the beard of Aaron,
running down over the collar of his robes.
- 3 It is like the dew of Hermon,
which falls on the mountains of Zion.
For there the LORD ordained his blessing,
life forevermore.

[Psalm 134]A doxology

- 1 Come, bless the LORD, all you servants of the LORD,
who stand by night in the house of the LORD!
- 2 Lift up your hands to the holy place,
and bless the LORD.
- 3 May the LORD, maker of heaven and earth,
bless you from Zion.

[Psalm 135]A hymn of praise

- 1 Praise the LORD!
Praise the name of the LORD;
give praise, O servants of the LORD,
- 2 you that stand in the house of the LORD,
in the courts of the house of our God.
- 3 Praise the LORD, for the LORD is good;
sing to his name, for he is gracious.
- 4 For the LORD has chosen Jacob for himself,
Israel as his own possession.

- 5 For I know that the LORD is great;
our Lord is above all gods.
- 6 Whatever the LORD pleases he does,
in heaven and on earth,
in the seas and all deeps.
- 7 He it is who makes the clouds rise at the end of the earth;
he makes lightnings for the rain
and brings out the wind from his storehouses.
- 8 He it was who struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
both human beings and animals;
- 9 he sent signs and wonders
into your midst, O Egypt, against Pharaoh and all his servants.
- 10 He struck down many nations and killed mighty kings —
- 11 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
and Og, king of Bashan,
and all the kingdoms of Canaan —
- 12 and gave their land as a heritage,
a heritage to his people Israel.
- 13 Your name, O LORD, endures forever,
your renown, O LORD, throughout all ages.
- 14 For the LORD will vindicate his people,
and have compassion on his servants.
- 15 The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
- 16 They have mouths, but they do not speak;
they have eyes, but they do not see;
- 17 they have ears, but they do not hear,
and there is no breath in their mouths.
- 18 Those who make them
and all who trust them
shall become like them.

19 O house of Israel, bless the LORD!
 O house of Aaron, bless the LORD!
 20 O house of Levi, bless the LORD!
 You that fear the LORD, bless the LORD!
 21 Blessed be the LORD from Zion,
 he who resides in Jerusalem.
 Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 136]

Praise of God, creator and redeemer

1 O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
 for his steadfast love endures forever.
 2 O give thanks to the God of gods,
 for his steadfast love endures forever.
 3 O give thanks to the Lord of lords,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 4 who alone does great wonders,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 5 who by understanding made the heavens,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 6 who spread out the earth on the waters,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 7 who made the great lights,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 8 the sun to rule over the day,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 9 the moon and stars to rule over the night,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;

 10 who struck Egypt through their firstborn,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 11 and brought Israel out from among them,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 12 with a strong hand and an outstretched arm,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 13 who divided the Red Sea in two,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;

14 and made Israel pass through the midst of it,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 15 but overthrew Pharaoh and his army in the Red Sea,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 16 who led his people through the wilderness,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 17 who struck down great kings,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 18 and killed famous kings,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 19 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 20 and Og, king of Bashan,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 21 and gave their land as a heritage,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 22 a heritage to his servant Israel,
 for his steadfast love endures forever.

23 It is he who remembered us in our low estate,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 24 and rescued us from our foes,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;
 25 who gives food to all flesh,
 for his steadfast love endures forever.

26 O give thanks to the God of heaven,
 for his steadfast love endures forever.

[Psalm 137]
Remembering Zion

1 By the rivers of Babylon —
 there we sat down and there we wept
 when we remembered Zion.
 2 On the willows there
 we hung up our harps.

- 3 For there our captors
asked us for songs,
and our tormentors asked for mirth, saying,
"Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"
- 4 How could we sing the LORD's song
in a foreign land?
- 5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem,
let my right hand wither!
- 6 Let my tongue cling to the roof of my mouth,
if I do not remember you,
if I do not set Jerusalem
above my highest joy.
- 7 Remember, O LORD, against the Edomites
the day of Jerusalem's fall,
how they said, "Tear it down! Tear it down!
Down to its foundations!"
- 8 O daughter Babylon, you devastator!
Happy shall they be who pay you back
what you have done to us!
- 9 Happy shall they be who take your little ones
and dash them against the rock!

[Psalm 138]

Thanksgiving in the Temple

- 1 I give you thanks, O LORD, with my whole heart;
before the gods I sing your praise;
- 2 I bow down toward your holy temple
and give thanks to your name for your steadfast love and your faithfulness; for you have exalted your name and your word above everything.
- 3 On the day I called, you answered me,
you increased my strength of soul.

- 4 All the kings of the earth shall praise you, O LORD,
for they have heard the words of your mouth.
- 5 They shall sing of the ways of the LORD,
for great is the glory of the LORD.
- 6 For though the LORD is high, he regards the lowly;
but the haughty he perceives from far away.
- 7 Though I walk in the midst of trouble,
you preserve me against the wrath of my enemies;
you stretch out your hand,
and your right hand delivers me.
- 8 The LORD will fulfill his purpose for me;
your steadfast love, O LORD, endures forever.
Do not forsake the work of your hands.

[Psalm 139]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 O LORD, you have searched me and known me.
- 2 You know when I sit down and when I rise up;
you discern my thoughts from far away.
- 3 You search out my path and my lying down,
and are acquainted with all my ways.
- 4 Even before a word is on my tongue,
O LORD, you know it completely.
- 5 You hem me in, behind and before,
and lay your hand upon me.
- 6 Such knowledge is too wonderful for me;
it is so high that I cannot attain it.
- 7 Where can I go from your spirit?
Or where can I flee from your presence?
- 8 If I ascend to heaven, you are there;
if I make my bed in Sheol, you are there.
- 9 If I take the wings of the morning
and settle at the farthest limits of the sea, 10 even there your hand shall lead me,
and your right hand shall hold me fast.

- 11 If I say, "Surely the darkness shall cover me, and the light around me become night," 12 even the darkness is not dark to you;
the night is as bright as the day,
for darkness is as light to you.
- 13 For it was you who formed my inward parts;
you knit me together in my mother's womb.
14 I praise you, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made.
Wonderful are your works;
that I know very well.
- 15 My frame was not hidden from you,
when I was being made in secret,
intricately woven in the depths of the earth.
16 Your eyes beheld my unformed substance.
In your book were written
all the days that were formed for me,
when none of them as yet existed.
- 17 How weighty to me are your thoughts, O God!
How vast is the sum of them!
18 I try to count them — they are more than the sand;
I come to the end — I am still with you.
- 19 O that you would kill the wicked, O God,
and that the bloodthirsty would depart from me — 20 those who speak of you maliciously, and lift themselves up against you for evil!
- 21 Do I not hate those who hate you, O LORD?
And do I not loathe those who rise up against you?
22 I hate them with perfect hatred;
I count them my enemies.
- 23 Search me, O God, and know my heart;
test me and know my thoughts.
24 See if there is any wicked way in me,
and lead me in the way everlasting.

[Psalm 140]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 Deliver me, O LORD, from evildoers;
protect me from those who are violent,
- 2 who plan evil things in their minds
and stir up wars continually.
- 3 They make their tongue sharp as a snake's,
and under their lips is the venom of vipers.

- 4 Guard me, O LORD, from the hands of the wicked;
protect me from the violent
who have planned my downfall.
- 5 The arrogant have hidden a trap for me,
and with cords they have spread a net,
along the road they have set snares for me.
- 6 I say to the LORD, "You are my God;
give ear, O LORD, to the voice of my supplications."
- 7 O LORD, my Lord, my strong deliverer,
you have covered my head in the day of battle.
- 8 Do not grant, O LORD, the desires of the wicked;
do not further their evil plot.

- 9 Those who surround me lift up their heads;
let the mischief of their lips overwhelm them!
- 10 Let burning coals fall on them!
Let them be flung into pits, no more to rise!
- 11 Do not let the slanderer be established in the land;
let evil speedily hunt down the violent!

- 12 I know that the LORD maintains the cause of the needy,
and executes justice for the poor.
- 13 Surely the righteous shall give thanks to your name;
the upright shall live in your presence.

[Psalm 141]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 I call upon you, O LORD; come quickly to me;
give ear to my voice when I call to you.
- 2 Let my prayer be counted as incense before you,
and the lifting up of my hands as an evening sacrifice.
- 3 Set a guard over my mouth, O LORD;
keep watch over the door of my lips.
- 4 Do not turn my heart to any evil,
to busy myself with wicked deeds
in company with those who work iniquity;
do not let me eat of their delicacies.
- 5 Let the righteous strike me;
let the faithful correct me.
Never let the oil of the wicked anoint my head,
for my prayer is continually against their wicked deeds.
- 6 When they are given over to those who shall condemn them,
then they shall learn that my words were pleasant.
- 7 Like a rock that one breaks apart and shatters on the land,
so shall their bones be strewn at the mouth of Sheol.
- 8 But my eyes are turned toward you, O GOD, my Lord;
in you I seek refuge; do not leave me defenseless.
- 9 Keep me from the trap that they have laid for me,
and from the snares of evildoers.
- 10 Let the wicked fall into their own nets,
while I alone escape.

[Psalm 142]Prayer for deliverance from enemies

- 1 With my voice I cry to the LORD;
with my voice I make supplication to the LORD.
- 2 I pour out my complaint before him;
I tell my trouble before him.

3 When my spirit is faint,
you know my way.

In the path where I walk
they have hidden a trap for me.

4 Look on my right hand and see —
there is no one who takes notice of me;
no refuge remains to me;
no one cares for me.

5 I cry to you, O LORD;
I say, "You are my refuge,
my portion in the land of the living."

6 Give heed to my cry,
for I am brought very low.

Save me from my persecutors,
for they are too strong for me.

7 Bring me out of prison,
so that I may give thanks to your name.
The righteous will surround me,
for you will deal bountifully with me.

[Psalm 143]

Prayer for deliverance from enemies

1 Hear my prayer, O LORD;
give ear to my supplications in your faithfulness;
answer me in your righteousness.

2 Do not enter into judgment with your servant,
for no one living is righteous before you.

3 For the enemy has pursued me,
crushing my life to the ground,
making me sit in darkness like those long dead.

4 Therefore my spirit faints within me;
my heart within me is appalled.

- 5 I remember the days of old,
 I think about all your deeds,
 I meditate on the works of your hands.
- 6 I stretch out my hands to you;
 my soul thirsts for you like a parched land.
- 7 Answer me quickly, O LORD;
 my spirit fails.
 Do not hide your face from me,
 or I shall be like those who go down to the Pit.
- 8 Let me hear of your steadfast love in the morning,
 for in you I put my trust.
 Teach me the way I should go,
 for to you I lift up my soul.
- 9 Save me, O LORD, from my enemies;
 I have fled to you for refuge.
- 10 Teach me to do your will,
 for you are my God.
 Let your good spirit lead me
 on a level path.
- 11 For your name's sake, O LORD, preserve my life.
 In your righteousness bring me out of trouble.
- 12 In your steadfast love cut off my enemies,
 and destroy all my adversaries,
 for I am your servant.

[Psalm 144]

Royal prayer for deliverance

- 1 Blessed be the LORD, my rock,
 who trains my hands for war, and my fingers for battle;
- 2 my rock and my fortress,
 my stronghold and my deliverer,
 my shield, in whom I take refuge,
 who subdues the peoples under me.

3 O LORD, what are human beings that you regard them,
or mortals that you think of them?

4 They are like a breath;
their days are like a passing shadow.

5 Bow your heavens, O LORD, and come down;
touch the mountains so that they smoke.

6 Make the lightning flash and scatter them;
send out your arrows and rout them.

7 Stretch out your hand from on high;
set me free and rescue me from the mighty waters,
from the hand of aliens,

8 whose mouths speak lies,
and whose right hands are false.

9 I will sing a new song to you, O God;
upon a ten-stringed harp I will play to you,

10 the one who gives victory to kings,
who rescues his servant David.

11 Rescue me from the cruel sword,
and deliver me from the hand of aliens,
whose mouths speak lies,
and whose right hands are false.

12 May our sons in their youth
be like plants full grown,
our daughters like corner pillars,
cut for the building of a palace.

13 May our barns be filled,
with produce of every kind;
may our sheep increase by thousands,
by tens of thousands in our fields,

14 and may our cattle be heavy with young.
May there be no breach in the walls, no exile,
and no cry of distress in our streets.

15 Happy are the people to whom such blessings fall;
happy are the people whose God is the LORD.

[Psalm 145]Praise of the divine king

- 1 I will extol you, my God and King,
and bless your name forever and ever.
- 2 Every day I will bless you,
and praise your name forever and ever.
- 3 Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised;
his greatness is unsearchable.

- 4 One generation shall laud your works to another,
and shall declare your mighty acts.
- 5 On the glorious splendor of your majesty,
and on your wondrous works, I will meditate.
- 6 The might of your awesome deeds shall be proclaimed,
and I will declare your greatness.
- 7 They shall celebrate the fame of your abundant goodness,
and shall sing aloud of your righteousness.

- 8 The LORD is gracious and merciful,
slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.
- 9 The LORD is good to all,
and his compassion is over all that he has made.

- 10 All your works shall give thanks to you, O LORD,
and all your faithful shall bless you.
- 11 They shall speak of the glory of your kingdom,
and tell of your power,
- 12 to make known to all people your mighty deeds,
and the glorious splendor of your kingdom.
- 13 Your kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
and your dominion endures throughout all generations.

- The LORD is faithful in all his words,
and gracious in all his deeds.
- 14 The LORD upholds all who are falling,
and raises up all who are bowed down.

- 15 The eyes of all look to you,
and you give them their food in due season.
- 16 You open your hand,
satisfying the desire of every living thing.
- 17 The LORD is just in all his ways,
and kind in all his doings.
- 18 The LORD is near to all who call on him,
to all who call on him in truth.
- 19 He fulfills the desire of all who fear him;
he also hears their cry, and saves them.
- 20 The LORD watches over all who love him,
but all the wicked he will destroy.
- 21 My mouth will speak the praise of the LORD,
and all flesh will bless his holy name forever and ever.

[Psalm 146]Praise of God, creator and savior

- 1 Praise the LORD!
Praise the LORD, O my soul!
- 2 I will praise the LORD as long as I live;
I will sing praises to my God all my life long.
- 3 Do not put your trust in princes,
in mortals, in whom there is no help.
- 4 When their breath departs, they return to the earth;
on that very day their plans perish.
- 5 Happy are those whose help is the God of Jacob,
whose hope is in the LORD their God,
- 6 who made heaven and earth,
the sea, and all that is in them;
who keeps faith forever;
- 7 who executes justice for the oppressed;
who gives food to the hungry.

- The LORD sets the prisoners free;
 8 the LORD opens the eyes of the blind.
 The LORD lifts up those who are bowed down;
 the LORD loves the righteous.
- 9 The LORD watches over the strangers;
 he upholds the orphan and the widow,
 but the way of the wicked he brings to ruin.
- 10 The LORD will reign forever,
 your God, O Zion, for all generations.
 Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 147]

Praise of God, creator and savior

- 1 Praise the LORD!
 How good it is to sing praises to our God;
 for he is gracious, and a song of praise is fitting.
- 2 The LORD builds up Jerusalem;
 he gathers the outcasts of Israel.
- 3 He heals the brokenhearted,
 and binds up their wounds.
- 4 He determines the number of the stars;
 he gives to all of them their names.
- 5 Great is our Lord, and abundant in power;
 his understanding is beyond measure.
- 6 The LORD lifts up the downtrodden;
 he casts the wicked to the ground.
- 7 Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving;
 make melody to our God on the lyre.
- 8 He covers the heavens with clouds,
 prepares rain for the earth,
 makes grass grow on the hills.
- 9 He gives to the animals their food,
 and to the young ravens when they cry.
- 10 His delight is not in the strength of the horse,
 nor his pleasure in the speed of a runner;

11 but the LORD takes pleasure in those who fear him,
in those who hope in his steadfast love.

12 Praise the LORD, O Jerusalem!

Praise your God, O Zion!

13 For he strengthens the bars of your gates;
he blesses your children within you.

14 He grants peace within your borders;
he fills you with the finest of wheat.

15 He sends out his command to the earth;
his word runs swiftly.

16 He gives snow like wool;
he scatters frost like ashes.

17 He hurls down hail like crumbs —
who can stand before his cold?

18 He sends out his word, and melts them;
he makes his wind blow, and the waters flow.

19 He declares his word to Jacob,
his statutes and ordinances to Israel.

20 He has not dealt thus with any other nation;
they do not know his ordinances.

Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 148]

Praise of God from heaven and earth

1 Praise the LORD!

Praise the LORD from the heavens;
praise him in the heights!

2 Praise him, all his angels;
praise him, all his host!

3 Praise him, sun and moon;
praise him, all you shining stars!

4 Praise him, you highest heavens,
and you waters above the heavens!

- 5 Let them praise the name of the LORD,
for he commanded and they were created.
- 6 He established them forever and ever;
he fixed their bounds, which cannot be passed.
- 7 Praise the LORD from the earth,
you sea monsters and all deeps,
8 fire and hail, snow and frost,
stormy wind fulfilling his command!
- 9 Mountains and all hills,
fruit trees and all cedars!
10 Wild animals and all cattle,
creeping things and flying birds!
- 11 Kings of the earth and all peoples,
princes and all rulers of the earth!
12 Young men and women alike,
old and young together!
- 13 Let them praise the name of the LORD,
for his name alone is exalted;
his glory is above earth and heaven.
- 14 He has raised up a horn for his people,
praise for all his faithful,
for the people of Israel who are close to him.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 149]Praise of Israel's creator and king

- 1 Praise the LORD!
Sing to the LORD a new song,
his praise in the assembly of the faithful.
- 2 Let Israel be glad in its Maker;
let the children of Zion rejoice in their King.
- 3 Let them praise his name with dancing,
making melody to him with tambourine and lyre.

- 4 For the LORD takes pleasure in his people;
he adorns the humble with victory.
- 5 Let the faithful exult in glory;
let them sing for joy on their couches.
- 6 Let the high praises of God be in their throats
and two-edged swords in their hands,
- 7 to execute vengeance on the nations
and punishment on the peoples,
- 8 to bind their kings with fetters
and their nobles with chains of iron,
- 9 to execute on them the judgment decreed.
This is glory for all his faithful ones.
Praise the LORD!

[Psalm 150]Praise of God in the Temple

- 1 Praise the LORD!
Praise God in his sanctuary;
praise him in his mighty firmament!
- 2 Praise him for his mighty deeds;
praise him according to his surpassing greatness!
- 3 Praise him with trumpet sound;
praise him with lute and harp!
- 4 Praise him with tambourine and dance;
praise him with strings and pipe!
- 5 Praise him with clanging cymbals;
praise him with loud clashing cymbals!
- 6 Let everything that breathes praise the LORD!
Praise the LORD!

PROVERBS

Introduction

The purpose of the book of Proverbs is to transmit insights whereby one might learn to cope with life (1.2-6). Its emphasis is on teachings gathered from tradition of the elders (e.g., 4.1-4) and from experience (e.g., 6.6-11). In contrast to many other books of the Hebrew Bible, major themes such as the Mosaic and Davidic covenants are absent; Temple worship and sacrifice are rarely mentioned.

Although some sayings are neutral observations, on the whole a moral ideal is inculcated. Guided by the principle that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (9.10; 1.7; 15.33), the sages emphasize values such as honesty, diligence, trustworthiness, self-restraint, and appropriate attitudes toward wealth and poverty. Proverbs acknowledges the limitations of human wisdom (16.1-2, 9; 21.30), yet the book offers a clear view of divine reward and punishment: Wisdom (generally equated with righteousness) brings success; folly (or wickedness) leads to destruction. The books of Job and Ecclesiastes, however, show that this schematic account of divine justice remained a problem for the sages.

The authorship of this composite work is multiple and essentially anonymous. Some of the material appears to be preexilic, but the book was completed in the post-exilic period. The attribution to Solomon (1.1; 10.1; 25.1) derives from traditional accounts of his legendary wisdom (1 Kings 4.29-34) and lends authority to the collection. The book is typical of the wisdom literature of the Hebrew Bible and also of the ancient Near East, especially Egypt. In fact, most scholars agree that 22.17-23.11 is in some way dependent upon the "Instruction" of the Egyptian sage, Amen-em-ope (ca. 1100 BCE). Royal scribes are responsible for much of the material in Proverbs; hence the sayings sometimes reflect an elite point of view. But the learned editors of the book also preserve the folk wisdom of ancient Israelite villages and extended families.

The original audience of Proverbs was primarily young men preparing for adult responsibilities; a male-centered perspective prevails in the book. There is intense interest in finding a "good wife" (e.g., 12.4) and in governing a household successfully. In chs 1-9, presented as the instruction of a father to his son, the center of attention is a vibrant feminine personification of divine Wisdom. She is opposed to the foolish woman (ch 9) and to the complex, threatening figure of the "strange woman" (chs 2, 5, 7).

Proverbs contains several sub-collections of short proverbial saying framed by sets of longer wisdom poems in chs 1-9 and 30-31. The book opens (1.1-7) with a title (1.1) followed by a programmatic statement of purpose and theme (1.2-7). Then comes a lengthy instruction in Wisdom (1.8-9.18), consisting of extended poems in second-person perspective, with commands and admonitions usually completed by motive clauses. Personified Wisdom and her opposites, the "strange woman" and the foolish woman, are prominent. A collection of proverbial sayings follows (10.1-22.16), each of which is typically two lines in parallel thought, as is characteristic of Hebrew poetry. Antithetical parallelism predominates in chs 10-15; synonymous or synthetic parallelism (in which the second line repeats or extends the thought of the first) in 16.1-22.16. Another collection is "the words of the wise" (22.17-24.34), which are teachings, chiefly brief admonitions, patterned after the Egyptian "Instruction of Amen-em-ope" (esp. 22.17-23.11), with an appendix of additional "sayings of the wise" in 24.23-24. Another collection of sayings (25.1-29.27), credited to the "officials of King Hezekiah (25.1), comprises two main sub-units, chs 25-27 and 28-29. The words of Agur and other sayings (30.1-33) are a wisdom dialogue and a prayer (vv. 1-9) followed by admonitions and numerical sayings (vv. 10-33). The words of Lemuel (31.1-9) consist of teachings on sobriety and responsibility attributed to King Lemuel's mother. Ending the collection, and expressing both closure and completeness by its acrostic form, is the section in praise of the woman of worth (31.10-31), a poem on the ideal wife, the embodiment of Wisdom.

The reader should begin with chs 1-9, which form an extended invitation to the pursuit of Wisdom. Especially noteworthy are the programmatic statements of 1.1-7 and 8-19 and the speeches of divine Wisdom in 1.20-33 and 8.1-36. The sayings collections of chs 10-29 may be approached as exercises in judicious reading. The artful arrangement of discrete proverbs creates a certain coherence in the Hebrew by means of catchwords, plays on words, alliteration and assonance, and the thematic associations. Some sayings have been repeated in other collections (e.g., 21.9 = 25.24); others are meaningfully paired (e.g., 17.27-28; 26.4-5), or gathered in thematic groups (e.g., 25.1-7). Although these verbal characteristics and thematic arrangements may have been an mnemonic aid, the care given to these groupings indicates that the interpretation of the sayings is meant to be an exacting discipline (cf. 26.7, 9). Individual proverbs are not simply to be mechanically applied; rather they should be read in creative tension with one another. Proverbs invites the reader to intellectual discipline as a life-giving synthesis of keen observation and reflection, ethical concern, and piety.

[Proverbs 1] Introduction

1 The proverbs of Solomon son of David, king of Israel:

The purpose of the book

2 For learning about wisdom and instruction, for understanding words of insight, 3 for gaining instruction in wise dealing,
 righteousness, justice, and equity;
 4 to teach shrewdness to the simple,
 knowledge and prudence to the young — 5 let the wise also hear and gain in learning,
 and the discerning acquire skill,

6 to understand a proverb and a figure,
the words of the wise and their riddles.

7 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge;
fools despise wisdom and instruction.

Instruction in Wisdom; instruction as a moral safeguard

8 Hear, my child, your father's instruction,
and do not reject your mother's teaching;

9 for they are a fair garland for your head,
and pendants for your neck.

10 My child, if sinners entice you,
do not consent.

11 If they say, "Come with us, let us lie in wait for blood;
let us wantonly ambush the innocent;

12 like Sheol let us swallow them alive
and whole, like those who go down to the Pit.

13 We shall find all kinds of costly things;
we shall fill our houses with booty.

14 Throw in your lot among us;
we will all have one purse" —

15 my child, do not walk in their way,
keep your foot from their paths;

16 for their feet run to evil,
and they hurry to shed blood.

17 For in vain is the net baited
while the bird is looking on;

18 yet they lie in wait — to kill themselves!
and set an ambush — for their own lives!

19 Such is the end of all who are greedy for gain;
it takes away the life of its possessors.

Wisdom personified as a prophet

20 Wisdom cries out in the street;
in the squares she raises her voice.

21 At the busiest corner she cries out;
at the entrance of the city gates she speaks:
22 "How long, O simple ones, will you love being simple?
How long will scoffers delight in their scoffing
and fools hate knowledge?
23 Give heed to my reproof;
I will pour out my thoughts to you;
I will make my words known to you.
24 Because I have called and you refused,
have stretched out my hand and no one heeded, 25 and because you have ignored all my counsel
and would have none of my reproof, 26 I also will laugh at your calamity;
I will mock when panic strikes you,
27 when panic strikes you like a storm,
and your calamity comes like a whirlwind,
when distress and anguish come upon you.
28 Then they will call upon me, but I will not answer;
they will seek me diligently, but will not find me.
29 Because they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the LORD, 30 would have none of my counsel,
and despised all my reproof, 31 therefore they shall eat the fruit of their way
and be sated with their own devices.
32 For waywardness kills the simple,
and the complacency of fools destroys them;
33 but those who listen to me will be secure and will live at ease, without dread of disaster."

[Proverbs 2]

The fruits of the search for wisdom

1 My child, if you accept my words
and treasure up my commandments within you, 2 making your ear attentive to wisdom and inclining your heart to understanding;

- 3 if you indeed cry out for insight,
and raise your voice for understanding;
4 if you seek it like silver,
and search for it as for hidden treasures —
5 then you will understand the fear of the LORD and find the knowledge of God.
6 For the LORD gives wisdom;
from his mouth come knowledge and understanding;
7 he stores up sound wisdom for the upright;
he is a shield to those who walk blamelessly,
8 guarding the paths of justice and preserving the way of his faithful ones.
9 Then you will understand righteousness and justice and equity, every good path;
10 for wisdom will come into your heart,
and knowledge will be pleasant to your soul;
11 prudence will watch over you;
and understanding will guard you.
12 It will save you from the way of evil,
from those who speak perversely, 13 who forsake the paths of uprightness
to walk in the ways of darkness, 14 who rejoice in doing evil
and delight in the perverseness of evil; 15 those whose paths are crooked,
and who are devious in their ways.
- 16 You will be saved from the loose woman,
from the adulteress with her smooth words,
17 who forsakes the partner of her youth
and forgets her sacred covenant;
18 for her way leads down to death,
and her paths to the shades;
19 those who go to her never come back,
nor do they regain the paths of life.

- 20 Therefore walk in the way of the good,
and keep to the paths of the just.
21 For the upright will abide in the land,
and the innocent will remain in it;
22 but the wicked will be cut off from the land,
and the treacherous will be rooted out of it.

[Proverbs 3]

Instruction in fear of the Lord

- 1 My child, do not forget my teaching,
but let your heart keep my commandments;
2 for length of days and years of life
and abundant welfare they will give you.
- 3 Do not let loyalty and faithfulness forsake you;
bind them around your neck,
write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 So you will find favor and good repute
in the sight of God and of people.
- 5 Trust in the LORD with all your heart,
and do not rely on your own insight.
6 In all your ways acknowledge him,
and he will make straight your paths.
7 Do not be wise in your own eyes;
fear the LORD, and turn away from evil.
8 It will be a healing for your flesh
and a refreshment for your body.
9 Honor the LORD with your substance
and with the first fruits of all your produce; 10 then your barns will be filled with plenty,
and your vats will be bursting with wine.
- 11 My child, do not despise the LORD's discipline
or be weary of his reproof, 12 for the LORD reproves the one he loves,
as a father the son in whom he delights.

In praise of Wisdom

- 13 Happy are those who find wisdom,
and those who get understanding, 14 for her income is better than silver,
and her revenue better than gold.
15 She is more precious than jewels,
and nothing you desire can compare with her.
16 Long life is in her right hand;
in her left hand are riches and honor.
17 Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
and all her paths are peace.
18 She is a tree of life to those who lay hold of her;
those who hold her fast are called happy.
- 19 The LORD by wisdom founded the earth;
by understanding he established the heavens;
20 by his knowledge the deeps broke open,
and the clouds drop down the dew.

An admonition followed by six prohibitions

- 21 My child, do not let these escape from your sight:
keep sound wisdom and prudence, 22 and they will be life for your soul
and adornment for your neck.
23 Then you will walk on your way securely and your foot will not stumble.
24 If you sit down, you will not be afraid;
when you lie down, your sleep will be sweet.
25 Do not be afraid of sudden panic,
or of the storm that strikes the wicked;
26 for the LORD will be your confidence and will keep your foot from being caught.
- 27 Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due,
when it is in your power to do it.

- 28 Do not say to your neighbor, "Go, and come again, tomorrow I will give it" — when you have it with you.
- 29 Do not plan harm against your neighbor
who lives trustingly beside you.
- 30 Do not quarrel with anyone without cause,
when no harm has been done to you.
- 31 Do not envy the violent and do not choose any of their ways;
- 32 for the perverse are an abomination to the LORD,
but the upright are in his confidence.
- 33 The LORD's curse is on the house of the wicked,
but he blesses the abode of the righteous.
- 34 Toward the scorners he is scornful,
but to the humble he shows favor.
- 35 The wise will inherit honor,
but stubborn fools, disgrace.

[Proverbs 4] Get Wisdom

- 1 Listen, children, to a father's instruction,
and be attentive, that you may gain insight;
- 2 for I give you good precepts:
do not forsake my teaching.
- 3 When I was a son with my father, tender, and my mother's favorite,
- 4 he taught me, and said to me,
"Let your heart hold fast my words;
keep my commandments, and live.
- 5 Get wisdom; get insight: do not forget, nor turn away from the words of my mouth.
- 6 Do not forsake her, and she will keep you;
love her, and she will guard you.
- 7 The beginning of wisdom is this: Get wisdom,
and whatever else you get, get insight.
- 8 Prize her highly, and she will exalt you;
she will honor you if you embrace her.

- 9 She will place on your head a fair garland;
she will bestow on you a beautiful crown."
- 10 Hear, my child, and accept my words,
that the years of your life may be many.
- 11 I have taught you the way of wisdom;
I have led you in the paths of uprightness.
- 12 When you walk, your step will not be hampered;
and if you run, you will not stumble.
- 13 Keep hold of instruction; do not let go;
guard her, for she is your life.
- 14 Do not enter the path of the wicked,
and do not walk in the way of evildoers.
- 15 Avoid it; do not go on it;
turn away from it and pass on.
- 16 For they cannot sleep unless they have done wrong;
they are robbed of sleep unless they have made someone stumble.
- 17 For they eat the bread of wickedness
and drink the wine of violence.
- 18 But the path of the righteous is like the light of dawn,
which shines brighter and brighter until full day.
- 19 The way of the wicked is like deep darkness;
they do not know what they stumble over.
- 20 My child, be attentive to my words;
incline your ear to my sayings.
- 21 Do not let them escape from your sight;
keep them within your heart.
- 22 For they are life to those who find them,
and healing to all their flesh.
- 23 Keep your heart with all vigilance,
for from it flow the springs of life.
- 24 Put away from you crooked speech,
and put devious talk far from you.
- 25 Let your eyes look directly forward,
and your gaze be straight before you.
- 26 Keep straight the path of your feet,
and all your ways will be sure.

27 Do not swerve to the right or to the left;
turn your foot away from evil.

[Proverbs 5]

The dangers of the "strange woman"

- 1 My child, be attentive to my wisdom;
incline your ear to my understanding,
2 so that you may hold on to prudence,
and your lips may guard knowledge.
3 For the lips of a loose woman drip honey,
and her speech is smoother than oil;
4 but in the end she is bitter as wormwood,
sharp as a two-edged sword.
5 Her feet go down to death;
her steps follow the path to Sheol.
6 She does not keep straight to the path of life;
her ways wander, and she does not know it.
- 7 And now, my child, listen to me,
and do not depart from the words of my mouth.
8 Keep your way far from her,
and do not go near the door of her house;
9 or you will give your honor to others,
and your years to the merciless,
10 and strangers will take their fill of your wealth,
and your labors will go to the house of an alien;
11 and at the end of your life you will groan,
when your flesh and body are consumed, 12 and you say, "Oh, how I hated discipline,
and my heart despised reproof!
13 I did not listen to the voice of my teachers or incline my ear to my instructors.
14 Now I am at the point of utter ruin
in the public assembly."
- 15 Drink water from your own cistern,
flowing water from your own well.

- 16 Should your springs be scattered abroad,
streams of water in the streets?
17 Let them be for yourself alone,
and not for sharing with strangers.
18 Let your fountain be blessed,
and rejoice in the wife of your youth,
19 a lovely deer, a graceful doe.
May her breasts satisfy you at all times;
may you be intoxicated always by her love.
20 Why should you be intoxicated, my son, by another woman and embrace the bosom of an adulteress?
21 For human ways are under the eyes of the LORD,
and he examines all their paths.
22 The iniquities of the wicked ensnare them,
and they are caught in the toils of their sin.
23 They die for lack of discipline,
and because of their great folly they are lost.

[Proverbs 6]Warning

- 1 My child, if you have given your pledge to your neighbor,
if you have bound yourself to another,
2 you are snared by the utterance of your lips,
caught by the words of your mouth.
3 So do this, my child, and save yourself,
for you have come into your neighbor's power:
go, hurry, and plead with your neighbor.
4 Give your eyes no sleep and your eyelids no slumber;
5 save yourself like a gazelle from the hunter,
like a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, you lazybones;
consider its ways, and be wise.
7 Without having any chief
or officer or ruler,

8 it prepares its food in summer,
and gathers its sustenance in harvest.
9 How long will you lie there, O lazybones?
When will you rise from your sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest,
11 and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want, like an armed warrior.

12 A scoundrel and a villain
goes around with crooked speech, 13 winking the eyes, shuffling the feet,
pointing the fingers,
14 with perverted mind devising evil,
continually sowing discord;
15 on such a one calamity will descend suddenly;
in a moment, damage beyond repair.

16 There are six things that the LORD hates,
seven that are an abomination to him:
17 haughty eyes, a lying tongue,
and hands that shed innocent blood, 18 a heart that devises wicked plans,
feet that hurry to run to evil, 19 a lying witness who testifies falsely,
and one who sows discord in a family.

The perils of adultery

20 My child, keep your father's commandment, and do not forsake your mother's teaching.
21 Bind them upon your heart always;
tie them around your neck.
22 When you walk, they will lead you;
when you lie down, they will watch over you;
and when you awake, they will talk with you.
23 For the commandment is a lamp and the teaching a light,
and the reproofs of discipline are the way of life,

- 24 to preserve you from the wife of another,
from the smooth tongue of the adulteress.
- 25 Do not desire her beauty in your heart,
and do not let her capture you with her eyelashes;
- 26 for a prostitute's fee is only a loaf of bread,
but the wife of another stalks a man's very life.
- 27 Can fire be carried in the bosom
without burning one's clothes?
- 28 Or can one walk on hot coals
without scorching the feet?
- 29 So is he who sleeps with his neighbor's wife;
no one who touches her will go unpunished.
- 30 Thieves are not despised who steal only to satisfy their appetite when they are hungry.
- 31 Yet if they are caught, they will pay sevenfold;
they will forfeit all the goods of their house.
- 32 But he who commits adultery has no sense;
he who does it destroys himself.
- 33 He will get wounds and dishonor,
and his disgrace will not be wiped away.
- 34 For jealousy arouses a husband's fury,
and he shows no restraint when he takes revenge.
- 35 He will accept no compensation,
and refuses a bribe no matter how great.

[Proverbs 7]

Another warning against the "strange woman"

- 1 My child, keep my words
and store up my commandments with you;
- 2 keep my commandments and live,
keep my teachings as the apple of your eye;
- 3 bind them on your fingers,
write them on the tablet of your heart.
- 4 Say to wisdom, "You are my sister,"
and call insight your intimate friend,
- 5 that they may keep you from the loose woman,
from the adulteress with her smooth words.

6 For at the window of my house
I looked out through my lattice,
7 and I saw among the simple ones,
I observed among the youths,
a young man without sense,
8 passing along the street near her corner,
taking the road to her house 9 in the twilight, in the evening, at the time of night and darkness.

10 Then a woman comes toward him,
decked out like a prostitute, wily of heart.
11 She is loud and wayward;
her feet do not stay at home;
12 now in the street, now in the squares,
and at every corner she lies in wait.
13 She seizes him and kisses him,
and with impudent face she says to him:
14 "I had to offer sacrifices,
and today I have paid my vows;
15 so now I have come out to meet you,
to seek you eagerly, and I have found you!
16 I have decked my couch with coverings,
colored spreads of Egyptian linen;
17 I have perfumed my bed with myrrh,
aloes, and cinnamon.
18 Come, let us take our fill of love until morning;
let us delight ourselves with love.
19 For my husband is not at home;
he has gone on a long journey.
20 He took a bag of money with him;
he will not come home until full moon."
21 With much seductive speech she persuades him;
with her smooth talk she compels him.
22 Right away he follows her,
and goes like an ox to the slaughter,
or bounds like a stag toward the trap

23 until an arrow pierces its entrails.
He is like a bird rushing into a snare,
not knowing that it will cost him his life.

24 And now, my children, listen to me,
and be attentive to the words of my mouth.

25 Do not let your hearts turn aside to her ways;
do not stray into her paths.

26 for many are those she has laid low,
and numerous are her victims.

27 Her house is the way to Sheol,
going down to the chambers of death.

[Proverbs 8] Wisdom speaks

1 Does not wisdom call,
and does not understanding raise her voice?

2 On the heights, beside the way,
at the crossroads she takes her stand;

3 beside the gates in front of the town,
at the entrance of the portals she cries out:

4 "To you, O people, I call,
and my cry is to all that live.

5 O simple ones, learn prudence;
acquire intelligence, you who lack it.

6 Hear, for I will speak noble things,
and from my lips will come what is right;

7 for my mouth will utter truth;
wickedness is an abomination to my lips.

8 All the words of my mouth are righteous;
there is nothing twisted or crooked in them.

9 They are all straight to one who understands and right to those who find knowledge.

10 Take my instruction instead of silver,
and knowledge rather than choice gold;

11 for wisdom is better than jewels,
and all that you may desire cannot compare with her.

- 12 I, wisdom, live with prudence,
and I attain knowledge and discretion.
- 13 The fear of the LORD is hatred of evil.
Pride and arrogance and the way of evil
and perverted speech I hate.
- 14 I have good advice and sound wisdom;
I have insight, I have strength.
- 15 By me kings reign,
and rulers decree what is just;
- 16 by me rulers rule,
and nobles, all who govern rightly.
- 17 I love those who love me,
and those who seek me diligently find me.
- 18 Riches and honor are with me,
enduring wealth and prosperity.
- 19 My fruit is better than gold, even fine gold,
and my yield than choice silver.
- 20 I walk in the way of righteousness,
along the paths of justice,
- 21 endowing with wealth those who love me,
and filling their treasuries.
- 22 The LORD created me at the beginning of his work,
the first of his acts of long ago.
- 23 Ages ago I was set up,
at the first, before the beginning of the earth.
- 24 When there were no depths I was brought forth,
when there were no springs abounding with water.
- 25 Before the mountains had been shaped,
before the hills, I was brought forth —
- 26 when he had not yet made earth and fields,
or the world's first bits of soil.
- 27 When he established the heavens, I was there,
when he drew a circle on the face of the deep,
- 28 when he made firm the skies above,
when he established the fountains of the deep,
- 29 when he assigned to the sea its limit,
so that the waters might not transgress his command,
when he marked out the foundations of the earth,

30 then I was beside him, like a master worker;
 and I was daily his delight,
 rejoicing before him always,
 31 rejoicing in his inhabited world
 and delighting in the human race.

32 "And now, my children, listen to me:
 happy are those who keep my ways.
 33 Hear instruction and be wise,
 and do not neglect it.
 34 Happy is the one who listens to me,
 watching daily at my gates,
 waiting beside my doors.
 35 For whoever finds me finds life
 and obtains favor from the LORD; 36 but those who miss me injure themselves;
 all who hate me love death."

[Proverbs 9]

Wisdom invites the unwise to her banquet

1 Wisdom has built her house,
 she has hewn her seven pillars.
 2 She has slaughtered her animals, she has mixed her wine,
 she has also set her table.
 3 She has sent out her servant-girls, she calls from the highest places in the town,
 4 "You that are simple, turn in here!"
 To those without sense she says,
 5 "Come, eat of my bread
 and drink of the wine I have mixed.
 6 Lay aside immaturity, and live,
 and walk in the way of insight."
 7 Whoever corrects a scoffer wins abuse;
 whoever rebukes the wicked gets hurt.
 8 A scoffer who is rebuked will only hate you;
 the wise, when rebuked, will love you.

- 9 Give instruction to the wise, and they will become wiser still;
teach the righteous and they will gain in learning.
- 10 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom,
and the knowledge of the Holy One is insight.
- 11 For by me your days will be multiplied,
and years will be added to your life.
- 12 If you are wise, you are wise for yourself;
if you scoff, you alone will bear it.
- 13 The foolish woman is loud;
she is ignorant and knows nothing.
- 14 She sits at the door of her house,
on a seat at the high places of the town,
- 15 calling to those who pass by,
who are going straight on their way,
- 16 "You who are simple, turn in here!"
And to those without sense she says,
- 17 "Stolen water is sweet,
and bread eaten in secret is pleasant."
- 18 But they do not know that the dead are there,
that her guests are in the depths of Sheol.

[Proverbs 10]

Proverbial sayings

- 1 The proverbs of Solomon.
- A wise child makes a glad father,
but a foolish child is a mother's grief.
- 2 Treasures gained by wickedness do not profit,
but righteousness delivers from death.
- 3 The LORD does not let the righteous go hungry,
but he thwarts the craving of the wicked.
- 4 A slack hand causes poverty,
but the hand of the diligent makes rich.
- 5 A child who gathers in summer is prudent,
but a child who sleeps in harvest brings shame.

- 6 Blessings are on the head of the righteous,
but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
- 7 The memory of the righteous is a blessing,
but the name of the wicked will rot.
- 8 The wise of heart will heed commandments,
but a babbling fool will come to ruin.
- 9 Whoever walks in integrity walks securely,
but whoever follows perverse ways will be found out.
- 10 Whoever winks the eye causes trouble,
but the one who rebukes boldly makes peace.
- 11 The mouth of the righteous is a fountain of life,
but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
- 12 Hatred stirs up strife,
but love covers all offenses.
- 13 On the lips of one who has understanding wisdom is found,
but a rod is for the back of one who lacks sense.
- 14 The wise lay up knowledge,
but the babbling of a fool brings ruin near.
- 15 The wealth of the rich is their fortress;
the poverty of the poor is their ruin.
- 16 The wage of the righteous leads to life,
the gain of the wicked to sin.
- 17 Whoever heeds instruction is on the path to life,
but one who rejects a rebuke goes astray.
- 18 Lying lips conceal hatred,
and whoever utters slander is a fool.
- 19 When words are many, transgression is not lacking,
but the prudent are restrained in speech.
- 20 The tongue of the righteous is choice silver;
the mind of the wicked is of little worth.
- 21 The lips of the righteous feed many,
but fools die for lack of sense.
- 22 The blessing of the LORD makes rich,
and he adds no sorrow with it.
- 23 Doing wrong is like sport to a fool,
but wise conduct is pleasure to a person of understanding.
- 24 What the wicked dread will come upon them,
but the desire of the righteous will be granted.

- 25 When the tempest passes, the wicked are no more,
but the righteous are established forever.
- 26 Like vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes,
so are the lazy to their employers.
- 27 The fear of the LORD prolongs life,
but the years of the wicked will be short.
- 28 The hope of the righteous ends in gladness,
but the expectation of the wicked comes to nothing.
- 29 The way of the LORD is a stronghold for the upright,
but destruction for evildoers.
- 30 The righteous will never be removed,
but the wicked will not remain in the land.
- 31 The mouth of the righteous brings forth wisdom,
but the perverse tongue will be cut off.
- 32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable,
but the mouth of the wicked what is perverse.

[Proverbs 11]

- 1 A false balance is an abomination to the LORD,
but an accurate weight is his delight.
- 2 When pride comes, then comes disgrace;
but wisdom is with the humble.
- 3 The integrity of the upright guides them,
but the crookedness of the treacherous destroys them.
- 4 Riches do not profit in the day of wrath,
but righteousness delivers from death.
- 5 The righteousness of the blameless keeps their ways straight,
but the wicked fall by their own wickedness.
- 6 The righteousness of the upright saves them,
but the treacherous are taken captive by their schemes.
- 7 When the wicked die, their hope perishes,
and the expectation of the godless comes to nothing.
- 8 The righteous are delivered from trouble,
and the wicked get into it instead.
- 9 With their mouths the godless would destroy their neighbors,
but by knowledge the righteous are delivered.

- 10 When it goes well with the righteous, the city rejoices;
and when the wicked perish, there is jubilation.
- 11 By the blessing of the upright a city is exalted,
but it is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked.
- 12 Whoever belittles another lacks sense,
but an intelligent person remains silent.
- 13 A gossip goes about telling secrets,
but one who is trustworthy in spirit keeps a confidence.
- 14 Where there is no guidance, a nation falls,
but in an abundance of counselors there is safety.
- 15 To guarantee loans for a stranger brings trouble,
but there is safety in refusing to do so.
- 16 A gracious woman gets honor,
but she who hates virtue is covered with shame.
The timid become destitute,
but the aggressive gain riches.
- 17 Those who are kind reward themselves,
but the cruel do themselves harm.
- 18 The wicked earn no real gain,
but those who sow righteousness get a true reward.
- 19 Whoever is steadfast in righteousness will live,
but whoever pursues evil will die.
- 20 Crooked minds are an abomination to the LORD,
but those of blameless ways are his delight.
- 21 Be assured, the wicked will not go unpunished,
but those who are righteous will escape.
- 22 Like a gold ring in a pig's snout
is a beautiful woman without good sense.
- 23 The desire of the righteous ends only in good;
the expectation of the wicked in wrath.
- 24 Some give freely, yet grow all the richer;
others withhold what is due, and only suffer want.
- 25 A generous person will be enriched,
and one who gives water will get water.
- 26 The people curse those who hold back grain,
but a blessing is on the head of those who sell it.
- 27 Whoever diligently seeks good seeks favor,
but evil comes to the one who searches for it.

- 28 Those who trust in their riches will wither,
but the righteous will flourish like green leaves.
- 29 Those who trouble their households will inherit wind,
and the fool will be servant to the wise.
- 30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life,
but violence takes lives away.
- 31 If the righteous are repaid on earth,
how much more the wicked and the sinner!

[Proverbs 12]

- 1 Whoever loves discipline loves knowledge,
but those who hate to be rebuked are stupid.
- 2 The good obtain favor from the LORD,
but those who devise evil he condemns.
- 3 No one finds security by wickedness,
but the root of the righteous will never be moved.
- 4 A good wife is the crown of her husband,
but she who brings shame is like rotteness in his bones.
- 5 The thoughts of the righteous are just;
the advice of the wicked is treacherous.
- 6 The words of the wicked are a deadly ambush,
but the speech of the upright delivers them.
- 7 The wicked are overthrown and are no more,
but the house of the righteous will stand.
- 8 One is commended for good sense,
but a perverse mind is despised.
- 9 Better to be despised and have a servant,
than to be self-important and lack food.
- 10 The righteous know the needs of their animals,
but the mercy of the wicked is cruel.
- 11 Those who till their land will have plenty of food,
but those who follow worthless pursuits have no sense.
- 12 The wicked covet the proceeds of wickedness,
but the root of the righteous bears fruit.
- 13 The evil are ensnared by the transgression of their lips,
but the righteous escape from trouble.

- 14 From the fruit of the mouth one is filled with good things,
and manual labor has its reward.
- 15 Fools think their own way is right,
but the wise listen to advice.
- 16 Fools show their anger at once,
but the prudent ignore an insult.
- 17 Whoever speaks the truth gives honest evidence,
but a false witness speaks deceitfully.
- 18 Rash words are like sword thrusts,
but the tongue of the wise brings healing.
- 19 Truthful lips endure forever,
but a lying tongue lasts only a moment.
- 20 Deceit is in the mind of those who plan evil,
but those who counsel peace have joy.
- 21 No harm happens to the righteous,
but the wicked are filled with trouble.
- 22 Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD,
but those who act faithfully are his delight.
- 23 One who is clever conceals knowledge,
but the mind of a fool broadcasts folly.
- 24 The hand of the diligent will rule,
while the lazy will be put to forced labor.
- 25 Anxiety weighs down the human heart,
but a good word cheers it up.
- 26 The righteous gives good advice to friends,
but the way of the wicked leads astray.
- 27 The lazy do not roast their game,
but the diligent obtain precious wealth.
- 28 In the path of righteousness there is life,
in walking its path there is no death.

[Proverbs 13]

- 1 A wise child loves discipline,
but a scoffer does not listen to rebuke.
- 2 From the fruit of their words good persons eat good things,
but the desire of the treacherous is for wrongdoing.

- 3 Those who guard their mouths preserve their lives;
those who open wide their lips come to ruin.
- 4 The appetite of the lazy craves, and gets nothing,
while the appetite of the diligent is richly supplied.
- 5 The righteous hate falsehood,
but the wicked act shamefully and disgracefully.
- 6 Righteousness guards one whose way is upright,
but sin overthrows the wicked.
- 7 Some pretend to be rich, yet have nothing;
others pretend to be poor, yet have great wealth.
- 8 Wealth is a ransom for a person's life,
but the poor get no threats.
- 9 The light of the righteous rejoices,
but the lamp of the wicked goes out.
- 10 By insolence the heedless make strife,
but wisdom is with those who take advice.
- 11 Wealth hastily gotten will dwindle,
but those who gather little by little will increase it.
- 12 Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
but a desire fulfilled is a tree of life.
- 13 Those who despise the word bring destruction on themselves,
but those who respect the commandment will be rewarded.
- 14 The teaching of the wise is a fountain of life,
so that one may avoid the snares of death.
- 15 Good sense wins favor,
but the way of the faithless is their ruin.
- 16 The clever do all things intelligently,
but the fool displays folly.
- 17 A bad messenger brings trouble,
but a faithful envoy, healing.
- 18 Poverty and disgrace are for the one who ignores instruction,
but one who heeds reproof is honored.
- 19 A desire realized is sweet to the soul,
but to turn away from evil is an abomination to fools.
- 20 Whoever walks with the wise becomes wise,
but the companion of fools suffers harm.
- 21 Misfortune pursues sinners,
but prosperity rewards the righteous.

- 22 The good leave an inheritance to their children's children,
but the sinner's wealth is laid up for the righteous.
- 23 The field of the poor may yield much food,
but it is swept away through injustice.
- 24 Those who spare the rod hate their children,
but those who love them are diligent to discipline them.
- 25 The righteous have enough to satisfy their appetite,
but the belly of the wicked is empty.

[Proverbs 14]

- 1 The wise woman builds her house,
but the foolish tears it down with her own hands.
- 2 Those who walk uprightly fear the LORD,
but one who is devious in conduct despises him.
- 3 The talk of fools is a rod for their backs,
but the lips of the wise preserve them.
- 4 Where there are no oxen, there is no grain;
abundant crops come by the strength of the ox.
- 5 A faithful witness does not lie,
but a false witness breathes out lies.
- 6 A scoffer seeks wisdom in vain,
but knowledge is easy for one who understands.
- 7 Leave the presence of a fool,
for there you do not find words of knowledge.
- 8 It is the wisdom of the clever to understand where they go,
but the folly of fools misleads.
- 9 Fools mock at the guilt offering,
but the upright enjoy God's favor.
- 10 The heart knows its own bitterness,
and no stranger shares its joy.
- 11 The house of the wicked is destroyed,
but the tent of the upright flourishes.
- 12 There is a way that seems right to a person,
but its end is the way to death.
- 13 Even in laughter the heart is sad,
and the end of joy is grief.

- 14 The perverse get what their ways deserve,
and the good, what their deeds deserve.
- 15 The simple believe everything,
but the clever consider their steps.
- 16 The wise are cautious and turn away from evil,
but the fool throws off restraint and is careless.
- 17 One who is quick-tempered acts foolishly,
and the schemer is hated.
- 18 The simple are adorned with folly,
but the clever are crowned with knowledge.
- 19 The evil bow down before the good,
the wicked at the gates of the righteous.
- 20 The poor are disliked even by their neighbors,
but the rich have many friends.
- 21 Those who despise their neighbors are sinners,
but happy are those who are kind to the poor.
- 22 Do they not err that plan evil?
Those who plan good find loyalty and faithfulness.
- 23 In all toil there is profit,
but mere talk leads only to poverty.
- 24 The crown of the wise is their wisdom,
but folly is the garland of fools.
- 25 A truthful witness saves lives,
but one who utters lies is a betrayer.
- 26 In the fear of the LORD one has strong confidence,
and one's children will have a refuge.
- 27 The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life,
so that one may avoid the snares of death.
- 28 The glory of a king is a multitude of people;
without people a prince is ruined.
- 29 Whoever is slow to anger has great understanding,
but one who has a hasty temper exalts folly.
- 30 A tranquil mind gives life to the flesh,
but passion makes the bones rot.
- 31 Those who oppress the poor insult their Maker,
but those who are kind to the needy honor him.
- 32 The wicked are overthrown by their evildoing,
but the righteous find a refuge in their integrity.

- 33 Wisdom is at home in the mind of one who has understanding,
but it is not known in the heart of fools.
- 34 Righteousness exalts a nation,
but sin is a reproach to any people.
- 35 A servant who deals wisely has the king's favor,
but his wrath falls on one who acts shamefully.

[Proverbs 15]

- 1 A soft answer turns away wrath,
but a harsh word stirs up anger.
- 2 The tongue of the wise dispenses knowledge,
but the mouths of fools pour out folly.
- 3 The eyes of the LORD are in every place,
keeping watch on the evil and the good.
- 4 A gentle tongue is a tree of life,
but perverseness in it breaks the spirit.
- 5 A fool despises a parent's instruction,
but the one who heeds admonition is prudent.
- 6 In the house of the righteous there is much treasure,
but trouble befalls the income of the wicked.
- 7 The lips of the wise spread knowledge;
not so the minds of fools.
- 8 The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
but the prayer of the upright is his delight.
- 9 The way of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
but he loves the one who pursues righteousness.
- 10 There is severe discipline for one who forsakes the way,
but one who hates a rebuke will die.
- 11 Sheol and Abaddon lie open before the LORD,
how much more human hearts!
- 12 Scoffers do not like to be rebuked;
they will not go to the wise.
- 13 A glad heart makes a cheerful countenance,
but by sorrow of heart the spirit is broken.
- 14 The mind of one who has understanding seeks knowledge,
but the mouths of fools feed on folly.

- 15 All the days of the poor are hard,
but a cheerful heart has a continual feast.
- 16 Better is a little with the fear of the LORD
than great treasure and trouble with it.
- 17 Better is a dinner of vegetables where love is
than a fatted ox and hatred with it.
- 18 Those who are hot-tempered stir up strife,
but those who are slow to anger calm contention.
- 19 The way of the lazy is overgrown with thorns,
but the path of the upright is a level highway.
- 20 A wise child makes a glad father,
but the foolish despise their mothers.
- 21 Folly is a joy to one who has no sense,
but a person of understanding walks straight ahead.
- 22 Without counsel, plans go wrong,
but with many advisers they succeed.
- 23 To make an apt answer is a joy to anyone,
and a word in season, how good it is!
- 24 For the wise the path of life leads upward,
in order to avoid Sheol below.
- 25 The LORD tears down the house of the proud,
but maintains the widow's boundaries.
- 26 Evil plans are an abomination to the LORD,
but gracious words are pure.
- 27 Those who are greedy for unjust gain make trouble for their households,
but those who hate bribes will live.
- 28 The mind of the righteous ponders how to answer,
but the mouth of the wicked pours out evil.
- 29 The LORD is far from the wicked,
but he hears the prayer of the righteous.
- 30 The light of the eyes rejoices the heart,
and good news refreshes the body.
- 31 The ear that heeds wholesome admonition will lodge among the wise.
- 32 Those who ignore instruction despise themselves,
but those who heed admonition gain understanding.

33 The fear of the LORD is instruction in wisdom,
and humility goes before honor.

[Proverbs 16]

- 1 The plans of the mind belong to mortals,
but the answer of the tongue is from the LORD.
- 2 All one's ways may be pure in one's own eyes,
but the LORD weighs the spirit.
- 3 Commit your work to the LORD,
and your plans will be established.
- 4 The LORD has made everything for its purpose,
even the wicked for the day of trouble.
- 5 All those who are arrogant are an abomination to the LORD;
be assured, they will not go unpunished.
- 6 By loyalty and faithfulness iniquity is atoned for,
and by the fear of the LORD one avoids evil.
- 7 When the ways of people please the LORD,
he causes even their enemies to be at peace with them.
- 8 Better is a little with righteousness
than large income with injustice.
- 9 The human mind plans the way,
but the LORD directs the steps.
- 10 Inspired decisions are on the lips of a king;
his mouth does not sin in judgment.
- 11 Honest balances and scales are the LORD'S;
all the weights in the bag are his work.
- 12 It is an abomination to kings to do evil,
for the throne is established by righteousness.
- 13 Righteous lips are the delight of a king,
and he loves those who speak what is right.
- 14 A king's wrath is a messenger of death,
and whoever is wise will appease it.
- 15 In the light of a king's face there is life,
and his favor is like the clouds that bring the spring rain.
- 16 How much better to get wisdom than gold!
To get understanding is to be chosen rather than silver.

- 17 The highway of the upright avoids evil;
those who guard their way preserve their lives.
- 18 Pride goes before destruction,
and a haughty spirit before a fall.
- 19 It is better to be of a lowly spirit among the poor
than to divide the spoil with the proud.
- 20 Those who are attentive to a matter will prosper,
and happy are those who trust in the LORD.
- 21 The wise of heart is called perceptive,
and pleasant speech increases persuasiveness.
- 22 Wisdom is a fountain of life to one who has it,
but folly is the punishment of fools.
- 23 The mind of the wise makes their speech judicious,
and adds persuasiveness to their lips.
- 24 Pleasant words are like a honeycomb,
sweetness to the soul and health to the body.
- 25 Sometimes there is a way that seems to be right,
but in the end it is the way to death.
- 26 The appetite of workers works for them;
their hunger urges them on.
- 27 Scoundrels concoct evil,
and their speech is like a scorching fire.
- 28 A perverse person spreads strife,
and a whisperer separates close friends.
- 29 The violent entice their neighbors,
and lead them in a way that is not good.
- 30 One who winks the eyes plans perverse things;
one who compresses the lips brings evil to pass.
- 31 Gray hair is a crown of glory;
it is gained in a righteous life.
- 32 One who is slow to anger is better than the mighty,
and one whose temper is controlled than one who captures a city.
- 33 The lot is cast into the lap,
but the decision is the LORD's alone.

[Proverbs 17]

- 1 Better is a dry morsel with quiet
than a house full of feasting with strife.
- 2 A slave who deals wisely will rule over a child who acts shamefully,
and will share the inheritance as one of the family.
- 3 The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for gold,
but the LORD tests the heart.
- 4 An evildoer listens to wicked lips;
and a liar gives heed to a mischievous tongue.
- 5 Those who mock the poor insult their Maker;
those who are glad at calamity will not go unpunished.
- 6 Grandchildren are the crown of the aged,
and the glory of children is their parents.
- 7 Fine speech is not becoming to a fool;
still less is false speech to a ruler.
- 8 A bribe is like a magic stone in the eyes of those who give it;
wherever they turn they prosper.
- 9 One who forgives an affront fosters friendship,
but one who dwells on disputes will alienate a friend.
- 10 A rebuke strikes deeper into a discerning person than a hundred blows into a fool.
- 11 Evil people seek only rebellion,
but a cruel messenger will be sent against them.
- 12 Better to meet a she-bear robbed of its cubs
than to confront a fool immersed in folly.
- 13 Evil will not depart from the house
of one who returns evil for good.
- 14 The beginning of strife is like letting out water;
so stop before the quarrel breaks out.
- 15 One who justifies the wicked and one who condemns the righteous
are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
- 16 Why should fools have a price in hand
to buy wisdom, when they have no mind to learn?
- 17 A friend loves at all times,
and kinsfolk are born to share adversity.
- 18 It is senseless to give a pledge,
to become surety for a neighbor.

- 19 One who loves transgression loves strife;
one who builds a high threshold invites broken bones.
- 20 The crooked of mind do not prosper,
and the perverse of tongue fall into calamity.
- 21 The one who begets a fool gets trouble;
the parent of a fool has no joy.
- 22 A cheerful heart is a good medicine,
but a downcast spirit dries up the bones.
- 23 The wicked accept a concealed bribe
to pervert the ways of justice.
- 24 The discerning person looks to wisdom,
but the eyes of a fool to the ends of the earth.
- 25 Foolish children are a grief to their father
and bitterness to her who bore them.
- 26 To impose a fine on the innocent is not right,
or to flog the noble for their integrity.
- 27 One who spares words is knowledgeable;
one who is cool in spirit has understanding.
- 28 Even fools who keep silent are considered wise;
when they close their lips, they are deemed intelligent.

[Proverbs 18]

- 1 The one who lives alone is self-indulgent,
showing contempt for all who have sound judgment.
- 2 A fool takes no pleasure in understanding,
but only in expressing personal opinion.
- 3 When wickedness comes, contempt comes also;
and with dishonor comes disgrace.
- 4 The words of the mouth are deep waters;
the fountain of wisdom is a gushing stream.
- 5 It is not right to be partial to the guilty,
or to subvert the innocent in judgment.
- 6 A fool's lips bring strife,
and a fool's mouth invites a flogging.
- 7 The mouths of fools are their ruin,
and their lips a snare to themselves.

- 8 The words of a whisperer are like delicious morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the body.
- 9 One who is slack in work
is close kin to a vandal.
- 10 The name of the LORD is a strong tower;
the righteous run into it and are safe.
- 11 The wealth of the rich is their strong city;
in their imagination it is like a high wall.
- 12 Before destruction one's heart is haughty,
but humility goes before honor.
- 13 If one gives answer before hearing,
it is folly and shame.
- 14 The human spirit will endure sickness;
but a broken spirit — who can bear?
- 15 An intelligent mind acquires knowledge,
and the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.
- 16 A gift opens doors;
it gives access to the great.
- 17 The one who first states a case seems right,
until the other comes and cross-examines.
- 18 Casting the lot puts an end to disputes and decides between powerful contenders.
- 19 An ally offended is stronger than a city;
such quarreling is like the bars of a castle.
- 20 From the fruit of the mouth one's stomach is satisfied;
the yield of the lips brings satisfaction.
- 21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
and those who love it will eat its fruits.
- 22 He who finds a wife finds a good thing,
and obtains favor from the LORD.
- 23 The poor use entreaties,
but the rich answer roughly.
- 24 Some friends play at friendship
but a true friend sticks closer than one's nearest kin.

[Proverbs 19]

- 1 Better the poor walking in integrity
 than one perverse of speech who is a fool.
- 2 Desire without knowledge is not good,
 and one who moves too hurriedly misses the way.
- 3 One's own folly leads to ruin,
 yet the heart rages against the LORD.
- 4 Wealth brings many friends,
 but the poor are left friendless.
- 5 A false witness will not go unpunished,
 and a liar will not escape.
- 6 Many seek the favor of the generous,
 and everyone is a friend to a giver of gifts.
- 7 If the poor are hated even by their kin,
 how much more are they shunned by their friends!
 When they call after them, they are not there.
- 8 To get wisdom is to love oneself;
 to keep understanding is to prosper.
- 9 A false witness will not go unpunished,
 and the liar will perish.
- 10 It is not fitting for a fool to live in luxury,
 much less for a slave to rule over princes.
- 11 Those with good sense are slow to anger,
 and it is their glory to overlook an offense.
- 12 A king's anger is like the growling of a lion,
 but his favor is like dew on the grass.
- 13 A stupid child is ruin to a father,
 and a wife's quarreling is a continual dripping of rain.
- 14 House and wealth are inherited from parents,
 but a prudent wife is from the LORD.
- 15 Laziness brings on deep sleep;
 an idle person will suffer hunger.
- 16 Those who keep the commandment will live;
 those who are heedless of their ways will die.
- 17 Whoever is kind to the poor lends to the LORD,
 and will be repaid in full.

- 18 Discipline your children while there is hope;
do not set your heart on their destruction.
- 19 A violent tempered person will pay the penalty;
if you effect a rescue, you will only have to do it again.
- 20 Listen to advice and accept instruction,
that you may gain wisdom for the future.
- 21 The human mind may devise many plans,
but it is the purpose of the LORD that will be established.
- 22 What is desirable in a person is loyalty,
and it is better to be poor than a liar.
- 23 The fear of the LORD is life indeed;
filled with it one rests secure
and suffers no harm.
- 24 The lazy person buries a hand in the dish,
and will not even bring it back to the mouth.
- 25 Strike a scoffer, and the simple will learn prudence;
reprove the intelligent, and they will gain knowledge.
- 26 Those who do violence to their father and chase away their mother are children who cause shame and bring reproach.
- 27 Cease straying, my child, from the words of knowledge,
in order that you may hear instruction.
- 28 A worthless witness mocks at justice,
and the mouth of the wicked devours iniquity.
- 29 Condemnation is ready for scoffers,
and flogging for the backs of fools.

[Proverbs 20]

- 1 Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler,
and whoever is led astray by it is not wise.
- 2 The dread anger of a king is like the growling of a lion;
anyone who provokes him to anger forfeits life itself.
- 3 It is honorable to refrain from strife,
but every fool is quick to quarrel.
- 4 The lazy person does not plow in season;
harvest comes, and there is nothing to be found.
- 5 The purposes in the human mind are like deep water,
but the intelligent will draw them out.

- 6 Many proclaim themselves loyal,
but who can find one worthy of trust?
- 7 The righteous walk in integrity —
happy are the children who follow them!
- 8 A king who sits on the throne of judgment
winnows all evil with his eyes.
- 9 Who can say, "I have made my heart clean;
I am pure from my sin"?
- 10 Diverse weights and diverse measures
are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
- 11 Even children make themselves known by their acts,
by whether what they do is pure and right.
- 12 The hearing ear and the seeing eye —
the LORD has made them both.
- 13 Do not love sleep, or else you will come to poverty;
open your eyes, and you will have plenty of bread.
- 14 "Bad, bad," says the buyer,
then goes away and boasts.
- 15 There is gold, and abundance of costly stones;
but the lips informed by knowledge are a precious jewel.
- 16 Take the garment of one who has given surety for a stranger;
seize the pledge given as surety for foreigners.
- 17 Bread gained by deceit is sweet,
but afterward the mouth will be full of gravel.
- 18 Plans are established by taking advice;
wage war by following wise guidance.
- 19 A gossip reveals secrets;
therefore do not associate with a babbler.
- 20 If you curse father or mother,
your lamp will go out in utter darkness.
- 21 An estate quickly acquired in the beginning will not be blessed in the end.
- 22 Do not say, "I will repay evil";
wait for the LORD, and he will help you.
- 23 Differing weights are an abomination to the LORD,
and false scales are not good.
- 24 All our steps are ordered by the LORD;
how then can we understand our own ways?

- 25 It is a snare for one to say rashly, "It is holy,"
and begin to reflect only after making a vow.
- 26 A wise king winnows the wicked,
and drives the wheel over them.
- 27 The human spirit is the lamp of the LORD,
searching every inmost part.
- 28 Loyalty and faithfulness preserve the king,
and his throne is upheld by righteousness.
- 29 The glory of youths is their strength,
but the beauty of the aged is their gray hair.
- 30 Blows that wound cleanse away evil;
beatings make clean the innermost parts.

[Proverbs 21]

- 1 The king's heart is a stream of water in the hand of the LORD;
he turns it wherever he will.
- 2 All deeds are right in the sight of the doer,
but the LORD weighs the heart.
- 3 To do righteousness and justice
is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice.
- 4 Haughty eyes and a proud heart —
the lamp of the wicked — are sin.
- 5 The plans of the diligent lead surely to abundance,
but everyone who is hasty comes only to want.
- 6 The getting of treasures by a lying tongue
is a fleeting vapor and a snare of death.
- 7 The violence of the wicked will sweep them away,
because they refuse to do what is just.
- 8 The way of the guilty is crooked,
but the conduct of the pure is right.
- 9 It is better to live in a corner of the housetop
than in a house shared with a contentious wife.
- 10 The souls of the wicked desire evil;
their neighbors find no mercy in their eyes.
- 11 When a scoffer is punished, the simple become wiser;
when the wise are instructed, they increase in knowledge.

- 12 The Righteous One observes the house of the wicked;
he casts the wicked down to ruin.
- 13 If you close your ear to the cry of the poor,
you will cry out and not be heard.
- 14 A gift in secret averts anger;
and a concealed bribe in the bosom, strong wrath.
- 15 When justice is done, it is a joy to the righteous,
but dismay to evildoers.
- 16 Whoever wanders from the way of understanding will rest in the assembly of the dead.
- 17 Whoever loves pleasure will suffer want;
whoever loves wine and oil will not be rich.
- 18 The wicked is a ransom for the righteous,
and the faithless for the upright.
- 19 It is better to live in a desert land
than with a contentious and fretful wife.
- 20 Precious treasure remains in the house of the wise,
but the fool devours it.
- 21 Whoever pursues righteousness and kindness
will find life and honor.
- 22 One wise person went up against a city of warriors
and brought down the stronghold in which they trusted.
- 23 To watch over mouth and tongue
is to keep out of trouble.
- 24 The proud, haughty person, named "Scoffer," acts with arrogant pride.
- 25 The craving of the lazy person is fatal,
for lazy hands refuse to labor.
- 26 All day long the wicked covet,
but the righteous give and do not hold back.
- 27 The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination;
how much more when brought with evil intent.
- 28 A false witness will perish,
but a good listener will testify successfully.
- 29 The wicked put on a bold face,
but the upright give thought to their ways.
- 30 No wisdom, no understanding, no counsel,
can avail against the LORD.

31 The horse is made ready for the day of battle,
but the victory belongs to the LORD.

[Proverbs 22]

- 1 A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches,
and favor is better than silver or gold.
- 2 The rich and the poor have this in common:
the LORD is the maker of them all.
- 3 The clever see danger and hide;
but the simple go on, and suffer for it.
- 4 The reward for humility and fear of the LORD
is riches and honor and life.
- 5 Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse;
the cautious will keep far from them.
- 6 Train children in the right way,
and when old, they will not stray.
- 7 The rich rule over the poor,
and the borrower is the slave of the lender.
- 8 Whoever sows injustice will reap calamity,
and the rod of anger will fail.
- 9 Those who are generous are blessed,
for they share their bread with the poor.
- 10 Drive out a scoffer, and strife goes out;
quarreling and abuse will cease.
- 11 Those who love a pure heart and are gracious in speech will have the king as a friend.
- 12 The eyes of the LORD keep watch over knowledge,
but he overthrows the words of the faithless.
- 13 The lazy person says, "There is a lion outside!
I shall be killed in the streets!"
- 14 The mouth of a loose woman is a deep pit;
he with whom the LORD is angry falls into it.
- 15 Folly is bound up in the heart of a boy,
but the rod of discipline drives it far away.
- 16 Oppressing the poor in order to enrich oneself,
and giving to the rich, will lead only to loss.

The words of the wise

17 The words of the wise:

- Incline your ear and hear my words,
and apply your mind to my teaching;
- 18 for it will be pleasant if you keep them within you,
if all of them are ready on your lips.
- 19 So that your trust may be in the LORD,
I have made them known to you today — yes, to you.
- 20 Have I not written for you thirty sayings
of admonition and knowledge,
- 21 to show you what is right and true,
so that you may give a true answer to those who sent you?
- 22 Do not rob the poor because they are poor,
or crush the afflicted at the gate;
- 23 for the LORD pleads their cause
and despoils of life those who despoil them.
- 24 Make no friends with those given to anger,
and do not associate with hotheads,
- 25 or you may learn their ways
and entangle yourself in a snare.
- 26 Do not be one of those who give pledges,
who become surety for debts.
- 27 If you have nothing with which to pay,
why should your bed be taken from under you?
- 28 Do not remove the ancient landmark that your ancestors set up.
- 29 Do you see those who are skillful in their work?
They will serve kings;
they will not serve common people.

[Proverbs 23]

- 1 When you sit down to eat with a ruler,
observe carefully what is before you,

- 2 and put a knife to your throat
if you have a big appetite.
- 3 Do not desire the ruler's delicacies,
for they are deceptive food.
- 4 Do not wear yourself out to get rich;
be wise enough to desist.
- 5 When your eyes light upon it, it is gone;
for suddenly it takes wings to itself,
flying like an eagle toward heaven.
- 6 Do not eat the bread of the stingy;
do not desire their delicacies;
- 7 for like a hair in the throat, so are they.
"Eat and drink!" they say to you;
but they do not mean it.
- 8 You will vomit up the little you have eaten,
and you will waste your pleasant words.
- 9 Do not speak in the hearing of a fool,
who will only despise the wisdom of your words.
- 10 Do not remove an ancient landmark or encroach on the fields of orphans,
- 11 for their redeemer is strong;
he will plead their cause against you.
- 12 Apply your mind to instruction
and your ear to words of knowledge.
- 13 Do not withhold discipline from your children;
if you beat them with a rod, they will not die.
- 14 If you beat them with the rod,
you will save their lives from Sheol.
- 15 My child, if your heart is wise,
my heart too will be glad.
- 16 My soul will rejoice
when your lips speak what is right.
- 17 Do not let your heart envy sinners,
but always continue in the fear of the LORD.
- 18 Surely there is a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
- 19 Hear, my child, and be wise,
and direct your mind in the way.

- 20 Do not be among winebibbers,
or among gluttonous eaters of meat;
21 for the drunkard and the glutton will come to poverty,
and drowsiness will clothe them with rags.
- 22 Listen to your father who begot you,
and do not despise your mother when she is old.
23 Buy truth, and do not sell it;
buy wisdom, instruction, and understanding.
24 The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice;
he who begets a wise son will be glad in him.
25 Let your father and mother be glad;
let her who bore you rejoice.
- 26 My child, give me your heart,
and let your eyes observe my ways.
27 For a prostitute is a deep pit;
an adulteress is a narrow well.
28 She lies in wait like a robber
and increases the number of the faithless.
- 29 Who has woe? Who has sorrow?
Who has strife? Who has complaining?
Who has wounds without cause?
Who has redness of eyes?
30 Those who linger late over wine,
those who keep trying mixed wines.
31 Do not look at wine when it is red,
when it sparkles in the cup
and goes down smoothly.
32 At the last it bites like a serpent,
and stings like an adder.
33 Your eyes will see strange things,
and your mind utter perverse things.
34 You will be like one who lies down in the midst of the sea,
like one who lies on the top of a mast.

35 "They struck me," you will say, "but I was not hurt;
 they beat me, but I did not feel it.
 When shall I awake?
 I will seek another drink."

[Proverbs 24]

- 1 Do not envy the wicked,
 nor desire to be with them;
 2 for their minds devise violence,
 and their lips talk of mischief.
- 3 By wisdom a house is built,
 and by understanding it is established;
 4 by knowledge the rooms are filled with all precious and pleasant riches.
- 5 Wise warriors are mightier than strong ones,
 and those who have knowledge than those who have strength;
 6 for by wise guidance you can wage your war,
 and in abundance of counselors there is victory.
- 7 Wisdom is too high for fools;
 in the gate they do not open their mouths.
- 8 Whoever plans to do evil
 will be called a mischief-maker.
- 9 The devising of folly is sin,
 and the scoffer is an abomination to all.
- 10 If you faint in the day of adversity,
 your strength being small;
 11 if you hold back from rescuing those taken away to death,
 those who go staggering to the slaughter;
 12 if you say, "Look, we did not know this" — does not he who weighs the heart perceive it?
 Does not he who keeps watch over your soul know it?
 And will he not repay all according to their deeds?

- 13 My child, eat honey, for it is good,
and the drippings of the honeycomb are sweet to your taste.
- 14 Know that wisdom is such to your soul;
if you find it, you will find a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
- 15 Do not lie in wait like an outlaw against the home of the righteous;
do no violence to the place where the righteous live;
- 16 for though they fall seven times, they will rise again;
but the wicked are overthrown by calamity.
- 17 Do not rejoice when your enemies fall,
and do not let your heart be glad when they stumble,
- 18 or else the LORD will see it and be displeased,
and turn away his anger from them.
- 19 Do not fret because of evildoers.
Do not envy the wicked;
- 20 for the evil have no future;
the lamp of the wicked will go out.
- 21 My child, fear the LORD and the king,
and do not disobey either of them;
- 22 for disaster comes from them suddenly,
and who knows the ruin that both can bring?
- 23 These also are sayings of the wise:
- Partiality in judging is not good.
- 24 Whoever says to the wicked, "You are innocent,"
will be cursed by peoples, abhorred by nations;
- 25 but those who rebuke the wicked will have delight,
and a good blessing will come upon them.
- 26 One who gives an honest answer
gives a kiss on the lips.
- 27 Prepare your work outside,
get everything ready for you in the field;
and after that build your house.

- 28 Do not be a witness against your neighbor without cause,
and do not deceive with your lips.
- 29 Do not say, "I will do to others as they have done to me;
I will pay them back for what they have done."
- 30 I passed by the field of one who was lazy,
by the vineyard of a stupid person;
- 31 and see, it was all overgrown with thorns;
the ground was covered with nettles,
and its stone wall was broken down.
- 32 Then I saw and considered it;
I looked and received instruction.
- 33 A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest,
- 34 and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want, like an armed warrior.

[Proverbs 25]

Another sayings collection

- 1 These are other proverbs of Solomon that the officials of King Hezekiah of Judah copied.
- 2 It is the glory of God to conceal things,
but the glory of kings is to search things out.
- 3 Like the heavens for height, like the earth for depth,
so the mind of kings is unsearchable.
- 4 Take away the dross from the silver,
and the smith has material for a vessel;
- 5 take away the wicked from the presence of the king,
and his throne will be established in righteousness.
- 6 Do not put yourself forward in the king's presence or stand in the place of the great;
- 7 for it is better to be told, "Come up here,"
than to be put lower in the presence of a noble.

- What your eyes have seen 8 do not hastily bring into court;
 for what will you do in the end,
 when your neighbor puts you to shame?
9 Argue your case with your neighbor directly,
 and do not disclose another's secret;
10 or else someone who hears you will bring shame upon you,
 and your ill repute will have no end.
- 11 A word fitly spoken
 is like apples of gold in a setting of silver.
12 Like a gold ring or an ornament of gold is a wise rebuke to a listening ear.
13 Like the cold of snow in the time of harvest are faithful messengers to those who send them;
 they refresh the spirit of their masters.
14 Like clouds and wind without rain
 is one who boasts of a gift never given.
15 With patience a ruler may be persuaded,
 and a soft tongue can break bones.
16 If you have found honey, eat only enough for you,
 or else, having too much, you will vomit it.
17 Let your foot be seldom in your neighbor's house, otherwise the neighbor will become weary of you and hate you.
18 Like a war club, a sword, or a sharp arrow
 is one who bears false witness against a neighbor.
19 Like a bad tooth or a lame foot
 is trust in a faithless person in time of trouble.
20 Like vinegar on a wound
 is one who sings songs to a heavy heart.
 Like a moth in clothing or a worm in wood,
 sorrow gnaws at the human heart.
21 If your enemies are hungry, give them bread to eat;
 and if they are thirsty, give them water to drink;
22 for you will heap coals of fire on their heads,
 and the LORD will reward you.
23 The north wind produces rain,
 and a backbiting tongue, angry looks.

- 24 It is better to live in a corner of the housetop
than in a house shared with a contentious wife.
- 25 Like cold water to a thirsty soul,
so is good news from a far country.
- 26 Like a muddied spring or a polluted fountain
are the righteous who give way before the wicked.
- 27 It is not good to eat much honey,
or to seek honor on top of honor.
- 28 Like a city breached, without walls,
is one who lacks self-control.

[Proverbs 26]

Concerning fools and their folly

- 1 Like snow in summer or rain in harvest,
so honor is not fitting for a fool.
- 2 Like a sparrow in its flitting, like a swallow in its flying,
an undeserved curse goes nowhere.
- 3 A whip for the horse, a bridle for the donkey,
and a rod for the back of fools.
- 4 Do not answer fools according to their folly,
or you will be a fool yourself.
- 5 Answer fools according to their folly,
or they will be wise in their own eyes.
- 6 It is like cutting off one's foot and drinking down violence,
to send a message by a fool.
- 7 The legs of a disabled person hang limp;
so does a proverb in the mouth of a fool.
- 8 It is like binding a stone in a sling
to give honor to a fool.
- 9 Like a thornbush brandished by the hand of a drunkard
is a proverb in the mouth of a fool.
- 10 Like an archer who wounds everybody is one who hires a passing fool or drunkard.
- 11 Like a dog that returns to its vomit
is a fool who reverts to his folly.
- 12 Do you see persons wise in their own eyes?
There is more hope for fools than for them.

- 13 The lazy person says, "There is a lion in the road!
There is a lion in the streets!"
- 14 As a door turns on its hinges,
so does a lazy person in bed.
- 15 The lazy person buries a hand in the dish,
and is too tired to bring it back to the mouth.
- 16 The lazy person is wiser in self-esteem
than seven who can answer discreetly.
- 17 Like somebody who takes a passing dog by the ears
is one who meddles in the quarrel of another.
- 18 Like a maniac who shoots deadly firebrands and arrows, 19 so is one who deceives a neighbor and says, "I am only joking!"
- 20 For lack of wood the fire goes out,
and where there is no whisperer, quarreling ceases.
- 21 As charcoal is to hot embers and wood to fire,
so is a quarrelsome person for kindling strife.
- 22 The words of a whisperer are like delicious morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the body.
- 23 Like the glaze covering an earthen vessel
are smooth lips with an evil heart.
- 24 An enemy dissembles in speaking while harboring deceit within;
- 25 when an enemy speaks graciously, do not believe it,
for there are seven abominations concealed within;
- 26 though hatred is covered with guile,
the enemy's wickedness will be exposed in the assembly.
- 27 Whoever digs a pit will fall into it,
and a stone will come back on the one who starts it rolling.
- 28 A lying tongue hates its victims,
and a flattering mouth works ruin.

[Proverbs 27]

- 1 Do not boast about tomorrow,
for you do not know what a day may bring.
- 2 Let another praise you, and not your own mouth —
a stranger, and not your own lips.

- 3 A stone is heavy, and sand is weighty,
but a fool's provocation is heavier than both.
- 4 Wrath is cruel, anger is overwhelming,
but who is able to stand before jealousy?
- 5 Better is open rebuke
than hidden love.
- 6 Well meant are the wounds a friend inflicts,
but profuse are the kisses of an enemy.
- 7 The sated appetite spurns honey,
but to a ravenous appetite even the bitter is sweet.
- 8 Like a bird that strays from its nest
is one who strays from home.
- 9 Perfume and incense make the heart glad,
but the soul is torn by trouble.
- 10 Do not forsake your friend or the friend of your parent;
do not go to the house of your kindred in the day
of your calamity.
Better is a neighbor who is nearby
than kindred who are far away.
- 11 Be wise, my child, and make my heart glad,
so that I may answer whoever reproaches me.
- 12 The clever see danger and hide;
but the simple go on, and suffer for it.
- 13 Take the garment of one who has given surety for a stranger;
seize the pledge given as surety for foreigners.
- 14 Whoever blesses a neighbor with a loud voice,
rising early in the morning,
will be counted as cursing.
- 15 A continual dripping on a rainy day
and a contentious wife are alike;
16 to restrain her is to restrain the wind
or to grasp oil in the right hand.
- 17 Iron sharpens iron,
and one person sharpens the wits of another.
- 18 Anyone who tends a fig tree will eat its fruit,
and anyone who takes care of a master will be honored.
- 19 Just as water reflects the face,
so one human heart reflects another.

- 20 Sheol and Abaddon are never satisfied,
and human eyes are never satisfied.
- 21 The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for gold,
so a person is tested by being praised.
- 22 Crush a fool in a mortar with a pestle
along with crushed grain,
but the folly will not be driven out.
- 23 Know well the condition of your flocks,
and give attention to your herds;
- 24 for riches do not last forever,
nor a crown for all generations.
- 25 When the grass is gone, and new growth appears,
and the herbage of the mountains is gathered,
- 26 the lambs will provide your clothing,
and the goats the price of a field;
- 27 there will be enough goats' milk for your food,
for the food of your household
and nourishment for your servant-girls.

[Proverbs 28]

- 1 The wicked flee when no one pursues,
but the righteous are as bold as a lion.
- 2 When a land rebels
it has many rulers;
but with an intelligent ruler
there is lasting order.
- 3 A ruler who oppresses the poor
is a beating rain that leaves no food.
- 4 Those who forsake the law praise the wicked,
but those who keep the law struggle against them.
- 5 The evil do not understand justice,
but those who seek the LORD understand it completely.
- 6 Better to be poor and walk in integrity
than to be crooked in one's ways even though rich.
- 7 Those who keep the law are wise children,
but companions of gluttons shame their parents.

- 8 One who augments wealth by exorbitant interest gathers it for another who is kind to the poor.
- 9 When one will not listen to the law,
even one's prayers are an abomination.
- 10 Those who mislead the upright into evil ways
will fall into pits of their own making,
but the blameless will have a goodly inheritance.
- 11 The rich is wise in self-esteem,
but an intelligent poor person sees through the pose.
- 12 When the righteous triumph, there is great glory,
but when the wicked prevail, people go into hiding.
- 13 No one who conceals transgressions will prosper,
but one who confesses and forsakes them will obtain mercy.
- 14 Happy is the one who is never without fear,
but one who is hard-hearted will fall into calamity.
- 15 Like a roaring lion or a charging bear
is a wicked ruler over a poor people.
- 16 A ruler who lacks understanding is a cruel oppressor;
but one who hates unjust gain will enjoy a long life.
- 17 If someone is burdened with the blood of another,
let that killer be a fugitive until death;
let no one offer assistance.
- 18 One who walks in integrity will be safe,
but whoever follows crooked ways will fall into the Pit.
- 19 Anyone who tills the land will have plenty of bread, but one who follows worthless pursuits will have plenty of poverty.
- 20 The faithful will abound with blessings,
but one who is in a hurry to be rich will not go unpunished.
- 21 To show partiality is not good — yet for a piece of bread a person may do wrong.
- 22 The miser is in a hurry to get rich
and does not know that loss is sure to come.
- 23 Whoever rebukes a person will afterward find more favor than one who flatters with the tongue.
- 24 Anyone who robs father or mother and says, "That is no crime," is partner to a thug.

- 25 The greedy person stirs up strife,
but whoever trusts in the LORD will be enriched.
- 26 Those who trust in their own wits are fools;
but those who walk in wisdom come through safely.
- 27 Whoever gives to the poor will lack nothing,
but one who turns a blind eye will get many a curse.
- 28 When the wicked prevail, people go into hiding;
but when they perish, the righteous increase.

[Proverbs 29]

- 1 One who is often reproved, yet remains stubborn,
will suddenly be broken beyond healing.
- 2 When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice;
but when the wicked rule, the people groan.
- 3 A child who loves wisdom makes a parent glad,
but to keep company with prostitutes is to squander one's substance.
- 4 By justice a king gives stability to the land,
but one who makes heavy exactions ruins it.
- 5 Whoever flatters a neighbor
is spreading a net for the neighbor's feet.
- 6 In the transgression of the evil there is a snare,
but the righteous sing and rejoice.
- 7 The righteous know the rights of the poor;
the wicked have no such understanding.
- 8 Scoffers set a city aflame,
but the wise turn away wrath.
- 9 If the wise go to law with fools,
there is ranting and ridicule without relief.
- 10 The bloodthirsty hate the blameless,
and they seek the life of the upright.
- 11 A fool gives full vent to anger,
but the wise quietly holds it back.
- 12 If a ruler listens to falsehood,
all his officials will be wicked.
- 13 The poor and the oppressor have this in common:
the LORD gives light to the eyes of both.

- 14 If a king judges the poor with equity,
his throne will be established forever.
- 15 The rod and reproof give wisdom,
but a mother is disgraced by a neglected child.
- 16 When the wicked are in authority, transgression increases,
but the righteous will look upon their downfall.
- 17 Discipline your children, and they will give you rest;
they will give delight to your heart.
- 18 Where there is no vision, the people perish,
but happy are those who keep the law.
- 19 By mere words servants are not disciplined,
for though they understand, they will not give heed.
- 20 Do you see someone who is hasty in speech?
There is more hope for a fool than for anyone like that.
- 21 A slave pampered from childhood
will come to a bad end.
- 22 One given to anger stirs up strife,
and the hothead causes much transgression.
- 23 A person's pride will bring humiliation,
but one who is lowly in spirit will obtain honor.
- 24 To be a partner of a thief is to hate one's own life;
one hears the victim's curse, but discloses nothing.
- 25 The fear of others lays a snare,
but one who trusts in the LORD is secure.
- 26 Many seek the favor of a ruler,
but it is from the LORD that one gets justice.
- 27 The unjust are an abomination to the righteous,
but the upright are an abomination to the wicked.

[Proverbs 30]

The words of Agur and other sayings

1 The words of Agur son of Jakeh. An oracle.

Thus says the man: I am weary, O God,
I am weary, O God. How can I prevail?

2 Surely I am too stupid to be human;
I do not have human understanding.

- 3 I have not learned wisdom,
nor have I knowledge of the holy ones.
- 4 Who has ascended to heaven and come down?
Who has gathered the wind in the hollow of the hand?
Who has wrapped up the waters in a garment?
Who has established all the ends of the earth?
What is the person's name?
And what is the name of the person's child?
Surely you know!
- 5 Every word of God proves true;
he is a shield to those who take refuge in him.
- 6 Do not add to his words, or else he will rebuke you, and you will be found a liar.
- 7 Two things I ask of you;
do not deny them to me before I die:
- 8 Remove far from me falsehood and lying;
give me neither poverty nor riches;
feed me with the food that I need,
- 9 or I shall be full, and deny you,
and say, "Who is the LORD?"
or I shall be poor, and steal,
and profane the name of my God.
- 10 Do not slander a servant to a master, or the servant will curse you, and you will be held guilty.
- 11 There are those who curse their fathers and do not bless their mothers.
- 12 There are those who are pure in their own eyes
yet are not cleansed of their filthiness.
- 13 There are those — how lofty are their eyes,
how high their eyelids lift! —
- 14 there are those whose teeth are swords,
whose teeth are knives,
to devour the poor from off the earth,
the needy from among mortals.

- 15 The leech has two daughters;
"Give, give," they cry.
Three things are never satisfied;
four never say, "Enough":
- 16 Sheol, the barren womb,
the earth ever thirsty for water,
and the fire that never says, "Enough."
- 17 The eye that mocks a father and scorns to obey a mother will be pecked out by the ravens of the valley and eaten by the vultures.
- 18 Three things are too wonderful for me;
four I do not understand:
- 19 the way of an eagle in the sky,
the way of a snake on a rock,
the way of a ship on the high seas,
and the way of a man with a girl.
- 20 This is the way of an adulteress:
she eats, and wipes her mouth,
and says, "I have done no wrong."
- 21 Under three things the earth trembles;
under four it cannot bear up:
- 22 a slave when he becomes king,
and a fool when gluttoned with food;
- 23 an unloved woman when she gets a husband,
and a maid when she succeeds her mistress.
- 24 Four things on earth are small,
yet they are exceedingly wise:
- 25 the ants are a people without strength,
yet they provide their food in the summer;
- 26 the badgers are a people without power,
yet they make their homes in the rocks;
- 27 the locusts have no king,
yet all of them march in rank;

- 28 the lizard can be grasped in the hand,
yet it is found in kings' palaces.
- 29 Three things are stately in their stride;
four are stately in their gait:
30 the lion, which is mightiest among wild animals and does not turn back before any;
31 the strutting rooster, the he-goat,
and a king striding before his people.
- 32 If you have been foolish, exalting yourself,
or if you have been devising evil,
put your hand on your mouth.
- 33 For as pressing milk produces curds,
and pressing the nose produces blood,
so pressing anger produces strife.

[Proverbs 31]

The words of Lemuel

- 1 The words of King Lemuel. An oracle that his mother taught him:
- 2 No, my son! No, son of my womb!
No, son of my vows!
- 3 Do not give your strength to women,
your ways to those who destroy kings.
- 4 It is not for kings, O Lemuel,
it is not for kings to drink wine,
or for rulers to desire strong drink;
- 5 or else they will drink and forget what has been decreed,
and will pervert the rights of all the afflicted.
- 6 Give strong drink to one who is perishing,
and wine to those in bitter distress;
- 7 let them drink and forget their poverty,
and remember their misery no more.
- 8 Speak out for those who cannot speak,
for the rights of all the destitute.
- 9 Speak out, judge righteously,
defend the rights of the poor and needy.

The woman of worth

- 10 A capable wife who can find?
She is far more precious than jewels.
- 11 The heart of her husband trusts in her,
and he will have no lack of gain.
- 12 She does him good, and not harm,
all the days of her life.
- 13 She seeks wool and flax,
and works with willing hands.
- 14 She is like the ships of the merchant,
she brings her food from far away.
- 15 She rises while it is still night
and provides food for her household and tasks for her servant-girls.
- 16 She considers a field and buys it;
with the fruit of her hands she plants a vineyard.
- 17 She girds herself with strength,
and makes her arms strong.
- 18 She perceives that her merchandise is profitable.
Her lamp does not go out at night.
- 19 She puts her hands to the distaff,
and her hands hold the spindle.
- 20 She opens her hand to the poor,
and reaches out her hands to the needy.
- 21 She is not afraid for her household when it snows,
for all her household are clothed in crimson.
- 22 She makes herself coverings;
her clothing is fine linen and purple.
- 23 Her husband is known in the city gates,
taking his seat among the elders of the land.
- 24 She makes linen garments and sells them;
she supplies the merchant with sashes.
- 25 Strength and dignity are her clothing,
and she laughs at the time to come.
- 26 She opens her mouth with wisdom,
and the teaching of kindness is on her tongue.

- 27 She looks well to the ways of her household,
and does not eat the bread of idleness.
- 28 Her children rise up and call her happy;
her husband too, and he praises her:
- 29 "Many women have done excellently,
but you surpass them all."
- 30 Charm is deceitful, and beauty is vain,
but a woman who fears the LORD is to be praised.
- 31 Give her a share in the fruit of her hands,
and let her works praise her in the city gates.

ECCLESIASTES

Introduction

Ecclesiastes is the Latin transliteration of the Greek rendering of the pen-name of the author, known in Hebrew as Qohelet ("Gatherer," traditionally "the teacher" or "the Preacher"). The superscription of the book (1.2) presents Qohelet as "the son of David" who ruled in Jerusalem, evoking the memory of Solomon, king of Israel (968-928 BCE), the consummate sage and gatherer of wealth and wisdom (see 1 Kings 3-4; 10). Apart from the superscription and 1.12-2.11, however the author never speaks as king. The epilogue portrays the author as a teacher, rather than as a king (12.9-14). Moreover, the perspective in most of the book is that of an outsider to the royal court (3.16; 4.13-16; 8.1-6; 10.16-20).

The date of the book is a matter of dispute, although most scholars argue on linguistic grounds that it should be dated to the postexilic period. The presence of two indisputable Persian loan words ("parks" in 2.5; "sentence" in 8.11) point to a date some time after 450 BCE, for there are no Persian loan words or Persian names in the Hebrew Bible that can be dated earlier. The abundance of Aramaisms (Aramaic loan words, forms, and constructions) also points to the postexilic period, when Aramaic became the 'lingua franca' in Palestine. A number of specific idioms regarding inheritance, grants, prisons, social abuses, judicial problems, and socioeconomic classes are attested in documents from the Persian period; in no other periods in history do we find such a coincidence of terminology. These features, together with the fact that there are no Greek loan words (or indisputable Greek ideas), suggests that the book should be dated sometime between 450 and 330 BCE, although many scholars date it a century or two later.

The period in question was one of tremendous economic growth, spurred on in no small part by the introduction of standardized coinage by the Persian central government. Money quickly became a commodity, desired for its own sake (cf. 5.10; 7.12; 10.19). Standardized currency helped to democratize economic opportunities, so that it became possible for even the poorest people in society to become wealthy. As in any era of significant economic innovation, the Persian period brought both opportunities and risks to the average person in the empire.

The context that Ecclesiastes addresses, however, goes beyond the economic one. The sense of the individual as a small part of a large scene is evident in the political allusions (4.1; 5.7), which should be read against the background of the empire. Even descriptions of life and death reinforce the idea of the powerless individual (8.8). The inevitability of one's fate (3.15; 6.10), the unavoidability of death (3.19), and the repetitions of life (3.1-8) all work together to create a vision of the remoteness, the inscrutability, and ultimately the indifference of the world to the individual. In a vision of bleak grandeur the author faces this indifference, acknowledges it, and admits an inability to transcend it, but nevertheless derives from it a hard-won wisdom: This is how the world is.

The author appears to have drawn lessons from the wider wisdom tradition. Yet he approached the issues through the socioeconomic idioms current in his generation to address the preoccupation and obsessions of his audience. Despite the novelty of their environment, the fundamental problems they face about the possibility of coping with life in a world that is inconsistent, if not contradictory, are not new after all (see 1.10). Every generation must deal with the fact that mortals inevitably live in a world in which they have been thrust into and over which they do not control ("all is vanity") and life can only be lived before a sovereign God who alone determines all that happens on earth.

Superscription

1 The words of the Teacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem.

Preface

- 2 Vanity of vanities, says the Teacher, vanity of vanities! All is vanity.
- 3 What do people gain from all the toil
at which they toil under the sun?
- 4 A generation goes, and a generation comes,
but the earth remains forever.
- 5 The sun rises and the sun goes down,
and hurries to the place where it rises.
- 6 The wind blows to the south,
and goes around to the north;
round and round goes the wind,
and on its circuits the wind returns.
- 7 All streams run to the sea,
but the sea is not full;
to the place where the streams flow,
there they continue to flow.
- 8 All things are wearisome;
more than one can express;
the eye is not satisfied with seeing,
or the ear filled with hearing.
- 9 What has been is what will be,
and what has been done is what will be done;
there is nothing new under the sun.
- 10 Is there a thing of which it is said,
"See, this is new"?
It has already been,
in the ages before us.
- 11 The people of long ago are not remembered,
nor will there be any remembrance
of people yet to come
by those who come after them.

The author's experiences and accomplishments

12 I, the Teacher, when king over Israel in Jerusalem, 13 applied my mind to seek and to search out by wisdom all that is done under heaven; it is an unhappy business that God has given to human beings to be busy with. 14 I saw all the deeds that are done under the sun; and see, all is vanity and a chasing after wind.

15 What is crooked cannot be made straight,
and what is lacking cannot be counted.

16 I said to myself, "I have acquired great wisdom, surpassing all who were over Jerusalem before me; and my mind has had great experience of wisdom and knowledge." 17 And I applied my mind to know wisdom and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is but a chasing after wind.

18 For in much wisdom is much vexation,
and those who increase knowledge increase sorrow.

[Ecclesiastes 2]

The leveling effect of death

1 I said to myself, "Come now, I will make a test of pleasure; enjoy yourself." But again, this also was vanity. 2 I said of laughter, "It is mad," and of pleasure, "What use is it?" 3 I searched with my mind how to cheer my body with wine — my mind still guiding me with wisdom — and how to lay hold on folly, until I might see what was good for mortals to do under heaven during the few days of their life.

4 I made great works; I built houses and planted vineyards for myself; 5 I made myself gardens and parks, and planted in them all kinds of fruit trees. 6 I made myself pools from which to water the forest of growing trees. 7 I bought male and female slaves, and had slaves who were born in my house; I also had great possessions of herds and flocks, more than any who had been before me in Jerusalem. 8 I also gathered for myself silver and gold and the treasure of kings and of the provinces; I got singers, both men and women, and delights of the flesh, and many concubines.

9 So I became great and surpassed all who were before me in Jerusalem; also my wisdom remained with me. 10 Whatever my eyes desired I did not keep from them; I kept my heart from no pleasure, for my heart found pleasure in all my toil, and this was my reward for all my toil. 11 Then I considered all that my hands had done and the toil I had spent in doing it, and again, all was vanity and a chasing after wind, and there was nothing to be gained under the sun.

12 So I turned to consider wisdom and madness and folly; for what can the one do who comes after the king? Only what has already been done. 13 Then I saw that wisdom excels folly as light excels darkness. 14 The wise have eyes in their head, but fools walk in darkness.

Yet I perceived that the same fate befalls all of them. 15 Then I said to myself, "What happens to the fool will happen to me also; why then have I been so very wise?" And I said to myself that this also is vanity. 16 For there is no enduring remembrance of the wise or of fools, seeing that in the days to come all will have been long forgotten. How can the wise die just like fools? 17 So I hated life, because what is done under the sun was grievous to me; for all is vanity and a chasing after wind.

18 I hated all my toil in which I had toiled under the sun, seeing that I must leave it to those who come after me 19 — and who knows whether they will be wise or foolish? Yet they will be master of all for which I toiled and used my wisdom under the sun. This also is vanity. 20 So I turned and gave my heart up to despair concerning all the toil of my labors under the sun, 21 because sometimes one who has toiled with wisdom and knowledge and skill must leave all to be enjoyed by another who did not toil for it. This also is vanity and a great evil. 22 What do mortals get from all the toil and strain with which they toil under the sun? 23 For all their days are full of pain, and their work is a vexation; even at night their minds do not rest. This also is vanity.

24 There is nothing better for mortals than to eat and drink, and find enjoyment in their toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God; 25 for apart from him who can eat or who can have enjoyment? 26 For to the one who pleases him God gives wisdom and knowledge and joy; but to the sinner he gives the work of gathering and heaping, only to give to one who pleases God. This also is vanity and a chasing after wind.

[Ecclesiastes 3]

The determination of events

1 For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven:

2 a time to be born, and a time to die;

a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;

3 a time to kill, and a time to heal;

a time to break down, and a time to build up;

4 a time to weep, and a time to laugh;

a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

5 a time to throw away stones, and a time to gather stones together;

a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

6 a time to seek, and a time to lose;

a time to keep, and a time to throw away;

7 a time to tear, and a time to sew;

a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;

8 a time to love, and a time to hate;

a time for war, and a time for peace.

9 What gain have the workers from their toil? 10 I have seen the business that God has given to everyone to be busy with. 11 He has made everything suitable for its time; moreover he has put a sense of past and future into their minds, yet they cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end. 12 I know that there is nothing better for them than to be happy and enjoy themselves as long as they live; 13 moreover, it is God's gift that all should eat and drink and take pleasure in all their toil. 14 I know that whatever God does endures forever; nothing can be added to it, nor anything taken from it; God has done this, so that all should stand in awe before him. 15 That which is, already has been; that which is to be, already is; and God seeks out what has gone by.

The determination of humanity's fate

16 Moreover I saw under the sun that in the place of justice, wickedness was there, and in the place of righteousness, wickedness was there as well. 17 I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for he has appointed a time for every matter, and for every work. 18 I said in my heart with regard to human beings that God is testing them to show that they are but animals. 19 For the fate of humans and the fate of animals is the same; as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and humans have no advantage over the animals; for all is vanity. 20 All go to one place; all are from the dust, and all turn to dust again. 21 Who knows whether the human spirit goes upward and the spirit of animals goes downward to the earth? 22 So I saw that there is nothing better than that all should enjoy their work, for that is their lot; who can bring them to see what will be after them?

[Ecclesiastes 4]

Relative good

1 Again I saw all the oppressions that are practiced under the sun. Look, the tears of the oppressed — with no one to comfort them! On the side of their oppressors there was power — with no one to comfort them. 2 And I thought the dead, who have already died, more fortunate than the living, who are still alive; 3 but better than both is the one who has not yet been, and has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

4 Then I saw that all toil and all skill in work come from one person's envy of another. This also is vanity and a chasing after wind.

5 Fools fold their hands and consume their own flesh.

6 Better is a handful with quiet
than two handfuls with toil,
and a chasing after wind.

7 Again, I saw vanity under the sun: 8 the case of solitary individuals, without sons or brothers; yet there is no end to all their toil, and their eyes are never satisfied with riches. "For whom am I toiling," they ask, "and depriving myself of pleasure?" This also is vanity and an unhappy business.

9 Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their toil. 10 For if they fall, one will lift up the other; but woe to one who is alone and falls and does not have another to help. 11 Again, if two lie together, they keep warm; but how can one keep warm alone? 12 And though one might prevail against another, two will withstand one. A threefold cord is not quickly broken.

13 Better is a poor but wise youth than an old but foolish king, who will no longer take advice. 14 One can indeed come out of prison to reign, even though born poor in the kingdom. 15 I saw all the living who, moving about under the sun, follow that youth who replaced the king; 16 there was no end to all those people whom he led. Yet those who come later will not rejoice in him. Surely this also is vanity and a chasing after wind.

Attitude before God

1 Guard your steps when you go to the house of God; to draw near to listen is better than the sacrifice offered by fools; for they do not know how to keep from doing evil. 2 Never be rash with your mouth, nor let your heart be quick to utter a word before God, for God is in heaven, and you upon earth; therefore let your words be few.

3 For dreams come with many cares, and a fool's voice with many words.

4 When you make a vow to God, do not delay fulfilling it; for he has no pleasure in fools. Fulfill what you vow. 5 It is better that you should not vow than that you should vow and not fulfill it. 6 Do not let your mouth lead you into sin, and do not say before the messenger that it was a mistake; why should God be angry at your words, and destroy the work of your hands?

7 With many dreams come vanities and a multitude of words; but fear God.

Enjoy, but do not be greedy

8 If you see in a province the oppression of the poor and the violation of justice and right, do not be amazed at the matter; for the high official is watched by a higher, and there are yet higher ones over them. 9 But all things considered, this is an advantage for a land: a king for a plowed field.

10 The lover of money will not be satisfied with money; nor the lover of wealth, with gain. This also is vanity.

11 When goods increase, those who eat them increase; and what gain has their owner but to see them with his eyes?

12 Sweet is the sleep of laborers, whether they eat little or much; but the surfeit of the rich will not let them sleep.

13 There is a grievous ill that I have seen under the sun: riches were kept by their owners to their hurt, 14 and those riches were lost in a bad venture; though they are parents of children, they have nothing in their hands. 15 As they came from their mother's womb, so they shall go again, naked as they came; they shall take nothing for their toil, which they may carry away with their hands. 16 This also is a grievous ill: just as they came, so shall they go; and what gain do they have from toiling for the wind? 17 Besides, all their days they eat in darkness, in much vexation and sickness and resentment.

18 This is what I have seen to be good: it is fitting to eat and drink and find enjoyment in all the toil with which one toils under the sun the few days of the life God gives us; for this is our lot. 19 Likewise all to whom God gives wealth and possessions and whom he enables to enjoy them, and to accept their lot and find enjoyment in their toil —

this is the gift of God. 20 For they will scarcely brood over the days of their lives, because God keeps them occupied with the joy of their hearts.

[Ecclesiastes 6]

1 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, and it lies heavy upon humankind: 2 those to whom God gives wealth, possessions, and honor, so that they lack nothing of all that they desire, yet God does not enable them to enjoy these things, but a stranger enjoys them. This is vanity; it is a grievous ill. 3 A man may beget a hundred children, and live many years; but however many are the days of his years, if he does not enjoy life's good things, or has no burial, I say that a stillborn child is better off than he. 4 For it comes into vanity and goes into darkness, and in darkness its name is covered; 5 moreover it has not seen the sun or known anything; yet it finds rest rather than he. 6 Even though he should live a thousand years twice over, yet enjoy no good — do not all go to one place?

7 All human toil is for the mouth, yet the appetite is not satisfied. 8 For what advantage have the wise over fools? And what do the poor have who know how to conduct themselves before the living? 9 Better is the sight of the eyes than the wandering of desire; this also is vanity and a chasing after wind.

No one knows what is good

10 Whatever has come to be has already been named, and it is known what human beings are, and that they are not able to dispute with those who are stronger. 11 The more words, the more vanity, so how is one the better? 12 For who knows what is good for mortals while they live the few days of their vain life, which they pass like a shadow? For who can tell them what will be after them under the sun?

[Ecclesiastes 7]

- 1 A good name is better than precious ointment,
and the day of death, than the day of birth.
- 2 It is better to go to the house of mourning
than to go to the house of feasting;
for this is the end of everyone,
and the living will lay it to heart.
- 3 Sorrow is better than laughter,
for by sadness of countenance the heart is made glad.
- 4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning;
but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.
- 5 It is better to hear the rebuke of the wise
than to hear the song of fools.
- 6 For like the crackling of thorns under a pot,
so is the laughter of fools;
this also is vanity.
- 7 Surely oppression makes the wise foolish,
and a bribe corrupts the heart.
- 8 Better is the end of a thing than its beginning;
the patient in spirit are better than the proud in spirit.
- 9 Do not be quick to anger,
for anger lodges in the bosom of fools.
- 10 Do not say, "Why were the former days better than these?"
For it is not from wisdom that you ask this.
- 11 Wisdom is as good as an inheritance,
an advantage to those who see the sun.
- 12 For the protection of wisdom is like the protection of money,
and the advantage of knowledge is that wisdom gives life
to the one who possesses it.
- 13 Consider the work of God;
who can make straight what he has made crooked?

- 14 In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider; God has made the one as well as the other, so that mortals may not find out anything that will come after them.

Righteousness and wisdom are elusive

15 In my vain life I have seen everything; there are righteous people who perish in their righteousness, and there are wicked people who prolong their life in their evildoing. 16 Do not be too righteous, and do not act too wise; why should you destroy yourself? 17 Do not be too wicked, and do not be a fool; why should you die before your time? 18 It is good that you should take hold of the one, without letting go of the other; for the one who fears God shall succeed with both.

19 Wisdom gives strength to the wise more than ten rulers that are in a city.

20 Surely there is no one on earth so righteous as to do good without ever sinning.

21 Do not give heed to everything that people say, or you may hear your servant cursing you; 22 your heart knows that many times you have yourself cursed others.

23 All this I have tested by wisdom; I said, "I will be wise," but it was far from me. 24 That which is, is far off, and deep, very deep; who can find it out? 25 I turned my mind to know and to search out and to seek wisdom and the sum of things, and to know that wickedness is folly and that foolishness is madness. 26 I found more bitter than death the woman who is a trap, whose heart is snares and nets, whose hands are fetters; one who pleases God escapes her, but the sinner is taken by her. 27 See, this is what I found, says the Teacher, adding one thing to another to find the sum, 28 which my mind has sought repeatedly, but I have not found. One man among a thousand I found, but a woman among all these I have not found. 29 See, this alone I found, that God made human beings straightforward, but they have devised many schemes.

[Ecclesiastes 8]Reflections on the limits of human power

1 Who is like the wise man?

And who knows the interpretation of a thing?

Wisdom makes one's face shine,

and the hardness of one's countenance is changed.

2 Keep the king's command because of your sacred oath. 3 Do not be terrified; go from his presence, do not delay when the matter is unpleasant, for he does whatever he pleases. 4 For the word of the king is powerful, and who can say to him, "What are you doing?" 5 Whoever obeys a command will meet no harm, and the wise mind will know the time and way. 6 For every matter has its time and way, although the troubles of mortals lie heavy upon them. 7 Indeed, they do not know what is to be, for who can tell them how it will be? 8 No one has power over the wind to restrain the wind, or power over the day of death; there is no discharge from the battle, nor does wickedness deliver those who practice it. 9 All this I observed, applying my mind to all that is done under the sun, while one person exercises authority over another to the other's hurt.

10 Then I saw the wicked buried; they used to go in and out of the holy place, and were praised in the city where they had done such things. This also is vanity. 11 Because sentence against an evil deed is not executed speedily, the human heart is fully set to do evil. 12 Though sinners do evil a hundred times and prolong their lives, yet I know that it will be well with those who fear God, because they stand in fear before him, 13 but it will not be well with the wicked, neither will they prolong their days like a shadow, because they do not stand in fear before God.

14 There is a vanity that takes place on earth, that there are righteous people who are treated according to the conduct of the wicked, and there are wicked people who are treated according to the conduct of the righteous. I said that this also is vanity. 15 So I commend enjoyment, for there is nothing better for people under the sun than to eat, and drink, and enjoy themselves, for this will go with them in their toil through the days of life that God gives them under the sun.

16 When I applied my mind to know wisdom, and to see the business that is done on earth, how one's eyes see sleep neither day nor night, 17 then I saw all the work of God, that no one can find out what is happening under the sun. However much they may toil in seeking, they will not find it out; even though those who are wise claim to know, they cannot find it out.

Enjoy your life

1 All this I laid to heart, examining it all, how the righteous and the wise and their deeds are in the hand of God; whether it is love or hate one does not know. Everything that confronts them 2 is vanity, since the same fate comes to all, to the righteous and the wicked, to the good and the evil, to the clean and the unclean, to those who sacrifice and those who do not sacrifice. As are the good, so are the sinners; those who swear are like those who shun an oath. 3 This is an evil in all that happens under the sun, that the same fate comes to everyone. Moreover, the hearts of all are full of evil; madness is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead. 4 But whoever is joined with all the living has hope, for a living dog is better than a dead lion. 5 The living know that they will die, but the dead know nothing; they have no more reward, and even the memory of them is lost. 6 Their love and their hate and their envy have already perished; never again will they have any share in all that happens under the sun.

7 Go, eat your bread with enjoyment, and drink your wine with a merry heart; for God has long ago approved what you do. 8 Let your garments always be white; do not let oil be lacking on your head. 9 Enjoy life with the wife whom you love, all the days of your vain life that are given you under the sun, because that is your portion in life and in your toil at which you toil under the sun. 10 Whatever your hand finds to do, do with your might; for there is no work or thought or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol, to which you are going.

The world is full of risks

11 Again I saw that under the sun the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the intelligent, nor favor to the skillful; but time and chance happen to them all. 12 For no one can anticipate the time of disaster. Like fish taken in a cruel net, and like birds caught in a snare, so mortals are snared at a time of calamity, when it suddenly falls upon them.

13 I have also seen this example of wisdom under the sun, and it seemed great to me. 14 There was a little city with few people in it. A great king came against it and besieged it, building great siegeworks against it. 15 Now there was found in it a poor wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city. Yet no one remembered that poor man. 16 So I said, "Wisdom is better than might; yet the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heeded."

17 The quiet words of the wise are more to be heeded than the shouting of a ruler among fools.

18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war,
but one bungler destroys much good.

[Ecclesiastes 10]

1 Dead flies make the perfumer's ointment give off a foul odor;
so a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor.

2 The heart of the wise inclines to the right,
but the heart of a fool to the left.

3 Even when fools walk on the road, they lack sense,
and show to everyone that they are fools.

4 If the anger of the ruler rises against you, do not leave your post,
for calmness will undo great offenses.

5 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, as great an error as if it proceeded from the ruler: 6 folly is set in many high places, and the rich sit in a low place. 7 I have seen slaves on horseback, and princes walking on foot like slaves.

- 8 Whoever digs a pit will fall into it;
and whoever breaks through a wall will be bitten by a snake.
- 9 Whoever quarries stones will be hurt by them;
and whoever splits logs will be endangered by them.
- 10 If the iron is blunt, and one does not whet the edge,
then more strength must be exerted;
but wisdom helps one to succeed.
- 11 If the snake bites before it is charmed,
there is no advantage in a charmer.
- 12 Words spoken by the wise bring them favor,
but the lips of fools consume them.
- 13 The words of their mouths begin in foolishness,
and their talk ends in wicked madness;
- 14 yet fools talk on and on.
No one knows what is to happen,
and who can tell anyone what the future holds?
- 15 The toil of fools wears them out,
for they do not even know the way to town.

Living with risks

- 16 Alas for you, O land, when your king is a servant,
and your princes feast in the morning!
- 17 Happy are you, O land, when your king is a nobleman, and your princes feast at the proper time —
for strength, and not for drunkenness!
- 18 Through sloth the roof sinks in,
and through indolence the house leaks.
- 19 Feasts are made for laughter;
wine gladdens life,
and money meets every need.
- 20 Do not curse the king, even in your thoughts,
or curse the rich, even in your bedroom;
for a bird of the air may carry your voice,
or some winged creature tell the matter.

[Ecclesiastes 11]

- 1 Send out your bread upon the waters,
for after many days you will get it back.
- 2 Divide your means seven ways, or even eight,
for you do not know what disaster may happen on earth.
- 3 When clouds are full,
they empty rain on the earth;
whether a tree falls to the south or to the north,
in the place where the tree falls, there it will lie.
- 4 Whoever observes the wind will not sow;
and whoever regards the clouds will not reap.

- 5 Just as you do not know how the breath comes to the bones in the mother's womb, so you do not know the work of God, who makes everything.

- 6 In the morning sow your seed, and at evening do not let your hands be idle; for you do not know which will prosper, this or that, or whether both alike will be good.

The conclusion

- 7 Light is sweet, and it is pleasant for the eyes to see the sun.

- 8 Even those who live many years should rejoice in them all; yet let them remember that the days of darkness will be many. All that comes is vanity.

- 9 Rejoice, young man, while you are young, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your youth. Follow the inclination of your heart and the desire of your eyes, but know that for all these things God will bring you into judgment.

- 10 Banish anxiety from your mind, and put away pain from your body;
for youth and the dawn of life are vanity.

[Ecclesiastes 12]

1 Remember your creator in the days of your youth, before the days of trouble come, and the years draw near when you will say, "I have no pleasure in them"; 2 before the sun and the light and the moon and the stars are darkened and the clouds return with the rain; 3 in the day when the guards of the house tremble, and the strong men are bent, and the women who grind cease working because they are few, and those who look through the windows see dimly; 4 when the doors on the street are shut, and the sound of the grinding is low, and one rises up at the sound of a bird, and all the daughters of song are brought low; 5 when one is afraid of heights, and terrors are in the road; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper drags itself along and desire fails; because all must go to their eternal home, and the mourners will go about the streets; 6 before the silver cord is snapped, and the golden bowl is broken, and the pitcher is broken at the fountain, and the wheel broken at the cistern, 7 and the dust returns to the earth as it was, and the breath returns to God who gave it. 8 Vanity of vanities, says the Teacher; all is vanity.

Epilogue

9 Besides being wise, the Teacher also taught the people knowledge, weighing and studying and arranging many proverbs. 10 The Teacher sought to find pleasing words, and he wrote words of truth plainly.

11 The sayings of the wise are like goads, and like nails firmly fixed are the collected sayings that are given by one shepherd. 12 Of anything beyond these, my child, beware. Of making many books there is no end, and much study is a weariness of the flesh.

13 The end of the matter; all has been heard. Fear God, and keep his commandments; for that is the whole duty of everyone. 14 For God will bring every deed into judgment, including every secret thing, whether good or evil.

SONG OF SOLOMON

Introduction

The Song of Solomon, also known as "Song of Songs" and "Canticles," is a sequence of lyric poems celebrating human love. The poetry is graceful, sensuous, and replete with erotic imagery and allusions. It is unclear whether the composition should be read as a single, unified poem or as a collection of several shorter pieces written in a common style and idiom. Nevertheless, the sequence is coherent and exhibits a lyrical structure that derives its unity from repetitions and juxtapositions rather than from narrative devices such as plot or character development. The poem features the voices of two lovers, one male and one female, and their professions of love for one another. At times the two voices join in dialogue (e.g., 1.9-2.7; 4.1-5.1), but at others they speak separately, addressing each other or the woman's companions, the "daughters of Jerusalem" (3.1-5, 6-11; 7.1-9).

Given its style and theme, it is not surprising that there are no specific allusions that would tie it to a specific historical setting. Although the superscription in 1.1 associates the poem with Solomon, king of Israel (968-928 BCE), he is not the author. The nature of the Hebrew used in the songs, with its Aramaisms and possibly even Persian and Greek loan words, suggests a postexilic date (perhaps sometime in the fourth or third centuries BCE). The connection with Solomon may stem from his reputation as a composer of songs (1 Kings 4.32).

Despite its late date, the Song of Songs is part of an ancient tradition of Near Eastern love poetry. Some of the images and motifs echo those of Mesopotamian sacred marriage poems from the late third and early second millennium BCE. A closer parallel, however, is to be found in Egyptian love songs from the thirteenth and twelfth centuries BCE. These highly erotic compositions use many of the same genres found in the Song of Solomon: poems describing the lover's physical attractions, poems of yearning, poems of admiration and boasting. Also common to both is the use of sensuous imagery, which invokes not only sight but also touch, hearing, and the smell of aromatic fragrances. The Egyptian poems were likely sung at banquets by professional male and female entertainers, and it is possible that the same holds true for the Song of Songs. Although he disapproved of the practice, Rabbi Aqiba (d. 135 CE) attests that the Song of Songs was sung in banquet halls (Tos. Sanh. 12.10). By Aqiba's time the Song had already come to be interpreted as a sacred text; hence its continuing profane use was disturbing. At roughly the same time Rabbi Simeon ben Gamaliel associated the Song of Songs with harvest festivals in which the young women of Jerusalem would go out to dance and sing in the vineyards, appealing to the young men to notice them as potential brides (m. Ta'anit 4.8).

From a relatively early date (perhaps before the turn of the era) the Song of Songs began to be interpreted symbolically as an account of the love between God and Israel. This interpretation is reflected both in the Targum (Aramaic translation) and in Midrash Rabbah, an early commentary. In the Jewish liturgy Song of Songs is read during the celebration of Passover. The traditional symbolic understanding remained dominant in Jewish interpretation until the modern period. A return to a literal understanding is perhaps first reflected in the translation of the Song by Moses Mendelssohn in 1788. Christian tradition also developed a symbolic or allegorical interpretation, reading the Song as an account of Christ's love for the church and later as an expression of the soul's spiritual union with God. Over the centuries many commentators and homilists, from Origen (third century CE) to Bernard of Clairvaux (twelfth century) to St. John of the Cross (sixteenth century CE) have developed this allegorical interpretation. Even among the Protestant reformers some form of allegorical interpretation remained prevalent until the rise of historical criticism in the eighteenth century.

[Song of Solomon 1]Title

1 The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's.

Opening poem

2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!

For your love is better than wine,

3 your anointing oils are fragrant,

your name is perfume poured out;

therefore the maidens love you.

4 Draw me after you, let us make haste.

The king has brought me into his chambers.

We will exult and rejoice in you;

we will extol your love more than wine;

rightly do they love you.

5 I am black and beautiful,

O daughters of Jerusalem,

like the tents of Kedar,

like the curtains of Solomon.

6 Do not gaze at me because I am dark,

because the sun has gazed on me.

My mother's sons were angry with me;

they made me keeper of the vineyards,

but my own vineyard I have not kept!

7 Tell me, you whom my soul loves,

where you pasture your flock,

where you make it lie down at noon;

for why should I be like one who is veiled beside the flocks of your companions?

8 If you do not know,

O fairest among women,

follow the tracks of the flock,

and pasture your kids

beside the shepherds' tents.

A dialogue of mutual admiration

- 9 I compare you, my love,
to a mare among Pharaoh's chariots.
- 10 Your cheeks are comely with ornaments,
your neck with strings of jewels.
- 11 We will make you ornaments of gold,
studded with silver.
- 12 While the king was on his couch,
my nard gave forth its fragrance.
- 13 My beloved is to me a bag of myrrh
that lies between my breasts.
- 14 My beloved is to me a cluster of henna blossoms
in the vineyards of En-gedi.
- 15 Ah, you are beautiful, my love;
ah, you are beautiful;
your eyes are doves.
- 16 Ah, you are beautiful, my beloved,
truly lovely.
Our couch is green;
- 17 the beams of our house are cedar,
our rafters are pine.

[Song of Solomon 2]

- 1 I am a rose of Sharon,
a lily of the valleys.
- 2 As a lily among brambles,
so is my love among maidens.
- 3 As an apple tree among the trees of the wood,
so is my beloved among young men.
With great delight I sat in his shadow,
and his fruit was sweet to my taste.
- 4 He brought me to the banqueting house,
and his intention toward me was love.

- 5 Sustain me with raisins,
refresh me with apples;
for I am faint with love.
- 6 O that his left hand were under my head,
and that his right hand embraced me!
- 7 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles or the wild does:
do not stir up or awaken love
until it is ready!
- 8 The voice of my beloved!
Look, he comes,
leaping upon the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
- 9 My beloved is like a gazelle
or a young stag.
Look, there he stands behind our wall,
gazing in at the windows,
looking through the lattice.
- 10 My beloved speaks and says to me:
"Arise, my love, my fair one,
and come away;
- 11 for now the winter is past,
the rain is over and gone.
- 12 The flowers appear on the earth;
the time of singing has come,
and the voice of the turtledove
is heard in our land.
- 13 The fig tree puts forth its figs,
and the vines are in blossom;
they give forth fragrance.
Arise, my love, my fair one,
and come away.

14 O my dove, in the clefts of the rock,
 in the covert of the cliff,
 let me see your face,
 let me hear your voice;
 for your voice is sweet,
 and your face is lovely.

15 Catch us the foxes,
 the little foxes,
 that ruin the vineyards —
 for our vineyards are in blossom."

16 My beloved is mine and I am his;
 he pastures his flock among the lilies.

17 Until the day breathes
 and the shadows flee,
 turn, my beloved, be like a gazelle
 or a young stag on the cleft mountains.

[Song of Solomon 3]
 Nighttime search for the beloved

1 Upon my bed at night
 I sought him whom my soul loves;
 I sought him, but found him not;
 I called him, but he gave no answer.

2 "I will rise now and go about the city,
 in the streets and in the squares;
 I will seek him whom my soul loves."
 I sought him, but found him not.

3 The sentinels found me,
 as they went about in the city.
 "Have you seen him whom my soul loves?"

4 Scarcely had I passed them,
 when I found him whom my soul loves.
 I held him, and would not let him go until I brought him into my mother's house,
 and into the chamber of her that conceived me.

5 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
 by the gazelles or the wild does:
 do not stir up or awaken love
 until it is ready!

Solomon's wedding procession

6 What is that coming up from the wilderness,
 like a column of smoke,
 perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
 with all the fragrant powders of the merchant?

7 Look, it is the litter of Solomon!
 Around it are sixty mighty men
 of the mighty men of Israel,

8 all equipped with swords
 and expert in war,
 each with his sword at his thigh
 because of alarms by night.

9 King Solomon made himself a palanquin
 from the wood of Lebanon.

10 He made its posts of silver,
 its back of gold, its seat of purple;
 its interior was inlaid with love.
 Daughters of Jerusalem,

11 come out.
 Look, O daughters of Zion,
 at King Solomon,
 at the crown with which his mother crowned him
 on the day of his wedding,
 on the day of the gladness of his heart.

[Song of Solomon 4]
Praise of the woman's beauty

- 1 How beautiful you are, my love,
 how very beautiful!
 Your eyes are doves
 behind your veil.
 Your hair is like a flock of goats,
 moving down the slopes of Gilead.
- 2 Your teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes
 that have come up from the washing,
 all of which bear twins,
 and not one among them is bereaved.
- 3 Your lips are like a crimson thread,
 and your mouth is lovely.
 Your cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate
 behind your veil.
- 4 Your neck is like the tower of David,
 built in courses;
 on it hang a thousand bucklers,
 all of them shields of warriors.
- 5 Your two breasts are like two fawns,
 twins of a gazelle,
 that feed among the lilies.
- 6 Until the day breathes
 and the shadows flee,
 I will hasten to the mountain of myrrh
 and the hill of frankincense.
- 7 You are altogether beautiful, my love;
 there is no flaw in you.
- 8 Come with me from Lebanon, my bride;
 come with me from Lebanon.
 Depart from the peak of Amana,
 from the peak of Senir and Hermon,
 from the dens of lions,
 from the mountains of leopards.

- 9 You have ravished my heart, my sister, my bride,
 you have ravished my heart with a glance of your eyes,
 with one jewel of your necklace.
- 10 How sweet is your love, my sister, my bride!
 how much better is your love than wine,
 and the fragrance of your oils than any spice!
- 11 Your lips distill nectar, my bride;
 honey and milk are under your tongue;
 the scent of your garments is like the scent of Lebanon.
- 12 A garden locked is my sister, my bride,
 a garden locked, a fountain sealed.
- 13 Your channel is an orchard of pomegranates
 with all choicest fruits,
 henna with nard,
- 14 nard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon,
 with all trees of frankincense,
 myrrh and aloes,
 with all chief spices —
- 15 a garden fountain, a well of living water,
 and flowing streams from Lebanon.
- 16 Awake, O north wind,
 and come, O south wind!
 Blow upon my garden
 that its fragrance may be wafted abroad.
 Let my beloved come to his garden,
 and eat its choicest fruits.

[Song of Solomon 5]
The woman's search

- 1 I come to my garden, my sister, my bride;
 I gather my myrrh with my spice,
 I eat my honeycomb with my honey,
 I drink my wine with my milk.

Eat, friends, drink,
 and be drunk with love.

- 2 I slept, but my heart was awake.
Listen! my beloved is knocking.
"Open to me, my sister, my love,
my dove, my perfect one;
for my head is wet with dew,
my locks with the drops of the night."
- 3 I had put off my garment;
how could I put it on again?
I had bathed my feet;
how could I soil them?
- 4 My beloved thrust his hand into the opening,
and my inmost being yearned for him.
- 5 I arose to open to my beloved,
and my hands dripped with myrrh,
my fingers with liquid myrrh,
upon the handles of the bolt.
- 6 I opened to my beloved,
but my beloved had turned and was gone.
My soul failed me when he spoke.
I sought him, but did not find him;
I called him, but he gave no answer.
- 7 Making their rounds in the city
the sentinels found me;
they beat me, they wounded me,
they took away my mantle,
those sentinels of the walls.
- 8 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
if you find my beloved,
tell him this:
I am faint with love.
- 9 What is your beloved more than another beloved,
O fairest among women?
What is your beloved more than another beloved,
that you thus adjure us?
- 10 My beloved is all radiant and ruddy, distinguished among ten thousand.

- 11 His head is the finest gold;
his locks are wavy,
black as a raven.
- 12 His eyes are like doves
beside springs of water,
bathed in milk,
fitly set.
- 13 His cheeks are like beds of spices,
yielding fragrance.
His lips are lilies,
distilling liquid myrrh.
- 14 His arms are rounded gold,
set with jewels.
His body is ivory work,
encrusted with sapphires.
- 15 His legs are alabaster columns,
set upon bases of gold.
His appearance is like Lebanon,
choice as the cedars.
- 16 His speech is most sweet,
and he is altogether desirable.
This is my beloved and this is my friend,
O daughters of Jerusalem.

[Song of Solomon 6]
In praise of the woman's beauty

- 1 Where has your beloved gone,
O fairest among women?
Which way has your beloved turned,
that we may seek him with you?
- 2 My beloved has gone down to his garden,
to the beds of spices,
to pasture his flock in the gardens,
and to gather lilies.
- 3 I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine;
he pastures his flock among the lilies.

- 4 You are beautiful as Tirzah, my love,
comely as Jerusalem,
terrible as an army with banners.
- 5 Turn away your eyes from me,
for they overwhelm me!
Your hair is like a flock of goats,
moving down the slopes of Gilead.
- 6 Your teeth are like a flock of ewes,
that have come up from the washing;
all of them bear twins,
and not one among them is bereaved.
- 7 Your cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate
behind your veil.
- 8 There are sixty queens and eighty concubines,
and maidens without number.
- 9 My dove, my perfect one, is the only one,
the darling of her mother,
flawless to her that bore her.
The maidens saw her and called her happy;
the queens and concubines also, and they praised her.
- 10 "Who is this that looks forth like the dawn,
fair as the moon, bright as the sun,
terrible as an army with banners?"
- 11 I went down to the nut orchard,
to look at the blossoms of the valley,
to see whether the vines had budded,
whether the pomegranates were in bloom.
- 12 Before I was aware, my fancy set me
in a chariot beside my prince.

Praise of the woman and her response

- 13 Return, return, O Shulammite!
Return, return, that we may look upon you.
Why should you look upon the Shulammite,
as upon a dance before two armies?

[Song of Solomon 7]

- 1 How graceful are your feet in sandals,
O queenly maiden!
Your rounded thighs are like jewels,
the work of a master hand.
- 2 Your navel is a rounded bowl
that never lacks mixed wine.
Your belly is a heap of wheat,
encircled with lilies.
- 3 Your two breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
- 4 Your neck is like an ivory tower.
Your eyes are pools in Heshbon,
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose is like a tower of Lebanon,
overlooking Damascus.
- 5 Your head crowns you like Carmel,
and your flowing locks are like purple;
a king is held captive in the tresses.
- 6 How fair and pleasant you are,
O loved one, delectable maiden!
- 7 You are stately as a palm tree,
and your breasts are like its clusters.
- 8 I say I will climb the palm tree
and lay hold of its branches.
O may your breasts be like clusters of the vine,
and the scent of your breath like apples,
- 9 and your kisses like the best wine
that goes down smoothly,
gliding over lips and teeth.
- 10 I am my beloved's,
and his desire is for me.
- 11 Come, my beloved,
let us go forth into the fields,
and lodge in the villages;

- 12 let us go out early to the vineyards,
 and see whether the vines have budded,
 whether the grape blossoms have opened
 and the pomegranates are in bloom.
 There I will give you my love.
- 13 The mandrakes give forth fragrance,
 and over our doors are all choice fruits,
 new as well as old,
 which I have laid up for you, O my beloved.

[Song of Solomon 8]
A poem of yearning

- 1 O that you were like a brother to me,
 who nursed at my mother's breast!
 If I met you outside, I would kiss you,
 and no one would despise me.
- 2 I would lead you and bring you into the house of my mother,
 and into the chamber of the one who bore me.
 I would give you spiced wine to drink,
 the juice of my pomegranates.
- 3 O that his left hand were under my head,
 and that his right hand embraced me!
- 4 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
 do not stir up or awaken love
 until it is ready!

Lyrical ending

- 5 Who is that coming up from the wilderness,
 leaning upon her beloved?
 Under the apple tree I awakened you.
 There your mother was in labor with you;
 there she who bore you was in labor.

- 6 Set me as a seal upon your heart,
as a seal upon your arm;
for love is strong as death,
passion fierce as the grave.
Its flashes are flashes of fire,
a raging flame.
- 7 Many waters cannot quench love,
neither can floods drown it.
If one offered for love
all the wealth of one's house,
it would be utterly scorned.
- 8 We have a little sister,
and she has no breasts.
What shall we do for our sister,
on the day when she is spoken for?
- 9 If she is a wall,
we will build upon her a battlement of silver;
but if she is a door,
we will enclose her with boards of cedar.
- 10 I was a wall,
and my breasts were like towers;
then I was in his eyes
as one who brings peace.
- 11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon;
he entrusted the vineyard to keepers;
each one was to bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver.
- 12 My vineyard, my very own, is for myself;
you, O Solomon, may have the thousand,
and the keepers of the fruit two hundred!
- 13 O you who dwell in the gardens,
my companions are listening for your voice;
let me hear it.

14 Make haste, my beloved,
and be like a gazelle
or a young stag
upon the mountains of spices!

INTRODUCTION TO THE PROPHETIC BOOKS

The Nature and Composition of the Prophetic Books

The Prophetic Books are unusual and complex compositions. With the exception of Jonah, which is a story about a prophet, these books all contain extended sayings and speeches that purport to come from the prophet whose name the book bears. While the books undoubtedly do preserve authentic words of the prophets in question, we should not think of the prophetic books simply as transcriptions of the words of prophets. Although much remains unknown about the composition of the prophetic books, it is possible to reconstruct a general picture. Scholars generally agree that the poetic materials in the prophetic books originated as oral pronouncements by the prophet to a public audience. These oral sayings were subsequently written down, perhaps by the prophet or an associate. The circumstances that led to these original written collections were certainly various. A reference in Isaiah suggest that oracles might be written down as a form of authentication (Isa 30.8). The book of Jeremiah describes a situation in which Jeremiah, having been banned from speaking publicly at the Temple, had his assistant Baruch write down a selection of his prophetic words so that they could be taken into the Temple and read to the people (Jer 36.5-6). When King Jehoiakim destroyed the scroll, Jeremiah had Baruch write another copy, to which they added additional material (Jer 36.27-32). This collection may have formed the nucleus of the book of Jeremiah. (Unlike most of the other prophetic books, Ezekiel may have been composed as a written document from the beginning.) Elsewhere in the Bible there is further evidence of prophetic collections; see 1 Chr 29.29; 2 Chr 9.29.

Once small collections of prophetic oracles and pronouncements were made, they were subject to further editing, rearranging, annotating, and expansion. In some cases narratives about the prophet were added; these are both autobiographical (e.g., Isa 6; 8; Jer 1.2-19; 13.1-11; Hos 1-2; Am 7.1-7) and biographical (e.g., Isa 7; 36-39; Jer 26; 36-44; Hos 3; Am 7.10-17). The occasions for such editorial activity will have differed, but national crises may have prompted some of this process. Most likely, written collections of the oracles of Amos and Hosea, which were originally addressed to the Northern Kingdom (Israel), were brought to Judah after the fall of the Northern Kingdom in 721 BCE, and then edited and circulated there. Isaiah of Jerusalem seems to have knowledge of Amos's oracles, and Jeremiah is unquestionably influenced by Hosea. Many of the prophetic books originating before the fall of Judah to the Babylonians in 586 BCE show evidence of editorial additions and reorganizations that reflect the circumstances of exilic and postexilic times. The book of Amos, for example, now includes material that presupposes the fall of Judah (9.11-15). The most dramatic example of the expansion and reworking of prophetic materials is the book of Isaiah. Although it contains extensive material from the eighth-century prophet, chs 40-55 clearly reflect the situation of the Babylonian exile, and chs 56-66 the period of the restoration of the Judean community after the exile. Yet even though the book contains materials dating from several centuries, it is unified by a number of motifs, themes, and topics that recur throughout the work. The complex activity of preserving and developing the prophetic oracle collections reflects a conviction that the prophet's words were not only significant for the circumstance in which they were originally pronounced but potentially relevant for later ones as well. At the same time, the freedom with which later generations could rework the prophetic oracles indicates that the prophets' words did not at first possess the kind of fixed authority that is later associated with "scripture." Although the processes by which the prophetic books came to assume a relatively final form and canonical status are difficult to trace, this probably occurred during the Persian and early Hellenistic periods (the fifth through the third centuries BCE). Most likely, during this time scribes added the superscriptions that introduce most of the books, indicating the identity of the prophet (name, father's name, and occasionally other information) and often the kings of Israel or

Judah during whose reigns the prophets were active (e.g., Isa 1.1; Jer 1.1-3; Hos 1.1). In addition to editorial additions to the individual prophetic books, the smaller prophetic books (Hosea-Malachi) were arranged and edited to form a group known as "the book of the Twelve," which was copied on a single scroll. By the beginning of the second century BCE Ben Sira refers to these prophets as "the twelve" (Sir 49.10). The number twelve is symbolic of the twelve sons of Jacob and the twelve tribes of Israel, and considerable editorial work was required to organize these prophetic materials into a grouping of twelve. In fact, the book of Zechariah consists of three separate collections (chs 1-8, 9-11, 12-14) grouped together editorially. Only the first of these comes from the prophet Zechariah, whereas the other two are anonymous. The final book of the collection, Malachi, is also an anonymous piece, since "Malachi" is not a personal name but a phrase meaning "my messenger," picked up from 3.1 to serve as the name of the prophet in the superscription.

The Phenomenon of Prophecy

The phenomenon of prophecy was widespread in the ancient Near East, and many important themes and genres familiar from biblical prophecy have parallels there. Moreover, many more prophets were active in ancient Israel and Judah than those whose work is represented in the prophetic books of the Bible, and their activities were more varied than these writings suggest. The books of Samuel and Kings provide important additional information. Since our sources are limited, it is difficult to reconstruct the history of prophecy. Some of the features are clear, however. The prophet was essentially an intermediary between God and the people, and one of the major functions was that of messenger. Often prophets introduced their communications with a version of the formula typically used by messengers, "thus says the Lord." But prophets might also carry inquiries from the people to God or make intercession on behalf of the people. In contrast to the priesthood, which was exclusively male, both women and men could be prophets. Women prophets included Deborah (Judg 4.4) and Huldah (2 Kings 22.14); see also Joel 2.28. Additional aspects of the prophetic role are suggested by the various terms used to identify them. In addition to "prophet" (Heb nabi, perhaps meaning "one who is called"), the prophets are identified as seers (Heb ro'eh), visionaries (Heb hozeh), and holy men (Heb ish'elohim, lit. "man of God").

The religious phenomenon of Israelite prophecy can be traced for more than a thousand years, from the premonarchical period to the turn of the era. As one would expect, over such a long period of time the nature and function of prophecy adjusted in response to changing historical, social, and religious circumstances. Four periods define the major epochs of prophecy: the early monarchical period (eleventh through ninth centuries), the Assyrian crisis (eighth century), the Babylonian crisis (late seventh through early-sixth centuries), and the postexilic restoration (mid-sixth through mid-fifth centuries).

In the earliest period prophets may have been local or itinerant holy men and women who were revered for their special religious powers and who might be consulted for a variety of private inquiries, from locating lost property (1 Sam 9.1-10) to learning whether a sick child would live or die (1 Kings 14.1-18). Some lived in prophetic communities that cultivated ecstatic forms of religious experience (1 Sam 19.18-24; 2 Kings 6.1-7). Prophets also had the public function of declaring God's will concerning whether the people should go to war (Judg 4.4-10). The emergence of monarchy in ancient Israel may have changed aspects of the prophets' role. Prophets appear as king-makers and king-breakers, as they announce that God has designated an individual to become king or has rejected a reigning king (1 Sam 10.1; 15.23; 1 Kings 11.29-39; 14.1-18). Though prophets continued their role in advising about matters of war (1 Kings 22), they also served as critics of the king in religious and social affairs. The consolidation of royal power and the foreign religious practices introduced through royal marriages often threatened old tribal institutions and values. The conflict between Elijah, the prophet, and Ahab and Jezebel, the king and queen, illustrates these tensions between prophet and king (1 Kings 18-21).

Prophecy appears to have undergone a dramatic change during the eighth century, although this impression may be affected by the change in the nature of the sources of information. From the eighth century onward, collections of prophetic oracles are preserved, yet, with the exception of Jeremiah, few extended narratives about prophets exist. However, it does appear that in this period prophets began to function less as private counselors and critics of kings and more as public figures who influenced opinion through their pronouncements in the Temple courts and in other public places. Prophets of the eighth century (Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah) interpreted international affairs, critiqued complacent religious practices, and condemned the abuses of social justice that accompanied the increasing urbanization and centralization of state power characteristic of the eighth century. The prophetic careers of Hosea, Micah, and Isaiah too place in the shadow of the expansionist Assyrian Empire, which eventually put an end to the Northern Kingdom of Israel and subjected Judah to the condition of vassalage. They interpreted these events, however, in terms of the judgment of the Lord, not simply as the success of a powerful Assyrian Empire. This perspective allowed Isaiah, for example, to anticipate the ultimate downfall of Assyria because of its overweening arrogance.

The third major period of prophecy occurred during the Babylonian crisis. The prophet Nahum celebrated the defeat of Assyria (612-609 BCE), but the excitement he expressed was soon turned to confusion as Babylon succeeded Assyria as the dominant empire (see Habakkuk). Jeremiah's prophetic career (ca. 627-586) spanned the time from the decline of Assyria through the Babylonian overlordship of Judah, to the revolt and destruction of Judah and the exile of a portion of its population. Although it is difficult to correlate many of his poetic oracles with specific events in this period, the narratives about Jeremiah give a vivid picture of a nation and its leadership deeply conflicted about what political course to follow and the religious significance of the choices that were forced upon it. Even the prophetic community was bitterly divided and gave contradictory advice to the king concerning the will of the Lord (Jer 26-29; 36-44). Overlapping the career of Jeremiah, the prophet Ezekiel (active 593-ca. 571 BCE) was among the Judeans exiled to Babylon after the revolt of 597 BCE, a decade before the final revolt and the destruction of Jerusalem. Ezekiel's prophetic work was first to persuade the exiled Judeans of the inevitability of Jerusalem's destruction, and, following the fall of the city, to begin to articulate the theological grounds for conceiving a possible future, including a return of the exiles and a rebuilding of the destroyed Temple. In contrast to the prophets who preceded him, Ezekiel drew strongly on priestly traditions for his categories of thought, forms of speech, and evocative symbols.

The defeat of the Babylonian Empire by the Persian king Cyrus altered political conditions dramatically. Although Judah did not regain its independence but became a part of the Persian Empire, Cyrus and his successors authorized the rebuilding of the Temple and of Jerusalem, allowing members of the exiled community in Babylon who so desired to return to Judah. Thus the prophetic task during this period largely concerned issues of the restoration of the community and its institutions in a context significantly different from that which prevailed during the Israelite and Judean monarchy. The anonymous prophet whose work is found in Isa 40-55 (often called "Second Isaiah") addressed the Babylonian exiles just at the time that Cyrus was engaged in the conquest of Babylon. Second Isaiah had to persuade the exilic community that unfolding event represented God's action in history, to interpret the significance of Cyrus (God's "anointed" who would rebuild Jerusalem), and to encourage the exiles to return to Jerusalem. The process of rebuilding the Temple (520-515 BCE) provides the context for the prophets Haggai and Zechariah. Zechariah's work in particular suggests this was a time of expectation that perhaps the monarchy might be restored, an event that did not occur. Issues concerning reorganization of the Judean community and tensions regarding economic justice, institutional corruption, and the boundaries of the community are variously reflected in Zechariah, Isa 56-66, and Malachi, prophets who were active in roughly the period 525-475 BCE.

Although prophets in all periods might speak of the dramatic intervention of God in historical events and the consequent transformation of the conditions of life, this type of language seems to have become more common and more vivid in the postexilic prophets (e.g., Isa 56-66, Zechariah, Malachi, Joel, and postexilic additions to earlier prophetic books, such as Isa 24-27). Some of the passages anticipate a war or other cataclysmic event of cosmic proportions that will precede a time of deliverance, peace, and virtual re-creation of the world. Such imagery and the expectations it expresses suggest to some scholars that apocalypticism emerges out of postexilic prophecy. Though it is true that apocalyptic literature is influenced by these prophetic writings and their imagery, apocalyptic writing cannot simply be understood as an outgrowth of the phenomenon of prophecy.

The book of Daniel, the only book in the Hebrew Bible that could be called an apocalypse, illustrates the complexity of the matter. Although Christian tradition groups Daniel with the prophetic books, Jewish tradition places it in the Writings (see below). The first part of the book consists of a cycle of narratives in which Daniel and his friends are portrayed as sages trained in the technical skills of Babylonian scribal wisdom. Like Joseph, Daniel is able to interpret dreams sent by God. He is not presented as a prophet. In the latter part of the book, however, Daniel is the recipient of visions that disclose the future. These vision reports do bear significant similarities to those found in Ezekiel and especially in Zechariah, though their almost allegorical style is quite different. Similarly, although general claims about God's foreknowledge of historical events can be found in Second Isaiah, Daniels' representation of history as predetermined both with respect to its epochal structure and its specific events is strikingly different from the representation of history by the prophets. A clue to the relationship of apocalyptic writing to prophecy may be found in Dan 9, where Daniel is presented as studying the book of Jeremiah and receiving an angelic interpretation of its significance. As suggested by the representation of Daniel as a technically trained sage, the authors of apocalyptic books were perhaps themselves learned scribes who studied and appropriated aspects of the prophetic tradition and combined them with other influences in their attempts to understand the nature of the cosmos and the course of history.

Canonical Placement and Contents

In both the Jewish and Christian canons the prophetic books form a distinct section of the Bible. The two traditions differ, however, with respect to the number, sequence, and placement of the prophetic books. Jewish tradition divides the canon into three parts: the Torah (i.e., Genesis-Deuteronomy), the Prophets, and the Writings. The term

"former prophets" is used to designate the historical books Joshua-2 Kings (perhaps reflecting a tradition that these books were written by prophets), and the term "latter prophets" is used for those books that bear the name of a particular prophet (i.e., Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor prophets). In Christian Bibles, the prophetic books form the last section of the Old Testament canon, following the Pentateuch, the Historical Books, and the Poetical Books. Christian tradition includes Daniel among the prophetic books, in contrast to Judaism, which groups Daniel with the Writings. Also, Christian Bibles place Lamentations, which is not a book of prophecy, immediately after the book of Jeremiah, reflecting the tradition of the Septuagint (the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible) that Jeremiah was the author of Lamentations. Likewise, in some Christian canons, the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical book of Baruch comes after Lamentations, because of the connection between the prophet Jeremiah and his scribe, Baruch.

ISAIAH

Introduction

The book of Isaiah in its current form was written and assembled over the course of several centuries. This process began in the eighth century BCE, with the collection of the prophecies of Isaiah son of Amoz, who was active in the Southern Kingdom of Judah during the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah (1.1). It was completed no later than the second century BCE, since a complete Isaiah scroll dating from that time has been found among the Dead Sea Scrolls at Qumran (1QIsa^a), and the Septuagint (LXX), the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures from around the same time, contains the complete book as we know it. The author of Sirach, who write in the early second century BCE as well, was familiar with chs 36-39 and 40-55 (Sir 48.22-25), showing that a version of Isaiah containing at least these sections was in general circulation by then.

There is no record of the editing and compilation process that the book of Isaiah went through, but there are explanations for the characteristics of the text as it now stands. The most obvious of these characteristics, and the first one to be noticed, is the division after chs 1-39, which refer mostly to events of the eighth century BCE. Chs 40-66 cannot be earlier than the sixth century, since they clearly address a situation reflecting the fall of Jerusalem and the deportations of large parts of the population of Judah to Babylon. Within chs 40-66 moreover, chs 56-66 (or possibly 55-66) may date from even later period, after the return of some of the people from the Babylonian exile. These three divisions of the book are usually labeled First, Second, and Third Isaiah. In addition, chs 1-39 are also composed of smaller units dating from a variety of times (see below). But it is important to look beyond these divisions of the book for structural and thematic interconnection between the different parts, such as its first and last chapters. These interconnections make clear that Isaiah reached its present form not as the result of a haphazard accumulation of a variety of material, but as the outcome of a cumulative series of interpretations that reapplied and expanded older parts of Isaiah to meet the needs of later periods and situations.

The Background to Isaiah

Four pivotal moments in the history of the Israelite people form the background to the various parts of Isaiah.

(1) The Syro-Ephraimite War and its aftermath. After a period of relative peace between Israel (the Northern Kingdom, often called "Ephraim" in Isaiah after its most important tribe) and Judah (the Southern Kingdom), international tensions rose after Tiglath-pileser III become king of the Assyrian Empire in 745 BCE and began an effort to conquer the lands to the west of Assyria, including Syria, Israel, and Judah. Uzziah, the king of Judah whose reign began during the peaceful era, died in 733 (6.1), and was succeeded first by Jotham (759) and then by Ahaz (743/735; the chronology is disputed). Pekah, king of Israel, and Rezin, king of Syria (Damascus or Aram) tried, beginning in 735, to enlist Ahaz in an alliance against Assyria, and when that effort failed, they attacked Judah to replace Ahaz with a king more amenable to their policies (ch 7). This conflict is known as the Syro-Ephraimite war, since it was a war of Syria and Ephraim against Judah. Ahaz successfully turned to Assyria for help in fending off Israel and Syria. The price he paid was steep: Judah became a vassal of Assyria.

(2) The Assyrian invasion. During the decades following the Syro-Ephraimite war, the Assyrians expanded their influence in the area, taking over Syria and then attacking the Northern Kingdom, which fell in 722 BCE. When the Assyrian ruler of the time, Sargon II, died in 705, Hezekiah, the king of Judah and son of Ahaz, rebelled against Assyria. Hezekiah had thought to take advantage of the confusion at the change of rulers, and in addition sought support from Egypt that was not forthcoming (36.6). The new Assyrian king, Sennacherib, retaliated and conquered the cities surrounding Jerusalem in 701 BCE. Hezekiah was able to avert the conquest of Jerusalem itself only by paying tribute.

(3) The conquest of Jerusalem and the exile. During the century following these events, the Assyrian empire gradually weakened. In 612 BCE, the rising Babylonian Empire conquered the Assyrian capital, Nineveh, and the international power struggle became one between Babylon and Egypt, with Judah caught between. In 605 the Babylonian king, Nebuchadnezzar, defeated the Egyptian Pharaoh, Neco, at the battle of Carchemish, and Babylon became the leading empire of the day. Judah came under Babylon's control, and when the last king of Judah, Zedekiah, rebelled against Babylon, the result was an invasion by Nebuchadnezzar. In 586, he destroyed Jerusalem and its Temple and deported a good deal of the population to Babylon, an event referred to as the exile.

(4) The return. During the sixth century BCE, the Babylonians were increasingly challenged by the rise of another great empire, the Persians. In 539 Cyrus, the Persian king, defeated the Babylonians at the battle of Opis. Cyrus, who was tolerant and (by the standards of the time) benevolent, allowed the Jews to return to Judah, and many (though not all) eventually did so. The returning exiles rebuilt Jerusalem and the Temple.

The Relation of Isaiah and His Successors to the Historical Background

Isaiah of Jerusalem, the eighth-century prophet whose work forms the basis of the book, was involved with the first two of these four moments: the Syro-Ephraimite war and the Assyrian invasion. In the first, he counseled against reliance on Assyria (7.7-9); in the second, he counseled against reliance on Egypt (31.1). In each case, the warnings against participating in the international power politics of the day were part of Isaiah's clear teaching that only by relying on the Lord would Judah ultimately prevail.

Two themes dominate the book of Isaiah as it now exists. The first is the proclamation that God is behind all historical events, including the actions of the great empires of the day (10.5; 41.25). The second is the importance and centrality of Jerusalem for Israel, which includes an emphasis on both the kingship and the right worship of God centered in Jerusalem (2.1-4).

These themes reappear in one form or another, adapted to fit the changing historical circumstances, but refashioned with the aim of making earlier pronouncements relevant to a different, later situation. The proclamation that God is behind the events of current history, that God is in control even of the actions of the hated empires of Assyria and Babylon, meant that the prophet's words at the time of the Assyrian threat could be reapplied to the time of the Babylonian invasion. The importance of Jerusalem, and along with it the monarchy and the Temple, attained tremendous resonance at the time of exile and return, when the vision of a restored city carried with it an idealized portrait of the "anointed," the restored king who in later tradition became the paradigm of the messiah. The restoration of Temple worship is set in the context of the worship that includes all people, even those formerly excluded (56.3-5).

Chapters 1-39: Context and Arrangement

The first part of the book of Isaiah can be divided into sections, in part guided by headings that have been inserted in the text and by brief passages (usually prose) that mark their endings. Ch 1 may stand by itself as a general introduction; chs 2-4 consist of judgment on and promise to Jerusalem; chs 5-12 contain further warnings, including some to the kings of Judah; chs 13-23 consist largely of judgment on Babylon and other foreign peoples; chs 24-27 contrast the two cities, the city under judgment and the future Jerusalem; chs 28-33 once again warn Judah, and especially condemn Hezekiah's reliance on Egypt; chs 34-35 particularly condemn Edom, which took advantage of the Judean troubles to expand its territory; chs 36-39 form an appendix of historical materials (excerpted from the book of Kings) from the time of Hezekiah.

The title (1.1) describes the book as a vision that came to Isaiah, who was active during the reigns of four Judean kings, thus assigning him a prophetic career of about forty years. The second title (2.1) suggests that the first chapter was intended as an introduction to the message of judgment which takes up so much of the book. In addition, the last stanza of this first poem (1.27-31) has linguistic and thematic links with the last chapter of the book. Chs 2-4 pronounce judgment on Israel and on Jerusalem in ways reminiscent of Amos, but these sayings are bracketed by the prospect of a future restored and purified land and city (2.2-5; 4.2-6). Judgment, therefore, is not the last word.

The vineyard love song (5.1-7) serves as a transition to the account of Isaiah's involvement in the crisis of the Syro-Ephraimite war (734 BCE). This account begins with a vision narrated in the first person (6.1-13), continues with a third-person narrative (7.1-25), and concludes by returning to the first-person narration (8.1-22). It is filled with poems threatening divine judgment (5.8-25; 9.8-10.19) balanced by two poems about the future kingdom of peace and justice (9.1-7; 11.1-9), and it concludes with a psalm of thanksgiving which plays on the names of the principal protagonists, Isaiah and the Holy One of Israel (12.1-6).

Collections of sayings directed against hostile foreign nations form a significant component of several prophetic books. This is a type of saying particularly liable to be "recycled" to fit different historical situations; hence it is not surprising that much of chs 13-23 — the nucleus of which is a series of nine oracles against foreign nations — dates from long after the lifetime of Isaiah. Beginning with 13.1-14.27, the focus shifts from the Assyrians to the Babylonians as the dominant world power. The prophet's engagement with events at the time of Ahaz and Assyrian ascendancy provides the key for those who came later to the theological understanding of events in the following centuries, when the Babylonians and after them the Persians succeeded the Assyrians as the major international powers.

The next section of the book, chs 24-27, is often referred to as "the Isaiah apocalypse" though much of it has little in common with any apocalyptic event. Of uncertain date, its principal theme is the contrast between an unnamed city, condemned for destruction (24.10-13; 25.2; 26.5-6; 27.10-11), and Jerusalem, destined for a glorious future (26.1-4). The connection with the previous section may be that the unnamed city is understood as a symbolic Babylon or a composite image of the cities placed under judgment in chs 13-23.

Chapters 28-33, much of which derive from eight-century materials, take up once again the theme of judgment on the civil and religious leadership of the two kingdoms, with a special condemnation for Judean overtures to Egypt during the troubled reign of Hezekiah.

With chs 34-35 the focus shifts to the post-disaster period, with Edom taking the place of Babylon as the enemy. The contrast between the devastated land of Edom and the restored and fertile land of Judah in these chapters is clearly intentional, and it makes a fitting conclusion to the alternation of judgment and salvation throughout the book up to this point. The final paragraph or stanza (35.8-10), referring to a way through the wilderness, provides a smooth transition to chs 40-48.

This transition has been interrupted by the historical account of events in Hezekiah's reign in chs 36-39, drawn from the Deuteronomistic History (2 Kings 18.13, 17-20.19) and inserted at this point. The insertion does, however, provide the structure of a contrast between Hezekiah's reaction to political crisis (chs 36-39) and that of Ahaz a generation earlier (chs 1-12).

Chapters 40-66: Content and Arrangement

The background of chs 40-55 (or for some scholars 40-54) is the international situation during the reign of the last Babylonian ruler, Nabonidus (556-539 BCE). It is most likely that the prophetic author was among those deported to Babylon, though a Judean location is also possible.

The centerpiece of chs 40-48 is a prophetic oracle designating the Persian Cyrus II (the Great) as the instrument for the repatriation of dispersed Israelites and their reestablishment in the Judean homeland in the hands of the God of Israel, the one, true God and creator of the world. The author confidently predicts the imminent fall of Babylon and polemicizes against the Babylonian religious and intellectual tradition.

The note of consolation and hope continues in chs 49-55, though there are also signs of dissatisfaction, anxiety, and internal tension in the community on whose behalf the prophet is speaking and writing (e.g., in the third and fourth of the "Servant Songs," 50.4-11 and 52.13-53.12).

While the third major segment of the book (chs 56-66) has connections with the chs 40-55, and also with chs 1-39 by virtue of its concern with the destiny of Jerusalem, the situation is in several important respects quite different. These texts seem to focus exclusively on the internal affairs of the community in the early Persian period (late sixth century BCE). The disappointment of expectations aroused by the conquests of Cyrus has led to a resurgence of non-Yahwistic religious practices (57.1-13; 65.1-7; 66.3-4) and deep religious, social, and economic divisions within the Judean community (e.g., 56.1-8; 58.1-12; 59.1-8). Attention is directed increasingly away from an unsatisfactory present to the projection of a future intervention of God in judgment and salvation, an apocalyptic vision of a purified people and Jerusalem as the religious capital of the world.

The Overall Unity of Isaiah

An understanding of the lengthy process that resulted in the book of Isaiah should not leave the impression that it is simply a collection of fragments or an anthology whose parts have no organic relation to each other. The unity of the book comes in large part from the development and deepening of major themes: the centrality of Jerusalem; the importance of the "anointed" ruler; and the contrast between God's people and the political and military machinations of the great world empires. The image of Jerusalem in later books of the Bible, particularly in the book of Revelation in the New Testament, cannot be fully understood without grasping the development of the idea of Jerusalem in Isaiah. The image of a new ruler who will usher in a new age of justice, righteousness, and peace, and its development into a concept of a "messiah" in early Jewish and early Christian writings, also cannot be fully appreciated without an understanding of how Isaiah developed the concept of the anointed ruler from its historical reality as the Davidic line of Judean rulers to the hoped-for restoration of an idealized king for a purified nation. And the notion of God's people surviving and triumphing even when all the world's great powers are arrayed against them echoes through the later writings of the Hebrew Scriptures, the Jewish writings of the Diaspora contained in the Apocrypha/Deuterocanonical Books, and the New Testament.

Superscription

1 The vision of Isaiah son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

An introductory poem

2 Hear, O heavens, and listen, O earth;
for the LORD has spoken:
I reared children and brought them up,
but they have rebelled against me.

3 The ox knows its owner,
and the donkey its master's crib;
but Israel does not know,
my people do not understand.

4 Ah, sinful nation,
people laden with iniquity,
offspring who do evil,
children who deal corruptly,
who have forsaken the LORD,
who have despised the Holy One of Israel,
who are utterly estranged!

5 Why do you seek further beatings?
Why do you continue to rebel?
The whole head is sick,
and the whole heart faint.

6 From the sole of the foot even to the head,
there is no soundness in it,
but bruises and sores
and bleeding wounds;
they have not been drained, or bound up,
or softened with oil.

- 7 Your country lies desolate,
your cities are burned with fire;
in your very presence
aliens devour your land;
it is desolate, as overthrown by foreigners.
- 8 And daughter Zion is left
like a booth in a vineyard,
like a shelter in a cucumber field,
like a besieged city.
- 9 If the LORD of hosts
had not left us a few survivors,
we would have been like Sodom,
and become like Gomorrah.
- 10 Hear the word of the LORD,
you rulers of Sodom!
Listen to the teaching of our God,
you people of Gomorrah!
- 11 What to me is the multitude of your sacrifices?
says the LORD;
I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams
and the fat of fed beasts;
I do not delight in the blood of bulls,
or of lambs, or of goats.
- 12 When you come to appear before me,
who asked this from your hand?
Trample my courts no more;
13 bringing offerings is futile;
incense is an abomination to me.
New moon and sabbath and calling of convocation —
I cannot endure solemn assemblies with iniquity.
- 14 Your new moons and your appointed festivals
my soul hates;
they have become a burden to me,
I am weary of bearing them.

- 15 When you stretch out your hands,
I will hide my eyes from you;
even though you make many prayers,
I will not listen;
your hands are full of blood.
- 16 Wash yourselves; make yourselves clean;
remove the evil of your doings
from before my eyes;
cease to do evil,
- 17 learn to do good;
seek justice,
rescue the oppressed,
defend the orphan,
plead for the widow.
- 18 Come now, let us argue it out,
says the LORD:
though your sins are like scarlet,
they shall be like snow;
though they are red like crimson,
they shall become like wool.
- 19 If you are willing and obedient,
you shall eat the good of the land;
- 20 but if you refuse and rebel,
you shall be devoured by the sword;
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.
- 21 How the faithful city
has become a whore!
She that was full of justice, righteousness lodged in her —
but now murderers!
- 22 Your silver has become dross,
your wine is mixed with water.

- 23 Your princes are rebels
and companions of thieves.
Everyone loves a bribe
and runs after gifts.
They do not defend the orphan,
and the widow's cause does not come before them.
- 24 Therefore says the Sovereign, the LORD of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel:
Ah, I will pour out my wrath on my enemies,
and avenge myself on my foes!
- 25 I will turn my hand against you;
I will smelt away your dross as with lye
and remove all your alloy.
- 26 And I will restore your judges as at the first,
and your counselors as at the beginning.
Afterward you shall be called the city of righteousness,
the faithful city.
- 27 Zion shall be redeemed by justice,
and those in her who repent, by righteousness.
- 28 But rebels and sinners shall be destroyed together,
and those who forsake the LORD shall be consumed.
- 29 For you shall be ashamed of the oaks
in which you delighted;
and you shall blush for the gardens
that you have chosen.
- 30 For you shall be like an oak
whose leaf withers,
and like a garden without water.
- 31 The strong shall become like tinder,
and their work like a spark;
they and their work shall burn together,
with no one to quench them.

[Isaiah 2]A second superscription

1 The word that Isaiah son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

2 In days to come
the mountain of the LORD's house
shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
and shall be raised above the hills;
all the nations shall stream to it.

3 Many peoples shall come and say,
"Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
to the house of the God of Jacob;
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his paths."
For out of Zion shall go forth instruction,
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

4 He shall judge between the nations,
and shall arbitrate for many peoples;
they shall beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
neither shall they learn war any more.

Indictment of Israel

5 O house of Jacob,
come, let us walk
in the light of the LORD!

6 For you have forsaken the ways of your people,
O house of Jacob.

Indeed they are full of diviners from the east
and of soothsayers like the Philistines,
and they clasp hands with foreigners.

- 7 Their land is filled with silver and gold,
and there is no end to their treasures;
their land is filled with horses,
and there is no end to their chariots.
- 8 Their land is filled with idols;
they bow down to the work of their hands,
to what their own fingers have made.
- 9 And so people are humbled, and everyone is brought low —
do not forgive them!
- 10 Enter into the rock,
and hide in the dust
from the terror of the LORD,
and from the glory of his majesty.
- 11 The haughty eyes of people shall be brought low,
and the pride of everyone shall be humbled;
and the LORD alone will be exalted on that day.
- 12 For the LORD of hosts has a day against all that is proud and lofty,
against all that is lifted up and high;
- 13 against all the cedars of Lebanon,
lofty and lifted up;
and against all the oaks of Bashan;
- 14 against all the high mountains,
and against all the lofty hills;
- 15 against every high tower,
and against every fortified wall;
- 16 against all the ships of Tarshish,
and against all the beautiful craft.
- 17 The haughtiness of people shall be humbled,
and the pride of everyone shall be brought low;
and the LORD alone will be exalted on that day.
- 18 The idols shall utterly pass away.
- 19 Enter the caves of the rocks
and the holes of the ground,
from the terror of the LORD,
and from the glory of his majesty,
when he rises to terrify the earth.

- 20 On that day people will throw away
to the moles and to the bats
their idols of silver and their idols of gold,
which they made for themselves to worship, 21 to enter the caverns of the rocks
and the clefts in the crags,
from the terror of the LORD,
and from the glory of his majesty,
when he rises to terrify the earth.
22 Turn away from mortals,
who have only breath in their nostrils,
for of what account are they?

[Isaiah 3]

Social and moral chaos

- 1 For now the Sovereign, the LORD of hosts, is taking away from Jerusalem and from Judah support and staff —
all support of bread,
and all support of water —
2 warrior and soldier,
judge and prophet,
diviner and elder,
3 captain of fifty
and dignitary,
counselor and skillful magician
and expert enchanter.
4 And I will make boys their princes,
and babes shall rule over them.
5 The people will be oppressed, everyone by another
and everyone by a neighbor;
the youth will be insolent to the elder,
and the base to the honorable.

- 6 Someone will even seize a relative,
a member of the clan, saying,
"You have a cloak;
you shall be our leader,
and this heap of ruins
shall be under your rule."
- 7 But the other will cry out on that day, saying,
"I will not be a healer;
in my house there is neither bread nor cloak;
you shall not make me
leader of the people."
- 8 For Jerusalem has stumbled
and Judah has fallen,
because their speech and their deeds are against the LORD,
defying his glorious presence.
- 9 The look on their faces bears witness against them;
they proclaim their sin like Sodom,
they do not hide it.
Woe to them!
For they have brought evil on themselves.
- 10 Tell the innocent how fortunate they are,
for they shall eat the fruit of their labors.
- 11 Woe to the guilty! How unfortunate they are,
for what their hands have done shall be done to them.
- 12 My people — children are their oppressors,
and women rule over them.
O my people, your leaders mislead you,
and confuse the course of your paths.
- 13 The LORD rises to argue his case;
he stands to judge the peoples.
- 14 The LORD enters into judgment
with the elders and princes of his people:
It is you who have devoured the vineyard;
the spoil of the poor is in your houses.
- 15 What do you mean by crushing my people,
by grinding the face of the poor? says the Lord GOD of hosts.

The fate of the court ladies of Jerusalem

16 The LORD said:

Because the daughters of Zion are haughty
and walk with outstretched necks, glancing wantonly with their eyes,
mincing along as they go,
tinkling with their feet;

17 the Lord will afflict with scabs
the heads of the daughters of Zion,
and the LORD will lay bare their secret parts.

18 In that day the Lord will take away the finery of the anklets, the headbands, and the crescents; 19 the pendants, the bracelets, and the scarfs; 20 the headdresses, the armlets, the sashes, the perfume boxes, and the amulets; 21 the signet rings and nose rings; 22 the festal robes, the mantles, the cloaks, and the handbags; 23 the garments of gauze, the linen garments, the turbans, and the veils.

24 Instead of perfume there will be a stench;
and instead of a sash, a rope;
and instead of well-set hair, baldness;
and instead of a rich robe, a binding of sackcloth;
instead of beauty, shame.

25 Your men shall fall by the sword
and your warriors in battle.

26 And her gates shall lament and mourn;
ravaged, she shall sit upon the ground.

[Isaiah 4]

1 Seven women shall take hold of one man in that day, saying,
"We will eat our own bread and wear our own clothes;
just let us be called by your name;
take away our disgrace."

Jerusalem renewed

2 On that day the branch of the LORD shall be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the land shall be the pride and glory of the survivors of Israel. 3 Whoever is left in Zion and remains in Jerusalem will be called holy, everyone who has been recorded for life in Jerusalem, 4 once the Lord has washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion and cleansed the bloodstains of Jerusalem from its midst by a spirit of judgment and by a spirit of burning. 5 Then the LORD will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over its places of assembly a cloud by day and smoke and the shining of a flaming fire by night. Indeed over all the glory there will be a canopy. 6 It will serve as a pavilion, a shade by day from the heat, and a refuge and a shelter from the storm and rain.

[Isaiah 5]

The love song about the vineyard

- 1 Let me sing for my beloved my love-song concerning his vineyard:
 My beloved had a vineyard
 on a very fertile hill.
- 2 He dug it and cleared it of stones,
 and planted it with choice vines;
 he built a watchtower in the midst of it,
 and hewed out a wine vat in it;
 he expected it to yield grapes,
 but it yielded wild grapes.
- 3 And now, inhabitants of Jerusalem
 and people of Judah,
 judge between me
 and my vineyard.
- 4 What more was there to do for my vineyard
 that I have not done in it?
 When I expected it to yield grapes,
 why did it yield wild grapes?

- 5 And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard.
 I will remove its hedge,
 and it shall be devoured;
 I will break down its wall,
 and it shall be trampled down.
- 6 I will make it a waste;
 it shall not be pruned or hoed,
 and it shall be overgrown with briers and thorns;
 I will also command the clouds
 that they rain no rain upon it.
- 7 For the vineyard of the LORD of hosts
 is the house of Israel,
 and the people of Judah
 are his pleasant planting;
 he expected justice,
 but saw bloodshed;
 righteousness,
 but heard a cry!

Seven woes

- 8 Ah, you who join house to house,
 who add field to field,
 until there is room for no one but you,
 and you are left to live alone
 in the midst of the land!
- 9 The LORD of hosts has sworn in my hearing:
 Surely many houses shall be desolate,
 large and beautiful houses, without inhabitant.
- 10 For ten acres of vineyard shall yield but one bath,
 and a homer of seed shall yield a mere ephah.
- 11 Ah, you who rise early in the morning
 in pursuit of strong drink, who linger in the evening
 to be inflamed by wine,

- 12 whose feasts consist of lyre and harp,
tambourine and flute and wine,
but who do not regard the deeds of the LORD,
or see the work of his hands!
- 13 Therefore my people go into exile without knowledge;
their nobles are dying of hunger,
and their multitude is parched with thirst.
- 14 Therefore Sheol has enlarged its appetite
and opened its mouth beyond measure;
the nobility of Jerusalem and her multitude go down,
her throng and all who exult in her.
- 15 People are bowed down, everyone is brought low,
and the eyes of the haughty are humbled.
- 16 But the LORD of hosts is exalted by justice,
and the Holy God shows himself holy by righteousness.
- 17 Then the lambs shall graze as in their pasture,
fatlings and kids shall feed among the ruins.
- 18 Ah, you who drag iniquity along with cords of falsehood,
who drag sin along as with cart ropes, 19 who say, "Let him make haste, let him speed his work
that we may see it;
let the plan of the Holy One of Israel hasten to fulfillment,
that we may know it!"
- 20 Ah, you who call evil good
and good evil,
who put darkness for light
and light for darkness,
who put bitter for sweet
and sweet for bitter!
- 21 Ah, you who are wise in your own eyes,
and shrewd in your own sight!
- 22 Ah, you who are heroes in drinking wine
and valiant at mixing drink, 23 who acquit the guilty for a bribe,
and deprive the innocent of their rights!

24 Therefore, as the tongue of fire devours the stubble,
 and as dry grass sinks down in the flame,
 so their root will become rotten,
 and their blossom go up like dust;
 for they have rejected the instruction of the LORD of hosts,
 and have despised the word of the Holy One of Israel.

A displaced stanza

25 Therefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against his people, and he stretched out his hand against them and struck them;
 the mountains quaked,
 and their corpses were like refuse in the streets.
 For all this his anger has not turned away,
 and his hand is stretched out still.

The threat of a double blow

26 He will raise a signal for a nation far away,
 and whistle for a people at the ends of the earth;
 Here they come, swiftly, speedily!
 27 None of them is weary, none stumbles,
 none slumbers or sleeps,
 not a loincloth is loose,
 not a sandal-thong broken; 28 their arrows are sharp,
 all their bows bent,
 their horses' hoofs seem like flint,
 and their wheels like the whirlwind.
 29 Their roaring is like a lion,
 like young lions they roar;
 they growl and seize their prey,
 they carry it off, and no one can rescue.

30 They will roar over it on that day,
 like the roaring of the sea.
 And if one look to the land —
 only darkness and distress;
 and the light grows dark with clouds.

[Isaiah 6]

The vision of the heavenly throne room

1 In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lofty; and the hem of his robe filled the temple. 2 Seraphs were in attendance above him; each had six wings: with two they covered their faces, and with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. 3 And one called to another and said:

"Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts;
 the whole earth is full of his glory."

4 The pivots on the thresholds shook at the voices of those who called, and the house filled with smoke. 5 And I said: "Woe is me! I am lost, for I am a man of unclean lips, and I live among a people of unclean lips; yet my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts!"

6 Then one of the seraphs flew to me, holding a live coal that had been taken from the altar with a pair of tongs. 7 The seraph touched my mouth with it and said: "Now that this has touched your lips, your guilt has departed and your sin is blotted out." 8 Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" And I said, "Here am I; send me!" 9 And he said, "Go and say to this people:

'Keep listening, but do not comprehend;
 keep looking, but do not understand.'

10 Make the mind of this people dull,
 and stop their ears,
 and shut their eyes,
 so that they may not look with their eyes,
 and listen with their ears,
 and comprehend with their minds,
 and turn and be healed."

11 Then I said, "How long, O Lord?" And he said:
 "Until cities lie waste
 without inhabitant,
 and houses without people,
 and the land is utterly desolate;
 12 until the LORD sends everyone far away,
 and vast is the emptiness in the midst of the land.
 13 Even if a tenth part remain in it,
 it will be burned again,
 like a terebinth or an oak whose stump remains standing when it is felled."
 The holy seed is its stump.

[Isaiah 7]

Isaiah's intervention in the Syro-Ephraimite war

1 In the days of Ahaz son of Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah, King Rezin of Aram and King Pekah son of Remaliah of Israel went up to attack Jerusalem, but could not mount an attack against it. 2 When the house of David heard that Aram had allied itself with Ephraim, the heart of Ahaz and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake before the wind.

3 Then the LORD said to Isaiah, Go out to meet Ahaz, you and your son Shear-jashub, at the end of the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Fuller's Field, 4 and say to him, Take heed, be quiet, do not fear, and do not let your heart be faint because of these two smoldering stumps of firebrands, because of the fierce anger of Rezin and Aram and the son of Remaliah. 5 Because Aram — with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah — has plotted evil against you, saying, 6 Let us go up against Judah and cut off Jerusalem and conquer it for ourselves and make the son of Tabeel king in it; 7 therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

It shall not stand,
 and it shall not come to pass.

8 For the head of Aram is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin.

(Within sixty-five years Ephraim will be shattered, no longer a people.)

9 The head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah.

If you do not stand firm in faith,
you shall not stand at all.

10 Again the LORD spoke to Ahaz, saying, 11 Ask a sign of the LORD your God; let it be deep as Sheol or high as heaven. 12 But Ahaz said, I will not ask, and I will not put the LORD to the test. 13 Then Isaiah said: "Hear then, O house of David! Is it too little for you to weary mortals, that you weary my God also? 14 Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Look, the young woman is with child and shall bear a son, and shall name him Immanuel. 15 He shall eat curds and honey by the time he knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good. 16 For before the child knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land before whose two kings you are in dread will be deserted. 17 The LORD will bring on you and on your people and on your ancestral house such days as have not come since the day that Ephraim departed from Judah — the king of Assyria."

Four additions

18 On that day the LORD will whistle for the fly that is at the sources of the streams of Egypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria. 19 And they will all come and settle in the steep ravines, and in the clefts of the rocks, and on all the thornbushes, and on all the pastures.

20 On that day the Lord will shave with a razor hired beyond the River — with the king of Assyria — the head and the hair of the feet, and it will take off the beard as well.

21 On that day one will keep alive a young cow and two sheep, 22 and will eat curds because of the abundance of milk that they give; for everyone that is left in the land shall eat curds and honey.

23 On that day every place where there used to be a thousand vines, worth a thousand shekels of silver, will become briars and thorns. 24 With bow and arrows one will go there, for all the land will be briars and thorns; 25 and as for all the hills that used to be hoed with a hoe, you will not go there for fear of briars and thorns; but they will become a place where cattle are let loose and where sheep tread.

[Isaiah 8]

The sign of Maher-shalal-hash-baz

1 Then the LORD said to me, Take a large tablet and write on it in common characters, "Belonging to Maher-shalal-hash-baz," 2 and have it attested for me by reliable witnesses, the priest Uriah and Zechariah son of Jeberechiah. 3 And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then the LORD said to me, Name him Maher-shalal-hash-baz; 4 for before the child knows how to call "My father" or "My mother," the wealth of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria will be carried away by the king of Assyria.

5 The LORD spoke to me again: 6 Because this people has refused the waters of Shiloah that flow gently, and melt in fear before Rezin and the son of Remaliah; 7 therefore, the Lord is bringing up against it the mighty flood waters of the River, the king of Assyria and all his glory; it will rise above all its channels and overflow all its banks; 8 it will sweep on into Judah as a flood, and, pouring over, it will reach up to the neck; and its outspread wings will fill the breadth of your land, O Immanuel.

9 Band together, you peoples, and be dismayed;

listen, all you far countries;

gird yourselves and be dismayed;

gird yourselves and be dismayed!

10 Take counsel together, but it shall be brought to naught;

speak a word, but it will not stand,

for God is with us.

Isaiah and his co-conspirators

11 For the LORD spoke thus to me while his hand was strong upon me, and warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying: 12 Do not call conspiracy all that this people calls conspiracy, and do not fear

what it fears, or be in dread. 13 But the LORD of hosts, him you shall regard as holy; let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. 14 He will become a sanctuary, a stone one strikes against; for both houses of Israel he will become a rock one stumbles over — a trap and a snare for the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 15 And many among them shall stumble; they shall fall and be broken; they shall be snared and taken.

Preserving the record

16 Bind up the testimony, seal the teaching among my disciples. 17 I will wait for the LORD, who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob, and I will hope in him. 18 See, I and the children whom the LORD has given me are signs and portents in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who dwells on Mount Zion. 19 Now if people say to you, "Consult the ghosts and the familiar spirits that chirp and mutter; should not a people consult their gods, the dead on behalf of the living, 20 for teaching and for instruction?" surely, those who speak like this will have no dawn! 21 They will pass through the land, greatly distressed and hungry; when they are hungry, they will be enraged and will curse their king and their gods. They will turn their faces upward, 22 or they will look to the earth, but will see only distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be thrust into thick darkness.

[Isaiah 9]

New age, new ruler

1 But there will be no gloom for those who were in anguish. In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he will make glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.

2 The people who walked in darkness
 have seen a great light;
 those who lived in a land of deep darkness —
 on them light has shined.

- 3 You have multiplied the nation,
you have increased its joy;
they rejoice before you
as with joy at the harvest,
as people exult when dividing plunder.
- 4 For the yoke of their burden,
and the bar across their shoulders,
the rod of their oppressor,
you have broken as on the day of Midian.
- 5 For all the boots of the tramping warriors
and all the garments rolled in blood shall be burned as fuel for the fire.
- 6 For a child has been born for us,
a son given to us;
authority rests upon his shoulders;
and he is named
Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.
- 7 His authority shall grow continually,
and there shall be endless peace
for the throne of David and his kingdom.
He will establish and uphold it with justice and with righteousness
from this time onward and forevermore.
The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

Judgment on Israel

- 8 The Lord sent a word against Jacob,
and it fell on Israel;
- 9 and all the people knew it —
Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria —
but in pride and arrogance of heart they said:
- 10 "The bricks have fallen,
but we will build with dressed stones;
the sycamores have been cut down,
but we will put cedars in their place."

11 So the LORD raised adversaries against them,
 and stirred up their enemies,
 12 the Arameans on the east and the Philistines on the west,
 and they devoured Israel with open mouth.
 For all this his anger has not turned away;
 his hand is stretched out still.

A further stage in judgment on Israel

13 The people did not turn to him who struck them, or seek the LORD of hosts.
 14 So the LORD cut off from Israel head and tail, palm branch and reed in one day — 15 elders and dignitaries are the head,
 and prophets who teach lies are the tail;
 16 for those who led this people led them astray,
 and those who were led by them were left in confusion.
 17 That is why the Lord did not have pity on their young people,
 or compassion on their orphans and widows;
 for everyone was godless and an evildoer,
 and every mouth spoke folly.
 For all this his anger has not turned away;
 his hand is stretched out still.

Social breakdown

18 For wickedness burned like a fire, consuming briars and thorns;
 it kindled the thickets of the forest,
 and they swirled upward in a column of smoke.
 19 Through the wrath of the LORD of hosts
 the land was burned,
 and the people became like fuel for the fire;
 no one spared another.
 20 They gorged on the right, but still were hungry,
 and they devoured on the left, but were not satisfied;
 they devoured the flesh of their own kindred;

21 Manasseh devoured Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasseh,
 and together they were against Judah.
 For all this his anger has not turned away;
 his hand is stretched out still.

[Isaiah 10]

Judgment against aggressors

1 Ah, you who make iniquitous decrees,
 who write oppressive statutes,
 2 to turn aside the needy from justice
 and to rob the poor of my people of their right,
 that widows may be your spoil,
 and that you may make the orphans your prey!
 3 What will you do on the day of punishment,
 in the calamity that will come from far away?
 To whom will you flee for help,
 and where will you leave your wealth,
 4 so as not to crouch among the prisoners
 or fall among the slain?
 For all this his anger has not turned away;
 his hand is stretched out still.

Woe to Assyria

5 Ah, Assyria, the rod of my anger —
 the club in their hands is my fury!
 6 Against a godless nation I send him,
 and against the people of my wrath I command him,
 to take spoil and seize plunder,
 and to tread them down like the mire of the streets.
 7 But this is not what he intends,
 nor does he have this in mind;
 but it is in his heart to destroy,
 and to cut off nations not a few.
 8 For he says:
 "Are not my commanders all kings?"

- 9 Is not Calno like Carchemish?
Is not Hamath like Arpad?
Is not Samaria like Damascus?
- 10 As my hand has reached to the kingdoms of the idols whose images were greater than those of Jerusalem and Samaria, 11 shall I not do to Jerusalem and her idols
what I have done to Samaria and her images?"
- 12 When the Lord has finished all his work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, he will punish the arrogant boasting of the king of Assyria and his haughty pride. 13 For he says:
"By the strength of my hand I have done it,
and by my wisdom, for I have understanding;
I have removed the boundaries of peoples,
and have plundered their treasures;
like a bull I have brought down those who sat on thrones.
- 14 My hand has found, like a nest,
the wealth of the peoples;
and as one gathers eggs that have been forsaken,
so I have gathered all the earth;
and there was none that moved a wing,
or opened its mouth, or chirped."
- 15 Shall the ax vaunt itself over the one who wields it,
or the saw magnify itself against the one who handles it?
As if a rod should raise the one who lifts it up,
or as if a staff should lift the one who is not wood!
- 16 Therefore the Sovereign, the LORD of hosts,
will send wasting sickness among his stout warriors,
and under his glory a burning will be kindled,
like the burning of fire.
- 17 The light of Israel will become a fire,
and his Holy One a flame;
and it will burn and devour
his thorns and briars in one day.
- 18 The glory of his forest and his fruitful land
the LORD will destroy, both soul and body,
and it will be as when an invalid wastes away.

19 The remnant of the trees of his forest will be so few that a child can write them down.

A prose comment

20 On that day the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will no more lean on the one who struck them, but will lean on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. 21 A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the mighty God. 22 For though your people Israel were like the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will return. Destruction is decreed, overflowing with righteousness. 23 For the Lord GOD of hosts will make a full end, as decreed, in all the earth.

24 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD of hosts: O my people, who live in Zion, do not be afraid of the Assyrians when they beat you with a rod and lift up their staff against you as the Egyptians did. 25 For in a very little while my indignation will come to an end, and my anger will be directed to their destruction. 26 The LORD of hosts will wield a whip against them, as when he struck Midian at the rock of Oreb; his staff will be over the sea, and he will lift it as he did in Egypt. 27 On that day his burden will be removed from your shoulder, and his yoke will be destroyed from your neck.

An invasion

He has gone up from Rimmon, 28 he has come to Aiath;
he has passed through Migron,
at Michmash he stores his baggage;
29 they have crossed over the pass,
at Geba they lodge for the night;
Ramah trembles,
Gibeah of Saul has fled.
30 Cry aloud, O daughter Gallim!
Listen, O Laishah!
Answer her, O Anathoth!
31 Madmenah is in flight,
the inhabitants of Gebim flee for safety.

32 This very day he will halt at Nob,
 he will shake his fist
 at the mount of daughter Zion,
 the hill of Jerusalem.

Further judgments

33 Look, the Sovereign, the LORD of hosts,
 will lop the boughs with terrifying power;
 the tallest trees will be cut down,
 and the lofty will be brought low.
 34 He will hack down the thickets of the forest with an ax,
 and Lebanon with its majestic trees will fall.

[Isaiah 11]

The future peaceful kingdom

1 A shoot shall come out from the stump of Jesse,
 and a branch shall grow out of his roots.
 2 The spirit of the LORD shall rest on him,
 the spirit of wisdom and understanding,
 the spirit of counsel and might,
 the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD.
 3 His delight shall be in the fear of the LORD.

 He shall not judge by what his eyes see,
 or decide by what his ears hear;
 4 but with righteousness he shall judge the poor,
 and decide with equity for the meek of the earth;
 he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth,
 and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked.
 5 Righteousness shall be the belt around his waist,
 and faithfulness the belt around his loins.

 6 The wolf shall live with the lamb,
 the leopard shall lie down with the kid,
 the calf and the lion and the fatling together,
 and a little child shall lead them.

- 7 The cow and the bear shall graze,
 their young shall lie down together;
 and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.
- 8 The nursing child shall play over the hole of the asp,
 and the weaned child shall put its hand on the adder's den.
- 9 They will not hurt or destroy
 on all my holy mountain;
 for the earth will be full of the knowledge of the LORD
 as the waters cover the sea.

Three appendices

- 10 On that day the root of Jesse shall stand as a signal to the peoples;
 the nations shall inquire of him, and his dwelling shall be glorious.
- 11 On that day the Lord will extend his hand yet a second time to recover the remnant that is left of his people, from Assyria, from Egypt, from Pathros, from Ethiopia, from Elam, from Shinar, from Hamath,
 and from the coastlands of the sea.
- 12 He will raise a signal for the nations,
 and will assemble the outcasts of Israel,
 and gather the dispersed of Judah
 from the four corners of the earth.
- 13 The jealousy of Ephraim shall depart,
 the hostility of Judah shall be cut off;
 Ephraim shall not be jealous of Judah,
 and Judah shall not be hostile towards Ephraim.
- 14 But they shall swoop down on the backs of the Philistines in the west, together they shall plunder the people of the east.
 They shall put forth their hand against Edom and Moab,
 and the Ammonites shall obey them.
- 15 And the LORD will utterly destroy the tongue of the sea of Egypt;
 and will wave his hand over the River
 with his scorching wind;
 and will split it into seven channels,
 and make a way to cross on foot;

16 so there shall be a highway from Assyria
for the remnant that is left of his people,
as there was for Israel
when they came up from the land of Egypt.

[Isaiah 12]

Two short hymns

1 You will say in that day:

I will give thanks to you, O LORD,
for though you were angry with me,
your anger turned away,
and you comforted me.

2 Surely God is my salvation;

I will trust, and will not be afraid,
for the LORD GOD is my strength and my might;
he has become my salvation.

3 With joy you will draw water from the wells of salvation. 4 And you will say in that day:

Give thanks to the LORD,
call on his name;
make known his deeds among the nations;
proclaim that his name is exalted.

5 Sing praises to the LORD, for he has done gloriously;
let this be known in all the earth.

6 Shout aloud and sing for joy, O royal Zion, for great in your midst is the Holy One of Israel.

[Isaiah 13]Oracles against foreign nations; oracle concerning Babylon

1 The oracle concerning Babylon that Isaiah son of Amoz saw.

2 On a bare hill raise a signal,
cry aloud to them;
wave the hand for them to enter
the gates of the nobles.

3 I myself have commanded my consecrated ones,
have summoned my warriors, my proudly exulting ones,
to execute my anger.

4 Listen, a tumult on the mountains
as of a great multitude!
Listen, an uproar of kingdoms,
of nations gathering together!
The LORD of hosts is mustering
an army for battle.

5 They come from a distant land,
from the end of the heavens,
the LORD and the weapons of his indignation,
to destroy the whole earth.

6 Wail, for the day of the LORD is near;
it will come like destruction from the Almighty!

7 Therefore all hands will be feeble,
and every human heart will melt,

8 and they will be dismayed.
Pangs and agony will seize them;
they will be in anguish like a woman in labor.
They will look aghast at one another;
their faces will be aflame.

9 See, the day of the LORD comes,
cruel, with wrath and fierce anger,
to make the earth a desolation,
and to destroy its sinners from it.

- 10 For the stars of the heavens and their constellations will not give their light;
the sun will be dark at its rising,
and the moon will not shed its light.
- 11 I will punish the world for its evil,
and the wicked for their iniquity;
I will put an end to the pride of the arrogant,
and lay low the insolence of tyrants.
- 12 I will make mortals more rare than fine gold,
and humans than the gold of Ophir.
- 13 Therefore I will make the heavens tremble,
and the earth will be shaken out of its place,
at the wrath of the LORD of hosts
in the day of his fierce anger.
- 14 Like a hunted gazelle,
or like sheep with no one to gather them,
all will turn to their own people,
and all will flee to their own lands.
- 15 Whoever is found will be thrust through,
and whoever is caught will fall by the sword.
- 16 Their infants will be dashed to pieces
before their eyes;
their houses will be plundered,
and their wives ravished.
- 17 See, I am stirring up the Medes against them,
who have no regard for silver
and do not delight in gold.
- 18 Their bows will slaughter the young men;
they will have no mercy on the fruit of the womb;
their eyes will not pity children.
- 19 And Babylon, the glory of kingdoms,
the splendor and pride of the Chaldeans,
will be like Sodom and Gomorrah
when God overthrew them.
- 20 It will never be inhabited
or lived in for all generations;
Arabs will not pitch their tents there,
shepherds will not make their flocks lie down there.

- 21 But wild animals will lie down there,
 and its houses will be full of howling creatures;
 there ostriches will live,
 and there goat-demons will dance.
- 22 Hyenas will cry in its towers,
 and jackals in the pleasant palaces;
 its time is close at hand,
 and its days will not be prolonged.

[Isaiah 14]

Israel will be restored to its land

1 But the LORD will have compassion on Jacob and will again choose Israel, and will set them in their own land; and aliens will join them and attach themselves to the house of Jacob. 2 And the nations will take them and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess the nations as male and female slaves in the LORD's land; they will take captive those who were their captors, and rule over those who oppressed them.

The king of Babylon in the underworld

- 3 When the LORD has given you rest from your pain and turmoil and the hard service with which you were made to serve, 4 you will take up this taunt against the king of Babylon:
 How the oppressor has ceased!
 How his insolence has ceased!
- 5 The LORD has broken the staff of the wicked,
 the scepter of rulers,
 6 that struck down the peoples in wrath
 with unceasing blows,
 that ruled the nations in anger
 with unrelenting persecution.
- 7 The whole earth is at rest and quiet;
 they break forth into singing.

- 8 The cypresses exult over you,
the cedars of Lebanon, saying,
"Since you were laid low,
no one comes to cut us down."
- 9 Sheol beneath is stirred up to meet you when you come;
it rouses the shades to greet you,
all who were leaders of the earth;
it raises from their thrones
all who were kings of the nations.
- 10 All of them will speak
and say to you:
"You too have become as weak as we!
You have become like us!"
- 11 Your pomp is brought down to Sheol,
and the sound of your harps;
maggots are the bed beneath you,
and worms are your covering.
- 12 How you are fallen from heaven,
O Day Star, son of Dawn!
How you are cut down to the ground,
you who laid the nations low!
- 13 You said in your heart,
"I will ascend to heaven;
I will raise my throne
above the stars of God;
I will sit on the mount of assembly
on the heights of Zaphon;
- 14 I will ascend to the tops of the clouds,
I will make myself like the Most High."
- 15 But you are brought down to Sheol,
to the depths of the Pit.
- 16 Those who see you will stare at you,
and ponder over you:
"Is this the man who made the earth tremble,
who shook kingdoms,

17 who made the world like a desert
 and overthrew its cities,
 who would not let his prisoners go home?"
 18 All the kings of the nations lie in glory,
 each in his own tomb;
 19 but you are cast out, away from your grave,
 like loathsome carrion,
 clothed with the dead, those pierced by the sword,
 who go down to the stones of the Pit,
 like a corpse trampled underfoot.
 20 You will not be joined with them in burial,
 because you have destroyed your land,
 you have killed your people.

May the descendants of evildoers
 nevermore be named!

21 Prepare slaughter for his sons
 because of the guilt of their father.
 Let them never rise to possess the earth
 or cover the face of the world with cities.

22 I will rise up against them, says the LORD of hosts, and will cut off from Babylon name and remnant, offspring and posterity, says the LORD. 23 And I will make it a possession of the hedgehog, and pools of water, and I will sweep it with the broom of destruction, says the LORD of hosts.

Judgment on the Assyrians

24 The LORD of hosts has sworn:
 As I have designed,
 so shall it be;
 and as I have planned,
 so shall it come to pass:
 25 I will break the Assyrian in my land,
 and on my mountains trample him under foot;
 his yoke shall be removed from them,
 and his burden from their shoulders.

26 This is the plan that is planned concerning the whole earth;
and this is the hand that is stretched out over all the nations.

27 For the LORD of hosts has planned,
and who will annul it?
His hand is stretched out,
and who will turn it back?

The revolt of Ashdod

28 In the year that King Ahaz died this oracle came:

29 Do not rejoice, all you Philistines,
that the rod that struck you is broken,
for from the root of the snake will come forth an adder,
and its fruit will be a flying fiery serpent.

30 The firstborn of the poor will graze,
and the needy lie down in safety;
but I will make your root die of famine,
and your remnant I will kill.

31 Wail, O gate; cry, O city;
melt in fear, O Philistia, all of you!
For smoke comes out of the north,
and there is no straggler in its ranks.

32 What will one answer the messengers of the nation?
"The LORD has founded Zion, and the needy among his people will find refuge in her."

[Isaiah 15]
Judgment on Moab

1 An oracle concerning Moab.

Because Ar is laid waste in a night,
Moab is undone;
because Kir is laid waste in a night,
Moab is undone.

2 Dibon has gone up to the temple,
to the high places to weep;
over Nebo and over Medeba Moab wails.

On every head is baldness,
every beard is shorn;

3 in the streets they bind on sackcloth;
on the housetops and in the squares
everyone wails and melts in tears.

4 Heshbon and Elealeh cry out,
their voices are heard as far as Jahaz;
therefore the loins of Moab quiver;
his soul trembles.

5 My heart cries out for Moab;
his fugitives flee to Zoar,
to Eglath-selishiyah.

For at the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping;
on the road to Horonaim
they raise a cry of destruction;

6 the waters of Nimrim
are a desolation;
the grass is withered, the new growth fails,
the verdure is no more.

7 Therefore the abundance they have gained and what they have laid up they carry away
over the Wadi of the Willows.

- 8 For a cry has gone
 around the land of Moab;
 the wailing reaches to Eglaim,
 the wailing reaches to Beer-elim.
- 9 For the waters of Dibon are full of blood;
 yet I will bring upon Dibon even more —
 a lion for those of Moab who escape,
 for the remnant of the land.

[Isaiah 16]

- 1 Send lambs
 to the ruler of the land,
 from Sela, by way of the desert,
 to the mount of daughter Zion.
- 2 Like fluttering birds,
 like scattered nestlings,
 so are the daughters of Moab
 at the fords of the Arnon.
- 3 "Give counsel,
 grant justice;
 make your shade like night
 at the height of noon;
 hide the outcasts,
 do not betray the fugitive;
- 4 let the outcasts of Moab settle among you;
 be a refuge to them
 from the destroyer."

When the oppressor is no more,
 and destruction has ceased,
 and marauders have vanished from the land,
 5 then a throne shall be established in steadfast love
 in the tent of David,
 and on it shall sit in faithfulness
 a ruler who seeks justice
 and is swift to do what is right.

- 6 We have heard of the pride of Moab
— how proud he is! —
of his arrogance, his pride, and his insolence;
his boasts are false.
- 7 Therefore let Moab wail,
let everyone wail for Moab.
Mourn, utterly stricken,
for the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth.
- 8 For the fields of Heshbon languish,
and the vines of Sibmah,
whose clusters once made drunk
the lords of the nations, reached to Jazer
and strayed to the desert;
their shoots once spread abroad
and crossed over the sea.
- 9 Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer
for the vines of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,
O Heshbon and Elealeh;
for the shout over your fruit harvest
and your grain harvest has ceased.
- 10 Joy and gladness are taken away
from the fruitful field;
and in the vineyards no songs are sung,
no shouts are raised;
no treader treads out wine in the presses;
the vintage-shout is hushed.
- 11 Therefore my heart throbs like a harp for Moab,
and my very soul for Kir-heres.
- 12 When Moab presents himself, when he wearies himself upon the high place, when he comes to his sanctuary to pray, he will not prevail.
- 13 This was the word that the LORD spoke concerning Moab in the past.
14 But now the LORD says, In three years, like the years of a hired worker, the glory of Moab will be brought into contempt, in spite of all its great multitude; and those who survive will be very few and feeble.

[Isaiah 17]

The fate of Syria and Israel

1 An oracle concerning Damascus.

See, Damascus will cease to be a city,
and will become a heap of ruins.

2 Her towns will be deserted forever;
they will be places for flocks, which will lie down, and no one will make them afraid.

3 The fortress will disappear from Ephraim,
and the kingdom from Damascus;
and the remnant of Aram will be like the glory of the children of Israel,
says the LORD of hosts.

4 On that day
the glory of Jacob will be brought low,
and the fat of his flesh will grow lean.

5 And it shall be as when reapers gather standing grain and their arms harvest the ears,
and as when one gleans the ears of grain
in the Valley of Rephaim.

6 Gleanings will be left in it,
as when an olive tree is beaten —
two or three berries
in the top of the highest bough,
four or five
on the branches of a fruit tree,
says the LORD God of Israel.

7 On that day people will regard their Maker, and their eyes will look to the Holy One of Israel; 8 they will not have regard for the altars, the work of their hands, and they will not look to what their own fingers have made, either the sacred poles or the altars of incense.

9 On that day their strong cities will be like the deserted places of the Hivites and the Amorites, which they deserted because of the children of Israel, and there will be desolation.

10 For you have forgotten the God of your salvation,
and have not remembered the Rock of your refuge;
therefore, though you plant pleasant plants
and set out slips of an alien god,

11 though you make them grow on the day that you plant them,
and make them blossom in the morning that you sow;
yet the harvest will flee away
in a day of grief and incurable pain.

An end to political oppression

12 Ah, the thunder of many peoples,
they thunder like the thundering of the sea!
Ah, the roar of nations,
they roar like the roaring of mighty waters!

13 The nations roar like the roaring of many waters,
but he will rebuke them, and they will flee far away,
chased like chaff on the mountains before the wind
and whirling dust before the storm.

14 At evening time, lo, terror!
Before morning, they are no more.
This is the fate of those who despoil us,
and the lot of those who plunder us.

[Isaiah 18]
Against Egypt and Nubia

- 1 Ah, land of whirring wings
 beyond the rivers of Ethiopia,
2 sending ambassadors by the Nile
 in vessels of papyrus on the waters!
Go, you swift messengers,
 to a nation tall and smooth,
to a people feared near and far,
 a nation mighty and conquering,
 whose land the rivers divide.
- 3 All you inhabitants of the world,
 you who live on the earth,
 when a signal is raised on the mountains, look!
 When a trumpet is blown, listen!
- 4 For thus the LORD said to me:
I will quietly look from my dwelling
 like clear heat in sunshine,
 like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest.
- 5 For before the harvest, when the blossom is over and the flower becomes a ripening grape,
he will cut off the shoots with pruning hooks,
 and the spreading branches he will hew away.
- 6 They shall all be left to the birds of prey of the mountains and to the animals of the earth.
And the birds of prey will summer on them,
 and all the animals of the earth will winter on them.
- 7 At that time gifts will be brought to the LORD of hosts from a people tall and smooth, from a people feared near and far, a nation mighty and conquering, whose land the rivers divide, to Mount Zion, the place of the name of the LORD of hosts.

[Isaiah 19]
Judgment on Egypt

1 An oracle concerning Egypt.

See, the LORD is riding on a swift cloud
and comes to Egypt;
the idols of Egypt will tremble at his presence,
and the heart of the Egyptians will melt within them.

2 I will stir up Egyptians against Egyptians,
and they will fight, one against the other,
neighbor against neighbor,
city against city, kingdom against kingdom;

3 the spirit of the Egyptians within them will be emptied out,
and I will confound their plans;
they will consult the idols and the spirits of the dead
and the ghosts and the familiar spirits;

4 I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of a hard master;
a fierce king will rule over them,
says the Sovereign, the LORD of hosts.

5 The waters of the Nile will be dried up,
and the river will be parched and dry;

6 its canals will become foul,
and the branches of Egypt's Nile will diminish and dry up,
reeds and rushes will rot away.

7 There will be bare places by the Nile,
on the brink of the Nile;
and all that is sown by the Nile will dry up,
be driven away, and be no more.

8 Those who fish will mourn;
all who cast hooks in the Nile will lament,
and those who spread nets on the water will languish.

9 The workers in flax will be in despair, and the carders and those at the loom will grow pale.

10 Its weavers will be dismayed,
and all who work for wages will be grieved.

- 11 The princes of Zoan are utterly foolish;
 the wise counselors of Pharaoh give stupid counsel.
 How can you say to Pharaoh,
 "I am one of the sages,
 a descendant of ancient kings"?
- 12 Where now are your sages?
 Let them tell you and make known what the LORD of hosts has planned against Egypt.
- 13 The princes of Zoan have become fools,
 and the princes of Memphis are deluded;
 those who are the cornerstones of its tribes
 have led Egypt astray.
- 14 The LORD has poured into them
 a spirit of confusion;
 and they have made Egypt stagger in all its doings
 as a drunkard staggers around in vomit.
- 15 Neither head nor tail, palm branch or reed,
 will be able to do anything for Egypt.

Five addenda

16 On that day the Egyptians will be like women, and tremble with fear before the hand that the LORD of hosts raises against them. 17 And the land of Judah will become a terror to the Egyptians; everyone to whom it is mentioned will fear because of the plan that the LORD of hosts is planning against them.

18 On that day there will be five cities in the land of Egypt that speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to the LORD of hosts. One of these will be called the City of the Sun.

19 On that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the center of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to the LORD at its border. 20 It will be a sign and a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt; when they cry to the LORD because of oppressors, he will send them a savior, and will defend and deliver them. 21 The LORD will make himself known to the Egyptians; and the Egyptians will know the LORD on that day, and will worship with sacrifice and burnt offering, and they will make vows to the LORD and perform them. 22 The LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing; they will return to the LORD, and he will listen to their supplications and heal them.

23 On that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria, and the Assyrian will come into Egypt, and the Egyptian into Assyria, and the Egyptians will worship with the Assyrians.

24 On that day Israel will be the third with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, 25 whom the LORD of hosts has blessed, saying, "Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my heritage."

[Isaiah 20]

A sign

1 In the year that the commander-in-chief, who was sent by King Sargon of Assyria, came to Ashdod and fought against it and took it — 2 at that time the LORD had spoken to Isaiah son of Amoz, saying, "Go, and loose the sackcloth from your loins and take your sandals off your feet," and he had done so, walking naked and barefoot. 3 Then the LORD said, "Just as my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot for three years as a sign and a portent against Egypt and Ethiopia, 4 so shall the king of Assyria lead away the Egyptians as captives and the Ethiopians as exiles, both the young and the old, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt. 5 And they shall be dismayed and confounded because of Ethiopia their hope and of Egypt their boast. 6 In that day the inhabitants of this coastland will say, 'See, this is what has happened to those in whom we hoped and to whom we fled for help and deliverance from the king of Assyria! And we, how shall we escape?'"

[Isaiah 21]
Judgment on Babylon

1 The oracle concerning the wilderness of the sea.

As whirlwinds in the Negeb sweep on,
it comes from the desert,
from a terrible land.

2 A stern vision is told to me;
the betrayer betrays,
and the destroyer destroys.

Go up, O Elam,
lay siege, O Media;
all the sighing she has caused
I bring to an end.

3 Therefore my loins are filled with anguish;
pangs have seized me,
like the pangs of a woman in labor;
I am bowed down so that I cannot hear,
I am dismayed so that I cannot see.

4 My mind reels, horror has appalled me;
the twilight I longed for
has been turned for me into trembling.

5 They prepare the table,
they spread the rugs,
they eat, they drink.

Rise up, commanders,
oil the shield!

6 For thus the Lord said to me:
"Go, post a lookout,
let him announce what he sees.

7 When he sees riders, horsemen in pairs,
riders on donkeys, riders on camels,
let him listen diligently,
very diligently."

- 8 Then the watcher called out:
 "Upon a watchtower I stand, O Lord, continually by day,
 and at my post I am stationed throughout the night.
- 9 Look, there they come, riders, horsemen in pairs!"
 Then he responded,
 "Fallen, fallen is Babylon;
 and all the images of her gods
 lie shattered on the ground."
- 10 O my threshed and winnowed one,
 what I have heard from the LORD of hosts,
 the God of Israel, I announce to you.

Two oracular sayings about Arabian peoples

- 11 The oracle concerning Dumah.
 One is calling to me from Seir,
 "Sentinel, what of the night?
 Sentinel, what of the night?"
- 12 The sentinel says:
 "Morning comes, and also the night.
 If you will inquire, inquire;
 come back again."
- 13 The oracle concerning the desert plain.
- In the scrub of the desert plain you will lodge,
 O caravans of Dedanites.
- 14 Bring water to the thirsty,
 meet the fugitive with bread,
 O inhabitants of the land of Tema.
- 15 For they have fled from the swords,
 from the drawn sword,
 from the bent bow,
 and from the stress of battle.

16 For thus the Lord said to me: Within a year, according to the years of a hired worker, all the glory of Kedar will come to an end; 17 and the remaining bows of Kedar's warriors will be few; for the LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken.

[Isaiah 22]

The eight oracle in the series

1 The oracle concerning the valley of vision.

- What do you mean that you have gone up,
 all of you, to the housetops,
 2 you that are full of shoutings,
 tumultuous city, exultant town?
 Your slain are not slain by the sword,
 nor are they dead in battle.
 3 Your rulers have all fled together;
 they were captured without the use of a bow.
 All of you who were found were captured,
 though they had fled far away.
 4 Therefore I said:
 Look away from me,
 let me weep bitter tears;
 do not try to comfort me
 for the destruction of my beloved people.
- 5 For the Lord GOD of hosts has a day of tumult and trampling and confusion
 in the valley of vision,
 a battering down of walls
 and a cry for help to the mountains.
 6 Elam bore the quiver
 with chariots and cavalry,
 and Kir uncovered the shield.
 7 Your choicest valleys were full of chariots,
 and the cavalry took their stand at the gates.
 8 He has taken away the covering of Judah.

On that day you looked to the weapons of the House of the Forest, 9 and you saw that there were many breaches in the city of David, and you collected the waters of the lower pool. 10 You counted the houses of Jerusalem, and you broke down the houses to fortify the wall. 11 You made a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old pool. But you did not look to him who did it, or have regard for him who planned it long ago.

12 In that day the Lord GOD of hosts called to weeping and mourning,
to baldness and putting on sackcloth;

13 but instead there was joy and festivity,
killing oxen and slaughtering sheep,
eating meat and drinking wine.

"Let us eat and drink,
for tomorrow we die."

14 The LORD of hosts has revealed himself in my ears:
Surely this iniquity will not be forgiven you until you die,
says the Lord GOD of hosts.

Shebna and Eliakim

15 Thus says the Lord GOD of hosts: Come, go to this steward, to Shebna, who is master of the household, and say to him: 16 What right do you have here? Who are your relatives here, that you have cut out a tomb here for yourself, cutting a tomb on the height, and carving a habitation for yourself in the rock? 17 The LORD is about to hurl you away violently, my fellow. He will seize firm hold on you, 18 whirl you round and round, and throw you like a ball into a wide land; there you shall die, and there your splendid chariots shall lie, O you disgrace to your master's house! 19 I will thrust you from your office, and you will be pulled down from your post.

20 On that day I will call my servant Eliakim son of Hilkiyah, 21 and will clothe him with your robe and bind your sash on him. I will commit your authority to his hand, and he shall be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. 22 I will place on his shoulder the key of the house of David; he shall open, and no one shall shut; he shall shut, and no one shall open. 23 I will fasten him like a peg in a secure place, and he will become a throne of honor to his ancestral house. 24 And they will hang on him the whole weight of his ancestral house, the offspring and issue, every small vessel, from the cups to all the flagons. 25 On that day, says the LORD of hosts, the peg that was fastened in a secure place will give way; it will be cut down and fall, and the load that was on it will perish, for the LORD has spoken.

[Isaiah 23]

The last of the oracles

1 The oracle concerning Tyre.

Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
 for your fortress is destroyed.
 When they came in from Cyprus
 they learned of it.

2 Be still, O inhabitants of the coast,
 O merchants of Sidon,

your messengers crossed over the sea
 3 and were on the mighty waters;
 your revenue was the grain of Shihor,
 the harvest of the Nile;
 you were the merchant of the nations.

4 Be ashamed, O Sidon, for the sea has spoken,
 the fortress of the sea, saying:

"I have neither labored nor given birth,
 I have neither reared young men
 nor brought up young women."

5 When the report comes to Egypt,
 they will be in anguish over the report about Tyre.

6 Cross over to Tarshish —
 wail, O inhabitants of the coast!

7 Is this your exultant city whose origin is from days of old, whose feet carried her
 to settle far away?

- 8 Who has planned this against Tyre, the bestower of crowns,
 whose merchants were princes,
 whose traders were the honored of the earth?
- 9 The LORD of hosts has planned it —
 to defile the pride of all glory,
 to shame all the honored of the earth.
- 10 Cross over to your own land,
 O ships of Tarshish;
 this is a harbor no more.
- 11 He has stretched out his hand over the sea,
 he has shaken the kingdoms;
 the LORD has given command concerning Canaan
 to destroy its fortresses.
- 12 He said:
 You will exult no longer,
 O oppressed virgin daughter Sidon;
 rise, cross over to Cyprus —
 even there you will have no rest.
- 13 Look at the land of the Chaldeans! This is the people; it was not Assyria. They destined Tyre for wild animals. They erected their siege towers, they tore down her palaces, they made her a ruin.
- 14 Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
 for your fortress is destroyed.
- 15 From that day Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years, the lifetime of one king. At the end of seventy years, it will happen to Tyre as in the song about the prostitute:
- 16 Take a harp,
 go about the city,
 you forgotten prostitute!
 Make sweet melody,
 sing many songs,
 that you may be remembered.
- 17 At the end of seventy years, the LORD will visit Tyre, and she will return to her trade, and will prostitute herself with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. 18 Her merchandise and her wages will be dedicated to the LORD; her profits will not be stored or hoarded, but her merchandise will supply abundant food and fine clothing for those who live in the presence of the LORD.

[Isaiah 24]

Judgment on enemies; impending judgment on the earth

- 1 Now the LORD is about to lay waste the earth and make it desolate, and he will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants.
- 2 And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest;
as with the slave, so with his master;
as with the maid, so with her mistress;
as with the buyer, so with the seller;
as with the lender, so with the borrower;
as with the creditor, so with the debtor.
- 3 The earth shall be utterly laid waste and utterly despoiled;
for the LORD has spoken this word.

- 4 The earth dries up and withers,
the world languishes and withers;
the heavens languish together with the earth.
- 5 The earth lies polluted
under its inhabitants;
for they have transgressed laws,
violated the statutes,
broken the everlasting covenant.
- 6 Therefore a curse devours the earth,
and its inhabitants suffer for their guilt;
therefore the inhabitants of the earth dwindled,
and few people are left.
- 7 The wine dries up,
the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted sigh.
- 8 The mirth of the timbrels is stilled,
the noise of the jubilant has ceased,
the mirth of the lyre is stilled.
- 9 No longer do they drink wine with singing;
strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.

- 10 The city of chaos is broken down,
every house is shut up so that no one can enter.
- 11 There is an outcry in the streets for lack of wine;
all joy has reached its eventide;
the gladness of the earth is banished.
- 12 Desolation is left in the city,
the gates are battered into ruins.
- 13 For thus it shall be on the earth
and among the nations,
as when an olive tree is beaten,
as at the gleaning when the grape harvest is ended.

Joy and condemnation

- 14 They lift up their voices, they sing for joy;
they shout from the west over the majesty of the LORD.
- 15 Therefore in the east give glory to the LORD;
in the coastlands of the sea glorify the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.
- 16 From the ends of the earth we hear songs of praise,
of glory to the Righteous One.
But I say, I pine away,
I pine away. Woe is me!
For the treacherous deal treacherously,
the treacherous deal very treacherously.
- 17 Terror, and the pit, and the snare
are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth!
- 18 Whoever flees at the sound of the terror
shall fall into the pit;
and whoever climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
For the windows of heaven are opened,
and the foundations of the earth tremble.
- 19 The earth is utterly broken,
the earth is torn asunder,
the earth is violently shaken.

- 20 The earth staggers like a drunkard,
 it sways like a hut;
 its transgression lies heavy upon it,
 and it falls, and will not rise again.
- 21 On that day the LORD will punish
 the host of heaven in heaven,
 and on earth the kings of the earth.
- 22 They will be gathered together
 like prisoners in a pit;
 they will be shut up in a prison,
 and after many days they will be punished.
- 23 Then the moon will be abashed,
 and the sun ashamed;
 for the LORD of hosts will reign
 on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, and before his elders he will manifest his glory.

[Isaiah 25]

The first of three psalms of praise

- 1 O LORD, you are my God;
 I will exalt you, I will praise your name;
 for you have done wonderful things,
 plans formed of old, faithful and sure.
- 2 For you have made the city a heap,
 the fortified city a ruin;
 the palace of aliens is a city no more,
 it will never be rebuilt.
- 3 Therefore strong peoples will glorify you;
 cities of ruthless nations will fear you.
- 4 For you have been a refuge to the poor,
 a refuge to the needy in their distress,
 a shelter from the rainstorm and a shade from the heat.
 When the blast of the ruthless was like a winter rainstorm,
- 5 the noise of aliens like heat in a dry place,
 you subdued the heat with the shade of clouds;
 the song of the ruthless was stilled.

The banquet

- 6 On this mountain the LORD of hosts will make for all peoples
 a feast of rich food, a feast of well-aged wines, of rich food filled with marrow, of well-aged wines strained clear.
- 7 And he will destroy on this mountain
 the shroud that is cast over all peoples,
 the sheet that is spread over all nations;
- 8 he will swallow up death forever.
 Then the Lord GOD will wipe away the tears from all faces, and the disgrace of his people he will take away from all the earth, for the LORD has spoken.
- 9 It will be said on that day,
 Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, so that he might save us.
 This is the LORD for whom we have waited;
 let us be glad and rejoice in his salvation.
- 10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain.

Doom in Moab

- The Moabites shall be trodden down in their place
 as straw is trodden down in a dung-pit.
- 11 Though they spread out their hands in the midst of it,
 as swimmers spread out their hands to swim,
 their pride will be laid low despite the struggle of their hands.
- 12 The high fortifications of his walls will be brought down,
 laid low, cast to the ground, even to the dust.

[Isaiah 26]

A psalm of praise of Zion

- 1 On that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:
 We have a strong city;
 he sets up victory
 like walls and bulwarks.

- 2 Open the gates,
 so that the righteous nation that keeps faith
 may enter in.
- 3 Those of steadfast mind you keep in peace —
 in peace because they trust in you.
- 4 Trust in the LORD forever,
 for in the LORD GOD
 you have an everlasting rock.
- 5 For he has brought low
 the inhabitants of the height;
 the lofty city he lays low.
 He lays it low to the ground,
 casts it to the dust.
- 6 The foot tramples it,
 the feet of the poor,
 the steps of the needy.

An apocalyptic psalm

- 7 The way of the righteous is level;
 O Just One, you make smooth the path of the righteous.
- 8 In the path of your judgments,
 O LORD, we wait for you;
 your name and your renown
 are the soul's desire.
- 9 My soul yearns for you in the night,
 my spirit within me earnestly seeks you.
 For when your judgments are in the earth,
 the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness.
- 10 If favor is shown to the wicked,
 they do not learn righteousness;
 in the land of uprightness they deal perversely
 and do not see the majesty of the LORD.
- 11 O LORD, your hand is lifted up,
 but they do not see it.
 Let them see your zeal for your people, and be ashamed.
 Let the fire for your adversaries consume them.

- 12 O LORD, you will ordain peace for us,
for indeed, all that we have done, you have done for us.
- 13 O LORD our God,
other lords besides you have ruled over us,
but we acknowledge your name alone.
- 14 The dead do not live;
shades do not rise —
because you have punished and destroyed them,
and wiped out all memory of them.
- 15 But you have increased the nation, O LORD,
you have increased the nation; you are glorified;
you have enlarged all the borders of the land.
- 16 O LORD, in distress they sought you,
they poured out a prayer
when your chastening was on them.
- 17 Like a woman with child,
who writhes and cries out in her pangs
when she is near her time,
so were we because of you, O LORD; 18 we were with child, we writhed,
but we gave birth only to wind.
We have won no victories on earth,
and no one is born to inhabit the world.
- 19 Your dead shall live, their corpses shall rise.
O dwellers in the dust, awake and sing for joy!
For your dew is a radiant dew,
and the earth will give birth to those long dead.
- 20 Come, my people, enter your chambers,
and shut your doors behind you;
hide yourselves for a little while until the wrath is past.
- 21 For the LORD comes out from his place
to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity;
the earth will disclose the blood shed on it,
and will no longer cover its slain.

[Isaiah 27]

1 On that day the LORD with his cruel and great and strong sword will punish Leviathan the fleeing serpent, Leviathan the twisting serpent, and he will kill the dragon that is in the sea.

The vineyard, Israel, will be restored

2 On that day:

A pleasant vineyard, sing about it!

3 I, the LORD, am its keeper;
every moment I water it.

I guard it night and day
so that no one can harm it;

4 I have no wrath.
If it gives me thorns and briers,
I will march to battle against it.
I will burn it up.

5 Or else let it cling to me for protection,
let it make peace with me,
let it make peace with me.

6 In days to come Jacob shall take root,
Israel shall blossom and put forth shoots,
and fill the whole world with fruit.

Idolatry denounced

7 Has he struck them down as he struck down those who struck them?
Or have they been killed as their killers were killed?

8 By expulsion, by exile you struggled against them;
with his fierce blast he removed them in the day of the east wind.

9 Therefore by this the guilt of Jacob will be expiated, and this will be the full fruit of the removal of his sin:
when he makes all the stones of the altars
like chalkstones crushed to pieces,
no sacred poles or incense altars will remain standing.

- 10 For the fortified city is solitary,
 a habitation deserted and forsaken, like the wilderness;
 the calves graze there,
 there they lie down, and strip its branches.
- 11 When its boughs are dry, they are broken;
 women come and make a fire of them.
 For this is a people without understanding;
 therefore he that made them will not have compassion on them,
 he that formed them will show them no favor.

12 On that day the LORD will thresh from the channel of the Euphrates to the Wadi of Egypt, and you will be gathered one by one, O people of Israel. 13 And on that day a great trumpet will be blown, and those who were lost in the land of Assyria and those who were driven out to the land of Egypt will come and worship the LORD on the holy mountain at Jerusalem.

[Isaiah 28]

Judgment on Israel and Judah; oracles against Israel (Ephraim) and Judah

- 1 Ah, the proud garland of the drunkards of Ephraim,
 and the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
 which is on the head of those bloated with rich food,
 of those overcome with wine!
- 2 See, the Lord has one who is mighty and strong;
 like a storm of hail, a destroying tempest,
 like a storm of mighty, overflowing waters;
 with his hand he will hurl them down to the earth.
- 3 Trampled under foot will be the proud garland of the drunkards of Ephraim.
- 4 And the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
 which is on the head of those bloated with rich food,
 will be like a first-ripe fig before the summer;
 whoever sees it, eats it up
 as soon as it comes to hand.

- 5 In that day the LORD of hosts will be a garland of glory,
and a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of his people;
- 6 and a spirit of justice to the one who sits in judgment,
and strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate.
- 7 These also reel with wine
and stagger with strong drink;
the priest and the prophet reel with strong drink,
they are confused with wine,
they stagger with strong drink;
they err in vision,
they stumble in giving judgment.
- 8 All tables are covered with filthy vomit;
no place is clean.
- 9 "Whom will he teach knowledge,
and to whom will he explain the message?
Those who are weaned from milk,
those taken from the breast?
- 10 For it is precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little."
- 11 Truly, with stammering lip
and with alien tongue
he will speak to this people,
- 12 to whom he has said,
"This is rest;
give rest to the weary;
and this is repose";
yet they would not hear.
- 13 Therefore the word of the LORD will be to them,
"Precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little;"
in order that they may go, and fall backward,
and be broken, and snared, and taken.

- 14 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, you scoffers who rule this people in Jerusalem.
- 15 Because you have said, "We have made a covenant with death,
and with Sheol we have an agreement;
when the overwhelming scourge passes through
it will not come to us;
for we have made lies our refuge,
and in falsehood we have taken shelter";
- 16 therefore thus says the Lord GOD,
See, I am laying in Zion a foundation stone,
a tested stone,
a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation:
"One who trusts will not panic."
- 17 And I will make justice the line,
and righteousness the plummet;
hail will sweep away the refuge of lies,
and waters will overwhelm the shelter.
- 18 Then your covenant with death will be annulled,
and your agreement with Sheol will not stand;
when the overwhelming scourge passes through
you will be beaten down by it.
- 19 As often as it passes through, it will take you;
for morning by morning it will pass through,
by day and by night;
and it will be sheer terror to understand the message.
- 20 For the bed is too short to stretch oneself on it,
and the covering too narrow to wrap oneself in it.
- 21 For the LORD will rise up as on Mount Perazim,
he will rage as in the valley of Gibeon
to do his deed — strange is his deed! —
and to work his work — alien is his work!
- 22 Now therefore do not scoff,
or your bonds will be made stronger;
for I have heard a decree of destruction
from the Lord GOD of hosts upon the whole land.
- 23 Listen, and hear my voice;
Pay attention, and hear my speech.

- 24 Do those who plow for sowing plow continually?
Do they continually open and harrow their ground?
- 25 When they have leveled its surface,
do they not scatter dill, sow cummin,
and plant wheat in rows
and barley in its proper place,
and spelt as the border?
- 26 For they are well instructed;
their God teaches them.
- 27 Dill is not threshed with a threshing sledge,
nor is a cart wheel rolled over cummin;
but dill is beaten out with a stick,
and cummin with a rod.
- 28 Grain is crushed for bread,
but one does not thresh it forever;
one drives the cart wheel and horses over it,
but does not pulverize it.
- 29 This also comes from the LORD of hosts;
he is wonderful in counsel,
and excellent in wisdom.

[Isaiah 29]
Siege of Jerusalem

- 1 Ah, Ariel, Ariel,
the city where David encamped!
Add year to year;
let the festivals run their round.
- 2 Yet I will distress Ariel,
and there shall be moaning and lamentation,
and Jerusalem shall be to me like an Ariel.
- 3 And like David I will encamp against you;
I will besiege you with towers
and raise siegeworks against you.

4 Then deep from the earth you shall speak,
 from low in the dust your words shall come;
 your voice shall come from the ground like the voice of a ghost,
 and your speech shall whisper out of the dust.

5 But the multitude of your foes shall be like small dust,
 and the multitude of tyrants like flying chaff.

And in an instant, suddenly,

6 you will be visited by the LORD of hosts
 with thunder and earthquake and great noise, with whirlwind and tempest, and the flame of a devouring fire.

7 And the multitude of all the nations that fight against Ariel, all that fight against her and her stronghold, and who distress her, shall be like a dream, a vision of the night.

8 Just as when a hungry person dreams of eating and wakes up still hungry,
 or a thirsty person dreams of drinking and wakes up faint, still thirsty, so shall the multitude of all the nations be that fight against Mount Zion.

Failure of the warning

9 Stupefy yourselves and be in a stupor,
 blind yourselves and be blind!
 Be drunk, but not from wine;
 stagger, but not from strong drink!

10 For the LORD has poured out upon you
 a spirit of deep sleep;
 he has closed your eyes, you prophets,
 and covered your heads, you seers.

11 The vision of all this has become for you like the words of a sealed document. If it is given to those who can read, with the command, "Read this," they say, "We cannot, for it is sealed." 12 And if it is given to those who cannot read, saying, "Read this," they say, "We cannot read."

- 13 The Lord said:
 Because these people draw near with their mouths
 and honor me with their lips,
 while their hearts are far from me,
 and their worship of me is a human commandment
 learned by rote;
- 14 so I will again do
 amazing things with this people,
 shocking and amazing.
 The wisdom of their wise shall perish,
 and the discernment of the discerning shall be hidden.
- 15 Ha! You who hide a plan too deep for the LORD, whose deeds are in the dark,
 and who say, "Who sees us? Who knows us?"
- 16 You turn things upside down!
 Shall the potter be regarded as the clay?
 Shall the thing made say of its maker,
 "He did not make me";
 or the thing formed say of the one who formed it,
 "He has no understanding"?

A later assurance of a hopeful future

- 17 Shall not Lebanon in a very little while become a fruitful field,
 and the fruitful field be regarded as a forest?
- 18 On that day the deaf shall hear
 the words of a scroll,
 and out of their gloom and darkness
 the eyes of the blind shall see.
- 19 The meek shall obtain fresh joy in the LORD, and the neediest people shall exult in the Holy One of Israel.
- 20 For the tyrant shall be no more,
 and the scoffer shall cease to be;
 all those alert to do evil shall be cut off —
- 21 those who cause a person to lose a lawsuit,
 who set a trap for the arbiter in the gate,
 and without grounds deny justice to the one in the right.

22 Therefore thus says the LORD, who redeemed Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob:

No longer shall Jacob be ashamed,
no longer shall his face grow pale.

23 For when he sees his children,
the work of my hands, in his midst,
they will sanctify my name;
they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob,
and will stand in awe of the God of Israel.

24 And those who err in spirit will come to understanding,
and those who grumble will accept instruction.

[Isaiah 30]

Negotiations with Egypt are condemned

1 Oh, rebellious children, says the LORD, who carry out a plan, but not mine;
who make an alliance, but against my will,
adding sin to sin;

2 who set out to go down to Egypt
without asking for my counsel,
to take refuge in the protection of Pharaoh,
and to seek shelter in the shadow of Egypt;

3 Therefore the protection of Pharaoh shall become your shame,
and the shelter in the shadow of Egypt your humiliation.

4 For though his officials are at Zoan
and his envoys reach Hanes,

5 everyone comes to shame
through a people that cannot profit them,
that brings neither help nor profit,
but shame and disgrace.

- 6 An oracle concerning the animals of the Negeb.
Through a land of trouble and distress,
of lioness and roaring lion,
of viper and flying serpent,
they carry their riches on the backs of donkeys,
and their treasures on the humps of camels,
to a people that cannot profit them.
- 7 For Egypt's help is worthless and empty,
therefore I have called her,
"Rahab who sits still."

The record of rejection

- 8 Go now, write it before them on a tablet,
and inscribe it in a book,
so that it may be for the time to come
as a witness forever.
- 9 For they are a rebellious people,
faithless children,
children who will not hear
the instruction of the LORD;
- 10 who say to the seers, "Do not see";
and to the prophets, "Do not prophesy to us what is right;
speak to us smooth things,
prophesy illusions,
- 11 leave the way, turn aside from the path,
let us hear no more about the Holy One of Israel."
- 12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:
Because you reject this word,
and put your trust in oppression and deceit,
and rely on them;
- 13 therefore this iniquity shall become for you like a break in a high wall, bulging out, and about to collapse,
whose crash comes suddenly, in an instant;

14 its breaking is like that of a potter's vessel that is smashed so ruthlessly that among its fragments not a shard is found for taking fire from the hearth,
 or dipping water out of the cistern.

15 For thus said the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel:
 In returning and rest you shall be saved;
 in quietness and in trust shall be your strength.

But you refused 16 and said,
 "No! We will flee upon horses" —
 therefore you shall flee!

and, "We will ride upon swift steeds" —
 therefore your pursuers shall be swift!

17 A thousand shall flee at the threat of one,
 at the threat of five you shall flee,
 until you are left
 like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain,
 like a signal on a hill.

An oracle of promise followed by two prose comments

18 Therefore the LORD waits to be gracious to you;
 therefore he will rise up to show mercy to you.
 For the LORD is a God of justice;
 blessed are all those who wait for him.

19 Truly, O people in Zion, inhabitants of Jerusalem, you shall weep no more. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry; when he hears it, he will answer you. 20 Though the Lord may give you the bread of adversity and the water of affliction, yet your Teacher will not hide himself any more, but your eyes shall see your Teacher. 21 And when you turn to the right or when you turn to the left, your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way; walk in it." 22 Then you will defile your silver-covered idols and your gold-plated images. You will scatter them like filthy rags; you will say to them, "Away with you!"

23 He will give rain for the seed with which you sow the ground, and grain, the produce of the ground, which will be rich and plenteous. On that day your cattle will graze in broad pastures; 24 and the oxen and donkeys that till the ground will eat silage, which has been winnowed with shovel and fork. 25 On every lofty mountain and every high hill there will be brooks running with water — on a day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall. 26 Moreover the light of the moon will be like the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, like the light of seven days, on the day when the LORD binds up the injuries of his people, and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.

The destruction of Assyria

27 See, the name of the LORD comes from far away, burning with his anger, and in thick rising smoke;
 his lips are full of indignation,
 and his tongue is like a devouring fire;
 28 his breath is like an overflowing stream that reaches up to the neck —
 to sift the nations with the sieve of destruction, and to place on the jaws of the peoples a bridle
 that leads them astray.

29 You shall have a song as in the night when a holy festival is kept; and gladness of heart, as when one sets out to the sound of the flute to go to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel. 30 And the LORD will cause his majestic voice to be heard and the descending blow of his arm to be seen, in furious anger and a flame of devouring fire, with a cloudburst and tempest and hailstones. 31 The Assyrian will be terror-stricken at the voice of the LORD, when he strikes with his rod. 32 And every stroke of the staff of punishment that the LORD lays upon him will be to the sound of timbrels and lyres; battling with brandished arm he will fight with him. 33 For his burning place has long been prepared; truly it is made ready for the king, its pyre made deep and wide, with fire and wood in abundance; the breath of the LORD, like a stream of sulfur, kindles it.

[Isaiah 31]Another denunciation of the Egyptian alliance

- 1 Alas for those who go down to Egypt for help
and who rely on horses,
who trust in chariots because they are many
and in horsemen because they are very strong, but do not look to the Holy One of Israel
or consult the LORD!
- 2 Yet he too is wise and brings disaster;
he does not call back his words,
but will rise against the house of the evildoers,
and against the helpers of those who work iniquity.
- 3 The Egyptians are human, and not God;
their horses are flesh, and not spirit.
When the LORD stretches out his hand,
the helper will stumble, and the one helped will fall,
and they will all perish together.

God's deliverance of Jerusalem from Assyria

- 4 For thus the LORD said to me,
As a lion or a young lion growls over its prey,
and — when a band of shepherds is called out against it — is not terrified by their shouting or daunted at their noise,
so the LORD of hosts will come down to fight upon Mount Zion and upon its hill.
- 5 Like birds hovering overhead, so the LORD of hosts
will protect Jerusalem;
he will protect and deliver it,
he will spare and rescue it.

6 Turn back to him whom you have deeply betrayed, O people of Israel. 7 For on that day all of you shall throw away your idols of silver and idols of gold, which your hands have sinfully made for you.

8 "Then the Assyrian shall fall by a sword, not of mortals;
and a sword, not of humans, shall devour him;
he shall flee from the sword,
and his young men shall be put to forced labor.

9 His rock shall pass away in terror,
and his officers desert the standard in panic,"
says the LORD, whose fire is in Zion,
and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

[Isaiah 32]

The ideal commonwealth of the future

1 See, a king will reign in righteousness, and princes will rule with justice.

2 Each will be like a hiding place from the wind,
a covert from the tempest,
like streams of water in a dry place,
like the shade of a great rock in a weary land.

3 Then the eyes of those who have sight will not be closed,
and the ears of those who have hearing will listen.

4 The minds of the rash will have good judgment,
and the tongues of stammerers will speak readily and distinctly.

5 A fool will no longer be called noble,
nor a villain said to be honorable.

6 For fools speak folly,
and their minds plot iniquity:
to practice ungodliness,
to utter error concerning the LORD,
to leave the craving of the hungry unsatisfied,
and to deprive the thirsty of drink.

7 The villainies of villains are evil;
they devise wicked devices
to ruin the poor with lying words,
even when the plea of the needy is right.

8 But those who are noble plan noble things,
and by noble things they stand.

Failure of the harvest and restoration of nature

9 Rise up, you women who are at ease, hear my voice;
you complacent daughters, listen to my speech.

10 In little more than a year
you will shudder, you complacent ones;
for the vintage will fail,
the fruit harvest will not come.

11 Tremble, you women who are at ease,
shudder, you complacent ones;
strip, and make yourselves bare,
and put sackcloth on your loins.

12 Beat your breasts for the pleasant fields,
for the fruitful vine,

13 for the soil of my people growing up in thorns and briars;
yes, for all the joyous houses
in the jubilant city.

14 For the palace will be forsaken,
the populous city deserted;
the hill and the watchtower
will become dens forever,
the joy of wild asses,
a pasture for flocks;

15 until a spirit from on high is poured out on us,
and the wilderness becomes a fruitful field,
and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.

The Peace of God's Reign

16 Then justice will dwell in the wilderness,
and righteousness abide in the fruitful field.

17 The effect of righteousness will be peace,
and the result of righteousness, quietness and trust forever.

- 18 My people will abide in a peaceful habitation,
 in secure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.
- 19 The forest will disappear completely,
 and the city will be utterly laid low.
- 20 Happy will you be who sow beside every stream,
 who let the ox and the donkey range freely.

[Isaiah 33]

A prophetic liturgy, consisting of entreaties and oracles

- 1 Ah, you destroyer,
 who yourself have not been destroyed;
 you treacherous one,
 with whom no one has dealt treacherously!
 When you have ceased to destroy,
 you will be destroyed;
 and when you have stopped dealing treacherously,
 you will be dealt with treacherously.
- 2 O LORD, be gracious to us; we wait for you.
 Be our arm every morning,
 our salvation in the time of trouble.
- 3 At the sound of tumult, peoples fled;
 before your majesty, nations scattered.
- 4 Spoil was gathered as the caterpillar gathers;
 as locusts leap, they leaped upon it.
- 5 The LORD is exalted, he dwells on high;
 he filled Zion with justice and righteousness;
- 6 he will be the stability of your times,
 abundance of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge;
 the fear of the LORD is Zion's treasure.
- 7 Listen! the valiant cry in the streets;
 the envoys of peace weep bitterly.

- 8 The highways are deserted,
travelers have quit the road.
The treaty is broken,
its oaths are despised,
its obligation is disregarded.
- 9 The land mourns and languishes;
Lebanon is confounded and withers away;
Sharon is like a desert;
and Bashan and Carmel shake off their leaves.
- 10 "Now I will arise," says the LORD,
"now I will lift myself up;
now I will be exalted.
- 11 You conceive chaff, you bring forth stubble;
your breath is a fire that will consume you.
- 12 And the peoples will be as if burned to lime,
like thorns cut down, that are burned in the fire."
- 13 Hear, you who are far away, what I have done;
and you who are near, acknowledge my might.
- 14 The sinners in Zion are afraid;
trembling has seized the godless:
"Who among us can live with the devouring fire?
Who among us can live with everlasting flames?"
- 15 Those who walk righteously and speak uprightly,
who despise the gain of oppression,
who wave away a bribe instead of accepting it,
who stop their ears from hearing of bloodshed
and shut their eyes from looking on evil,
- 16 they will live on the heights;
their refuge will be the fortresses of rocks;
their food will be supplied, their water assured.
- 17 Your eyes will see the king in his beauty;
they will behold a land that stretches far away.
- 18 Your mind will muse on the terror:
"Where is the one who counted?
Where is the one who weighed the tribute?
Where is the one who counted the towers?"

- 19 No longer will you see the insolent people,
 the people of an obscure speech that you cannot comprehend,
 stammering in a language that you cannot understand.
- 20 Look on Zion, the city of our appointed festivals!
 Your eyes will see Jerusalem,
 a quiet habitation, an immovable tent,
 whose stakes will never be pulled up,
 and none of whose ropes will be broken.
- 21 But there the LORD in majesty will be for us
 a place of broad rivers and streams,
 where no galley with oars can go,
 nor stately ship can pass.
- 22 For the LORD is our judge, the LORD is our ruler,
 the LORD is our king; he will save us.
- 23 Your rigging hangs loose;
 it cannot hold the mast firm in its place,
 or keep the sail spread out.
 Then prey and spoil in abundance will be divided;
 even the lame will fall to plundering.
- 24 And no inhabitant will say, "I am sick";
 the people who live there will be forgiven their iniquity.

[Isaiah 34]

Oracle against Edom

- 1 Draw near, O nations, to hear;
 O peoples, give heed!
 Let the earth hear, and all that fills it;
 the world, and all that comes from it.
- 2 For the LORD is enraged against all the nations,
 and furious against all their hordes;
 he has doomed them, has given them over for slaughter.
- 3 Their slain shall be cast out,
 and the stench of their corpses shall rise;
 the mountains shall flow with their blood.

- 4 All the host of heaven shall rot away,
and the skies roll up like a scroll.
All their host shall wither
like a leaf withering on a vine,
or fruit withering on a fig tree.
- 5 When my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens,
lo, it will descend upon Edom,
upon the people I have doomed to judgment.
- 6 The LORD has a sword; it is sated with blood,
it is gorged with fat,
with the blood of lambs and goats,
with the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
- 7 Wild oxen shall fall with them,
and young steers with the mighty bulls.
Their land shall be soaked with blood,
and their soil made rich with fat.
- 8 For the LORD has a day of vengeance,
a year of vindication by Zion's cause.
- 9 And the streams of Edom shall be turned into pitch,
and her soil into sulfur;
her land shall become burning pitch.
- 10 Night and day it shall not be quenched;
its smoke shall go up forever.
From generation to generation it shall lie waste;
no one shall pass through it forever and ever.
- 11 But the hawk and the hedgehog shall possess it;
the owl and the raven shall live in it.
He shall stretch the line of confusion over it,
and the plummet of chaos over its nobles.
- 12 They shall name it No Kingdom There,
and all its princes shall be nothing.

- 13 Thorns shall grow over its strongholds,
 nettles and thistles in its fortresses.
 It shall be the haunt of jackals,
 an abode for ostriches.
- 14 Wildcats shall meet with hyenas,
 goat-demons shall call to each other;
 there too Lilith shall repose,
 and find a place to rest.
- 15 There shall the owl nest
 and lay and hatch and brood in its shadow;
 there too the buzzards shall gather,
 each one with its mate.
- 16 Seek and read from the book of the LORD:
 Not one of these shall be missing;
 none shall be without its mate.
 For the mouth of the LORD has commanded,
 and his spirit has gathered them.
- 17 He has cast the lot for them,
 his hand has portioned it out to them with the line;
 they shall possess it forever,
 from generation to generation they shall live in it.

[Isaiah 35]

A linking chapter that stands in contrast to ch 34

- 1 The wilderness and the dry land shall be glad,
 the desert shall rejoice and blossom;
 like the crocus 2 it shall blossom abundantly,
 and rejoice with joy and singing.
 The glory of Lebanon shall be given to it,
 the majesty of Carmel and Sharon.
 They shall see the glory of the LORD,
 the majesty of our God.
- 3 Strengthen the weak hands,
 and make firm the feeble knees.

- 4 Say to those who are of a fearful heart,
 "Be strong, do not fear!
Here is your God.
 He will come with vengeance,
with terrible recompense.
 He will come and save you."
- 5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened,
 and the ears of the deaf unstopped;
6 then the lame shall leap like a deer,
 and the tongue of the speechless sing for joy.
For waters shall break forth in the wilderness,
 and streams in the desert;
7 the burning sand shall become a pool,
 and the thirsty ground springs of water;
the haunt of jackals shall become a swamp,
 the grass shall become reeds and rushes.
- 8 A highway shall be there,
 and it shall be called the Holy Way;
the unclean shall not travel on it,
 but it shall be for God's people;
no traveler, not even fools, shall go astray.
- 9 No lion shall be there,
 nor shall any ravenous beast come up on it;
they shall not be found there,
 but the redeemed shall walk there.
- 10 And the ransomed of the LORD shall return,
 and come to Zion with singing;
everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
 they shall obtain joy and gladness,
and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

[Isaiah 36]Historical appendix; The Assyrian army before Jerusalem

1 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, King Sennacherib of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them. 2 The king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh from Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem, with a great army. He stood by the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Fuller's Field. 3 And there came out to him Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was in charge of the palace, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder.

4 The Rabshakeh said to them, "Say to Hezekiah: Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you base this confidence of yours? 5 Do you think that mere words are strategy and power for war? On whom do you now rely, that you have rebelled against me? 6 See, you are relying on Egypt, that broken reed of a staff, which will pierce the hand of anyone who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who rely on him. 7 But if you say to me, 'We rely on the LORD our God,' is it not he whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, saying to Judah and to Jerusalem, 'You shall worship before this altar'? 8 Come now, make a wager with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders on them. 9 How then can you repulse a single captain among the least of my master's servants, when you rely on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? 10 Moreover, is it without the LORD that I have come up against this land to destroy it? The LORD said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it."

11 Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the Rabshakeh, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it; do not speak to us in the language of Judah within the hearing of the people who are on the wall." 12 But the Rabshakeh said, "Has my master sent me to speak these words to your master and to you, and not to the people sitting on the wall, who are doomed with you to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?"

13 Then the Rabshakeh stood and called out in a loud voice in the language of Judah, "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! 14 Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you. 15 Do not let Hezekiah make you rely on the LORD by saying, The LORD will surely deliver us; this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.' 16 Do not listen to Hezekiah; for thus says the king of Assyria: 'Make your peace with me and come out to me; then everyone of you will eat from your own vine and your own fig tree and drink water from your own cistern, 17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18 Do not let Hezekiah mislead you by saying, The LORD will save us. Has any of the gods of the nations saved their land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? 19 Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? 20 Who among all the gods of these countries have saved their countries out of my hand, that the LORD should save Jerusalem out of my hand?'"

21 But they were silent and answered him not a word, for the king's command was, "Do not answer him." 22 Then Eliakim son of Hilkiyah, who was in charge of the palace, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn, and told him the words of the Rabshakeh.

[Isaiah 37]

The failure of the siege

1 When King Hezekiah heard it, he tore his clothes, covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. 2 And he sent Eliakim, who was in charge of the palace, and Shebna the secretary, and the senior priests, covered with sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. 3 They said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah, This day is a day of distress, of rebuke, and of disgrace; children have come to the birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth. 4 It may be that the LORD your God heard the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to mock the living God, and will rebuke the words that the LORD your God has heard; therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left."

5 When the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah, 6 Isaiah said to them, "Say to your master, 'Thus says the LORD: Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled me. 7 I myself will put a spirit in him, so that he shall hear a rumor, and return to his own land; I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.'"

8 The Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah; for he had heard that the king had left Lachish. 9 Now the king heard concerning King Tirhakah of Ethiopia, "He has set out to fight against you." When he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, 10 "Thus shall you speak to King Hezekiah of Judah: Do not let your God on whom you rely deceive you by promising that Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria. 11 See, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, destroying them utterly. Shall you be delivered? 12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them, the nations that my predecessors destroyed, Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Telassar? 13 Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?"

14 Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers and read it; then Hezekiah went up to the house of the LORD and spread it before the LORD. 15 And Hezekiah prayed to the LORD, saying: 16 "O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, who are enthroned above the cherubim, you are God, you alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; you have made heaven and earth. 17 Incline your ear, O LORD, and hear; open your eyes, O LORD, and see; hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to mock the living God. 18 Truly, O LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their lands, 19 and have hurled their gods into the fire, though they were no gods, but the work of human hands — wood and stone — and so they were destroyed. 20 So now, O LORD our God, save us from his hand, so that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are the LORD."

21 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying: "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Because you have prayed to me concerning

King Sennacherib of Assyria, 22 this is the word that the LORD has spoken concerning him:

She despises you, she scorns you —
virgin daughter Zion;
she tosses her head — behind your back,
daughter Jerusalem.

23 "Whom have you mocked and reviled?
Against whom have you raised your voice
and haughtily lifted your eyes?
Against the Holy One of Israel!

24 By your servants you have mocked the Lord,
and you have said, 'With my many chariots
I have gone up the heights of the mountains,
to the far recesses of Lebanon;
I felled its tallest cedars,
its choicest cypresses;
I came to its remotest height,
its densest forest.

25 I dug wells
and drank waters,
I dried up with the sole of my foot
all the streams of Egypt.'

26 "Have you not heard that I determined it long ago?
I planned from days of old
what now I bring to pass,
that you should make fortified cities
crash into heaps of ruins,

27 while their inhabitants, shorn of strength,
are dismayed and confounded;
they have become like plants of the field
and like tender grass,
like grass on the housetops,
blighted before it is grown.

28 "I know your rising up and your sitting down,
your going out and coming in,
and your raging against me.

29 Because you have raged against me
and your arrogance has come to my ears,
I will put my hook in your nose
and my bit in your mouth;
I will turn you back on the way
by which you came.

30 "And this shall be the sign for you: This year eat what grows of itself, and in the second year what springs from that; then in the third year sow, reap, plant vineyards, and eat their fruit. 31 The surviving remnant of the house of Judah shall again take root downward, and bear fruit upward; 32 for from Jerusalem a remnant shall go out, and from Mount Zion a band of survivors. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

33 "Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria: He shall not come into this city, shoot an arrow there, come before it with a shield, or cast up a siege ramp against it. 34 By the way that he came, by the same he shall return; he shall not come into this city, says the LORD. 35 For I will defend this city to save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David."

36 Then the angel of the LORD set out and struck down one hundred eighty-five thousand in the camp of the Assyrians; when morning dawned, they were all dead bodies. 37 Then King Sennacherib of Assyria left, went home, and lived at Nineveh. 38 As he was worshiping in the house of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer killed him with the sword, and they escaped into the land of Ararat. His son Esar-haddon succeeded him.

[Isaiah 38]Hezekiah's sickness and recovery

1 In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death. The prophet Isaiah son of Amoz came to him, and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: Set your house in order, for you shall die; you shall not recover." 2 Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the LORD: 3 "Remember now, O LORD, I implore you, how I have walked before you in faithfulness with a whole heart, and have done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

4 Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah: 5 "Go and say to Hezekiah, Thus says the LORD, the God of your ancestor David: I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears; I will add fifteen years to your life. 6 I will deliver you and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria, and defend this city.

7 "This is the sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing that he has promised: 8 See, I will make the shadow cast by the declining sun on the dial of Ahaz turn back ten steps." So the sun turned back on the dial the ten steps by which it had declined.

9 A writing of King Hezekiah of Judah, after he had been sick and had recovered from his sickness:

10 I said: In the noontide of my days

I must depart;

I am consigned to the gates of Sheol

for the rest of my years.

11 I said, I shall not see the LORD

in the land of the living;

I shall look upon mortals no more

among the inhabitants of the world.

12 My dwelling is plucked up and removed from me

like a shepherd's tent;

like a weaver I have rolled up my life;

he cuts me off from the loom;

from day to night you bring me to an end;

- 13 I cry for help until morning;
like a lion he breaks all my bones;
from day to night you bring me to an end.
- 14 Like a swallow or a crane I clamor,
I moan like a dove.
My eyes are weary with looking upward.
O Lord, I am oppressed; be my security!
- 15 But what can I say? For he has spoken to me, and he himself has done it.
All my sleep has fled
because of the bitterness of my soul.
- 16 O Lord, by these things people live,
and in all these is the life of my spirit.
Oh, restore me to health and make me live!
- 17 Surely it was for my welfare
that I had great bitterness;
but you have held back my life
from the pit of destruction, for you have cast all my sins
behind your back.
- 18 For Sheol cannot thank you,
death cannot praise you;
those who go down to the Pit cannot hope
for your faithfulness.
- 19 The living, the living, they thank you,
as I do this day;
fathers make known to children
your faithfulness.
- 20 The LORD will save me,
and we will sing to stringed instruments
all the days of our lives,
at the house of the LORD.

21 Now Isaiah had said, "Let them take a lump of figs, and apply it to the boil, so that he may recover." 22 Hezekiah also had said, "What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?"

[Isaiah 39]

The Babylonian delegation

1 At that time King Merodach-baladan son of Baladan of Babylon sent envoys with letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. 2 Hezekiah welcomed them; he showed them his treasure house, the silver, the gold, the spices, the precious oil, his whole armory, all that was found in his storehouses. There was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them. 3 Then the prophet Isaiah came to King Hezekiah and said to him, "What did these men say? From where did they come to you?" Hezekiah answered, "They have come to me from a far country, from Babylon." 4 He said, "What have they seen in your house?" Hezekiah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing in my storehouses that I did not show them."

5 Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: 6 Days are coming when all that is in your house, and that which your ancestors have stored up until this day, shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left, says the LORD. 7 Some of your own sons who are born to you shall be taken away; they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." 8 Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD that you have spoken is good." For he thought, "There will be peace and security in my days."

[Isaiah 40]Chs 40-55: Book of the Consolation of Israel ("Second Isaiah");
a new epoch is announced

- 1 Comfort, O comfort my people,
 says your God.
- 2 Speak tenderly to Jerusalem,
 and cry to her
 that she has served her term,
 that her penalty is paid,
 that she has received from the LORD's hand
 double for all her sins.
- 3 A voice cries out:
 "In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD,
 make straight in the desert a highway for our God.
- 4 Every valley shall be lifted up,
 and every mountain and hill be made low;
 the uneven ground shall become level,
 and the rough places a plain.
- 5 Then the glory of the LORD shall be revealed,
 and all people shall see it together,
 for the mouth of the LORD has spoken."
- 6 A voice says, "Cry out!"
 And I said, "What shall I cry?"
 All people are grass,
 their constancy is like the flower of the field.
- 7 The grass withers, the flower fades,
 when the breath of the LORD blows upon it;
 surely the people are grass.
- 8 The grass withers, the flower fades;
 but the word of our God will stand forever.

- 9 Get you up to a high mountain,
 O Zion, herald of good tidings;
 lift up your voice with strength,
 O Jerusalem, herald of good tidings,
 lift it up, do not fear;
 say to the cities of Judah,
 "Here is your God!"
- 10 See, the Lord GOD comes with might,
 and his arm rules for him;
 his reward is with him,
 and his recompense before him.
- 11 He will feed his flock like a shepherd;
 he will gather the lambs in his arms,
 and carry them in his bosom,
 and gently lead the mother sheep.

The incomparability of the Lord as creator deity

- 12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand and marked off the heavens with a span,
 enclosed the dust of the earth in a measure,
 and weighed the mountains in scales
 and the hills in a balance?
- 13 Who has directed the spirit of the LORD,
 or as his counselor has instructed him?
- 14 Whom did he consult for his enlightenment,
 and who taught him the path of justice?
 Who taught him knowledge,
 and showed him the way of understanding?
- 15 Even the nations are like a drop from a bucket,
 and are accounted as dust on the scales;
 see, he takes up the isles like fine dust.
- 16 Lebanon would not provide fuel enough,
 nor are its animals enough for a burnt offering.
- 17 All the nations are as nothing before him;
 they are accounted by him as less than nothing and emptiness.

- 18 To whom then will you liken God,
or what likeness compare with him?
- 19 An idol? — A workman casts it,
and a goldsmith overlays it with gold,
and casts for it silver chains.
- 20 As a gift one chooses mulberry wood
— wood that will not rot —
then seeks out a skilled artisan to set up an image that will not topple.
- 21 Have you not known? Have you not heard?
Has it not been told you from the beginning?
Have you not understood from the foundations of the earth?
- 22 It is he who sits above the circle of the earth,
and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers;
who stretches out the heavens like a curtain,
and spreads them like a tent to live in;
- 23 who brings princes to naught,
and makes the rulers of the earth as nothing.
- 24 Scarcely are they planted, scarcely sown,
scarcely has their stem taken root in the earth,
when he blows upon them, and they wither,
and the tempest carries them off like stubble.
- 25 To whom then will you compare me,
or who is my equal? says the Holy One.
- 26 Lift up your eyes on high and see:
Who created these?
He who brings out their host and numbers them,
calling them all by name;
because he is great in strength,
mighty in power,
not one is missing.

- 27 Why do you say, O Jacob,
and speak, O Israel,
"My way is hidden from the LORD,
and my right is disregarded by my God"?
- 28 Have you not known? Have you not heard?
The LORD is the everlasting God,
the Creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary;
his understanding is unsearchable.
- 29 He gives power to the faint,
and strengthens the powerless.
- 30 Even youths will faint and be weary,
and the young will fall exhausted;
- 31 but those who wait for the LORD shall renew their strength,
they shall mount up with wings like eagles,
they shall run and not be weary,
they shall walk and not faint.

[Isaiah 41]

A challenge issued to the nations

- 1 Listen to me in silence, O coastlands;
let the peoples renew their strength;
let them approach, then let them speak;
let us together draw near for judgment.
- 2 Who has roused a victor from the east,
summoned him to his service?
He delivers up nations to him,
and tramples kings under foot;
he makes them like dust with his sword,
like driven stubble with his bow.
- 3 He pursues them and passes on safely,
scarcely touching the path with his feet.
- 4 Who has performed and done this,
calling the generations from the beginning?
I, the LORD, am first,
and will be with the last.

- 5 The coastlands have seen and are afraid,
the ends of the earth tremble;
they have drawn near and come.
- 6 Each one helps the other,
saying to one another, "Take courage!"
- 7 The artisan encourages the goldsmith,
and the one who smoothes with the hammer encourages the one who strikes the anvil, saying of the soldering, "It is good";
and they fasten it with nails so that it cannot be moved.
- 8 But you, Israel, my servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,
the offspring of Abraham, my friend;
- 9 you whom I took from the ends of the earth,
and called from its farthest corners,
saying to you, "You are my servant,
I have chosen you and not cast you off";
- 10 do not fear, for I am with you,
do not be afraid, for I am your God;
I will strengthen you, I will help you,
I will uphold you with my victorious right hand.

Israel is assured of God's help

- 11 Yes, all who are incensed against you shall be ashamed and disgraced;
those who strive against you shall be as nothing and shall perish.
- 12 You shall seek those who contend with you,
but you shall not find them;
those who war against you shall be as nothing at all.
- 13 For I, the LORD your God,
hold your right hand;
it is I who say to you, "Do not fear,
I will help you."

- 14 Do not fear, you worm Jacob,
you insect Israel!
I will help you, says the LORD;
your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel.
- 15 Now, I will make of you a threshing sledge,
sharp, new, and having teeth;
you shall thresh the mountains and crush them,
and you shall make the hills like chaff.
- 16 You shall winnow them and the wind shall carry them away,
and the tempest shall scatter them.
Then you shall rejoice in the LORD;
in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.
- 17 When the poor and needy seek water,
and there is none,
and their tongue is parched with thirst,
I the LORD will answer them,
I the God of Israel will not forsake them.
- 18 I will open rivers on the bare heights,
and fountains in the midst of the valleys;
I will make the wilderness a pool of water,
and the dry land springs of water.
- 19 I will put in the wilderness the cedar,
the acacia, the myrtle, and the olive;
I will set in the desert the cypress,
the plane and the pine together,
- 20 so that all may see and know,
all may consider and understand,
that the hand of the LORD has done this,
the Holy One of Israel has created it.

A challenge addressed to the gods of other lands

- 21 Set forth your case, says the LORD;
bring your proofs, says the King of Jacob.

- 22 Let them bring them, and tell us
what is to happen.
Tell us the former things, what they are,
so that we may consider them,
and that we may know their outcome;
or declare to us the things to come.
- 23 Tell us what is to come hereafter,
that we may know that you are gods;
do good, or do harm,
that we may be afraid and terrified.
- 24 You, indeed, are nothing
and your work is nothing at all;
whoever chooses you is an abomination.
- 25 I stirred up one from the north, and he has come,
from the rising of the sun he was summoned by name.
He shall trample on rulers as on mortar,
as the potter treads clay.
- 26 Who declared it from the beginning, so that we might know,
and beforehand, so that we might say, "He is right"?
There was no one who declared it, none who proclaimed,
none who heard your words.
- 27 I first have declared it to Zion,
and I give to Jerusalem a herald of good tidings.
- 28 But when I look there is no one;
among these there is no counselor
who, when I ask, gives an answer.
- 29 No, they are all a delusion;
their works are nothing;
their images are empty wind.

[Isaiah 42]The LORD's servant

- 1 Here is my servant, whom I uphold,
my chosen, in whom my soul delights;
I have put my spirit upon him;
he will bring forth justice to the nations.

- 2 He will not cry or lift up his voice,
or make it heard in the street;
- 3 a bruised reed he will not break,
and a dimly burning wick he will not quench;
he will faithfully bring forth justice.
- 4 He will not grow faint or be crushed
until he has established justice in the earth;
and the coastlands wait for his teaching.
- 5 Thus says God, the LORD,
who created the heavens and stretched them out,
who spread out the earth and what comes from it,
who gives breath to the people upon it
and spirit to those who walk in it:
- 6 I am the LORD, I have called you in righteousness,
I have taken you by the hand and kept you;
I have given you as a covenant to the people,
a light to the nations,
- 7 to open the eyes that are blind,
to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon,
from the prison those who sit in darkness.
- 8 I am the LORD, that is my name;
my glory I give to no other,
nor my praise to idols.
- 9 See, the former things have come to pass,
and new things I now declare;
before they spring forth,
I tell you of them.

A psalm of praise

- 10 Sing to the LORD a new song,
his praise from the end of the earth!
Let the sea roar and all that fills it,
the coastlands and their inhabitants.
- 11 Let the desert and its towns lift up their voice,
the villages that Kedar inhabits;
let the inhabitants of Sela sing for joy,
let them shout from the tops of the mountains.

- 12 Let them give glory to the LORD,
and declare his praise in the coastlands.
- 13 The LORD goes forth like a soldier,
like a warrior he stirs up his fury;
he cries out, he shouts aloud,
he shows himself mighty against his foes.
- 14 For a long time I have held my peace,
I have kept still and restrained myself;
now I will cry out like a woman in labor,
I will gasp and pant.
- 15 I will lay waste mountains and hills,
and dry up all their herbage;
I will turn the rivers into islands,
and dry up the pools.
- 16 I will lead the blind
by a road they do not know,
by paths they have not known
I will guide them.
I will turn the darkness before them into light,
the rough places into level ground.
These are the things I will do,
and I will not forsake them.
- 17 They shall be turned back and utterly put to shame —
those who trust in carved images,
who say to cast images,
"You are our gods."

Spiritual imperceptions and obtuseness

- 18 Listen, you that are deaf;
and you that are blind, look up and see!
- 19 Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf like my messenger whom I send?
Who is blind like my dedicated one,
or blind like the servant of the LORD?
- 20 He sees many things, but does not observe them;
his ears are open, but he does not hear.

- 21 The LORD was pleased, for the sake of his righteousness,
to magnify his teaching and make it glorious.
- 22 But this is a people robbed and plundered,
all of them are trapped in holes
and hidden in prisons;
they have become a prey with no one to rescue,
a spoil with no one to say, "Restore!"
- 23 Who among you will give heed to this,
who will attend and listen for the time to come?
- 24 Who gave up Jacob to the spoiler,
and Israel to the robbers?
Was it not the LORD, against whom we have sinned,
in whose ways they would not walk,
and whose law they would not obey?
- 25 So he poured upon him the heat of his anger
and the fury of war;
it set him on fire all around, but he did not understand;
it burned him, but he did not take it to heart.

[Isaiah 43]

Israel's redemption is at hand

- 1 But now thus says the LORD,
he who created you, O Jacob,
he who formed you, O Israel:
Do not fear, for I have redeemed you;
I have called you by name, you are mine.
- 2 When you pass through the waters, I will be with you;
and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you;
when you walk through fire you shall not be burned,
and the flame shall not consume you.
- 3 For I am the LORD your God,
the Holy One of Israel, your Savior.
I give Egypt as your ransom,
Ethiopia and Seba in exchange for you.

- 4 Because you are precious in my sight,
and honored, and I love you,
I give people in return for you,
nations in exchange for your life.
- 5 Do not fear, for I am with you;
I will bring your offspring from the east,
and from the west I will gather you;
- 6 I will say to the north, "Give them up,"
and to the south, "Do not withhold;
bring my sons from far away
and my daughters from the end of the earth —
- 7 everyone who is called by my name,
whom I created for my glory,
whom I formed and made."

The Lord restores and redeems Israel; a judicial process is set up

- 8 Bring forth the people who are blind, yet have eyes,
who are deaf, yet have ears!
- 9 Let all the nations gather together,
and let the peoples assemble.
Who among them declared this,
and foretold to us the former things?
Let them bring their witnesses to justify them,
and let them hear and say, "It is true."
- 10 You are my witnesses, says the LORD,
and my servant whom I have chosen,
so that you may know and believe me
and understand that I am he.
Before me no god was formed,
nor shall there be any after me.
- 11 I, I am the LORD,
and besides me there is no savior.
- 12 I declared and saved and proclaimed,
when there was no strange god among you;
and you are my witnesses, says the LORD.

- 13 I am God, and also henceforth I am He;
there is no one who can deliver from my hand;
I work and who can hinder it?
- 14 Thus says the LORD,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
For your sake I will send to Babylon
and break down all the bars, and the shouting of the Chaldeans will be turned to lamentation.
- 15 I am the LORD, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King.
- 16 Thus says the LORD,
who makes a way in the sea,
a path in the mighty waters,
- 17 who brings out chariot and horse,
army and warrior;
they lie down, they cannot rise,
they are extinguished, quenched like a wick:
- 18 Do not remember the former things,
or consider the things of old.
- 19 I am about to do a new thing;
now it springs forth, do you not perceive it?
I will make a way in the wilderness
and rivers in the desert.
- 20 The wild animals will honor me,
the jackals and the ostriches;
for I give water in the wilderness,
rivers in the desert,
to give drink to my chosen people,
- 21 the people whom I formed for myself
so that they might declare my praise.

Ritual acts rendered ineffectual by a sinful way of life

- 22 Yet you did not call upon me, O Jacob;
but you have been weary of me, O Israel!

- 23 You have not brought me your sheep for burnt offerings,
or honored me with your sacrifices.
I have not burdened you with offerings,
or wearied you with frankincense.
- 24 You have not bought me sweet cane with money,
or satisfied me with the fat of your sacrifices.
But you have burdened me with your sins;
you have wearied me with your iniquities.
- 25 I, I am He who blots out your transgressions for my own sake,
and I will not remember your sins.
- 26 Accuse me, let us go to trial;
set forth your case, so that you may be proved right.
- 27 Your first ancestor sinned,
and your interpreters transgressed against me.
- 28 Therefore I profaned the princes of the sanctuary,
I delivered Jacob to utter destruction,
and Israel to reviling.

[Isaiah 44]

A word of assurance and salvation

- 1 But now hear, O Jacob my servant,
Israel whom I have chosen!
- 2 Thus says the LORD who made you,
who formed you in the womb and will help you:
Do not fear, O Jacob my servant,
Jeshurun whom I have chosen.
- 3 For I will pour water on the thirsty land,
and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour my spirit upon your descendants,
and my blessing on your offspring.
- 4 They shall spring up like a green tamarisk,
like willows by flowing streams.

5 This one will say, "I am the LORD's,"
 another will be called by the name of Jacob,
 yet another will write on the hand, "The LORD's,"
 and adopt the name of Israel.

6 Thus says the LORD, the King of Israel,
 and his Redeemer, the LORD of hosts:
 I am the first and I am the last;
 besides me there is no god.

7 Who is like me? Let them proclaim it,
 let them declare and set it forth before me.
 Who has announced from of old the things to come?
 Let them tell us what is yet to be.

8 Do not fear, or be afraid;
 have I not told you from of old and declared it?
 You are my witnesses!
 Is there any god besides me?
 There is no other rock; I know not one.

Polemic against idols

9 All who make idols are nothing, and the things they delight in do not profit; their witnesses neither see nor know. And so they will be put to shame. 10 Who would fashion a god or cast an image that can do no good? 11 Look, all its devotees shall be put to shame; the artisans too are merely human. Let them all assemble, let them stand up; they shall be terrified, they shall all be put to shame.

12 The ironsmith fashions it and works it over the coals, shaping it with hammers, and forging it with his strong arm; he becomes hungry and his strength fails, he drinks no water and is faint. 13 The carpenter stretches a line, marks it out with a stylus, fashions it with planes, and marks it with a compass; he makes it in human form, with human beauty, to be set up in a shrine. 14 He cuts down cedars or chooses a holm tree or an oak and lets it grow strong among the trees of the forest. He plants a cedar and the rain nourishes it. 15 Then it can be used as fuel. Part of it he takes and warms himself; he kindles a fire and bakes bread. Then he makes a god and worships it, makes it a carved image and bows down before it. 16 Half of it he burns in the fire; over this half he roasts meat, eats it and is satisfied. He also warms himself and says, "Ah, I am warm, I can feel the fire!" 17 The rest of it he makes into a god, his idol, bows down to it and worships it; he prays to it and says, "Save me, for you are my god!"

18 They do not know, nor do they comprehend; for their eyes are shut, so that they cannot see, and their minds as well, so that they cannot understand. 19 No one considers, nor is there knowledge or discernment to say, "Half of it I burned in the fire; I also baked bread on its coals, I roasted meat and have eaten. Now shall I make the rest of it an abomination? Shall I fall down before a block of wood?" 20 He feeds on ashes; a deluded mind has led him astray, and he cannot save himself or say, "Is not this thing in my right hand a fraud?"

21 Remember these things, O Jacob,
 and Israel, for you are my servant;
 I formed you, you are my servant;
 O Israel, you will not be forgotten by me.
 22 I have swept away your transgressions like a cloud,
 and your sins like mist;
 return to me, for I have redeemed you.
 23 Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it;
 shout, O depths of the earth;
 break forth into singing, O mountains,
 O forest, and every tree in it!
 For the LORD has redeemed Jacob,
 and will be glorified in Israel.

The Cyrus oracle

24 Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer,
 who formed you in the womb:
 I am the LORD, who made all things,
 who alone stretched out the heavens,
 who by myself spread out the earth;

25 who frustrates the omens of liars,
 and makes fools of diviners;
 who turns back the wise,
 and makes their knowledge foolish;
 26 who confirms the word of his servant,
 and fulfills the prediction of his messengers;
 who says of Jerusalem, "It shall be inhabited,"
 and of the cities of Judah, "They shall be rebuilt,
 and I will raise up their ruins";
 27 who says to the deep, "Be dry —
 I will dry up your rivers";
 28 who says of Cyrus, "He is my shepherd,
 and he shall carry out all my purpose";
 and who says of Jerusalem, "It shall be rebuilt,"
 and of the temple, "Your foundation shall be laid."

[Isaiah 45]

1 Thus says the LORD to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have grasped to subdue nations before him
 and strip kings of their robes,
 to open doors before him —
 and the gates shall not be closed:
 2 I will go before you
 and level the mountains,
 I will break in pieces the doors of bronze
 and cut through the bars of iron, 3 I will give you the treasures of darkness and riches hidden in secret places,
 so that you may know that it is I, the LORD,
 the God of Israel, who call you by your name.
 4 For the sake of my servant Jacob,
 and Israel my chosen,
 I call you by your name,
 I surname you, though you do not know me.

- 5 I am the LORD, and there is no other;
besides me there is no god.
I arm you, though you do not know me,
- 6 so that they may know, from the rising of the sun
and from the west, that there is no one besides me;
I am the LORD, and there is no other.
- 7 I form light and create darkness,
I make weal and create woe;
I the LORD do all these things.
- 8 Shower, O heavens, from above,
and let the skies rain down righteousness;
let the earth open, that salvation may spring up,
and let it cause righteousness to sprout up also;
I the LORD have created it.

A refutation of those who question Cyrus's mission

- 9 Woe to you who strive with your Maker,
earthen vessels with the potter!
Does the clay say to the one who fashions it,
"What are you making"?
or "Your work has no handles"?
- 10 Woe to anyone who says to a father, "What are you begetting?"
or to a woman, "With what are you in labor?"
- 11 Thus says the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel, and its Maker:
Will you question me about my children,
or command me concerning the work of my hands?
- 12 I made the earth,
and created humankind upon it;
it was my hands that stretched out the heavens,
and I commanded all their host.

- 13 I have aroused Cyrus in righteousness,
and I will make all his paths straight;
he shall build my city
and set my exiles free,
not for price or reward,
says the LORD of hosts.
- 14 Thus says the LORD:
The wealth of Egypt and the merchandise of Ethiopia,
and the Sabeans, tall of stature,
shall come over to you and be yours,
they shall follow you;
they shall come over in chains and bow down to you.
They will make supplication to you, saying,
"God is with you alone, and there is no other;
there is no god besides him."
- 15 Truly, you are a God who hides himself,
O God of Israel, the Savior.
- 16 All of them are put to shame and confounded,
the makers of idols go in confusion together.
- 17 But Israel is saved by the LORD
with everlasting salvation;
you shall not be put to shame or confounded
to all eternity.
- 18 For thus says the LORD,
who created the heavens
(he is God!),
who formed the earth and made it (he established it;
he did not create it a chaos,
he formed it to be inhabited!):
I am the LORD, and there is no other.
- 19 I did not speak in secret,
in a land of darkness;
I did not say to the offspring of Jacob,
"Seek me in chaos."
I the LORD speak the truth,
I declare what is right.

An offer of salvation addressed to the nations

- 20 Assemble yourselves and come together,
draw near, you survivors of the nations!
They have no knowledge —
those who carry about their wooden idols,
and keep on praying to a god
that cannot save.
- 21 Declare and present your case;
let them take counsel together!
Who told this long ago?
Who declared it of old?
Was it not I, the LORD?
There is no other god besides me,
a righteous God and a Savior;
there is no one besides me.
- 22 Turn to me and be saved,
all the ends of the earth!
For I am God, and there is no other.
- 23 By myself I have sworn,
from my mouth has gone forth in righteousness
a word that shall not return:
"To me every knee shall bow,
every tongue shall swear."
- 24 Only in the LORD, it shall be said of me,
are righteousness and strength;
all who were incensed against him
shall come to him and be ashamed.
- 25 In the LORD all the offspring of Israel
shall triumph and glory.

[Isaiah 46]A contrast between the ineffectual Babylonian deities and the God of Israel

- 1 Bel bows down, Nebo stoops,
 their idols are on beasts and cattle;
 these things you carry are loaded
 as burdens on weary animals.
- 2 They stoop, they bow down together;
 they cannot save the burden,
 but themselves go into captivity.
- 3 Listen to me, O house of Jacob,
 all the remnant of the house of Israel,
 who have been borne by me from your birth,
 carried from the womb;
- 4 even to your old age I am he,
 even when you turn gray I will carry you.
 I have made, and I will bear;
 I will carry and will save.
- 5 To whom will you liken me and make me equal,
 and compare me, as though we were alike?
- 6 Those who lavish gold from the purse,
 and weigh out silver in the scales —
 they hire a goldsmith, who makes it into a god;
 then they fall down and worship!
- 7 They lift it to their shoulders, they carry it,
 they set it in its place, and it stands there;
 it cannot move from its place.
 If one cries out to it, it does not answer
 or save anyone from trouble.
- 8 Remember this and consider,
 recall it to mind, you transgressors,
- 9 remember the former things of old;
 for I am God, and there is no other;
 I am God, and there is no one like me,

- 10 declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, "My purpose shall stand,
 and I will fulfill my intention,"
- 11 calling a bird of prey from the east,
 the man for my purpose from a far country.
 I have spoken, and I will bring it to pass;
 I have planned, and I will do it.
- 12 Listen to me, you stubborn of heart,
 you who are far from deliverance:
- 13 I bring near my deliverance, it is not far off,
 and my salvation will not tarry;
 I will put salvation in Zion,
 for Israel my glory.

[Isaiah 47]

The end of Babylon

- 1 Come down and sit in the dust,
 virgin daughter Babylon!
 Sit on the ground without a throne,
 daughter Chaldea!
 For you shall no more be called tender and delicate.
- 2 Take the millstones and grind meal,
 remove your veil,
 strip off your robe, uncover your legs,
 pass through the rivers.
- 3 Your nakedness shall be uncovered,
 and your shame shall be seen.
 I will take vengeance,
 and I will spare no one.
- 4 Our Redeemer — the LORD of hosts is his name —
 is the Holy One of Israel.

- 5 Sit in silence, and go into darkness,
daughter Chaldea!
For you shall no more be called
the mistress of kingdoms.
- 6 I was angry with my people,
I profaned my heritage;
I gave them into your hand,
you showed them no mercy;
on the aged you made your yoke exceedingly heavy.
- 7 You said, "I shall be mistress forever,"
so that you did not lay these things to heart or remember their end.
- 8 Now therefore hear this, you lover of pleasures,
who sit securely,
who say in your heart,
"I am, and there is no one besides me;
I shall not sit as a widow or know the loss of children" —
- 9 both these things shall come upon you
in a moment, in one day:
the loss of children and widowhood
shall come upon you in full measure, in spite of your many sorceries
and the great power of your enchantments.
- 10 You felt secure in your wickedness;
you said, "No one sees me."
Your wisdom and your knowledge
led you astray,
and you said in your heart,
"I am, and there is no one besides me."
- 11 But evil shall come upon you,
which you cannot charm away;
disaster shall fall upon you,
which you will not be able to ward off;
and ruin shall come on you suddenly,
of which you know nothing.

- 12 Stand fast in your enchantments
and your many sorceries,
with which you have labored from your youth;
perhaps you may be able to succeed,
perhaps you may inspire terror.
- 13 You are wearied with your many consultations;
let those who study the heavens
stand up and save you,
those who gaze at the stars,
and at each new moon predict
what shall befall you.
- 14 See, they are like stubble,
the fire consumes them;
they cannot deliver themselves
from the power of the flame.
No coal for warming oneself is this,
no fire to sit before!
- 15 Such to you are those with whom you have labored,
who have trafficked with you from your youth;
they all wander about in their own paths;
there is no one to save you.

[Isaiah 48]An address to the Israelite community

- 1 Hear this, O house of Jacob,
who are called by the name of Israel,
and who came forth from the loins of Judah;
who swear by the name of the LORD,
and invoke the God of Israel,
but not in truth or right.
- 2 For they call themselves after the holy city,
and lean on the God of Israel;
the LORD of hosts is his name.

- 3 The former things I declared long ago,
they went out from my mouth and I made them known;
then suddenly I did them and they came to pass.
- 4 Because I know that you are obstinate,
and your neck is an iron sinew
and your forehead brass,
- 5 I declared them to you from long ago,
before they came to pass I announced them to you,
so that you would not say, "My idol did them,
my carved image and my cast image commanded them."
- 6 You have heard; now see all this;
and will you not declare it?
From this time forward I make you hear new things,
hidden things that you have not known.
- 7 They are created now, not long ago;
before today you have never heard of them,
so that you could not say, "I already knew them."
- 8 You have never heard, you have never known,
from of old your ear has not been opened.
For I knew that you would deal very treacherously,
and that from birth you were called a rebel.
- 9 For my name's sake I defer my anger,
for the sake of my praise I restrain it for you,
so that I may not cut you off.
- 10 See, I have refined you, but not like silver;
I have tested you in the furnace of adversity.
- 11 For my own sake, for my own sake, I do it,
for why should my name be profaned?
My glory I will not give to another.
- 12 Listen to me, O Jacob,
and Israel, whom I called:
I am He; I am the first,
and I am the last.
- 13 My hand laid the foundation of the earth,
and my right hand spread out the heavens;

when I summon them,
they stand at attention.

Another statement of the divine purpose

- 14 Assemble, all of you, and hear!
Who among them has declared these things?
The LORD loves him;
he shall perform his purpose on Babylon,
and his arm shall be against the Chaldeans.
- 15 I, even I, have spoken and called him,
I have brought him, and he will prosper in his way.
- 16 Draw near to me, hear this!
From the beginning I have not spoken in secret,
from the time it came to be I have been there.
And now the Lord GOD has sent me and his spirit.
- 17 Thus says the LORD,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
I am the LORD your God,
who teaches you for your own good,
who leads you in the way you should go.
- 18 O that you had paid attention to my commandments!
Then your prosperity would have been like a river,
and your success like the waves of the sea;
- 19 your offspring would have been like the sand,
and your descendants like its grains;
their name would never be cut off
or destroyed from before me.
- 20 Go out from Babylon, flee from Chaldea, declare this with a shout of joy, proclaim it,
send it forth to the end of the earth;
say, "The LORD has redeemed his servant Jacob!"
- 21 They did not thirst when he led them through the deserts;
he made water flow for them from the rock;
he split open the rock and the water gushed out.

22 "There is no peace," says the LORD, "for the wicked."

[Isaiah 49]

The LORD's servant presents himself to foreign peoples

- 1 Listen to me, O coastlands,
 pay attention, you peoples from far away!
 The LORD called me before I was born,
 while I was in my mother's womb he named me.
- 2 He made my mouth like a sharp sword,
 in the shadow of his hand he hid me;
 he made me a polished arrow,
 in his quiver he hid me away.
- 3 And he said to me, "You are my servant,
 Israel, in whom I will be glorified."
- 4 But I said, "I have labored in vain,
 I have spent my strength for nothing and vanity;
 yet surely my cause is with the LORD,
 and my reward with my God."
- 5 And now the LORD says,
 who formed me in the womb to be his servant,
 to bring Jacob back to him,
 and that Israel might be gathered to him,
 for I am honored in the sight of the LORD,
 and my God has become my strength —
- 6 he says,
 "It is too light a thing that you should be my servant
 to raise up the tribes of Jacob and to restore the survivors of Israel;
 I will give you as a light to the nations,
 that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth."

Return and restoration

- 7 Thus says the LORD,
the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One,
to one deeply despised, abhorred by the nations,
the slave of rulers,
"Kings shall see and stand up,
princes, and they shall prostrate themselves,
because of the LORD, who is faithful,
the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you."
- 8 Thus says the LORD:
In a time of favor I have answered you,
on a day of salvation I have helped you;
I have kept you and given you
as a covenant to the people,
to establish the land,
to apportion the desolate heritages;
- 9 saying to the prisoners, "Come out,"
to those who are in darkness, "Show yourselves."
They shall feed along the ways,
on all the bare heights shall be their pasture;
- 10 they shall not hunger or thirst,
neither scorching wind nor sun shall strike them down,
for he who has pity on them will lead them,
and by springs of water will guide them.
- 11 And I will turn all my mountains into a road,
and my highways shall be raised up.
- 12 Lo, these shall come from far away,
and lo, these from the north and from the west,
and these from the land of Syene.
- 13 Sing for joy, O heavens, and exult, O earth;
break forth, O mountains, into singing!
For the LORD has comforted his people,
and will have compassion on his suffering ones.

God has not abandoned Israel

- 14 But Zion said, "The LORD has forsaken me,
my Lord has forgotten me."
- 15 Can a woman forget her nursing child,
or show no compassion for the child of her womb?
Even these may forget,
yet I will not forget you.
- 16 See, I have inscribed you on the palms of my hands;
your walls are continually before me.
- 17 Your builders outdo your destroyers,
and those who laid you waste go away from you.
- 18 Lift up your eyes all around and see;
they all gather, they come to you.
As I live, says the LORD,
you shall put all of them on like an ornament,
and like a bride you shall bind them on.
- 19 Surely your waste and your desolate places and your devastated land —
surely now you will be too crowded for your inhabitants,
and those who swallowed you up will be far away.
- 20 The children born in the time of your bereavement
will yet say in your hearing:
"The place is too crowded for me;
make room for me to settle."
- 21 Then you will say in your heart,
"Who has borne me these?
I was bereaved and barren, exiled and put away —
so who has reared these?
I was left all alone —
where then have these come from?"

- 22 Thus says the Lord God:
 I will soon lift up my hand to the nations,
 and raise my signal to the peoples;
 and they shall bring your sons in their bosom,
 and your daughters shall be carried on their shoulders.
- 23 Kings shall be your foster fathers,
 and their queens your nursing mothers.
 With their faces to the ground they shall bow down to you,
 and lick the dust of your feet.
 Then you will know that I am the LORD;
 those who wait for me shall not be put to shame.
- 24 Can the prey be taken from the mighty,
 or the captives of a tyrant be rescued?
- 25 But thus says the LORD:
 Even the captives of the mighty shall be taken,
 and the prey of the tyrant be rescued;
 for I will contend with those who contend with you,
 and I will save your children.
- 26 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh,
 and they shall be drunk with their own blood as with wine.
 Then all flesh shall know that I am the LORD your Savior,
 and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

[Isaiah 50]

God is not responsible for the loss of statehood and exile

- 1 Thus says the LORD:
 Where is your mother's bill of divorce
 with which I put her away?
 Or which of my creditors is it to whom I have sold you?
 No, because of your sins you were sold,
 and for your transgressions your mother was put away.

- 2 Why was no one there when I came?
Why did no one answer when I called?
Is my hand shortened, that it cannot redeem?
Or have I no power to deliver?
By my rebuke I dry up the sea,
I make the rivers a desert;
their fish stink for lack of water,
and die of thirst.
- 3 I clothe the heavens with blackness,
and make sackcloth their covering.
- 4 The Lord GOD has given me
the tongue of a teacher,
that I may know how to sustain the weary with a word.
Morning by morning he wakens —
wakens my ear
to listen as those who are taught.
- 5 The Lord GOD has opened my ear,
and I was not rebellious,
I did not turn backward.
- 6 I gave my back to those who struck me,
and my cheeks to those who pulled out the beard;
I did not hide my face
from insult and spitting.
- 7 The Lord GOD helps me;
therefore I have not been disgraced;
therefore I have set my face like flint,
and I know that I shall not be put to shame;
- 8 he who vindicates me is near.
Who will contend with me?
Let us stand up together.
Who are my adversaries?
Let them confront me.

9 It is the Lord God who helps me;
 who will declare me guilty?
 All of them will wear out like a garment;
 the moth will eat them up.

A comment on vv. 4-9

10 Who among you fears the LORD
 and obeys the voice of his servant,
 who walks in darkness
 and has no light,
 yet trusts in the name of the LORD
 and relies upon his God?
 11 But all of you are kindlers of fire,
 lighters of firebrands.
 Walk in the flame of your fire,
 and among the brands that you have kindled!
 This is what you shall have from my hand:
 you shall lie down in torment.

[Isaiah 51]

An announcement of future salvation

1 Listen to me, you that pursue righteousness,
 you that seek the LORD.
 Look to the rock from which you were hewn,
 and to the quarry from which you were dug.
 2 Look to Abraham your father and to Sarah who bore you;
 for he was but one when I called him,
 but I blessed him and made him many.
 3 For the LORD will comfort Zion;
 he will comfort all her waste places,
 and will make her wilderness like Eden,
 her desert like the garden of the LORD;
 joy and gladness will be found in her,
 thanksgiving and the voice of song.

- 4 Listen to me, my people,
and give heed to me, my nation;
for a teaching will go out from me,
and my justice for a light to the peoples.
- 5 I will bring near my deliverance swiftly,
my salvation has gone out
and my arms will rule the peoples;
the coastlands wait for me,
and for my arm they hope.
- 6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens,
and look at the earth beneath;
for the heavens will vanish like smoke,
the earth will wear out like a garment,
and those who live on it will die like gnats;
but my salvation will be forever,
and my deliverance will never be ended.
- 7 Listen to me, you who know righteousness,
you people who have my teaching in your hearts;
do not fear the reproach of others,
and do not be dismayed when they revile you.
- 8 For the moth will eat them up like a garment,
and the worm will eat them like wool;
but my deliverance will be forever,
and my salvation to all generations.

A plea for God's intervention

- 9 Awake, awake, put on strength,
O arm of the LORD!
Awake, as in days of old,
the generations of long ago!
Was it not you who cut Rahab in pieces,
who pierced the dragon?
- 10 Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep;
who made the depths of the sea a way
for the redeemed to cross over?

11 So the ransomed of the LORD shall return,
 and come to Zion with singing;
 everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
 they shall obtain joy and gladness,
 and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

A further word of assurance

12 I, I am he who comforts you;
 why then are you afraid of a mere mortal who must die,
 a human being who fades like grass?

13 You have forgotten the LORD, your Maker, who stretched out the heavens
 and laid the foundations of the earth.

You fear continually all day long because of the fury of the oppressor,
 who is bent on destruction.

But where is the fury of the oppressor?

14 The oppressed shall speedily be released;
 they shall not die and go down to the Pit,
 nor shall they lack bread.

15 For I am the LORD your God,
 who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar —
 the LORD of hosts is his name.

16 I have put my words in your mouth,
 and hidden you in the shadow of my hand,
 stretching out the heavens
 and laying the foundations of the earth, and saying to Zion, "You are my people."

The anger and mercy of God

17 Rouse yourself, rouse yourself!
 Stand up, O Jerusalem,
 you who have drunk at the hand of the LORD
 the cup of his wrath,
 who have drunk to the dregs
 the bowl of staggering.

- 18 There is no one to guide her among all the children she has borne;
 there is no one to take her by the hand
 among all the children she has brought up.
- 19 These two things have befallen you
 — who will grieve with you? — devastation and destruction, famine and sword —
 who will comfort you?
- 20 Your children have fainted,
 they lie at the head of every street
 like an antelope in a net;
 they are full of the wrath of the LORD,
 the rebuke of your God.
- 21 Therefore hear this, you who are wounded,
 who are drunk, but not with wine:
- 22 Thus says your Sovereign, the LORD,
 your God who pleads the cause of his people:
 See, I have taken from your hand the cup of staggering;
 you shall drink no more from the bowl of my wrath.
- 23 And I will put it into the hand of your tormentors,
 who have said to you,
 "Bow down, that we may walk on you";
 and you have made your back like the ground
 and like the street for them to walk on.

[Isaiah 52]
Jerusalem restored

- 1 Awake, awake,
 put on your strength, O Zion!
 Put on your beautiful garments,
 O Jerusalem, the holy city;
 for the uncircumcised and the unclean
 shall enter you no more.

2 Shake yourself from the dust, rise up,
 O captive Jerusalem;
 loose the bonds from your neck,
 O captive daughter Zion!

3 For thus says the LORD: You were sold for nothing, and you shall be redeemed without money. 4 For thus says the Lord GOD: Long ago, my people went down into Egypt to reside there as aliens; the Assyrian, too, has oppressed them without cause. 5 Now therefore what am I doing here, says the LORD, seeing that my people are taken away without cause? Their rulers howl, says the LORD, and continually, all day long, my name is despised. 6 Therefore my people shall know my name; therefore in that day they shall know that it is I who speak; here am I.

The approach of the ruler

7 How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of the messenger who announces peace,
 who brings good news,
 who announces salvation,
 who says to Zion, "Your God reigns."
 8 Listen! Your sentinels lift up their voices, together they sing for joy;
 for in plain sight they see
 the return of the LORD to Zion.
 9 Break forth together into singing,
 you ruins of Jerusalem;
 for the LORD has comforted his people,
 he has redeemed Jerusalem.
 10 The LORD has bared his holy arm
 before the eyes of all the nations;
 and all the ends of the earth shall see
 the salvation of our God.
 11 Depart, depart, go out from there!
 Touch no unclean thing;
 go out from the midst of it, purify yourselves,
 you who carry the vessels of the LORD.

12 For you shall not go out in haste,
 and you shall not go in flight;
 for the LORD will go before you,
 and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

The mission and violent death of a servant of the Lord

13 See, my servant shall prosper;
 he shall be exalted and lifted up,
 and shall be very high.
 14 Just as there were many who were astonished at him
 — so marred was his appearance, beyond human semblance,
 and his form beyond that of mortals — 15 so he shall startle many nations;
 kings shall shut their mouths because of him;
 for that which had not been told them they shall see,
 and that which they had not heard they shall contemplate.

[Isaiah 53]

1 Who has believed what we have heard?
 And to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?
 2 For he grew up before him like a young plant,
 and like a root out of dry ground;
 he had no form or majesty that we should look at him,
 nothing in his appearance that we should desire him.
 3 He was despised and rejected by others;
 a man of suffering and acquainted with infirmity;
 and as one from whom others hide their faces
 he was despised, and we held him of no account.
 4 Surely he has borne our infirmities
 and carried our diseases;
 yet we accounted him stricken,
 struck down by God, and afflicted.

- 5 But he was wounded for our transgressions,
crushed for our iniquities;
upon him was the punishment that made us whole,
and by his bruises we are healed.
- 6 All we like sheep have gone astray;
we have all turned to our own way,
and the LORD has laid on him
the iniquity of us all.
- 7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted,
yet he did not open his mouth;
like a lamb that is led to the slaughter,
and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent,
so he did not open his mouth.
- 8 By a perversion of justice he was taken away.
Who could have imagined his future?
For he was cut off from the land of the living,
stricken for the transgression of my people.
- 9 They made his grave with the wicked
and his tomb with the rich,
although he had done no violence,
and there was no deceit in his mouth.
- 10 Yet it was the will of the LORD to crush him with pain.
When you make his life an offering for sin,
he shall see his offspring, and shall prolong his days;
through him the will of the LORD shall prosper.
- 11 Out of his anguish he shall see light;
he shall find satisfaction through his knowledge.
The righteous one, my servant, shall make many righteous,
and he shall bear their iniquities.
- 12 Therefore I will allot him a portion with the great,
and he shall divide the spoil with the strong;
because he poured out himself to death,
and was numbered with the transgressors;
yet he bore the sin of many,
and made intercession for the transgressors.

[Isaiah 54]
Apostrophe to Zion

- 1 Sing, O barren one who did not bear;
burst into song and shout,
you who have not been in labor!
For the children of the desolate woman will be more than the children of her that is married, says the LORD.
- 2 Enlarge the site of your tent,
and let the curtains of your habitations be stretched out;
do not hold back; lengthen your cords
and strengthen your stakes.
- 3 For you will spread out to the right and to the left,
and your descendants will possess the nations
and will settle the desolate towns.
- 4 Do not fear, for you will not be ashamed;
do not be discouraged, for you will not suffer disgrace;
for you will forget the shame of your youth,
and the disgrace of your widowhood you will remember no more.
- 5 For your Maker is your husband,
the LORD of hosts is his name;
the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer,
the God of the whole earth he is called.
- 6 For the LORD has called you like a wife forsaken and grieved in spirit, like the wife of a man's youth when she is cast off,
says your God.
- 7 For a brief moment I abandoned you,
but with great compassion I will gather you.
- 8 In overflowing wrath for a moment
I hid my face from you,
but with everlasting love I will have compassion on you,
says the LORD, your Redeemer.

- 9 This is like the days of Noah to me:
Just as I swore that the waters of Noah
would never again go over the earth, so I have sworn that I will not be angry with you and will not rebuke you.
- 10 For the mountains may depart
and the hills be removed,
but my steadfast love shall not depart from you,
and my covenant of peace shall not be removed,
says the LORD, who has compassion on you.
- 11 O afflicted one, storm-tossed, and not comforted,
I am about to set your stones in antimony,
and lay your foundations with sapphires.
- 12 I will make your pinnacles of rubies,
your gates of jewels,
and all your wall of precious stones.
- 13 All your children shall be taught by the LORD,
and great shall be the prosperity of your children.
- 14 In righteousness you shall be established;
you shall be far from oppression, for you shall not fear;
and from terror, for it shall not come near you.
- 15 If anyone stirs up strife,
it is not from me;
whoever stirs up strife with you shall fall because of you.
- 16 See it is I who have created the smith
who blows the fire of coals,
and produces a weapon fit for its purpose;
I have also created the ravager to destroy.
- 17 No weapon that is fashioned against you shall prosper,
and you shall confute every tongue that rises
against you in judgment.
This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD
and their vindication from me, says the LORD.

[Isaiah 55]An appeal to the prophet's audience to participate in the restoration

- 1 Ho, everyone who thirsts,
 come to the waters;
 and you that have no money,
 come, buy and eat!
 Come, buy wine and milk
 without money and without price.
- 2 Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread,
 and your labor for that which does not satisfy?
 Listen carefully to me, and eat what is good,
 and delight yourselves in rich food.
- 3 Incline your ear, and come to me;
 listen, so that you may live.
 I will make with you an everlasting covenant,
 my steadfast, sure love for David.
- 4 See, I made him a witness to the peoples,
 a leader and commander for the peoples.
- 5 See, you shall call nations that you do not know,
 and nations that do not know you shall run to you,
 because of the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel,
 for he has glorified you.

A call to repentance

- 6 Seek the LORD while he may be found,
 call upon him while he is near;
- 7 let the wicked forsake their way,
 and the unrighteous their thoughts;
 let them return to the LORD, that he may have mercy on them,
 and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.
- 8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts,
 nor are your ways my ways, says the LORD.
- 9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
 so are my ways higher than your ways
 and my thoughts than your thoughts.

10 For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven,
 and do not return there until they have watered the earth,
 making it bring forth and sprout,
 giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater, 11 so shall my word be that goes out from my mouth;
 it shall not return to me empty,
 but it shall accomplish that which I purpose,
 and succeed in the thing for which I sent it.

Nature will rejoice at the return of the dispersed Israelites

12 For you shall go out in joy,
 and be led back in peace;
 the mountains and the hills before you shall burst into song,
 and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.
 13 Instead of the thorn shall come up the cypress;
 instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle;
 and it shall be to the LORD for a memorial,
 for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off.

[Isaiah 56]

Third Isaiah; all are worthy to join the community

1 Thus says the LORD:
 Maintain justice, and do what is right,
 for soon my salvation will come,
 and my deliverance be revealed.

2 Happy is the mortal who does this,
 the one who holds it fast,
 who keeps the sabbath, not profaning it,
 and refrains from doing any evil.

3 Do not let the foreigner joined to the LORD say,
 "The LORD will surely separate me from his people";
 and do not let the eunuch say,
 "I am just a dry tree."

4 For thus says the LORD:

To the eunuchs who keep my sabbaths,
 who choose the things that please me
 and hold fast my covenant,

5 I will give, in my house and within my walls,
 a monument and a name
 better than sons and daughters;
 I will give them an everlasting name
 that shall not be cut off.

6 And the foreigners who join themselves to the LORD, to minister to him, to love the name of the LORD,
 and to be his servants,
 all who keep the sabbath, and do not profane it,
 and hold fast my covenant —

7 these I will bring to my holy mountain,
 and make them joyful in my house of prayer;
 their burnt offerings and their sacrifices
 will be accepted on my altar;
 for my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.

8 Thus says the Lord God,
 who gathers the outcasts of Israel,
 I will gather others to them
 besides those already gathered.

An invitation to wild animals (foreigners) to come and devour the flock (the Judean community)

9 All you wild animals,
 all you wild animals in the forest, come to devour!

10 Israel's sentinels are blind,
 they are all without knowledge;
 they are all silent dogs
 that cannot bark;
 dreaming, lying down,
 loving to slumber.

- 11 The dogs have a mighty appetite;
 they never have enough.
 The shepherds also have no understanding;
 they have all turned to their own way,
 to their own gain, one and all.
- 12 "Come," they say, "let us get wine;
 let us fill ourselves with strong drink.
 And tomorrow will be like today,
 great beyond measure."

[Isaiah 57]

The death of the righteous

- 1 The righteous perish,
 and no one takes it to heart;
 the devout are taken away,
 while no one understands.
 For the righteous are taken away from calamity,
- 2 and they enter into peace;
 those who walk uprightly
 will rest on their couches.

Denunciation of the sorceress and her children

- 3 But as for you, come here,
 you children of a sorceress,
 you offspring of an adulterer and a whore.
- 4 Whom are you mocking?
 Against whom do you open your mouth wide
 and stick out your tongue?
 Are you not children of transgression,
 the offspring of deceit —
- 5 you that burn with lust among the oaks,
 under every green tree;
 you that slaughter your children in the valleys,
 under the clefts of the rocks?

- 6 Among the smooth stones of the valley is your portion;
they, they, are your lot;
to them you have poured out a drink offering,
you have brought a grain offering.
Shall I be appeased for these things?
- 7 Upon a high and lofty mountain
you have set your bed,
and there you went up to offer sacrifice.
- 8 Behind the door and the doorpost
you have set up your symbol;
for, in deserting me, you have uncovered your bed,
you have gone up to it,
you have made it wide;
and you have made a bargain for yourself with them,
you have loved their bed,
you have gazed on their nakedness.
- 9 You journeyed to Molech with oil,
and multiplied your perfumes;
you sent your envoys far away,
and sent down even to Sheol.
- 10 You grew weary from your many wanderings,
but you did not say, "It is useless."
You found your desire rekindled,
and so you did not weaken.
- 11 Whom did you dread and fear
so that you lied,
and did not remember me
or give me a thought?
Have I not kept silent and closed my eyes,
and so you do not fear me?
- 12 I will concede your righteousness and your works,
but they will not help you.
- 13 When you cry out, let your collection of idols deliver you!
The wind will carry them off,
a breath will take them away.
But whoever takes refuge in me shall possess the land and inherit my holy mountain.

A poem of consolation

- 14 It shall be said,
 "Build up, build up, prepare the way,
 remove every obstruction from my people's way."
 15 For thus says the high and lofty one who inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy:
 I dwell in the high and holy place,
 and also with those who are contrite and humble in spirit,
 to revive the spirit of the humble,
 and to revive the heart of the contrite.
 16 For I will not continually accuse,
 nor will I always be angry;
 for then the spirits would grow faint before me,
 even the souls that I have made.
 17 Because of their wicked covetousness I was angry;
 I struck them, I hid and was angry;
 but they kept turning back to their own ways.
 18 I have seen their ways, but I will heal them;
 I will lead them and repay them with comfort,
 creating for their mourners the fruit of the lips.
 19 Peace, peace, to the far and the near, says the LORD;
 and I will heal them.
 20 But the wicked are like the tossing sea
 that cannot keep still;
 its waters toss up mire and mud.
 21 There is no peace, says my God, for the wicked.

[Isaiah 58]

On genuine fasting

- 1 Shout out, do not hold back!
 Lift up your voice like a trumpet!
 Announce to my people their rebellion,
 to the house of Jacob their sins.

- 2 Yet day after day they seek me
and delight to know my ways,
as if they were a nation that practiced righteousness
and did not forsake the ordinance of their God;
they ask of me righteous judgments,
they delight to draw near to God.
- 3 "Why do we fast, but you do not see?
Why humble ourselves, but you do not notice?"
Look, you serve your own interest on your fast day,
and oppress all your workers.
- 4 Look, you fast only to quarrel and to fight
and to strike with a wicked fist.
Such fasting as you do today
will not make your voice heard on high.
- 5 Is such the fast that I choose,
a day to humble oneself?
Is it to bow down the head like a bulrush,
and to lie in sackcloth and ashes?
Will you call this a fast,
a day acceptable to the LORD?
- 6 Is not this the fast that I choose:
to loose the bonds of injustice,
to undo the thongs of the yoke,
to let the oppressed go free,
and to break every yoke?
- 7 Is it not to share your bread with the hungry,
and bring the homeless poor into your house;
when you see the naked, to cover them,
and not to hide yourself from your own kin?
- 8 Then your light shall break forth like the dawn,
and your healing shall spring up quickly;
your vindicator shall go before you,
the glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard.
- 9 Then you shall call, and the LORD will answer;
you shall cry for help, and he will say, Here I am.

- If you remove the yoke from among you,
 the pointing of the finger, the speaking of evil, 10 if you offer your food to the hungry and satisfy the needs of the afflicted,
 then your light shall rise in the darkness
 and your gloom be like the noonday.
- 11 The LORD will guide you continually,
 and satisfy your needs in parched places,
 and make your bones strong;
 and you shall be like a watered garden,
 like a spring of water,
 whose waters never fail.
- 12 Your ancient ruins shall be rebuilt;
 you shall raise up the foundations of many generations;
 you shall be called the repairer of the breach,
 the restorer of streets to live in.
- 13 If you refrain from trampling the sabbath,
 from pursuing your own interests on my holy day;
 if you call the sabbath a delight
 and the holy day of the LORD honorable;
 if you honor it, not going your own ways,
 serving your own interests, or pursuing your own affairs;
- 14 then you shall take delight in the LORD,
 and I will make you ride upon the heights of the earth;
 I will feed you with the heritage of your ancestor Jacob,
 for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

[Isaiah 59]

Why prayers and fasting remain without effect

- 1 See, the LORD's hand is not too short to save,
 nor his ear too dull to hear.
- 2 Rather, your iniquities have been barriers
 between you and your God,
 and your sins have hidden his face from you
 so that he does not hear.

- 3 For your hands are defiled with blood,
and your fingers with iniquity;
your lips have spoken lies,
your tongue mutters wickedness.
- 4 No one brings suit justly,
no one goes to law honestly;
they rely on empty pleas, they speak lies,
conceiving mischief and begetting iniquity.
- 5 They hatch adders' eggs,
and weave the spider's web;
whoever eats their eggs dies,
and the crushed egg hatches out a viper.
- 6 Their webs cannot serve as clothing;
they cannot cover themselves with what they make.
Their works are works of iniquity,
and deeds of violence are in their hands.
- 7 Their feet run to evil,
and they rush to shed innocent blood;
their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity,
desolation and destruction are in their highways.
- 8 The way of peace they do not know,
and there is no justice in their paths.
Their roads they have made crooked;
no one who walks in them knows peace.

A communal confession of sin

- 9 Therefore justice is far from us,
and righteousness does not reach us;
we wait for light, and lo! there is darkness;
and for brightness, but we walk in gloom.
- 10 We grope like the blind along a wall,
groping like those who have no eyes;
we stumble at noon as in the twilight,
among the vigorous as though we were dead.

- 11 We all growl like bears;
 like doves we moan mournfully.
 We wait for justice, but there is none;
 for salvation, but it is far from us.
- 12 For our transgressions before you are many,
 and our sins testify against us.
 Our transgressions indeed are with us,
 and we know our iniquities:
- 13 transgressing, and denying the LORD,
 and turning away from following our God,
 talking oppression and revolt,
 conceiving lying words and uttering them from the heart.
- 14 Justice is turned back,
 and righteousness stands at a distance;
 for truth stumbles in the public square,
 and uprightness cannot enter.
- 15 Truth is lacking,
 and whoever turns from evil is despoiled.

The Lord will punish and redeem

- The LORD saw it, and it displeased him
 that there was no justice.
- 16 He saw that there was no one,
 and was appalled that there was no one to intervene;
 so his own arm brought him victory,
 and his righteousness upheld him.
- 17 He put on righteousness like a breastplate,
 and a helmet of salvation on his head;
 he put on garments of vengeance for clothing,
 and wrapped himself in fury as in a mantle.
- 18 According to their deeds, so will he repay;
 wrath to his adversaries, requital to his enemies;
 to the coastlands he will render requital.
- 19 So those in the west shall fear the name of the LORD,
 and those in the east, his glory;
 for he will come like a pent-up stream that the wind of the LORD drives on.

20 And he will come to Zion as Redeemer, to those in Jacob who turn from transgression, says the LORD.
21 And as for me, this is my covenant with them, says the LORD: my spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouths of your children, or out of the mouths of your children's children, says the LORD, from now on and forever.

[Isaiah 60]

The glory and destiny of Zion; Jerusalem restored

1 Arise, shine; for your light has come,
and the glory of the LORD has risen upon you.
2 For darkness shall cover the earth,
and thick darkness the peoples;
but the LORD will arise upon you,
and his glory will appear over you.
3 Nations shall come to your light,
and kings to the brightness of your dawn.
4 Lift up your eyes and look around;
they all gather together, they come to you;
your sons shall come from far away,
and your daughters shall be carried on their nurses' arms.
5 Then you shall see and be radiant;
your heart shall thrill and rejoice,
because the abundance of the sea shall be brought to you,
the wealth of the nations shall come to you.
6 A multitude of camels shall cover you,
the young camels of Midian and Ephah;
all those from Sheba shall come.
They shall bring gold and frankincense,
and shall proclaim the praise of the LORD.
7 All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered to you,
the rams of Nebaioth shall minister to you;
they shall be acceptable on my altar,
and I will glorify my glorious house.

- 8 Who are these that fly like a cloud,
and like doves to their windows?
- 9 For the coastlands shall wait for me,
the ships of Tarshish first,
to bring your children from far away,
their silver and gold with them,
for the name of the LORD your God,
and for the Holy One of Israel,
because he has glorified you.
- 10 Foreigners shall build up your walls,
and their kings shall minister to you;
for in my wrath I struck you down,
but in my favor I have had mercy on you.
- 11 Your gates shall always be open;
day and night they shall not be shut,
so that nations shall bring you their wealth,
with their kings led in procession.
- 12 For the nation and kingdom
that will not serve you shall perish;
those nations shall be utterly laid waste.
- 13 The glory of Lebanon shall come to you,
the cypress, the plane, and the pine,
to beautify the place of my sanctuary;
and I will glorify where my feet rest.
- 14 The descendants of those who oppressed you shall come bending low to you,
and all who despised you shall bow down at your feet;
they shall call you the City of the LORD,
the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
- 15 Whereas you have been forsaken and hated,
with no one passing through,
I will make you majestic forever,
a joy from age to age.
- 16 You shall suck the milk of nations,
you shall suck the breasts of kings;
and you shall know that I, the LORD, am your Savior
and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

- 17 Instead of bronze I will bring gold,
 instead of iron I will bring silver;
instead of wood, bronze,
 instead of stones, iron.
I will appoint Peace as your overseer and Righteousness as your taskmaster.
- 18 Violence shall no more be heard in your land,
 devastation or destruction within your borders;
you shall call your walls Salvation,
 and your gates Praise.
- 19 The sun shall no longer be your light by day,
nor for brightness shall the moon
 give light to you by night;
but the LORD will be your everlasting light,
 and your God will be your glory.
- 20 Your sun shall no more go down,
 or your moon withdraw itself;
for the LORD will be your everlasting light,
 and your days of mourning shall be ended.
- 21 Your people shall all be righteous;
 they shall possess the land forever.
They are the shoot that I planted, the work of my hands,
 so that I might be glorified.
- 22 The least of them shall become a clan,
 and the smallest one a mighty nation;
I am the LORD;
 in its time I will accomplish it quickly.

[Isaiah 61]The mission of the prophet

- 1 The spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has anointed me;
he has sent me to bring good news to the oppressed,
 to bind up the brokenhearted,
to proclaim liberty to the captives,
 and release to the prisoners;

- 2 to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor,
and the day of vengeance of our God;
to comfort all who mourn;
- 3 to provide for those who mourn in Zion —
to give them a garland instead of ashes,
the oil of gladness instead of mourning,
the mantle of praise instead of a faint spirit.
They will be called oaks of righteousness,
the planting of the LORD, to display his glory.
- 4 They shall build up the ancient ruins,
they shall raise up the former devastations;
they shall repair the ruined cities,
the devastations of many generations.

Announcement of good news

- 5 Strangers shall stand and feed your flocks,
foreigners shall till your land and dress your vines;
- 6 but you shall be called priests of the LORD,
you shall be named ministers of our God;
you shall enjoy the wealth of the nations,
and in their riches you shall glory.
- 7 Because their shame was double,
and dishonor was proclaimed as their lot,
therefore they shall possess a double portion;
everlasting joy shall be theirs.
- 8 For I the LORD love justice,
I hate robbery and wrongdoing;
I will faithfully give them their recompense,
and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.
- 9 Their descendants shall be known among the nations,
and their offspring among the peoples;
all who see them shall acknowledge that they are a people whom the LORD has blessed.

- 10 I will greatly rejoice in the LORD,
my whole being shall exult in my God;
for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation,
he has covered me with the robe of righteousness,
as a bridegroom decks himself with a garland,
and as a bride adorns herself with her jewels.
- 11 For as the earth brings forth its shoots,
and as a garden causes what is sown in it to spring up,
so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise
to spring up before all the nations.

[Isaiah 62]
Zion's destiny

- 1 For Zion's sake I will not keep silent,
and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest,
until her vindication shines out like the dawn,
and her salvation like a burning torch.
- 2 The nations shall see your vindication,
and all the kings your glory;
and you shall be called by a new name
that the mouth of the LORD will give.
- 3 You shall be a crown of beauty in the hand of the LORD,
and a royal diadem in the hand of your God.
- 4 You shall no more be termed Forsaken,
and your land shall no more be termed Desolate;
but you shall be called My Delight Is in Her,
and your land Married;
for the LORD delights in you,
and your land shall be married.
- 5 For as a young man marries a young woman,
so shall your builder marry you,
and as the bridegroom rejoices over the bride,
so shall your God rejoice over you.

- 6 Upon your walls, O Jerusalem,
I have posted sentinels;
all day and all night
they shall never be silent.
You who remind the LORD,
take no rest,
- 7 and give him no rest
until he establishes Jerusalem
and makes it renowned throughout the earth.
- 8 The LORD has sworn by his right hand
and by his mighty arm:
I will not again give your grain
to be food for your enemies,
and foreigners shall not drink the wine
for which you have labored;
- 9 but those who garner it shall eat it
and praise the LORD,
and those who gather it shall drink it
in my holy courts.
- 10 Go through, go through the gates,
prepare the way for the people;
build up, build up the highway,
clear it of stones,
lift up an ensign over the peoples.
- 11 The LORD has proclaimed
to the end of the earth:
Say to daughter Zion,
"See, your salvation comes;
his reward is with him,
and his recompense before him."
- 12 They shall be called, "The Holy People,
The Redeemed of the LORD";
and you shall be called, "Sought Out,
A City Not Forsaken."

[Isaiah 63]
Vengeance on Edom

1 "Who is this that comes from Edom,
from Bozrah in garments stained crimson?
Who is this so splendidly robed, marching in his great might?"

"It is I, announcing vindication, mighty to save."

2 "Why are your robes red,
and your garments like theirs who tread the wine press?"

3 "I have trodden the wine press alone,
and from the peoples no one was with me;
I trod them in my anger
and trampled them in my wrath;
their juice spattered on my garments,
and stained all my robes.

4 For the day of vengeance was in my heart,
and the year for my redeeming work had come.

5 I looked, but there was no helper;
I stared, but there was no one to sustain me;
so my own arm brought me victory,
and my wrath sustained me.

6 I trampled down peoples in my anger,
I crushed them in my wrath,
and I poured out their lifeblood on the earth."

A psalm of communal lamentation

7 I will recount the gracious deeds of the LORD,
the praiseworthy acts of the LORD,
because of all that the LORD has done for us,
and the great favor to the house of Israel
that he has shown them according to his mercy,
according to the abundance of his steadfast love.

- 8 For he said, "Surely they are my people,
children who will not deal falsely";
and he became their savior
9 in all their distress.
It was no messenger or angel
but his presence that saved them;
in his love and in his pity he redeemed them;
he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.
- 10 But they rebelled
and grieved his holy spirit;
therefore he became their enemy;
he himself fought against them.
- 11 Then they remembered the days of old,
of Moses his servant.
Where is the one who brought them up out of the sea
with the shepherds of his flock?
Where is the one who put within them
his holy spirit,
12 who caused his glorious arm
to march at the right hand of Moses,
who divided the waters before them
to make for himself an everlasting name, 13 who led them through the depths?
Like a horse in the desert,
they did not stumble.
- 14 Like cattle that go down into the valley,
the spirit of the LORD gave them rest.
Thus you led your people,
to make for yourself a glorious name.
- 15 Look down from heaven and see,
from your holy and glorious habitation.
Where are your zeal and your might?
The yearning of your heart and your compassion?
They are withheld from me.

- 16 For you are our father, though Abraham does not know us
 and Israel does not acknowledge us;
 you, O LORD, are our father;
 our Redeemer from of old is your name.
- 17 Why, O LORD, do you make us stray from your ways and harden our heart, so that we do not fear you?
 Turn back for the sake of your servants,
 for the sake of the tribes that are your heritage.
- 18 Your holy people took possession for a little while;
 but now our adversaries have trampled down your sanctuary.
- 19 We have long been like those whom you do not rule,
 like those not called by your name.

[Isaiah 64]

- 1 O that you would tear open the heavens and come down, so that the mountains would quake at your presence —
- 2 as when fire kindles brushwood and the fire causes water to boil —
 to make your name known to your adversaries,
 so that the nations might tremble at your presence!
- 3 When you did awesome deeds that we did not expect,
 you came down, the mountains quaked at your presence.
- 4 From ages past no one has heard,
 no ear has perceived,
 no eye has seen any God besides you,
 who works for those who wait for him.
- 5 You meet those who gladly do right,
 those who remember you in your ways.
 But you were angry, and we sinned;
 because you hid yourself we transgressed.
- 6 We have all become like one who is unclean,
 and all our righteous deeds are like a filthy cloth.
 We all fade like a leaf,
 and our iniquities, like the wind, take us away.

- 7 There is no one who calls on your name,
 or attempts to take hold of you;
 for you have hidden your face from us,
 and have delivered us into the hand of our iniquity.
- 8 Yet, O LORD, you are our Father;
 we are the clay, and you are our potter;
 we are all the work of your hand.
- 9 Do not be exceedingly angry, O LORD,
 and do not remember iniquity forever.
 Now consider, we are all your people.
- 10 Your holy cities have become a wilderness,
 Zion has become a wilderness,
 Jerusalem a desolation.
- 11 Our holy and beautiful house,
 where our ancestors praised you,
 has been burned by fire,
 and all our pleasant places have become ruins.
- 12 After all this, will you restrain yourself, O LORD?
 Will you keep silent, and punish us so severely?

[Isaiah 65]

The answer

- 1 I was ready to be sought out by those who did not ask,
 to be found by those who did not seek me.
 I said, "Here I am, here I am,"
 to a nation that did not call on my name.
- 2 I held out my hands all day long
 to a rebellious people,
 who walk in a way that is not good,
 following their own devices;
- 3 a people who provoke me
 to my face continually, sacrificing in gardens
 and offering incense on bricks;

4 who sit inside tombs,
 and spend the night in secret places;
 who eat swine's flesh,
 with broth of abominable things in their vessels;
 5 who say, "Keep to yourself,
 do not come near me, for I am too holy for you."
 These are a smoke in my nostrils,
 a fire that burns all day long.
 6 See, it is written before me:
 I will not keep silent, but I will repay;
 I will indeed repay into their laps
 7 their iniquities and their ancestors' iniquities together,
 says the LORD;
 because they offered incense on the mountains
 and reviled me on the hills,
 I will measure into their laps
 full payment for their actions.

Division in the Judean community

8 Thus says the LORD:
 As the wine is found in the cluster,
 and they say, "Do not destroy it,
 for there is a blessing in it,"
 so I will do for my servants' sake,
 and not destroy them all.
 9 I will bring forth descendants from Jacob,
 and from Judah inheritors of my mountains;
 my chosen shall inherit it,
 and my servants shall settle there.
 10 Sharon shall become a pasture for flocks,
 and the Valley of Achor a place for herds to lie down,
 for my people who have sought me.
 11 But you who forsake the LORD,
 who forget my holy mountain, who set a table for Fortune
 and fill cups of mixed wine for Destiny;

12 I will destine you to the sword,
 and all of you shall bow down to the slaughter;
 because, when I called, you did not answer,
 when I spoke, you did not listen,
 but you did what was evil in my sight,
 and chose what I did not delight in.

Contrast between the destiny of God's servants and that of the reprobate

13 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
 My servants shall eat,
 but you shall be hungry;
 my servants shall drink,
 but you shall be thirsty;
 my servants shall rejoice,
 but you shall be put to shame;
 14 my servants shall sing for gladness of heart,
 but you shall cry out for pain of heart,
 and shall wail for anguish of spirit.
 15 You shall leave your name to my chosen to use as a curse,
 and the Lord GOD will put you to death;
 but to his servants he will give a different name.
 16 Then whoever invokes a blessing in the land shall bless by the God of faithfulness,
 and whoever takes an oath in the land shall swear by the God of faithfulness;
 because the former troubles are forgotten
 and are hidden from my sight.

An apocalyptic interpolation

17 For I am about to create new heavens and a new earth;
 the former things shall not be remembered
 or come to mind.

- 18 But be glad and rejoice forever
in what I am creating;
for I am about to create Jerusalem as a joy,
and its people as a delight.
- 19 I will rejoice in Jerusalem,
and delight in my people;
no more shall the sound of weeping be heard in it,
or the cry of distress.
- 20 No more shall there be in it
an infant that lives but a few days,
or an old person who does not live out a lifetime;
for one who dies at a hundred years will be considered a youth,
and one who falls short of a hundred will be considered accursed.
- 21 They shall build houses and inhabit them;
they shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit.
- 22 They shall not build and another inhabit;
they shall not plant and another eat;
for like the days of a tree shall the days of my people be,
and my chosen shall long enjoy the work of their hands.
- 23 They shall not labor in vain,
or bear children for calamity;
for they shall be offspring blessed by the LORD —
and their descendants as well.
- 24 Before they call I will answer,
while they are yet speaking I will hear.
- 25 The wolf and the lamb shall feed together,
the lion shall eat straw like the ox;
but the serpent — its food shall be dust!
They shall not hurt or destroy
on all my holy mountain,
says the LORD.

[Isaiah 66]A community divided

1 Thus says the LORD:

Heaven is my throne
and the earth is my footstool;

what is the house that you would build for me,
and what is my resting place?

2 All these things my hand has made,
and so all these things are mine,
says the LORD.

But this is the one to whom I will look,
to the humble and contrite in spirit,
who trembles at my word.

3 Whoever slaughters an ox is like one who kills a human being;
whoever sacrifices a lamb, like one who breaks a dog's neck;
whoever presents a grain offering, like one who offers swine's blood; whoever makes a memorial offering of frankincense, like one who blesses an idol.

These have chosen their own ways,
and in their abominations they take delight;

4 I also will choose to mock them,
and bring upon them what they fear;
because, when I called, no one answered,
when I spoke, they did not listen;
but they did what was evil in my sight,
and chose what did not please me.

5 Hear the word of the LORD,
you who tremble at his word:
Your own people who hate you and reject you for my name's sake have said, "Let the LORD be glorified,
so that we may see your joy";
but it is they who shall be put to shame.

6 Listen, an uproar from the city!
A voice from the temple!
The voice of the LORD,
dealing retribution to his enemies!

The destiny of Jerusalem

- 7 Before she was in labor
she gave birth;
before her pain came upon her
she delivered a son.
- 8 Who has heard of such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Shall a land be born in one day?
Shall a nation be delivered in one moment?
Yet as soon as Zion was in labor
she delivered her children.
- 9 Shall I open the womb and not deliver?
says the LORD;
shall I, the one who delivers, shut the womb?
says your God.
- 10 Rejoice with Jerusalem, and be glad for her,
all you who love her;
rejoice with her in joy,
all you who mourn over her —
- 11 that you may nurse and be satisfied
from her consoling breast;
that you may drink deeply with delight
from her glorious bosom.
- 12 For thus says the LORD:
I will extend prosperity to her like a river,
and the wealth of the nations like an overflowing stream;
and you shall nurse and be carried on her arm,
and dandled on her knees.

- 13 As a mother comforts her child,
 so I will comfort you;
 you shall be comforted in Jerusalem.
- 14 You shall see, and your heart shall rejoice;
 your bodies shall flourish like the grass;
 and it shall be known that the hand of the LORD
 is with his servants,
 and his indignation is against his enemies.

Homecoming, vindication, and final judgment

- 15 For the LORD will come in fire,
 and his chariots like the whirlwind,
 to pay back his anger in fury,
 and his rebuke in flames of fire.
- 16 For by fire will the LORD execute judgment,
 and by his sword, on all flesh;
 and those slain by the LORD shall be many.
- 17 Those who sanctify and purify themselves to go into the gardens, following the one in the center, eating the flesh of pigs, vermin, and rodents, shall come to an end together, says the LORD.
- 18 For I know their works and their thoughts, and I am coming to gather all nations and tongues; and they shall come and shall see my glory, 19 and I will set a sign among them. From them I will send survivors to the nations, to Tarshish, Put, and Lud — which draw the bow — to Tubal and Javan, to the coastlands far away that have not heard of my fame or seen my glory; and they shall declare my glory among the nations. 20 They shall bring all your kindred from all the nations as an offering to the LORD, on horses, and in chariots, and in litters, and on mules, and on dromedaries, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, says the LORD, just as the Israelites bring a grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD. 21 And I will also take some of them as priests and as Levites, says the LORD.

22 For as the new heavens and the new earth,
 which I will make,
 shall remain before me, says the LORD;
 so shall your descendants and your name remain.

23 From new moon to new moon,
 and from sabbath to sabbath,
 all flesh shall come to worship before me,
 says the LORD.

24 And they shall go out and look at the dead bodies of the people who have rebelled against me; for their worm shall not die, their fire shall not be quenched, and they shall be an abhorrence to all flesh.

JEREMIAH

Introduction

Jeremiah was the son of Hilkiah, a priest at Anathoth (1.1); he may have been a descendant of the priest Abiathar, who was banished by Solomon to Anathoth (1 Kings 2.26, 27). The chronology of Jeremiah's life suggested by the superscription (1.2-3) raised a number of problems. If Jeremiah's ministry began in 627 BCE (1.2), he would have been active over four decades. Despite the efforts of some scholars to interpret chs 2-6 and perhaps portions of chs 30-31 as the prophet's early preaching during Josiah's reign, no material in the book can be unequivocally assigned to that time. Even more enigmatically, although the prose sermons and biographical narratives in the book bear strong linguistic resemblance to Deuteronomy and the so-called Deuteronomistic History (Joshua-2 Kings), Jeremiah is inexplicably regarding Josiah's religious reform inspired by the discovery of the Temple of the "book of the law" in 622 BCE (2 Kings 22-23). These difficulties lead some scholars to regard 627 BCE as the date of Jeremiah's birth (1.5) rather than as the beginning of his public career. He died sometime after 586, presumably in Egypt.

No matter which date is chosen, the important events that form the backdrop of Jeremiah's preaching are clear. Jeremiah spoke in the context of the last years of the existence of Judah as an independent political entity: the final years of the seventh century BCE (approximately 610-600 BCE) and the first decades of the sixth century (until sometime after 586). These were the years during which the growing power of the Babylonian Empire became more and more threatening to Judah, culminating with the siege of Jerusalem in 598-697 (during which the king, Jehoiakim, died and his son Jehoiachin [Jeconiah or Coniah] assumed the throne). Jehoiachin was deposed and replaced by his uncle, Zedekiah, and the deposed king and a portion of the ruling classes (including the priest-prophet Ezekiel; see the Introduction to Ezekiel) were exiled to Babylon. The ensuing decade saw increasingly desperate attempts on the part of Judah to free itself from the Babylonian overlordship, but a final revolt by Zedekiah (based partly on the promises of help from Egypt that were unfulfilled) brought about the Babylonian invasion of Jerusalem and the destruction of the city and the Temple in 586 BCE, at which point the rest of the rulers were exiled as well. Though Jeremiah wished to remain in Judah with Gedaliah, the governor appointed by the Babylonians, Gedaliah was assassinated, along with a contingent of Babylonian soldiers. Fearing indiscriminate reprisals by the Babylonians, many of the remaining Judean leaders fled to Egypt, taking the protesting Jeremiah with them (chs 40-44).

Understanding the history behind the book of Jeremiah, and how the prophet's statements relate to that history, is made more difficult by the complexity of the organization of the book itself. Alongside the typical prophetic oracles, which are in poetical form, Jeremiah also contains a good deal of prose — often written in the third person, influenced by the language and theology of Deuteronomy and the Deuteronomistic History, and including the historical appendix (ch 52) borrowed from 2 Kings 24.28-25.30. There are many doublets (7.1-15 || 26.4-6; 7.32 || 19.6; 16.14-15 || 23.7-8). The relationship between the standard Hebrew text and other ancient versions of the book is confusing. An apparently artificial system of superstitions and chronological notes may have been inserted to make the book conform to the Deuteronomistic History. All these qualities suggest that the book represents the product of a long period of editorial activity lasting well into the Hellenistic period (see 33.14-26). According to the structure imposed on the book by the prose superscriptions, it consists essentially of a collection of oracles against Judah and Jerusalem, which Jeremiah dictated to his aide Baruch (1.4-20.18, from the time of Josiah and Jehoiakim; 21.1-25.14, from the time of Zedekiah); narratives about Jeremiah's prophetic activity (chs 26-35; 36-45); and a group of oracles against the foreign nations (25.15-38; chs 45-51), together with an introduction (1.1-3) and the historical appendix (ch 52).

Scholars offer various models to explain formation of the book. Some point to what they consider to be signs that the book was compiled over a period of time from smaller collections of oracles. One clue to such smaller collections may be the first two scrolls of judgment oracles that Jeremiah is said to have dictated to Baruch (ch 36). The second scroll (36.32) could have formed that nucleus for the material now found in 2.1-20.18. Another small collection may have been the scroll of consolation (30.1-3), which in its original form probably contained much of what is now in chs 30-31. Against this view, however, others point out that the narrative concerning Baruch's scrolls may not be reliable as a guide to the history of the formation of the book because it occurs in the prose narratives of chs 36-44, which are slanted in favor of Babylonian exiles. Also, the narrative clearly contrasts the behavior of the king (ch 36) with the account of Josiah's reaction to the discovery of the scroll of the law (2 Kings 22-23) and may therefore have been written with this aim in mind. If the book of Jeremiah cannot be traced to Baruch's two scrolls, it presumably grew by means of successive additions and redactions of some now unidentifiable core of Jeremiah's preaching.

Perhaps the strongest evidence for this redactional model is that the present Hebrew text differs substantially from the Greek version (the Septuagint) in both content and order. Thus the Septuagint does not contain several passages (e.g., 33.14-26) and combines the oracles against the foreign nations into a single section following 25.14, though in a different order. In addition, there are many smaller differences from verse to verse. Remarkably, among the portions of the text of Jeremiah in Hebrew that were found among the Dead Sea Scrolls are not only those that reflect the standard Hebrew text but also those that reflect the text tradition represented by the Septuagint. It is likely, then, that these two text traditions represent the contrasting editorial work of the book of Jeremiah that took place in Egypt (the Septuagint tradition) and in Palestine or Babylon (the traditional Hebrew text).

Much of Jeremiah's prophetic preaching is based on the theme of the covenant relationship between God and the people of Israel and Judah. Drawing on traditions at home in northern Israel, Jeremiah considered the covenant to be a conditional one, which could be broken by the people's persistent apostasy. Influenced by Hosea, Jeremiah used imagery of the people as an unfaithful wife and as rebellious children (chs 2-3). Such infidelity made judgment virtually inevitable. In his vivid poetic oracles Jeremiah dramatizes the grief experienced by God, prophet, and people (e.g., chs 4-6). Interspersed with the words of judgment and anguish, however, are a number of references to repentance and the renewal of the covenant relationship. Because of the complex ways in which the book has been edited, it is difficult to determine whether Jeremiah considered it possible that the people's repentance might forestall judgment or whether he considered repentance and a new beginning possible only after the judgment had fallen. In the prose narratives about Jeremiah during the siege and fall of Jerusalem, Jeremiah is represented as insisting that there would be a future for the people in the land of Judah even after the Babylonian conquest (chs 32, 42). The theme of restoration is strongest in chs 30-31, where a future is envisioned in which a new covenant will be made with Israel and Judah, one that will not be broken (31.33).

[Jeremiah 1] Superscription

1 The words of Jeremiah son of Hilkiyah, of the priests who were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, 2 to whom the word of the LORD came in the days of King Josiah son of Amon of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign. 3 It came also in the days of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah, and until the end of the eleventh year of King Zedekiah son of Josiah of Judah, until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

Jeremiah's call and related visions

4 Now the word of the LORD came to me saying,

5 "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you,
and before you were born I consecrated you;
I appointed you a prophet to the nations."

6 Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Truly I do not know how to speak, for I am only a boy." 7 But the LORD said to me,

"Do not say, 'I am only a boy';
for you shall go to all to whom I send you,
and you shall speak whatever I command you.

8 Do not be afraid of them,
for I am with you to deliver you,
says the LORD."

9 Then the LORD put out his hand and touched my mouth; and the LORD said to me,

"Now I have put my words in your mouth.

10 See, today I appoint you over nations and over kingdoms,
to pluck up and to pull down,
to destroy and to overthrow,
to build and to plant."

11 The word of the LORD came to me, saying, "Jeremiah, what do you see?" And I said, "I see a branch of an almond tree." 12 Then the LORD said to me, "You have seen well, for I am watching over my word to perform it." 13 The word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying,
"What do you see?" And I said, "I see a boiling pot, tilted away from the north."

14 Then the LORD said to me: Out of the north disaster shall break out on all the inhabitants of the land. 15 For now I am calling all the tribes of the kingdoms of the north, says the LORD; and they shall come and all of them shall set their thrones at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, against all its surrounding walls and against all the cities of Judah. 16 And I will utter my judgments against them, for all their wickedness in forsaking me; they have made offerings to other gods, and worshiped the works of their own hands. 17 But you, gird up your loins; stand up and tell them everything that I command you. Do not break down before them, or I will break you before them. 18 And I for my part have made you today a fortified city, an iron pillar, and a bronze wall, against the whole land — against the kings of Judah, its princes, its priests, and the people of the land. 19 They will fight against you; but they shall not prevail against you, for I am with you, says the LORD, to deliver you.

[Jeremiah 2]

Introduction to Jeremiah's message; the apostasy of Israel

1 The word of the LORD came to me, saying: 2 Go and proclaim in the hearing of Jerusalem, Thus says the LORD:

I remember the devotion of your youth,
 your love as a bride,
 how you followed me in the wilderness,
 in a land not sown.

3 Israel was holy to the LORD,
 the first fruits of his harvest.

All who ate of it were held guilty;
 disaster came upon them,
 says the LORD.

4 Hear the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel. 5 Thus says the LORD:

What wrong did your ancestors find in me
 that they went far from me,
 and went after worthless things, and became worthless themselves?

6 They did not say, "Where is the LORD
 who brought us up from the land of Egypt,
 who led us in the wilderness,
 in a land of deserts and pits,
 in a land of drought and deep darkness,
 in a land that no one passes through,
 where no one lives?"

- 7 I brought you into a plentiful land
to eat its fruits and its good things.
But when you entered you defiled my land,
and made my heritage an abomination.
- 8 The priests did not say, "Where is the LORD?"
Those who handle the law did not know me;
the rulers transgressed against me;
the prophets prophesied by Baal,
and went after things that do not profit.
- 9 Therefore once more I accuse you,
says the LORD,
and I accuse your children's children.
- 10 Cross to the coasts of Cyprus and look,
send to Kedar and examine with care;
see if there has ever been such a thing.
- 11 Has a nation changed its gods,
even though they are no gods?
But my people have changed their glory
for something that does not profit.
- 12 Be appalled, O heavens, at this,
be shocked, be utterly desolate,
says the LORD,
- 13 for my people have committed two evils:
they have forsaken me,
the fountain of living water,
and dug out cisterns for themselves,
cracked cisterns
that can hold no water.
- 14 Is Israel a slave? Is he a homeborn servant?
Why then has he become plunder?
- 15 The lions have roared against him,
they have roared loudly.
They have made his land a waste;
his cities are in ruins, without inhabitant.
- 16 Moreover, the people of Memphis and Tahpanhes have broken the crown of your head.

- 17 Have you not brought this upon yourself
by forsaking the LORD your God,
while he led you in the way?
- 18 What then do you gain by going to Egypt,
to drink the waters of the Nile?
Or what do you gain by going to Assyria,
to drink the waters of the Euphrates?
- 19 Your wickedness will punish you,
and your apostasies will convict you.
Know and see that it is evil and bitter
for you to forsake the LORD your God;
the fear of me is not in you,
says the Lord GOD of hosts.
- 20 For long ago you broke your yoke
and burst your bonds,
and you said, "I will not serve!"
On every high hill
and under every green tree
you sprawled and played the whore.
- 21 Yet I planted you as a choice vine,
from the purest stock.
How then did you turn degenerate
and become a wild vine?
- 22 Though you wash yourself with lye
and use much soap,
the stain of your guilt is still before me,
says the Lord GOD.
- 23 How can you say, "I am not defiled,
I have not gone after the Baals"?
Look at your way in the valley;
know what you have done —
a restive young camel interlacing her tracks,
- 24 a wild ass at home in the wilderness,
in her heat sniffing the wind!
Who can restrain her lust?
None who seek her need weary themselves;
in her month they will find her.

- 25 Keep your feet from going unshod
and your throat from thirst.
But you said, "It is hopeless,
for I have loved strangers,
and after them I will go."
- 26 As a thief is shamed when caught,
so the house of Israel shall be shamed —
they, their kings, their officials,
their priests, and their prophets,
27 who say to a tree, "You are my father,"
and to a stone, "You gave me birth."
For they have turned their backs to me,
and not their faces.
But in the time of their trouble they say,
"Come and save us!"
- 28 But where are your gods
that you made for yourself?
Let them come, if they can save you,
in your time of trouble;
for you have as many gods
as you have towns, O Judah.
- 29 Why do you complain against me?
You have all rebelled against me,
says the LORD.
- 30 In vain I have struck down your children;
they accepted no correction.
Your own sword devoured your prophets
like a ravaging lion.
- 31 And you, O generation, behold the word of the LORD!
Have I been a wilderness to Israel,
or a land of thick darkness?
Why then do my people say, "We are free,
we will come to you no more"?

- 32 Can a girl forget her ornaments,
or a bride her attire?
Yet my people have forgotten me,
days without number.
- 33 How well you direct your course
to seek lovers!
So that even to wicked women
you have taught your ways.
- 34 Also on your skirts is found
the lifeblood of the innocent poor, though you did not catch them breaking in.
Yet in spite of all these things
- 35 you say, "I am innocent;
surely his anger has turned from me."
Now I am bringing you to judgment for saying, "I have not sinned."
- 36 How lightly you gad about,
changing your ways!
You shall be put to shame by Egypt
as you were put to shame by Assyria.
- 37 From there also you will come away
with your hands on your head;
for the LORD has rejected those in whom you trust,
and you will not prosper through them.

[Jeremiah 3]

The possibility of repentance and the conditions for restoration

- 1 If a man divorces his wife and she goes from him
and becomes another man's wife,
will he return to her?
Would not such a land be greatly polluted?
You have played the whore with many lovers;
and would you return to me?
says the LORD.

2 Look up to the bare heights, and see!
 Where have you not been lain with?
 By the waysides you have sat waiting for lovers,
 like a nomad in the wilderness.
 You have polluted the land
 with your whoring and wickedness.

3 Therefore the showers have been withheld,
 and the spring rain has not come;
 yet you have the forehead of a whore,
 you refuse to be ashamed.

4 Have you not just now called to me,
 "My Father, you are the friend of my youth — 5 will he be angry forever,
 will he be indignant to the end?"
 This is how you have spoken,
 but you have done all the evil that you could.

6 The LORD said to me in the days of King Josiah: Have you seen what she did, that faithless one, Israel, how she went up on every high hill and under every green tree, and played the whore there? 7 And I thought, "After she has done all this she will return to me"; but she did not return, and her false sister Judah saw it. 8 She saw that for all the adulteries of that faithless one, Israel, I had sent her away with a decree of divorce; yet her false sister Judah did not fear, but she too went and played the whore. 9 Because she took her whoredom so lightly, she polluted the land, committing adultery with stone and tree. 10 Yet for all this her false sister Judah did not return to me with her whole heart, but only in pretense, says the LORD.

11 Then the LORD said to me: Faithless Israel has shown herself less guilty than false Judah. 12 Go, and proclaim these words toward the north, and say:
 Return, faithless Israel,
 says the LORD.
 I will not look on you in anger,
 for I am merciful,
 says the LORD;
 I will not be angry forever.

13 Only acknowledge your guilt,
that you have rebelled against the LORD your God,
and scattered your favors among strangers under every green tree, and have not obeyed my voice,
says the LORD.

14 Return, O faithless children,
says the LORD,
for I am your master;
I will take you, one from a city and two from a family,
and I will bring you to Zion.

15 I will give you shepherds after my own heart, who will feed you with knowledge and understanding. 16 And when you have multiplied and increased in the land, in those days, says the LORD, they shall no longer say, "The ark of the covenant of the LORD." It shall not come to mind, or be remembered, or missed; nor shall another one be made. 17 At that time Jerusalem shall be called the throne of the LORD, and all nations shall gather to it, to the presence of the LORD in Jerusalem, and they shall no longer stubbornly follow their own evil will. 18 In those days the house of Judah shall join the house of Israel, and together they shall come from the land of the north to the land that I gave your ancestors for a heritage.

19 I thought
how I would set you among my children,
and give you a pleasant land,
the most beautiful heritage of all the nations.
And I thought you would call me, My Father,
and would not turn from following me.
20 Instead, as a faithless wife leaves her husband,
so you have been faithless to me, O house of Israel,
says the LORD.

21 A voice on the bare heights is heard,
the plaintive weeping of Israel's children,
because they have perverted their way,
they have forgotten the LORD their God:

22 Return, O faithless children,
 I will heal your faithlessness.
 "Here we come to you;
 for you are the LORD our God.
 23 Truly the hills are a delusion,
 the orgies on the mountains.
 Truly in the LORD our God is the salvation of Israel.

24 "But from our youth the shameful thing has devoured all for which our ancestors had labored, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters. 25 Let us lie down in our shame, and let our dishonor cover us; for we have sinned against the LORD our God, we and our ancestors, from our youth even to this day; and we have not obeyed
 the voice of the LORD our God."

[Jeremiah 4]

1 If you return, O Israel,
 says the LORD,
 if you return to me,
 if you remove your abominations from my presence,
 and do not waver,
 2 and if you swear, "As the LORD lives!"
 in truth, in justice, and in uprightness,
 then nations shall be blessed by him,
 and by him they shall boast.

The foe from the north; a warning

3 For thus says the LORD to the people of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem:
 Break up your fallow ground,
 and do not sow among thorns.

4 Circumcise yourselves to the LORD,
 remove the foreskin of your hearts,
 O people of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem,
 or else my wrath will go forth like fire,
 and burn with no one to quench it,
 because of the evil of your doings.

The invading foe from the north, a recurring theme in Jeremiah

5 Declare in Judah, and proclaim in Jerusalem, and say:
 Blow the trumpet through the land;
 shout aloud and say,
 "Gather together, and let us go into the fortified cities!"

6 Raise a standard toward Zion,
 flee for safety, do not delay,
 for I am bringing evil from the north,
 and a great destruction.

7 A lion has gone up from its thicket,
 a destroyer of nations has set out;
 he has gone out from his place
 to make your land a waste;
 your cities will be ruins
 without inhabitant.

8 Because of this put on sackcloth,
 lament and wail:
 "The fierce anger of the LORD
 has not turned away from us."

9 On that day, says the LORD, courage shall fail the king and the officials; the priests shall be appalled and the prophets astounded. 10 Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD, how utterly you have deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, 'It shall be well with you,' even while the sword is at the throat!"

11 At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem: A hot wind comes from me out of the bare heights in the desert toward my poor people, not to winnow or cleanse — 12 a wind too strong for that.

Now it is I who speak in judgment against them.

- 13 Look! He comes up like clouds,
his chariots like the whirlwind;
his horses are swifter than eagles —
woe to us, for we are ruined!
- 14 O Jerusalem, wash your heart clean of wickedness
so that you may be saved.
How long shall your evil schemes
lodge within you?
- 15 For a voice declares from Dan
and proclaims disaster from Mount Ephraim.
- 16 Tell the nations, "Here they are!"
Proclaim against Jerusalem,
"Besiegers come from a distant land;
they shout against the cities of Judah.
- 17 They have closed in around her like watchers of a field,
because she has rebelled against me,
says the LORD.
- 18 Your ways and your doings
have brought this upon you.
This is your doom; how bitter it is!
It has reached your very heart."
- 19 My anguish, my anguish! I writhe in pain!
Oh, the walls of my heart!
My heart is beating wildly;
I cannot keep silent;
for I hear the sound of the trumpet,
the alarm of war.
- 20 Disaster overtakes disaster,
the whole land is laid waste.
Suddenly my tents are destroyed,
my curtains in a moment.
- 21 How long must I see the standard,
and hear the sound of the trumpet?

- 22 "For my people are foolish,
they do not know me;
they are stupid children,
they have no understanding.
They are skilled in doing evil,
but do not know how to do good."
- 23 I looked on the earth, and lo, it was waste and void;
and to the heavens, and they had no light.
- 24 I looked on the mountains, and lo, they were quaking,
and all the hills moved to and fro.
- 25 I looked, and lo, there was no one at all,
and all the birds of the air had fled.
- 26 I looked, and lo, the fruitful land was a desert,
and all its cities were laid in ruins
before the LORD, before his fierce anger.
- 27 For thus says the LORD: The whole land shall be a desolation; yet I will not make a full end.
- 28 Because of this the earth shall mourn,
and the heavens above grow black;
for I have spoken, I have purposed;
I have not relented nor will I turn back.
- 29 At the noise of horseman and archer
every town takes to flight;
they enter thickets; they climb among rocks;
all the towns are forsaken,
and no one lives in them.
- 30 And you, O desolate one,
what do you mean that you dress in crimson,
that you deck yourself with ornaments of gold,
that you enlarge your eyes with paint?
In vain you beautify yourself.
Your lovers despise you;
they seek your life.

31 For I heard a cry as of a woman in labor, anguish as of one bringing forth her first child,
 the cry of daughter Zion gasping for breath,
 stretching out her hands,
 "Woe is me! I am fainting before killers!"

[Jeremiah 5]

The corruptions that bring judgment

1 Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem,
 look around and take note!
 Search its squares and see if you can find one person who acts justly
 and seeks truth —
 so that I may pardon Jerusalem.

2 Although they say, "As the LORD lives," yet they swear falsely.

3 O LORD, do your eyes not look for truth?
 You have struck them,
 but they felt no anguish;
 you have consumed them,
 but they refused to take correction.
 They have made their faces harder than rock;
 they have refused to turn back.

4 Then I said, "These are only the poor,
 they have no sense;
 for they do not know the way of the LORD,
 the law of their God.

5 Let me go to the rich
 and speak to them;
 surely they know the way of the LORD,
 the law of their God."
 But they all alike had broken the yoke,
 they had burst the bonds.

- 6 Therefore a lion from the forest shall kill them,
a wolf from the desert shall destroy them.
A leopard is watching against their cities;
everyone who goes out of them shall be torn in pieces —
because their transgressions are many,
their apostasies are great.
- 7 How can I pardon you?
Your children have forsaken me,
and have sworn by those who are no gods.
When I fed them to the full,
they committed adultery
and trooped to the houses of prostitutes.
- 8 They were well-fed lusty stallions,
each neighing for his neighbor's wife.
- 9 Shall I not punish them for these things?
says the LORD;
and shall I not bring retribution
on a nation such as this?
- 10 Go up through her vine-rows and destroy,
but do not make a full end;
strip away her branches,
for they are not the LORD's.
- 11 For the house of Israel and the house of Judah
have been utterly faithless to me,
says the LORD.
- 12 They have spoken falsely of the LORD,
and have said, "He will do nothing.
No evil will come upon us,
and we shall not see sword or famine."
- 13 The prophets are nothing but wind,
for the word is not in them.
Thus shall it be done to them!
- 14 Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of hosts:
Because they have spoken this word,
I am now making my words in your mouth a fire,
and this people wood, and the fire shall devour them.

15 I am going to bring upon you a nation from far away, O house of Israel,
says the LORD.

It is an enduring nation,
it is an ancient nation,
a nation whose language you do not know,
nor can you understand what they say.

16 Their quiver is like an open tomb;
all of them are mighty warriors.

17 They shall eat up your harvest and your food;
they shall eat up your sons and your daughters;
they shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
they shall eat up your vines and your fig trees;
they shall destroy with the sword
your fortified cities in which you trust.

18 But even in those days, says the LORD, I will not make a full end of you. 19 And when your people say, "Why has the LORD our God done all these things to us?" you shall say to them, "As you have forsaken me and served foreign gods in your land, so you shall serve strangers in a land that is not yours."

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob,
proclaim it in Judah:

21 Hear this, O foolish and senseless people, who have eyes, but do not see,
who have ears, but do not hear.

22 Do you not fear me? says the LORD;
Do you not tremble before me?

I placed the sand as a boundary for the sea,
a perpetual barrier that it cannot pass;
though the waves toss, they cannot prevail,
though they roar, they cannot pass over it.

23 But this people has a stubborn and rebellious heart;
they have turned aside and gone away.

- 24 They do not say in their hearts,
 "Let us fear the LORD our God,
 who gives the rain in its season,
 the autumn rain and the spring rain,
 and keeps for us
 the weeks appointed for the harvest."
25 Your iniquities have turned these away,
 and your sins have deprived you of good.
26 For scoundrels are found among my people;
 they take over the goods of others.
 Like fowlers they set a trap;
 they catch human beings.
27 Like a cage full of birds,
 their houses are full of treachery;
 therefore they have become great and rich,
28 they have grown fat and sleek.
 They know no limits in deeds of wickedness;
 they do not judge with justice
 the cause of the orphan, to make it prosper,
 and they do not defend the rights of the needy.
29 Shall I not punish them for these things?
 says the LORD,
 and shall I not bring retribution
 on a nation such as this?
- 30 An appalling and horrible thing
 has happened in the land:
31 the prophets prophesy falsely,
 and the priests rule as the prophets direct;
 my people love to have it so,
 but what will you do when the end comes?

[Jeremiah 6]The description of the approach of the foe from the north resumes

- 1 Flee for safety, O children of Benjamin,
from the midst of Jerusalem!
Blow the trumpet in Tekoa,
and raise a signal on Beth-haccherem;
for evil looms out of the north,
and great destruction.
- 2 I have likened daughter Zion
to the loveliest pasture.
- 3 Shepherds with their flocks shall come against her.
They shall pitch their tents around her;
they shall pasture, all in their places.
- 4 "Prepare war against her;
up, and let us attack at noon!"
"Woe to us, for the day declines,
the shadows of evening lengthen!"
- 5 "Up, and let us attack by night,
and destroy her palaces!"
- 6 For thus says the LORD of hosts:
Cut down her trees;
cast up a siege ramp against Jerusalem.
This is the city that must be punished;
there is nothing but oppression within her.
- 7 As a well keeps its water fresh,
so she keeps fresh her wickedness;
violence and destruction are heard within her;
sickness and wounds are ever before me.
- 8 Take warning, O Jerusalem,
or I shall turn from you in disgust,
and make you a desolation,
an uninhabited land.

Jerusalem's obduracy

- 9 Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Glean thoroughly as a vine
the remnant of Israel;
like a grape-gatherer, pass your hand again
over its branches.
- 10 To whom shall I speak and give warning,
that they may hear?
See, their ears are closed,
they cannot listen.
The word of the LORD is to them an object of scorn;
they take no pleasure in it.
- 11 But I am full of the wrath of the LORD;
I am weary of holding it in.
Pour it out on the children in the street,
and on the gatherings of young men as well;
both husband and wife shall be taken,
the old folk and the very aged.
- 12 Their houses shall be turned over to others,
their fields and wives together;
for I will stretch out my hand
against the inhabitants of the land,
says the LORD.
- 13 For from the least to the greatest of them,
everyone is greedy for unjust gain;
and from prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.
- 14 They have treated the wound of my people carelessly,
saying, "Peace, peace,"
when there is no peace.

15 They acted shamefully, they committed abomination;
yet they were not ashamed,
they did not know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among those who fall;
at the time that I punish them, they shall be overthrown,
says the LORD.

Jerusalem is without excuse

16 Thus says the LORD:
Stand at the crossroads, and look,
and ask for the ancient paths,
where the good way lies; and walk in it,
and find rest for your souls.
But they said, "We will not walk in it."
17 Also I raised up sentinels for you:
"Give heed to the sound of the trumpet!"
But they said, "We will not give heed."
18 Therefore hear, O nations,
and know, O congregation, what will happen to them.
19 Hear, O earth; I am going to bring disaster on this people,
the fruit of their schemes,
because they have not given heed to my words;
and as for my teaching, they have rejected it.
20 Of what use to me is frankincense that comes from Sheba,
or sweet cane from a distant land?
Your burnt offerings are not acceptable,
nor are your sacrifices pleasing to me.
21 Therefore thus says the LORD:
See, I am laying before this people stumbling blocks against which they shall stumble;
parents and children together,
neighbor and friend shall perish.

The foe from the north

22 Thus says the LORD:

See, a people is coming from the land of the north,
a great nation is stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.

23 They grasp the bow and the javelin,
they are cruel and have no mercy,
their sound is like the roaring sea;
they ride on horses,
equipped like a warrior for battle,
against you, O daughter Zion!

The people's lament at the enemy's approach

24 "We have heard news of them,
our hands fall helpless;
anguish has taken hold of us,
pain as of a woman in labor.

25 Do not go out into the field,
or walk on the road;
for the enemy has a sword,
terror is on every side."

26 O my poor people, put on sackcloth,
and roll in ashes;
make mourning as for an only child,
most bitter lamentation:
for suddenly the destroyer
will come upon us.

Jeremiah, the assayer

27 I have made you a tester and a refiner among my people
so that you may know and test their ways.

28 They are all stubbornly rebellious,
going about with slanders;
they are bronze and iron,
all of them act corruptly.

29 The bellows blow fiercely,
 the lead is consumed by the fire;
 in vain the refining goes on,
 for the wicked are not removed.
 30 They are called "rejected silver,"
 for the LORD has rejected them.

[Jeremiah 7]

Judah's fate is sealed; the Temple sermon

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 Stand in the gate of the LORD's house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the LORD, all you people of Judah, you that enter these gates to worship the LORD. 3 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Amend your ways and your doings, and let me dwell with you in this place. 4 Do not trust in these deceptive words: "This is the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD."

5 For if you truly amend your ways and your doings, if you truly act justly one with another, 6 if you do not oppress the alien, the orphan, and the widow, or shed innocent blood in this place, and if you do not go after other gods to your own hurt, 7 then I will dwell with you in this place, in the land that I gave of old to your ancestors forever and ever.

8 Here you are, trusting in deceptive words to no avail. 9 Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, make offerings to Baal, and go after other gods that you have not known, 10 and then come and stand before me in this house, which is called by my name, and say, "We are safe!" — only to go on doing all these abominations? 11 Has this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your sight? You know, I too am watching, says the LORD. 12 Go now to my place that was in Shiloh, where I made my name dwell at first, and see what I did to it for the wickedness of my people Israel. 13 And now, because you have done all these things, says the LORD, and when I spoke to you persistently, you did not listen, and when I called you, you did not answer, 14 therefore I will do to the house that is called by my name, in which you trust, and to the place that I gave to you and to your ancestors, just what I did to Shiloh. 15 And I will cast you out of my sight, just as I cast out all your kinsfolk, all the offspring of Ephraim.

Intercession is futile: Judah has gone too far in idolatry

16 As for you, do not pray for this people, do not raise a cry or prayer on their behalf, and do not intercede with me, for I will not hear you. 17 Do you not see what they are doing in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 18 The children gather wood, the fathers kindle fire, and the women knead dough, to make cakes for the queen of heaven; and they pour out drink offerings to other gods, to provoke me to anger. 19 Is it I whom they provoke? says the LORD. Is it not themselves, to their own hurt? 20 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: My anger and my wrath shall be poured out on this place, on human beings and animals, on the trees of the field and the fruit of the ground; it will burn and not be quenched.

21 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat the flesh. 22 For in the day that I brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt, I did not speak to them or command them concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices. 23 But this command I gave them, "Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and you shall be my people; and walk only in the way that I command you, so that it may be well with you." 24 Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but, in the stubbornness of their evil will, they walked in their own counsels, and looked backward rather than forward. 25 From the day that your ancestors came out of the land of Egypt until this day, I have persistently sent all my servants the prophets to them, day after day; 26 yet they did not listen to me, or pay attention, but they stiffened their necks. They did worse than their ancestors did.

27 So you shall speak all these words to them, but they will not listen to you. You shall call to them, but they will not answer you. 28 You shall say to them: This is the nation that did not obey the voice of the LORD their God, and did not accept discipline; truth has perished; it is cut off from their lips.

29 Cut off your hair and throw it away;
 raise a lamentation on the bare heights,
 for the LORD has rejected and forsaken
 the generation that provoked his wrath.

30 For the people of Judah have done evil in my sight, says the LORD; they have set their abominations in the house that is called by my name, defiling it. 31 And they go on building the high place of Topheth, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire — which I did not command, nor did it come into my mind. 32 Therefore, the days are surely coming, says the LORD, when it will no more be called Topheth, or the valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of Slaughter: for they will bury in Topheth until there is no more room. 33 The corpses of this people will be food for the birds of the air, and for the animals of the earth; and no one will frighten them away. 34 And I will bring to an end the sound of mirth and gladness, the voice of the bride and bridegroom in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; for the land shall become a waste.

[Jeremiah 8]

1 At that time, says the LORD, the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of its officials, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be brought out of their tombs; 2 and they shall be spread before the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven, which they have loved and served, which they have followed, and which they have inquired of and worshiped; and they shall not be gathered or buried; they shall be like dung on the surface of the ground. 3 Death shall be preferred to life by all the remnant that remains of this evil family in all the places where I have driven them, says the LORD of hosts.

Miscellaneous oracles continuing the theme of Judah's sealed fate

4 You shall say to them, Thus says the LORD:
 When people fall, do they not get up again?
 If they go astray, do they not turn back?

- 5 Why then has this people turned away
in perpetual backsliding?
They have held fast to deceit,
they have refused to return.
- 6 I have given heed and listened,
but they do not speak honestly;
no one repents of wickedness,
saying, "What have I done!"
All of them turn to their own course,
like a horse plunging headlong into battle.
- 7 Even the stork in the heavens knows its times;
and the turtledove, swallow, and crane
observe the time of their coming;
but my people do not know
the ordinance of the LORD.
- 8 How can you say, "We are wise,
and the law of the LORD is with us," when, in fact, the false pen of the scribes has made it into a lie?
- 9 The wise shall be put to shame,
they shall be dismayed and taken;
since they have rejected the word of the LORD,
what wisdom is in them?
- 10 Therefore I will give their wives to others
and their fields to conquerors, because from the least to the greatest
everyone is greedy for unjust gain;
from prophet to priest
everyone deals falsely.
- 11 They have treated the wound of my people carelessly,
saying, "Peace, peace,"
when there is no peace.

- 12 They acted shamefully, they committed abomination;
yet they were not at all ashamed,
they did not know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among those who fall;
at the time when I punish them, they shall be overthrown,
says the LORD.
- 13 When I wanted to gather them, says the LORD,
there are no grapes on the vine,
nor figs on the fig tree;
even the leaves are withered,
and what I gave them has passed away from them.
- 14 Why do we sit still?
Gather together, let us go into the fortified cities
and perish there;
for the LORD our God has doomed us to perish,
and has given us poisoned water to drink,
because we have sinned against the LORD.
- 15 We look for peace, but find no good,
for a time of healing, but there is terror instead.
- 16 The snorting of their horses is heard from Dan;
at the sound of the neighing of their stallions
the whole land quakes.
They come and devour the land and all that fills it,
the city and those who live in it.
- 17 See, I am letting snakes loose among you,
adders that cannot be charmed,
and they shall bite you,
says the LORD.

Jerusalem's lament over Judah

- 18 My joy is gone, grief is upon me,
my heart is sick.

- 19 Hark, the cry of my poor people
 from far and wide in the land:
 "Is the LORD not in Zion?
 Is her King not in her?"
 ("Why have they provoked me to anger with their images, with their foreign idols?")
- 20 "The harvest is past, the summer is ended,
 and we are not saved."
- 21 For the hurt of my poor people I am hurt,
 I mourn, and dismay has taken hold of me.
- 22 Is there no balm in Gilead?
 Is there no physician there?
 Why then has the health of my poor people
 not been restored?

[Jeremiah 9]

- 1 O that my head were a spring of water,
 and my eyes a fountain of tears,
 so that I might weep day and night
 for the slain of my poor people!

The LORD's response

- 2 O that I had in the desert
 a traveler's lodging place, that I might leave my people
 and go away from them!
 For they are all adulterers,
 a band of traitors.
- 3 They bend their tongues like bows;
 they have grown strong in the land for falsehood,
 and not for truth; for they proceed from evil to evil,
 and they do not know me, says the LORD.

- 4 Beware of your neighbors,
and put no trust in any of your kin;
for all your kin are supplanters,
and every neighbor goes around like a slanderer.
- 5 They all deceive their neighbors,
and no one speaks the truth;
they have taught their tongues to speak lies;
they commit iniquity and are too weary to repent.
- 6 Oppression upon oppression, deceit upon deceit!
They refuse to know me, says the LORD.
- 7 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts:
I will now refine and test them,
for what else can I do with my sinful people?
- 8 Their tongue is a deadly arrow;
it speaks deceit through the mouth.
They all speak friendly words to their neighbors,
but inwardly are planning to lay an ambush.
- 9 Shall I not punish them for these things? says the LORD;
and shall I not bring retribution
on a nation such as this?

Lamentation over Zion

- 10 Take up weeping and wailing for the mountains,
and a lamentation for the pastures of the wilderness,
because they are laid waste so that no one passes through,
and the lowing of cattle is not heard;
both the birds of the air and the animals
have fled and are gone.
- 11 I will make Jerusalem a heap of ruins,
a lair of jackals;
and I will make the towns of Judah a desolation,
without inhabitant.
- 12 Who is wise enough to understand this? To whom has the mouth of the LORD spoken, so that they may declare it? Why is the land ruined and laid waste like a wilderness, so that no one passes through? 13 And the LORD says: Because they have forsaken my law that I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice, or walked in accordance with it, 14 but have stubbornly followed their own hearts and have gone after the Baals, as their ancestors taught them. 15 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am feeding this people with wormwood, and giving them poisonous water to drink. 16 I will scatter them among nations that neither they nor their ancestors have known; and I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them.

17 Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Consider, and call for the mourning women to come;
send for the skilled women to come;

18 let them quickly raise a dirge over us,
so that our eyes may run down with tears,
and our eyelids flow with water.

19 For a sound of wailing is heard from Zion:

"How we are ruined!
We are utterly shamed,
because we have left the land,
because they have cast down our dwellings."

20 Hear, O women, the word of the LORD,
and let your ears receive the word of his mouth;
teach to your daughters a dirge,
and each to her neighbor a lament.

21 "Death has come up into our windows,
it has entered our palaces,
to cut off the children from the streets
and the young men from the squares."

22 Speak! Thus says the LORD:

"Human corpses shall fall
like dung upon the open field,
like sheaves behind the reaper,
and no one shall gather them."

True glory versus false religious behavior

23 Thus says the LORD: Do not let the wise boast in their wisdom, do not let the mighty boast in their might, do not let the wealthy boast in their wealth; 24 but let those who boast boast in this, that they understand and know me, that I am the LORD; I act with steadfast love, justice, and righteousness in the earth, for in these things I delight, says the LORD.

25 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will attend to all those who are circumcised only in the foreskin: 26 Egypt, Judah, Edom, the Ammonites, Moab, and all those with shaven temples who live in the desert. For all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel is uncircumcised in heart.

[Jeremiah 10] God and the idols

1 Hear the word that the LORD speaks to you, O house of Israel. 2 Thus says the LORD:

Do not learn the way of the nations,
or be dismayed at the signs of the heavens;
for the nations are dismayed at them.

3 For the customs of the peoples are false:
a tree from the forest is cut down,
and worked with an ax by the hands of an artisan;

4 people deck it with silver and gold;
they fasten it with hammer and nails
so that it cannot move.

5 Their idols are like scarecrows in a cucumber field,
and they cannot speak;
they have to be carried,
for they cannot walk.

Do not be afraid of them,
for they cannot do evil,
nor is it in them to do good.

- 6 There is none like you, O LORD;
you are great, and your name is great in might.
- 7 Who would not fear you, O King of the nations?
For that is your due;
among all the wise ones of the nations
and in all their kingdoms
there is no one like you.
- 8 They are both stupid and foolish;
the instruction given by idols
is no better than wood!
- 9 Beaten silver is brought from Tarshish,
and gold from Uphaz.
They are the work of the artisan and of the hands of the goldsmith; their clothing is blue and purple;
they are all the product of skilled workers.
- 10 But the LORD is the true God;
he is the living God and the everlasting King.
At his wrath the earth quakes,
and the nations cannot endure his indignation.
- 11 Thus shall you say to them: The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth and from under the heavens.
- 12 It is he who made the earth by his power,
who established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.
- 13 When he utters his voice, there is a tumult of waters in the heavens,
and he makes the mist rise from the ends of the earth.
He makes lightnings for the rain,
and he brings out the wind from his storehouses.
- 14 Everyone is stupid and without knowledge;
goldsmiths are all put to shame by their idols;
for their images are false,
and there is no breath in them.
- 15 They are worthless, a work of delusion;
at the time of their punishment they shall perish.

16 Not like these is the LORD, the portion of Jacob,
for he is the one who formed all things,
and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
the LORD of hosts is his name.

Prepare to leave

- 17 Gather up your bundle from the ground,
O you who live under siege!
- 18 For thus says the LORD:
I am going to sling out the inhabitants of the land
at this time,
and I will bring distress on them,
so that they shall feel it.
- 19 Woe is me because of my hurt!
My wound is severe.
But I said, "Truly this is my punishment,
and I must bear it."
- 20 My tent is destroyed,
and all my cords are broken;
my children have gone from me,
and they are no more;
there is no one to spread my tent again,
and to set up my curtains.
- 21 For the shepherds are stupid,
and do not inquire of the LORD;
therefore they have not prospered,
and all their flock is scattered.
- 22 Hear, a noise! Listen, it is coming —
a great commotion from the land of the north to make the cities of Judah a desolation,
a lair of jackals.

A prayer

23 I know, O LORD, that the way of human beings is not in their control, that mortals as they walk cannot direct their steps.

24 Correct me, O LORD, but in just measure;
not in your anger, or you will bring me to nothing.

25 Pour out your wrath on the nations that do not know you,
and on the peoples that do not call on your name;
for they have devoured Jacob;
they have devoured him and consumed him,
and have laid waste his habitation.

[Jeremiah 11]Judah's fate is sealed, part two

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 Hear the words of this covenant, and speak to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 3 You shall say to them, Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Cursed be anyone who does not heed the words of this covenant, 4 which I commanded your ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron-smelter, saying, Listen to my voice, and do all that I command you. So shall you be my people, and I will be your God, 5 that I may perform the oath that I swore to your ancestors, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day. Then I answered, "So be it, LORD."

6 And the LORD said to me: Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: Hear the words of this covenant and do them. 7 For I solemnly warned your ancestors when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, warning them persistently, even to this day, saying, Obey my voice. 8 Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but everyone walked in the stubbornness of an evil will. So I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did not.

9 And the LORD said to me: Conspiracy exists among the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10 They have turned back to the iniquities of their ancestors of old, who refused to heed my words; they have gone after other gods to serve them; the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken the covenant that I made with their ancestors. 11 Therefore, thus says the LORD, assuredly I am going to bring disaster upon them that they cannot escape; though they cry out to me, I will not listen to them. 12 Then the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go and cry out to the gods to whom they make offerings, but they will never save them in the time of their trouble. 13 For your gods have become as many as your towns, O Judah; and as many as the streets of Jerusalem are the altars to shame you have set up, altars to make offerings to Baal.

A fragmentary Lady Zion poem

14 As for you, do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer on their behalf, for I will not listen when they call to me in the time of their trouble. 15 What right has my beloved in my house, when she has done vile deeds? Can vows and sacrificial flesh avert your doom? Can you then exult? 16 The LORD once called you, "A green olive tree, fair with goodly fruit"; but with the roar of a great tempest he will set fire to it, and its branches will be consumed. 17 The LORD of hosts, who planted you, has pronounced evil against you, because of the evil that the house of Israel and the house of Judah have done, provoking me to anger by making offerings to Baal.

Jeremiah's first personal lament; a plot against Jeremiah's life

18 It was the LORD who made it known to me, and I knew;
 then you showed me their evil deeds.
 19 But I was like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter.
 And I did not know it was against me
 that they devised schemes, saying,
 "Let us destroy the tree with its fruit,
 let us cut him off from the land of the living,
 so that his name will no longer be remembered!"

20 But you, O LORD of hosts, who judge righteously, who try the heart and the mind,
 let me see your retribution upon them,
 for to you I have committed my cause.

21 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the people of Anathoth, who seek your life, and say, "You shall not prophesy in the name of the LORD, or you will die by our hand" — 22 therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: I am going to punish them; the young men shall die by the sword; their sons and their daughters shall die by famine; 23 and not even a remnant shall be left of them. For I will bring disaster upon the people of Anathoth, the year of their punishment.

[Jeremiah 12]

- 1 You will be in the right, O LORD,
 when I lay charges against you;
 but let me put my case to you.
 Why does the way of the guilty prosper?
 Why do all who are treacherous thrive?
- 2 You plant them, and they take root;
 they grow and bring forth fruit;
 you are near in their mouths
 yet far from their hearts.
- 3 But you, O LORD, know me;
 You see me and test me — my heart is with you.
 Pull them out like sheep for the slaughter,
 and set them apart for the day of slaughter.
- 4 How long will the land mourn,
 and the grass of every field wither?
 For the wickedness of those who live in it
 the animals and the birds are swept away,
 and because people said, "He is blind to our ways."
- 5 If you have raced with foot-runners and they have wearied you,
 how will you compete with horses?
 And if in a safe land you fall down,
 how will you fare in the thickets of the Jordan?

6 For even your kinsfolk and your own family,
even they have dealt treacherously with you;
they are in full cry after you;
do not believe them,
though they speak friendly words to you.

God's lament over Jerusalem

7 I have forsaken my house,
I have abandoned my heritage;
I have given the beloved of my heart
into the hands of her enemies.

8 My heritage has become to me
like a lion in the forest;
she has lifted up her voice against me —
therefore I hate her.

9 Is the hyena greedy for my heritage at my command?
Are the birds of prey all around her?
Go, assemble all the wild animals;
bring them to devour her.

10 Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard,
they have trampled down my portion,
they have made my pleasant portion
a desolate wilderness.

11 They have made it a desolation;
desolate, it mourns to me.
The whole land is made desolate,
but no one lays it to heart.

12 Upon all the bare heights in the desert
spoilors have come;
for the sword of the LORD devours
from one end of the land to the other;
no one shall be safe.

13 They have sown wheat and have reaped thorns,
they have tired themselves out but profit nothing.
They shall be ashamed of their harvests
because of the fierce anger of the LORD.

Judah's neighbors

14 Thus says the LORD concerning all my evil neighbors who touch the heritage that I have given my people Israel to inherit: I am about to pluck them up from their land, and I will pluck up the house of Judah from among them. 15 And after I have plucked them up, I will again have compassion on them, and I will bring them again to their heritage and to their land, everyone of them. 16 And then, if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, "As the LORD lives," as they taught my people to swear by Baal, then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. 17 But if any nation will not listen, then I will completely uproot it and destroy it, says the LORD.

[Jeremiah 13]

The symbolic act involving the loincloth

1 Thus said the LORD to me, "Go and buy yourself a linen loincloth, and put it on your loins, but do not dip it in water." 2 So I bought a loincloth according to the word of the LORD, and put it on my loins. 3 And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, 4 "Take the loincloth that you bought and are wearing, and go now to the Euphrates, and hide it there in a cleft of the rock." 5 So I went, and hid it by the Euphrates, as the LORD commanded me. 6 And after many days the LORD said to me, "Go now to the Euphrates, and take from there the loincloth that I commanded you to hide there." 7 Then I went to the Euphrates, and dug, and I took the loincloth from the place where I had hidden it. But now the loincloth was ruined; it was good for nothing.

8 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 9 Thus says the LORD: Just so I will ruin the pride of Judah and the great pride of Jerusalem. 10 This evil people, who refuse to hear my words, who stubbornly follow their own will and have gone after other gods to serve them and worship them, shall be like this loincloth, which is good for nothing. 11 For as the loincloth clings to one's loins, so I made the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah cling to me, says the LORD, in order that they might be for me a people, a name, a praise, and a glory. But they would not listen.

The allegory of the wine jar

12 You shall speak to them this word: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Every wine-jar should be filled with wine. And they will say to you, "Do you think we do not know that every wine-jar should be filled with wine?" 13 Then you shall say to them: Thus says the LORD: I am about to fill all the inhabitants of this land — the kings who sit on David's throne, the priests, the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem — with drunkenness. 14 And I will dash them one against another, parents and children together, says the LORD. I will not pity or spare or have compassion when I destroy them.

The last opportunity for repentance

15 Hear and give ear; do not be haughty,
for the LORD has spoken.
16 Give glory to the LORD your God
before he brings darkness,
and before your feet stumble
on the mountains at twilight;
while you look for light,
he turns it into gloom
and makes it deep darkness.
17 But if you will not listen,
my soul will weep in secret for your pride;
my eyes will weep bitterly and run down with tears,
because the LORD's flock has been taken captive.

Exile

18 Say to the king and the queen mother:
"Take a lowly seat,
for your beautiful crown
has come down from your head." 19 The towns of the Negeb are shut up with no one to open them;
all Judah is taken into exile,
wholly taken into exile.

Jerusalem's shame

- 20 Lift up your eyes and see
those who come from the north.
Where is the flock that was given you,
your beautiful flock?
- 21 What will you say when they set as head over you those whom you have trained to be your allies?
Will not pangs take hold of you,
like those of a woman in labor?
- 22 And if you say in your heart,
"Why have these things come upon me?"
it is for the greatness of your iniquity that your skirts are lifted up,
and you are violated.
- 23 Can Ethiopians change their skin
or leopards their spots?
Then also you can do good
who are accustomed to do evil.
- 24 I will scatter you like chaff driven by the wind from the desert.
- 25 This is your lot,
the portion I have measured out to you, says the LORD,
because you have forgotten me
and trusted in lies.
- 26 I myself will lift up your skirts over your face,
and your shame will be seen.
- 27 I have seen your abominations,
your adulteries and neighings, your shameless prostitutions on the hills of the countryside.
Woe to you, O Jerusalem!
How long will it be
before you are made clean?

[Jeremiah 14]Lament over catastrophic drought and the coming military defeat of Jerusalem

1 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning the drought:

2 Judah mourns

and her gates languish;

they lie in gloom on the ground,

and the cry of Jerusalem goes up.

3 Her nobles send their servants for water;

they come to the cisterns,

they find no water,

they return with their vessels empty.

They are ashamed and dismayed

and cover their heads,

4 because the ground is cracked.

Because there has been no rain on the land

the farmers are dismayed;

they cover their heads.

5 Even the doe in the field forsakes her newborn fawn

because there is no grass.

6 The wild asses stand on the bare heights,

they pant for air like jackals;

their eyes fail

because there is no herbage.

7 Although our iniquities testify against us,

act, O LORD, for your name's sake;

our apostasies indeed are many,

and we have sinned against you.

8 O hope of Israel,

its savior in time of trouble,

why should you be like a stranger in the land,

like a traveler turning aside for the night?

9 Why should you be like someone confused,
like a mighty warrior who cannot give help?
Yet you, O LORD, are in the midst of us,
and we are called by your name;
do not forsake us!

10 Thus says the LORD concerning this people:
Truly they have loved to wander,
they have not restrained their feet;
therefore the LORD does not accept them,
now he will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins.

11 The LORD said to me: Do not pray for the welfare of this people. 12 Although they fast, I do not hear their cry, and although they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I do not accept them; but by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence I consume them.

13 Then I said: "Ah, Lord GOD! Here are the prophets saying to them, 'You shall not see the sword, nor shall you have famine, but I will give you true peace in this place.'" 14 And the LORD said to me: The prophets are prophesying lies in my name; I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. They are prophesying to you a lying vision, worthless divination, and the deceit of their own minds. 15 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name though I did not send them, and who say, "Sword and famine shall not come on this land": By sword and famine those prophets shall be consumed. 16 And the people to whom they prophesy shall be thrown out into the streets of Jerusalem, victims of famine and sword. There shall be no one to bury them — themselves, their wives, their sons, and their daughters. For I will pour out their wickedness upon them.

17 You shall say to them this word:
Let my eyes run down with tears night and day,
and let them not cease,
for the virgin daughter — my people — is struck down with a crushing blow, with a very grievous wound.

18 If I go out into the field,
 look — those killed by the sword!
 And if I enter the city,
 look — those sick with famine!
 For both prophet and priest ply their trade throughout the land,
 and have no knowledge.

19 Have you completely rejected Judah?
 Does your heart loathe Zion?
 Why have you struck us down
 so that there is no healing for us?
 We look for peace, but find no good;
 for a time of healing, but there is terror instead.

20 We acknowledge our wickedness, O LORD,
 the iniquity of our ancestors,
 for we have sinned against you.

21 Do not spurn us, for your name's sake;
 do not dishonor your glorious throne;
 remember and do not break your covenant with us.

22 Can any idols of the nations bring rain?
 Or can the heavens give showers?
 Is it not you, O LORD our God?
 We set our hope on you,
 for it is you who do all this.

[Jeremiah 15]

An extended composition on the certainty of Judah's fate

1 Then the LORD said to me: Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet my heart would not turn toward this people. Send them out of my sight, and let them go! 2 And when they say to you, "Where shall we go?" you shall say to them: Thus says the LORD:

Those destined for pestilence, to pestilence,
 and those destined for the sword, to the sword;
 those destined for famine, to famine,
 and those destined for captivity, to captivity.

3 And I will appoint over them four kinds of destroyers, says the LORD: the sword to kill, the dogs to drag away, and the birds of the air and the wild animals of the earth to devour and destroy. 4 I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth because of what King Manasseh son of Hezekiah of Judah did in Jerusalem.

Jerusalem's end

- 5 Who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem,
 or who will bemoan you?
 Who will turn aside
 to ask about your welfare?
- 6 You have rejected me, says the LORD,
 you are going backward;
 so I have stretched out my hand against you and destroyed you —
 I am weary of relenting.
- 7 I have winnowed them with a winnowing fork
 in the gates of the land;
 I have bereaved them, I have destroyed my people;
 they did not turn from their ways.
- 8 Their widows became more numerous
 than the sand of the seas;
 I have brought against the mothers of youths
 a destroyer at noonday;
 I have made anguish and terror
 fall upon her suddenly.
- 9 She who bore seven has languished;
 she has swooned away;
 her sun went down while it was yet day;
 she has been shamed and disgraced.
 And the rest of them I will give to the sword
 before their enemies,
 says the LORD.

Jeremiah's second personal lament

10 Woe is me, my mother, that you ever bore me, a man of strife and contention to the whole land! I have not lent, nor have I borrowed, yet all of them curse me. 11 The LORD said: Surely I have intervened in your life for good, surely I have imposed enemies on you in a time of trouble and in a time of distress. 12 Can iron and bronze break iron from the north?

13 Your wealth and your treasures I will give as plunder, without price, for all your sins, throughout all your territory. 14 I will make you serve your enemies in a land that you do not know, for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever.

15 O LORD, you know;
remember me and visit me,
and bring down retribution for me on my persecutors.
In your forbearance do not take me away;
know that on your account I suffer insult.

16 Your words were found, and I ate them,
and your words became to me a joy
and the delight of my heart;
for I am called by your name,
O LORD, God of hosts.

17 I did not sit in the company of merrymakers,
nor did I rejoice;
under the weight of your hand I sat alone,
for you had filled me with indignation.

18 Why is my pain unceasing,
my wound incurable,
refusing to be healed?
Truly, you are to me like a deceitful brook,
like waters that fail.

19 Therefore thus says the LORD:
If you turn back, I will take you back,
and you shall stand before me.
If you utter what is precious, and not what is worthless,
you shall serve as my mouth.
It is they who will turn to you,
not you who will turn to them.

20 And I will make you to this people
a fortified wall of bronze;
they will fight against you,
but they shall not prevail over you,
for I am with you
to save you and deliver you,
says the LORD.

21 I will deliver you out of the hand of the wicked,
and redeem you from the grasp of the ruthless.

[Jeremiah 16]

Jeremiah to remain unmarried and childless as a prophetic sign

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 You shall not take a wife, nor shall you have sons or daughters in this place. 3 For thus says the LORD concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, and concerning the mothers who bear them and the fathers who beget them in this land: 4 They shall die of deadly diseases. They shall not be lamented, nor shall they be buried; they shall become like dung on the surface of the ground. They shall perish by the sword and by famine, and their dead bodies shall become food for the birds of the air and for the wild animals of the earth.

5 For thus says the LORD: Do not enter the house of mourning, or go to lament, or bemoan them; for I have taken away my peace from this people, says the LORD, my steadfast love and mercy. 6 Both great and small shall die in this land; they shall not be buried, and no one shall lament for them; there shall be no gashing, no shaving of the head for them. 7 No one shall break bread for the mourner, to offer comfort for the dead; nor shall anyone give them the cup of consolation to drink for their fathers or their mothers. 8 You shall not go into the house of feasting to sit with them, to eat and drink. 9 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to banish from this place, in your days and before your eyes, the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

Judah's fate

10 And when you tell this people all these words, and they say to you, "Why has the LORD pronounced all this great evil against us? What is our iniquity? What is the sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?" 11 then you shall say to them: It is because your ancestors have forsaken me, says the LORD, and have gone after other gods and have served and worshiped them, and have forsaken me and have not kept my law; 12 and because you have behaved worse than your ancestors, for here you are, every one of you, following your stubborn evil will, refusing to listen to me. 13 Therefore I will hurl you out of this land into a land that neither you nor your ancestors have known, and there you shall serve other gods day and night, for I will show you no favor.

Israel's homecoming

14 Therefore, the days are surely coming, says the LORD, when it shall no longer be said, "As the LORD lives who brought the people of Israel up out of the land of Egypt," 15 but "As the LORD lives who brought the people of Israel up out of the land of the north and out of all the lands where he had driven them." For I will bring them back to their own land that I gave to their ancestors.

No refuge for Judah

16 I am now sending for many fishermen, says the LORD, and they shall catch them; and afterward I will send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and every hill, and out of the clefts of the rocks. 17 For my eyes are on all their ways; they are not hidden from my presence, nor is their iniquity concealed from my sight. 18 And I will doubly repay their iniquity and their sin, because they have polluted my land with the carcasses of their detestable idols, and have filled my inheritance with their abominations.

Conversion of the nations

19 O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, my refuge in the day of trouble,
 to you shall the nations come from the ends of the earth and say:
 Our ancestors have inherited nothing but lies,
 worthless things in which there is no profit.
 20 Can mortals make for themselves gods?
 Such are no gods!

21 "Therefore I am surely going to teach them, this time I am going to teach them my power and my might, and they shall know that my name is the LORD."

[Jeremiah 17]

The human heart and the justice of God; Judah's sin is engraved in their hearts

1 The sin of Judah is written with an iron pen; with a diamond point it is engraved on the tablet of their hearts, and on the horns of their altars, 2 while their children remember their altars and their sacred poles, beside every green tree, and on the high hills, 3 on the mountains in the open country. Your wealth and all your treasures I will give for spoil as the price of your sin throughout all your territory. 4 By your own act you shall lose the heritage that I gave you, and I will make you serve your enemies in a land that you do not know, for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever.

The human heart and trust in God

5 Thus says the LORD:
 Cursed are those who trust in mere mortals
 and make mere flesh their strength,
 whose hearts turn away from the LORD.

6 They shall be like a shrub in the desert,
 and shall not see when relief comes.
 They shall live in the parched places of the wilderness,
 in an uninhabited salt land.

7 Blessed are those who trust in the LORD,
 whose trust is the LORD.

8 They shall be like a tree planted by water,
 sending out its roots by the stream.
 It shall not fear when heat comes,
 and its leaves shall stay green;
 in the year of drought it is not anxious,
 and it does not cease to bear fruit.

The heart is devious

9 The heart is devious above all else;
 it is perverse —
 who can understand it?

10 I the LORD test the mind
 and search the heart,
 to give to all according to their ways,
 according to the fruit of their doings.

A proverb

11 Like the partridge hatching what it did not lay,
 so are all who amass wealth unjustly;
 in mid-life it will leave them,
 and at their end they will prove to be fools.

God's ways are high

12 O glorious throne, exalted from the beginning, shrine of our sanctuary!

13 O hope of Israel! O LORD!
 All who forsake you shall be put to shame;
 those who turn away from you shall be recorded in the underworld,
 for they have forsaken the fountain of living water, the LORD.

Jeremiah's third personal lament

14 Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be healed;
 save me, and I shall be saved;
 for you are my praise.

15 See how they say to me,
 "Where is the word of the LORD?
 Let it come!"

16 But I have not run away from being a shepherd in your service, nor have I desired the fatal day.
 You know what came from my lips;
 it was before your face.

17 Do not become a terror to me;
 you are my refuge in the day of disaster;

18 Let my persecutors be shamed,
 but do not let me be shamed;
 let them be dismayed,
 but do not let me be dismayed;
 bring on them the day of disaster;
 destroy them with double destruction!

Judah and the sabbath

19 Thus said the LORD to me: Go and stand in the People's Gate, by which the kings of Judah enter and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem, 20 and say to them: Hear the word of the LORD, you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, who enter by these gates. 21 Thus says the LORD: For the sake of your lives, take care that you do not bear a burden on the sabbath day or bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem. 22 And do not carry a burden out of your houses on the sabbath or do any work, but keep the sabbath day holy, as I commanded your ancestors. 23 Yet they did not listen or incline their ear; they stiffened their necks and would not hear or receive instruction.

24 But if you listen to me, says the LORD, and bring in no burden by the gates of this city on the sabbath day, but keep the sabbath day holy and do no work on it, 25 then there shall enter by the gates of this city kings who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their officials, the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city shall be inhabited forever. 26 And people shall come from the towns of Judah and the places around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin, from the Shephelah, from the hill country, and from the Negeb, bringing burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and frankincense, and bringing thank offerings to the house of the LORD. 27 But if you do not listen to me, to keep the sabbath day holy, and to carry in no burden through the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath day, then I will kindle a fire in its gates; it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem and shall not be quenched.

[Jeremiah 18]

The symbolic act involving the potter

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 "Come, go down to the potter's house, and there I will let you hear my words." 3 So I went down to the potter's house, and there he was working at his wheel. 4 The vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter's hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as seemed good to him.

5 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 6 Can I not do with you, O house of Israel, just as this potter has done? says the LORD. Just like the clay in the potter's hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. 7 At one moment I may declare concerning a nation or a kingdom, that I will pluck up and break down and destroy it, 8 but if that nation, concerning which I have spoken, turns from its evil, I will change my mind about the disaster that I intended to bring on it. 9 And at another moment I may declare concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will build and plant it, 10 but if it does evil in my sight, not listening to my voice, then I will change my mind about the good that I had intended to do to it. 11 Now, therefore, say to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Thus says the LORD: Look, I am a potter shaping evil against you and devising a plan against you. Turn now, all of you from your evil way, and amend your ways and your doings.

12 But they say, "It is no use! We will follow our own plans, and each of us will act according to the stubbornness of our evil will."

Faithless Judah is condemned to endless walking

- 13 Therefore thus says the LORD:
 Ask among the nations:
 Who has heard the like of this?
 The virgin Israel has done
 a most horrible thing.
- 14 Does the snow of Lebanon leave
 the crags of Sirion?
 Do the mountain waters run dry,
 the cold flowing streams?
- 15 But my people have forgotten me,
 they burn offerings to a delusion;
 they have stumbled in their ways,
 in the ancient roads,
 and have gone into bypaths,
 not the highway,
- 16 making their land a horror,
 a thing to be hissed at forever.
 All who pass by it are horrified
 and shake their heads.
- 17 Like the wind from the east,
 I will scatter them before the enemy.
 I will show them my back, not my face,
 in the day of their calamity.

Jeremiah's fourth personal lament

18 Then they said, "Come, let us make plots against Jeremiah — for instruction shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come, let us bring charges against him, and let us not heed any of his words."

- 19 Give heed to me, O LORD,
and listen to what my adversaries say!
- 20 Is evil a recompense for good?
Yet they have dug a pit for my life.
Remember how I stood before you
to speak good for them,
to turn away your wrath from them.
- 21 Therefore give their children over to famine;
hurl them out to the power of the sword,
let their wives become childless and widowed.
May their men meet death by pestilence,
their youths be slain by the sword in battle.
- 22 May a cry be heard from their houses,
when you bring the marauder suddenly upon them!
For they have dug a pit to catch me,
and laid snares for my feet.
- 23 Yet you, O LORD, know
all their plotting to kill me.
Do not forgive their iniquity,
do not blot out their sin from your sight.
Let them be tripped up before you;
deal with them while you are angry.

[Jeremiah 19]

The public persecution of Jeremiah

1 Thus said the LORD: Go and buy a potter's earthenware jug. Take with you some of the elders of the people and some of the senior priests, 2 and go out to the valley of the son of Hinnom at the entry of the Potsherd Gate, and proclaim there the words that I tell you. 3 You shall say: Hear the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to bring such disaster upon this place that the ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle. 4 Because the people have forsaken me, and have profaned this place by making offerings in it to other gods whom neither they nor their ancestors nor the kings of Judah have known, and because they have filled this place with the blood of the innocent, 5 and gone on building the high places of Baal to burn their children in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, which I did not command or decree, nor did it enter my mind; 6 therefore the days are surely coming, says the LORD, when this place shall no more be called Topheth, or the valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of Slaughter. 7 And in this place I will make void the plans of Judah and Jerusalem, and will make them fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of those who seek their life. I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air and to the wild animals of the earth. 8 And I will make this city a horror, a thing to be hissed at; everyone who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its disasters. 9 And I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and all shall eat the flesh of their neighbors in the siege, and in the distress with which their enemies and those who seek their life afflict them.

10 Then you shall break the jug in the sight of those who go with you, 11 and shall say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts: So will I break this people and this city, as one breaks a potter's vessel, so that it can never be mended. In Topheth they shall bury until there is no more room to bury. 12 Thus will I do to this place, says the LORD, and to its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. 13 And the houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah shall be defiled like the place of Topheth — all the houses upon whose roofs offerings have been made to the whole host of heaven, and libations have been poured out to other gods.

14 When Jeremiah came from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, he stood in the court of the LORD's house and said to all the people: 15 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am now bringing upon this city and upon all its towns all the disaster that I have pronounced against it, because they have stiffened their necks, refusing to hear my words.

[Jeremiah 20]

1 Now the priest Pashhur son of Immer, who was chief officer in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. 2 Then Pashhur struck the prophet Jeremiah, and put him in the stocks that were in the upper Benjamin Gate of the house of the LORD. 3 The next morning when Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, Jeremiah said to him, The LORD has named you not Pashhur but "Terror-all-around." 4 For thus says the LORD: I am making you a terror to yourself and to all your friends; and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies while you look on. And I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon; he shall carry them captive to Babylon, and shall kill them with the sword. 5 I will give all the wealth of this city, all its gains, all its prized belongings, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah into the hand of their enemies, who shall plunder them, and seize them, and carry them to Babylon. 6 And you, Pashhur, and all who live in your house, shall go into captivity, and to Babylon you shall go; there you shall die, and there you shall be buried, you and all your friends, to whom you have prophesied falsely.

Jeremiah's fifth and sixth personal laments

7 O LORD, you have enticed me,
 and I was enticed;
 you have overpowered me,
 and you have prevailed.
 I have become a laughingstock all day long;
 everyone mocks me.

8 For whenever I speak, I must cry out,
 I must shout, "Violence and destruction!"
 For the word of the LORD has become for me
 a reproach and derision all day long.

9 If I say, "I will not mention him,
 or speak any more in his name,"
 then within me there is something like a burning fire shut up in my bones;
 I am weary with holding it in,
 and I cannot.

- 10 For I hear many whispering:
"Terror is all around!
Denounce him! Let us denounce him!"
All my close friends
are watching for me to stumble.
"Perhaps he can be enticed,
and we can prevail against him,
and take our revenge on him."
- 11 But the LORD is with me like a dread warrior;
therefore my persecutors will stumble,
and they will not prevail.
They will be greatly shamed,
for they will not succeed.
Their eternal dishonor
will never be forgotten.
- 12 O LORD of hosts, you test the righteous,
you see the heart and the mind;
let me see your retribution upon them,
for to you I have committed my cause.
- 13 Sing to the LORD;
praise the LORD!
For he has delivered the life of the needy
from the hands of evildoers.
- 14 Cursed be the day
on which I was born!
The day when my mother bore me,
let it not be blessed!
- 15 Cursed be the man
who brought the news to my father, saying,
"A child is born to you, a son,"
making him very glad.
- 16 Let that man be like the cities
that the LORD overthrew without pity;
let him hear a cry in the morning
and an alarm at noon,

17 because he did not kill me in the womb;
 so my mother would have been my grave,
 and her womb forever great.
 18 Why did I come forth from the womb
 to see toil and sorrow,
 and spend my days in shame?

[Jeremiah 21]

Oracles from the time of Zedekiah; oracles against Zedekiah and Jerusalem

1 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, when King Zedekiah sent to him Pashhur son of Malchiah and the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah, saying, 2 "Please inquire of the LORD on our behalf, for King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon is making war against us; perhaps the LORD will perform a wonderful deed for us, as he has often done, and will make him withdraw from us."

3 Then Jeremiah said to them: 4 Thus you shall say to Zedekiah: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I am going to turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands and with which you are fighting against the king of Babylon and against the Chaldeans who are besieging you outside the walls; and I will bring them together into the center of this city. 5 I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and mighty arm, in anger, in fury, and in great wrath. 6 And I will strike down the inhabitants of this city, both human beings and animals; they shall die of a great pestilence. 7 Afterward, says the LORD, I will give King Zedekiah of Judah, and his servants, and the people in this city — those who survive the pestilence, sword, and famine — into the hands of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, into the hands of their enemies, into the hands of those who seek their lives. He shall strike them down with the edge of the sword; he shall not pity them, or spare them, or have compassion.

8 And to this people you shall say: Thus says the LORD: See, I am setting before you the way of life and the way of death. 9 Those who stay in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; but those who go out and surrender to the Chaldeans who are besieging you shall live and shall have their lives as a prize of war. 10 For I have set my face against this city for evil and not for good, says the LORD: it shall be given into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire.

Oracles concerning the royal house

11 To the house of the king of Judah say: Hear the word of the LORD, 12 O house of David! Thus says the LORD:

Execute justice in the morning,
and deliver from the hand of the oppressor
anyone who has been robbed,
or else my wrath will go forth like fire,
and burn, with no one to quench it,
because of your evil doings.

13 See, I am against you, O inhabitant of the valley, O rock of the plain,
says the LORD;

you who say, "Who can come down against us,
or who can enter our places of refuge?"

14 I will punish you according to the fruit of your doings,
says the LORD;

I will kindle a fire in its forest,
and it shall devour all that is around it.

[Jeremiah 22]

1 Thus says the LORD: Go down to the house of the king of Judah, and speak there this word, 2 and say: Hear the word of the LORD, O King of Judah sitting on the throne of David — you, and your servants, and your people who enter these gates. 3 Thus says the LORD: Act with justice and righteousness, and deliver from the hand of the oppressor anyone who has been robbed. And do no wrong or violence to the alien, the orphan, and the widow, or shed innocent blood in this place. 4 For if you will indeed obey this word, then through the gates of this house shall enter kings who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they, and their servants, and their people. 5 But if you will not heed these words, I swear by myself, says the LORD, that this house shall become a desolation. 6 For thus says the LORD concerning the house of the king of Judah:

You are like Gilead to me,
 like the summit of Lebanon;
 but I swear that I will make you a desert,
 an uninhabited city.

7 I will prepare destroyers against you,
 all with their weapons;
 they shall cut down your choicest cedars
 and cast them into the fire.

8 And many nations will pass by this city, and all of them will say one to another, "Why has the LORD dealt in this way with that great city?"

9 And they will answer, "Because they abandoned the covenant of the LORD their God, and worshiped other gods and served them."

Oracles concerning Jehoahaz, Jehoiakim, and Jehoiachin, kings of Judah

10 Do not weep for him who is dead,
 nor bemoan him;
 weep rather for him who goes away,
 for he shall return no more
 to see his native land.

11 For thus says the LORD concerning Shallum son of King Josiah of Judah, who succeeded his father Josiah, and who went away from this place: He shall return here no more, 12 but in the place where they have carried him captive he shall die, and he shall never see this land again.

13 Woe to him who builds his house by unrighteousness,
 and his upper rooms by injustice;
 who makes his neighbors work for nothing,
 and does not give them their wages;

- 14 who says, "I will build myself a spacious house with large upper rooms,"
and who cuts out windows for it,
paneling it with cedar,
and painting it with vermilion.
- 15 Are you a king
because you compete in cedar?
Did not your father eat and drink and do justice and righteousness?
Then it was well with him.
- 16 He judged the cause of the poor and needy;
then it was well.
Is not this to know me?
says the LORD.
- 17 But your eyes and heart
are only on your dishonest gain,
for shedding innocent blood,
and for practicing oppression and violence.
- 18 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah:
They shall not lament for him, saying,
"Alas, my brother!" or "Alas, sister!"
They shall not lament for him, saying,
"Alas, lord!" or "Alas, his majesty!"
- 19 With the burial of a donkey he shall be buried — dragged off and thrown out beyond the gates of Jerusalem.
- 20 Go up to Lebanon, and cry out,
and lift up your voice in Bashan;
cry out from Abarim,
for all your lovers are crushed.
- 21 I spoke to you in your prosperity,
but you said, "I will not listen."
This has been your way from your youth,
for you have not obeyed my voice.

22 The wind shall shepherd all your shepherds,
 and your lovers shall go into captivity;
 then you will be ashamed and dismayed
 because of all your wickedness.

23 O inhabitant of Lebanon,
 nested among the cedars,
 how you will groan when pangs come upon you,
 pain as of a woman in labor!

24 As I live, says the LORD, even if King Coniah son of Jehoiakim of Judah were the signet ring on my right hand, even from there I would tear you off 25 and give you into the hands of those who seek your life, into the hands of those of whom you are afraid, even into the hands of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon and into the hands of the Chaldeans. 26 I will hurl you and the mother who bore you into another country, where you were not born, and there you shall die. 27 But they shall not return to the land to which they long to return.

28 Is this man Coniah a despised broken pot,
 a vessel no one wants?
 Why are he and his offspring hurled out and cast away in a land that they do not know?

29 O land, land, land,
 hear the word of the LORD!

30 Thus says the LORD:
 Record this man as childless,
 a man who shall not succeed in his days;
 for none of his offspring shall succeed
 in sitting on the throne of David,
 and ruling again in Judah.

[Jeremiah 23]

An oracle of restoration

1 Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture! says the LORD. 2 Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the shepherds who shepherd my people: It is you who have scattered my flock, and have driven them away, and you have not attended to them. So I will attend to you for your evil doings, says the LORD. 3 Then I myself will gather the remnant of my flock out of all the lands where I have driven them, and I will bring them back to their fold, and they shall be fruitful and multiply. 4 I will raise up shepherds over them who will shepherd them, and they shall not fear any longer, or be dismayed, nor shall any be missing, says the LORD.

5 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will raise up for David a righteous Branch, and he shall reign as king and deal wisely, and shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. 6 In his days Judah will be saved and Israel will live in safety. And this is the name by which he will be called: "The LORD is our righteousness."

7 Therefore, the days are surely coming, says the LORD, when it shall no longer be said, "As the LORD lives who brought the people of Israel up out of the land of Egypt," 8 but "As the LORD lives who brought out and led the offspring of the house of Israel out of the land of the north and out of all the lands where he had driven them." Then they shall live in their own land.

Oracles concerning the prophets

9 Concerning the prophets:

My heart is crushed within me,
all my bones shake;
I have become like a drunkard,
like one overcome by wine,
because of the LORD
and because of his holy words.

10 For the land is full of adulterers;
because of the curse the land mourns,
and the pastures of the wilderness are dried up.
Their course has been evil,
and their might is not right.

11 Both prophet and priest are ungodly;
even in my house I have found their wickedness,
says the LORD.

- 12 Therefore their way shall be to them
like slippery paths in the darkness,
into which they shall be driven and fall;
for I will bring disaster upon them
in the year of their punishment,
says the LORD.
- 13 In the prophets of Samaria
I saw a disgusting thing:
they prophesied by Baal
and led my people Israel astray.
- 14 But in the prophets of Jerusalem
I have seen a more shocking thing:
they commit adultery and walk in lies;
they strengthen the hands of evildoers,
so that no one turns from wickedness;
all of them have become like Sodom to me,
and its inhabitants like Gomorrah.
- 15 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the prophets:
"I am going to make them eat wormwood,
and give them poisoned water to drink;
for from the prophets of Jerusalem
ungodliness has spread throughout the land."
- 16 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you; they are deluding you. They speak visions of their own minds, not from the mouth of the LORD. 17 They keep saying to those who despise the word of the LORD, "It shall be well with you"; and to all who stubbornly follow their own stubborn hearts, they say, "No calamity shall come upon you."
- 18 For who has stood in the council of the LORD
so as to see and to hear his word?
Who has given heed to his word so as to proclaim it?
- 19 Look, the storm of the LORD!
Wrath has gone forth,
a whirling tempest;
it will burst upon the head of the wicked.

20 The anger of the LORD will not turn back until he has executed and accomplished
 the intents of his mind.
 In the latter days you will understand it clearly.

21 I did not send the prophets,
 yet they ran;
 I did not speak to them,
 yet they prophesied.

22 But if they had stood in my council,
 then they would have proclaimed my words to my people,
 and they would have turned them from their evil way,
 and from the evil of their doings.

23 Am I a God near by, says the LORD, and not a God far off? 24 Who can hide in secret places so that I cannot see them? says the LORD. Do I not fill heaven and earth? says the LORD. 25 I have heard what the prophets have said who prophesy lies in my name, saying, "I have dreamed, I have dreamed!" 26 How long? Will the hearts of the prophets ever turn back — those who prophesy lies, and who prophesy the deceit of their own heart? 27 They plan to make my people forget my name by their dreams that they tell one another, just as their ancestors forgot my name for Baal. 28 Let the prophet who has a dream tell the dream, but let the one who has my word speak my word faithfully. What has straw in common with wheat? says the LORD. 29 Is not my word like fire, says the LORD, and like a hammer that breaks a rock in pieces? 30 See, therefore, I am against the prophets, says the LORD, who steal my words from one another. 31 See, I am against the prophets, says the LORD, who use their own tongues and say, "Says the LORD." 32 See, I am against those who prophesy lying dreams, says the LORD, and who tell them, and who lead my people astray by their lies and their recklessness, when I did not send them or appoint them; so they do not profit this people at all, says the LORD.

33 When this people, or a prophet, or a priest asks you, "What is the burden of the LORD?" you shall say to them, "You are the burden, and I will cast you off, says the LORD." 34 And as for the prophet, priest, or the people who say, "The burden of the LORD," I will punish them and their households. 35 Thus shall you say to one another, among yourselves, "What has the LORD answered?" or "What has the LORD spoken?" 36 But "the burden of the LORD" you shall mention no more, for the burden is everyone's own word, and so you pervert the words of the living God, the LORD of hosts, our God. 37 Thus you shall ask the prophet, "What has the LORD answered you?" or "What has the LORD spoken?" 38 But if you say, "the burden of the LORD," thus says the LORD: Because you have said these words, "the burden of the LORD," when I sent to you, saying, You shall not say, "the burden of the LORD," 39 therefore, I will surely lift you up and cast you away from my presence, you and the city that I gave to you and your ancestors. 40 And I will bring upon you everlasting disgrace and perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten.

[Jeremiah 24]

The vision of the baskets of figs

1 The LORD showed me two baskets of figs placed before the temple of the LORD. This was after King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon had taken into exile from Jerusalem King Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim of Judah, together with the officials of Judah, the artisans, and the smiths, and had brought them to Babylon. 2 One basket had very good figs, like first-ripe figs, but the other basket had very bad figs, so bad that they could not be eaten. 3 And the LORD said to me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I said, "Figs, the good figs very good, and the bad figs very bad, so bad that they cannot be eaten."

4 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 5 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, so I will regard as good the exiles from Judah, whom I have sent away from this place to the land of the Chaldeans. 6 I will set my eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them back to this land. I will build them up, and not tear them down; I will plant them, and not pluck them up. 7 I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD; and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

8 But thus says the LORD: Like the bad figs that are so bad they cannot be eaten, so will I treat King Zedekiah of Judah, his officials, the remnant of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and those who live in the land of Egypt. 9 I will make them a horror, an evil thing, to all the kingdoms of the earth — a disgrace, a byword, a taunt, and a curse in all the places where I shall drive them. 10 And I will send sword, famine, and pestilence upon them, until they are utterly destroyed from the land that I gave to them and their ancestors.

Babylon, God's instrument for punishment

1 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah (that was the first year of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon), 2 which the prophet Jeremiah spoke to all the people of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: 3 For twenty-three years, from the thirteenth year of King Josiah son of Amon of Judah, to this day, the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken persistently to you, but you have not listened. 4 And though the LORD persistently sent you all his servants the prophets, you have neither listened nor inclined your ears to hear 5 when they said, "Turn now, everyone of you, from your evil way and wicked doings, and you will remain upon the land that the LORD has given to you and your ancestors from of old and forever; 6 do not go after other gods to serve and worship them, and do not provoke me to anger with the work of your hands. Then I will do you no harm." 7 Yet you did not listen to me, says the LORD, and so you have provoked me to anger with the work of your hands to your own harm.

8 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: Because you have not obeyed my words, 9 I am going to send for all the tribes of the north, says the LORD, even for King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, my servant, and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants, and against all these nations around; I will utterly destroy them, and make them an object of horror and of hissing, and an everlasting disgrace. 10 And I will banish from them the sound of mirth and the sound of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the sound of the millstones and the light of the lamp. 11 This whole land shall become a ruin and a waste, and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy years. 12 Then after seventy years are completed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, the land of the Chaldeans, for their iniquity, says the LORD, making the land an everlasting waste. 13 I will bring upon that land all the words that I have uttered against it, everything written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. 14 For many nations and great kings shall make slaves of them also; and I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands.

The cup of wrath

15 For thus the LORD, the God of Israel, said to me: Take from my hand this cup of the wine of wrath, and make all the nations to whom I send you drink it. 16 They shall drink and stagger and go out of their minds because of the sword that I am sending among them.

17 So I took the cup from the LORD's hand, and made all the nations to whom the LORD sent me drink it: 18 Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, its kings and officials, to make them a desolation and a waste, an object of hissing and of cursing, as they are today; 19 Pharaoh king of Egypt, his servants, his officials, and all his people; 20 all the mixed people; all the kings of the land of Uz; all the kings of the land of the Philistines — Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod; 21 Edom, Moab, and the Ammonites; 22 all the kings of Tyre, all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the coastland across the sea; 23 Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all who have shaven temples; 24 all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the mixed peoples that live in the desert; 25 all the kings of Zimri, all the kings of Elam, and all the kings of Media; 26 all the kings of the north, far and near, one after another, and all the kingdoms of the world that are on the face of the earth. And after them the king of Sheshach shall drink.

27 Then you shall say to them, Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Drink, get drunk and vomit, fall and rise no more, because of the sword that I am sending among you.

28 And if they refuse to accept the cup from your hand to drink, then you shall say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts: You must drink! 29 See, I am beginning to bring disaster on the city that is called by my name, and how can you possibly avoid punishment? You shall not go unpunished, for I am summoning a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth, says the LORD of hosts.

30 You, therefore, shall prophesy against them all these words, and say to them:

The LORD will roar from on high,
and from his holy habitation utter his voice;
he will roar mightily against his fold,
and shout, like those who tread grapes,
against all the inhabitants of the earth.

31 The clamor will resound to the ends of the earth,
for the LORD has an indictment against the nations;
he is entering into judgment with all flesh,
and the guilty he will put to the sword,
says the LORD.

32 Thus says the LORD of hosts:
See, disaster is spreading
from nation to nation,
and a great tempest is stirring
from the farthest parts of the earth!

33 Those slain by the LORD on that day shall extend from one end of the earth to the other. They shall not be lamented, or gathered, or buried; they shall become dung on the surface of the ground.

34 Wail, you shepherds, and cry out;
roll in ashes, you lords of the flock,
for the days of your slaughter have come — and your dispersions,
and you shall fall like a choice vessel.

35 Flight shall fail the shepherds,
and there shall be no escape for the lords of the flock.

36 Hark! the cry of the shepherds,
and the wail of the lords of the flock!
For the LORD is despoiling their pasture,

37 and the peaceful folds are devastated,
because of the fierce anger of the LORD.
38 Like a lion he has left his covert;
for their land has become a waste
because of the cruel sword,
and because of his fierce anger.

[Jeremiah 26]

The problem of distinguishing true and false prophecy; the Temple sermon

1 At the beginning of the reign of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah, this word came from the LORD: 2 Thus says the LORD: Stand in the court of the LORD's house, and speak to all the cities of Judah that come to worship in the house of the LORD; speak to them all the words that I command you; do not hold back a word. 3 It may be that they will listen, all of them, and will turn from their evil way, that I may change my mind about the disaster that I intend to bring on them because of their evil doings. 4 You shall say to them: Thus says the LORD: If you will not listen to me, to walk in my law that I have set before you, 5 and to heed the words of my servants the prophets whom I send to you urgently — though you have not heeded — 6 then I will make this house like Shiloh, and I will make this city a curse for all the nations of the earth.

Jeremiah's arrest and release

7 The priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the LORD. 8 And when Jeremiah had finished speaking all that the LORD had commanded him to speak to all the people, then the priests and the prophets and all the people laid hold of him, saying, "You shall die! 9 Why have you prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying, 'This house shall be like Shiloh, and this city shall be desolate, without inhabitant?'" And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in the house of the LORD.

10 When the officials of Judah heard these things, they came up from the king's house to the house of the LORD and took their seat in the entry of the New Gate of the house of the LORD. 11 Then the priests and the prophets said to the officials and to all the people, "This man deserves the sentence of death because he has prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your own ears."

12 Then Jeremiah spoke to all the officials and all the people, saying, "It is the LORD who sent me to prophesy against this house and this city all the words you have heard. 13 Now therefore amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the LORD your God, and the LORD will change his mind about the disaster that he has pronounced against you. 14 But as for me, here I am in your hands. Do with me as seems good and right to you. 15 Only know for certain that if you put me to death, you will be bringing innocent blood upon yourselves and upon this city and its inhabitants, for in truth the LORD sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears."

16 Then the officials and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, "This man does not deserve the sentence of death, for he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God." 17 And some of the elders of the land arose and said to all the assembled people, 18 "Micah of Moresheth, who prophesied during the days of King Hezekiah of Judah, said to all the people of Judah: 'Thus says the LORD of hosts,

Zion shall be plowed as a field;

Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,

and the mountain of the house a wooded height.'

19 Did King Hezekiah of Judah and all Judah actually put him to death? Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the favor of the LORD, and did not the LORD change his mind about the disaster that he had pronounced against them? But we are about to bring great disaster on ourselves!"

Martyrdom of Uriah

20 There was another man prophesying in the name of the LORD, Uriah son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim. He prophesied against this city and against this land in words exactly like those of Jeremiah. 21 And when King Jehoiakim, with all his warriors and all the officials, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death; but when Uriah heard of it, he was afraid and fled and escaped to Egypt. 22 Then King Jehoiakim sent Elnathan son of Achbor and men with him to Egypt, 23 and they took Uriah from Egypt and brought him to King Jehoiakim, who struck him down with the sword and threw his dead body into the burial place of the common people.

24 But the hand of Ahikam son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah so that he was not given over into the hands of the people to be put to death.

[Jeremiah 27]

The yoke of the king of Babylon

1 In the beginning of the reign of King Zedekiah son of Josiah of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD. 2 Thus the LORD said to me: Make yourself a yoke of straps and bars, and put them on your neck. 3 Send word to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the Ammonites, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon by the hand of the envoys who have come to Jerusalem to King Zedekiah of Judah. 4 Give them this charge for their masters: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: This is what you shall say to your masters: 5 It is I who by my great power and my outstretched arm have made the earth, with the people and animals that are on the earth, and I give it to whomever I please. 6 Now I have given all these lands into the hand of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, my servant, and I have given him even the wild animals of the field to serve him. 7 All the nations shall serve him and his son and his grandson, until the time of his own land comes; then many nations and great kings shall make him their slave.

8 But if any nation or kingdom will not serve this king, Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, then I will punish that nation with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, says the LORD, until I have completed its destruction by his hand. 9 You, therefore, must not listen to your prophets, your diviners, your dreamers, your soothsayers, or your sorcerers, who are saying to you, "You shall not serve the king of Babylon." 10 For they are prophesying a lie to you, with the result that you will be removed far from your land; I will drive you out, and you will perish. 11 But any nation that will bring its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will leave on its own land, says the LORD, to till it and live there.

12 I spoke to King Zedekiah of Judah in the same way: Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live. 13 Why should you and your people die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, as the LORD has spoken concerning any nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? 14 Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are telling you not to serve the king of Babylon, for they are prophesying a lie to you. 15 I have not sent them, says the LORD, but they are prophesying falsely in my name, with the result that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who are prophesying to you.

16 Then I spoke to the priests and to all this people, saying, Thus says the LORD: Do not listen to the words of your prophets who are prophesying to you, saying, "The vessels of the LORD's house will soon be brought back from Babylon," for they are prophesying a lie to you. 17 Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a desolation? 18 If indeed they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, then let them intercede with the LORD of hosts, that the vessels left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. 19 For thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the stands, and the rest of the vessels that are left in this city, 20 which King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon did not take away when he took into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon King Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim of Judah, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem — 21 thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: 22 They shall be carried to Babylon, and there they shall stay, until the day when I give attention to them, says the LORD. Then I will bring them up and restore them to this place.

[Jeremiah 28]

Jeremiah and Hananiah

1 In that same year, at the beginning of the reign of King Zedekiah of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, the prophet Hananiah son of Azzur, from Gibeon, spoke to me in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests and all the people, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. 3 Within two years I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the LORD's house, which King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon took away from this place and carried to Babylon. 4 I will also bring back to this place King Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim of Judah, and all the exiles from Judah who went to Babylon, says the LORD, for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon."

5 Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests and all the people who were standing in the house of the LORD; 6 and the prophet Jeremiah said, "Amen! May the LORD do so; may the LORD fulfill the words that you have prophesied, and bring back to this place from Babylon the vessels of the house of the LORD, and all the exiles. 7 But listen now to this word that I speak in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people. 8 The prophets who preceded you and me from ancient times prophesied war, famine, and pestilence against many countries and great kingdoms. 9 As for the prophet who prophesies peace, when the word of that prophet comes true, then it will be known that the LORD has truly sent the prophet."

10 Then the prophet Hananiah took the yoke from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, and broke it. 11 And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, "Thus says the LORD: This is how I will break the yoke of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon from the neck of all the nations within two years." At this, the prophet Jeremiah went his way.

12 Sometime after the prophet Hananiah had broken the yoke from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 13 Go, tell Hananiah, Thus says the LORD: You have broken wooden bars only to forge iron bars in place of them! 14 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have put an iron yoke on the neck of all these nations so that they may serve King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and they shall indeed serve him; I have even given him the wild animals. 15 And the prophet Jeremiah said to the prophet Hananiah, "Listen, Hananiah, the LORD has not sent you, and you made this people trust in a lie. 16 Therefore thus says the LORD: I am going to send you off the face of the earth. Within this year you will be dead, because you have spoken rebellion against the LORD."

17 In that same year, in the seventh month, the prophet Hananiah died.

[Jeremiah 29]

Jeremiah's letters to Babylon; letter to the exiles

1 These are the words of the letter that the prophet Jeremiah sent from Jerusalem to the remaining elders among the exiles, and to the priests, the prophets, and all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had taken into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon. 2 This was after King Jeconiah, and the queen mother, the court officials, the leaders of Judah and Jerusalem, the artisans, and the smiths had departed from Jerusalem. 3 The letter was sent by the hand of Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah son of Hilkiah, whom King Zedekiah of Judah sent to Babylon to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. It said: 4 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon: 5 Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat what they produce. 6 Take wives and have sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters in marriage, that they may bear sons and daughters; multiply there, and do not decrease. 7 But seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the LORD on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare. 8 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not let the prophets and the diviners who are among you deceive you, and do not listen to the dreams that they dream, 9 for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you in my name; I did not send them, says the LORD.

10 For thus says the LORD: Only when Babylon's seventy years are completed will I visit you, and I will fulfill to you my promise and bring you back to this place. 11 For surely I know the plans I have for you, says the LORD, plans for your welfare and not for harm, to give you a future with hope. 12 Then when you call upon me and come and pray to me, I will hear you. 13 When you search for me, you will find me; if you seek me with all your heart, 14 I will let you find me, says the LORD, and I will restore your fortunes and gather you from all the nations and all the places where I have driven you, says the LORD, and I will bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.

15 Because you have said, "The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon," — 16 Thus says the LORD concerning the king who sits on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who live in this city, your kinsfolk who did not go out with you into exile: 17 Thus says the LORD of hosts, I am going to let loose on them sword, famine, and pestilence, and I will make them like rotten figs that are so bad they cannot be eaten. 18 I will pursue them with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, and will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be an object of cursing, and horror, and hissing, and a derision among all the nations where I have driven them, 19 because they did not heed my words, says the LORD, when I persistently sent to you my servants the prophets, but they would not listen, says the LORD. 20 But now, all you exiles whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon, hear the word of the LORD: 21 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying a lie to you in my name: I am going to deliver them into the hand of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, and he shall kill them before your eyes. 22 And on account of them this curse shall be used by all the exiles from Judah in Babylon: "The LORD make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire," 23 because they have perpetrated outrage in Israel and have committed adultery with their neighbors' wives, and have spoken in my name lying words that I did not command them; I am the one who knows and bears witness, says the LORD.

Jeremiah and Shemaiah

24 To Shemaiah of Nehelam you shall say: 25 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: In your own name you sent a letter to all the people who are in Jerusalem, and to the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah, and to all the priests, saying, 26 The LORD himself has made you priest instead of the priest Jehoiada, so that there may be officers in the house of the LORD to control any madman who plays the prophet, to put him in the stocks and the collar. 27 So now why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth who plays the prophet for you? 28 For he has actually sent to us in Babylon, saying, "It will be a long time; build houses and live in them, and plant gardens and eat what they produce."

29 The priest Zephaniah read this letter in the hearing of the prophet Jeremiah. 30 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 31 Send to all the exiles, saying, Thus says the LORD concerning Shemaiah of Nehelam: Because Shemaiah has prophesied to you, though I did not send him, and has led you to trust in a lie, 32 therefore thus says the LORD: I am going to punish Shemaiah of Nehelam and his descendants; he shall not have anyone living among this people to see the good that I am going to do to my people, says the LORD, for he has spoken rebellion against the LORD.

[Jeremiah 30]

The book of consolation

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Write in a book all the words that I have spoken to you. 3 For the days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will restore the fortunes of my people, Israel and Judah, says the LORD, and I will bring them back to the land that I gave to their ancestors and they shall take possession of it.

4 These are the words that the LORD spoke concerning Israel and Judah:

Oracles concerning Jacob

5 Thus says the LORD:

We have heard a cry of panic,
of terror, and no peace.

6 Ask now, and see,

can a man bear a child?

Why then do I see every man

with his hands on his loins like a woman in labor?

Why has every face turned pale?

7 Alas! that day is so great

there is none like it;

it is a time of distress for Jacob;

yet he shall be rescued from it.

8 On that day, says the LORD of hosts, I will break the yoke from off his neck, and I will burst his bonds, and strangers shall no more make a servant of him. 9 But they shall serve the LORD their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them.

10 But as for you, have no fear, my servant Jacob, says the LORD,

and do not be dismayed, O Israel;

for I am going to save you from far away,

and your offspring from the land of their captivity.

Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,

and no one shall make him afraid.

11 For I am with you, says the LORD, to save you;

I will make an end of all the nations

among which I scattered you,

but of you I will not make an end.

I will chastise you in just measure,

and I will by no means leave you unpunished.

Oracles concerning Zion

- 12 For thus says the LORD:
Your hurt is incurable,
your wound is grievous.
- 13 There is no one to uphold your cause,
no medicine for your wound,
no healing for you.
- 14 All your lovers have forgotten you;
they care nothing for you;
for I have dealt you the blow of an enemy,
the punishment of a merciless foe,
because your guilt is great,
because your sins are so numerous.
- 15 Why do you cry out over your hurt?
Your pain is incurable.
Because your guilt is great,
because your sins are so numerous,
I have done these things to you.
- 16 Therefore all who devour you shall be devoured,
and all your foes, everyone of them, shall go into captivity;
those who plunder you shall be plundered,
and all who prey on you I will make a prey.
- 17 For I will restore health to you,
and your wounds I will heal,
says the LORD,
because they have called you an outcast:
"It is Zion; no one cares for her!"

Restoration

- 18 Thus says the LORD:
I am going to restore the fortunes of the tents of Jacob,
and have compassion on his dwellings;
the city shall be rebuilt upon its mound,
and the citadel set on its rightful site.

- 19 Out of them shall come thanksgiving,
and the sound of merrymakers.
I will make them many, and they shall not be few;
I will make them honored, and they shall not be disdained.
- 20 Their children shall be as of old,
their congregation shall be established before me;
and I will punish all who oppress them.
- 21 Their prince shall be one of their own,
their ruler shall come from their midst;
I will bring him near, and he shall approach me,
for who would otherwise dare to approach me?
says the LORD.
- 22 And you shall be my people,
and I will be your God.
- 23 Look, the storm of the LORD!
Wrath has gone forth,
a whirling tempest;
it will burst upon the head of the wicked.
- 24 The fierce anger of the LORD will not turn back
until he has executed and accomplished
the intents of his mind.
In the latter days you will understand this.

[Jeremiah 31]
Redemption of Israel

- 1 At that time, says the LORD, I will be the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be my people.
- 2 Thus says the LORD:
The people who survived the sword found grace in the wilderness;
when Israel sought for rest,
3 the LORD appeared to him from far away.
I have loved you with an everlasting love;
therefore I have continued my faithfulness to you.

- 4 Again I will build you, and you shall be built,
O virgin Israel!
Again you shall take your tambourines,
and go forth in the dance of the merrymakers.
- 5 Again you shall plant vineyards
on the mountains of Samaria;
the planters shall plant,
and shall enjoy the fruit.
- 6 For there shall be a day when sentinels will call in the hill country of Ephraim:
"Come, let us go up to Zion,
to the LORD our God."

Homecoming

- 7 For thus says the LORD:
Sing aloud with gladness for Jacob,
and raise shouts for the chief of the nations;
proclaim, give praise, and say,
"Save, O LORD, your people,
the remnant of Israel."
- 8 See, I am going to bring them from the land of the north,
and gather them from the farthest parts of the earth,
among them the blind and the lame,
those with child and those in labor, together;
a great company, they shall return here.
- 9 With weeping they shall come,
and with consolations I will lead them back,
I will let them walk by brooks of water,
in a straight path in which they shall not stumble;
for I have become a father to Israel,
and Ephraim is my firstborn.
- 10 Hear the word of the LORD, O nations,
and declare it in the coastlands far away;
say, "He who scattered Israel will gather him,
and will keep him as a shepherd a flock."

- 11 For the LORD has ransomed Jacob,
and has redeemed him from hands too strong for him.
- 12 They shall come and sing aloud on the height of Zion,
and they shall be radiant over the goodness of the LORD,
over the grain, the wine, and the oil,
and over the young of the flock and the herd;
their life shall become like a watered garden,
and they shall never languish again.
- 13 Then shall the young women rejoice in the dance,
and the young men and the old shall be merry.
I will turn their mourning into joy,
I will comfort them, and give them gladness for sorrow.
- 14 I will give the priests their fill of fatness,
and my people shall be satisfied with my bounty,
says the LORD.

Lament of the exiles is heard

- 15 Thus says the LORD:
A voice is heard in Ramah,
lamentation and bitter weeping.
Rachel is weeping for her children;
she refuses to be comforted for her children,
because they are no more.
- 16 Thus says the LORD:
Keep your voice from weeping,
and your eyes from tears;
for there is a reward for your work,
says the LORD:
they shall come back from the land of the enemy;
- 17 there is hope for your future,
says the LORD:
your children shall come back to their own country.

- 18 Indeed I heard Ephraim pleading:
 "You disciplined me, and I took the discipline;
 I was like a calf untrained.
 Bring me back, let me come back,
 for you are the LORD my God.
- 19 For after I had turned away I repented;
 and after I was discovered, I struck my thigh;
 I was ashamed, and I was dismayed
 because I bore the disgrace of my youth."
- 20 Is Ephraim my dear son?
 Is he the child I delight in?
 As often as I speak against him,
 I still remember him.
 Therefore I am deeply moved for him;
 I will surely have mercy on him,
 says the LORD.

The return

- 21 Set up road markers for yourself,
 make yourself guideposts;
 consider well the highway,
 the road by which you went.
 Return, O virgin Israel, return to these your cities.
- 22 How long will you waver,
 O faithless daughter?
 For the LORD has created a new thing on the earth:
 a woman encompasses a man.
- 23 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Once more they shall use these words in the land of Judah and in its towns when I restore their fortunes:
 "The LORD bless you, O abode of righteousness, O holy hill!"
- 24 And Judah and all its towns shall live there together, and the farmers and those who wander with their flocks.

25 I will satisfy the weary,
and all who are faint I will replenish.

26 Thereupon I awoke and looked, and my sleep was pleasant to me.

A chain of eschatological promises

27 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of humans and the seed of animals. 28 And just as I have watched over them to pluck up and break down, to overthrow, destroy, and bring evil, so I will watch over them to build and to plant, says the LORD. 29 In those days they shall no longer say:

"The parents have eaten sour grapes,
and the children's teeth are set on edge."

30 But all shall die for their own sins; the teeth of everyone who eats sour grapes shall be set on edge.

31 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah. 32 It will not be like the covenant that I made with their ancestors when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt — a covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, says the LORD. 33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 34 No longer shall they teach one another, or say to each other, "Know the LORD," for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, says the LORD; for I will forgive their iniquity, and remember their sin no more.

35 Thus says the LORD,
who gives the sun for light by day
and the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar —
the LORD of hosts is his name:

36 If this fixed order were ever to cease
 from my presence, says the LORD,
 then also the offspring of Israel would cease to be a nation before me forever.

37 Thus says the LORD:
 If the heavens above can be measured,
 and the foundations of the earth below can be explored,
 then I will reject all the offspring of Israel
 because of all they have done,
 says the LORD.

Appendix to the book of consolation: The future of Jerusalem

38 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when the city shall be rebuilt for the LORD from the tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate. 39 And the measuring line shall go out farther, straight to the hill Gareb, and shall then turn to Goah. 40 The whole valley of the dead bodies and the ashes, and all the fields as far as the Wadi Kidron, to the corner of the Horse Gate toward the east, shall be sacred to the LORD. It shall never again be uprooted or overthrown.

[Jeremiah 32]

Jeremiah purchases land in Anathoth

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the tenth year of King Zedekiah of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. 2 At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, and the prophet Jeremiah was confined in the court of the guard that was in the palace of the king of Judah, 3 where King Zedekiah of Judah had confined him. Zedekiah had said, "Why do you prophesy and say: Thus says the LORD: I am going to give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it; 4 King Zedekiah of Judah shall not escape out of the hands of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be given into the hands of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him face to face and see him eye to eye; 5 and he shall take Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he shall remain until I attend to him, says the LORD; though you fight against the Chaldeans, you shall not succeed?"

6 Jeremiah said, The word of the LORD came to me: 7 Hanamel son of your uncle Shallum is going to come to you and say, "Buy my field that is at Anathoth, for the right of redemption by purchase is yours." 8 Then my cousin Hanamel came to me in the court of the guard, in accordance with the word of the LORD, and said to me, "Buy my field that is at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, for the right of possession and redemption is yours; buy it for yourself." Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD.

9 And I bought the field at Anathoth from my cousin Hanamel, and weighed out the money to him, seventeen shekels of silver. 10 I signed the deed, sealed it, got witnesses, and weighed the money on scales. 11 Then I took the sealed deed of purchase, containing the terms and conditions, and the open copy; 12 and I gave the deed of purchase to Baruch son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, in the presence of my cousin Hanamel, in the presence of the witnesses who signed the deed of purchase, and in the presence of all the Judeans who were sitting in the court of the guard. 13 In their presence I charged Baruch, saying, 14 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these deeds, both this sealed deed of purchase and this open deed, and put them in an earthenware jar, in order that they may last for a long time. 15 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses and fields and vineyards shall again be bought in this land.

16 After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD, saying: 17 Ah Lord GOD! It is you who made the heavens and the earth by your great power and by your outstretched arm! Nothing is too hard for you. 18 You show steadfast love to the thousandth generation, but repay the guilt of parents into the laps of their children after them, O great and mighty God whose name is the LORD of hosts, 19 great in counsel and mighty in deed; whose eyes are open to all the ways of mortals, rewarding all according to their ways and according to the fruit of their doings. 20 You showed signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among all humankind, and have made yourself a name that continues to this very day. 21 You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and outstretched arm, and with great terror; 22 and you gave them this land, which you swore to their ancestors to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey; 23 and they entered and took possession of it. But they did not obey your voice or follow your law; of all you commanded them to do, they did nothing. Therefore you have made all these disasters come upon them. 24 See, the siege ramps have been cast up against the city to take it, and the city, faced with sword, famine, and pestilence, has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans who are fighting against it. What you spoke has happened, as you yourself can see. 25 Yet you, O Lord GOD, have said to me, "Buy the field for money and get witnesses" — though the city has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans.

26 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 27 See, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh; is anything too hard for me? 28 Therefore, thus says the LORD: I am going to give this city into the hands of the Chaldeans and into the hand of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, and he shall take it. 29 The Chaldeans who are fighting against this city shall come, set it on fire, and burn it, with the houses on whose roofs offerings have been made to Baal and libations have been poured out to other gods, to provoke me to anger. 30 For the people of Israel and the people of Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight from their youth; the people of Israel have done nothing but provoke me to anger by the work of their hands, says the LORD. 31 This city has aroused my anger and wrath, from the day it was built until this day, so that I will remove it from my sight 32 because of all the evil of the people of Israel and the people of Judah that they did to provoke me to anger — they, their kings and their officials, their priests and their prophets, the citizens of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 33 They have turned their backs to me, not their faces; though I have taught them persistently, they would not listen and accept correction. 34 They set up their abominations in the house that bears my name, and defiled it. 35 They built the high places of Baal in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to offer up their sons and daughters to Molech, though I did not command them, nor did it enter my mind that they should do this abomination, causing Judah to sin.

36 Now therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you say, "It is being given into the hand of the king of Babylon by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence": 37 See, I am going to gather them from all the lands to which I drove them in my anger and my wrath and in great indignation; I will bring them back to this place, and I will settle them in safety. 38 They shall be my people, and I will be their God. 39 I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me for all time, for their own good and the good of their children after them. 40 I will make an everlasting covenant with them, never to draw back from doing good to them; and I will put the fear of me in their hearts, so that they may not turn from me. 41 I will rejoice in doing good to them, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all my heart and all my soul.

42 For thus says the LORD: Just as I have brought all this great disaster upon this people, so I will bring upon them all the good fortune that I now promise them. 43 Fields shall be bought in this land of which you are saying, It is a desolation, without human beings or animals; it has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans. 44 Fields shall be bought for money, and deeds shall be signed and sealed and witnessed, in the land of Benjamin, in the places around Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, of the hill country, of the Shephelah, and of the Negeb; for I will restore their fortunes, says the LORD.

God will rebuild the walls of Jerusalem

1 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still confined in the court of the guard: 2 Thus says the LORD who made the earth, the LORD who formed it to establish it — the LORD is his name: 3 Call to me and I will answer you, and will tell you great and hidden things that you have not known. 4 For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah that were torn down to make a defense against the siege ramps and before the sword: 5 The Chaldeans are coming in to fight and to fill them with the dead bodies of those whom I shall strike down in my anger and my wrath, for I have hidden my face from this city because of all their wickedness. 6 I am going to bring it recovery and healing; I will heal them and reveal to them abundance of prosperity and security. 7 I will restore the fortunes of Judah and the fortunes of Israel, and rebuild them as they were at first. 8 I will cleanse them from all the guilt of their sin against me, and I will forgive all the guilt of their sin and rebellion against me. 9 And this city shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and a glory before all the nations of the earth who shall hear of all the good that I do for them; they shall fear and tremble because of all the good and all the prosperity I provide for it.

Two proclamations of salvation

10 Thus says the LORD: In this place of which you say, "It is a waste without human beings or animals," in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem that are desolate, without inhabitants, human or animal, there shall once more be heard 11 the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voices of those who sing, as they bring thank offerings to the house of the LORD:

"Give thanks to the LORD of hosts,
for the LORD is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever!"

For I will restore the fortunes of the land as at first, says the LORD.

12 Thus says the LORD of hosts: In this place that is waste, without human beings or animals, and in all its towns there shall again be pasture for shepherds resting their flocks. 13 In the towns of the hill country, of the Shephelah, and of the Negeb, in the land of Benjamin, the places around Jerusalem, and in the towns of Judah, flocks shall again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says the LORD.

A variation of ch 23.5-6

14 The days are surely coming, says the LORD, when I will fulfill the promise I made to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. 15 In those days and at that time I will cause a righteous Branch to spring up for David; and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. 16 In those days Judah will be saved and Jerusalem will live in safety. And this is the name by which it will be called: "The LORD is our righteousness."

17 For thus says the LORD: David shall never lack a man to sit on the throne of the house of Israel, 18 and the levitical priests shall never lack a man in my presence to offer burnt offerings, to make grain offerings, and to make sacrifices for all time.

19 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 20 Thus says the LORD: If any of you could break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night, so that day and night would not come at their appointed time, 21 only then could my covenant with my servant David be broken, so that he would not have a son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with my ministers the Levites. 22 Just as the host of heaven cannot be numbered and the sands of the sea cannot be measured, so I will increase the offspring of my servant David, and the Levites who minister to me.

23 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 24 Have you not observed how these people say, "The two families that the LORD chose have been rejected by him," and how they hold my people in such contempt that they no longer regard them as a nation? 25 Thus says the LORD: Only if I had not established my covenant with day and night and the ordinances of heaven and earth, 26 would I reject the offspring of Jacob and of my servant David and not choose any of his descendants as rulers over the offspring of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. For I will restore their fortunes, and will have mercy upon them.

[Jeremiah 34]

Warning to Zedekiah

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, when King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon and all his army and all the kingdoms of the earth and all the peoples under his dominion were fighting against Jerusalem and all its cities: 2 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Go and speak to King Zedekiah of Judah and say to him: Thus says the LORD: I am going to give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire. 3 And you yourself shall not escape from his hand, but shall surely be captured and handed over to him; you shall see the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak with him face to face; and you shall go to Babylon. 4 Yet hear the word of the LORD, O King Zedekiah of Judah! Thus says the LORD concerning you: You shall not die by the sword; 5 you shall die in peace. And as spices were burned for your ancestors, the earlier kings who preceded you, so they shall burn spices for you and lament for you, saying, "Alas, lord!" For I have spoken the word, says the LORD.

6 Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah, in Jerusalem, 7 when the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the cities of Judah that were left, Lachish and Azekah; for these were the only fortified cities of Judah that remained.

Manumission of slaves and perfidy of the Jerusalemites

8 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to make a proclamation of liberty to them — 9 that all should set free their Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no one should hold another Judean in slavery. 10 And they obeyed, all the officials and all the people who had entered into the covenant that all would set free their slaves, male or female, so that they would not be enslaved again; they obeyed and set them free. 11 But afterward they turned around and took back the male and female slaves they had set free, and brought them again into subjection as slaves. 12 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 13 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I myself made a covenant with your ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery, saying, 14 "Every seventh year each of you must set free any Hebrews who have been sold to you and have served you six years; you must set them free from your service." But your ancestors did not listen to me or incline their ears to me. 15 You yourselves recently repented and did what was right in my sight by proclaiming liberty to one another, and you made a covenant before me in the house that is called by my name; 16 but then you turned around and profaned my name when each of you took back your male and female slaves, whom you had set free according to their desire, and you brought them again into subjection to be your slaves. 17 Therefore, thus says the LORD: You have not obeyed me by granting a release to your neighbors and friends; I am going to grant a release to you, says the LORD — a release to the sword, to pestilence, and to famine. I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. 18 And those who transgressed my covenant and did not keep the terms of the covenant that they made before me, I will make like the calf when they cut it in two and passed between its parts: 19 the officials of Judah, the officials of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf 20 shall be handed over to their enemies and to those who seek their lives. Their corpses shall become food for the birds of the air and the wild animals of the earth. 21 And as for King Zedekiah of Judah and his officials, I will hand them over to their enemies and to those who seek their lives, to the army of the king of Babylon, which has withdrawn from you. 22 I am going to command, says the LORD, and will bring them back to this city; and they will fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire. The towns of Judah I will make a desolation without inhabitant.

[Jeremiah 35]

The symbol of the Rechabites

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah: 2 Go to the house of the Rechabites, and speak with them, and bring them to the house of the LORD, into one of the chambers; then offer them wine to drink. 3 So I took Jaazaniah son of Jeremiah son of Habazziniah, and his brothers, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites. 4 I brought them to the house of the LORD into the chamber of the sons of Hanan son of Igdaliah, the man of God, which was near the chamber of the officials, above the chamber of Maaseiah son of Shallum, keeper of the threshold. 5 Then I set before the Rechabites pitchers full of wine, and cups; and I said to them, "Have some wine." 6 But they answered, "We will drink no wine, for our ancestor Jonadab son of Rechab commanded us, 'You shall never drink wine, neither you nor your children; 7 nor shall you ever build a house, or sow seed; nor shall you plant a vineyard, or even own one; but you shall live in tents all your days, that you may live many days in the land where you reside.' 8 We have obeyed the charge of our ancestor Jonadab son of Rechab in all that he commanded us, to drink no wine all our days, ourselves, our wives, our sons, or our daughters, 9 and not to build houses to live in. We have no vineyard or field or seed; 10 but we have lived in tents, and have obeyed and done all that our ancestor Jonadab commanded us. 11 But when King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon came up against the land, we said, 'Come, and let us go to Jerusalem for fear of the army of the Chaldeans and the army of the Arameans.' That is why we are living in Jerusalem."

12 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 13 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Go and say to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Can you not learn a lesson and obey my words? says the LORD. 14 The command has been carried out that Jonadab son of Rechab gave to his descendants to drink no wine; and they drink none to this day, for they have obeyed their ancestor's command. But I myself have spoken to you persistently, and you have not obeyed me. 15 I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, sending them persistently, saying, "Turn now everyone of you from your evil way, and amend your doings, and do not go after other gods to serve them, and then you shall live in the land that I gave to you and your ancestors." But you did not incline your ear or obey me. 16 The descendants of Jonadab son of Rechab have carried out the command that their ancestor gave them, but this people has not obeyed me. 17 Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to bring on Judah and on all the inhabitants of Jerusalem every disaster that I have pronounced against them; because I have spoken to them and they have not listened, I have called to them and they have not answered.

18 But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you have obeyed the command of your ancestor Jonadab, and kept all his precepts, and done all that he commanded you, 19 therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Jonadab son of Rechab shall not lack a descendant to stand before me for all time.

[Jeremiah 36]Jehoiakim burns a scroll of Jeremiah, and Jeremiah dictates another

1 In the fourth year of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 Take a scroll and write on it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel and Judah and all the nations, from the day I spoke to you, from the days of Josiah until today. 3 It may be that when the house of Judah hears of all the disasters that I intend to do to them, all of them may turn from their evil ways, so that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote on a scroll at Jeremiah's dictation all the words of the LORD that he had spoken to him. 5 And Jeremiah ordered Baruch, saying, "I am prevented from entering the house of the LORD; 6 so you go yourself, and on a fast day in the hearing of the people in the LORD's house you shall read the words of the LORD from the scroll that you have written at my dictation. You shall read them also in the hearing of all the people of Judah who come up from their towns. 7 It may be that their plea will come before the LORD, and that all of them will turn from their evil ways, for great is the anger and wrath that the LORD has pronounced against this people." 8 And Baruch son of Neriah did all that the prophet Jeremiah ordered him about reading from the scroll the words of the LORD in the LORD's house.

9 In the fifth year of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah, in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the towns of Judah to Jerusalem proclaimed a fast before the LORD. 10 Then, in the hearing of all the people, Baruch read the words of Jeremiah from the scroll, in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan the secretary, which was in the upper court, at the entry of the New Gate of the LORD's house.

11 When Micaiah son of Gemariah son of Shaphan heard all the words of the LORD from the scroll, 12 he went down to the king's house, into the secretary's chamber; and all the officials were sitting there: Elishama the secretary, Delaiah son of Shemaiah, Elnathan son of Achbor, Gemariah son of Shaphan, Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the officials. 13 And Micaiah told them all the words that he had heard, when Baruch read the scroll in the hearing of the people. 14 Then all the officials sent Jehudi son of Nethaniah son of Shelemiah son of Cushi to say to Baruch, "Bring the scroll that you read in the hearing of the people, and come." So Baruch son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. 15 And they said to him, "Sit down and read it to us." So Baruch read it to them. 16 When they heard all the words, they turned to one another in alarm, and said to Baruch, "We certainly must report all these words to the king." 17 Then they questioned Baruch, "Tell us now, how did you write all these words? Was it at his dictation?" 18 Baruch answered them, "He dictated all these words to me, and I wrote them with ink on the scroll." 19 Then the officials said to Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and let no one know where you are."

20 Leaving the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the secretary, they went to the court of the king; and they reported all the words to the king. 21 Then the king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the secretary; and Jehudi read it to the king and all the officials who stood beside the king. 22 Now the king was sitting in his winter apartment (it was the ninth month), and there was a fire burning in the brazier before him. 23 As Jehudi read three or four columns, the king would cut them off with a penknife and throw them into the fire in the brazier, until the entire scroll was consumed in the fire that was in the brazier. 24 Yet neither the king, nor any of his servants who heard all these words, was alarmed, nor did they tear their garments. 25 Even when Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah urged the king not to burn the scroll, he would not listen to them. 26 And the king commanded Jerahmeel the king's son and Seraiah son of Azriel and Shelemiah son of Abdeel to arrest the secretary Baruch and the prophet Jeremiah. But the LORD hid them.

27 Now, after the king had burned the scroll with the words that Baruch wrote at Jeremiah's dictation, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 28 Take another scroll and write on it all the former words that were in the first scroll, which King Jehoiakim of Judah has burned. 29 And concerning King Jehoiakim of Judah you shall say: Thus says the LORD, You have dared to burn this scroll, saying, Why have you written in it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land, and will cut off from it human beings and animals? 30 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning King Jehoiakim of Judah: He shall have no one to sit upon the throne of David, and his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night. 31 And I will punish him and his offspring and his servants for their iniquity; I will bring on them, and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and on the people of Judah, all the disasters with which I have threatened them — but they would not listen.

32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to the secretary Baruch son of Neriah, who wrote on it at Jeremiah's dictation all the words of the scroll that King Jehoiakim of Judah had burned in the fire; and many similar words were added to them.

[Jeremiah 37]

The sufferings of Jeremiah before, during, and after the fall of Jerusalem; Jeremiah, Zedekiah, and the siege

1 Zedekiah son of Josiah, whom King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon made king in the land of Judah, succeeded Coniah son of Jehoiakim. 2 But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land listened to the words of the LORD that he spoke through the prophet Jeremiah.

3 King Zedekiah sent Jehucal son of Shelemiah and the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah to the prophet Jeremiah saying, "Please pray for us to the LORD our God." 4 Now Jeremiah was still going in and out among the people, for he had not yet been put in prison. 5 Meanwhile, the army of Pharaoh had come out of Egypt; and when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard news of them, they withdrew from Jerusalem.

6 Then the word of the LORD came to the prophet Jeremiah: 7 Thus says the LORD, God of Israel: This is what the two of you shall say to the king of Judah, who sent you to me to inquire of me: Pharaoh's army, which set out to help you, is going to return to its own land, to Egypt. 8 And the Chaldeans shall return and fight against this city; they shall take it and burn it with fire. 9 Thus says the LORD: Do not deceive yourselves, saying, "The Chaldeans will surely go away from us," for they will not go away. 10 Even if you defeated the whole army of Chaldeans who are fighting against you, and there remained of them only wounded men in their tents, they would rise up and burn this city with fire.

11 Now when the Chaldean army had withdrawn from Jerusalem at the approach of Pharaoh's army, 12 Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to receive his share of property among the people there. 13 When he reached the Benjamin Gate, a sentinel there named Irijah son of Shelemiah son of Hananiah arrested the prophet Jeremiah saying, "You are deserting to the Chaldeans." 14 And Jeremiah said, "That is a lie; I am not deserting to the Chaldeans." But Irijah would not listen to him, and arrested Jeremiah and brought him to the officials. 15 The officials were enraged at Jeremiah, and they beat him and imprisoned him in the house of the secretary Jonathan, for it had been made a prison. 16 Thus Jeremiah was put in the cistern house, in the cells, and remained there many days.

17 Then King Zedekiah sent for him, and received him. The king questioned him secretly in his house, and said, "Is there any word from the LORD?" Jeremiah said, "There is!" Then he said, "You shall be handed over to the king of Babylon." 18 Jeremiah also said to King Zedekiah, "What wrong have I done to you or your servants or this people, that you have put me in prison? 19 Where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land'? 20 Now please hear me, my lord king: be good enough to listen to my plea, and do not send me back to the house of the secretary Jonathan to die there." 21 So King Zedekiah gave orders, and they committed Jeremiah to the court of the guard; and a loaf of bread was given him daily from the bakers' street, until all the bread of the city was gone. So Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

1 Now Shephatiah son of Mattan, Gedaliah son of Pashhur, Jucal son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur son of Malchiah heard the words that Jeremiah was saying to all the people, 2 Thus says the LORD, Those who stay in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; but those who go out to the Chaldeans shall live; they shall have their lives as a prize of war, and live. 3 Thus says the LORD, This city shall surely be handed over to the army of the king of Babylon and be taken. 4 Then the officials said to the king, "This man ought to be put to death, because he is discouraging the soldiers who are left in this city, and all the people, by speaking such words to them. For this man is not seeking the welfare of this people, but their harm." 5 King Zedekiah said, "Here he is; he is in your hands; for the king is powerless against you." 6 So they took Jeremiah and threw him into the cistern of Malchiah, the king's son, which was in the court of the guard, letting Jeremiah down by ropes. Now there was no water in the cistern, but only mud, and Jeremiah sank in the mud.

7 Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, a eunuch in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern. The king happened to be sitting at the Benjamin Gate, 8 So Ebed-melech left the king's house and spoke to the king, 9 "My lord king, these men have acted wickedly in all they did to the prophet Jeremiah by throwing him into the cistern to die there of hunger, for there is no bread left in the city." 10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, "Take three men with you from here, and pull the prophet Jeremiah up from the cistern before he dies." 11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him and went to the house of the king, to a wardrobe of the storehouse, and took from there old rags and worn-out clothes, which he let down to Jeremiah in the cistern by ropes. 12 Then Ebed-melech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, "Just put the rags and clothes between your armpits and the ropes." Jeremiah did so. 13 Then they drew Jeremiah up by the ropes and pulled him out of the cistern. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

14 King Zedekiah sent for the prophet Jeremiah and received him at the third entrance of the temple of the LORD. The king said to Jeremiah, "I have something to ask you; do not hide anything from me." 15 Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "If I tell you, you will put me to death, will you not? And if I give you advice, you will not listen to me." 16 So King Zedekiah swore an oath in secret to Jeremiah, "As the LORD lives, who gave us our lives, I will not put you to death or hand you over to these men who seek your life."

17 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "Thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, If you will only surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, then your life shall be spared, and this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall live. 18 But if you do not surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, then this city shall be handed over to the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and you yourself shall not escape from their hand." 19 King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am afraid of the Judeans who have deserted to the Chaldeans, for I might be handed over to them and they would abuse me." 20 Jeremiah said, "That will not happen. Just obey the voice of the LORD in what I say to you, and it shall go well with you, and your life shall be spared. 21 But if you are determined not to surrender, this is what the LORD has shown me — 22 a vision of all the women remaining in the house of the king of Judah being led out to the officials of the king of Babylon and saying,

'Your trusted friends have seduced you
and have overcome you;
Now that your feet are stuck in the mud,
they desert you.'

23 All your wives and your children shall be led out to the Chaldeans, and you yourself shall not escape from their hand, but shall be seized by the king of Babylon; and this city shall be burned with fire."

24 Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Do not let anyone else know of this conversation, or you will die. 25 If the officials should hear that I have spoken with you, and they should come and say to you, 'Just tell us what you said to the king; do not conceal it from us, or we will put you to death. What did the king say to you?' 26 then you shall say to them, 'I was presenting my plea to the king not to send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.'" 27 All the officials did come to Jeremiah and questioned him; and he answered them in the very words the king had commanded. So they stopped questioning him, for the conversation had not been overheard. 28 And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem was taken.

[Jeremiah 39]

Jeremiah and the fall of Jerusalem

1 In the ninth year of King Zedekiah of Judah, in the tenth month, King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and besieged it; 2 in the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, a breach was made in the city. 3 When Jerusalem was taken, all the officials of the king of Babylon came and sat in the middle gate: Nergal-sharezer, Samgar-nebo, Sarsechim the Rabsaris, Nergal-sharezer the Rabmag, with all the rest of the officials of the king of Babylon. 4 When King Zedekiah of Judah and all the soldiers saw them, they fled, going out of the city at night by way of the king's garden through the gate between the two walls; and they went toward the Arabah. 5 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued them, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho; and when they had taken him, they brought him up to King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, at Riblah, in the land of Hamath; and he passed sentence on him. 6 The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah at Riblah before his eyes; also the king of Babylon slaughtered all the nobles of Judah. 7 He put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in fetters to take him to Babylon. 8 The Chaldeans burned the king's house and the houses of the people, and broke down the walls of Jerusalem. 9 Then Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard exiled to Babylon the rest of the people who were left in the city, those who had deserted to him, and the people who remained. 10 Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left in the land of Judah some of the poor people who owned nothing, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time.

11 King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon gave command concerning Jeremiah through Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, saying, 12 "Take him, look after him well and do him no harm, but deal with him as he may ask you." 13 So Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, Nebushazban the Rabsaris, Nergal-sharezer the Rabmag, and all the chief officers of the king of Babylon sent 14 and took Jeremiah from the court of the guard. They entrusted him to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan to be brought home. So he stayed with his own people.

15 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah while he was confined in the court of the guard: 16 Go and say to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to fulfill my words against this city for evil and not for good, and they shall be accomplished in your presence on that day. 17 But I will save you on that day, says the LORD, and you shall not be handed over to those whom you dread. 18 For I will surely save you, and you shall not fall by the sword; but you shall have your life as a prize of war, because you have trusted in me, says the LORD.

[Jeremiah 40]

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah, when he took him bound in fetters along with all the captives of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. 2 The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, "The LORD your God threatened this place with this disaster; 3 and now the LORD has brought it about, and has done as he said, because all of you sinned against the LORD and did not obey his voice. Therefore this thing has come upon you. 4 Now look, I have just released you today from the fetters on your hands. If you wish to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will take good care of you; but if you do not wish to come with me to Babylon, you need not come. See, the whole land is before you; go wherever you think it good and right to go. 5 If you remain, then return to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon appointed governor of the towns of Judah, and stay with him among the people; or go wherever you think it right to go." So the captain of the guard gave him an allowance of food and a present, and let him go. 6 Then Jeremiah went to Gedaliah son of Ahikam at Mizpah, and stayed with him among the people who were left in the land.

Hope for the future of God's people lies only with the Babylonian exiles; the third revolt

7 When all the leaders of the forces in the open country and their troops heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam governor in the land, and had committed to him men, women, and children, those of the poorest of the land who had not been taken into exile to Babylon, 8 they went to Gedaliah at Mizpah — Ishmael son of Nethaniah, Johanan son of Kareah, Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, Jezaniah son of the Maacathite, they and their troops. 9 Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan swore to them and their troops, saying, "Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Stay in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall go well with you. 10 As for me, I am staying at Mizpah to represent you before the Chaldeans who come to us; but as for you, gather wine and summer fruits and oil, and store them in your vessels, and live in the towns that you have taken over." 11 Likewise, when all the Judeans who were in Moab and among the Ammonites and in Edom and in other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan as governor over them, 12 then all the Judeans returned from all the places to which they had been scattered and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah; and they gathered wine and summer fruits in great abundance.

13 Now Johanan son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces in the open country came to Gedaliah at Mizpah 14 and said to him, "Are you at all aware that Baalis king of the Ammonites has sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah to take your life?" But Gedaliah son of Ahikam would not believe them. 15 Then Johanan son of Kareah spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah, "Please let me go and kill Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and no one else will know. Why should he take your life, so that all the Judeans who are gathered around you would be scattered, and the remnant of Judah would perish?" 16 But Gedaliah son of Ahikam said to Johanan son of Kareah, "Do not do such a thing, for you are telling a lie about Ishmael."

1 In the seventh month, Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama, of the royal family, one of the chief officers of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah son of Ahikam, at Mizpah. As they ate bread together there at Mizpah, 2 Ishmael son of Nethaniah and the ten men with him got up and struck down Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan with the sword and killed him, because the king of Babylon had appointed him governor in the land. 3 Ishmael also killed all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and the Chaldean soldiers who happened to be there.

4 On the day after the murder of Gedaliah, before anyone knew of it, 5 eighty men arrived from Shechem and Shiloh and Samaria, with their beards shaved and their clothes torn, and their bodies gashed, bringing grain offerings and incense to present at the temple of the LORD. 6 And Ishmael son of Nethaniah came out from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he came. As he met them, he said to them, "Come to Gedaliah son of Ahikam." 7 When they reached the middle of the city, Ishmael son of Nethaniah and the men with him slaughtered them, and threw them into a cistern. 8 But there were ten men among them who said to Ishmael, "Do not kill us, for we have stores of wheat, barley, oil, and honey hidden in the fields." So he refrained, and did not kill them along with their companions.

9 Now the cistern into which Ishmael had thrown all the bodies of the men whom he had struck down was the large cistern that King Asa had made for defense against King Baasha of Israel; Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled that cistern with those whom he had killed. 10 Then Ishmael took captive all the rest of the people who were in Mizpah, the king's daughters and all the people who were left at Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedaliah son of Ahikam. Ishmael son of Nethaniah took them captive and set out to cross over to the Ammonites.

11 But when Johanan son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him heard of all the crimes that Ishmael son of Nethaniah had done, 12 they took all their men and went to fight against Ishmael son of Nethaniah. They came upon him at the great pool that is in Gibeon. 13 And when all the people who were with Ishmael saw Johanan son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him, they were glad. 14 So all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah turned around and came back, and went to Johanan son of Kareah. 15 But Ishmael son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites. 16 Then Johanan son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him took all the rest of the people whom Ishmael son of Nethaniah had carried away captive from Mizpah after he had slain Gedaliah son of Ahikam — soldiers, women, children, and eunuchs, whom Johanan brought back from Gibeon. 17 And they set out, and stopped at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem, intending to go to Egypt 18 because of the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, because Ishmael son of Nethaniah had killed Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

[Jeremiah 42] Flight to Egypt

1 Then all the commanders of the forces, and Johanan son of Kareah and Azariah son of Hoshai, and all the people from the least to the greatest, approached 2 the prophet Jeremiah and said, "Be good enough to listen to our plea, and pray to the LORD your God for us — for all this remnant. For there are only a few of us left out of many, as your eyes can see. 3 Let the LORD your God show us where we should go and what we should do." 4 The prophet Jeremiah said to them, "Very well: I am going to pray to the LORD your God as you request, and whatever the LORD answers you I will tell you; I will keep nothing back from you." 5 They in their turn said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not act according to everything that the LORD your God sends us through you. 6 Whether it is good or bad, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we are sending you, in order that it may go well with us when we obey the voice of the LORD our God."

7 At the end of ten days the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. 8 Then he summoned Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest, 9 and said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to present your plea before him: 10 If you will only remain in this land, then I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you, and not pluck you up; for I am sorry for the disaster that I have brought upon you. 11 Do not be afraid of the king of Babylon, as you have been; do not be afraid of him, says the LORD, for I am with you, to save you and to rescue you from his hand. 12 I will grant you mercy, and he will have mercy on you and restore you to your native soil. 13 But if you continue to say, 'We will not stay in this land,' thus disobeying the voice of the LORD your God 14 and saying, 'No, we will go to the land of Egypt, where we shall not see war, or hear the sound of the trumpet, or be hungry for bread, and there we will stay,' 15 then hear the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: If you are determined to enter Egypt and go to settle there, 16 then the sword that you fear shall overtake you there, in the land of Egypt; and the famine that you dread shall follow close after you into Egypt; and there you shall die. 17 All the people who have determined to go to Egypt to settle there shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; they shall have no remnant or survivor from the disaster that I am bringing upon them.

18 "For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Just as my anger and my wrath were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so my wrath will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt. You shall become an object of execration and horror, of cursing and ridicule. You shall see this place no more. 19 The LORD has said to you, O remnant of Judah, Do not go to Egypt. Be well aware that I have warned you today 20 that you have made a fatal mistake. For you yourselves sent me to the LORD your God, saying, 'Pray for us to the LORD our God, and whatever the LORD our God says, tell us and we will do it.' 21 So I have told you today, but you have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God in anything that he sent me to tell you. 22 Be well aware, then, that you shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence in the place where you desire to go and settle."

[Jeremiah 43]

1 When Jeremiah finished speaking to all the people all these words of the LORD their God, with which the LORD their God had sent him to them, 2 Azariah son of Hoshai and Johanan son of Kareah and all the other insolent men said to Jeremiah, "You are telling a lie. The LORD our God did not send you to say, 'Do not go to Egypt to settle there'; 3 but Baruch son of Neriah is inciting you against us, to hand us over to the Chaldeans, in order that they may kill us or take us into exile in Babylon." 4 So Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces and all the people did not obey the voice of the LORD, to stay in the land of Judah. 5 But Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces took all the remnant of Judah who had returned to settle in the land of Judah from all the nations to which they had been driven — 6 the men, the women, the children, the princesses, and everyone whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan; also the prophet Jeremiah and Baruch son of Neriah. 7 And they came into the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of the LORD. And they arrived at Tahpanhes.

Jeremiah in Egypt

8 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes: 9 Take some large stones in your hands, and bury them in the clay pavement that is at the entrance to Pharaoh's palace in Tahpanhes. Let the Judeans see you do it, 10 and say to them, Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to send and take my servant King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, and he will set his throne above these stones that I have buried, and he will spread his royal canopy over them. 11 He shall come and ravage the land of Egypt, giving those who are destined for pestilence, to pestilence,
 and those who are destined for captivity, to captivity,
 and those who are destined for the sword, to the sword.
 12 He shall kindle a fire in the temples of the gods of Egypt; and he shall burn them and carry them away captive; and he shall pick clean the land of Egypt, as a shepherd picks his cloak clean of vermin; and he shall depart from there safely. 13 He shall break the obelisks of Heliopolis, which is in the land of Egypt; and the temples of the gods of Egypt he shall burn with fire.

[Jeremiah 44]

1 The word that came to Jeremiah for all the Judeans living in the land of Egypt, at Migdol, at Tahpanhes, at Memphis, and in the land of Pathros, 2 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You yourselves have seen all the disaster that I have brought on Jerusalem and on all the towns of Judah. Look at them; today they are a desolation, without an inhabitant in them, 3 because of the wickedness that they committed, provoking me to anger, in that they went to make offerings and serve other gods that they had not known, neither they, nor you, nor your ancestors. 4 Yet I persistently sent to you all my servants the prophets, saying, "I beg you not to do this abominable thing that I hate!" 5 But they did not listen or incline their ear, to turn from their wickedness and make no offerings to other gods. 6 So my wrath and my anger were poured out and kindled in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they became a waste and a desolation, as they still are today. 7 And now thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why are you doing such great harm to yourselves, to cut off man and woman, child and infant, from the midst of Judah, leaving yourselves without a remnant? 8 Why do you provoke me to anger with the works of your hands, making offerings to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have come to settle? Will you be cut off and become an object of cursing and ridicule among all the nations of the earth? 9 Have you forgotten the crimes of your ancestors, of the kings of Judah, of their wives, your own crimes and those of your wives, which they committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 10 They have shown no contrition or fear to this day, nor have they walked in my law and my statutes that I set before you and before your ancestors.

11 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am determined to bring disaster on you, to bring all Judah to an end. 12 I will take the remnant of Judah who are determined to come to the land of Egypt to settle, and they shall perish, everyone; in the land of Egypt they shall fall; by the sword and by famine they shall perish;

from the least to the greatest, they shall die by the sword and by famine; and they shall become an object of execration and horror, of cursing and ridicule. 13 I will punish those who live in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, 14 so that none of the remnant of Judah who have come to settle in the land of Egypt shall escape or survive or return to the land of Judah. Although they long to go back to live there, they shall not go back, except some fugitives.

15 Then all the men who were aware that their wives had been making offerings to other gods, and all the women who stood by, a great assembly, all the people who lived in Pathros in the land of Egypt, answered Jeremiah: 16 "As for the word that you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, we are not going to listen to you. 17 Instead, we will do everything that we have vowed, make offerings to the queen of heaven and pour out libations to her, just as we and our ancestors, our kings and our officials, used to do in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem. We used to have plenty of food, and prospered, and saw no misfortune. 18 But from the time we stopped making offerings to the queen of heaven and pouring out libations to her, we have lacked everything and have perished by the sword and by famine." 19 And the women said, "Indeed we will go on making offerings to the queen of heaven and pouring out libations to her; do you think that we made cakes for her, marked with her image, and poured out libations to her without our husbands' being involved?"

20 Then Jeremiah said to all the people, men and women, all the people who were giving him this answer: 21 "As for the offerings that you made in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your ancestors, your kings and your officials, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them? Did it not come into his mind? 22 The LORD could no longer bear the sight of your evil doings, the abominations that you committed; therefore your land became a desolation and a waste and a curse, without inhabitant, as it is to this day. 23 It is because you burned offerings, and because you sinned against the LORD and did not obey the voice of the LORD or walk in his law and in his statutes and in his decrees, that this disaster has befallen you, as is still evident today."

24 Jeremiah said to all the people and all the women, "Hear the word of the LORD, all you Judeans who are in the land of Egypt, 25 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have accomplished in deeds what you declared in words, saying, 'We are determined to perform the vows that we have made, to make offerings to the queen of heaven and to pour out libations to her.' By all means, keep your vows and make your libations! 26 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all you Judeans who live in the land of Egypt: Lo, I swear by my great name, says the LORD, that my name shall no longer be pronounced on the lips of any of the people of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, 'As the Lord GOD lives.' 27 I am going to watch over them for harm and not for good; all the people of Judah who are in the land of Egypt shall perish by the sword and by famine, until not one is left. 28 And those who escape the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number; and all the remnant of Judah, who have come to the land of Egypt to settle, shall know whose words will stand, mine or theirs! 29 This shall be the sign to you, says the LORD, that I am going to punish you in this place, in order that you may know that my words against you will surely be carried out: 30 Thus says the LORD, I am going to give Pharaoh Hophra, king of Egypt, into the hands of his enemies, those who seek his life, just as I gave King Zedekiah of Judah into the hand of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, his enemy who sought his life."

[Jeremiah 45]

God's word to Baruch

1 The word that the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Baruch son of Neriah, when he wrote these words in a scroll at the dictation of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah: 2 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to you, O Baruch: 3 You said, "Woe is me! The LORD has added sorrow to my pain; I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest." 4 Thus you shall say to him, "Thus says the LORD: I am going to break down what I have built, and pluck up what I have planted — that is, the whole land. 5 And you, do you seek great things for yourself? Do not seek them; for I am going to bring disaster upon all flesh, says the LORD; but I will give you your life as a prize of war in every place to which you may go."

[Jeremiah 46]Oracles against foreign nations

1 The word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah concerning the nations.

Against Egypt

2 Concerning Egypt, about the army of Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates at Carchemish and which King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon defeated in the fourth year of King Jehoiakim son of Josiah of Judah:

3 Prepare buckler and shield,
and advance for battle!

4 Harness the horses;
mount the steeds!

Take your stations with your helmets,
whet your lances,
put on your coats of mail!

5 Why do I see them terrified?
They have fallen back;
their warriors are beaten down,
and have fled in haste.

They do not look back —
terror is all around!
says the LORD.

6 The swift cannot flee away,
nor can the warrior escape;
in the north by the river Euphrates
they have stumbled and fallen.

7 Who is this, rising like the Nile,
like rivers whose waters surge?

8 Egypt rises like the Nile,
like rivers whose waters surge.
It said, Let me rise, let me cover the earth,
let me destroy cities and their inhabitants.

- 9 Advance, O horses,
and dash madly, O chariots!
Let the warriors go forth:
Ethiopia and Put who carry the shield,
the Ludim, who draw the bow.
- 10 That day is the day of the Lord GOD of hosts,
a day of retribution,
to gain vindication from his foes.
The sword shall devour and be sated,
and drink its fill of their blood.
For the Lord GOD of hosts holds a sacrifice
in the land of the north by the river Euphrates.
- 11 Go up to Gilead, and take balm,
O virgin daughter Egypt!
In vain you have used many medicines;
there is no healing for you.
- 12 The nations have heard of your shame,
and the earth is full of your cry;
for warrior has stumbled against warrior;
both have fallen together.
- 13 The word that the LORD spoke to the prophet Jeremiah about the coming of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon to attack the land of Egypt:
- 14 Declare in Egypt, and proclaim in Migdol;
proclaim in Memphis and Tahpanhes; Say, "Take your stations and be ready,
for the sword shall devour those around you."
- 15 Why has Apis fled?
Why did your bull not stand?
— because the LORD thrust him down.
- 16 Your multitude stumbled and fell,
and one said to another,
"Come, let us go back to our own people
and to the land of our birth,
because of the destroying sword."
- 17 Give Pharaoh, king of Egypt, the name
"Braggart who missed his chance."

18 As I live, says the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts,
one is coming
like Tabor among the mountains, and like Carmel by the sea.

19 Pack your bags for exile,
sheltered daughter Egypt!
For Memphis shall become a waste,
a ruin, without inhabitant.

20 A beautiful heifer is Egypt —
a gadfly from the north lights upon her.

21 Even her mercenaries in her midst
are like fatted calves;
they too have turned and fled together,
they did not stand;
for the day of their calamity has come upon them,
the time of their punishment.

22 She makes a sound like a snake gliding away;
for her enemies march in force,
and come against her with axes,
like those who fell trees.

23 They shall cut down her forest,
says the LORD.,
though it is impenetrable,
because they are more numerous
than locusts;
they are without number.

24 Daughter Egypt shall be put to shame;
she shall be handed over to a people from the north.

25 The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, said: See, I am bringing punishment upon Amon of Thebes, and Pharaoh, and Egypt and her gods and her kings, upon Pharaoh and those who trust in him. 26 I will hand them over to those who seek their life, to King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon and his officers. Afterward Egypt shall be inhabited as in the days of old, says the LORD.

27 But as for you, have no fear, my servant Jacob,
 and do not be dismayed, O Israel;
 for I am going to save you from far away,
 and your offspring from the land of their captivity.
 Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,
 and no one shall make him afraid.

28 As for you, have no fear, my servant Jacob,
 says the LORD,
 for I am with you.
 I will make an end of all the nations
 among which I have banished you,
 but I will not make an end of you!
 I will chastise you in just measure,
 and I will by no means leave you unpunished.

[Jeremiah 47]
Against the Philistines

1 The word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh attacked Gaza:

2 Thus says the LORD:
 See, waters are rising out of the north and shall become an overflowing torrent;
 they shall overflow the land and all that fills it,
 the city and those who live in it.
 People shall cry out,
 and all the inhabitants of the land shall wail.

3 At the noise of the stamping of the hoofs of his stallions, at the clatter of his chariots, at the rumbling of their wheels,
 parents do not turn back for children,
 so feeble are their hands,

4 because of the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines, to cut off from Tyre and Sidon
 every helper that remains.
 For the LORD is destroying the Philistines,
 the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor.

- 5 Baldness has come upon Gaza,
Ashkelon is silenced.
O remnant of their power!
How long will you gash yourselves?
- 6 Ah, sword of the LORD!
How long until you are quiet?
Put yourself into your scabbard,
rest and be still!
- 7 How can it be quiet,
when the LORD has given it an order?
Against Ashkelon and against the seashore —
there he has appointed it.

[Jeremiah 48]
Against Moab

- 1 Concerning Moab.
Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:
Alas for Nebo, it is laid waste!
Kiriathaim is put to shame, it is taken;
the fortress is put to shame and broken down;
- 2 the renown of Moab is no more.
In Heshbon they planned evil against her:
"Come, let us cut her off from being a nation!"
You also, O Madmen, shall be brought to silence;
the sword shall pursue you.
- 3 Hark! a cry from Horonaim,
"Desolation and great destruction!"
- 4 "Moab is destroyed!"
her little ones cry out.
- 5 For at the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping bitterly;
for at the descent of Horonaim
they have heard the distressing cry of anguish.
- 6 Flee! Save yourselves!
Be like a wild ass in the desert!

7 Surely, because you trusted in your strongholds and your treasures,
you also shall be taken;
Chemosh shall go out into exile,
with his priests and his attendants.

8 The destroyer shall come upon every town,
and no town shall escape;
the valley shall perish,
and the plain shall be destroyed,
as the LORD has spoken.

9 Set aside salt for Moab,
for she will surely fall;
her towns shall become a desolation,
with no inhabitant in them.

10 Accursed is the one who is slack in doing the work of the LORD; and accursed is the one who keeps back the sword from bloodshed.

11 Moab has been at ease from his youth,
settled like wine on its dregs;
he has not been emptied from vessel to vessel,
nor has he gone into exile;
therefore his flavor has remained
and his aroma is unspoiled.

12 Therefore, the time is surely coming, says the LORD, when I shall send to him decanters to decant him, and empty his vessels, and break his jars in pieces. 13 Then Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, their confidence.

14 How can you say, "We are heroes and mighty warriors"?

15 The destroyer of Moab and his towns has come up, and the choicest of his young men have gone down to slaughter,
says the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts.

16 The calamity of Moab is near at hand and his doom approaches swiftly.

17 Mourn over him, all you his neighbors,
 and all who know his name;
 say, "How the mighty scepter is broken,
 the glorious staff!"

18 Come down from glory,
 and sit on the parched ground,
 enthroned daughter Dibon!
 For the destroyer of Moab has come up against you;
 he has destroyed your strongholds.

19 Stand by the road and watch,
 you inhabitant of Aroer!
 Ask the man fleeing and the woman escaping;
 say, "What has happened?"

20 Moab is put to shame, for it is broken down;
 wail and cry!
 Tell it by the Arnon,
 that Moab is laid waste.

21 Judgment has come upon the tableland, upon Holon, and Jahzah, and Mephaath, 22 and Dibon, and Nebo, and Beth-diblathaim, 23 and Kiriathaim, and Beth-gamul, and Beth-meon, 24 and Kerioth, and Bozrah, and all the towns of the land of Moab, far and near. 25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, says the LORD.

26 Make him drunk, because he magnified himself against the LORD; let Moab wallow in his vomit; he too shall become a laughingstock. 27 Israel was a laughingstock for you, though he was not caught among thieves; but whenever you spoke of him you shook your head!

28 Leave the towns, and live on the rock,
 O inhabitants of Moab!
 Be like the dove that nests
 on the sides of the mouth of a gorge.

29 We have heard of the pride of Moab —
 he is very proud —
 of his loftiness, his pride, and his arrogance,
 and the haughtiness of his heart.

- 30 I myself know his insolence, says the LORD;
 his boasts are false,
 his deeds are false.
- 31 Therefore I wail for Moab;
 I cry out for all Moab;
 for the people of Kir-heres I mourn.
- 32 More than for Jazer I weep for you,
 O vine of Sibmah!
 Your branches crossed over the sea,
 reached as far as Jazer;
 upon your summer fruits and your vintage
 the destroyer has fallen.
- 33 Gladness and joy have been taken away from the fruitful land of Moab;
 I have stopped the wine from the wine presses;
 no one treads them with shouts of joy;
 the shouting is not the shout of joy.

34 Heshbon and Elealeh cry out; as far as Jahaz they utter their voice, from Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah. For even the waters of Nimrim have become desolate. 35 And I will bring to an end in Moab, says the LORD, those who offer sacrifice at a high place and make offerings to their gods. 36 Therefore my heart moans for Moab like a flute, and my heart moans like a flute for the people of Kir-heres; for the riches they gained have perished.

37 For every head is shaved and every beard cut off; on all the hands
 there are gashes, and on the loins sackcloth. 38 On all the housetops of Moab and in the squares there is nothing but lamentation; for I have broken Moab like a vessel that no one wants, says the LORD. 39 How it is broken! How they wail! How Moab has turned his back in shame! So Moab has become a derision and a horror to all his neighbors.

- 40 For thus says the LORD:
 Look, he shall swoop down like an eagle,
 and spread his wings against Moab;

- 41 the towns shall be taken
and the strongholds seized.
The hearts of the warriors of Moab, on that day,
shall be like the heart of a woman in labor.
- 42 Moab shall be destroyed as a people,
because he magnified himself against the LORD.
- 43 Terror, pit, and trap
are before you, O inhabitants of Moab!
says the LORD.
- 44 Everyone who flees from the terror
shall fall into the pit,
and everyone who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the trap.
For I will bring these things upon Moab
in the year of their punishment,
says the LORD.
- 45 In the shadow of Heshbon
fugitives stop exhausted;
for a fire has gone out from Heshbon,
a flame from the house of Sihon;
it has destroyed the forehead of Moab,
the scalp of the people of tumult.
- 46 Woe to you, O Moab!
The people of Chemosh have perished,
for your sons have been taken captive,
and your daughters into captivity.
- 47 Yet I will restore the fortunes of Moab
in the latter days, says the LORD.
Thus far is the judgment on Moab.

[Jeremiah 49]
Against Ammon

1 Concerning the Ammonites.

Thus says the LORD:

Has Israel no sons?

Has he no heir?

Why then has Milcom dispossessed Gad,
and his people settled in its towns?

2 Therefore, the time is surely coming,
says the LORD,

when I will sound the battle alarm
against Rabbah of the Ammonites;

it shall become a desolate mound,
and its villages shall be burned with fire;
then Israel shall dispossess those who dispossessed him,
says the LORD.

3 Wail, O Heshbon, for Ai is laid waste!

Cry out, O daughters of Rabbah!

Put on sackcloth,

lament, and slash yourselves with whips!

For Milcom shall go into exile,
with his priests and his attendants.

4 Why do you boast in your strength?

Your strength is ebbing,

O faithless daughter.

You trusted in your treasures, saying,
"Who will attack me?"

5 I am going to bring terror upon you,

says the Lord GOD of hosts,

from all your neighbors,

and you will be scattered, each headlong,
with no one to gather the fugitives.

6 But afterward I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites, says the LORD.

Against Edom

7 Concerning Edom.

Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Is there no longer wisdom in Teman?
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom vanished?

8 Flee, turn back, get down low, inhabitants of Dedan!

For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
the time when I punish him.

9 If grape-gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?

If thieves came by night,
even they would pillage only what they wanted.

10 But as for me, I have stripped Esau bare,
I have uncovered his hiding places,
and he is not able to conceal himself.

His offspring are destroyed, his kinsfolk
and his neighbors; and he is no more.

11 Leave your orphans, I will keep them alive;
and let your widows trust in me.

12 For thus says the LORD: If those who do not deserve to drink the cup still have to drink it, shall you be the one to go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished; you must drink it. 13 For by myself I have sworn, says the LORD, that Bozrah shall become an object of horror and ridicule, a waste, and an object of cursing; and all her towns shall be perpetual wastes.

14 I have heard tidings from the LORD,
and a messenger has been sent among the nations:
"Gather yourselves together and come against her,
and rise up for battle!"

15 For I will make you least among the nations, despised by humankind.

16 The terror you inspire
 and the pride of your heart have deceived you,
 you who live in the clefts of the rock,
 who hold the height of the hill.
 Although you make your nest as high as the eagle's,
 from there I will bring you down,
 says the LORD.

17 Edom shall become an object of horror; everyone who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its disasters. 18 As when Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors were overthrown, says the LORD, no one shall live there, nor shall anyone settle in it. 19 Like a lion coming up from the thickets of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly chase Edom away from it; and I will appoint over it whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who can summon me? Who is the shepherd who can stand before me? 20 Therefore hear the plan that the LORD has made against Edom and the purposes that he has formed against the inhabitants of Teman: Surely the little ones of the flock shall be dragged away; surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. 21 At the sound of their fall the earth shall tremble; the sound of their cry shall be heard at the Red Sea. 22 Look, he shall mount up and swoop down like an eagle, and spread his wings against Bozrah, and the heart of the warriors of Edom in that day shall be like the heart of a woman in labor.

Against Damascus

23 Concerning Damascus.

Hamath and Arpad are confounded,
 for they have heard bad news;
 they melt in fear, they are troubled like the sea
 that cannot be quiet.
 24 Damascus has become feeble, she turned to flee,
 and panic seized her;
 anguish and sorrows have taken hold of her,
 as of a woman in labor.

- 25 How the famous city is forsaken,
 the joyful town!
 26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares,
 and all her soldiers shall be destroyed in that day,
 says the LORD of hosts.
 27 And I will kindle a fire at the wall of Damascus,
 and it shall devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad.

Against Kedar and Hazor

28 Concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor that King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon defeated.

Thus says the LORD:

Rise up, advance against Kedar!
 Destroy the people of the east!

- 29 Take their tents and their flocks,
 their curtains and all their goods;
 carry off their camels for yourselves,
 and a cry shall go up: "Terror is all around!"
 30 Flee, wander far away, hide in deep places,
 O inhabitants of Hazor!
 says the LORD.

For King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon
 has made a plan against you and formed a purpose against you.

- 31 Rise up, advance against a nation at ease,
 that lives secure,
 says the LORD,
 that has no gates or bars,
 that lives alone.

- 32 Their camels shall become booty,
 their herds of cattle a spoil.
 I will scatter to every wind
 those who have shaven temples,
 and I will bring calamity
 against them from every side,
 says the LORD.
- 33 Hazor shall become a lair of jackals,
 an everlasting waste;
 no one shall live there,
 nor shall anyone settle in it.

Against Elam

34 The word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah concerning Elam, at the beginning of the reign of King Zedekiah of Judah.

35 Thus says the LORD of hosts: I am going to break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might; 36 and I will bring upon Elam the four winds from the four quarters of heaven; and I will scatter them to all these winds, and there shall be no nation to which the exiles from Elam shall not come. 37 I will terrify Elam before their enemies, and before those who seek their life; I will bring disaster upon them, my fierce anger, says the LORD. I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them; 38 and I will set my throne in Elam, and destroy their king and officials, says the LORD.

39 But in the latter days I will restore the fortunes of Elam, says the LORD.

[Jeremiah 50] Against Babylon

1 The word that the LORD spoke concerning Babylon, concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by the prophet Jeremiah:

2 Declare among the nations and proclaim,
set up a banner and proclaim,
do not conceal it, say:
Babylon is taken,
Bel is put to shame,
Merodach is dismayed.
Her images are put to shame,
her idols are dismayed.

3 For out of the north a nation has come up against her; it shall make her land a desolation, and no one shall live in it; both human beings and animals shall flee away.

4 In those days and in that time, says the LORD, the people of Israel shall come, they and the people of Judah together; they shall come weeping as they seek the LORD their God. 5 They shall ask the way to Zion, with faces turned toward it, and they shall come and join themselves to the LORD by an everlasting covenant that will never be forgotten.

6 My people have been lost sheep; their shepherds have led them astray, turning them away on the mountains; from mountain to hill they have gone, they have forgotten their fold. 7 All who found them have devoured them, and their enemies have said, "We are not guilty, because they have sinned against the LORD, the true pasture, the LORD, the hope of their ancestors."

8 Flee from Babylon, and go out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be like male goats leading the flock. 9 For I am going to stir up and bring against Babylon a company of great nations from the land of the north; and they shall array themselves against her; from there she shall be taken. Their arrows are like the arrows of a skilled warrior who does not return empty-handed. 10 Chaldea shall be plundered; all who plunder her shall be sated, says the LORD.

- 11 Though you rejoice, though you exult,
 O plunderers of my heritage,
 though you frisk about like a heifer on the grass,
 and neigh like stallions, 12 your mother shall be utterly shamed,
 and she who bore you shall be disgraced.
 Lo, she shall be the last of the nations,
 a wilderness, dry land, and a desert.
13 Because of the wrath of the LORD she shall not be inhabited,
 but shall be an utter desolation;
 everyone who passes by Babylon shall be appalled
 and hiss because of all her wounds.
14 Take up your positions around Babylon,
 all you that bend the bow;
 shoot at her, spare no arrows,
 for she has sinned against the LORD.
15 Raise a shout against her from all sides,
 "She has surrendered;
 her bulwarks have fallen,
 her walls are thrown down."
 For this is the vengeance of the LORD:
 take vengeance on her,
 do to her as she has done.
16 Cut off from Babylon the sower,
 and the wielder of the sickle in time of harvest;
 because of the destroying sword
 all of them shall return to their own people,
 and all of them shall flee to their own land.

17 Israel is a hunted sheep driven away by lions. First the king of Assyria devoured it, and now at the end King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon has gnawed its bones. 18 Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to punish the king of Babylon and his land, as I punished the king of Assyria. 19 I will restore Israel to its pasture, and it shall feed on Carmel and in Bashan, and on the hills of Ephraim and in Gilead its hunger shall be satisfied. 20 In those days and at that time, says the LORD, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought, and there shall be none; and the sins of Judah, and none shall be found; for I will pardon the remnant that I have spared.

- 21 Go up to the land of Merathaim;
go up against her,
and attack the inhabitants of Pekod
and utterly destroy the last of them,
says the LORD;
do all that I have commanded you.
- 22 The noise of battle is in the land,
and great destruction!
- 23 How the hammer of the whole earth
is cut down and broken!
How Babylon has become
a horror among the nations!
- 24 You set a snare for yourself and you were caught, O Babylon,
but you did not know it;
you were discovered and seized,
because you challenged the LORD.
- 25 The LORD has opened his armory,
and brought out the weapons of his wrath,
for the Lord GOD of hosts has a task to do in the land of the Chaldeans.
- 26 Come against her from every quarter;
open her granaries;
pile her up like heaps of grain, and destroy her utterly;
let nothing be left of her.
- 27 Kill all her bulls,
let them go down to the slaughter.
Alas for them, their day has come,
the time of their punishment!
- 28 Listen! Fugitives and refugees from the land of Babylon are coming to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, vengeance for his temple.

29 Summon archers against Babylon, all who bend the bow. Encamp all around her; let no one escape. Repay her according to her deeds; just as she has done, do to her — for she has arrogantly defied the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. 30 Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares, and all her soldiers shall be destroyed on that day, says the LORD.

31 I am against you, O arrogant one,
 says the Lord GOD of hosts;
 for your day has come,
 the time when I will punish you.

32 The arrogant one shall stumble and fall,
 with no one to raise him up,
 and I will kindle a fire in his cities,
 and it will devour everything around him.

33 Thus says the LORD of hosts: The people of Israel are oppressed, and so too are the people of Judah; all their captors have held them fast and refuse to let them go. 34 Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of hosts is his name. He will surely plead their cause, that he may give rest to the earth, but unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 A sword against the Chaldeans, says the LORD,
 and against the inhabitants of Babylon,
 and against her officials and her sages!

36 A sword against the diviners,
 so that they may become fools!
 A sword against her warriors,
 so that they may be destroyed!

37 A sword against her horses and against her chariots,
 and against all the foreign troops in her midst,
 so that they may become women!
 A sword against all her treasures,
 that they may be plundered!

38 A drought against her waters,
 that they may be dried up!
 For it is a land of images,
 and they go mad over idols.

39 Therefore wild animals shall live with hyenas in Babylon, and ostriches shall inhabit her; she shall never again be peopled, or inhabited for all generations. 40 As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors, says the LORD, so no one shall live there, nor shall anyone settle in her.

41 Look, a people is coming from the north;
a mighty nation and many kings
are stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.

42 They wield bow and spear,
they are cruel and have no mercy.
The sound of them is like the roaring sea;
they ride upon horses,
set in array as a warrior for battle,
against you, O daughter Babylon!

43 The king of Babylon heard news of them,
and his hands fell helpless;
anguish seized him,
pain like that of a woman in labor.

44 Like a lion coming up from the thickets of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly chase them away from her; and I will appoint over her whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who can summon me? Who is the shepherd who can stand before me? 45 Therefore hear the plan that the LORD has made against Babylon, and the purposes that he has formed against the land of the Chaldeans: Surely the little ones of the flock shall be dragged away; surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. 46 At the sound of the capture of Babylon the earth shall tremble, and her cry shall be heard among the nations.

[Jeremiah 51]
God's judgment against Babylon

1 Thus says the LORD:

I am going to stir up a destructive wind
against Babylon
and against the inhabitants of Leb-qamai;

2 and I will send winnowers to Babylon,
and they shall winnow her.

They shall empty her land
when they come against her from every side
on the day of trouble.

3 Let not the archer bend his bow,
and let him not array himself in his coat of mail.
Do not spare her young men;
utterly destroy her entire army.

4 They shall fall down slain in the land of the Chaldeans,
and wounded in her streets.

5 Israel and Judah have not been forsaken by their God, the LORD of hosts, though their land is full of guilt
before the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee from the midst of Babylon,
save your lives, each of you!
Do not perish because of her guilt,
for this is the time of the LORD's vengeance;
he is repaying her what is due.

7 Babylon was a golden cup in the LORD's hand, making all the earth drunken;
the nations drank of her wine,
and so the nations went mad.

8 Suddenly Babylon has fallen and is shattered;
wail for her!

Bring balm for her wound;
perhaps she may be healed.

- 9 We tried to heal Babylon,
but she could not be healed.
Forsake her, and let each of us go to our own country;
for her judgment has reached up to heaven
and has been lifted up even to the skies.
- 10 The LORD has brought forth our vindication;
come, let us declare in Zion
the work of the LORD our God.
- 11 Sharpen the arrows!
Fill the quivers!
The LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of the Medes, because his purpose concerning Babylon is to destroy it, for that is the vengeance of the LORD, vengeance for his temple.
- 12 Raise a standard against the walls of Babylon;
make the watch strong;
post sentinels;
prepare the ambushes;
for the LORD has both planned and done
what he spoke concerning the inhabitants of Babylon.
- 13 You who live by mighty waters,
rich in treasures,
your end has come,
the thread of your life is cut.
- 14 The LORD of hosts has sworn by himself:
Surely I will fill you with troops like a swarm of locusts,
and they shall raise a shout of victory over you.
- 15 It is he who made the earth by his power,
who established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.
- 16 When he utters his voice there is a tumult of waters in the heavens,
and he makes the mist rise from the ends of the earth.
He makes lightnings for the rain,
and he brings out the wind from his storehouses.

- 17 Everyone is stupid and without knowledge;
 goldsmiths are all put to shame by their idols;
 for their images are false,
 and there is no breath in them.
- 18 They are worthless, a work of delusion;
 at the time of their punishment they shall perish.
- 19 Not like these is the LORD, the portion of Jacob,
 for he is the one who formed all things,
 and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
 the LORD of hosts is his name.
- 20 You are my war club, my weapon of battle:
 with you I smash nations;
 with you I destroy kingdoms;
- 21 with you I smash the horse and its rider;
 with you I smash the chariot and the charioteer;
- 22 with you I smash man and woman;
 with you I smash the old man and the boy;
 with you I smash the young man and the girl;
- 23 with you I smash shepherds and their flocks;
 with you I smash farmers and their teams;
 with you I smash governors and deputies.
- 24 I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea before your very eyes for all the wrong that they have done in Zion, says the LORD.
- 25 I am against you, O destroying mountain,
 says the LORD,
 that destroys the whole earth;
I will stretch out my hand against you,
 and roll you down from the crags,
 and make you a burned-out mountain.
- 26 No stone shall be taken from you for a corner
 and no stone for a foundation,
but you shall be a perpetual waste,
 says the LORD.

- 27 Raise a standard in the land,
 blow the trumpet among the nations;
prepare the nations for war against her,
 summon against her the kingdoms,
 Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz;
appoint a marshal against her,
 bring up horses like bristling locusts.
- 28 Prepare the nations for war against her,
 the kings of the Medes, with their governors and deputies,
 and every land under their dominion.
- 29 The land trembles and writhes,
 for the LORD's purposes against Babylon stand,
to make the land of Babylon a desolation,
 without inhabitant.
- 30 The warriors of Babylon have given up fighting,
 they remain in their strongholds;
their strength has failed,
 they have become women;
her buildings are set on fire,
 her bars are broken.
- 31 One runner runs to meet another,
 and one messenger to meet another,
to tell the king of Babylon
 that his city is taken from end to end:
- 32 the fords have been seized,
 the marshes have been burned with fire,
 and the soldiers are in panic.
- 33 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:
Daughter Babylon is like a threshing floor
 at the time when it is trodden;
yet a little while
 and the time of her harvest will come.

- 34 "King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon has devoured me,
he has crushed me;
he has made me an empty vessel,
he has swallowed me like a monster;
he has filled his belly with my delicacies,
he has spewed me out.
- 35 May my torn flesh be avenged on Babylon,"
the inhabitants of Zion shall say.
"May my blood be avenged on the inhabitants of Chaldea," Jerusalem shall say.
- 36 Therefore thus says the LORD:
I am going to defend your cause
and take vengeance for you.
I will dry up her sea
and make her fountain dry;
- 37 and Babylon shall become a heap of ruins,
a den of jackals,
an object of horror and of hissing,
without inhabitant.
- 38 Like lions they shall roar together;
they shall growl like lions' whelps.
- 39 When they are inflamed, I will set out their drink and make them drunk, until they become merry and then sleep a perpetual sleep and never wake, says the LORD.
- 40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter,
like rams and goats.
- 41 How Sheshach is taken,
the pride of the whole earth seized!
How Babylon has become an object of horror among the nations!
- 42 The sea has risen over Babylon;
she has been covered by its tumultuous waves.

- 43 Her cities have become an object of horror,
a land of drought and a desert,
a land in which no one lives,
and through which no mortal passes.
- 44 I will punish Bel in Babylon,
and make him disgorge what he has swallowed.
The nations shall no longer stream to him;
the wall of Babylon has fallen.
- 45 Come out of her, my people!
Save your lives, each of you,
from the fierce anger of the LORD!
- 46 Do not be fainthearted or fearful
at the rumors heard in the land —
one year one rumor comes,
the next year another,
rumors of violence in the land
and of ruler against ruler.
- 47 Assuredly, the days are coming
when I will punish the images of Babylon;
her whole land shall be put to shame,
and all her slain shall fall in her midst.
- 48 Then the heavens and the earth,
and all that is in them,
shall shout for joy over Babylon;
for the destroyers shall come against them out of the north,
says the LORD.
- 49 Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel,
as the slain of all the earth have fallen because of Babylon.
- 50 You survivors of the sword,
go, do not linger!
Remember the LORD in a distant land,
and let Jerusalem come into your mind:

51 We are put to shame, for we have heard insults;
dishonor has covered our face,
for aliens have come into the holy places of the LORD's house.

52 Therefore the time is surely coming, says the LORD,
when I will punish her idols,
and through all her land
the wounded shall groan.

53 Though Babylon should mount up to heaven,
and though she should fortify her strong height,
from me destroyers would come upon her,
says the LORD.

54 Listen! — a cry from Babylon!
A great crashing from the land of the Chaldeans!

55 For the LORD is laying Babylon waste,
and stilling her loud clamor.
Their waves roar like mighty waters,
the sound of their clamor resounds;

56 for a destroyer has come against her,
against Babylon;
her warriors are taken,
their bows are broken;
for the LORD is a God of recompense,
he will repay in full.

57 I will make her officials and her sages drunk,
also her governors, her deputies, and her warriors;
they shall sleep a perpetual sleep and never wake,
says the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts.

58 Thus says the LORD of hosts:
The broad wall of Babylon
shall be leveled to the ground, and her high gates
shall be burned with fire.
The peoples exhaust themselves for nothing,
and the nations weary themselves only for fire.

59 The word that the prophet Jeremiah commanded Seraiah son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, when he went with King Zedekiah of Judah to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. Seraiah was the quartermaster. 60 Jeremiah wrote in a scroll all the disasters that would come on Babylon, all these words that are written concerning Babylon. 61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah: "When you come to Babylon, see that you read all these words, 62 and say, 'O LORD, you yourself threatened to destroy this place so that neither human beings nor animals shall live in it, and it shall be desolate forever.' 63 When you finish reading this scroll, tie a stone to it, and throw it into the middle of the Euphrates, 64 and say, 'Thus shall Babylon sink, to rise no more, because of the disasters that I am bringing on her.'"

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

[Jeremiah 52]

Historical appendix

1 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign; he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. 2 He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as Jehoiakim had done. 3 Indeed, Jerusalem and Judah so angered the LORD that he expelled them from his presence.

Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. 4 And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem, and they laid siege to it; they built siegeworks against it all around. 5 So the city was besieged until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 6 On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine became so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. 7 Then a breach was made in the city wall; and all the soldiers fled and went out from the city by night by the way of the gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, though the Chaldeans were all around the city. They went in the direction of the Arabah. 8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho; and all his army was scattered, deserting him. 9 Then they captured the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him. 10 The king of Babylon killed the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and also killed all the officers of Judah at Riblah. 11 He put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in fetters, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison until the day of his death.

12 In the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month — which was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon — Nebuzaradan the captain of the bodyguard who served the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem. 13 He burned the house of the LORD, the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down. 14 All the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down all the walls around Jerusalem. 15 Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile some of the poorest of the people and the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had defected to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the artisans. 16 But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poorest people of the land to be vinedressers and tillers of the soil.

17 The pillars of bronze that were in the house of the LORD, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and carried all the bronze to Babylon. 18 They took away the pots, the shovels, the snuffers, the basins, the ladles, and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service. 19 The captain of the guard took away the small bowls also, the firepans, the basins, the pots, the lampstands, the ladles, and the bowls for libation, both those of gold and those of silver. 20 As for the two pillars, the one sea, the twelve bronze bulls that were under the sea, and the stands, which King Solomon had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these vessels was beyond weighing. 21 As for the pillars, the height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, its circumference was twelve cubits; it was hollow and its thickness was four fingers. 22 Upon it was a capital of bronze; the height of the capital was five cubits; latticework and pomegranates, all of bronze, encircled the top of the capital. And the second pillar had the same, with pomegranates. 23 There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates encircling the latticework numbered one hundred.

24 The captain of the guard took the chief priest Seraiah, the second priest Zephaniah, and the three guardians of the threshold; 25 and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the soldiers, and seven men of the king's council who were found in the city; the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land who were found inside the city. 26 Then Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. 27 And the king of Babylon struck them down, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah went into exile out of its land.

28 This is the number of the people whom Nebuchadnezzar took into exile: in the seventh year, three thousand twenty-three Judeans; 29 in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar he took into exile from Jerusalem eight hundred thirty-two persons; 30 in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took into exile of the Judeans seven hundred forty-five persons; all the persons were four thousand six hundred.

31 In the thirty-seventh year of the exile of King Jehoiachin of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, King Evil-merodach of Babylon, in the year he began to reign, showed favor to King Jehoiachin of Judah and brought him out of prison; 32 he spoke kindly to him, and gave him a seat above the seats of the other kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 So Jehoiachin put aside his prison clothes, and every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table. 34 For his allowance, a regular daily allowance was given him by the king of Babylon, as long as he lived, up to the day of his death.

LAMENTATIONS

Introduction

Lamentations is a sequence of five lyric poems that lament the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians in 586 BCE (see 2 Kings 25.8-21). The dense and highly charged poetry constitutes some of the Bible's most violent and brutal pieces of writing. Though mostly lacking traditional statements of hope, the poems do manifest a stubborn and tenacious hold on life.

Several of the ancient versions (the Greek, Latin, and Aramaic translations) attribute the authorship of these poems to Jeremiah, which accounts for their placements after the book of Jeremiah in the Christian canon. Although Jeremiah was active during the last days of the kingdom of Judah and spoke in moving and emotional terms of the coming destruction of Jerusalem and the nation (Jer 8.18-9.1; 9.17-22), it is unlikely that he is the author of the poems found in the book of Lamentations. The language, forms of expression, and religious perspectives do not seem to be quite like those expressed in Jeremiah's own prophetic poetry. Moreover, the oldest Hebrew manuscripts of Lamentations do not mention Jeremiah or associate him with the book. In the Jewish canon Lamentations is placed with the prophets, but in the third section of the canon, the Writings. Thus it is more likely that the tradition connection Jeremiah with Lamentations is a reflection of the common practice in antiquity of ascribing authorship of anonymous materials to well-known figures, for example, David and the Psalms or Solomon and the books of Proverbs and Song of Songs. The poems of Lamentations may be dated to the sixth century, probably between 586 and 520 BCE, when the Temple was rebuilt. They were likely composed in Palestine for the community that remained in the land after the catastrophe.

In later Jewish tradition Lamentations was counted as one of the five festival scrolls (Megillot), together with the Song of Songs, Ruth, Ecclesiastes, and Esther. Lamentations is read as part of the liturgy of the "Ninth of Ab," the day that commemorates the destruction of the Second Temple by the Romans in 70 CE. In Christian tradition readings from Lamentations are part of the liturgies of Holy Week.

Lamentations draws on a variety of literary genres, including communal and individual laments, the funeral dirge, and wisdom traditions, but gets its overarching shape and much of its imagery and subject matter from the city lament, a genre best known from ancient Mesopotamia (e.g., the "Lamentation over the Destruction of Ur," the "Lamentation over the Destruction of Sumer and Ur," and the "Nippur Lament"). Lamentations, however, differs from most of the Mesopotamian city laments, which end happily in celebration or restoration and the return of the gods. It ends tragically: The Lord remains silent and absent throughout, and there is no suggestion of the restoration of Jerusalem or its Temple.

The imagery of Lamentations evokes a sense of fragmentation and discontinuity, reflecting the suffering of the past. There is no narrative structure to give shape to the raw emotions expressed, nor even a clear rhetorical movement from grief to hope, such as one often finds in laments in Psalms. Although the poetic meter varies throughout the book, much of the poetry is composed in "qinah" meter in which the lines are unbalanced, giving a sense of language broken off in grief. In counterpoint to such a sense of fragmentation, however, the formal structures of the poetic form itself produce a strong sense of coherence. The first four chapters of Lamentations are each composed as an alphabetic acrostic, a formal scheme in which the initial word of each stanza begins with successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet, twenty-two in all (ch 5, though not an acrostic, also contains twenty-two verses). In ch 3 all three verses of each stanza begin with the same letter (vv. 1-3 with an "alep," vv. 4-6 with "bet," etc.). The alphabetic acrostic functions as the material, physical container of this poetry, literally holding each poem's component verses together and conveying a strong sense of closure through its clear structure and fixed length. Yet the acrostic conveys meaning symbolically as well. The poet's whole attempt to render the chaos of his world into language, to contain his fragmented lyrics within the frame of the alphabetic acrostic, thus becomes an attempts to control and contain, and ultimately to transform, the suffering and hurt that engulfed Jerusalem and its inhabitants.

[Lamentations 1]
Lament over Zion

- 1 How lonely sits the city
 that once was full of people!
How like a widow she has become,
 she that was great among the nations!
She that was a princess among the provinces
 has become a vassal.

- 2 She weeps bitterly in the night,
 with tears on her cheeks;
among all her lovers
 she has no one to comfort her;
all her friends have dealt treacherously with her,
 they have become her enemies.

- 3 Judah has gone into exile with suffering
 and hard servitude;
she lives now among the nations,
 and finds no resting place;
her pursuers have all overtaken her in the midst of her distress.

- 4 The roads to Zion mourn,
for no one comes to the festivals;
all her gates are desolate,
her priests groan;
her young girls grieve,
and her lot is bitter.
- 5 Her foes have become the masters,
her enemies prosper,
because the LORD has made her suffer
for the multitude of her transgressions;
her children have gone away,
captives before the foe.
- 6 From daughter Zion has departed
all her majesty.
Her princes have become like stags
that find no pasture;
they fled without strength
before the pursuer.
- 7 Jerusalem remembers,
in the days of her affliction and wandering,
all the precious things
that were hers in days of old.
When her people fell into the hand of the foe,
and there was no one to help her,
the foe looked on mocking
over her downfall.
- 8 Jerusalem sinned grievously,
so she has become a mockery;
all who honored her despise her,
for they have seen her nakedness;
she herself groans,
and turns her face away.

9 Her uncleanness was in her skirts;
she took no thought of her future;
her downfall was appalling,
with none to comfort her.
"O LORD, look at my affliction,
for the enemy has triumphed!"

10 Enemies have stretched out their hands over all her precious things;
she has even seen the nations
invade her sanctuary,
those whom you forbade
to enter your congregation.

11 All her people groan
as they search for bread;
they trade their treasures for food
to revive their strength.
Look, O LORD, and see how worthless I have become.

The city's lament

12 Is it nothing to you, all you who pass by?
Look and see
if there is any sorrow like my sorrow,
which was brought upon me,
which the LORD inflicted on the day of his fierce anger.

13 From on high he sent fire;
it went deep into my bones;
he spread a net for my feet;
he turned me back;
he has left me stunned,
faint all day long.

- 14 My transgressions were bound into a yoke;
by his hand they were fastened together;
they weigh on my neck,
sapping my strength;
the Lord handed me over
to those whom I cannot withstand.
- 15 The LORD has rejected
all my warriors in the midst of me;
he proclaimed a time against me
to crush my young men;
the Lord has trodden as in a wine press
the virgin daughter Judah.
- 16 For these things I weep;
my eyes flow with tears;
for a comforter is far from me,
one to revive my courage;
my children are desolate,
for the enemy has prevailed.
- 17 Zion stretches out her hands,
but there is no one to comfort her;
the LORD has commanded against Jacob that his neighbors should become his foes; Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them.
- 18 The LORD is in the right,
for I have rebelled against his word;
but hear, all you peoples,
and behold my suffering;
my young women and young men have gone into captivity.

- 19 I called to my lovers
but they deceived me;
my priests and elders
perished in the city
while seeking food
to revive their strength.
- 20 See, O LORD, how distressed I am;
my stomach churns,
my heart is wrung within me,
because I have been very rebellious.
In the street the sword bereaves;
in the house it is like death.
- 21 They heard how I was groaning,
with no one to comfort me.
All my enemies heard of my trouble;
they are glad that you have done it.
Bring on the day you have announced,
and let them be as I am.
- 22 Let all their evil doing come before you;
and deal with them
as you have dealt with me
because of all my transgressions;
for my groans are many
and my heart is faint.

[Lamentations 2]The Lord battles against Jerusalem

- 1 How the Lord in his anger
has humiliated daughter Zion!
He has thrown down from heaven to earth
the splendor of Israel;
he has not remembered his footstool
in the day of his anger.

- 2 The Lord has destroyed without mercy
all the dwellings of Jacob;
in his wrath he has broken down
the strongholds of daughter Judah;
he has brought down to the ground in dishonor
the kingdom and its rulers.
- 3 He has cut down in fierce anger
all the might of Israel;
he has withdrawn his right hand from them
in the face of the enemy;
he has burned like a flaming fire in Jacob,
consuming all around.
- 4 He has bent his bow like an enemy,
with his right hand set like a foe;
he has killed all in whom we took pride
in the tent of daughter Zion;
he has poured out his fury like fire.
- 5 The Lord has become like an enemy;
he has destroyed Israel.
He has destroyed all its palaces,
laid in ruins its strongholds,
and multiplied in daughter Judah
mourning and lamentation.
- 6 He has broken down his booth like a garden,
he has destroyed his tabernacle;
the LORD has abolished in Zion
festival and sabbath,
and in his fierce indignation has spurned
king and priest.

- 7 The Lord has scorned his altar,
disowned his sanctuary;
he has delivered into the hand of the enemy
the walls of her palaces;
a clamor was raised in the house of the LORD
as on a day of festival.
- 8 The LORD determined to lay in ruins
the wall of daughter Zion;
he stretched the line;
he did not withhold his hand from destroying;
he caused rampart and wall to lament;
they languish together.
- 9 Her gates have sunk into the ground;
he has ruined and broken her bars;
her king and princes are among the nations;
guidance is no more,
and her prophets obtain
no vision from the LORD.
- 10 The elders of daughter Zion
sit on the ground in silence;
they have thrown dust on their heads
and put on sackcloth;
the young girls of Jerusalem
have bowed their heads to the ground.

Reactions to the suffering

- 11 My eyes are spent with weeping;
my stomach churns;
my bile is poured out on the ground
because of the destruction of my people,
because infants and babes faint
in the streets of the city.

- 12 They cry to their mothers,
 "Where is bread and wine?"
as they faint like the wounded
 in the streets of the city,
as their life is poured out
 on their mothers' bosom.
- 13 What can I say for you, to what compare you,
 O daughter Jerusalem?
To what can I liken you, that I may comfort you,
 O virgin daughter Zion?
For vast as the sea is your ruin;
 who can heal you?
- 14 Your prophets have seen for you false and deceptive visions;
they have not exposed your iniquity
 to restore your fortunes,
but have seen oracles for you
 that are false and misleading.
- 15 All who pass along the way
 clap their hands at you;
they hiss and wag their heads
 at daughter Jerusalem;
"Is this the city that was called
 the perfection of beauty,
 the joy of all the earth?"
- 16 All your enemies
 open their mouths against you;
they hiss, they gnash their teeth,
 they cry: "We have devoured her!
Ah, this is the day we longed for;
 at last we have seen it!"

- 17 The LORD has done what he purposed,
he has carried out his threat;
as he ordained long ago,
he has demolished without pity;
he has made the enemy rejoice over you,
and exalted the might of your foes.
- 18 Cry aloud to the Lord!
O wall of daughter Zion!
Let tears stream down like a torrent
day and night!
Give yourself no rest,
your eyes no respite!
- 19 Arise, cry out in the night,
at the beginning of the watches!
Pour out your heart like water
before the presence of the Lord!
Lift your hands to him
for the lives of your children, who faint for hunger
at the head of every street.
- Zion's address
- 20 Look, O LORD, and consider!
To whom have you done this?
Should women eat their offspring,
the children they have borne?
Should priest and prophet be killed
in the sanctuary of the Lord?
- 21 The young and the old are lying on the ground in the streets;
my young women and my young men
have fallen by the sword;
in the day of your anger you have killed them,
slaughtering without mercy.

22 You invited my enemies from all around as if for a day of festival;
 and on the day of the anger of the LORD
 no one escaped or survived;
 those whom I bore and reared
 my enemy has destroyed.

[Lamentations 3]

The complaint of the 'one who has seen affliction'

1 I am one who has seen affliction
 under the rod of God's wrath;
 2 he has driven and brought me into darkness without any light;
 3 against me alone he turns his hand,
 again and again, all day long.

4 He has made my flesh and my skin waste away,
 and broken my bones;
 5 he has besieged and enveloped me
 with bitterness and tribulation;
 6 he has made me sit in darkness
 like the dead of long ago.

7 He has walled me about so that I cannot escape;
 he has put heavy chains on me;
 8 though I call and cry for help,
 he shuts out my prayer;
 9 he has blocked my ways with hewn stones,
 he has made my paths crooked.

10 He is a bear lying in wait for me,
 a lion in hiding;
 11 he led me off my way and tore me to pieces;
 he has made me desolate;
 12 he bent his bow and set me
 as a mark for his arrow.

- 13 He shot into my vitals
the arrows of his quiver;
14 I have become the laughingstock of all my people,
the object of their taunt-songs all day long.
15 He has filled me with bitterness,
he has sated me with wormwood.
- 16 He has made my teeth grind on gravel,
and made me cower in ashes;
17 my soul is bereft of peace;
I have forgotten what happiness is;
18 so I say, "Gone is my glory,
and all that I had hoped for from the LORD."
19 The thought of my affliction and my homelessness is wormwood and gall!
20 My soul continually thinks of it and is bowed down within me.
21 But this I call to mind,
and therefore I have hope:
- 22 The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases,
his mercies never come to an end;
23 they are new every morning;
great is your faithfulness.
24 "The LORD is my portion," says my soul,
"therefore I will hope in him."

Sapiential consolation

- 25 The LORD is good to those who wait for him,
to the soul that seeks him.
26 It is good that one should wait quietly
for the salvation of the LORD.
27 It is good for one to bear
the yoke in youth, 28 to sit alone in silence
when the Lord has imposed it,

29 to put one's mouth to the dust
 (there may yet be hope),
 30 to give one's cheek to the smiter,
 and be filled with insults.

31 For the Lord will not reject forever.

32 Although he causes grief, he will have compassion
 according to the abundance of his steadfast love; 33 for he does not willingly afflict
 or grieve anyone.

34 When all the prisoners of the land
 are crushed under foot, 35 when human rights are perverted
 in the presence of the Most High, 36 when one's case is subverted
 — does the Lord not see it?

37 Who can command and have it done,
 if the Lord has not ordained it?
 38 Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that good and bad come?
 39 Why should any who draw breath complain about the punishment of their sins?

Communal lament

40 Let us test and examine our ways,
 and return to the LORD.
 41 Let us lift up our hearts as well as our hands to God in heaven.
 42 We have transgressed and rebelled,
 and you have not forgiven.
 43 You have wrapped yourself with anger and pursued us,
 killing without pity;
 44 you have wrapped yourself with a cloud
 so that no prayer can pass through.

45 You have made us filth and rubbish
among the peoples.

46 All our enemies
have opened their mouths against us; 47 panic and pitfall have come upon us,
devastation and destruction.

Individual lament

48 My eyes flow with rivers of tears
because of the destruction of my people.

49 My eyes will flow without ceasing,
without respite,
50 until the LORD from heaven
looks down and sees.
51 My eyes cause me grief
at the fate of all the young women in my city.

52 Those who were my enemies without cause have hunted me like a bird; 53 they flung me alive into a pit
and hurled stones on me;
54 water closed over my head;
I said, "I am lost."

55 I called on your name, O LORD,
from the depths of the pit;
56 you heard my plea, "Do not close your ear
to my cry for help, but give me relief!" 57 You came near when I called on you;
you said, "Do not fear!"
58 You have taken up my cause, O Lord,
you have redeemed my life.
59 You have seen the wrong done to me, O LORD;
judge my cause.

60 You have seen all their malice,
all their plots against me.

61 You have heard their taunts, O LORD,
all their plots against me.

62 The whispers and murmurs of my assailants
are against me all day long.

63 Whether they sit or rise — see,
I am the object of their taunt-songs.

Final invectives

64 Pay them back for their deeds, O LORD,
according to the work of their hands!

65 Give them anguish of heart;
your curse be on them!

66 Pursue them in anger and destroy them from under the LORD's heavens.

[Lamentations 4]

The suffering of the population

1 How the gold has grown dim,
how the pure gold is changed!
The sacred stones lie scattered
at the head of every street.

2 The precious children of Zion, worth their weight in fine gold —
how they are reckoned as earthen pots,
the work of a potter's hands!

3 Even the jackals offer the breast and nurse their young,
but my people has become cruel,
like the ostriches in the wilderness.

- 4 The tongue of the infant sticks
to the roof of its mouth for thirst;
the children beg for food,
but no one gives them anything.
- 5 Those who feasted on delicacies
perish in the streets;
those who were brought up in purple
cling to ash heaps.
- 6 For the chastisement of my people has been greater than the punishment of Sodom,
which was overthrown in a moment,
though no hand was laid on it.
- 7 Her princes were purer than snow,
whiter than milk;
their bodies were more ruddy than coral,
their hair like sapphire.
- 8 Now their visage is blacker than soot;
they are not recognized in the streets.
Their skin has shriveled on their bones;
it has become as dry as wood.
- 9 Happier were those pierced by the sword
than those pierced by hunger, whose life drains away, deprived of the produce of the field.
- 10 The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children;
they became their food
in the destruction of my people.

- 11 The LORD gave full vent to his wrath;
he poured out his hot anger,
and kindled a fire in Zion
that consumed its foundations.
- 12 The kings of the earth did not believe,
nor did any of the inhabitants of the world,
that foe or enemy could enter
the gates of Jerusalem.
- 13 It was for the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed the blood of the righteous
in the midst of her.
- 14 Blindly they wandered through the streets,
so defiled with blood
that no one was able to touch their garments.
- 15 "Away! Unclean!" people shouted at them;
"Away! Away! Do not touch!"
So they became fugitives and wanderers;
it was said among the nations,
"They shall stay here no longer."
- 16 The LORD himself has scattered them,
he will regard them no more;
no honor was shown to the priests,
no favor to the elders.

Communal voice

- 17 Our eyes failed, ever watching
vainly for help;
we were watching eagerly
for a nation that could not save.

18 They dogged our steps
 so that we could not walk in our streets;
 our end drew near; our days were numbered;
 for our end had come.

19 Our pursuers were swifter
 than the eagles in the heavens;
 they chased us on the mountains,
 they lay in wait for us in the wilderness.

20 The LORD's anointed, the breath of our life,
 was taken in their pits —
 the one of whom we said, "Under his shadow
 we shall live among the nations."

21 Rejoice and be glad, O daughter Edom,
 you that live in the land of Uz;
 but to you also the cup shall pass;
 you shall become drunk and strip yourself bare.

22 The punishment of your iniquity, O daughter Zion, is accomplished,
 he will keep you in exile no longer;
 but your iniquity, O daughter Edom, he will punish,
 he will uncover your sins.

[Lamentations 5]

Address

1 Remember, O LORD, what has befallen us;
 look, and see our disgrace!

The complaint

2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers,
 our homes to aliens.

3 We have become orphans, fatherless;
 our mothers are like widows.

- 4 We must pay for the water we drink;
the wood we get must be bought.
- 5 With a yoke on our necks we are hard driven;
we are weary, we are given no rest.
- 6 We have made a pact with Egypt and Assyria,
to get enough bread.
- 7 Our ancestors sinned; they are no more,
and we bear their iniquities.
- 8 Slaves rule over us;
there is no one to deliver us from their hand.
- 9 We get our bread at the peril of our lives,
because of the sword in the wilderness.
- 10 Our skin is black as an oven
from the scorching heat of famine.
- 11 Women are raped in Zion,
virgins in the towns of Judah.
- 12 Princes are hung up by their hands;
no respect is shown to the elders.
- 13 Young men are compelled to grind,
and boys stagger under loads of wood.
- 14 The old men have left the city gate,
the young men their music.
- 15 The joy of our hearts has ceased;
our dancing has been turned to mourning.
- 16 The crown has fallen from our head;
woe to us, for we have sinned!
- 17 Because of this our hearts are sick,
because of these things our eyes have grown dim:
- 18 because of Mount Zion, which lies desolate;
jackals prowl over it.

Conclusion

- 19 But you, O LORD, reign forever;
your throne endures to all generations.
- 20 Why have you forgotten us completely?
Why have you forsaken us these many days?

21 Restore us to yourself, O LORD, that we may be restored;
renew our days as of old — 22 unless you have utterly rejected us,
and are angry with us beyond measure.

EZEKIEL

Introduction

The prophecies in the book of Ezekiel are among the most fascinating and puzzling writings in the Bible. The prophet expresses his thought through a variety of literary forms — signs, visions, allegories, denunciations, and legal arguments, among others. He sometimes uses bizarre or extreme imagery and elaborates it to an almost excessive point. He has inspired fear, awe, and wonder in readers because he attempts not merely to name, but also to embody, God's sovereignty, holiness, and mystery in words that come close to the limits of expression.

At first this variety, intricacy, and elaboration can seem confusing. It is easy to get lost in Ezekiel's images and forget his larger concerns; it is easy as well to pick out striking passages and ignore the context of the book as a whole. But Ezekiel makes a coherent effort to deal with profound and difficult issues: Has God abandoned Jerusalem and the Temple? Does the suffering of the people of Judah have a purpose? How should the people understand their tragic history? And, perhaps most important, how can God now move on with God's people, in a transformed and renewed state? To understand how Ezekiel addresses these questions, we must consider not only the situation in which he found himself, but also the traditions and beliefs to which he looked for answers. The complexity of the book becomes clearer when we understand that it is the carefully written composition of one with a profound respect for the texts of his tradition, and that it has been carefully put together and preserved for the instruction of later readers.

Ezekiel wrote his prophecies, and his followers edited, expanded, and preserved them, in the sixth century BCE in Babylon, during the exile of the Judeans from their homeland. The exile thus forms the historical context of the book, and at several points, particularly in the allegory in 17.1-24, Ezekiel refers to the Babylonian subjugation of Judah.

The Babylonians under Nebuchadrezzar II (who ruled 605-562 BCE) defeated the Egyptians in 605 BCE. The Egyptians had allied with the great Assyrian Empire, which the Babylonians destroyed between 614 and 609 BCE. Although these victories made Babylon the leading political power in Syria-Palestine, including the territory of Judah, the Judeans, often acting in concert with other neighboring states, eventually rebelled. The Babylonians, in an escalating response to the continued efforts of the Judeans to throw them off, exiled the Judeans in two phases, separated about a decade apart. They first besieged Jerusalem under Jehoiakim, who died before Jerusalem fell in 597. When the Babylonians took over the city, his son, Jehoiachin, along with most of the Judean ruling class, was exiled to Babylon. The Babylonians installed a puppet king, Zedekiah; when he, too, attempted to rebel, they destroyed Jerusalem and the Temple, deposed the rest of the rulers, and exiled much of the population except the poorest to Babylon in 586 BCE.

Ezekiel was among the first group of exiles, taken to Babylonia in 597 BCE. Even so, he remained well informed about events in Judah, and his prophecies concern both expatriates and those who remained behind. He could address both communities as a single entity, since they were in ready contact with each other, and both were passionately concerned about the fate of Jerusalem. Neither group accepted Ezekiel's indictment of their guilt or believe his prophecies about Jerusalem's coming destruction. After the destruction in fact took place, the prophet's words turned to themes of renewed hope and restoration.

Ezekiel and his school, the followers who edited and preserved his prophecies, were members of a specific lineage of priests in Israel known as Zadokites (see 1.1-3; 44.15-31). At the time of Ezekiel's exile the Zadokites, who were steeped in the traditions of Jerusalemite royal theology, controlled the Israelite high priesthood and held power at the Jerusalem Temple. These Jerusalem priests were proponents of "Zion theology," the traditions that emphasized God's choice of Jerusalem as Zion, the holy (restored and redeemed city of God) city, and the protection for Jerusalem that resulted from this choice (see 2 Sam 7.4-17; Ps 46; 132). These traditions also stressed God's unconditional choice of Davidic monarchy and of Abraham's descendants.

The exile of the Judean rulers and the destruction of Jerusalem directly challenged this theology, since they called into question God's eternal promises to Zion. Ezekiel answered these challenges with cosmic, eschatological, and apocalyptic visions of a rebuilt Zion that fulfilled the promises of God's eternal protection despite the fall of the earthly Jerusalem (see 1.22-25, 26-28; 37.28; 38.12; 43.7; 48.35). In these visions particularly, Ezekiel anticipated much that was yet to come in the biblical writings, including later developments of apocalypticism (Dan 7-12, and the New Testament book of Revelation).

The specific language and laws of the priests and the traditions of the Temple heavily influenced Ezekiel as a Zadokite. A significant body of these laws, the so-called "Holiness Collection" (HC), can be found in the Pentateuch. HC is in the form of a vassal-covenant, a type of agreement in which guarantees on one side are specifically linked to responsibilities on the other. For Ezekiel this covenant form proved invaluable in interpreting the exile, since it allowed for the possibility that defilement, injustice, and covenant infidelity on Israel's part could lead to judgment and even exile without annulling God's eternal promises to Israel (Lev 26.42). The HC material stresses the unique sacredness of the people and land of Israel, in the midst of which the Lord dwells. This sacredness includes not only ritual and worship, but also morality and social justice.

The Holiness Collection extends beyond the confines of Lev 17-26 (known as the "Holiness Code"), and includes other parts of the Pentateuch often identified as belongs to the Priestly source (P). Authoritative, written traditions such as HC profoundly influenced Ezekiel, an influence that extended to the character of the book of Ezekiel itself.

The prophet and his followers, composed the book in writing and preserved it for the specific purpose of instructing readers at a later time. The written composition and the careful preservation of Ezekiel contrast with much of the other prophetic literature in the Hebrew Bible, which was spoken directly to a contemporaneous audience. Many of the words of prophets such as Isaiah were only written down some considerable time after they had been spoken; therefore they could be, and often were, modified to adapt them to situations that arose in later times. In Ezekiel, however, there are clear indications of an originally written composition and of an early intention to preserve the text. For instance, the thoroughgoing chronological notations show that Ezekiel and his followers took great care to demonstrate the timeliness and veracity of Ezekiel's oracles, and thereby their authority as prophecy. This care for the written text and its accurate transmission, as well as for the preservation of authoritative traditions such as the HC material, mark a breakthrough in the development of written scripture in Israel, and therefore help us to understand the historical processes that created the biblical canon over the centuries.

Ezekiel's character as a literary text makes it a complex book to read and interpret. Much of the other prophetic literature, as oral literature, generally uses less elaborate forms; Ezekiel, however, is made up of intricate, deliberately composed literary creations. Although some scholarship has viewed such literary ornamentation and intricacy as indicating confused layers of literary growth, newer readings have discovered literary integrity in the texts, even when the final form has resulted from a process of transmission and editing. One of the characteristic features of the book is the frequent repetition of key words or phrases (e.g., "mortal" [lit. "son of man"], "for the sake of my holy name," "So that you/they will know that I am the Lord"). Important aspects of the theology of Ezekiel are reinforced by the repetition of these and other formulas.

The style of Ezekiel is often "non-mimetic": It does not always render reality by immediate representation. Instead, it probes behind of beyond observable things and events, using metaphors and mythic poetry to portray the underlying structure of existence or the transcendent realities beneath both plain sensory observation and historical records. The visions of Ezekiel show both inner and outer realities, abolishing or going beyond normal sensory and temporal bounds.

Because of these literary qualities, reading Ezekiel requires a sophisticated approach, in order to avoid mistaking some of the descriptions for historical events, observable behaviors, or factual reports. For example, some interpretations of Ezekiel's behavior take it as evidence of a disoriented or abnormal personality. But the descriptions of these acts — muteness, for example, or holding prolonged, agonizing postures — are not evidence of psychopathology but are instead literary images that have rich theological import (see 3.22-27; 4.4-8).

The book of Ezekiel is complex, but fortunately its organization and outline are agreeably simple. Chapters 1-24 are set before the fall of Jerusalem, and are largely prophecies of doom against the city and against Judah. An extended body of material on Ezekiel's call to prophesy begins this section in chs 1-3. Chapters 25-32 are prophecies against foreign nations, forming a bridge between Ezekiel's initial message of doom and his ultimate message of hope. The hope comes in the prophecies of restoration, chs 33-48, dating from the time after Jerusalem's fall. Clearly the capture and destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BCE was the critical moment in Ezekiel's prophetic career. The prophecies of restoration include an apocalyptic passage (chs 38-39) and an extended blueprint for the restored Temple and land (chs 40-48).

[Ezekiel 1]

Part I: The call of Ezekiel; superscription

1 In the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the exiles by the river Chebar, the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. 2 On the fifth day of the month (it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin), 3 the word of the LORD came to the priest Ezekiel son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the river Chebar; and the hand of the LORD was on him there.

The throne-chariot vision

4 As I looked, a stormy wind came out of the north: a great cloud with brightness around it and fire flashing forth continually, and in the middle of the fire, something like gleaming amber. 5 In the middle of it was something like four living creatures. This was their appearance: they were of human form. 6 Each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. 7 Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf's foot; and they sparkled like burnished bronze. 8 Under their wings on their four sides they had human hands. And the four had their faces and their wings thus: 9 their wings touched one another; each of them moved straight ahead, without turning as they moved. 10 As for the appearance of their faces: the four had the face of a human being, the face of a lion on the right side, the face of an ox on the left side, and the face of an eagle; 11 such were their faces. Their wings were spread out above; each creature had two wings, each of which touched the wing of another, while two covered their bodies. 12 Each moved straight ahead; wherever the spirit would go, they went, without turning as they went. 13 In the middle of the living creatures there was something that looked like burning coals of fire, like torches moving to and fro among the living creatures; the fire was bright, and lightning issued from the fire. 14 The living creatures darted to and fro, like a flash of lightning.

15 As I looked at the living creatures, I saw a wheel on the earth beside the living creatures, one for each of the four of them. 16 As for the appearance of the wheels and their construction: their appearance was like the gleaming of beryl; and the four had the same form, their construction being something like a wheel within a wheel. 17 When they moved, they moved in any of the four directions without veering as they moved. 18 Their rims were tall and awesome, for the rims of all four were full of eyes all around. 19 When the living creatures moved, the wheels moved beside them; and when the living creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose. 20 Wherever the spirit would go, they went, and the wheels rose along with them; for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels. 21 When they moved, the others moved; when they stopped, the others stopped; and when they rose from the earth, the wheels rose along with them; for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

22 Over the heads of the living creatures there was something like a dome, shining like crystal, spread out above their heads. 23 Under the dome their wings were stretched out straight, one toward another; and each of the creatures had two wings covering its body. 24 When they moved, I heard the sound of their wings like the sound of mighty waters, like the thunder of the Almighty, a sound of tumult like the sound of an army; when they stopped, they let down their wings. 25 And there came a voice from above the dome over their heads; when they stopped, they let down their wings.

26 And above the dome over their heads there was something like a throne, in appearance like sapphire; and seated above the likeness of a throne was something that seemed like a human form. 27 Upward from what appeared like the loins I saw something like gleaming amber, something that looked like fire enclosed all around; and downward from what looked like the loins I saw something that looked like fire, and there was a splendor all around. 28 Like the bow in a cloud on a rainy day, such was the appearance of the splendor all around. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD.

Ezekiel's commissioning

When I saw it, I fell on my face, and I heard the voice of someone speaking.

[Ezekiel 2]

1 He said to me: O mortal, stand up on your feet, and I will speak with you. 2 And when he spoke to me, a spirit entered into me and set me on my feet; and I heard him speaking to me. 3 He said to me, Mortal, I am sending you to the people of Israel, to a nation of rebels who have rebelled against me; they and their ancestors have transgressed against me to this very day. 4 The descendants are impudent and stubborn. I am sending you to them, and you shall say to them, "Thus says the Lord GOD." 5 Whether they hear or refuse to hear (for they are a rebellious house), they shall know that there has been a prophet among them. 6 And you, O mortal, do not be afraid of them, and do not be afraid of their words, though briers and thorns surround you and you live among scorpions; do not be afraid of their words, and do not be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. 7 You shall speak my words to them, whether they hear or refuse to hear; for they are a rebellious house.

8 But you, mortal, hear what I say to you; do not be rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth and eat what I give you. 9 I looked, and a hand was stretched out to me, and a written scroll was in it. 10 He spread it before me; it had writing on the front and on the back, and written on it were words of lamentation and mourning and woe.

1 He said to me, O mortal, eat what is offered to you; eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel. 2 So I opened my mouth, and he gave me the scroll to eat. 3 He said to me, Mortal, eat this scroll that I give you and fill your stomach with it. Then I ate it; and in my mouth it was as sweet as honey.

4 He said to me: Mortal, go to the house of Israel and speak my very words to them. 5 For you are not sent to a people of obscure speech and difficult language, but to the house of Israel — 6 not to many peoples of obscure speech and difficult language, whose words you cannot understand. Surely, if I sent you to them, they would listen to you. 7 But the house of Israel will not listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to me; because all the house of Israel have a hard forehead and a stubborn heart. 8 See, I have made your face hard against their faces, and your forehead hard against their foreheads. 9 Like the hardest stone, harder than flint, I have made your forehead; do not fear them or be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. 10 He said to me: Mortal, all my words that I shall

10 speak to you receive in your heart and hear with your ears; 11 then go to the exiles, to your people, and speak to them. Say to them, "Thus says the Lord GOD"; whether they hear or refuse to hear.

Ezekiel returns to his people

12 Then the spirit lifted me up, and as the glory of the LORD rose from its place, I heard behind me the sound of loud rumbling; 13 it was the sound of the wings of the living creatures brushing against one another, and the sound of the wheels beside them, that sounded like a loud rumbling. 14 The spirit lifted me up and bore me away; I went in bitterness in the heat of my spirit, the hand of the LORD being strong upon me. 15 I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who lived by the river Chebar. And I sat there among them, stunned, for seven days.

The sentinel

16 At the end of seven days, the word of the LORD came to me: 17 Mortal, I have made you a sentinel for the house of Israel; whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. 18 If I say to the wicked, "You shall surely die," and you give them no warning, or speak to warn the wicked from their wicked way, in order to save their life, those wicked persons shall die for their iniquity; but their blood I will require at your hand. 19 But if you warn the wicked, and they do not turn from their wickedness, or from their wicked way, they shall die for their iniquity; but you will have saved your life. 20 Again, if the righteous turn from their righteousness and commit iniquity, and I lay a stumbling block before them, they shall die; because you have not warned them, they shall die for their sin, and their righteous deeds that they have done shall not be remembered; but their blood I will require at your hand. 21 If, however, you warn the righteous not to sin, and they do not sin, they shall surely live, because they took warning; and you will have saved your life.

Ezekiel's speechlessness

22 Then the hand of the LORD was upon me there; and he said to me, Rise up, go out into the valley, and there I will speak with you. 23 So I rose up and went out into the valley; and the glory of the LORD stood there, like the glory that I had seen by the river Chebar; and I fell on my face. 24 The spirit entered into me, and set me on my feet; and he spoke with me and said to me: Go, shut yourself inside your house. 25 As for you, mortal, cords shall be placed on you, and you shall be bound with them, so that you cannot go out among the people; 26 and I will make your tongue cling to the roof of your mouth, so that you shall be speechless and unable to reprove them; for they are a rebellious house. 27 But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, "Thus says the Lord GOD"; let those who will hear, hear; and let those who refuse to hear, refuse; for they are a rebellious house.

[Ezekiel 4]

Part II: Prophecies of doom against Judah and Jerusalem; symbolic actions describing the coming siege of Jerusalem

1 And you, O mortal, take a brick and set it before you. On it portray a city, Jerusalem; 2 and put siegeworks against it, and build a siege wall against it, and cast up a ramp against it; set camps also against it, and plant battering rams against it all around. 3 Then take an iron plate and place it as an iron wall between you and the city; set your face toward it, and let it be in a state of siege, and press the siege against it. This is a sign for the house of Israel.

4 Then lie on your left side, and place the punishment of the house of Israel upon it; you shall bear their punishment for the number of the days that you lie there. 5 For I assign to you a number of days, three hundred ninety days, equal to the number of the years of their punishment; and so you shall bear the punishment of the house of Israel. 6 When you have completed these, you shall lie down a second time, but on your right side, and bear the punishment of the house of Judah; forty days I assign you, one day for each year. 7 You shall set your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and with your arm bared you shall prophesy against it. 8 See, I am putting cords on you so that you cannot turn from one side to the other until you have completed the days of your siege.

9 And you, take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and spelt; put them into one vessel, and make bread for yourself. During the number of days that you lie on your side, three hundred ninety days, you shall eat it. 10 The food that you eat shall be twenty shekels a day by weight; at fixed times you shall eat it. 11 And you shall drink water by measure, one-sixth of a hin; at fixed times you shall drink. 12 You shall eat it as a barley-cake, baking it in their sight on human dung. 13 The LORD said, "Thus shall the people of Israel eat their bread, unclean, among the nations to which I will drive them." 14 Then I said, "Ah Lord GOD! I have never defiled myself; from my youth up until now I have never eaten what died of itself or was torn by animals, nor has carrion flesh come into my mouth." 15 Then he said to me, "See, I will let you have cow's dung instead of human dung, on which you may prepare your bread."

16 Then he said to me, Mortal, I am going to break the staff of bread in Jerusalem; they shall eat bread by weight and with fearfulness; and they shall drink water by measure and in dismay. 17 Lacking bread and water, they will look at one another in dismay, and waste away under their punishment.

[Ezekiel 5]

1 And you, O mortal, take a sharp sword; use it as a barber's razor and run it over your head and your beard; then take balances for weighing, and divide the hair. 2 One third of the hair you shall burn in the fire inside the city, when the days of the siege are completed; one third you shall take and strike with the sword all around the city; and one third you shall scatter to the wind, and I will unsheathe the sword after them. 3 Then you shall take from these a small number, and bind them in the skirts of your robe. 4 From these, again, you shall take some, throw them into the fire and burn them up; from there a fire will come out against all the house of Israel.

5 Thus says the Lord GOD: This is Jerusalem; I have set her in the center of the nations, with countries all around her. 6 But she has rebelled against my ordinances and my statutes, becoming more wicked than the nations and the countries all around her, rejecting my ordinances and not following my statutes. 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you are more turbulent than the nations that are all around you, and have not followed my statutes or kept my ordinances, but have acted according to the ordinances of the nations that are all around you; 8 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I, I myself, am coming against you; I will execute judgments among you in the sight of the nations. 9 And because of all your abominations, I will do to you what I have never yet done, and the like of which I will never do again. 10 Surely, parents shall eat their children in your midst, and children shall eat their parents; I will execute judgments on you, and any of you who survive I will scatter to every wind. 11 Therefore, as I live, says the Lord GOD, surely, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your detestable things and with all your abominations — therefore I will cut you down; my eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. 12 One third of you shall die of pestilence or be consumed by famine among you; one third shall fall by the sword around you; and one third I will scatter to every wind and will unsheathe the sword after them.

13 My anger shall spend itself, and I will vent my fury on them and satisfy myself; and they shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken in my jealousy, when I spend my fury on them. 14 Moreover I will make you a desolation and an object of mocking among the nations around you, in the sight of all that pass by. 15 You shall be a mockery and a taunt, a warning and a horror, to the nations around you, when I execute judgments on you in anger and fury, and with furious punishments — I, the LORD, have spoken — 16 when I loose against you my deadly arrows of famine, arrows for destruction, which I will let loose to destroy you, and when I bring more and more famine upon you, and break your staff of bread. 17 I will send famine and wild animals against you, and they will rob you of your children; pestilence and bloodshed shall pass through you; and I will bring the sword upon you. I, the LORD, have spoken.

[Ezekiel 6]Two prophecies against Israel's idolatry

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 O mortal, set your face toward the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them, 3 and say, You mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: I, I myself will bring a sword upon you, and I will destroy your high places. 4 Your altars shall become desolate, and your incense stands shall be broken; and I will throw down your slain in front of your idols. 5 I will lay the corpses of the people of Israel in front of their idols; and I will scatter your bones around your altars. 6 Wherever you live, your towns shall be waste and your high places ruined, so that your altars will be waste and ruined, your idols broken and destroyed, your incense stands cut down, and your works wiped out. 7 The slain shall fall in your midst; then you shall know that I am the LORD.

8 But I will spare some. Some of you shall escape the sword among the nations and be scattered through the countries. 9 Those of you who escape shall remember me among the nations where they are carried captive, how I was crushed by their wanton heart that turned away from me, and their wanton eyes that turned after their idols. Then they will be loathsome in their own sight for the evils that they have committed, for all their abominations. 10 And they shall know that I am the LORD; I did not threaten in vain to bring this disaster upon them.

11 Thus says the Lord GOD: Clap your hands and stamp your foot, and say, Alas for all the vile abominations of the house of Israel! For they shall fall by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. 12 Those far off shall die of pestilence; those nearby shall fall by the sword; and any who are left and are spared shall die of famine. Thus I will spend my fury upon them. 13 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, on every high hill, on all the mountain tops, under every green tree, and under every leafy oak, wherever they offered pleasing odor to all their idols. 14 I will stretch out my hand against them, and make the land desolate and waste, throughout all their settlements, from the wilderness to Riblah. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 7]

Prophecies on the approaching end

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 You, O mortal, thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel:

An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now the end is upon you,
I will let loose my anger upon you;
I will judge you according to your ways,
I will punish you for all your abominations.

4 My eye will not spare you, I will have no pity.
I will punish you for your ways,
while your abominations are among you.

Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

5 Thus says the Lord GOD:
Disaster after disaster! See, it comes.

6 An end has come, the end has come.
It has awakened against you; see, it comes!

7 Your doom has come to you,
O inhabitant of the land.
The time has come, the day is near —
of tumult, not of reveling on the mountains.

8 Soon now I will pour out my wrath upon you;
I will spend my anger against you.
I will judge you according to your ways,
and punish you for all your abominations.

9 My eye will not spare; I will have no pity.
I will punish you according to your ways,
while your abominations are among you.

Then you shall know that it is I the LORD who strike.

10 See, the day! See, it comes!
Your doom has gone out.

The rod has blossomed, pride has budded.

- 11 Violence has grown into a rod of wickedness.
 None of them shall remain,
 not their abundance, not their wealth;
 no pre-eminence among them.
- 12 The time has come, the day draws near;
 let not the buyer rejoice, nor the seller mourn,
 for wrath is upon all their multitude.
- 13 For the sellers shall not return to what has been sold as long as they remain alive. For the vision concerns all their multitude; it shall not be revoked. Because of their iniquity, they cannot maintain their lives.
- 14 They have blown the horn and made everything ready;
 but no one goes to battle,
 for my wrath is upon all their multitude.
- 15 The sword is outside, pestilence and famine are inside;
 those in the field die by the sword;
 those in the city — famine and pestilence devour them.
- 16 If any survivors escape,
 they shall be found on the mountains
 like doves of the valleys,
 all of them moaning over their iniquity.
- 17 All hands shall grow feeble,
 all knees turn to water.
- 18 They shall put on sackcloth,
 horror shall cover them.
 Shame shall be on all faces,
 baldness on all their heads.
- 19 They shall fling their silver into the streets,
 their gold shall be treated as unclean.
 Their silver and gold cannot save them on the day of the wrath of the LORD. They shall not satisfy their hunger or fill their stomachs with it.
 For it was the stumbling block of their iniquity. 20 From their beautiful ornament, in which they took pride, they made their abominable images, their detestable things; therefore I will make of it an unclean thing to them.
- 21 I will hand it over to strangers as booty,
 to the wicked of the earth as plunder;
 they shall profane it.

- 22 I will avert my face from them,
 so that they may profane my treasured place;
 the violent shall enter it,
 they shall profane it.
- 23 Make a chain!
 For the land is full of bloody crimes;
 the city is full of violence.
- 24 I will bring the worst of the nations
 to take possession of their houses.
 I will put an end to the arrogance of the strong,
 and their holy places shall be profaned.
- 25 When anguish comes, they will seek peace,
 but there shall be none.
- 26 Disaster comes upon disaster,
 rumor follows rumor;
 they shall keep seeking a vision from the prophet;
 instruction shall perish from the priest,
 and counsel from the elders.
- 27 The king shall mourn,
 the prince shall be wrapped in despair,
 and the hands of the people of the land shall tremble.
 According to their way I will deal with them;
 according to their own judgments I will judge them.
 And they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 8]

The Temple visions; the vision of idolatry

1 In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house, with the elders of Judah sitting before me, the hand of the Lord GOD fell upon me there. 2 I looked, and there was a figure that looked like a human being; below what appeared to be its loins it was fire, and above the loins it was like the appearance of brightness, like gleaming amber. 3 It stretched out the form of a hand, and took me by a lock of my head; and the spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven, and brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north, to the seat of the image of jealousy, which provokes to jealousy. 4 And the glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I had seen in the valley.

5 Then God said to me, "O mortal, lift up your eyes now in the direction of the north." So I lifted up my eyes toward the north, and there, north of the altar gate, in the entrance, was this image of jealousy. 6 He said to me, "Mortal, do you see what they are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel are committing here, to drive me far from my sanctuary? Yet you will see still greater abominations."

7 And he brought me to the entrance of the court; I looked, and there was a hole in the wall. 8 Then he said to me, "Mortal, dig through the wall"; and when I dug through the wall, there was an entrance. 9 He said to me, "Go in, and see the vile abominations that they are committing here." 10 So I went in and looked; there, portrayed on the wall all around, were all kinds of creeping things, and loathsome animals, and all the idols of the house of Israel. 11 Before them stood seventy of the elders of the house of Israel, with Jaazaniah son of Shaphan standing among them. Each had his censer in his hand, and the fragrant cloud of incense was ascending. 12 Then he said to me, "Mortal, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, each in his room of images? For they say, 'The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.'" 13 He said also to me, "You will see still greater abominations that they are committing."

14 Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD; women were sitting there weeping for Tammuz. 15 Then he said to me, "Have you seen this, O mortal? You will see still greater abominations than these."

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD; there, at the entrance of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, with their backs to the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, prostrating themselves to the sun toward the east. 17 Then he said to me, "Have you seen this, O mortal? Is it not bad enough that the house of Judah commits the abominations done here? Must they fill the land with violence, and provoke my anger still further? See, they are putting the branch to their nose! 18 Therefore I will act in wrath; my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity; and though they cry in my hearing with a loud voice, I will not listen to them."

[Ezekiel 9]

The punishment of the guilty

1 Then he cried in my hearing with a loud voice, saying, "Draw near, you executioners of the city, each with his destroying weapon in his hand." 2 And six men came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, each with his weapon for slaughter in his hand; among them was a man clothed in linen, with a writing case at his side. They went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

3 Now the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub on which it rested to the threshold of the house. The LORD called to the man clothed in linen, who had the writing case at his side; 4 and said to him, "Go through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark on the foreheads of those who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it." 5 To the others he said in my hearing, "Pass through the city after him, and kill; your eye shall not spare, and you shall show no pity. 6 Cut down old men, young men and young women, little children and women, but touch no one who has the mark. And begin at my sanctuary." So they began with the elders who were in front of the house. 7 Then he said to them, "Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain. Go!" So they went out and killed in the city. 8 While they were killing, and I was left alone, I fell prostrate on my face and cried out, "Ah Lord GOD! will you destroy all who remain of Israel as you pour out your wrath upon Jerusalem?" 9 He said to me, "The guilt of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great; the land is full of bloodshed and the city full of perversity; for they say, 'The LORD has forsaken the land, and the LORD does not see.' 10 As for me, my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity, but I will bring down their deeds upon their heads."

11 Then the man clothed in linen, with the writing case at his side, brought back word, saying, "I have done as you commanded me."

[Ezekiel 10]The departure of the LORD's glory from the Temple

1 Then I looked, and above the dome that was over the heads of the cherubim there appeared above them something like a sapphire, in form resembling a throne. 2 He said to the man clothed in linen, "Go within the wheelwork underneath the cherubim; fill your hands with burning coals from among the cherubim, and scatter them over the city." He went in as I looked on. 3 Now the cherubim were standing on the south side of the house when the man went in; and a cloud filled the inner court. 4 Then the glory of the LORD rose up from the cherub to the threshold of the house; the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the glory of the LORD. 5 The sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.

6 When he commanded the man clothed in linen, "Take fire from within the wheelwork, from among the cherubim," he went in and stood beside a wheel. 7 And a cherub stretched out his hand from among the cherubim to the fire that was among the cherubim, took some of it and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. 8 The cherubim appeared to have the form of a human hand under their wings.

9 I looked, and there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one beside each cherub; and the appearance of the wheels was like gleaming beryl. 10 And as for their appearance, the four looked alike, something like a wheel within a wheel. 11 When they moved, they moved in any of the four directions without veering as they moved; but in whatever direction the front wheel faced, the others followed without veering as they moved. 12 Their entire body, their rims, their spokes, their wings, and the wheels — the wheels of the four of them — were full of eyes all around. 13 As for the wheels, they were called in my hearing "the wheelwork." 14 Each one had four faces: the first face was that of the cherub, the second face was that of a human being, the third that of a lion, and the fourth that of an eagle.

15 The cherubim rose up. These were the living creatures that I saw by the river Chebar. 16 When the cherubim moved, the wheels moved beside them; and when the cherubim lifted up their wings to rise up from the earth, the wheels at their side did not veer. 17 When they stopped, the others stopped, and when they rose up, the others rose up with them; for the spirit of the living creatures was in them.

18 Then the glory of the LORD went out from the threshold of the house and stopped above the cherubim. 19 The cherubim lifted up their wings and rose up from the earth in my sight as they went out with the wheels beside them. They stopped at the entrance of the east gate of the house of the LORD; and the glory of the God of Israel was above them.

20 These were the living creatures that I saw underneath the God of Israel by the river Chebar; and I knew that they were cherubim. 21 Each had four faces, each four wings, and underneath their wings something like human hands. 22 As for what their faces were like, they were the same faces whose appearance I had seen by the river Chebar. Each one moved straight ahead.

[Ezekiel 11]

Judgment and promise; a disputation over the city

1 The spirit lifted me up and brought me to the east gate of the house of the LORD, which faces east. There, at the entrance of the gateway, were twenty-five men; among them I saw Jaazaniah son of Azzur, and Pelatiah son of Benaiah, officials of the people. 2 He said to me, "Mortal, these are the men who devise iniquity and who give wicked counsel in this city; 3 they say, 'The time is not near to build houses; this city is the pot, and we are the meat.' 4 Therefore prophesy against them; prophesy, O mortal."

5 Then the spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and he said to me, "Say, Thus says the LORD: This is what you think, O house of Israel; I know the things that come into your mind. 6 You have killed many in this city, and have filled its streets with the slain. 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: The slain whom you have placed within it are the meat, and this city is the pot; but you shall be taken out of it. 8 You have feared the sword; and I will bring the sword upon you, says the Lord GOD. 9 I will take you out of it and give you over to the hands of foreigners, and execute judgments upon you. 10 You shall fall by the sword; I will judge you at the border of Israel. And you shall know that I am the LORD. 11 This city shall not be your pot, and you shall not be the meat inside it; I will judge you at the border of Israel. 12 Then you shall know that I am the LORD, whose statutes you have not followed, and whose ordinances you have not kept, but you have acted according to the ordinances of the nations that are around you."

13 Now, while I was prophesying, Pelatiah son of Benaiah died. Then I fell down on my face, cried with a loud voice, and said, "Ah Lord GOD! will you make a full end of the remnant of Israel?"

The future lies with the exiles

14 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 15 Mortal, your kinsfolk, your own kin, your fellow exiles, the whole house of Israel, all of them, are those of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, "They have gone far from the LORD; to us this land is given for a possession." 16 Therefore say: Thus says the Lord GOD: Though I removed them far away among the nations, and though I scattered them among the countries, yet I have been a sanctuary to them for a little while in the countries where they have gone. 17 Therefore say: Thus says the Lord GOD: I will gather you from the peoples, and assemble you out of the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel. 18 When they come there, they will remove from it all its detestable things and all its abominations. 19 I will give them one heart, and put a new spirit within them; I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh, 20 so that they may follow my statutes and keep my ordinances and obey them. Then they shall be my people, and I will be their God. 21 But as for those whose heart goes after their detestable things and their abominations, I will bring their deeds upon their own heads, says the Lord GOD.

Conclusion of the Temple visions

22 Then the cherubim lifted up their wings, with the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was above them. 23 And the glory of the LORD ascended from the middle of the city, and stopped on the mountain east of the city. 24 The spirit lifted me up and brought me in a vision by the spirit of God into Chaldea, to the exiles. Then the vision that I had seen left me. 25 And I told the exiles all the things that the LORD had shown me.

[Ezekiel 12]

Two symbolic actions: First symbol, an exile's baggage

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, you are living in the midst of a rebellious house, who have eyes to see but do not see, who have ears to hear but do not hear; 3 for they are a rebellious house. Therefore, mortal, prepare for yourself an exile's baggage, and go into exile by day in their sight; you shall go like an exile from your place to another place in their sight. Perhaps they will understand, though they are a rebellious house. 4 You shall bring out your baggage by day in their sight, as baggage for exile; and you shall go out yourself at evening in their sight, as those do who go into exile. 5 Dig through the wall in their sight, and carry the baggage through it. 6 In their sight you shall lift the baggage on your shoulder, and carry it out in the dark; you shall cover your face, so that you may not see the land; for I have made you a sign for the house of Israel.

7 I did just as I was commanded. I brought out my baggage by day, as baggage for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my own hands; I brought it out in the dark, carrying it on my shoulder in their sight.

8 In the morning the word of the LORD came to me: 9 Mortal, has not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said to you, "What are you doing?" 10 Say to them, "Thus says the Lord GOD: This oracle concerns the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel in it." 11 Say, "I am a sign for you: as I have done, so shall it be done to them; they shall go into exile, into captivity." 12 And the prince who is among them shall lift his baggage on his shoulder in the dark, and shall go out; he shall dig through the wall and carry it through; he shall cover his face, so that he may not see the land with his eyes. 13 I will spread my net over him, and he shall be caught in my snare; and I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, yet he shall not see it; and he shall die there. 14 I will scatter to every wind all who are around him, his helpers and all his troops; and I will unsheathe the sword behind them. 15 And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them through the countries. 16 But I will let a few of them escape from the sword, from famine and pestilence, so that they may tell of all their abominations among the nations where they go; then they shall know that I am the LORD.

Second symbol, eating with trembling

17 The word of the LORD came to me: 18 Mortal, eat your bread with quaking, and drink your water with trembling and with fearfulness; 19 and say to the people of the land, Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread with fearfulness, and drink their water in dismay, because their land shall be stripped of all it contains, on account of the violence of all those who live in it. 20 The inhabited cities shall be laid waste, and the land shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD.

Disputations about prophecy

21 The word of the LORD came to me: 22 Mortal, what is this proverb of yours about the land of Israel, which says, "The days are prolonged, and every vision comes to nothing"? 23 Tell them therefore, "Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put an end to this proverb, and they shall use it no more as a proverb in Israel." But say to them, The days are near, and the fulfillment of every vision. 24 For there shall no longer be any false vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. 25 But I the LORD will speak the word that I speak, and it will be fulfilled. It will no longer be delayed; but in your days, O rebellious house, I will speak the word and fulfill it, says the Lord GOD.

26 The word of the LORD came to me: 27 Mortal, the house of Israel is saying, "The vision that he sees is for many years ahead; he prophesies for distant times." 28 Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: None of my words will be delayed any longer, but the word that I speak will be fulfilled, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 13]

Oracles against false prophecy

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, prophesy against the prophets of Israel who are prophesying; say to those who prophesy out of their own imagination: "Hear the word of the LORD!" 3 Thus says the Lord GOD, Alas for the senseless prophets who follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! 4 Your prophets have been like jackals among ruins, O Israel. 5 You have not gone up into the breaches, or repaired a wall for the house of Israel, so that it might stand in battle on the day of the LORD. 6 They have envisioned falsehood and lying divination; they say, "Says the LORD," when the LORD has not sent them, and yet they wait for the fulfillment of their word! 7 Have you not seen a false vision or uttered a lying divination, when you have said, "Says the LORD," even though I did not speak?

8 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have uttered falsehood and envisioned lies, I am against you, says the Lord GOD. 9 My hand will be against the prophets who see false visions and utter lying divinations; they shall not be in the council of my people, nor be enrolled in the register of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD. 10 Because, in truth, because they have misled my people, saying, "Peace," when there is no peace; and because, when the people build a wall, these prophets smear whitewash on it. 11 Say to those who smear whitewash on it that it shall fall. There will be a deluge of rain, great hailstones will fall, and a stormy wind will break out. 12 When the wall falls, will it not be said to you, "Where is the whitewash you smeared on it?" 13 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: In my wrath I will make a stormy wind break out, and in my anger there shall be a deluge of rain, and hailstones in wrath to destroy it. 14 I will break down the wall that you have smeared with whitewash, and bring it to the ground, so that its foundation will be laid bare; when it falls, you shall perish within it; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 15 Thus I will spend my wrath upon the wall, and upon those who have smeared it with whitewash; and I will say to you, The wall is no more, nor those who smeared it — 16 the prophets of Israel who prophesied concerning Jerusalem and saw visions of peace for it, when there was no peace, says the Lord GOD.

Against sorceresses

17 As for you, mortal, set your face against the daughters of your people, who prophesy out of their own imagination; prophesy against them 18 and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the women who sew bands on all wrists, and make veils for the heads of persons of every height, in the hunt for human lives! Will you hunt down lives among my people, and maintain your own lives? 19 You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, putting to death persons who should not die and keeping alive persons who should not live, by your lies to my people, who listen to lies.

20 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I am against your bands with which you hunt lives; I will tear them from your arms, and let the lives go free, the lives that you hunt down like birds. 21 I will tear off your veils, and save my people from your hands; they shall no longer be prey in your hands; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 22 Because you have disheartened the righteous falsely, although I have not disheartened them, and you have encouraged the wicked not to turn from their wicked way and save their lives; 23 therefore you shall no longer see false visions or practice divination; I will save my people from your hand. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 14]

A legal case involving consultation

1 Certain elders of Israel came to me and sat down before me. 2 And the word of the LORD came to me: 3 Mortal, these men have taken their idols into their hearts, and placed their iniquity as a stumbling block before them; shall I let myself be consulted by them? 4 Therefore speak to them, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Any of those of the house of Israel who take their idols into their hearts and place their iniquity as a stumbling block before them, and yet come to the prophet — I the LORD will answer those who come with the multitude of their idols, 5 in order that I may take hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, all of whom are estranged from me through their idols.

6 Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Repent and turn away from your idols; and turn away your faces from all your abominations. 7 For any of those of the house of Israel, or of the aliens who reside in Israel, who separate themselves from me, taking their idols into their hearts and placing their iniquity as a stumbling block before them, and yet come to a prophet to inquire of me by him, I the LORD will answer them myself. 8 I will set my face against them; I will make them a sign and a byword and cut them off from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the LORD.

9 If a prophet is deceived and speaks a word, I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. 10 And they shall bear their punishment — the punishment of the inquirer and the punishment of the prophet shall be the same — 11 so that the house of Israel may no longer go astray from me, nor defile themselves any more with all their transgressions. Then they shall be my people, and I will be their God, says the Lord GOD.

The inevitability of God's judgment

12 The word of the LORD came to me: 13 Mortal, when a land sins against me by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it, and break its staff of bread and send famine upon it, and cut off from it human beings and animals, 14 even if Noah, Daniel, and Job, these three, were in it, they would save only their own lives by their righteousness, says the Lord GOD. 15 If I send wild animals through the land to ravage it, so that it is made desolate, and no one may pass through because of the animals; 16 even if these three men were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would save neither sons nor daughters; they alone would be saved, but the land would be desolate. 17 Or if I bring a sword upon that land and say, "Let a sword pass through the land," and I cut off human beings and animals from it; 18 though these three men were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would save neither sons nor daughters, but they alone would be saved. 19 Or if I send a pestilence into that land, and pour out my wrath upon it with blood, to cut off humans and animals from it; 20 even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would save neither son nor daughter; they would save only their own lives by their righteousness.

21 For thus says the Lord GOD: How much more when I send upon Jerusalem my four deadly acts of judgment, sword, famine, wild animals, and pestilence, to cut off humans and animals from it! 22 Yet, survivors shall be left in it, sons and daughters who will be brought out; they will come out to you. When you see their ways and their deeds, you will be consoled for the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, for all that I have brought upon it. 23 They shall console you, when you see their ways and their deeds; and you shall know that it was not without cause that I did all that I have done in it, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 15]

Analogy of the useless vine

- 1 The word of the LORD came to me:
- 2 O mortal, how does the wood of the vine surpass all other wood — the vine branch that is among the trees of the forest?
- 3 Is wood taken from it to make anything?
Does one take a peg from it on which to hang any object?
- 4 It is put in the fire for fuel;
when the fire has consumed both ends of it and the middle of it is charred,
is it useful for anything?
- 5 When it was whole it was used for nothing;
how much less — when the fire has consumed it,
and it is charred —
can it ever be used for anything!

6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so I will give up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 7 I will set my face against them; although they escape from the fire, the fire shall still consume them; and you shall know that I am the LORD, when I set my face against them. 8 And I will make the land desolate, because they have acted faithlessly, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 16]

The allegory of the unfaithful wife; Jerusalem, the Foundling

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, make known to Jerusalem her abominations, 3 and say, Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth were in the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite, and your mother a Hittite. 4 As for your birth, on the day you were born your navel cord was not cut, nor were you washed with water to cleanse you, nor rubbed with salt, nor wrapped in cloths. 5 No eye pitied you, to do any of these things for you out of compassion for you; but you were thrown out in the open field, for you were abhorred on the day you were born.

6 I passed by you, and saw you flailing about in your blood. As you lay in your blood, I said to you, "Live! 7 and grow up like a plant of the field." You grew up and became tall and arrived at full womanhood; your breasts were formed, and your hair had grown; yet you were naked and bare.

The beautiful bride

8 I passed by you again and looked on you; you were at the age for love. I spread the edge of my cloak over you, and covered your nakedness: I pledged myself to you and entered into a covenant with you, says the Lord GOD, and you became mine. 9 Then I bathed you with water and washed off the blood from you, and anointed you with oil. 10 I clothed you with embroidered cloth and with sandals of fine leather; I bound you in fine linen and covered you with rich fabric. 11 I adorned you with ornaments: I put bracelets on your arms, a chain on your neck, 12 a ring on your nose, earrings in your ears, and a beautiful crown upon your head. 13 You were adorned with gold and silver, while your clothing was of fine linen, rich fabric, and embroidered cloth. You had choice flour and honey and oil for food. You grew exceedingly beautiful, fit to be a queen. 14 Your fame spread among the nations on account of your beauty, for it was perfect because of my splendor that I had bestowed on you, says the Lord GOD.

Sexual betrayal

15 But you trusted in your beauty, and played the whore because of your fame, and lavished your whorings on any passer-by. 16 You took some of your garments, and made for yourself colorful shrines, and on them played the whore; nothing like this has ever been or ever shall be. 17 You also took your beautiful jewels of my gold and my silver that I had given you, and made for yourself male images, and with them played the whore; 18 and you took your embroidered garments to cover them, and set my oil and my incense before them. 19 Also my bread that I gave you — I fed you with choice flour and oil and honey — you set it before them as a pleasing odor; and so it was, says the Lord GOD. 20 You took your sons and your daughters, whom you had borne to me, and these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. As if your whorings were not enough! 21 You slaughtered my children and delivered them up as an offering to them. 22 And in all your abominations and your whorings you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, flailing about in your blood.

23 After all your wickedness (woe, woe to you! says the Lord GOD), 24 you built yourself a platform and made yourself a lofty place in every square; 25 at the head of every street you built your lofty place and prostituted your beauty, offering yourself to every passer-by, and multiplying your whoring. 26 You played the whore with the Egyptians, your lustful neighbors, multiplying your whoring, to provoke me to anger. 27 Therefore I stretched out my hand against you, reduced your rations, and gave you up to the will of your enemies, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd behavior. 28 You played the whore with the Assyrians, because you were insatiable; you played the whore with them, and still you were not satisfied. 29 You multiplied your whoring with Chaldea, the land of merchants; and even with this you were not satisfied.

30 How sick is your heart, says the Lord GOD, that you did all these things, the deeds of a brazen whore; 31 building your platform at the head of every street, and making your lofty place in every square! Yet you were not like a whore, because you scorned payment. 32 Adulterous wife, who receives strangers instead of her husband! 33 Gifts are given to all whores; but you gave your gifts to all your lovers, bribing them to come to you from all around for your whorings. 34 So you were different from other women in your whorings: no one solicited you to play the whore; and you gave payment, while no payment was given to you; you were different.

35 Therefore, O whore, hear the word of the LORD: 36 Thus says the Lord GOD, Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness uncovered in your whoring with your lovers, and because of all your abominable idols, and because of the blood of your children that you gave to them, 37 therefore, I will gather all your lovers, with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved and all those you hated; I will gather them against you from all around, and will uncover your nakedness to them, so that they may see all your nakedness. 38 I will judge you as women who commit adultery and shed blood are judged, and bring blood upon you in wrath and jealousy. 39 I will deliver you into their hands, and they shall throw down your platform and break down your lofty places; they shall strip you of your clothes and take your beautiful objects and leave you naked and bare. 40 They shall bring up a mob against you, and they shall stone you and cut you to pieces with their swords. 41 They shall burn your houses and execute judgments on you in the sight of many women; I will stop you from playing the whore, and you shall also make no more payments. 42 So I will satisfy my fury on you, and my jealousy shall turn away from you; I will be calm, and will be angry no longer. 43 Because you have not remembered the days of your youth, but have enraged me with all these things; therefore, I have returned your deeds upon your head, says the Lord GOD.

Have you not committed lewdness beyond all your abominations? 44 See, everyone who uses proverbs will use this proverb about you, "Like mother, like daughter." 45 You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her children; and you are the sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their children. Your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. 46 Your elder sister is Samaria, who lived with her daughters to the north of you; and your younger sister, who lived to the south of you, is Sodom with her daughters. 47 You not only followed their ways, and acted according to their abominations; within a very little time you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. 48 As I live, says the Lord GOD, your sister Sodom and her daughters have not done as you and your daughters have done. 49 This was the guilt of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, excess of food, and prosperous ease, but did not aid the poor and needy. 50 They were haughty, and did abominable things before me; therefore I removed them when I saw it. 51 Samaria has not committed half your sins; you have committed more abominations than they, and have made your sisters appear righteous by all the abominations that you have committed. 52 Bear your disgrace, you also, for you have brought about for your sisters a more favorable judgment; because of your sins in which you acted more abominably than they, they are more in the right than you. So be ashamed, you also, and bear your disgrace, for you have made your sisters appear righteous.

53 I will restore their fortunes, the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters and the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters, and I will restore your own fortunes along with theirs, 54 in order that you may bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all that you have done, becoming a consolation to them. 55 As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state, Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former state, and you and your daughters shall return to your former state. 56 Was not your sister Sodom a byword in your mouth in the day of your pride, 57 before your wickedness was uncovered? Now you are a mockery to the daughters of Aram and all her neighbors, and to the daughters of the Philistines, those all around who despise you. 58 You must bear the penalty of your lewdness and your abominations, says the LORD.

59 Yes, thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you as you have done, you who have despised the oath, breaking the covenant; 60 yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish with you an everlasting covenant. 61 Then you will remember your ways, and be ashamed when I take your sisters, both your elder and your younger, and give them to you as daughters, but not on account of my covenant with you. 62 I will establish my covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the LORD, 63 in order that you may remember and be confounded, and never open your mouth again because of your shame, when I forgive you all that you have done, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 17]

The allegorical fable of the eagles

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 O mortal, propound a riddle, and speak an allegory to the house of Israel. 3 Say: Thus says the Lord GOD:

A great eagle, with great wings and long pinions,
rich in plumage of many colors,
came to the Lebanon.

He took the top of the cedar,
4 broke off its topmost shoot;
he carried it to a land of trade,
set it in a city of merchants.

5 Then he took a seed from the land,
placed it in fertile soil;
a plant by abundant waters,
he set it like a willow twig.

- 6 It sprouted and became a vine
 spreading out, but low;
 its branches turned toward him,
 its roots remained where it stood.
 So it became a vine;
 it brought forth branches,
 put forth foliage.
- 7 There was another great eagle,
 with great wings and much plumage.
 And see! This vine stretched out its roots toward him;
 it shot out its branches toward him,
 so that he might water it.
 From the bed where it was planted
- 8 it was transplanted
 to good soil by abundant waters,
 so that it might produce branches and bear fruit
 and become a noble vine.
- 9 Say: Thus says the Lord GOD:
 Will it prosper?
 Will he not pull up its roots,
 cause its fruit to rot and wither,
 its fresh sprouting leaves to fade?
 No strong arm or mighty army will be needed
 to pull it from its roots.
- 10 When it is transplanted, will it thrive?
 When the east wind strikes it,
 will it not utterly wither,
 wither on the bed where it grew?

The interpretation

11 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 12 Say now to the rebellious house: Do you not know what these things mean? Tell them: The king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, took its king and its officials, and brought them back with him to Babylon. 13 He took one of the royal offspring and made a covenant with him, putting him under oath (he had taken away the chief men of the land), 14 so that the kingdom might be humble and not lift itself up, and that by keeping his covenant it might stand. 15 But he rebelled against him by sending ambassadors to Egypt, in order that they might give him horses and a large army. Will he succeed? Can one escape who does such things? Can he break the covenant and yet escape? 16 As I live, says the Lord GOD, surely in the place where the king resides who made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant with him he broke — in Babylon he shall die. 17 Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company will not help him in war, when ramps are cast up and siege walls built to cut off many lives. 18 Because he despised the oath and broke the covenant, because he gave his hand and yet did all these things, he shall not escape. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, I will surely return upon his head my oath that he despised, and my covenant that he broke. 20 I will spread my net over him, and he shall be caught in my snare; I will bring him to Babylon and enter into judgment with him there for the treason he has committed against me. 21 All the pick of his troops shall fall by the sword, and the survivors shall be scattered to every wind; and you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken.

The fable expanded

22 Thus says the Lord GOD:
 I myself will take a sprig from the lofty top of a cedar;
 I will set it out.
 I will break off a tender one from the topmost of its young twigs;
 I myself will plant it
 on a high and lofty mountain.

- 23 On the mountain height of Israel
 I will plant it,
 in order that it may produce boughs and bear fruit,
 and become a noble cedar.
 Under it every kind of bird will live;
 in the shade of its branches will nest
 winged creatures of every kind.
- 24 All the trees of the field shall know
 that I am the LORD.
 I bring low the high tree,
 I make high the low tree;
 I dry up the green tree
 and make the dry tree flourish.
 I the LORD have spoken;
 I will accomplish it.

[Ezekiel 18]

Being accountable

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 What do you mean by repeating this proverb concerning the land of Israel, "The parents have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge"? 3 As I live, says the Lord GOD, this proverb shall no more be used by you in Israel. 4 Know that all lives are mine; the life of the parent as well as the life of the child is mine: it is only the person who sins that shall die.

5 If a man is righteous and does what is lawful and right — 6 if he does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor's wife or approach a woman during her menstrual period, 7 does not oppress anyone, but restores to the debtor his pledge, commits no robbery, gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with a garment, 8 does not take advance or accrued interest, withholds his hand from iniquity, executes true justice between contending parties, 9 follows my statutes, and is careful to observe my ordinances, acting faithfully — such a one is righteous; he shall surely live, says the Lord GOD.

10 If he has a son who is violent, a shedder of blood, 11 who does any of these things (though his father does none of them), who eats upon the mountains, defiles his neighbor's wife, 12 oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, does not restore the pledge, lifts up his eyes to the idols, commits abomination, 13 takes advance or accrued interest; shall he then live? He shall not. He has done all these abominable things; he shall surely die; his blood shall be upon himself.

14 But if this man has a son who sees all the sins that his father has done, considers, and does not do likewise, 15 who does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor's wife, 16 does not wrong anyone, exacts no pledge, commits no robbery, but gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with a garment, 17 withholds his hand from iniquity, takes no advance or accrued interest, observes my ordinances, and follows my statutes; he shall not die for his father's iniquity; he shall surely live. 18 As for his father, because he practiced extortion, robbed his brother, and did what is not good among his people, he dies for his iniquity.

19 Yet you say, "Why should not the son suffer for the iniquity of the father?" When the son has done what is lawful and right, and has been careful to observe all my statutes, he shall surely live. 20 The person who sins shall die. A child shall not suffer for the iniquity of a parent, nor a parent suffer for the iniquity of a child; the righteousness of the righteous shall be his own, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be his own.

21 But if the wicked turn away from all their sins that they have committed and keep all my statutes and do what is lawful and right, they shall surely live; they shall not die. 22 None of the transgressions that they have committed shall be remembered against them; for the righteousness that they have done they shall live. 23 Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, says the Lord GOD, and not rather that they should turn from their ways and live? 24 But when the righteous turn away from their righteousness and commit iniquity and do the same abominable things that the wicked do, shall they live? None of the righteous deeds that they have done shall be remembered; for the treachery of which they are guilty and the sin they have committed, they shall die.

25 Yet you say, "The way of the Lord is unfair." Hear now, O house of Israel: Is my way unfair? Is it not your ways that are unfair? 26 When the righteous turn away from their righteousness and commit iniquity, they shall die for it; for the iniquity that they have committed they shall die. 27 Again, when the wicked turn away from the wickedness they have committed and do what is lawful and right, they shall save their life. 28 Because they considered and turned away from all the transgressions that they had committed, they shall surely live; they shall not die. 29 Yet the house of Israel says, "The way of the Lord is unfair." O house of Israel, are my ways unfair? Is it not your ways that are unfair?

30 Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, all of you according to your ways, says the Lord GOD. Repent and turn from all your transgressions; otherwise iniquity will be your ruin. 31 Cast away from you all the transgressions that you have committed against me, and get yourselves a new heart and a new spirit! Why will you die, O house of Israel? 32 For I have no pleasure in the death of anyone, says the Lord GOD. Turn, then, and live.

[Ezekiel 19]

Two funeral dirges

1 As for you, raise up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, 2 and say:
 What a lioness was your mother
 among lions!
 She lay down among young lions,
 rearing her cubs.
 3 She raised up one of her cubs;
 he became a young lion,
 and he learned to catch prey;
 he devoured humans.

- 4 The nations sounded an alarm against him;
he was caught in their pit;
and they brought him with hooks
to the land of Egypt.
- 5 When she saw that she was thwarted,
that her hope was lost,
she took another of her cubs
and made him a young lion.
- 6 He prowled among the lions;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured people.
- 7 And he ravaged their strongholds,
and laid waste their towns;
the land was appalled, and all in it,
at the sound of his roaring.
- 8 The nations set upon him
from the provinces all around;
they spread their net over him;
he was caught in their pit.
- 9 With hooks they put him in a cage,
and brought him to the king of Babylon;
they brought him into custody,
so that his voice should be heard no more on the mountains of Israel.
- 10 Your mother was like a vine in a vineyard
transplanted by the water, fruitful and full of branches
from abundant water.
- 11 Its strongest stem became
a ruler's scepter;
it towered aloft
among the thick boughs;
it stood out in its height
with its mass of branches.

- 12 But it was plucked up in fury,
 cast down to the ground;
 the east wind dried it up;
 its fruit was stripped off,
 its strong stem was withered;
 the fire consumed it.
- 13 Now it is transplanted into the wilderness,
 into a dry and thirsty land.
- 14 And fire has gone out from its stem,
 has consumed its branches and fruit,
 so that there remains in it no strong stem,
 no scepter for ruling.

This is a lamentation, and it is used as a lamentation.

[Ezekiel 20]
Israel's pattern of rebellion

1 In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, certain elders of Israel came to consult the LORD, and sat down before me. 2 And the word of the LORD came to me: 3 Mortal, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: Why are you coming? To consult me? As I live, says the Lord GOD, I will not be consulted by you. 4 Will you judge them, mortal, will you judge them? Then let them know the abominations of their ancestors, 5 and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day when I chose Israel, I swore to the offspring of the house of Jacob — making myself known to them in the land of Egypt — I swore to them, saying, I am the LORD your God. 6 On that day I swore to them that I would bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands. 7 And I said to them, Cast away the detestable things your eyes feast on, every one of you, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt; I am the LORD your God. 8 But they rebelled against me and would not listen to me; not one of them cast away the detestable things their eyes feasted on, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt.

Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. 9 But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they lived, in whose sight I made myself known to them in bringing them out of the land of Egypt. 10 So I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. 11 I gave them my statutes and showed them my ordinances, by whose observance everyone shall live. 12 Moreover I gave them my sabbaths, as a sign between me and them, so that they might know that I the LORD sanctify them. 13 But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness; they did not observe my statutes but rejected my ordinances, by whose observance everyone shall live; and my sabbaths they greatly profaned.

Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to make an end of them. 14 But I acted for the sake of my name, so that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. 15 Moreover I swore to them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land that I had given them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands, 16 because they rejected my ordinances and did not observe my statutes, and profaned my sabbaths; for their heart went after their idols. 17 Nevertheless my eye spared them, and I did not destroy them or make an end of them in the wilderness.

18 I said to their children in the wilderness, Do not follow the statutes of your parents, nor observe their ordinances, nor defile yourselves with their idols. 19 I the LORD am your God; follow my statutes, and be careful to observe my ordinances, 20 and hallow my sabbaths that they may be a sign between me and you, so that you may know that I the LORD am your God. 21 But the children rebelled against me; they did not follow my statutes, and were not careful to observe my ordinances, by whose observance everyone shall live; they profaned my sabbaths.

Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the wilderness. 22 But I withheld my hand, and acted for the sake of my name, so that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. 23

Moreover I swore to them in the wilderness that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the countries, 24 because they had not executed my ordinances, but had rejected my statutes and profaned my sabbaths, and their eyes were set on their ancestors' idols. 25 Moreover I gave them statutes that were not good and ordinances by which they could not live. 26 I defiled them through their very gifts, in their offering up all their firstborn, in order that I might horrify them, so that they might know that I am the LORD.

27 Therefore, mortal, speak to the house of Israel and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: In this again your ancestors blasphemed me, by dealing treacherously with me. 28 For when I had brought them into the land that I swore to give them, then wherever they saw any high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices and presented the provocation of their offering; there they sent up their pleasing odors, and there they poured out their drink offerings. 29 (I said to them, What is the high place to which you go? So it is called Bamah to this day.) 30 Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Will you defile yourselves after the manner of your ancestors and go astray after their detestable things? 31 When you offer your gifts and make your children pass through the fire, you defile yourselves with all your idols to this day. And shall I be consulted by you, O house of Israel? As I live, says the Lord GOD, I will not be consulted by you.

32 What is in your mind shall never happen — the thought, "Let us be like the nations, like the tribes of the countries, and worship wood and stone."

33 As I live, says the Lord GOD, surely with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out, I will be king over you. 34 I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out; 35 and I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. 36 As I entered into judgment with your ancestors in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, says the Lord GOD. 37 I will make you pass under the staff, and will bring you within the bond of the covenant. 38 I will purge out the rebels among you, and those who transgress against me; I will bring them out of the land where they reside as aliens, but they shall not enter the land of Israel. Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

Final reconciliation

39 As for you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: Go serve your idols, everyone of you now and hereafter, if you will not listen to me; but my holy name you shall no more profane with your gifts and your idols.

40 For on my holy mountain, the mountain height of Israel, says the Lord GOD, there all the house of Israel, all of them, shall serve me in the land; there I will accept them, and there I will require your contributions and the choicest of your gifts, with all your sacred things. 41 As a pleasing odor I will accept you, when I bring you out from the peoples, and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered; and I will manifest my holiness among you in the sight of the nations. 42 You shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the country that I swore to give to your ancestors. 43 There you shall remember your ways and all the deeds by which you have polluted yourselves; and you shall loathe yourselves for all the evils that you have committed. 44 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I deal with you for my name's sake, not according to your evil ways, or corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, says the Lord GOD.

Sword prophecies; the sword against all flesh

45 The word of the LORD came to me: 46 Mortal, set your face toward the south, preach against the south, and prophesy against the forest land in the Negeb; 47 say to the forest of the Negeb, Hear the word of the LORD: Thus says the Lord GOD, I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour every green tree in you and every dry tree; the blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. 48 All flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it; it shall not be quenched. 49 Then I said, "Ah Lord GOD! they are saying of me, 'Is he not a maker of allegories?'"

[Ezekiel 21]
Song of the sword

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, set your face toward Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries; prophesy against the land of Israel 3 and say to the land of Israel, Thus says the LORD: I am coming against you, and will draw my sword out of its sheath, and will cut off from you both righteous and wicked. 4 Because I will cut off from you both righteous and wicked, therefore my sword shall go out of its sheath against all flesh from south to north; 5 and all flesh shall know that I the LORD have drawn my sword out of its sheath; it shall not be sheathed again. 6 Moan therefore, mortal; moan with breaking heart and bitter grief before their eyes. 7 And when they say to you, "Why do you moan?" you shall say, "Because of the news that has come. Every heart will melt and all hands will be feeble, every spirit will faint and all knees will turn to water. See, it comes and it will be fulfilled," says the Lord GOD.

8 And the word of the LORD came to me: 9 Mortal, prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord; Say:

A sword, a sword is sharpened,
 it is also polished;

10 it is sharpened for slaughter,
 honed to flash like lightning!

How can we make merry?
 You have despised the rod,
 and all discipline.

11 The sword is given to be polished,
 to be grasped in the hand;
 it is sharpened, the sword is polished,
 to be placed in the slayer's hand.

- 12 Cry and wail, O mortal,
 for it is against my people;
 it is against all Israel's princes;
 they are thrown to the sword,
 together with my people.
 Ah! Strike the thigh!
- 13 For consider: What! If you despise the rod, will it not happen? says the Lord GOD.
- 14 And you, mortal, prophesy;
 strike hand to hand.
 Let the sword fall twice, thrice;
 it is a sword for killing.
 A sword for great slaughter —
 it surrounds them;
- 15 therefore hearts melt
 and many stumble.
 At all their gates I have set
 the point of the sword.
 Ah! It is made for flashing,
 it is polished for slaughter.
- 16 Attack to the right!
 Engage to the left!
 — wherever your edge is directed.
- 17 I too will strike hand to hand,
 I will satisfy my fury;
 I the LORD have spoken.

The sword of Nebuchadrezzar

18 The word of the LORD came to me: 19 Mortal, mark out two roads for the sword of the king of Babylon to come; both of them shall issue from the same land. And make a signpost, make it for a fork in the road leading to a city; 20 mark out the road for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites or to Judah and to Jerusalem the fortified.
 21 For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the way, at the fork in the two roads, to use divination; he shakes the arrows, he consults the teraphim, he inspects the liver. 22 Into his right hand comes the lot for Jerusalem, to set battering rams, to call out for slaughter, for raising the battle cry, to set battering rams against the gates, to cast up ramps, to build siege towers. 23 But to them it will seem like a false divination; they have sworn solemn oaths; but he brings their guilt to remembrance, bringing about their capture.

24 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have brought your guilt to remembrance, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your deeds your sins appear — because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in hand.

25 As for you, vile, wicked prince of Israel,
 you whose day has come,
 the time of final punishment,

26 thus says the Lord GOD:
 Remove the turban, take off the crown;
 things shall not remain as they are.
 Exalt that which is low,
 abase that which is high.

27 A ruin, a ruin, a ruin —
 I will make it!
 (Such has never occurred.)
 Until he comes whose right it is;
 to him I will give it.

28 As for you, mortal, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the Ammonites, and concerning their reproach; say:

 A sword, a sword! Drawn for slaughter, polished to consume, to flash like lightning.

29 Offering false visions for you,
 divining lies for you,
 they place you over the necks
 of the vile, wicked ones —
 those whose day has come,
 the time of final punishment.

30 Return it to its sheath!
 In the place where you were created,
 in the land of your origin,
 I will judge you.

31 I will pour out my indignation upon you,
with the fire of my wrath
I will blow upon you.

I will deliver you into brutish hands,
those skillful to destroy.

32 You shall be fuel for the fire,
your blood shall enter the earth;
you shall be remembered no more,
for I the LORD have spoken.

[Ezekiel 22]

Prophecies of judgment

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 You, mortal, will you judge, will you judge the bloody city? Then declare to it all its abominable deeds. 3 You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: A city! Shedding blood within itself; its time has come; making its idols, defiling itself. 4 You have become guilty by the blood that you have shed, and defiled by the idols that you have made; you have brought your day near, the appointed time of your years has come. Therefore I have made you a disgrace before the nations, and a mockery to all the countries. 5 Those who are near and those who are far from you will mock you, you infamous one, full of tumult.

6 The princes of Israel in you, everyone according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. 7 Father and mother are treated with contempt in you; the alien residing within you suffers extortion; the orphan and the widow are wronged in you. 8 You have despised my holy things, and profaned my sabbaths. 9 In you are those who slander to shed blood, those in you who eat upon the mountains, who commit lewdness in your midst. 10 In you they uncover their fathers' nakedness; in you they violate women in their menstrual periods. 11 One commits abomination with his neighbor's wife; another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; another in you defiles his sister, his father's daughter. 12 In you, they take bribes to shed blood; you take both advance interest and accrued interest, and make gain of your neighbors by extortion; and you have forgotten me, says the Lord GOD.

13 See, I strike my hands together at the dishonest gain you have made, and at the blood that has been shed within you. 14 Can your courage endure, or can your hands remain strong in the days when I shall deal with you? I the LORD have spoken, and I will do it. 15 I will scatter you among the nations and disperse you through the countries, and I will purge your filthiness out of you. 16 And I shall be profaned through you in the sight of the nations; and you shall know that I am the LORD.

Israel is dross

17 The word of the LORD came to me: 18 Mortal, the house of Israel has become dross to me; all of them, silver, bronze, tin, iron, and lead. In the smelter they have become dross. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have all become dross, I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. 20 As one gathers silver, bronze, iron, lead, and tin into a smelter, to blow the fire upon them in order to melt them; so I will gather you in my anger and in my wrath, and I will put you in and melt you. 21 I will gather you and blow upon you with the fire of my wrath, and you shall be melted within it. 22 As silver is melted in a smelter, so you shall be melted in it; and you shall know that I the LORD have poured out my wrath upon you.

All classes are corrupt

23 The word of the LORD came to me: 24 Mortal, say to it: You are a land that is not cleansed, not rained upon in the day of indignation. 25 Its princes within it are like a roaring lion tearing the prey; they have devoured human lives; they have taken treasure and precious things; they have made many widows within it. 26 Its priests have done violence to my teaching and have profaned my holy things; they have made no distinction between the holy and the common, neither have they taught the difference between the unclean and the clean, and they have disregarded my sabbaths, so that I am profaned among them. 27 Its officials within it are like wolves tearing the prey, shedding blood, destroying lives to get dishonest gain. 28 Its prophets have smeared whitewash on their behalf, seeing false visions and divining lies for them, saying, "Thus says the Lord GOD," when the LORD has not spoken. 29 The people of the land have practiced extortion and committed robbery; they have oppressed the poor and needy, and have extorted from the alien without redress. 30 And I sought for anyone among them who would repair the wall and stand in the breach before me on behalf of the land, so that I would not destroy it; but I found no one. 31 Therefore I have poured out my indignation upon them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath; I have returned their conduct upon their heads, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 23]

The allegory of the sisters, Oholah and Oholibah

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, there were two women, the daughters of one mother; 3 they played the whore in Egypt; they played the whore in their youth; their breasts were caressed there, and their virgin bosoms were fondled. 4 Oholah was the name of the elder and Oholibah the name of her sister. They became mine, and they bore sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah is Samaria, and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

5 Oholah played the whore while she was mine; she lusted after her lovers the Assyrians, warriors 6 clothed in blue, governors and commanders, all of them handsome young men, mounted horsemen. 7 She bestowed her favors upon them, the choicest men of Assyria all of them; and she defiled herself with all the idols of everyone for whom she lusted. 8 She did not give up her whorings that she had practiced since Egypt; for in her youth men had lain with her and fondled her virgin bosom and poured out their lust upon her. 9 Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the Assyrians, for whom she lusted. 10 These uncovered her nakedness; they seized her sons and her daughters; and they killed her with the sword. Judgment was executed upon her, and she became a byword among women.

11 Her sister Oholibah saw this, yet she was more corrupt than she in her lusting and in her whorings, which were worse than those of her sister. 12 She lusted after the Assyrians, governors and commanders, warriors clothed in full armor, mounted horsemen, all of them handsome young men. 13 And I saw that she was defiled; they both took the same way. 14 But she carried her whorings further; she saw male figures carved on the wall, images of the Chaldeans portrayed in vermilion, 15 with belts around their waists, with flowing turbans on their heads, all of them looking like officers — a picture of Babylonians whose native land was Chaldea. 16 When she saw them she lusted after them, and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. 17 And the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their lust; and after she defiled herself with them, she turned from them in disgust. 18 When she carried on her whorings so openly and flaunted her nakedness, I turned in disgust from her, as I had turned from her sister. 19 Yet she increased her whorings, remembering the days of her youth, when she played the whore in the land of Egypt 20 and lusted after her paramours there, whose members were like those of donkeys, and whose emission was like that of stallions. 21 Thus you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians fondled your bosom and caressed your young breasts.

22 Therefore, O Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: I will rouse against you your lovers from whom you turned in disgust, and I will bring them against you from every side: 23 the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod and Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, handsome young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and warriors, all of them riding on horses. 24 They shall come against you from the north with chariots and wagons and a host of peoples; they shall set themselves against you on every side with buckler, shield, and helmet, and I will commit the judgment to them, and they shall judge you according to their ordinances. 25 I will direct my indignation against you, in order that they may deal with you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and your survivors shall fall by the sword. They shall seize your sons and your daughters, and your survivors shall be devoured by fire. 26 They shall also strip you of your clothes and take away your fine jewels. 27 So I will put an end to your lewdness and your whoring brought from the land of Egypt; you shall not long for them, or remember Egypt any more. 28 For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, into the hands of those from whom you turned in disgust; 29 and they shall deal with you in hatred, and take away all the fruit of your labor, and leave you naked and bare, and the nakedness of your whorings shall be exposed. Your lewdness and your whorings 30 have brought this upon you, because you played the whore with the nations, and polluted yourself with their idols. 31 You have gone the way of your sister; therefore I will give her cup into your hand. 32 Thus says the Lord GOD:

You shall drink your sister's cup,
 deep and wide;
 you shall be scorned and derided,
 it holds so much.

33 You shall be filled with drunkenness and sorrow.

A cup of horror and desolation is the cup of your sister Samaria;
 34 you shall drink it and drain it out,
 and gnaw its sherds,
 and tear out your breasts;

for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD. 35 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have forgotten me and cast me behind your back, therefore bear the consequences of your lewdness and whorings.

Subordinate oracle

36 The LORD said to me: Mortal, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then declare to them their abominable deeds. 37 For they have committed adultery, and blood is on their hands; with their idols they have committed adultery; and they have even offered up to them for food the children whom they had borne to me. 38 Moreover this they have done to me: they have defiled my sanctuary on the same day and profaned my sabbaths. 39 For when they had slaughtered their children for their idols, on the same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it. This is what they did in my house.

40 They even sent for men to come from far away, to whom a messenger was sent, and they came. For them you bathed yourself, painted your eyes, and decked yourself with ornaments; 41 you sat on a stately couch, with a table spread before it on which you had placed my incense and my oil. 42 The sound of a raucous multitude was around her, with many of the rabble brought in drunken from the wilderness; and they put bracelets on the arms of the women, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 Then I said, Ah, she is worn out with adulteries, but they carry on their sexual acts with her. 44 For they have gone in to her, as one goes in to a whore. Thus they went in to Oholah and to Oholibah, wanton women. 45 But righteous judges shall declare them guilty of adultery and of bloodshed; because they are adulteresses and blood is on their hands.

46 For thus says the Lord GOD: Bring up an assembly against them, and make them an object of terror and of plunder. 47 The assembly shall stone them and with their swords they shall cut them down; they shall kill their sons and their daughters, and burn up their houses. 48 Thus will I put an end to lewdness in the land, so that all women may take warning and not commit lewdness as you have done. 49 They shall repay you for your lewdness, and you shall bear the penalty for your sinful idolatry; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 24]

The allegory of the pot

1 In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, write down the name of this day, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. 3 And utter an allegory to the rebellious house and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD:

Set on the pot, set it on,
pour in water also;

4 put in it the pieces,
all the good pieces, the thigh and the shoulder;
fill it with choice bones.

5 Take the choicest one of the flock,
pile the logs under it;
boil its pieces,
seethe also its bones in it.

- 6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
Woe to the bloody city,
the pot whose rust is in it,
whose rust has not gone out of it!
Empty it piece by piece,
making no choice at all.
- 7 For the blood she shed is inside it;
she placed it on a bare rock;
she did not pour it out on the ground,
to cover it with earth.
- 8 To rouse my wrath, to take vengeance,
I have placed the blood she shed
on a bare rock,
so that it may not be covered.
- 9 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
Woe to the bloody city!
I will even make the pile great.
- 10 Heap up the logs, kindle the fire;
boil the meat well, mix in the spices,
let the bones be burned.
- 11 Stand it empty upon the coals,
so that it may become hot, its copper glow,
its filth melt in it, its rust be consumed.
- 12 In vain I have wearied myself;
its thick rust does not depart.
To the fire with its rust!
- 13 Yet, when I cleansed you in your filthy lewdness,
you did not become clean from your filth;
you shall not again be cleansed
until I have satisfied my fury upon you.
- 14 I the LORD have spoken; the time is coming, I will act. I will not refrain, I will not spare, I will not relent. According to your ways and your doings I will judge you, says the Lord GOD.

The sign of the death of Ezekiel's wife

15 The word of the LORD came to me: 16 Mortal, with one blow I am about to take away from you the delight of your eyes; yet you shall not mourn or weep, nor shall your tears run down. 17 Sigh, but not aloud; make no mourning for the dead. Bind on your turban, and put your sandals on your feet; do not cover your upper lip or eat the bread of mourners. 18 So I spoke to the people in the morning, and at evening my wife died. And on the next morning I did as I was commanded.

19 Then the people said to me, "Will you not tell us what these things mean for us, that you are acting this way?" 20 Then I said to them: The word of the LORD came to me: 21 Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: I will profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and your heart's desire; and your sons and your daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. 22 And you shall do as I have done; you shall not cover your upper lip or eat the bread of mourners. 23 Your turbans shall be on your heads and your sandals on your feet; you shall not mourn or weep, but you shall pine away in your iniquities and groan to one another. 24 Thus Ezekiel shall be a sign to you; you shall do just as he has done. When this comes, then you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

The release from speechlessness predicted

25 And you, mortal, on the day when I take from them their stronghold, their joy and glory, the delight of their eyes and their heart's affection, and also their sons and their daughters, 26 on that day, one who has escaped will come to you to report to you the news. 27 On that day your mouth shall be opened to the one who has escaped, and you shall speak and no longer be silent. So you shall be a sign to them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 25]Part III: Oracles against the nations; oracles against Ammon, Moab, Edom, and Philistia

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, set your face toward the Ammonites and prophesy against them. 3 Say to the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Because you said, "Aha!" over my sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the land of Israel when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah when it went into exile; 4 therefore I am handing you over to the people of the east for a possession. They shall set their encampments among you and pitch their tents in your midst; they shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. 5 I will make Rabbah a pasture for camels and Ammon a fold for flocks. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. 6 For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have clapped your hands and stamped your feet and rejoiced with all the malice within you against the land of Israel, 7 therefore I have stretched out my hand against you, and will hand you over as plunder to the nations. I will cut you off from the peoples and will make you perish out of the countries; I will destroy you. Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

8 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Moab said, The house of Judah is like all the other nations, 9 therefore I will lay open the flank of Moab from the towns on its frontier, the glory of the country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim. 10 I will give it along with Ammon to the people of the east as a possession. Thus Ammon shall be remembered no more among the nations, 11 and I will execute judgments upon Moab. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

12 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Edom acted revengefully against the house of Judah and has grievously offended in taking vengeance upon them, 13 therefore thus says the Lord GOD, I will stretch out my hand against Edom, and cut off from it humans and animals, and I will make it desolate; from Teman even to Dedan they shall fall by the sword. 14 I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel; and they shall act in Edom according to my anger and according to my wrath; and they shall know my vengeance, says the Lord GOD.

15 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because with unending hostilities the Philistines acted in vengeance, and with malice of heart took revenge in destruction; 16 therefore thus says the Lord GOD, I will stretch out my hand against the Philistines, cut off the Cherethites, and destroy the rest of the seacoast. 17 I will execute great vengeance on them with wrathful punishments. Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I lay my vengeance on them.

[Ezekiel 26]

Oracles against Tyre; Tyre is to be destroyed by Nebuchadrezzar

1 In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, because Tyre said concerning Jerusalem,

"Aha, broken is the gateway of the peoples;
it has swung open to me;
I shall be replenished,
now that it is wasted,"

3 therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:

See, I am against you, O Tyre!
I will hurl many nations against you,
as the sea hurls its waves.

4 They shall destroy the walls of Tyre
and break down its towers.

I will scrape its soil from it and make it a bare rock.

5 It shall become, in the midst of the sea,
a place for spreading nets.

I have spoken, says the Lord GOD.

It shall become plunder for the nations,

6 and its daughter-towns in the country
shall be killed by the sword.

Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 For thus says the Lord GOD: I will bring against Tyre from the north King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon, king of kings, together with horses, chariots, cavalry, and a great and powerful army.

- 8 Your daughter-towns in the country
he shall put to the sword.
He shall set up a siege wall against you,
cast up a ramp against you,
and raise a roof of shields against you.
- 9 He shall direct the shock of his battering rams against your walls and break down your towers with his axes.
- 10 His horses shall be so many
that their dust shall cover you.
At the noise of cavalry, wheels, and chariots
your very walls shall shake,
when he enters your gates
like those entering a breached city.
- 11 With the hoofs of his horses
he shall trample all your streets.
He shall put your people to the sword,
and your strong pillars shall fall to the ground.
- 12 They will plunder your riches
and loot your merchandise;
they shall break down your walls
and destroy your fine houses.
Your stones and timber and soil
they shall cast into the water.
- 13 I will silence the music of your songs;
the sound of your lyres shall be heard no more.
- 14 I will make you a bare rock;
you shall be a place for spreading nets.
You shall never again be rebuilt,
for I the LORD have spoken,
says the Lord GOD.

15 Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: Shall not the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan, when slaughter goes on within you? 16 Then all the princes of the sea shall step down from their thrones; they shall remove their robes and strip off their embroidered garments. They shall clothe themselves with trembling, and shall sit on the ground; they shall tremble every moment, and be appalled at you. 17 And they shall raise a lamentation over you, and say to you:

How you have vanished from the seas,
 O city renowned,
 once mighty on the sea,
 you and your inhabitants,
 who imposed your terror
 on all the mainland!

18 Now the coastlands tremble
 on the day of your fall;
 the coastlands by the sea
 are dismayed at your passing.

19 For thus says the Lord GOD: When I make you a city laid waste, like cities that are not inhabited, when I bring up the deep over you, and the great waters cover you, 20 then I will thrust you down with those who descend into the Pit, to the people of long ago, and I will make you live in the world below, among primeval ruins, with those who go down to the Pit, so that you will not be inhabited or have a place in the land of the living. 21 I will bring you to a dreadful end, and you shall be no more; though sought for, you will never be found again, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 27]

Dirge over the ship Tyre

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Now you, mortal, raise a lamentation over Tyre, 3 and say to Tyre, which sits at the entrance to the sea, merchant of the peoples on many coastlands, Thus says the Lord GOD:

O Tyre, you have said,
 "I am perfect in beauty."

4 Your borders are in the heart of the seas;
 your builders made perfect your beauty.

5 They made all your planks
 of fir trees from Senir;
 they took a cedar from Lebanon
 to make a mast for you.

- 6 From oaks of Bashan
they made your oars;
they made your deck of pines
from the coasts of Cyprus, inlaid with ivory.
- 7 Of fine embroidered linen from Egypt
was your sail,
serving as your ensign;
blue and purple from the coasts of Elishah
was your awning.
- 8 The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad
were your rowers;
skilled men of Zemer were within you,
they were your pilots.
- 9 The elders of Gebal and its artisans were within you,
caulking your seams;
all the ships of the sea with their mariners were within you,
to barter for your wares.
- 10 Paras and Lud and Put were in your army,
your mighty warriors;
they hung shield and helmet in you;
they gave you splendor.
- 11 Men of Arvad and Helech
were on your walls all around;
men of Gamad were at your towers.
They hung their quivers all around your walls;
they made perfect your beauty.

12 Tarshish did business with you out of the abundance of your great wealth; silver, iron, tin, and lead they exchanged for your wares. 13 Javan, Tubal, and Meshech traded with you; they exchanged human beings and vessels of bronze for your merchandise. 14 Beth-togarmah exchanged for your wares horses, war horses, and mules. 15 The Rhodians traded with you; many coastlands were your own special markets; they brought you in payment ivory tusks and ebony. 16 Edom did business with you because of your abundant goods; they exchanged for your wares turquoise, purple, embroidered work, fine linen, coral, and rubies. 17 Judah and the land of Israel traded with you; they exchanged for your merchandise wheat from Minnith, millet, honey, oil, and balm. 18 Damascus traded with you for your abundant goods — because of your great wealth of every kind — wine of Helbon, and white wool. 19 Vedan and Javan from Uzal entered into trade for your wares; wrought iron, cassia, and sweet cane were bartered for your merchandise. 20 Dedan traded with you in saddlecloths for riding. 21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar were your favored dealers in lambs, rams, and goats; in these they did business with you. 22 The merchants of Sheba and Raamah traded with you; they exchanged for your wares the best of all kinds of spices, and all precious stones, and gold. 23 Haran, Canneh, Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad traded with you. 24 These traded with you in choice garments, in clothes of blue and embroidered work, and in carpets of colored material, bound with cords and made secure; in these they traded with you. 25 The ships of Tarshish traveled for you in your trade.

So you were filled and heavily laden
in the heart of the seas.

26 Your rowers have brought you into the high seas.

The east wind has wrecked you
in the heart of the seas.

27 Your riches, your wares, your merchandise,
your mariners and your pilots,
your caulkers, your dealers in merchandise,
and all your warriors within you,
with all the company
that is with you,
sink into the heart of the seas
on the day of your ruin.

28 At the sound of the cry of your pilots
the countryside shakes,

29 and down from their ships
come all that handle the oar.

The mariners and all the pilots of the sea stand on the shore

- 30 and wail aloud over you,
and cry bitterly.
They throw dust on their heads
and wallow in ashes;
- 31 they make themselves bald for you,
and put on sackcloth,
and they weep over you in bitterness of soul,
with bitter mourning.
- 32 In their wailing they raise a lamentation for you,
and lament over you:
"Who was ever destroyed like Tyre
in the midst of the sea?
- 33 When your wares came from the seas,
you satisfied many peoples;
with your abundant wealth and merchandise
you enriched the kings of the earth.
- 34 Now you are wrecked by the seas,
in the depths of the waters;
your merchandise and all your crew
have sunk with you.
- 35 All the inhabitants of the coastlands
are appalled at you;
and their kings are horribly afraid,
their faces are convulsed.
- 36 The merchants among the peoples hiss at you;
you have come to a dreadful end
and shall be no more forever."

[Ezekiel 28]Oracle against the leader of Tyre

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, say to the prince of Tyre,
Thus says the Lord GOD:

Because your heart is proud and you have said, "I am a god;
I sit in the seat of the gods,
in the heart of the seas,"
yet you are but a mortal, and no god,
though you compare your mind
with the mind of a god.

3 You are indeed wiser than Daniel;
no secret is hidden from you;

4 by your wisdom and your understanding
you have amassed wealth for yourself, and have gathered gold and silver
into your treasuries.

5 By your great wisdom in trade
you have increased your wealth,
and your heart has become proud in your wealth.

6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

Because you compare your mind
with the mind of a god,

7 therefore, I will bring strangers against you,
the most terrible of the nations;
they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom and defile your splendor.

8 They shall thrust you down to the Pit,
and you shall die a violent death
in the heart of the seas.

9 Will you still say, "I am a god,"
in the presence of those who kill you,
though you are but a mortal, and no god,
in the hands of those who wound you?

10 You shall die the death of the uncircumcised
by the hand of foreigners;
for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD.

A dirge over the king of Tyre

11 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me: 12 Mortal, raise a lamentation over the king of Tyre, and say to him, Thus says the Lord GOD:

You were the signet of perfection,
full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

13 You were in Eden, the garden of God;
every precious stone was your covering,
carnelian, chrysolite, and moonstone,
beryl, onyx, and jasper,
sapphire, turquoise, and emerald;
and worked in gold were your settings
and your engravings.

On the day that you were created
they were prepared.

14 With an anointed cherub as guardian I placed you;
you were on the holy mountain of God;
you walked among the stones of fire.

15 You were blameless in your ways
from the day that you were created,
until iniquity was found in you.

16 In the abundance of your trade
you were filled with violence, and you sinned;
so I cast you as a profane thing from the mountain of God,
and the guardian cherub drove you out
from among the stones of fire.

17 Your heart was proud because of your beauty;
you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor.

I cast you to the ground;
I exposed you before kings,
to feast their eyes on you.

- 18 By the multitude of your iniquities,
 in the unrighteousness of your trade,
 you profaned your sanctuaries.
 So I brought out fire from within you;
 it consumed you,
 and I turned you to ashes on the earth
 in the sight of all who saw you.
- 19 All who know you among the peoples
 are appalled at you;
 you have come to a dreadful end
 and shall be no more forever.

Oracle against Sidon

- 20 The word of the LORD came to me: 21 Mortal, set your face toward Sidon, and prophesy against it, 22 and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:
 I am against you, O Sidon,
 and I will gain glory in your midst.
 They shall know that I am the LORD
 when I execute judgments in it,
 and manifest my holiness in it;
- 23 for I will send pestilence into it,
 and bloodshed into its streets;
 and the dead shall fall in its midst,
 by the sword that is against it on every side.
 And they shall know that I am the LORD.
- 24 The house of Israel shall no longer find a pricking brier or a piercing thorn among all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. And they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.
- 25 Thus says the Lord GOD: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and manifest my holiness in them in the sight of the nations, then they shall settle on their own soil that I gave to my servant Jacob. 26 They shall live in safety in it, and shall build houses and plant vineyards. They shall live in safety, when I execute judgments upon all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. And they shall know that I am the LORD their God.

[Ezekiel 29]Prophecies against Egypt; against Pharaoh (7 Jan 587 BCE)

1 In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt; 3 speak, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:

I am against you,
 Pharaoh king of Egypt,
 the great dragon sprawling
 in the midst of its channels, saying, "My Nile is my own;
 I made it for myself."

4 I will put hooks in your jaws,
 and make the fish of your channels stick to your scales.

I will draw you up from your channels,
 with all the fish of your channels
 sticking to your scales.

5 I will fling you into the wilderness,
 you and all the fish of your channels;
 you shall fall in the open field,
 and not be gathered and buried.

To the animals of the earth and to the birds of the air
 I have given you as food.

6 Then all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the LORD

because you were a staff of reed
 to the house of Israel;

7 when they grasped you with the hand, you broke,
 and tore all their shoulders;
 and when they leaned on you, you broke,
 and made all their legs unsteady.

8 Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: I will bring a sword upon you, and will cut off from you human being and animal; 9 and the land of Egypt shall be a desolation and a waste. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

Because you said, "The Nile is mine, and I made it," 10 therefore, I am against you, and against your channels, and I will make the land of Egypt an utter waste and desolation, from Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Ethiopia. 11 No human foot shall pass through it, and no animal foot shall pass through it; it shall be uninhabited forty years. 12 I will make the land of Egypt a desolation among desolated countries; and her cities shall be a desolation forty years among cities that are laid waste. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countries.

13 Further, thus says the Lord GOD: At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered; 14 and I will restore the fortunes of Egypt, and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their origin; and there they shall be a lowly kingdom. 15 It shall be the most lowly of the kingdoms, and never again exalt itself above the nations; and I will make them so small that they will never again rule over the nations. 16 The Egyptians shall never again be the reliance of the house of Israel; they will recall their iniquity, when they turned to them for aid. Then they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

Egypt as "wages" for Nebuchadrezzar, instead of Tyre

17 In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 18 Mortal, King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon made his army labor hard against Tyre; every head was made bald and every shoulder was rubbed bare; yet neither he nor his army got anything from Tyre to pay for the labor that he had expended against it. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I will give the land of Egypt to King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon; and he shall carry off its wealth and despoil it and plunder it; and it shall be the wages for his army. 20 I have given him the land of Egypt as his payment for which he labored, because they worked for me, says the Lord GOD.

21 On that day I will cause a horn to sprout up for the house of Israel, and I will open your lips among them. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 30]
The doom of Egypt

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:

Wail, "Alas for the day!"

3 For a day is near,
 the day of the LORD is near;
 it will be a day of clouds,
 a time of doom for the nations.

4 A sword shall come upon Egypt,
 and anguish shall be in Ethiopia,
 when the slain fall in Egypt,
 and its wealth is carried away,
 and its foundations are torn down.

5 Ethiopia, and Put, and Lud, and all Arabia, and Libya, and the people of the allied land shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus says the LORD:

Those who support Egypt shall fall,
 and its proud might shall come down;
 from Migdol to Syene
 they shall fall within it by the sword,
 says the Lord GOD.

7 They shall be desolated among other desolated countries,
 and their cities shall lie among cities laid waste.

8 Then they shall know that I am the LORD,
 when I have set fire to Egypt,
 and all who help it are broken.

9 On that day, messengers shall go out from me in ships to terrify the unsuspecting Ethiopians; and anguish shall come upon them on the day of Egypt's doom; for it is coming!

10 Thus says the Lord GOD:

I will put an end to the hordes of Egypt,
 by the hand of King Nebuchadrezzar of Babylon.

- 11 He and his people with him, the most terrible of the nations,
shall be brought in to destroy the land;
and they shall draw their swords against Egypt,
and fill the land with the slain.
- 12 I will dry up the channels,
and will sell the land into the hand of evildoers;
I will bring desolation upon the land and everything in it
by the hand of foreigners;
I the LORD have spoken.
- 13 Thus says the Lord GOD:
I will destroy the idols
and put an end to the images in Memphis;
there shall no longer be a prince in the land of Egypt;
so I will put fear in the land of Egypt.
- 14 I will make Pathros a desolation,
and will set fire to Zoan,
and will execute acts of judgment on Thebes.
- 15 I will pour my wrath upon Pelusium,
the stronghold of Egypt,
and cut off the hordes of Thebes.
- 16 I will set fire to Egypt;
Pelusium shall be in great agony;
Thebes shall be breached,
and Memphis face adversaries by day.
- 17 The young men of On and of Pi-beseth shall fall by the sword;
and the cities themselves shall go into captivity.
- 18 At Tehaphnehes the day shall be dark,
when I break there the dominion of Egypt,
and its proud might shall come to an end;
the city shall be covered by a cloud,
and its daughter-towns shall go into captivity.
- 19 Thus I will execute acts of judgment on Egypt.
Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

Pharaoh disarmed

20 In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 21 Mortal, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt; it has not been bound up for healing or wrapped with a bandage, so that it may become strong to wield the sword. 22 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will break his arms, both the strong arm and the one that was broken; and I will make the sword fall from his hand. 23 I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them throughout the lands. 24 I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my sword in his hand; but I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he will groan before him with the groans of one mortally wounded. 25 I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall. And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon. He shall stretch it out against the land of Egypt, 26 and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 31]

The comparison between Assyria and Egypt

1 In the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his hordes:

Whom are you like in your greatness?

3 Consider Assyria, a cedar of Lebanon, with fair branches and forest shade,
and of great height,
its top among the clouds.

4 The waters nourished it,
the deep made it grow tall,
making its rivers flow
around the place it was planted, sending forth its streams
to all the trees of the field.

- 5 So it towered high above all the trees of the field;
its boughs grew large
 and its branches long,
 from abundant water in its shoots.
- 6 All the birds of the air
 made their nests in its boughs;
under its branches all the animals of the field
 gave birth to their young;
and in its shade
 all great nations lived.
- 7 It was beautiful in its greatness,
 in the length of its branches;
for its roots went down
 to abundant water.
- 8 The cedars in the garden of God could not rival it,
 nor the fir trees equal its boughs;
the plane trees were as nothing
 compared with its branches;
no tree in the garden of God
 was like it in beauty.
- 9 I made it beautiful
 with its mass of branches,
the envy of all the trees of Eden
 that were in the garden of God.

10 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because it towered high and set its top among the clouds, and its heart was proud of its height, 11 I gave it into the hand of the prince of the nations; he has dealt with it as its wickedness deserves. I have cast it out. 12 Foreigners from the most terrible of the nations have cut it down and left it. On the mountains and in all the valleys its branches have fallen, and its boughs lie broken in all the watercourses of the land; and all the peoples of the earth went away from its shade and left it.

- 13 On its fallen trunk settle
 all the birds of the air,
and among its boughs lodge
 all the wild animals.

14 All this is in order that no trees by the waters may grow to lofty height or set their tops among the clouds, and that no trees that drink water may reach up to them in height.

For all of them are handed over to death,
to the world below;
along with all mortals,
with those who go down to the Pit.

15 Thus says the Lord God: On the day it went down to Sheol I closed the deep over it and covered it; I restrained its rivers, and its mighty waters were checked. I clothed Lebanon in gloom for it, and all the trees of the field fainted because of it. 16 I made the nations quake at the sound of its fall, when I cast it down to Sheol with those who go down to the Pit; and all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that were well watered, were consoled in the world below. 17 They also went down to Sheol with it, to those killed by the sword, along with its allies, those who lived in its shade among the nations.

18 Which among the trees of Eden was like you in glory and in greatness? Now you shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the world below; you shall lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are killed by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his horde, says the Lord God.

[Ezekiel 32]

Dirge over Pharaoh

1 In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, raise a lamentation over Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say to him:

You consider yourself a lion among the nations,
but you are like a dragon in the seas;
you thrash about in your streams,
trouble the water with your feet,
and foul your streams.

- 3 Thus says the Lord GOD:
In an assembly of many peoples
I will throw my net over you;
and I will haul you up in my dragnet.
- 4 I will throw you on the ground,
on the open field I will fling you,
and will cause all the birds of the air to settle on you,
and I will let the wild animals of the whole earth gorge themselves with you.
- 5 I will strew your flesh on the mountains,
and fill the valleys with your carcass.
- 6 I will drench the land with your flowing blood
up to the mountains,
and the watercourses will be filled with you.
- 7 When I blot you out, I will cover the heavens,
and make their stars dark;
I will cover the sun with a cloud,
and the moon shall not give its light.
- 8 All the shining lights of the heavens
I will darken above you,
and put darkness on your land,
says the Lord GOD.
- 9 I will trouble the hearts of many peoples,
as I carry you captive among the nations,
into countries you have not known.
- 10 I will make many peoples appalled at you;
their kings shall shudder because of you.
When I brandish my sword before them,
they shall tremble every moment
for their lives, each one of them,
on the day of your downfall.
- 11 For thus says the Lord GOD:
The sword of the king of Babylon shall come against you.
- 12 I will cause your hordes to fall
by the swords of mighty ones,
all of them most terrible among the nations.
They shall bring to ruin the pride of Egypt,
and all its hordes shall perish.

- 13 I will destroy all its livestock
 from beside abundant waters;
 and no human foot shall trouble them any more,
 nor shall the hoofs of cattle trouble them.
- 14 Then I will make their waters clear, and cause their streams to run like oil, says the Lord GOD.
- 15 When I make the land of Egypt desolate
 and when the land is stripped of all that fills it,
 when I strike down all who live in it,
 then they shall know that I am the LORD.
- 16 This is a lamentation; it shall be chanted.
 The women of the nations shall chant it.
 Over Egypt and all its hordes they shall chant it,
 says the Lord GOD.

Egypt in the underworld

- 17 In the twelfth year, in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me:
- 18 Mortal, wail over the hordes of Egypt,
 and send them down,
 with Egypt and the daughters of majestic nations,
 to the world below,
 with those who go down to the Pit.
- 19 "Whom do you surpass in beauty?
 Go down! Be laid to rest with the uncircumcised!"
- 20 They shall fall among those who are killed by the sword. Egypt has been handed over to the sword; carry away both it and its hordes. 21 The mighty chiefs shall speak of them, with their helpers, out of the midst of Sheol: "They have come down, they lie still, the uncircumcised, killed by the sword."
- 22 Assyria is there, and all its company, their graves all around it, all of them killed, fallen by the sword. 23 Their graves are set in the uttermost parts of the Pit. Its company is all around its grave, all of them killed, fallen by the sword, who spread terror in the land of the living.

24 Elam is there, and all its hordes around its grave; all of them killed, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised into the world below, who spread terror in the land of the living. They bear their shame with those who go down to the Pit. 25 They have made Elam a bed among the slain with all its hordes, their graves all around it, all of them uncircumcised, killed by the sword; for terror of them was spread in the land of the living, and they bear their shame with those who go down to the Pit; they are placed among the slain.

26 Meshech and Tubal are there, and all their multitude, their graves all around them, all of them uncircumcised, killed by the sword; for they spread terror in the land of the living. 27 And they do not lie with the fallen warriors of long ago who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were laid under their heads, and whose shields are upon their bones; for the terror of the warriors was in the land of the living. 28 So you shall be broken and lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are killed by the sword.

29 Edom is there, its kings and all its princes, who for all their might are laid with those who are killed by the sword; they lie with the uncircumcised, with those who go down to the Pit.

30 The princes of the north are there, all of them, and all the Sidonians, who have gone down in shame with the slain, for all the terror that they caused by their might; they lie uncircumcised with those who are killed by the sword, and bear their shame with those who go down to the Pit.

31 When Pharaoh sees them, he will be consoled for all his hordes — Pharaoh and all his army, killed by the sword, says the Lord GOD. 32 For he spread terror in the land of the living; therefore he shall be laid to rest among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword — Pharaoh and all his multitude, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 33]Part IV: Prophecies of Israel's restoration; clarification of Ezekiel's role

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 O Mortal, speak to your people and say to them, If I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take one of their number as their sentinel; 3 and if the sentinel sees the sword coming upon the land and blows the trumpet and warns the people; 4 then if any who hear the sound of the trumpet do not take warning, and the sword comes and takes them away, their blood shall be upon their own heads. 5 They heard the sound of the trumpet and did not take warning; their blood shall be upon themselves. But if they had taken warning, they would have saved their lives. 6 But if the sentinel sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any of them, they are taken away in their iniquity, but their blood I will require at the sentinel's hand.

7 So you, mortal, I have made a sentinel for the house of Israel; whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. 8 If I say to the wicked, "O wicked ones, you shall surely die," and you do not speak to warn the wicked to turn from their ways, the wicked shall die in their iniquity, but their blood I will require at your hand. 9 But if you warn the wicked to turn from their ways, and they do not turn from their ways, the wicked shall die in their iniquity, but you will have saved your life.

10 Now you, mortal, say to the house of Israel, Thus you have said: "Our transgressions and our sins weigh upon us, and we waste away because of them; how then can we live?" 11 Say to them, As I live, says the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from their ways and live; turn back, turn back from your evil ways; for why will you die, O house of Israel? 12 And you, mortal, say to your people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not save them when they transgress; and as for the wickedness of the wicked, it shall not make them stumble when they turn from their wickedness; and the righteous shall not be able to live by their righteousness when they sin. 13 Though I say to the righteous that they shall surely live, yet if they trust in their righteousness and commit iniquity, none of their righteous deeds shall be remembered; but in the iniquity that they have committed they shall die. 14 Again, though I say to the wicked, "You shall surely die," yet if they turn from their sin and do what is lawful and right — 15 if the wicked restore the pledge, give back what they have taken by robbery, and walk in the statutes of life, committing no iniquity — they shall surely live, they shall not die. 16 None of the sins that they have committed shall be remembered against them; they have done what is lawful and right, they shall surely live.

17 Yet your people say, "The way of the Lord is not just," when it is their own way that is not just. 18 When the righteous turn from their righteousness, and commit iniquity, they shall die for it. 19 And when the wicked turn from their wickedness, and do what is lawful and right, they shall live by it. 20 Yet you say, "The way of the Lord is not just." O house of Israel, I will judge all of you according to your ways!

Release from speechlessness

21 In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, someone who had escaped from Jerusalem came to me and said, "The city has fallen." 22 Now the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the fugitive came; but he had opened my mouth by the time the fugitive came to me in the morning; so my mouth was opened, and I was no longer unable to speak.

Resistance in the homeland and in exile

23 The word of the LORD came to me: 24 Mortal, the inhabitants of these waste places in the land of Israel keep saying, "Abraham was only one man, yet he got possession of the land; but we are many; the land is surely given us to possess." 25 Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat flesh with the blood, and lift up your eyes to your idols, and shed blood; shall you then possess the land? 26 You depend on your swords, you commit abominations, and each of you defiles his neighbor's wife; shall you then possess the land? 27 Say this to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword; and those who are in the open field I will give to the wild animals to be devoured; and those who are in strongholds and in caves shall die by pestilence. 28 I will make the land a desolation and a waste, and its proud might shall come to an end; and the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that no one will pass through. 29 Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations that they have committed.

30 As for you, mortal, your people who talk together about you by the walls, and at the doors of the houses, say to one another, each to a neighbor, "Come and hear what the word is that comes from the LORD." 31 They come to you as people come, and they sit before you as my people, and they hear your words, but they will not obey them. For flattery is on their lips, but their heart is set on their gain. 32 To them you are like a singer of love songs, one who has a beautiful voice and plays well on an instrument; they hear what you say, but they will not do it. 33 When this comes — and come it will! — then they shall know that a prophet has been among them.

[Ezekiel 34]

The shepherds of Israel

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel: prophesy, and say to them — to the shepherds: Thus says the Lord GOD: Ah, you shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep? 3 You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, you slaughter the fatlings; but you do not feed the sheep. 4 You have not strengthened the weak, you have not healed the sick, you have not bound up the injured, you have not brought back the strayed, you have not sought the lost, but with force and harshness you have ruled them. 5 So they were scattered, because there was no shepherd; and scattered, they became food for all the wild animals. 6 My sheep were scattered, they wandered over all the mountains and on every high hill; my sheep were scattered over all the face of the earth, with no one to search or seek for them.

7 Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: 8 As I live, says the Lord GOD, because my sheep have become a prey, and my sheep have become food for all the wild animals, since there was no shepherd; and because my shepherds have not searched for my sheep, but the shepherds have fed themselves, and have not fed my sheep; 9 therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: 10 Thus says the Lord GOD, I am against the shepherds; and I will demand my sheep at their hand, and put a stop to their feeding the sheep; no longer shall the shepherds feed themselves. I will rescue my sheep from their mouths, so that they may not be food for them.

God is the good shepherd

11 For thus says the Lord GOD: I myself will search for my sheep, and will seek them out. 12 As shepherds seek out their flocks when they are among their scattered sheep, so I will seek out my sheep. I will rescue them from all the places to which they have been scattered on a day of clouds and thick darkness. 13 I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land; and I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, by the watercourses, and in all the inhabited parts of the land. 14 I will feed them with good pasture, and the mountain heights of Israel shall be their pasture; there they shall lie down in good grazing land, and they shall feed on rich pasture on the mountains of Israel. 15 I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I will make them lie down, says the Lord GOD. 16 I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, but the fat and the strong I will destroy. I will feed them with justice.

A new order for Israel

17 As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: I shall judge between sheep and sheep, between rams and goats: 18 Is it not enough for you to feed on the good pasture, but you must tread down with your feet the rest of your pasture? When you drink of clear water, must you foul the rest with your feet? 19 And must my sheep eat what you have trodden with your feet, and drink what you have fouled with your feet?

20 Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD to them: I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. 21 Because you pushed with flank and shoulder, and butted at all the weak animals with your horns until you scattered them far and wide, 22 I will save my flock, and they shall no longer be ravaged; and I will judge between sheep and sheep.

23 I will set up over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he shall feed them: he shall feed them and be their shepherd. 24 And I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David shall be prince among them; I, the LORD, have spoken.

25 I will make with them a covenant of peace and banish wild animals from the land, so that they may live in the wild and sleep in the woods securely. 26 I will make them and the region around my hill a blessing; and I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be showers of blessing. 27 The trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield its increase. They shall be secure on their soil; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I break the bars of their yoke, and save them from the hands of those who enslaved them. 28 They shall no more be plunder for the nations, nor shall the animals of the land devour them; they shall live in safety, and no one shall make them afraid. 29 I will provide for them a splendid vegetation so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer suffer the insults of the nations. 30 They shall know that I, the LORD their God, am with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, says the Lord GOD. 31 You are my sheep, the sheep of my pasture and I am your God, says the Lord GOD.

[Ezekiel 35]

Oracle on behalf of the mountains of Israel; oracles against Edom

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, set your face against Mount Seir, and prophesy against it, 3 and say to it, Thus says the Lord GOD:

I am against you, Mount Seir;
 I stretch out my hand against you to make you a desolation and a waste.

4 I lay your towns in ruins;
 you shall become a desolation,
 and you shall know that I am the LORD.

5 Because you cherished an ancient enmity, and gave over the people of Israel to the power of the sword at the time of their calamity, at the time of their final punishment; 6 therefore, as I live, says the Lord GOD, I will prepare you for blood, and blood shall pursue you; since you did not hate bloodshed, bloodshed shall pursue you. 7 I will make Mount Seir a waste and a desolation; and I will cut off from it all who come and go. 8 I will fill its mountains with the slain; on your hills and in your valleys and in all your watercourses those killed with the sword shall fall. 9 I will make you a perpetual desolation, and your cities shall never be inhabited. Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

10 Because you said, "These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will take possession of them," — although the LORD was there — 11 therefore, as I live, says the Lord GOD, I will deal with you according to the anger and envy that you showed because of your hatred against them; and I will make myself known among you, when I judge you. 12 You shall know that I, the LORD, have heard all the abusive speech that you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, "They are laid desolate, they are given us to devour." 13 And you magnified yourselves against me with your mouth, and multiplied your words against me; I heard it. 14 Thus says the Lord GOD: As the whole earth rejoices, I will make you desolate. 15 As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so I will deal with you; you shall be desolate, Mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 36]

Deliverance as "punishment"

1 And you, mortal, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say: O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. 2 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the enemy said of you, "Aha!" and, "The ancient heights have become our possession," 3 therefore prophesy, and say: Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they made you desolate indeed, and crushed you from all sides, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, and you became an object of gossip and slander among the people; 4 therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, the watercourses and the valleys, the desolate wastes and the deserted towns, which have become a source of plunder and an object of derision to the rest of the nations all around; 5 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I am speaking in my hot jealousy against the rest of the nations, and against all Edom, who, with wholehearted joy and utter contempt, took my land as their possession, because of its pasture, to plunder it. 6 Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains and hills, to the watercourses and valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am speaking in my jealous wrath, because you have suffered the insults of the nations; 7 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I swear that the nations that are all around you shall themselves suffer insults.

8 But you, O mountains of Israel, shall shoot out your branches, and yield your fruit to my people Israel; for they shall soon come home. 9 See now, I am for you; I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown; 10 and I will multiply your population, the whole house of Israel, all of it; the towns shall be inhabited and the waste places rebuilt; 11 and I will multiply human beings and animals upon you. They shall increase and be fruitful; and I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former times, and will do more good to you than ever before. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. 12 I will lead people upon you — my people Israel — and they shall possess you, and you shall be their inheritance. No longer shall you bereave them of children.

No more disgrace

13 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they say to you, "You devour people, and you bereave your nation of children," 14 therefore you shall no longer devour people and no longer bereave your nation of children, says the Lord GOD; 15 and no longer will I let you hear the insults of the nations, no longer shall you bear the disgrace of the peoples; and no longer shall you cause your nation to stumble, says the Lord GOD.

God's honor as the cause of the restoration

16 The word of the LORD came to me: 17 Mortal, when the house of Israel lived on their own soil, they defiled it with their ways and their deeds; their conduct in my sight was like the uncleanness of a woman in her menstrual period. 18 So I poured out my wrath upon them for the blood that they had shed upon the land, and for the idols with which they had defiled it. 19 I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the countries; in accordance with their conduct and their deeds I judged them. 20 But when they came to the nations, wherever they came, they profaned my holy name, in that it was said of them, "These are the people of the LORD, and yet they had to go out of his land." 21 But I had concern for my holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations to which they came.

22 Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations to which you came. 23 I will sanctify my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, and which you have profaned among them; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD, says the Lord GOD, when through you I display my holiness before their eyes. 24 I will take you from the nations, and gather you from all the countries, and bring you into your own land. 25 I will sprinkle clean water upon you, and you shall be clean from all your uncleannesses, and from all your idols I will cleanse you. 26 A new heart I will give you, and a new spirit I will put within you; and I will remove from your body the heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. 27 I will put my spirit within you, and make you follow my statutes and be careful to observe my ordinances. 28 Then you shall live in the land that I gave to your ancestors; and you shall be my people, and I will be your God. 29 I will save you from all your uncleannesses, and I will summon the grain and make it abundant and lay no famine upon you. 30 I will make the fruit of the tree and the produce of the field abundant, so that you may never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations. 31 Then you shall remember your evil ways, and your dealings that were not good; and you shall loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominable deeds. 32 It is not for your sake that I will act, says the Lord GOD; let that be known to you. Be ashamed and dismayed for your ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day that I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will cause the towns to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt. 34 The land that was desolate shall be tilled, instead of being the desolation that it was in the sight of all who passed by. 35 And they will say, "This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden; and the waste and desolate and ruined towns are now inhabited and fortified." 36 Then the nations that are left all around you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt the ruined places, and replanted that which was desolate; I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it.

37 Thus says the Lord GOD: I will also let the house of Israel ask me to do this for them: to increase their population like a flock. 38 Like the flock for sacrifices, like the flock at Jerusalem during her appointed festivals, so shall the ruined towns be filled with flocks of people. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 37]

Vision of the valley of dry bones

1 The hand of the LORD came upon me, and he brought me out by the spirit of the LORD and set me down in the middle of a valley; it was full of bones. 2 He led me all around them; there were very many lying in the valley, and they were very dry. 3 He said to me, "Mortal, can these bones live?" I answered, "O Lord GOD, you know." 4 Then he said to me, "Prophecy to these bones, and say to them: O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. 5 Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: I will cause breath to enter you, and you shall live. 6 I will lay sinews on you, and will cause flesh to come upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and you shall live; and you shall know that I am the LORD."

7 So I prophesied as I had been commanded; and as I prophesied, suddenly there was a noise, a rattling, and the bones came together, bone to its bone. 8 I looked, and there were sinews on them, and flesh had come upon them, and skin had covered them; but there was no breath in them. 9 Then he said to me, "Prophesy to the breath, prophesy, mortal, and say to the breath: Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." 10 I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood on their feet, a vast multitude.

11 Then he said to me, "Mortal, these bones are the whole house of Israel. They say, 'Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost; we are cut off completely.' 12 Therefore prophesy, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to open your graves, and bring you up from your graves, O my people; and I will bring you back to the land of Israel. 13 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and bring you up from your graves, O my people. 14 I will put my spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you on your own soil; then you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken and will act, says the LORD."

The symbolic action of the two sticks

15 The word of the LORD came to me: 16 Mortal, take a stick and write on it, "For Judah, and the Israelites associated with it"; then take another stick and write on it, "For Joseph (the stick of Ephraim) and all the house of Israel associated with it"; 17 and join them together into one stick, so that they may become one in your hand. 18 And when your people say to you, "Will you not show us what you mean by these?" 19 say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am about to take the stick of Joseph (which is in the hand of Ephraim) and the tribes of Israel associated with it; and I will put the stick of Judah upon it, and make them one stick, in order that they may be one in my hand. 20 When the sticks on which you write are in your hand before their eyes, 21 then say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I will take the people of Israel from the nations among which they have gone, and will gather them from every quarter, and bring them to their own land. 22 I will make them one nation in the land, on the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king over them all. Never again shall they be two nations, and never again shall they be divided into two kingdoms. 23 They shall never again defile themselves with their idols and their detestable things, or with any of their transgressions. I will save them from all the apostasies into which they have fallen, and will cleanse them. Then they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

24 My servant David shall be king over them; and they shall all have one shepherd. They shall follow my ordinances and be careful to observe my statutes. 25 They shall live in the land that I gave to my servant Jacob, in which your ancestors lived; they and their children and their children's children shall live there forever; and my servant David shall be their prince forever. 26 I will make a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them; and I will bless them and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary among them forevermore. 27 My dwelling place shall be with them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 28 Then the nations shall know that I the LORD sanctify Israel, when my sanctuary is among them forevermore.

The God and Magog oracles

1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Mortal, set your face toward Gog, of the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. Prophecy against him 3 and say: Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal; 4 I will turn you around and put hooks into your jaws, and I will lead you out with all your army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed in full armor, a great company, all of them with shield and buckler, wielding swords. 5 Persia, Ethiopia, and Put are with them, all of them with buckler and helmet; 6 Gomer and all its troops; Beth-togarmah from the remotest parts of the north with all its troops — many peoples are with you.

7 Be ready and keep ready, you and all the companies that are assembled around you, and hold yourselves in reserve for them. 8 After many days you shall be mustered; in the latter years you shall go against a land restored from war, a land where people were gathered from many nations on the mountains of Israel, which had long lain waste; its people were brought out from the nations and now are living in safety, all of them. 9 You shall advance, coming on like a storm; you shall be like a cloud covering the land, you and all your troops, and many peoples with you.

10 Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day thoughts will come into your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme. 11 You will say, "I will go up against the land of unwalled villages; I will fall upon the quiet people who live in safety, all of them living without walls, and having no bars or gates"; 12 to seize spoil and carry off plunder; to assail the waste places that are now inhabited, and the people who were gathered from the nations, who are acquiring cattle and goods, who live at the center of the earth. 13 Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish and all its young warriors will say to you, "Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your horde to carry off plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to seize a great amount of booty?"

14 Therefore, mortal, prophesy, and say to Gog: Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day when my people Israel are living securely, you will rouse yourself 15 and come from your place out of the remotest parts of the north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great horde, a mighty army; 16 you will come up against my people Israel, like a cloud covering the earth. In the latter days I will bring you against my land, so that the nations may know me, when through you, O Gog, I display my holiness before their eyes.

17 Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you he of whom I spoke in former days by my servants the prophets of Israel, who in those days prophesied for years that I would bring you against them? 18 On that day, when Gog comes against the land of Israel, says the Lord GOD, my wrath shall be aroused. 19 For in my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare: On that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel; 20 the fish of the sea, and the birds of the air, and the animals of the field, and all creeping things that creep on the ground, and all human beings that are on the face of the earth, shall quake at my presence, and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the cliffs shall fall, and every wall shall tumble to the ground. 21 I will summon the sword against Gog in all my mountains, says the Lord GOD; the swords of all will be against their comrades. 22 With pestilence and bloodshed I will enter into judgment with him; and I will pour down torrential rains and hailstones, fire and sulfur, upon him and his troops and the many peoples that are with him. 23 So I will display my greatness and my holiness and make myself known in the eyes of many nations. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

[Ezekiel 39]

1 And you, mortal, prophesy against Gog, and say: Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal! 2 I will turn you around and drive you forward, and bring you up from the remotest parts of the north, and lead you against the mountains of Israel. 3 I will strike your bow from your left hand, and will make your arrows drop out of your right hand. 4 You shall fall upon the mountains of Israel, you and all your troops and the peoples that are with you; I will give you to birds of prey of every kind and to the wild animals to be devoured. 5 You shall fall in the open field; for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD. 6 I will send fire on Magog and on those who live securely in the coastlands; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 My holy name I will make known among my people Israel; and I will not let my holy name be profaned any more; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. 8 It has come! It has happened, says the Lord GOD. This is the day of which I have spoken.

9 Then those who live in the towns of Israel will go out and make fires of the weapons and burn them — bucklers and shields, bows and arrows, handpikes and spears — and they will make fires of them for seven years. 10 They will not need to take wood out of the field or cut down any trees in the forests, for they will make their fires of the weapons; they will despoil those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, says the Lord GOD.

11 On that day I will give to Gog a place for burial in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers east of the sea; it shall block the path of the travelers, for there Gog and all his horde will be buried; it shall be called the Valley of Hamon-gog. 12 Seven months the house of Israel shall spend burying them, in order to cleanse the land. 13 All the people of the land shall bury them; and it will bring them honor on the day that I show my glory, says the Lord God. 14 They will set apart men to pass through the land regularly and bury any invaders who remain on the face of the land, so as to cleanse it; for seven months they shall make their search. 15 As the searchers pass through the land, anyone who sees a human bone shall set up a sign by it, until the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog. 16 (A city Hamonah is there also.) Thus they shall cleanse the land.

17 As for you, mortal, thus says the Lord God: Speak to the birds of every kind and to all the wild animals: Assemble and come, gather from all around to the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you, a great sacrificial feast on the mountains of Israel, and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. 18 You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth — of rams, of lambs, and of goats, of bulls, all of them fatlings of Bashan. 19 You shall eat fat until you are filled, and drink blood until you are drunk, at the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you. 20 And you shall be filled at my table with horses and charioteers, with warriors and all kinds of soldiers, says the Lord God.

Secondary summary and concluding oracles

21 I will display my glory among the nations; and all the nations shall see my judgment that I have executed, and my hand that I have laid on them. 22 The house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God, from that day forward. 23 And the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt treacherously with me. So I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. 24 I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob, and have mercy on the whole house of Israel; and I will be jealous for my holy name. 26 They shall forget their shame, and all the treachery they have practiced against me, when they live securely in their land with no one to make them afraid, 27 when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies' lands, and through them have displayed my holiness in the sight of many nations. 28 Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God because I sent them into exile among the nations, and then gathered them into their own land. I will leave none of them behind; 29 and I will never again hide my face from them, when I pour out my spirit upon the house of Israel, says the Lord God.

Part V: Blueprint for the restored Temple and land; the new Temple

1 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on that very day, the hand of the LORD was upon me, and he brought me there. 2 He brought me, in visions of God, to the land of Israel, and set me down upon a very high mountain, on which was a structure like a city to the south. 3 When he brought me there, a man was there, whose appearance shone like bronze, with a linen cord and a measuring reed in his hand; and he was standing in the gateway. 4 The man said to me, "Mortal, look closely and listen attentively, and set your mind upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here in order that I might show it to you; declare all that you see to the house of Israel."

5 Now there was a wall all around the outside of the temple area. The length of the measuring reed in the man's hand was six long cubits, each being a cubit and a handbreadth in length; so he measured the thickness of the wall, one reed; and the height, one reed. 6 Then he went into the gateway facing east, going up its steps, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep. There were 7 recesses, and each recess was one reed wide and one reed deep; and the space between the recesses, five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the vestibule of the gate at the inner end was one reed deep. 8 Then he measured the inner vestibule of the gateway, one cubit. 9 Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; and its pilasters, two cubits; and the vestibule of the gate was at the inner end. 10 There were three recesses on either side of the east gate; the three were of the same size; and the pilasters on either side were of the same size. 11 Then he measured the width of the opening of the gateway, ten cubits; and the width of the gateway, thirteen cubits. 12 There was a barrier before the recesses, one cubit on either side; and the recesses were six cubits on either side. 13 Then he measured the gate from the back of the one recess to the back of the other, a width of twenty-five cubits, from wall to wall. 14 He measured also the vestibule, twenty cubits; and the gate next to the pilaster on every side of the court. 15 From the front of the gate at the entrance to the end of the inner vestibule of the gate was fifty cubits. 16 The recesses and their pilasters had windows, with shutters on the inside of the gateway all around, and the vestibules also had windows on the inside all around; and on the pilasters were palm trees.

17 Then he brought me into the outer court; there were chambers there, and a pavement, all around the court; thirty chambers fronted on the pavement. 18 The pavement ran along the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates; this was the lower pavement. 19 Then he measured the distance from the inner front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court, one hundred cubits.

20 Then he measured the gate of the outer court that faced north — its depth and width. 21 Its recesses, three on either side, and its pilasters and its vestibule were of the same size as those of the first gate; its depth was fifty cubits, and its width twenty-five cubits. 22 Its windows, its vestibule, and its palm trees were of the same size as those of the gate that faced toward the east. Seven steps led up to it; and its vestibule was on the inside. 23 Opposite the gate on the north, as on the east, was a gate to the inner court; he measured from gate to gate, one hundred cubits.

24 Then he led me toward the south, and there was a gate on the south; and he measured its pilasters and its vestibule; they had the same dimensions as the others. 25 There were windows all around in it and in its vestibule, like the windows of the others; its depth was fifty cubits, and its width twenty-five cubits. 26 There were seven steps leading up to it; its vestibule was on the inside. It had palm trees on its pilasters, one on either side. 27 There was a gate on the south of the inner court; and he measured from gate to gate toward the south, one hundred cubits.

28 Then he brought me to the inner court by the south gate, and he measured the south gate; it was of the same dimensions as the others. 29 Its recesses, its pilasters, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others; and there were windows all around in it and in its vestibule; its depth was fifty cubits, and its width twenty-five cubits. 30 There were vestibules all around, twenty-five cubits deep and five cubits wide. 31 Its vestibule faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its pilasters, and its stairway had eight steps.

32 Then he brought me to the inner court on the east side, and he measured the gate; it was of the same size as the others. 33 Its recesses, its pilasters, and its vestibule were of the same dimensions as the others; and there were windows all around in it and in its vestibule; its depth was fifty cubits, and its width twenty-five cubits. 34 Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its pilasters, on either side; and its stairway had eight steps.

35 Then he brought me to the north gate, and he measured it; it had the same dimensions as the others. 36 Its recesses, its pilasters, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others; and it had windows all around. Its depth was fifty cubits, and its width twenty-five cubits. 37 Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its pilasters, on either side; and its stairway had eight steps.

38 There was a chamber with its door in the vestibule of the gate, where the burnt offering was to be washed. 39 And in the vestibule of the gate were two tables on either side, on which the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering were to be slaughtered. 40 On the outside of the vestibule at the entrance of the north gate were two tables; and on the other side of the vestibule of the gate were two tables. 41 Four tables were on the inside, and four tables on the outside of the side of the gate, eight tables, on which the sacrifices were to be slaughtered. 42 There were also four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, and one cubit and a half wide, and one cubit high, on which the instruments were to be laid with which the burnt offerings and the sacrifices were slaughtered. 43 There were pegs, one handbreadth long, fastened all around the inside. And on the tables the flesh of the offering was to be laid.

44 On the outside of the inner gateway there were chambers for the singers in the inner court, one at the side of the north gate facing south, the other at the side of the east gate facing north. 45 He said to me, "This chamber that faces south is for the priests who have charge of the temple, 46 and the chamber that faces north is for the priests who have charge of the altar; these are the descendants of Zadok, who alone among the descendants of Levi may come near to the LORD to minister to him." 47 He measured the court, one hundred cubits deep, and one hundred cubits wide, a square; and the altar was in front of the temple.

48 Then he brought me to the vestibule of the temple and measured the pilasters of the vestibule, five cubits on either side; and the width of the gate was fourteen cubits; and the sidewalls of the gate were three cubits on either side. 49 The depth of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the width twelve cubits; ten steps led up to it; and there were pillars beside the pilasters on either side.

1 Then he brought me to the nave, and measured the pilasters; on each side six cubits was the width of the pilasters. 2 The width of the entrance was ten cubits; and the sidewalls of the entrance were five cubits on either side. He measured the length of the nave, forty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits. 3 Then he went into the inner room and measured the pilasters of the entrance, two cubits; and the width of the entrance, six cubits; and the sidewalls of the entrance, seven cubits. 4 He measured the depth of the room, twenty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits, beyond the nave. And he said to me, This is the most holy place.

5 Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits thick; and the width of the side chambers, four cubits, all around the temple. 6 The side chambers were in three stories, one over another, thirty in each story. There were offsets all around the wall of the temple to serve as supports for the side chambers, so that they should not be supported by the wall of the temple. 7 The passageway of the side chambers widened from story to story; for the structure was supplied with a stairway all around the temple. For this reason the structure became wider from story to story. One ascended from the bottom story to the uppermost story by way of the middle one. 8 I saw also that the temple had a raised platform all around; the foundations of the side chambers measured a full reed of six long cubits. 9 The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits; and the free space between the side chambers of the temple 10 and the chambers of the court was a width of twenty cubits all around the temple on every side. 11 The side chambers opened onto the area left free, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south; and the width of the part that was left free was five cubits all around.

12 The building that was facing the temple yard on the west side was seventy cubits wide; and the wall of the building was five cubits thick all around, and its depth ninety cubits.

13 Then he measured the temple, one hundred cubits deep; and the yard and the building with its walls, one hundred cubits deep; 14 also the width of the east front of the temple and the yard, one hundred cubits.

15 Then he measured the depth of the building facing the yard at the west, together with its galleries on either side, one hundred cubits.

The nave of the temple and the inner room and the outer vestibule 16 were paneled, and, all around, all three had windows with recessed frames. Facing the threshold the temple was paneled with wood all around, from the floor up to the windows (now the windows were covered), 17 to the space above the door, even to the inner room, and on the outside. And on all the walls all around in the inner room and the nave there was a pattern. 18 It was formed of cherubim and palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. Each cherub had two faces: 19 a human face turned toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion turned toward the palm tree on the other side. They were carved on the whole temple all around; 20 from the floor to the area above the door, cherubim and palm trees were carved on the wall.

21 The doorposts of the nave were square. In front of the holy place was something resembling 22 an altar of wood, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits wide; its corners, its base, and its walls were of wood. He said to me, "This is the table that stands before the LORD." 23 The nave and the holy place had each a double door. 24 The doors had two leaves apiece, two swinging leaves for each door. 25 On the doors of the nave were carved cherubim and palm trees, such as were carved on the walls; and there was a canopy of wood in front of the vestibule outside. 26 And there were recessed windows and palm trees on either side, on the sidewalls of the vestibule.

[Ezekiel 42]

1 Then he led me out into the outer court, toward the north, and he brought me to the chambers that were opposite the temple yard and opposite the building on the north. 2 The length of the building that was on the north side was one hundred cubits, and the width fifty cubits. 3 Across the twenty cubits that belonged to the inner court, and facing the pavement that belonged to the outer court, the chambers rose gallery by gallery in three stories. 4 In front of the chambers was a passage on the inner side, ten cubits wide and one hundred cubits deep, and its entrances were on the north. 5 Now the upper chambers were narrower, for the galleries took more away from them than from the lower and middle chambers in the building. 6 For they were in three stories, and they had no pillars like the pillars of the outer court; for this reason the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. 7 There was a wall outside parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, opposite the chambers, fifty cubits long. 8 For the chambers on the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those opposite the temple were one hundred cubits long. 9 At the foot of these chambers ran a passage that one entered from the east in order to enter them from the outer court. 10 The width of the passage was fixed by the wall of the court.

On the south also, opposite the vacant area and opposite the building, there were chambers 11 with a passage in front of them; they were similar to the chambers on the north, of the same length and width, with the same exits and arrangements and doors. 12 So the entrances of the chambers to the south were entered through the entrance at the head of the corresponding passage, from the east, along the matching wall.

13 Then he said to me, "The north chambers and the south chambers opposite the vacant area are the holy chambers, where the priests who approach the LORD shall eat the most holy offerings; there they shall deposit the most holy offerings — the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering — for the place is holy. 14 When the priests enter the holy place, they shall not go out of it into the outer court without laying there the vestments in which they minister, for these are holy; they shall put on other garments before they go near to the area open to the people."

15 When he had finished measuring the interior of the temple area, he led me out by the gate that faces east, and measured the temple area all around. 16 He measured the east side with the measuring reed, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. 17 Then he turned and measured the north side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. 18 Then he turned and measured the south side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. 19 Then he turned to the west side and measured, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. 20 He measured it on the four sides. It had a wall around it, five hundred cubits long and five hundred cubits wide, to make a separation between the holy and the common.

1 Then he brought me to the gate, the gate facing east. 2 And there, the glory of the God of Israel was coming from the east; the sound was like the sound of mighty waters; and the earth shone with his glory. 3 The vision I saw was like the vision that I had seen when he came to destroy the city, and like the vision that I had seen by the river Chebar; and I fell upon my face. 4 As the glory of the LORD entered the temple by the gate facing east, 5 the spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the inner court; and the glory of the LORD filled the temple.

6 While the man was standing beside me, I heard someone speaking to me out of the temple. 7 He said to me: Mortal, this is the place of my throne and the place for the soles of my feet, where I will reside among the people of Israel forever. The house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name, neither they nor their kings, by their whoring, and by the corpses of their kings at their death. 8 When they placed their threshold by my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them, they were defiling my holy name by their abominations that they committed; therefore I have consumed them in my anger. 9 Now let them put away their idolatry and the corpses of their kings far from me, and I will reside among them forever.

10 As for you, mortal, describe the temple to the house of Israel, and let them measure the pattern; and let them be ashamed of their iniquities. 11 When they are ashamed of all that they have done, make known to them the plan of the temple, its arrangement, its exits and its entrances, and its whole form — all its ordinances and its entire plan and all its laws; and write it down in their sight, so that they may observe and follow the entire plan and all its ordinances. 12 This is the law of the temple: the whole territory on the top of the mountain all around shall be most holy. This is the law of the temple.

The altar of burnt offerings

13 These are the dimensions of the altar by cubits (the cubit being one cubit and a handbreadth): its base shall be one cubit high, and one cubit wide, with a rim of one span around its edge. This shall be the height of the altar: 14 From the base on the ground to the lower ledge, two cubits, with a width of one cubit; and from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, four cubits, with a width of one cubit; 15 and the altar hearth, four cubits; and from the altar hearth projecting upward, four horns. 16 The altar hearth shall be square, twelve cubits long by twelve wide. 17 The ledge also shall be square, fourteen cubits long by fourteen wide, with a rim around it half a cubit wide, and its surrounding base, one cubit. Its steps shall face east.

The altar's consecration

18 Then he said to me: Mortal, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the ordinances for the altar: On the day when it is erected for offering burnt offerings upon it and for dashing blood against it, 19 you shall give to the levitical priests of the family of Zadok, who draw near to me to minister to me, says the Lord GOD, a bull for a sin offering. 20 And you shall take some of its blood, and put it on the four horns of the altar, and on the four corners of the ledge, and upon the rim all around; thus you shall purify it and make atonement for it. 21 You shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and it shall be burnt in the appointed place belonging to the temple, outside the sacred area.

22 On the second day you shall offer a male goat without blemish for a sin offering; and the altar shall be purified, as it was purified with the bull. 23 When you have finished purifying it, you shall offer a bull without blemish and a ram from the flock without blemish. 24 You shall present them before the LORD, and the priests shall throw salt on them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. 25 For seven days you shall provide daily a goat for a sin offering; also a bull and a ram from the flock, without blemish, shall be provided. 26 Seven days shall they make atonement for the altar and cleanse it, and so consecrate it. 27 When these days are over, then from the eighth day onward the priests shall offer upon the altar your burnt offerings and your offerings of well-being; and I will accept you, says the Lord God.

[Ezekiel 44]

1 Then he brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary, which faces east; and it was shut. 2 The LORD said to me: This gate shall remain shut; it shall not be opened, and no one shall enter by it; for the LORD, the God of Israel, has entered by it; therefore it shall remain shut. 3 Only the prince, because he is a prince, may sit in it to eat food before the LORD; he shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gate, and shall go out by the same way.

Temple ordinances

4 Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the temple; and I looked, and lo! the glory of the LORD filled the temple of the LORD; and I fell upon my face. 5 The LORD said to me: Mortal, mark well, look closely, and listen attentively to all that I shall tell you concerning all the ordinances of the temple of the LORD and all its laws; and mark well those who may be admitted to the temple and all those who are to be excluded from the sanctuary. 6 Say to the rebellious house, to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: O house of Israel, let there be an end to all your abominations 7 in admitting foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, to be in my sanctuary, profaning my temple when you offer to me my food, the fat and the blood. You have broken my covenant with all your abominations. 8 And you have not kept charge of my sacred offerings; but you have appointed foreigners to act for you in keeping my charge in my sanctuary.

9 Thus says the Lord God: No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, of all the foreigners who are among the people of Israel, shall enter my sanctuary. 10 But the Levites who went far from me, going astray from me after their idols when Israel went astray, shall bear their punishment. 11 They shall be ministers in my sanctuary, having oversight at the gates of the temple, and serving in the temple; they shall slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall attend on them and serve them. 12 Because they ministered to them before their idols and made the house of Israel stumble into iniquity, therefore I have sworn concerning them, says the Lord GOD, that they shall bear their punishment. 13 They shall not come near to me, to serve me as priest, nor come near any of my sacred offerings, the things that are most sacred; but they shall bear their shame, and the consequences of the abominations that they have committed. 14 Yet I will appoint them to keep charge of the temple, to do all its chores, all that is to be done in it.

Priestly rules

15 But the levitical priests, the descendants of Zadok, who kept the charge of my sanctuary when the people of Israel went astray from me, shall come near to me to minister to me; and they shall attend me to offer me the fat and the blood, says the Lord GOD. 16 It is they who shall enter my sanctuary, it is they who shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charge. 17 When they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear linen vestments; they shall have nothing of wool on them, while they minister at the gates of the inner court, and within. 18 They shall have linen turbans on their heads, and linen undergarments on their loins; they shall not bind themselves with anything that causes sweat. 19 When they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall remove the vestments in which they have been ministering, and lay them in the holy chambers; and they shall put on other garments, so that they may not communicate holiness to the people with their vestments. 20 They shall not shave their heads or let their locks grow long; they shall only trim the hair of their heads. 21 No priest shall drink wine when he enters the inner court. 22 They shall not marry a widow, or a divorced woman, but only a virgin of the stock of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest. 23 They shall teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and show them how to distinguish between the unclean and the clean. 24 In a controversy they shall act as judges, and they shall decide it according to my judgments. They shall keep my laws and my statutes regarding all my appointed festivals, and they shall keep my sabbaths holy. 25 They shall not defile themselves by going near to a dead person; for father or mother, however, and for son or daughter, and for brother or unmarried sister they may defile themselves. 26 After he has become clean, they shall count seven days for him. 27 On the day that he goes into the holy place, into the inner court, to minister in the holy place, he shall offer his sin offering, says the Lord God.

28 This shall be their inheritance: I am their inheritance; and you shall give them no holding in Israel; I am their holding. 29 They shall eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering; and every devoted thing in Israel shall be theirs. 30 The first of all the first fruits of all kinds, and every offering of all kinds from all your offerings, shall belong to the priests; you shall also give to the priests the first of your dough, in order that a blessing may rest on your house. 31 The priests shall not eat of anything, whether bird or animal, that died of itself or was torn by animals.

[Ezekiel 45]

The distribution of land

1 When you allot the land as an inheritance, you shall set aside for the LORD a portion of the land as a holy district, twenty-five thousand cubits long and twenty thousand cubits wide; it shall be holy throughout its entire extent. 2 Of this, a square plot of five hundred by five hundred cubits shall be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits for an open space around it. 3 In the holy district you shall measure off a section twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide, in which shall be the sanctuary, the most holy place. 4 It shall be a holy portion of the land; it shall be for the priests, who minister in the sanctuary and approach the LORD to minister to him; and it shall be both a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. 5 Another section, twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand cubits wide, shall be for the Levites who minister at the temple, as their holding for cities to live in.

6 Alongside the portion set apart as the holy district you shall assign as a holding for the city an area five thousand cubits wide, and twenty-five thousand cubits long; it shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

7 And to the prince shall belong the land on both sides of the holy district and the holding of the city, alongside the holy district and the holding of the city, on the west and on the east, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions, and extending from the western to the eastern boundary 8 of the land. It is to be his property in Israel. And my princes shall no longer oppress my people; but they shall let the house of Israel have the land according to their tribes.

9 Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough, O princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and do what is just and right. Cease your evictions of my people, says the Lord GOD.

Weights and measures for offerings

10 You shall have honest balances, an honest ephah, and an honest bath. 11 The ephah and the bath shall be of the same measure, the bath containing one-tenth of a homer, and the ephah one-tenth of a homer; the homer shall be the standard measure. 12 The shekel shall be twenty gerahs. Twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels, and fifteen shekels shall make a mina for you.

13 This is the offering that you shall make: one-sixth of an ephah from each homer of wheat, and one-sixth of an ephah from each homer of barley, 14 and as the fixed portion of oil, one-tenth of a bath from each cor (the cor, like the homer, contains ten baths); 15 and one sheep from every flock of two hundred, from the pastures of Israel. This is the offering for grain offerings, burnt offerings, and offerings of well-being, to make atonement for them, says the Lord GOD. 16 All the people of the land shall join with the prince in Israel in making this offering. 17 But this shall be the obligation of the prince regarding the burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the festivals, the new moons, and the sabbaths, all the appointed festivals of the house of Israel: he shall provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, the burnt offerings, and the offerings of well-being, to make atonement for the house of Israel.

Festival regulations

18 Thus says the Lord GOD: In the first month, on the first day of the month, you shall take a young bull without blemish, and purify the sanctuary. 19 The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorposts of the temple, the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and the posts of the gate of the inner court. 20 You shall do the same on the seventh day of the month for anyone who has sinned through error or ignorance; so you shall make atonement for the temple.

21 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall celebrate the festival of the passover, and for seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten. 22 On that day the prince shall provide for himself and all the people of the land a young bull for a sin offering. 23 And during the seven days of the festival he shall provide as a burnt offering to the LORD seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, on each of the seven days; and a male goat daily for a sin offering. 24 He shall provide as a grain offering an ephah for each bull, an ephah for each ram, and a hin of oil to each ephah. 25 In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month and for the seven days of the festival, he shall make the same provision for sin offerings, burnt offerings, and grain offerings, and for the oil.

Gate regulations and the prince's minor offerings

1 Thus says the Lord GOD: The gate of the inner court that faces east shall remain closed on the six working days; but on the sabbath day it shall be opened and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. 2 The prince shall enter by the vestibule of the gate from outside, and shall take his stand by the post of the gate. The priests shall offer his burnt offering and his offerings of well-being, and he shall bow down at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be closed until evening. 3 The people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate before the LORD on the sabbaths and on the new moons. 4 The burnt offering that the prince offers to the LORD on the sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish; 5 and the grain offering with the ram shall be an ephah, and the grain offering with the lambs shall be as much as he wishes to give, together with a hin of oil to each ephah. 6 On the day of the new moon he shall offer a young bull without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, which shall be without blemish; 7 as a grain offering he shall provide an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs as much as he wishes, together with a hin of oil to each ephah. 8 When the prince enters, he shall come in by the vestibule of the gate, and he shall go out by the same way.

9 When the people of the land come before the LORD at the appointed festivals, whoever enters by the north gate to worship shall go out by the south gate; and whoever enters by the south gate shall go out by the north gate: they shall not return by way of the gate by which they entered, but shall go out straight ahead. 10 When they come in, the prince shall come in with them; and when they go out, he shall go out.

11 At the festivals and the appointed seasons the grain offering with a young bull shall be an ephah, and with a ram an ephah, and with the lambs as much as one wishes to give, together with a hin of oil to an ephah. 12 When the prince provides a freewill offering, either a burnt offering or offerings of well-being as a freewill offering to the LORD, the gate facing east shall be opened for him; and he shall offer his burnt offering or his offerings of well-being as he does on the sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he has gone out the gate shall be closed.

13 He shall provide a lamb, a yearling, without blemish, for a burnt offering to the LORD daily; morning by morning he shall provide it. 14 And he shall provide a grain offering with it morning by morning regularly, one-sixth of an ephah, and one-third of a hin of oil to moisten the choice flour, as a grain offering to the LORD; this is the ordinance for all time. 15 Thus the lamb and the grain offering and the oil shall be provided, morning by morning, as a regular burnt offering.

The prince's property

16 Thus says the Lord GOD: If the prince makes a gift to any of his sons out of his inheritance, it shall belong to his sons, it is their holding by inheritance. 17 But if he makes a gift out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his to the year of liberty; then it shall revert to the prince; only his sons may keep a gift from his inheritance. 18 The prince shall not take any of the inheritance of the people, thrusting them out of their holding; he shall give his sons their inheritance out of his own holding, so that none of my people shall be dispossessed of their holding.

Sacrificial kitchens

19 Then he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, to the north row of the holy chambers for the priests; and there I saw a place at the extreme western end of them. 20 He said to me, "This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and where they shall bake the grain offering, in order not to bring them out into the outer court and so communicate holiness to the people."

21 Then he brought me out to the outer court, and led me past the four corners of the court; and in each corner of the court there was a court — 22 in the four corners of the court were small courts, forty cubits long and thirty wide; the four were of the same size. 23 On the inside, around each of the four courts was a row of masonry, with hearths made at the bottom of the rows all around. 24 Then he said to me, "These are the kitchens where those who serve at the temple shall boil the sacrifices of the people."

[Ezekiel 47]

The sacred river

1 Then he brought me back to the entrance of the temple; there, water was flowing from below the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east); and the water was flowing down from below the south end of the threshold of the temple, south of the altar.

2 Then he brought me out by way of the north gate, and led me around on the outside to the outer gate that faces toward the east; and the water was coming out on the south side.

3 Going on eastward with a cord in his hand, the man measured one thousand cubits, and then led me through the water; and it was ankle-deep. 4 Again he measured one thousand, and led me through the water; and it was knee-deep. Again he measured one thousand, and led me through the water; and it was up to the waist. 5 Again he measured one thousand, and it was a river that I could not cross, for the water had risen; it was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be crossed. 6 He said to me, "Mortal, have you seen this?"

Then he led me back along the bank of the river. 7 As I came back, I saw on the bank of the river a great many trees on the one side and on the other. 8 He said to me, "This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into the Arabah; and when it enters the sea, the sea of stagnant waters, the water will become fresh. 9 Wherever the river goes, every living creature that swarms will live, and there will be very many fish, once these waters reach there. It will become fresh; and everything will live where the river goes. 10 People will stand fishing beside the sea from En-ge-di to En-eglaim; it will be a place for the spreading of nets; its fish will be of a great many kinds, like the fish of the Great Sea. 11 But its swamps and marshes will not become fresh; they are to be left for salt. 12 On the banks, on both sides of the river, there will grow all kinds of trees for food. Their leaves will not wither nor their fruit fail, but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for healing."

A new holy land; boundary and allotment instructions

13 Thus says the Lord GOD: These are the boundaries by which you shall divide the land for inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. Joseph shall have two portions. 14 You shall divide it equally; I swore to give it to your ancestors, and this land shall fall to you as your inheritance.

15 This shall be the boundary of the land: On the north side, from the Great Sea by way of Hethlon to Lebo-hamath, and on to Zedad, 16 Berothah, Sibraim (which lies between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath), as far as Hazer-hatticon, which is on the border of Hauran. 17 So the boundary shall run from the sea to Hazar-enon, which is north of the border of Damascus, with the border of Hamath to the north. This shall be the north side.

18 On the east side, between Hauran and Damascus; along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel; to the eastern sea and as far as Tamar. This shall be the east side.

19 On the south side, it shall run from Tamar as far as the waters of Meribath-kadesh, from there along the Wadi of Egypt to the Great Sea. This shall be the south side.

20 On the west side, the Great Sea shall be the boundary to a point opposite Lebo-hamath. This shall be the west side.

21 So you shall divide this land among you according to the tribes of Israel. 22 You shall allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the aliens who reside among you and have begotten children among you. They shall be to you as citizens of Israel; with you they shall be allotted an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. 23 In whatever tribe aliens reside, there you shall assign them their inheritance, says the Lord God.

[Ezekiel 48]

Tribal and holy-district allotments

1 These are the names of the tribes: Beginning at the northern border, on the Hethlon road, from Lebo-hamath, as far as Hazar-enon (which is on the border of Damascus, with Hamath to the north), and extending from the east side to the west, Dan, one portion. 2 Adjoining the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west, Asher, one portion. 3 Adjoining the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west, Naphtali, one portion. 4 Adjoining the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west, Manasseh, one portion. 5 Adjoining the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west, Ephraim, one portion. 6

Adjoining the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west, Reuben, one portion. 7 Adjoining the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west, Judah, one portion.

8 Adjoining the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west, shall be the portion that you shall set apart, twenty-five thousand cubits in width, and in length equal to one of the tribal portions, from the east side to the west, with the sanctuary in the middle of it. 9 The portion that you shall set apart for the LORD shall be twenty-five thousand cubits in length, and twenty thousand in width. 10 These shall be the allotments of the holy portion: the priests shall have an allotment measuring twenty-five thousand cubits on the northern side, ten thousand cubits in width on the western side, ten thousand in width on the eastern side, and twenty-five thousand in length on the southern side, with the sanctuary of the LORD in the middle of it. 11 This shall be for the consecrated priests, the descendants of Zadok, who kept my charge, who did not go astray when the people of Israel went astray, as the Levites did. 12 It shall belong to them as a special portion from the holy portion of the land, a most holy place, adjoining the territory of the Levites. 13 Alongside the territory of the priests, the Levites shall have an allotment twenty-five thousand cubits in length and ten thousand in width. The whole length shall be twenty-five thousand cubits and the width twenty thousand. 14 They shall not sell or exchange any of it; they shall not transfer this choice portion of the land, for it is holy to the LORD.

15 The remainder, five thousand cubits in width and twenty-five thousand in length, shall be for ordinary use for the city, for dwellings and for open country. In the middle of it shall be the city; 16 and these shall be its dimensions: the north side four thousand five hundred cubits, the south side four thousand five hundred, the east side four thousand five hundred, and the west side four thousand five hundred. 17 The city shall have open land: on the north two hundred fifty cubits, on the south two hundred fifty, on the east two hundred fifty, on the west two hundred fifty. 18 The remainder of the length alongside the holy portion shall be ten thousand cubits to the east, and ten thousand to the west, and it shall be alongside the holy portion. Its produce shall be food for the workers of the city. 19 The workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall cultivate it. 20 The whole portion that you shall set apart shall be twenty-five thousand cubits square, that is, the holy portion together with the property of the city.

21 What remains on both sides of the holy portion and of the property of the city shall belong to the prince. Extending from the twenty-five thousand cubits of the holy portion to the east border, and westward from the twenty-five thousand cubits to the west border, parallel to the tribal portions, it shall belong to the prince. The holy portion with the sanctuary of the temple in the middle of it, 22 and the property of the Levites and of the city, shall be in the middle of that which belongs to the prince. The portion of the prince shall lie between the territory of Judah and the territory of Benjamin.

23 As for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west, Benjamin, one portion. 24 Adjoining the territory of Benjamin, from the east side to the west, Simeon, one portion. 25 Adjoining the territory of Simeon, from the east side to the west, Issachar, one portion. 26 Adjoining the territory of Issachar, from the east side to the west, Zebulun, one portion. 27 Adjoining the territory of Zebulun, from the east side to the west, Gad, one portion. 28 And adjoining the territory of Gad to the south, the boundary shall run from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, from there along the Wadi of Egypt to the Great Sea. 29 This is the land that you shall allot as an inheritance among the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, says the Lord GOD.

The new Jerusalem

30 These shall be the exits of the city: On the north side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits by measure, 31 three gates, the gate of Reuben, the gate of Judah, and the gate of Levi, the gates of the city being named after the tribes of Israel. 32 On the east side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates, the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, and the gate of Dan. 33 On the south side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits by measure, three gates, the gate of Simeon, the gate of Issachar, and the gate of Zebulun. 34 On the west side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates, the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, and the gate of Naphtali. 35 The circumference of the city shall be eighteen thousand cubits. And the name of the city from that time on shall be, The LORD is There.

DANIEL

Introduction

The book of Daniel combines the humor of folktale with the mystery of apocalyptic to create a message of hope and encouragement. Daniel himself is as much a mystery as the symbols in the book that bears his name: The earliest reference to a figure named Daniel is that of a Ugaritic king who lived in the fourteenth century BCE. Ezekiel 14.14 associates this king with Noah and Job: three non-Jewish individuals known for belief in the face of danger, wisdom in the face of foolishness. According to Ezek 28.3, Daniel is one who knows secrets. The Daniel of this prophetic book is similar in knowledge, fidelity, and circumstances; he is, however, emphatically Jewish.

Blending theological emphasis on personal piety and divine intervention with staples of folktales such as wise courtiers, endangered heroes, and foolish kings, the first six chapters entertain and edify even as they provide encouragement to Jews living as a minority under foreign rule. The accounts of Daniel and his friends, Jewish youths taken into Babylonian captivity, reflect a time in which the imperial rule is ignorant and often dangerous rather than malevolent, and in which Jews can live at peace with their non-Jewish neighbors, though perhaps not with a complete sense of security. Consequently, the tales are most often regarded as products of the Persian (539-333 BCE) or early Hellenistic (333-168) periods. Like Joseph, Daniel succeeds in service to the ruler through his ability to interpret dreams; like Mordecai in the book of Esther, he succeeds in foreign political service despite challenges by rival politicians.

These stories contrast with the apocalyptic materials in 7-12, which depict extreme hostility to foreign governments and which underscore ongoing universal tribulation rather than temporary personal danger. In this second section, Daniel is not the interpreter of visions but the visionary himself, and he is now in need of an angel's interpretive skills. In a series of dreams, he learns of the history of the Near East and Egypt from the Babylonian Empire, through Persian rule, to the time of Alexander the Great, and finally to the attacks against Judaism and Jerusalem by the Syrian-Greek ruler Antiochus IV Epiphanes. The increasingly detailed descriptions of the period following the division of Alexander's empire up to the Hellenization crisis under Antiochus in 167 BCE suggest that the apocalyptic sections were composed on the eve of the Maccabean revolt against the assimilationist policies of Antiochus and his allies in Jerusalem's priestly circles (see 1 Macc 1). The author may well have been one of the "wise men" who promulgated a counsel of nonviolence together with the expectation that God would punish the wicked and redeem the faithful (Dan 12.3). That the visions are presented pseudonymously, that is, under the name of an ancient figure who "foresees" what is to come, is typical of apocalypses (so also for 2 Esdras, 2 Baruch, and later Christian texts such as the 'Apocalypse of Peter').

Daniel 2.4b-7.28 is written in Aramaic, the common language of the Near East from the time of the Babylonian exile until the conquests of Alexander the Great; 1.1-2.4a and chs 8-12 are in Hebrew, which by then for the Jews had become largely the language of worship, not of ordinary discourse. Complicating the linguistic history of the volume are the Septuagint and Old Greek translations. These texts contain additions to the story of Daniel: The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews, Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon. In this bible these additional texts appear in the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books. Still more books within the Danielic corpus appear among the documents discovered in 1948 at Qumran, the so-called Dead Sea Scrolls. One text, the Prayer of Nabonidus (4QprNab), may represent an earlier version of Dan 4; that Nabonidus engaged in erratic behavior, and that he rather than Nebuchadnezzar was the father of Belshazzar (Dan 5.1) make this supposition particularly intriguing.

The wisdom of the Jewish courtiers in negotiating the difficulties of living under an often arbitrary and dangerous foreign rule is juxtaposed with a vision of wars, persecutions, and finally, salvation under God's sovereignty; through these images the book of Daniel offers to its readers both advice and consolation. The folktales speak to all peoples persecuted as religious and ethnic minorities, especially under conditions of colonial rule. The apocalyptic materials, whose meanings would have been known to the author's own circle, have provided for over two thousand years occasion for speculation and, often, hope.

[Daniel 1]

The Babylonian exile

1 In the third year of the reign of King Jehoiakim of Judah, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. 2 The Lord let King Jehoiakim of Judah fall into his power, as well as some of the vessels of the house of God. These he brought to the land of Shinar, and placed the vessels in the treasury of his gods.

Courtiers in exile

3 Then the king commanded his palace master Ashpenaz to bring some of the Israelites of the royal family and of the nobility, 4 young men without physical defect and handsome, versed in every branch of wisdom, endowed with knowledge and insight, and competent to serve in the king's palace; they were to be taught the literature and language of the Chaldeans. 5 The king assigned them a daily portion of the royal rations of food and wine. They were to be educated for three years, so that at the end of that time they could be stationed in the king's court. 6 Among them were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, from the tribe of Judah. 7 The palace master gave them other names: Daniel he called Belteshazzar, Hananiah he called Shadrach, Mishael he called Meshach, and Azariah he called Abednego.

The first resistance

8 But Daniel resolved that he would not defile himself with the royal rations of food and wine; so he asked the palace master to allow him not to defile himself. 9 Now God allowed Daniel to receive favor and compassion from the palace master. 10 The palace master said to Daniel, "I am afraid of my lord the king; he has appointed your food and your drink. If he should see you in poorer condition than the other young men of your own age, you would endanger my head with the king." 11 Then Daniel asked the guard whom the palace master had appointed over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: 12 "Please test your servants for ten days. Let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13 You can then compare our appearance with the appearance of the young men who eat the royal rations, and deal with your servants according to what you observe." 14 So he agreed to this proposal and tested them for ten days. 15 At the end of ten days it was observed that they appeared better and fatter than all the young men who had been eating the royal rations. 16 So the guard continued to withdraw their royal rations and the wine they were to drink, and gave them vegetables. 17 To these four young men God gave knowledge and skill in every aspect of literature and wisdom; Daniel also had insight into all visions and dreams.

18 At the end of the time that the king had set for them to be brought in, the palace master brought them into the presence of Nebuchadnezzar, 19 and the king spoke with them. And among them all, no one was found to compare with Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; therefore they were stationed in the king's court. 20 In every matter of wisdom and understanding concerning which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters in his whole kingdom. 21 And Daniel continued there until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar's test

1 In the second year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed such dreams that his spirit was troubled and his sleep left him. 2 So the king commanded that the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans be summoned to tell the king his dreams. When they came in and stood before the king, 3 he said to them, "I have had such a dream that my spirit is troubled by the desire to understand it." 4 The Chaldeans said to the king (in Aramaic), "O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will reveal the interpretation." 5 The king answered the Chaldeans, "This is a public decree: if you do not tell me both the dream and its interpretation, you shall be torn limb from limb, and your houses shall be laid in ruins. 6 But if you do tell me the dream and its interpretation, you shall receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor. Therefore tell me the dream and its interpretation." 7 They answered a second time, "Let the king first tell his servants the dream, then we can give its interpretation." 8 The king answered, "I know with certainty that you are trying to gain time, because you see I have firmly decreed: 9 if you do not tell me the dream, there is but one verdict for you. You have agreed to speak lying and misleading words to me until things take a turn. Therefore, tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can give me its interpretation." 10 The Chaldeans answered the king, "There is no one on earth who can reveal what the king demands! In fact no king, however great and powerful, has ever asked such a thing of any magician or enchanter or Chaldean. 11 The thing that the king is asking is too difficult, and no one can reveal it to the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with mortals."

Daniel seek divine aid

12 Because of this the king flew into a violent rage and commanded that all the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. 13 The decree was issued, and the wise men were about to be executed; and they looked for Daniel and his companions, to execute them. 14 Then Daniel responded with prudence and discretion to Arioch, the king's chief executioner, who had gone out to execute the wise men of Babylon; 15 he asked Arioch, the royal official, "Why is the decree of the king so urgent?" Arioch then explained the matter to Daniel. 16 So Daniel went in and requested that the king give him time and he would tell the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his home and informed his companions, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 18 and told them to seek mercy from the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions with the rest of the wise men of Babylon might not perish.

19 Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night, and Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

Daniel's doxology

20 Daniel said:

"Blessed be the name of God from age to age,
for wisdom and power are his.

21 He changes times and seasons,
deposes kings and sets up kings;
he gives wisdom to the wise
and knowledge to those who have understanding.

22 He reveals deep and hidden things;
he knows what is in the darkness,
and light dwells with him.

23 To you, O God of my ancestors,
I give thanks and praise,
for you have given me wisdom and power,
and have now revealed to me what we asked of you,
for you have revealed to us what the king ordered."

Daniel approaches the king

24 Therefore Daniel went to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and said to him, "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will give the king the interpretation."

25 Then Arioch quickly brought Daniel before the king and said to him: "I have found among the exiles from Judah a man who can tell the king the interpretation." 26 The king said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, "Are you able to tell me the dream that I have seen and its interpretation?" 27 Daniel answered the king, "No wise men, enchanters, magicians, or diviners can show to the king the mystery that the king is asking, 28 but there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has disclosed to King Nebuchadnezzar what will happen at the end of days. Your dream and the visions of your head as you lay in bed were these: 29 To you, O king, as you lay in bed, came thoughts of what would be hereafter, and the revealer of mysteries disclosed to you what is to be. 30 But as for me, this mystery has not been revealed to me because of any wisdom that I have more than any other living being, but in order that the interpretation may be known to the king and that you may understand the thoughts of your mind.

Nebuchadnezzar's dream

31 "You were looking, O king, and lo! there was a great statue. This statue was huge, its brilliance extraordinary; it was standing before you, and its appearance was frightening. 32 The head of that statue was of fine gold, its chest and arms of silver, its middle and thighs of bronze, 33 its legs of iron, its feet partly of iron and partly of clay. 34 As you looked on, a stone was cut out, not by human hands, and it struck the statue on its feet of iron and clay and broke them in pieces. 35 Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold, were all broken in pieces and became like the chaff of the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, so that not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain and filled the whole earth.

Daniel's first interpretation

36 "This was the dream; now we will tell the king its interpretation. 37 You, O king, the king of kings — to whom the God of heaven has given the kingdom, the power, the might, and the glory, 38 into whose hand he has given human beings, wherever they live, the wild animals of the field, and the birds of the air, and whom he has established as ruler over them all — you are the head of gold. 39 After you shall arise another kingdom inferior to yours, and yet a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over the whole earth. 40 And there shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron; just as iron crushes and smashes everything, it shall crush and shatter all these. 41 As you saw the feet and toes partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, it shall be a divided kingdom; but some of the strength of iron shall be in it, as you saw the iron mixed with the clay. 42 As the toes of the feet were part iron and part clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly brittle. 43 As you saw the iron mixed with clay, so will they mix with one another in marriage, but they will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with clay. 44 And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall this kingdom be left to another people. It shall crush all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand forever; 45 just as you saw that a stone was cut from the mountain not by hands, and that it crushed the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. The great God has informed the king what shall be hereafter. The dream is certain, and its interpretation trustworthy."

Daniel's promotion

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell on his face, worshiped Daniel, and commanded that a grain offering and incense be offered to him. 47 The king said to Daniel, "Truly, your God is God of gods and Lord of kings and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery!" 48 Then the king promoted Daniel, gave him many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon and chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon. 49 Daniel made a request of the king, and he appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the affairs of the province of Babylon. But Daniel remained at the king's court.

[Daniel 3]

The golden statue

1 King Nebuchadnezzar made a golden statue whose height was sixty cubits and whose width was six cubits; he set it up on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. 2 Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent for the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces, to assemble and come to the dedication of the statue that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 3 So the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces, assembled for the dedication of the statue that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. When they were standing before the statue that Nebuchadnezzar had set up, 4 the herald proclaimed aloud, "You are commanded, O peoples, nations, and languages, 5 that when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, drum, and entire musical ensemble, you are to fall down and worship the golden statue that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. 6 Whoever does not fall down and worship shall immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire." 7 Therefore, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, drum, and entire musical ensemble, all the peoples, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden statue that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

The youths accused

8 Accordingly, at this time certain Chaldeans came forward and denounced the Jews. 9 They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "O king, live forever! 10 You, O king, have made a decree, that everyone who hears the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, drum, and entire musical ensemble, shall fall down and worship the golden statue, 11 and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire. 12 There are certain Jews whom you have appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These pay no heed to you, O king. They do not serve your gods and they do not worship the golden statue that you have set up."

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in furious rage commanded that Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego be brought in; so they brought those men before the king. 14 Nebuchadnezzar said to them, "Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods and you do not worship the golden statue that I have set up? 15 Now if you are ready when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, drum, and entire musical ensemble to fall down and worship the statue that I have made, well and good. But if you do not worship, you shall immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire, and who is the god that will deliver you out of my hands?"

Resistance

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered the king, "O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to present a defense to you in this matter. 17 If our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the furnace of blazing fire and out of your hand, O king, let him deliver us. 18 But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods and we will not worship the golden statue that you have set up."

The furnace

19 Then Nebuchadnezzar was so filled with rage against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego that his face was distorted. He ordered the furnace heated up seven times more than was customary, 20 and ordered some of the strongest guards in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego and to throw them into the furnace of blazing fire. 21 So the men were bound, still wearing their tunics, their trousers, their hats, and their other garments, and they were thrown into the furnace of blazing fire. 22 Because the king's command was urgent and the furnace was so overheated, the raging flames killed the men who lifted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. 23 But the three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, fell down, bound, into the furnace of blazing fire.

Nebuchadnezzar's acknowledgment

24 Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished and rose up quickly. He said to his counselors, "Was it not three men that we threw bound into the fire?" They answered the king, "True, O king." 25 He replied, "But I see four men unbound, walking in the middle of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the fourth has the appearance of a god." 26 Nebuchadnezzar then approached the door of the furnace of blazing fire and said, "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out! Come here!" So Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out from the fire. 27 And the satraps, the prefects, the governors, and the king's counselors gathered together and saw that the fire had not had any power over the bodies of those men; the hair of their heads was not singed, their tunics were not harmed, and not even the smell of fire came from them. 28 Nebuchadnezzar said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who has sent his angel and delivered his servants who trusted in him. They disobeyed the king's command and yielded up their bodies rather than serve and worship any god except their own God. 29 Therefore I make a decree: Any people, nation, or language that utters blasphemy against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins; for there is no other god who is able to deliver in this way." 30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

[Daniel 4]

Nebuchadnezzar's doxology

1 King Nebuchadnezzar to all peoples, nations, and languages that live throughout the earth: May you have abundant prosperity! 2 The signs and wonders that the Most High God has worked for me I am pleased to recount.

3 How great are his signs,
 how mighty his wonders!
 His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
 and his sovereignty is from generation to generation.

The king's vision

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was living at ease in my home and prospering in my palace. 5 I saw a dream that frightened me; my fantasies in bed and the visions of my head terrified me. 6 So I made a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me, in order that they might tell me the interpretation of the dream. 7 Then the magicians, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the diviners came in, and I told them the dream, but they could not tell me its interpretation. 8 At last Daniel came in before me — he who was named Beltshazzar after the name of my god, and who is endowed with a spirit of the holy gods — and I told him the dream: 9 "O Beltshazzar, chief of the magicians, I know that you are endowed with a spirit of the holy gods and that no mystery is too difficult for you. Hear the dream that I saw; tell me its interpretation.

- 10 Upon my bed this is what I saw;
 there was a tree at the center of the earth,
 and its height was great.
- 11 The tree grew great and strong,
 its top reached to heaven,
 and it was visible to the ends of the whole earth.
- 12 Its foliage was beautiful,
 its fruit abundant,
 and it provided food for all.
 The animals of the field found shade under it,
 the birds of the air nested in its branches,
 and from it all living beings were fed.
- 13 "I continued looking, in the visions of my head as I lay in bed, and there was a holy watcher, coming down from heaven. 14 He cried aloud and said:
 'Cut down the tree and chop off its branches,
 strip off its foliage and scatter its fruit.
 Let the animals flee from beneath it and the birds from its branches.
- 15 But leave its stump and roots in the ground,
 with a band of iron and bronze,
 in the tender grass of the field.
 Let him be bathed with the dew of heaven,
 and let his lot be with the animals of the field
 in the grass of the earth.
- 16 Let his mind be changed from that of a human,
 and let the mind of an animal be given to him.
 And let seven times pass over him.
- 17 The sentence is rendered by decree of the watchers,
 the decision is given by order of the holy ones,
in order that all who live may know that the Most High is sovereign over the kingdom of mortals;
he gives it to whom he will
 and sets over it the lowliest of human beings.'

18 "This is the dream that I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. Now you, Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation, since all the wise men of my kingdom are unable to tell me the interpretation. You are able, however, for you are endowed with a spirit of the holy gods."

Daniel's second interpretation

19 Then Daniel, who was called Belteshazzar, was severely distressed for a while. His thoughts terrified him. The king said, "Belteshazzar, do not let the dream or the interpretation terrify you." Belteshazzar answered, "My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you, and its interpretation for your enemies! 20 The tree that you saw, which grew great and strong, so that its top reached to heaven and was visible to the end of the whole earth, 21 whose foliage was beautiful and its fruit abundant, and which provided food for all, under which animals of the field lived, and in whose branches the birds of the air had nests — 22 it is you, O king! You have grown great and strong. Your greatness has increased and reaches to heaven, and your sovereignty to the ends of the earth. 23 And whereas the king saw a holy watcher coming down from heaven and saying, 'Cut down the tree and destroy it, but leave its stump and roots in the ground, with a band of iron and bronze, in the grass of the field; and let him be bathed with the dew of heaven, and let his lot be with the animals of the field, until seven times pass over him' — 24 this is the interpretation, O king, and it is a decree of the Most High that has come upon my lord the king: 25 You shall be driven away from human society, and your dwelling shall be with the wild animals. You shall be made to eat grass like oxen, you shall be bathed with the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over you, until you have learned that the Most High has sovereignty over the kingdom of mortals, and gives it to whom he will. 26 As it was commanded to leave the stump and roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be re-established for you from the time that you learn that Heaven is sovereign. 27 Therefore, O king, may my counsel be acceptable to you: atone for your sins with righteousness, and your iniquities with mercy to the oppressed, so that your prosperity may be prolonged."

Nebuchadnezzar's punishment

28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. 29 At the end of twelve months he was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, 30 and the king said, "Is this not magnificent Babylon, which I have built as a royal capital by my mighty power and for my glorious majesty?" 31 While the words were still in the king's mouth, a voice came from heaven: "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is declared: The kingdom has departed from you! 32 You shall be driven away from human society, and your dwelling shall be with the animals of the field. You shall be made to eat grass like oxen, and seven times shall pass over you, until you have learned that the Most High has sovereignty over the kingdom of mortals and gives it to whom he will." 33 Immediately the sentence was fulfilled against Nebuchadnezzar. He was driven away from human society, ate grass like oxen, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until his hair grew as long as eagles' feathers and his nails became like birds' claws.

Restoration

34 When that period was over, I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me.

I blessed the Most High,

and praised and honored the one who lives forever.

For his sovereignty is an everlasting sovereignty,

and his kingdom endures from generation to generation.

35 All the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and he does what he wills with the host of heaven

and the inhabitants of the earth.

There is no one who can stay his hand

or say to him, "What are you doing?"

36 At that time my reason returned to me; and my majesty and splendor were restored to me for the glory of my kingdom. My counselors and my lords sought me out, I was re-established over my kingdom, and still more greatness was added to me. 37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, for all his works are truth, and his ways are justice;

and he is able to bring low those who walk in pride.

[Daniel 5]

The handwriting on the wall

1 King Belshazzar made a great festival for a thousand of his lords, and he was drinking wine in the presence of the thousand.

2 Under the influence of the wine, Belshazzar commanded that they bring in the vessels of gold and silver that his father Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of the temple in Jerusalem, so that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. 3 So they brought in the vessels of gold and silver that had been taken out of the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, and the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines drank from them. 4 They drank the wine and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

5 Immediately the fingers of a human hand appeared and began writing on the plaster of the wall of the royal palace, next to the lampstand. The king was watching the hand as it wrote. 6 Then the king's face turned pale, and his thoughts terrified him. His limbs gave way, and his knees knocked together. 7 The king cried aloud to bring in the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the diviners; and the king said to the wise men of Babylon, "Whoever can read this writing and tell me its interpretation shall be clothed in purple, have a chain of gold around his neck, and rank third in the kingdom." 8 Then all the king's wise men came in, but they could not read the writing or tell the king the interpretation. 9 Then King Belshazzar became greatly terrified and his face turned pale, and his lords were perplexed.

The queen's intervention

10 The queen, when she heard the discussion of the king and his lords, came into the banqueting hall. The queen said, "O king, live forever! Do not let your thoughts terrify you or your face grow pale. 11 There is a man in your kingdom who is endowed with a spirit of the holy gods. In the days of your father he was found to have enlightenment, understanding, and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods. Your father, King Nebuchadnezzar, made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and diviners, 12 because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems were found in this Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will give the interpretation."

Deciphering the handwriting

13 Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king said to Daniel, "So you are Daniel, one of the exiles of Judah, whom my father the king brought from Judah? 14 I have heard of you that a spirit of the gods is in you, and that enlightenment, understanding, and excellent wisdom are found in you. 15 Now the wise men, the enchanters, have been brought in before me to read this writing and tell me its interpretation, but they were not able to give the interpretation of the matter. 16 But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Now if you are able to read the writing and tell me its interpretation, you shall be clothed in purple, have a chain of gold around your neck, and rank third in the kingdom."

17 Then Daniel answered in the presence of the king, "Let your gifts be for yourself, or give your rewards to someone else! Nevertheless I will read the writing to the king and let him know the interpretation. 18 O king, the Most High God gave your father Nebuchadnezzar kingship, greatness, glory, and majesty. 19 And because of the greatness that he gave him, all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him. He killed those he wanted to kill, kept alive those he wanted to keep alive, honored those he wanted to honor, and degraded those he wanted to degrade. 20 But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit was hardened so that he acted proudly, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and his glory was stripped from him. 21 He was driven from human society, and his mind was made like that of an animal. His dwelling was with the wild asses, he was fed grass like oxen, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until he learned that the Most High God has sovereignty over the kingdom of mortals, and sets over it whomever he will. 22 And you, Belshazzar his son, have not humbled your heart, even though you knew all this! 23

You have exalted yourself against the Lord of heaven! The vessels of his temple have been brought in before you, and you and your lords, your wives and your concubines have been drinking wine from them. You have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or know; but the God in whose power is your very breath, and to whom belong all your ways, you have not honored.

24 "So from his presence the hand was sent and this writing was inscribed. 25 And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN. 26 This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end; 27 TEKEL, you have been weighed on the scales and found wanting; 28 PERES, your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

29 Then Belshazzar gave the command, and Daniel was clothed in purple, a chain of gold was put around his neck, and a proclamation was made concerning him that he should rank third in the kingdom.

30 That very night Belshazzar, the Chaldean king, was killed. 31 And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

[Daniel 6]

Persian plot against Daniel

1 It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom one hundred twenty satraps, stationed throughout the whole kingdom, 2 and over them three presidents, including Daniel; to these the satraps gave account, so that the king might suffer no loss. 3 Soon Daniel distinguished himself above all the other presidents and satraps because an excellent spirit was in him, and the king planned to appoint him over the whole kingdom. 4 So the presidents and the satraps tried to find grounds for complaint against Daniel in connection with the kingdom. But they could find no grounds for complaint or any corruption, because he was faithful, and no negligence or corruption could be found in him. 5 The men said, "We shall not find any ground for complaint against this Daniel unless we find it in connection with the law of his God."

6 So the presidents and satraps conspired and came to the king and said to him, "O King Darius, live forever! 7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the counselors and the governors are agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an interdict, that whoever prays to anyone, divine or human, for thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be thrown into a den of lions. 8 Now, O king, establish the interdict and sign the document, so that it cannot be changed, according to the law of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked." 9 Therefore King Darius signed the document and interdict.

Daniel's defiance

10 Although Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he continued to go to his house, which had windows in its upper room open toward Jerusalem, and to get down on his knees three times a day to pray to his God and praise him, just as he had done previously. 11 The conspirators came and found Daniel praying and seeking mercy before his God. 12 Then they approached the king and said concerning the interdict, "O king! Did you not sign an interdict, that anyone who prays to anyone, divine or human, within thirty days except to you, O king, shall be thrown into a den of lions?" The king answered, "The thing stands fast, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be revoked." 13 Then they responded to the king, "Daniel, one of the exiles from Judah, pays no attention to you, O king, or to the interdict you have signed, but he is saying his prayers three times a day."

14 When the king heard the charge, he was very much distressed. He was determined to save Daniel, and until the sun went down he made every effort to rescue him. 15 Then the conspirators came to the king and said to him, "Know, O king, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no interdict or ordinance that the king establishes can be changed."

16 Then the king gave the command, and Daniel was brought and thrown into the den of lions. The king said to Daniel, "May your God, whom you faithfully serve, deliver you!" 17 A stone was brought and laid on the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet and with the signet of his lords, so that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel. 18 Then the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting; no food was brought to him, and sleep fled from him.

In the lion's den; restitution

19 Then, at break of day, the king got up and hurried to the den of lions. 20 When he came near the den where Daniel was, he cried out anxiously to Daniel, "O Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God whom you faithfully serve been able to deliver you from the lions?" 21 Daniel then said to the king, "O king, live forever! 22 My God sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths so that they would not hurt me, because I was found blameless before him; and also before you, O king, I have done no wrong." 23 Then the king was exceedingly glad and commanded that Daniel be taken up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no kind of harm was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. 24 The king gave a command, and those who had accused Daniel were brought and thrown into the den of lions — they, their children, and their wives. Before they reached the bottom of the den the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

25 Then King Darius wrote to all peoples and nations of every language throughout the whole world: "May you have abundant prosperity! 26 I make a decree, that in all my royal dominion people should tremble and fear before the God of Daniel:

For he is the living God,
enduring forever.

His kingdom shall never be destroyed,
and his dominion has no end.

27 He delivers and rescues,
 he works signs and wonders in heaven and on earth;
 for he has saved Daniel
 from the power of the lions."

28 So this Daniel prospered during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

[Daniel 7] The first vision

1 In the first year of King Belshazzar of Babylon, Daniel had a dream and visions of his head as he lay in bed. Then he wrote down the dream: 2 I, Daniel, saw in my vision by night the four winds of heaven stirring up the great sea, 3 and four great beasts came up out of the sea, different from one another. 4 The first was like a lion and had eagles' wings. Then, as I watched, its wings were plucked off, and it was lifted up from the ground and made to stand on two feet like a human being; and a human mind was given to it. 5 Another beast appeared, a second one, that looked like a bear. It was raised up on one side, had three tusks in its mouth among its teeth and was told, "Arise, devour many bodies!" 6 After this, as I watched, another appeared, like a leopard. The beast had four wings of a bird on its back and four heads; and dominion was given to it. 7 After this I saw in the visions by night a fourth beast, terrifying and dreadful and exceedingly strong. It had great iron teeth and was devouring, breaking in pieces, and stamping what was left with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that preceded it, and it had ten horns. 8 I was considering the horns, when another horn appeared, a little one coming up among them; to make room for it, three of the earlier horns were plucked up by the roots. There were eyes like human eyes in this horn, and a mouth speaking arrogantly.

The heavenly throne room

- 9 As I watched,
 thrones were set in place,
 and an Ancient One took his throne,
 his clothing was white as snow,
 and the hair of his head like pure wool;
 his throne was fiery flames,
 and its wheels were burning fire.
- 10 A stream of fire issued
 and flowed out from his presence.
 A thousand thousands served him,
 and ten thousand times ten thousand stood attending him.
 The court sat in judgment,
 and the books were opened.
- 11 I watched then because of the noise of the arrogant words that the horn was speaking. And as I watched, the beast was put to death, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. 12 As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time. 13 As I watched in the night visions,
 I saw one like a human being coming with the clouds of heaven.
 And he came to the Ancient One and was presented before him.
- 14 To him was given dominion
 and glory and kingship,
 that all peoples, nations, and languages
 should serve him.
 His dominion is an everlasting dominion
 that shall not pass away,
 and his kingship is one that shall never be destroyed.

The interpretation

15 As for me, Daniel, my spirit was troubled within me, and the visions of my head terrified me. 16 I approached one of the attendants to ask him the truth concerning all this. So he said that he would disclose to me the interpretation of the matter: 17 "As for these four great beasts, four kings shall arise out of the earth. 18 But the holy ones of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever — forever and ever."

19 Then I desired to know the truth concerning the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest, exceedingly terrifying, with its teeth of iron and claws of bronze, and which devoured and broke in pieces, and stamped what was left with its feet; 20 and concerning the ten horns that were on its head, and concerning the other horn, which came up and to make room for which three of them fell out — the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke arrogantly, and that seemed greater than the others. 21 As I looked, this horn made war with the holy ones and was prevailing over them, 22 until the Ancient One came; then judgment was given for the holy ones of the Most High, and the time arrived when the holy ones gained possession of the kingdom.

23 This is what he said: "As for the fourth beast,
there shall be a fourth kingdom on earth
that shall be different from all the other kingdoms;
it shall devour the whole earth,
and trample it down, and break it to pieces.

24 As for the ten horns,
out of this kingdom ten kings shall arise,
and another shall arise after them.
This one shall be different from the former ones,
and shall put down three kings.

25 He shall speak words against the Most High,
shall wear out the holy ones of the Most High,
and shall attempt to change the sacred seasons and the law;
and they shall be given into his power
for a time, two times, and half a time.

26 Then the court shall sit in judgment,
and his dominion shall be taken away,
to be consumed and totally destroyed.

27 The kingship and dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the holy ones of the Most High;
their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom,
and all dominions shall serve and obey them."

28 Here the account ends. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts greatly terrified me, and my face turned pale; but I kept the matter in my mind.

[Daniel 8]
The second vision

1 In the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after the one that had appeared to me at first. 2 In the vision I was looking and saw myself in Susa the capital, in the province of Elam, and I was by the river Ulai. 3 I looked up and saw a ram standing beside the river. It had two horns. Both horns were long, but one was longer than the other, and the longer one came up second. 4 I saw the ram charging westward and northward and southward. All beasts were powerless to withstand it, and no one could rescue from its power; it did as it pleased and became strong.

5 As I was watching, a male goat appeared from the west, coming across the face of the whole earth without touching the ground. The goat had a horn between its eyes. 6 It came toward the ram with the two horns that I had seen standing beside the river, and it ran at it with savage force. 7 I saw it approaching the ram. It was enraged against it and struck the ram, breaking its two horns. The ram did not have power to withstand it; it threw the ram down to the ground and trampled upon it, and there was no one who could rescue the ram from its power. 8 Then the male goat grew exceedingly great; but at the height of its power, the great horn was broken, and in its place there came up four prominent horns toward the four winds of heaven.

9 Out of one of them came another horn, a little one, which grew exceedingly great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the beautiful land. 10 It grew as high as the host of heaven. It threw down to the earth some of the host and some of the stars, and trampled on them. 11 Even against the prince of the host it acted arrogantly; it took the regular burnt offering away from him and overthrew the place of his sanctuary. 12 Because of wickedness, the host was given over to it together with the regular burnt offering; it cast truth to the ground, and kept prospering in what it did. 13 Then I heard a holy one speaking, and another holy one said to the one that spoke, "For how long is this vision concerning the regular burnt offering, the transgression that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and host to be trampled?" 14 And he answered him, "For two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary shall be restored to its rightful state."

Gabriel's interpretation

15 When I, Daniel, had seen the vision, I tried to understand it. Then someone appeared standing before me, having the appearance of a man, 16 and I heard a human voice by the Ulai, calling, "Gabriel, help this man understand the vision." 17 So he came near where I stood; and when he came, I became frightened and fell prostrate. But he said to me, "Understand, O mortal, that the vision is for the time of the end."

18 As he was speaking to me, I fell into a trance, face to the ground; then he touched me and set me on my feet. 19 He said, "Listen, and I will tell you what will take place later in the period of wrath; for it refers to the appointed time of the end. 20 As for the ram that you saw with the two horns, these are the kings of Media and Persia. 21 The male goat is the king of Greece, and the great horn between its eyes is the first king. 22 As for the horn that was broken, in place of which four others arose, four kingdoms shall arise from his nation, but not with his power.

23 At the end of their rule,
 when the transgressions have reached their full measure,
 a king of bold countenance shall arise,
 skilled in intrigue.

24 He shall grow strong in power,
 shall cause fearful destruction,
 and shall succeed in what he does.

He shall destroy the powerful and the people of the holy ones.

25 By his cunning
 he shall make deceit prosper under his hand,
 and in his own mind he shall be great.
 Without warning he shall destroy many
 and shall even rise up against the Prince of princes.
 But he shall be broken, and not by human hands.

26 The vision of the evenings and the mornings that has been told is true. As for you, seal up the vision, for it refers to many days from now."

27 So I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for some days; then I arose and went about the king's business. But I was dismayed by the vision and did not understand it.

[Daniel 9] Daniel's prayer

1 In the first year of Darius son of Ahasuerus, by birth a Mede, who became king over the realm of the Chaldeans — 2 in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years that, according to the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah, must be fulfilled for the devastation of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years.

3 Then I turned to the Lord God, to seek an answer by prayer and supplication with fasting and sackcloth and ashes. 4 I prayed to the LORD my God and made confession, saying,
 "Ah, Lord, great and awesome God, keeping covenant and steadfast love with those who love you and keep your commandments, 5 we have sinned and done wrong, acted wickedly and rebelled, turning aside from your commandments and ordinances. 6 We have not listened to your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, and our ancestors, and to all the people of the land.

7 "Righteousness is on your side, O Lord, but open shame, as at this day, falls on us, the people of Judah, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and all Israel, those who are near and those who are far away, in all the lands to which you have driven them, because of the treachery that they have committed against you. 8 Open shame, O LORD, falls on us, our kings, our officials, and our ancestors, because we have sinned against you. 9 To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness, for we have rebelled against him, 10 and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God by following his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 "All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to obey your voice. So the curse and the oath written in the law of Moses, the servant of God, have been poured out upon us, because we have sinned against you. 12 He has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us and against our rulers, by bringing upon us a calamity so great that what has been done against Jerusalem has never before been done under the whole heaven. 13 Just as it is written in the law of Moses, all this calamity has come upon us. We did not entreat the favor of the LORD our God, turning from our iniquities and reflecting on his fidelity. 14 So the LORD kept watch over this calamity until he brought it upon us. Indeed, the LORD our God is right in all that he has done; for we have disobeyed his voice.

15 "And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand and made your name renowned even to this day — we have sinned, we have done wickedly. 16 O Lord, in view of all your righteous acts, let your anger and wrath, we pray, turn away from your city Jerusalem, your holy mountain; because of our sins and the iniquities of our ancestors, Jerusalem and your people have become a disgrace among all our neighbors. 17 Now therefore, O our God, listen to the prayer of your servant and to his supplication, and for your own sake, Lord, let your face shine upon your desolated sanctuary. 18 Incline your ear, O my God, and hear. Open your eyes and look at our desolation and the city that bears your name. We do not present our supplication before you on the ground of our righteousness, but on the ground of your great mercies. 19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, listen and act and do not delay! For your own sake, O my God, because your city and your people bear your name!"

Gabriel's response

20 While I was speaking, and was praying and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God on behalf of the holy mountain of my God — 21 while I was speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen before in a vision, came to me in swift flight at the time of the evening sacrifice. 22 He came and said to me, "Daniel, I have now come out to give you wisdom and understanding. 23 At the beginning of your supplications a word went out, and I have come to declare it, for you are greatly beloved. So consider the word and understand the vision:

24 "Seventy weeks are decreed for your people and your holy city: to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place. 25 Know therefore and understand: from the time that the word went out to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until the time of an anointed prince, there shall be seven weeks; and for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with streets and moat, but in a troubled time. 26 After the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing, and the troops of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed. 27 He shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he shall make sacrifice and offering cease; and in their place shall be an abomination that desolates, until the decreed end is poured out upon the desolator."

[Daniel 10]

Daniel's visionary experience

1 In the third year of King Cyrus of Persia a word was revealed to Daniel, who was named Belteshazzar. The word was true, and it concerned a great conflict. He understood the word, having received understanding in the vision.

2 At that time I, Daniel, had been mourning for three weeks. 3 I had eaten no rich food, no meat or wine had entered my mouth, and I had not anointed myself at all, for the full three weeks. 4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing on the bank of the great river (that is, the Tigris), 5 I looked up and saw a man clothed in linen, with a belt of gold from Uphaz around his waist. 6 His body was like beryl, his face like lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and the sound of his words like the roar of a multitude. 7 I, Daniel, alone saw the vision; the people who were with me did not see the vision, though a great trembling fell upon them, and they fled and hid themselves. 8 So I was left alone to see this great vision. My strength left me, and my complexion grew deathly pale, and I retained no strength. 9 Then I heard the sound of his words; and when I heard the sound of his words, I fell into a trance, face to the ground.

Gabriel's encouragement

10 But then a hand touched me and roused me to my hands and knees. 11 He said to me, "Daniel, greatly beloved, pay attention to the words that I am going to speak to you. Stand on your feet, for I have now been sent to you." So while he was speaking this word to me, I stood up trembling. 12 He said to me, "Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your mind to gain understanding and to humble yourself before your God, your words have been heard, and I have come because of your words. 13 But the prince of the kingdom of Persia opposed me twenty-one days. So Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I left him there with the prince of the kingdom of Persia, 14 and have come to help you understand what is to happen to your people at the end of days. For there is a further vision for those days."

15 While he was speaking these words to me, I turned my face toward the ground and was speechless. 16 Then one in human form touched my lips, and I opened my mouth to speak, and said to the one who stood before me, "My lord, because of the vision such pains have come upon me that I retain no strength. 17 How can my lord's servant talk with my lord? For I am shaking, no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me."

18 Again one in human form touched me and strengthened me. 19 He said, "Do not fear, greatly beloved, you are safe. Be strong and courageous!" When he spoke to me, I was strengthened and said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me." 20 Then he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? Now I must return to fight against the prince of Persia, and when I am through with him, the prince of Greece will come. 21 But I am to tell you what is inscribed in the book of truth. There is no one with me who contends against these princes except Michael, your prince. [Daniel 11] 1 As for me, in the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood up to support and strengthen him.

2 "Now I will announce the truth to you. Three more kings shall arise in Persia. The fourth shall be far richer than all of them, and when he has become strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece. 3 Then a warrior king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion and take action as he pleases. 4 And while still rising in power, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not to his posterity, nor according to the dominion with which he ruled; for his kingdom shall be uprooted and go to others besides these.

5 "Then the king of the south shall grow strong, but one of his officers shall grow stronger than he and shall rule a realm greater than his own realm. 6 After some years they shall make an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to ratify the agreement. But she shall not retain her power, and his offspring shall not endure. She shall be given up, she and her attendants and her child and the one who supported her.

"In those times 7 a branch from her roots shall rise up in his place. He shall come against the army and enter the fortress of the king of the north, and he shall take action against them and prevail. 8 Even their gods, with their idols and with their precious vessels of silver and gold, he shall carry off to Egypt as spoils of war. For some years he shall refrain from attacking the king of the north; 9 then the latter shall invade the realm of the king of the south, but will return to his own land.

10 "His sons shall wage war and assemble a multitude of great forces, which shall advance like a flood and pass through, and again shall carry the war as far as his fortress. 11 Moved with rage, the king of the south shall go out and do battle against the king of the north, who shall muster a great multitude, which shall, however, be defeated by his enemy. 12 When the multitude has been carried off, his heart shall be exalted, and he shall overthrow tens of thousands, but he shall not prevail. 13 For the king of the north shall again raise a multitude, larger than the former, and after some years he shall advance with a great army and abundant supplies.

Campaigns of Antiochus III

14 "In those times many shall rise against the king of the south. The lawless among your own people shall lift themselves up in order to fulfill the vision, but they shall fail. 15 Then the king of the north shall come and throw up siegeworks, and take a well-fortified city. And the forces of the south shall not stand, not even his picked troops, for there shall be no strength to resist. 16 But he who comes against him shall take the actions he pleases, and no one shall withstand him. He shall take a position in the beautiful land, and all of it shall be in his power. 17 He shall set his mind to come with the strength of his whole kingdom, and he shall bring terms of peace and perform them. In order to destroy the kingdom, he shall give him a woman in marriage; but it shall not succeed or be to his advantage. 18 Afterward he shall turn to the coastlands, and shall capture many. But a commander shall put an end to his insolence; indeed, he shall turn his insolence back upon him. 19 Then he shall turn back toward the fortresses of his own land, but he shall stumble and fall, and shall not be found.

Antiochus IV

20 "Then shall arise in his place one who shall send an official for the glory of the kingdom; but within a few days he shall be broken, though not in anger or in battle. 21 In his place shall arise a contemptible person on whom royal majesty had not been conferred; he shall come in without warning and obtain the kingdom through intrigue. 22 Armies shall be utterly swept away and broken before him, and the prince of the covenant as well. 23 And after an alliance is made with him, he shall act deceitfully and become strong with a small party. 24 Without warning he shall come into the richest parts of the province and do what none of his predecessors had ever done, lavishing plunder, spoil, and wealth on them. He shall devise plans against strongholds, but only for a time. 25 He shall stir up his power and determination against the king of the south with a great army, and the king of the south shall wage war with a much greater and stronger army. But he shall not succeed, for plots shall be devised against him 26 by those who eat of the royal rations. They shall break him, his army shall be swept away, and many shall fall slain. 27 The two kings, their minds bent on evil, shall sit at one table and exchange lies. But it shall not succeed, for there remains an end at the time appointed. 28 He shall return to his land with great wealth, but his heart shall be set against the holy covenant. He shall work his will, and return to his own land.

Attack against the Jews

29 "At the time appointed he shall return and come into the south, but this time it shall not be as it was before. 30 For ships of Kittim shall come against him, and he shall lose heart and withdraw. He shall be enraged and take action against the holy covenant. He shall turn back and pay heed to those who forsake the holy covenant. 31 Forces sent by him shall occupy and profane the temple and fortress. They shall abolish the regular burnt offering and set up the abomination that makes desolate. 32 He shall seduce with intrigue those who violate the covenant; but the people who are loyal to their God shall stand firm and take action. 33 The wise among the people shall give understanding to many; for some days, however, they shall fall by sword and flame, and suffer captivity and plunder. 34 When they fall victim, they shall receive a little help, and many shall join them insincerely. 35 Some of the wise shall fall, so that they may be refined, purified, and cleansed, until the time of the end, for there is still an interval until the time appointed.

36 "The king shall act as he pleases. He shall exalt himself and consider himself greater than any god, and shall speak horrendous things against the God of gods. He shall prosper until the period of wrath is completed, for what is determined shall be done. 37 He shall pay no respect to the gods of his ancestors, or to the one beloved by women; he shall pay no respect to any other god, for he shall consider himself greater than all. 38 He shall honor the god of fortresses instead of these; a god whom his ancestors did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts. 39 He shall deal with the strongest fortresses by the help of a foreign god. Those who acknowledge him he shall make more wealthy, and shall appoint them as rulers over many, and shall distribute the land for a price.

The end-time

40 "At the time of the end the king of the south shall attack him. But the king of the north shall rush upon him like a whirlwind, with chariots and horsemen, and with many ships. He shall advance against countries and pass through like a flood. 41 He shall come into the beautiful land, and tens of thousands shall fall victim, but Edom and Moab and the main part of the Ammonites shall escape from his power. 42 He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape. 43 He shall become ruler of the treasures of gold and of silver, and all the riches of Egypt; and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall follow in his train. 44 But reports from the east and the north shall alarm him, and he shall go out with great fury to bring ruin and complete destruction to many. 45 He shall pitch his palatial tents between the sea and the beautiful holy mountain. Yet he shall come to his end, with no one to help him.

[Daniel 12]Michael's victory

1 "At that time Michael, the great prince, the protector of your people, shall arise. There shall be a time of anguish, such as has never occurred since nations first came into existence. But at that time your people shall be delivered, everyone who is found written in the book. 2 Many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. 3 Those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky, and those who lead many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever. 4 But you, Daniel, keep the words secret and the book sealed until the time of the end. Many shall be running back and forth, and evil shall increase."

5 Then I, Daniel, looked, and two others appeared, one standing on this bank of the stream and one on the other. 6 One of them said to the man clothed in linen, who was upstream, "How long shall it be until the end of these wonders?" 7 The man clothed in linen, who was upstream, raised his right hand and his left hand toward heaven. And I heard him swear by the one who lives forever that it would be for a time, two times, and half a time, and that when the shattering of the power of the holy people comes to an end, all these things would be accomplished. 8 I heard but could not understand; so I said, "My lord, what shall be the outcome of these things?" 9 He said, "Go your way, Daniel, for the words are to remain secret and sealed until the time of the end. 10 Many shall be purified, cleansed, and refined, but the wicked shall continue to act wickedly. None of the wicked shall understand, but those who are wise shall understand. 11 From the time that the regular burnt offering is taken away and the abomination that desolates is set up, there shall be one thousand two hundred ninety days. 12 Happy are those who persevere and attain the thousand three hundred thirty-five days. 13 But you, go your way, and rest; you shall rise for your reward at the end of the days."

HOSEA

Introduction

The book of Hosea stands first in that part of the latter prophets called the Book of the Twelve, also known as the minor prophets because of their relative brevity in comparison with Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel. Along with his contemporary Amos, Hosea was the first of the "writing prophets," those prophets whose speeches were collected and edited as literary documents.

The book consists primarily of speeches critiquing the political, social, and, above all, religious life of the Northern Kingdom, Israel, in the final days before its conquest and destruction by the Assyrians in 722 BCE. Hosea refers to Israel under the titles of "Ephraim," its largest tribe, and "Samaria," its capital. 'Ephraim' was the name for the region surrounding Samaria. Though often used as a general term for the Northern Kingdom, its use here and Hosea's preference for it (4.16ff.) over Israel in the rest of the book could reflect a changed political situation. Israel gradually lost its territory in Transjordan, Galilee, and Jezreel in this period; in the end Ephraim was all that remained. Over the course of three decades (ca. 750-720 BCE), Hosea interpreted the unfolding disaster as a divine punishment — the Assyrians were merely God's tool — for violation of the exclusive demands of the Lord. With frequent allusions to Israelite historical traditions, Hosea portrayed Israel's entire history as a spiritual decline from an ideal time, its "youth" in the period of Moses (2.25; 11.1).

Hosea is best known for his metaphors, drawn from the natural world, agriculture, and, especially, kinship structures: Israel as the LORD's wife, Israel as the LORD's son. These familial metaphors are introduced in two narrative sections about the prophet's own life at the beginning of the book (1.2-2.1; 3.1-5). The prophet's personal life is presented as a paradigm of the relationship between the Lord and Israel (2.25; 11.1).

Not all aspects of Hosea's life are clear, and it remains debatable whether one can deduce actual biographical facts from the descriptions in chs 1-3. But insofar as these chapters construct a biographical story for prophetic purposes, it can best be reconstructed that Hosea deals with Gomer as the Lord deals with Israel. Gomer is "a wife of whoredom," best understood as "a promiscuous woman." She bore three children, of whom Hosea was presumably not the father (2.4-5). After a period of marital separation, Hosea took her back (3.1-5). In a similar way, Israel, the LORD's unfaithful wife, will be separated from her husband and home but, just as Hosea bought back Gomer (3.2), the Lord will restore Israel. Hosea's images of Israel's sexual misconduct may be more than symbolic (e.g., 4.13-19; 9.1). Canaanite religious practice may have included sexual rites in the imitation of the gods, who, presumably, generated terrestrial fertility through sexual intercourse.

Hosea began his career in the final days of Jeroboam II (1.1), whose reign capped a century of political stability and economic prosperity in the Northern Kingdom under the Jehu dynasty. Jeroboam died in 747 BCE about the time that, in Assyria, Tiglath-pileser III came to power (745 BCE) and initiated a program of imperial expansion. A prolonged national crisis ensued, which ended with the demise of the Northern Kingdom. Israel floundered under the Assyrian onslaught: Of the six kings who reigned in the next two decades, four were assassinated as the nation veered between appeasement, at the cost of heavy tribute, and rebellion, seeking futile alliances with Syria and Egypt. We cannot be sure when Hosea's prophetic career ended, though his oracles appear to allude to events right up to the Assyrian siege of Samaria in 722 BCE (13.10-11,16).

During this national crisis, Hosea issued an unrelenting critique of existing political and religious institutions. Through dynastic kingship, political alliances with other nations, and above all, illicit religious practices, Israel had violated the divine claim upon it, forged in the time of Moses, for exclusive dependence upon and worship of the Lord. As divine punishment, Israel would be stripped of political and religious institutions too corrupts to be reformed and its land left desolate and barren. Israel would, in essence, find itself again in the wilderness.

The severity of the prophetic critique, however, is juxtaposed with the language of divine longing and compassion (11.1-11; 13.4-7). In the short term, Hosea presented the disintegration of the northern state as inevitable. Drawing on a pattern discerned in Israel's sacred traditions, Hosea ultimately offered hope. In this new wilderness, as in the Sinai desert, Israel would recognize its dependence on the Lord and be restored to a harmonious state with God, and with the natural world (2.14-23).

After the destruction of Samaria, Hosea's words were preserved and transmitted in Judah. Some or all of the references to Judah may have been added in this era as Hosea's words were reinterpreted to address an analogous situation there (e.g., 1.7; 3.5; 11.12). At the same time, it is possible that Hosea himself, through a northern prophet, addressed Judah as well.

The book has two major sections, which appear to be roughly chronological. Chapters 1-3 contain the material about Hosea's marriage and can be understood against the background of the last days of Jeroboam III, since 1.4 announces the demise of the Jehu dynasty of which Jeroboam was the final ruler. The second major section, chs 4-14, consists entirely of prophetic speeches that seem to allude to the chaotic days following the demise of the house of Jehu and the prolonged Assyria crisis. Boundaries between individual speech units in this second section are difficult to discern. It seems to fall into two part (chs 4-11; 12-14), rhetorically couched as legal indictments of Israel for breach of covenant (4.1; 12.2), and ending with images of restoration (11.1-11; 14.1-7).

[Hosea 1]
Superscription

1 The word of the LORD that came to Hosea son of Beerī, in the days of Kings Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah of Judah, and in the days of King Jeroboam son of Joash of Israel.

Hosea's family life as a symbolic vehicle for divine communication; Hosea's marriage to Gomer, and the birth, naming, and renaming of their children as prophetic signs

2 When the LORD first spoke through Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea, "Go, take for yourself a wife of whoredom and have children of whoredom, for the land commits great whoredom by forsaking the LORD." 3 So he went and took Gomer daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

4 And the LORD said to him, "Name him Jezreel; for in a little while I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel. 5 On that day I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel."

6 She conceived again and bore a daughter. Then the LORD said to him, "Name her Lo-ruhamah, for I will no longer have pity on the house of Israel or forgive them. 7 But I will have pity on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the LORD their God; I will not save them by bow, or by sword, or by war, or by horses, or by horsemen."

8 When she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived and bore a son. 9 Then the LORD said, "Name him Lo-ammi, for you are not my people and I am not your God."

10 Yet the number of the people of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, which can be neither measured nor numbered; and in the place where it was said to them, "You are not my people," it shall be said to them, "Children of the living God." 11 The people of Judah and the people of Israel shall be gathered together, and they shall appoint for themselves one head; and they shall take possession of the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

[Hosea 2]

A prophetic speech based on the preceding sign-acts

1 Say to your brother, Ammi, and to your sister, Ruhamah.

Israel's Infidelity, Punishment, and Redemption

2 Plead with your mother, plead —

for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband —

that she put away her whoring from her face,

and her adultery from between her breasts,

3 or I will strip her naked

and expose her as in the day she was born,

and make her like a wilderness,

and turn her into a parched land,

and kill her with thirst.

4 Upon her children also I will have no pity,

because they are children of whoredom.

5 For their mother has played the whore;

she who conceived them has acted shamefully.

For she said, "I will go after my lovers;

they give me my bread and my water,

my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink."

6 Therefore I will hedge up her way with thorns;

and I will build a wall against her,

so that she cannot find her paths.

7 She shall pursue her lovers,

but not overtake them;

and she shall seek them,

but shall not find them.

Then she shall say, "I will go

and return to my first husband,

for it was better with me than now."

- 8 She did not know that it was I who gave her
the grain, the wine, and the oil, and who lavished upon her silver and gold that they used for Baal.
- 9 Therefore I will take back
my grain in its time,
and my wine in its season;
and I will take away my wool and my flax,
which were to cover her nakedness.
- 10 Now I will uncover her shame
in the sight of her lovers,
and no one shall rescue her out of my hand.
- 11 I will put an end to all her mirth,
her festivals, her new moons, her sabbaths,
and all her appointed festivals.
- 12 I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees,
of which she said,
"These are my pay,
which my lovers have given me."
I will make them a forest,
and the wild animals shall devour them.
- 13 I will punish her for the festival days of the Baals,
when she offered incense to them
and decked herself with her ring and jewelry,
and went after her lovers,
and forgot me, says the LORD.
- 14 Therefore, I will now allure her,
and bring her into the wilderness,
and speak tenderly to her.
- 15 From there I will give her her vineyards,
and make the Valley of Achor a door of hope.
There she shall respond as in the days of her youth,
as at the time when she came out of the land of Egypt.
- 16 On that day, says the LORD, you will call me, "My husband," and no longer will you call me, "My Baal." 17 For I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and they shall be mentioned by name no more. 18 I will make for you a covenant on that day with the wild animals, the birds of the air, and the creeping things of the ground; and I will abolish the bow, the sword, and war from the land; and I will make you lie down in safety. 19 And I will take you for my wife forever; I will take you for my wife in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love, and in mercy. 20 I will take you for my wife in faithfulness; and you shall know the LORD.

21 On that day I will answer, says the LORD,

I will answer the heavens
and they shall answer the earth;

22 and the earth shall answer the grain, the wine, and the oil,
and they shall answer Jezreel;

23 and I will sow him for myself in the land.

And I will have pity on Lo-ruhamah,
and I will say to Lo-ammi, "You are my people";
and he shall say, "You are my God."

[Hosea 3]

The restoration of Hosea's marriage

1 The LORD said to me again, "Go, love a woman who has a lover and is an adulteress, just as the LORD loves the people of Israel, though they turn to other gods and love raisin cakes." 2 So I bought her for fifteen shekels of silver and a homer of barley and a measure of wine. 3 And I said to her, "You must remain as mine for many days; you shall not play the whore, you shall not have intercourse with a man, nor I with you." 4 For the Israelites shall remain many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or pillar, without ephod or teraphim. 5 Afterward the Israelites shall return and seek the LORD their God, and David their king; they shall come in awe to the LORD and to his goodness in the latter days.

[Hosea 4]

The prophetic speeches of Hosea indict Israel for unfaithfulness and announce the divine judgment, while offering hope of eventual restoration

1 Hear the word of the LORD, O people of Israel;
for the LORD has an indictment against the inhabitants of the land.

There is no faithfulness or loyalty,
and no knowledge of God in the land.

2 Swearing, lying, and murder,
and stealing and adultery break out;
bloodshed follows bloodshed.

3 Therefore the land mourns,
and all who live in it languish;
together with the wild animals
and the birds of the air,
even the fish of the sea are perishing.

An indictment of corrupt religious practices

4 Yet let no one contend,
and let none accuse,
for with you is my contention, O priest.

5 You shall stumble by day;
the prophet also shall stumble with you by night,
and I will destroy your mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge;
because you have rejected knowledge,
I reject you from being a priest to me.
And since you have forgotten the law of your God,
I also will forget your children.

7 The more they increased,
the more they sinned against me;
they changed their glory into shame.

8 They feed on the sin of my people;
they are greedy for their iniquity.

- 9 And it shall be like people, like priest;
 I will punish them for their ways,
 and repay them for their deeds.
- 10 They shall eat, but not be satisfied;
 they shall play the whore, but not multiply;
 because they have forsaken the LORD
 to devote themselves to 11 whoredom.

Wine and new wine
 take away the understanding.

- 12 My people consult a piece of wood,
 and their divining rod gives them oracles.
 For a spirit of whoredom has led them astray,
 and they have played the whore, forsaking their God.
- 13 They sacrifice on the tops of the mountains,
 and make offerings upon the hills,
 under oak, poplar, and terebinth,
 because their shade is good.

Therefore your daughters play the whore,
 and your daughters-in-law commit adultery.

- 14 I will not punish your daughters when they play the whore,
 nor your daughters-in-law when they commit adultery;
 for the men themselves go aside with whores,
 and sacrifice with temple prostitutes;
 thus a people without understanding comes to ruin.

- 15 Though you play the whore, O Israel,
 do not let Judah become guilty.
 Do not enter into Gilgal,
 or go up to Beth-aven,
 and do not swear, "As the LORD lives."

- 16 Like a stubborn heifer,
 Israel is stubborn;
 can the LORD now feed them
 like a lamb in a broad pasture?

- 17 Ephraim is joined to idols —
 let him alone.
- 18 When their drinking is ended, they indulge in sexual orgies;
 they love lewdness more than their glory.
- 19 A wind has wrapped them in its wings,
 and they shall be ashamed because of their altars.

[Hosea 5]

The people do not know the Lord

- 1 Hear this, O priests!
 Give heed, O house of Israel!
 Listen, O house of the king!
 For the judgment pertains to you;
 for you have been a snare at Mizpah,
 and a net spread upon Tabor,
- 2 and a pit dug deep in Shittim;
 but I will punish all of them.
- 3 I know Ephraim,
 and Israel is not hidden from me;
 for now, O Ephraim, you have played the whore;
 Israel is defiled.
- 4 Their deeds do not permit them
 to return to their God.
 For the spirit of whoredom is within them,
 and they do not know the LORD.
- 5 Israel's pride testifies against him;
 Ephraim stumbles in his guilt;
 Judah also stumbles with them.
- 6 With their flocks and herds they shall go to seek the LORD,
 but they will not find him;
 he has withdrawn from them.
- 7 They have dealt faithlessly with the LORD;
 for they have borne illegitimate children.
 Now the new moon shall devour them along with their fields.

- 8 Blow the horn in Gibeah,
the trumpet in Ramah.
Sound the alarm at Beth-aven;
look behind you, Benjamin!
- 9 Ephraim shall become a desolation
in the day of punishment;
among the tribes of Israel
I declare what is sure.
- 10 The princes of Judah have become like those who remove the landmark;
on them I will pour out
my wrath like water.
- 11 Ephraim is oppressed, crushed in judgment,
because he was determined to go after vanity.
- 12 Therefore I am like maggots to Ephraim,
and like rotteness to the house of Judah.
- 13 When Ephraim saw his sickness,
and Judah his wound,
then Ephraim went to Assyria,
and sent to the great king.
But he is not able to cure you or heal your wound.
- 14 For I will be like a lion to Ephraim,
and like a young lion to the house of Judah.
I myself will tear and go away;
I will carry off, and no one shall rescue.
- 15 I will return again to my place
until they acknowledge their guilt and seek my face.
In their distress they will beg my favor:

[Hosea 6]

- 1 "Come, let us return to the LORD;
for it is he who has torn, and he will heal us;
he has struck down, and he will bind us up.
- 2 After two days he will revive us;
on the third day he will raise us up,
that we may live before him.

- 3 Let us know, let us press on to know the LORD;
his appearing is as sure as the dawn;
he will come to us like the showers,
like the spring rains that water the earth."
- 4 What shall I do with you, O Ephraim?
What shall I do with you, O Judah?
Your love is like a morning cloud,
like the dew that goes away early.
- 5 Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets,
I have killed them by the words of my mouth,
and my judgment goes forth as the light.
- 6 For I desire steadfast love and not sacrifice,
the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.

An unholy gazetteer

- 7 But at Adam they transgressed the covenant;
there they dealt faithlessly with me.
- 8 Gilead is a city of evildoers,
tracked with blood.
- 9 As robbers lie in wait for someone,
so the priests are banded together;
they murder on the road to Shechem,
they commit a monstrous crime.
- 10 In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing;
Ephraim's whoredom is there, Israel is defiled.
- 11 For you also, O Judah, a harvest is appointed.

A corrupt people and government

When I would restore the fortunes of my people,

[Hosea 7]

- 1 when I would heal Israel,
 the corruption of Ephraim is revealed,
 and the wicked deeds of Samaria;
 for they deal falsely,
 the thief breaks in,
 and the bandits raid outside.
- 2 But they do not consider that I remember all their wickedness.
 Now their deeds surround them,
 they are before my face.
- 3 By their wickedness they make the king glad,
 and the officials by their treachery.
- 4 They are all adulterers;
 they are like a heated oven,
 whose baker does not need to stir the fire,
 from the kneading of the dough until it is leavened.
- 5 On the day of our king the officials became sick with the heat of wine;
 he stretched out his hand with mockers.
- 6 For they are kindled like an oven, their heart burns within them;
 all night their anger smolders;
 in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
- 7 All of them are hot as an oven,
 and they devour their rulers.
 All their kings have fallen;
 none of them calls upon me.

Mixing, religious and political, is bad

- 8 Ephraim mixes himself with the peoples;
 Ephraim is a cake not turned.

- 9 Foreigners devour his strength,
but he does not know it;
gray hairs are sprinkled upon him,
but he does not know it.
- 10 Israel's pride testifies against him;
yet they do not return to the LORD their God,
or seek him, for all this.
- 11 Ephraim has become like a dove,
silly and without sense;
they call upon Egypt, they go to Assyria.
- 12 As they go, I will cast my net over them;
I will bring them down like birds of the air;
I will discipline them according to the report made to their assembly.
- 13 Woe to them, for they have strayed from me!
Destruction to them, for they have rebelled against me!
I would redeem them,
but they speak lies against me.
- 14 They do not cry to me from the heart,
but they wail upon their beds;
they gash themselves for grain and wine;
they rebel against me.
- 15 It was I who trained and strengthened their arms,
yet they plot evil against me.
- 16 They turn to that which does not profit;
they have become like a defective bow;
their officials shall fall by the sword
because of the rage of their tongue.
So much for their babbling in the land of Egypt.

[Hosea 8]For the crime of assimilating foreign political models and religious practices, the punishment is foreign domination

- 1 Set the trumpet to your lips!
One like a vulture is over the house of the LORD,
because they have broken my covenant,
and transgressed my law.
- 2 Israel cries to me,
"My God, we — Israel — know you!"
- 3 Israel has spurned the good;
the enemy shall pursue him.

- 4 They made kings, but not through me;
they set up princes, but without my knowledge.
With their silver and gold they made idols
for their own destruction.
- 5 Your calf is rejected, O Samaria.
My anger burns against them.
How long will they be incapable of innocence?
- 6 For it is from Israel,
an artisan made it;
it is not God.
The calf of Samaria
shall be broken to pieces.
- 7 For they sow the wind,
and they shall reap the whirlwind.
The standing grain has no heads,
it shall yield no meal;
if it were to yield,
foreigners would devour it.
- 8 Israel is swallowed up;
now they are among the nations
as a useless vessel.
- 9 For they have gone up to Assyria,
a wild ass wandering alone;
Ephraim has bargained for lovers.

- 10 Though they bargain with the nations,
I will now gather them up.
They shall soon writhe
under the burden of kings and princes.
- 11 When Ephraim multiplied altars to expiate sin,
they became to him altars for sinning.
- 12 Though I write for him the multitude of my instructions,
they are regarded as a strange thing.
- 13 Though they offer choice sacrifices,
though they eat flesh,
the LORD does not accept them.
Now he will remember their iniquity,
and punish their sins;
they shall return to Egypt.
- 14 Israel has forgotten his Maker,
and built palaces;
and Judah has multiplied fortified cities;
but I will send a fire upon his cities,
and it shall devour his strongholds.

[Hosea 9]

Israel's festivals are condemned

- 1 Do not rejoice, O Israel!
Do not exult as other nations do;
for you have played the whore, departing from your God.
You have loved a prostitute's pay
on all threshing floors.
- 2 Threshing floor and wine vat shall not feed them,
and the new wine shall fail them.
- 3 They shall not remain in the land of the LORD;
but Ephraim shall return to Egypt,
and in Assyria they shall eat unclean food.

- 4 They shall not pour drink offerings of wine to the LORD,
and their sacrifices shall not please him.
Such sacrifices shall be like mourners' bread;
all who eat of it shall be defiled;
for their bread shall be for their hunger only;
it shall not come to the house of the LORD.
- 5 What will you do on the day of appointed festival,
and on the day of the festival of the LORD?
- 6 For even if they escape destruction,
Egypt shall gather them,
Memphis shall bury them.
Nettles shall possess their precious things of silver;
thorns shall be in their tents.

A response to the prophet's critics

- 7 The days of punishment have come,
the days of recompense have come;
Israel cries,
"The prophet is a fool,
the man of the spirit is mad!"
Because of your great iniquity,
your hostility is great.
- 8 The prophet is a sentinel for my God over Ephraim,
yet a fowler's snare is on all his ways,
and hostility in the house of his God.
- 9 They have deeply corrupted themselves
as in the days of Gibeah;
he will remember their iniquity,
he will punish their sins.

Before and after; Israel is dessicated

- 10 Like grapes in the wilderness,
I found Israel.
Like the first fruit on the fig tree,
in its first season,
I saw your ancestors.
But they came to Baal-peor,
and consecrated themselves to a thing of shame,
and became detestable like the thing they loved.
- 11 Ephraim's glory shall fly away like a bird —
no birth, no pregnancy, no conception!
- 12 Even if they bring up children,
I will bereave them until no one is left.
Woe to them indeed
when I depart from them!
- 13 Once I saw Ephraim as a young palm planted in a lovely meadow, but now Ephraim must lead out his children for slaughter.
- 14 Give them, O LORD —
what will you give?
Give them a miscarrying womb
and dry breasts.
- 15 Every evil of theirs began at Gilgal;
there I came to hate them.
Because of the wickedness of their deeds
I will drive them out of my house.
I will love them no more;
all their officials are rebels.
- 16 Ephraim is stricken,
their root is dried up,
they shall bear no fruit.
Even though they give birth,
I will kill the cherished offspring of their womb.
- 17 Because they have not listened to him,
my God will reject them;
they shall become wanderers among the nations.

[Hosea 10]Israel, a luxuriant vine, is now overrun with thorns

- 1 Israel is a luxuriant vine
that yields its fruit.
The more his fruit increased
the more altars he built;
as his country improved,
he improved his pillars.
- 2 Their heart is false;
now they must bear their guilt.
The LORD will break down their altars,
and destroy their pillars.
- 3 For now they will say:
"We have no king,
for we do not fear the LORD,
and a king — what could he do for us?"
- 4 They utter mere words;
with empty oaths they make covenants;
so litigation springs up like poisonous weeds
in the furrows of the field.
- 5 The inhabitants of Samaria tremble
for the calf of Beth-aven.
Its people shall mourn for it,
and its idolatrous priests shall wail over it,
over its glory that has departed from it.
- 6 The thing itself shall be carried to Assyria
as tribute to the great king.
Ephraim shall be put to shame,
and Israel shall be ashamed of his idol.

- 7 Samaria's king shall perish
like a chip on the face of the waters.
- 8 The high places of Aven, the sin of Israel,
shall be destroyed.
Thorn and thistle shall grow up on their altars.
They shall say to the mountains, Cover us,
and to the hills, Fall on us.
- 9 Since the days of Gibeah you have sinned, O Israel;
there they have continued.
Shall not war overtake them in Gibeah?
- 10 I will come against the wayward people to punish them;
and nations shall be gathered against them
when they are punished for their double iniquity.

Heifer Israel now plows wickedness

- 11 Ephraim was a trained heifer
that loved to thresh,
and I spared her fair neck;
but I will make Ephraim break the ground;
Judah must plow;
Jacob must harrow for himself.
- 12 Sow for yourselves righteousness;
reap steadfast love;
break up your fallow ground;
for it is time to seek the LORD,
that he may come and rain righteousness upon you.
- 13 You have plowed wickedness,
you have reaped injustice,
you have eaten the fruit of lies.
Because you have trusted in your power
and in the multitude of your warriors,

- 14 therefore the tumult of war shall rise against your people,
and all your fortresses shall be destroyed,
as Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel on the day of battle
when mothers were dashed in pieces with their children.
- 15 Thus it shall be done to you, O Bethel,
because of your great wickedness.
At dawn the king of Israel
shall be utterly cut off.

[Hosea 11]Israel as God's wayward child

- 1 When Israel was a child, I loved him,
and out of Egypt I called my son.
- 2 The more I called them,
the more they went from me;
they kept sacrificing to the Baals,
and offering incense to idols.
- 3 Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk,
I took them up in my arms;
but they did not know that I healed them.
- 4 I led them with cords of human kindness,
with bands of love.
I was to them like those who lift infants to their cheeks.
I bent down to them and fed them.
- 5 They shall return to the land of Egypt,
and Assyria shall be their king,
because they have refused to return to me.
- 6 The sword rages in their cities,
it consumes their oracle-priests,
and devours because of their schemes.
- 7 My people are bent on turning away from me.
To the Most High they call,
but he does not raise them up at all.

- 8 How can I give you up, Ephraim?
 How can I hand you over, O Israel?
 How can I make you like Admah?
 How can I treat you like Zeboiim?
 My heart recoils within me;
 my compassion grows warm and tender.
- 9 I will not execute my fierce anger;
 I will not again destroy Ephraim;
 for I am God and no mortal,
 the Holy One in your midst,
 and I will not come in wrath.
- 10 They shall go after the LORD,
 who roars like a lion;
 when he roars,
 his children shall come trembling from the west.
- 11 They shall come trembling like birds from Egypt,
 and like doves from the land of Assyria;
 and I will return them to their homes, says the LORD.

The futility of foreign alliances

- 12 Ephraim has surrounded me with lies,
 and the house of Israel with deceit;
 but Judah still walks with God,
 and is faithful to the Holy One.

[Hosea 12]

- 1 Ephraim herds the wind,
 and pursues the east wind all day long;
 they multiply falsehood and violence;
 they make a treaty with Assyria,
 and oil is carried to Egypt.

Rebellion and restoration; a divine lawsuit against Israel, which mixes historical perspectives with contemporary critique

- 2 The LORD has an indictment against Judah,
and will punish Jacob according to his ways,
and repay him according to his deeds.
- 3 In the womb he tried to supplant his brother,
and in his manhood he strove with God.
- 4 He strove with the angel and prevailed,
he wept and sought his favor;
he met him at Bethel,
and there he spoke with him.
- 5 The LORD the God of hosts,
the LORD is his name!
- 6 But as for you, return to your God,
hold fast to love and justice,
and wait continually for your God.
- 7 A trader, in whose hands are false balances,
he loves to oppress.
- 8 Ephraim has said, "Ah, I am rich,
I have gained wealth for myself;
in all of my gain
no offense has been found in me
that would be sin."
- 9 I am the LORD your God
from the land of Egypt;
I will make you live in tents again,
as in the days of the appointed festival.
- 10 I spoke to the prophets;
it was I who multiplied visions,
and through the prophets I will bring destruction.
- 11 In Gilead there is iniquity,
they shall surely come to nothing.
In Gilgal they sacrifice bulls,
so their altars shall be like stone heaps on the furrows of the field.

- 12 Jacob fled to the land of Aram,
there Israel served for a wife,
and for a wife he guarded sheep.
- 13 By a prophet the LORD brought Israel up from Egypt,
and by a prophet he was guarded.
- 14 Ephraim has given bitter offense,
so his Lord will bring his crimes down on him
and pay him back for his insults.

[Hosea 13]

- 1 When Ephraim spoke, there was trembling;
he was exalted in Israel;
but he incurred guilt through Baal and died.
- 2 And now they keep on sinning
and make a cast image for themselves,
idols of silver made according to their understanding,
all of them the work of artisans.
"Sacrifice to these," they say.
People are kissing calves!
- 3 Therefore they shall be like the morning mist or like the dew that goes away early,
like chaff that swirls from the threshing floor
or like smoke from a window.
- 4 Yet I have been the LORD your God
ever since the land of Egypt;
you know no God but me,
and besides me there is no savior.
- 5 It was I who fed you in the wilderness,
in the land of drought.
- 6 When I fed them, they were satisfied;
they were satisfied, and their heart was proud;
therefore they forgot me.
- 7 So I will become like a lion to them,
like a leopard I will lurk beside the way.

8 I will fall upon them like a bear robbed of her cubs,
and will tear open the covering of their heart;
there I will devour them like a lion,
as a wild animal would mangle them.

9 I will destroy you, O Israel;
who can help you?

10 Where now is your king, that he may save you?
Where in all your cities are your rulers,
of whom you said,
"Give me a king and rulers"?

11 I gave you a king in my anger,
and I took him away in my wrath.

12 Ephraim's iniquity is bound up;
his sin is kept in store.

13 The pangs of childbirth come for him,
but he is an unwise son;
for at the proper time he does not present himself
at the mouth of the womb.

14 Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol?
Shall I redeem them from Death?
O Death, where are your plagues?
O Sheol, where is your destruction?
Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

15 Although he may flourish among rushes,
the east wind shall come, a blast from the LORD,
rising from the wilderness;
and his fountain shall dry up,
his spring shall be parched.
It shall strip his treasury
of every precious thing.

16 Samaria shall bear her guilt,
because she has rebelled against her God;
they shall fall by the sword,
their little ones shall be dashed in pieces,
and their pregnant women ripped open.

[Hosea 14]

A final plea for repentance and a vision of restoration

- 1 Return, O Israel, to the LORD your God,
for you have stumbled because of your iniquity.
- 2 Take words with you
and return to the LORD;
say to him,
"Take away all guilt;
accept that which is good,
and we will offer
the fruit of our lips.
- 3 Assyria shall not save us;
we will not ride upon horses;
we will say no more, 'Our God,'
to the work of our hands.
In you the orphan finds mercy."
- 4 I will heal their disloyalty;
I will love them freely,
for my anger has turned from them.
- 5 I will be like the dew to Israel;
he shall blossom like the lily,
he shall strike root like the forests of Lebanon.
- 6 His shoots shall spread out;
his beauty shall be like the olive tree,
and his fragrance like that of Lebanon.
- 7 They shall again live beneath my shadow,
they shall flourish as a garden;
they shall blossom like the vine,
their fragrance shall be like the wine of Lebanon.

- 8 O Ephraim, what have I to do with idols?
It is I who answer and look after you.
I am like an evergreen cypress;
your faithfulness comes from me.
- 9 Those who are wise understand these things;
those who are discerning know them.
For the ways of the LORD are right,
and the upright walk in them,
but transgressors stumble in them.

JOEL

Introduction

Of the prophet Joel himself nothing is known except that he was the son of Pethuel (1.1). From his book it appears that he lived in Judah during the Persian period (539-331 BCE). Thus the book's placement between Hosea and Amos among the Minor Prophets is not chronological and is apparently based on thematic and verbal correspondences between the end of Joel and the beginning of Amos. Joel 3.16a and Amos 1.2a are identical, and the final chapter of Joel and the initial chapter of Amos contain oracles against Tyre and Philistia.

Joel is not only acquainted with the Temple at Jerusalem, but is so much interested in its priesthood and services that, like Haggai and Zechariah, he can be considered a "cultic prophet," that is, a prophet who could exercise his ministry within the life of the Temple, even using liturgical forms, and whose message may have been transmitted through priestly circles. As such, Joel helps to mark a notable change in prophecy in the Hebrew Bible. Taking the characteristic forms of classical prophecy, he expands their apocalyptic and liturgical dimensions.

The dates of Joel's career cannot be determined with precision. The majority of historical references in the book, the absence of any mention of the Assyrians or Babylonians, and the heavy borrowing from other prophets point to the period from about 400-350 BCE.

The book has two major sections, and the second builds on the first. Joel viewed a locust plague that ravaged the country — a plague that devastated both the human community and the natural world — as God's judgment on the people, and he called them to repentance (1.2-2.27). Using this catastrophe as a dire warning, Joel went on to depict the coming of the "Day of the Lord" and its final judgments and blessings (2.28-3.21).

[Joel 1]
Superscription

1 The word of the LORD that came to Joel son of Pethuel:

The day of the locusts; a call to lament

2 Hear this, O elders,
 give ear, all inhabitants of the land!
 Has such a thing happened in your days,
 or in the days of your ancestors?

3 Tell your children of it,
 and let your children tell their children,
 and their children another generation.

4 What the cutting locust left,
 the swarming locust has eaten.
 What the swarming locust left,
 the hopping locust has eaten,
 and what the hopping locust left,
 the destroying locust has eaten.

5 Wake up, you drunkards, and weep;
 and wail, all you wine-drinkers,
 over the sweet wine,
 for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For a nation has invaded my land,
 powerful and innumerable;
 its teeth are lions' teeth,
 and it has the fangs of a lioness.

7 It has laid waste my vines,
and splintered my fig trees;
it has stripped off their bark and thrown it down;
their branches have turned white.

8 Lament like a virgin dressed in sackcloth
for the husband of her youth.

9 The grain offering and the drink offering are cut off from the house of the LORD.

The priests mourn,
the ministers of the LORD.

10 The fields are devastated,
the ground mourns;
for the grain is destroyed,
the wine dries up,
the oil fails.

11 Be dismayed, you farmers,
wail, you vinedressers,
over the wheat and the barley;
for the crops of the field are ruined.

12 The vine withers,
the fig tree droops.
Pomegranate, palm, and apple —
all the trees of the field are dried up;
surely, joy withers away
among the people.

13 Put on sackcloth and lament, you priests;
wail, you ministers of the altar.
Come, pass the night in sackcloth,
you ministers of my God!
Grain offering and drink offering are withheld from the house of your God.

14 Sanctify a fast,
 call a solemn assembly.
Gather the elders
 and all the inhabitants of the land to the house of the LORD your God,
 and cry out to the LORD.

A lament

15 Alas for the day!
 For the day of the LORD is near,
 and as destruction from the Almighty it comes.

16 Is not the food cut off
 before our eyes,
joy and gladness
 from the house of our God?

17 The seed shrivels under the clods,
 the storehouses are desolate;
the granaries are ruined
 because the grain has failed.

18 How the animals groan!
 The herds of cattle wander about because there is no pasture for them;
 even the flocks of sheep are dazed.

19 To you, O LORD, I cry.
 For fire has devoured
 the pastures of the wilderness,
and flames have burned
 all the trees of the field.

20 Even the wild animals cry to you because the watercourses are dried up,
and fire has devoured
 the pastures of the wilderness.

[Joel 2]The locust plague, an act of God

- 1 Blow the trumpet in Zion;
 sound the alarm on my holy mountain!
Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble, for the day of the LORD is coming, it is near —
- 2 a day of darkness and gloom,
 a day of clouds and thick darkness!
Like blackness spread upon the mountains
 a great and powerful army comes;
their like has never been from of old,
 nor will be again after them
 in ages to come.
- 3 Fire devours in front of them,
 and behind them a flame burns.
Before them the land is like the garden of Eden,
 but after them a desolate wilderness,
 and nothing escapes them.
- 4 They have the appearance of horses,
 and like war-horses they charge.
- 5 As with the rumbling of chariots,
 they leap on the tops of the mountains,
like the crackling of a flame of fire
 devouring the stubble,
like a powerful army
 drawn up for battle.
- 6 Before them peoples are in anguish,
 all faces grow pale.
- 7 Like warriors they charge,
 like soldiers they scale the wall.
Each keeps to its own course,
 they do not swerve from their paths.

- 8 They do not jostle one another,
 each keeps to its own track;
 they burst through the weapons
 and are not halted.
- 9 They leap upon the city,
 they run upon the walls;
 they climb up into the houses,
 they enter through the windows like a thief.
- 10 The earth quakes before them,
 the heavens tremble.
 The sun and the moon are darkened,
 and the stars withdraw their shining.
- 11 The LORD utters his voice
 at the head of his army;
 how vast is his host!
 Numberless are those who obey his command.
 Truly the day of the LORD is great;
 terrible indeed — who can endure it?

A call to repent

- 12 Yet even now, says the LORD,
 return to me with all your heart,
 with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning;
 13 rend your hearts and not your clothing.
 Return to the LORD, your God,
 for he is gracious and merciful,
 slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love,
 and relents from punishing.
- 14 Who knows whether he will not turn and relent,
 and leave a blessing behind him,
 a grain offering and a drink offering for the LORD, your God?
- 15 Blow the trumpet in Zion;
 sanctify a fast;
 call a solemn assembly;

- 16 gather the people.
 Sanctify the congregation;
 assemble the aged;
 gather the children,
 even infants at the breast.
 Let the bridegroom leave his room,
 and the bride her canopy.
- 17 Between the vestibule and the altar
 let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep.
 Let them say, "Spare your people, O LORD,
 and do not make your heritage a mockery,
 a byword among the nations.
 Why should it be said among the peoples,
 'Where is their God?'"

An oracle of salvation

- 18 Then the LORD became jealous for his land,
 and had pity on his people.
- 19 In response to his people the LORD said:
 I am sending you
 grain, wine, and oil,
 and you will be satisfied;
 and I will no more make you
 a mockery among the nations.
- 20 I will remove the northern army far from you,
 and drive it into a parched and desolate land,
 its front into the eastern sea,
 and its rear into the western sea;
 its stench and foul smell will rise up.
 Surely he has done great things!
- 21 Do not fear, O soil;
 be glad and rejoice,
 for the LORD has done great things!

- 22 Do not fear, you animals of the field,
for the pastures of the wilderness are green;
the tree bears its fruit,
the fig tree and vine give their full yield.
- 23 O children of Zion, be glad
and rejoice in the LORD your God;
for he has given the early rain for your vindication, he has poured down for you abundant rain,
the early and the later rain, as before.
- 24 The threshing floors shall be full of grain,
the vats shall overflow with wine and oil.
- 25 I will repay you for the years that the swarming locust has eaten,
the hopper, the destroyer, and the cutter,
my great army, which I sent against you.
- 26 You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied,
and praise the name of the LORD your God,
who has dealt wondrously with you.
And my people shall never again be put to shame.
- 27 You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I, the LORD, am your God and there is no other.
And my people shall never again be put to shame.

The Day of the Lord; the faithful are delivered

- 28 Then afterward
I will pour out my spirit on all flesh;
your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,
your old men shall dream dreams,
and your young men shall see visions.
- 29 Even on the male and female slaves,
in those days, I will pour out my spirit.

30 I will show portents in the heavens and on the earth, blood and fire and columns of smoke. 31 The sun shall be turned to darkness, and the moon to blood, before the great and terrible day of the LORD comes. 32 Then everyone who calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved; for in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be those who escape, as the LORD has said, and among the survivors shall be those whom the LORD calls.

[Joel 3]

The nations are judged

1 For then, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, 2 I will gather all the nations and bring them down to the valley of Jehoshaphat, and I will enter into judgment with them there, on account of my people and my heritage Israel, because they have scattered them among the nations. They have divided my land, 3 and cast lots for my people, and traded boys for prostitutes, and sold girls for wine, and drunk it down.

An oracle against Phoenicia and Philistia

4 What are you to me, O Tyre and Sidon, and all the regions of Philistia? Are you paying me back for something? If you are paying me back, I will turn your deeds back upon your own heads swiftly and speedily. 5 For you have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried my rich treasures into your temples. 6 You have sold the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks, removing them far from their own border. 7 But now I will rouse them to leave the places to which you have sold them, and I will turn your deeds back upon your own heads. 8 I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the people of Judah, and they will sell them to the Sabeans, to a nation far away; for the LORD has spoken.

The Lord throws down the gauntlet to the nations

- 9 Proclaim this among the nations:
Prepare war,
 stir up the warriors.
Let all the soldiers draw near,
 let them come up.
- 10 Beat your plowshares into swords,
 and your pruning hooks into spears;
 let the weakling say, "I am a warrior."
- 11 Come quickly,
 all you nations all around,
 gather yourselves there.
Bring down your warriors, O LORD.
- 12 Let the nations rouse themselves,
 and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat;
for there I will sit to judge
 all the neighboring nations.
- 13 Put in the sickle,
 for the harvest is ripe.
Go in, tread,
 for the wine press is full.
The vats overflow,
 for their wickedness is great.
- 14 Multitudes, multitudes,
 in the valley of decision!
For the day of the LORD is near
 in the valley of decision.
- 15 The sun and the moon are darkened,
 and the stars withdraw their shining.

- 16 The LORD roars from Zion,
and utters his voice from Jerusalem,
and the heavens and the earth shake.
But the LORD is a refuge for his people,
a stronghold for the people of Israel.
- 17 So you shall know that I, the LORD your God, dwell in Zion, my holy mountain.
And Jerusalem shall be holy,
and strangers shall never again pass through it.

The divine blessings

- 18 In that day
the mountains shall drip sweet wine,
the hills shall flow with milk,
and all the stream beds of Judah
shall flow with water;
a fountain shall come forth from the house of the LORD and water the Wadi Shittim.
- 19 Egypt shall become a desolation
and Edom a desolate wilderness,
because of the violence done to the people of Judah,
in whose land they have shed innocent blood.
- 20 But Judah shall be inhabited forever,
and Jerusalem to all generations.
- 21 I will avenge their blood, and I will not clear the guilty,
for the LORD dwells in Zion.

AMOS

Introduction

The book of Amos is a compilation of sayings attributed to the prophet Amos, who was active in the first half of the eighth century BCE, during the long and peaceful reign of Jeroboam II (788-747; Am 1.1). In this period, Israel attained a height of territorial expansion and national prosperity never again reached. At the same time, this prosperity led to gross inequities between urban elites and the poor. Through manipulation of debt and credit, wealthy landowners amassed capital and estates at the expense of small farmers. The smallest debt served as the thin end of a wedge that lenders could use to separate farmers from their patrimonial farms and personal liberty.

In this scene stepped Amos, a native of a small village in the Southern Kingdom Judah, and himself a farmer and herder, probably during the 760-750 BCE. Amos denounced the society of the Northern Kingdom, Israel, in vivid language, bitterly describing the decadent opulence, immorality, and smug piety of usually conservative elites who "trampled the head of the poor into the dust of the earth." Amos's program, in contrast, called for "justice" and "righteousness" (5.7, 24; 6.12), terms that connote social inequality and concern for the disadvantaged (Isa 5.7; Mic 6.8).

Against the background of Israelite tradition about "the Day of the Lord," occasions celebrated from the past and eagerly anticipated in the future when the Lord dramatically intervenes in human affairs, Amos announced that such a day was imminent. This time, however, the fortified palaces and temples of Israel would be leveled along with those of Israel's rival nations (1.3-2.3) when God executed the divine version of "justice and righteousness." Israel's covenant with God (3.2) did not absolve it from this ethical standard, which Amos, in so many words, universalized (9.7-8). Though Amos affirmed the special quality of God's relationship with Israel (9.8), he stressed that it entails a special ethical responsibility (3.1). The agent of this divine punishment would be the Assyrian army (Isa 10.5-11). The frequent references to exile in Amos (e.g., 3.11; 6.7; 7.17) reflect a grim threat, the Assyrian imperial practice of deporting and transplanting conquered peoples.

The book contains a variety of material. Some of Amos's sayings are presented as messenger speech ("thus says the Lord"), others as visions ("This is what the Lord showed me"), especially in chs 7-9. Amos, in a legal style of indictment followed by punishment ("therefore..."), announced judgments (e.g., 1.3-2.16), delivered funeral orations (5.1-2), and exhorted (5.6). He only rarely encouraged (see 9.11-15) in the book. In addition to the above types of prophetic sayings, the book contains three fragments from a hymn (4.13; 5.8-9; 9.5-6) and one narrative, about Amos's encounter with Amaziah, priest of the Northern Kingdom's royal sanctuary at Bethel (7.10-17).

That narrative and the superscription (1.1) yield only the portrait of the prophet. A native of the southern state of Judah who raised livestock and tended fruit trees, Amos prophesied to and in the northern state, Israel. At Bethel (7.13) his bitter invective, voiced as divine word ("I hate, I despise your festivals," 5.21) no doubt scandalized pilgrims from Samaria, capital of the Northern Kingdom. His confrontation with Amaziah (7.10-17) remains one of the unforgettable scenes in biblical prophecy. Expelled from the royal sanctuary and commanded not to prophesy there again, Amos perhaps returned to Judah where he, or like-minded scribes, wrote down the essence of his public preaching in substantially its present form.

Amos's prophetic career was roughly contemporaneous with that of Hosea, though Amos probably preceded him. Chronologically, then, Amos inaugurated the era of classical prophecy. In some ancient manuscript traditions (the Septuagint [LXX], the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible), the book of Amos directly follows Hosea. The traditional arrangement of the Book of the Twelve, however, is based not solely on chronology but often on specific verbal similarities that link the end of one book to the beginning of the next. Amos is linked to its predecessor Joel by identical phrases (see Joel

3.16a and Am 1.2a) and to its successor Obadiah by a similar subject (Edom in Am 9.12 and Ob 1).

The book of Amos falls into three major parts: Chs 1-2 represent a single speech, an ethical tour of the region from the divine perspective, which climaxes in the indictment of Israel itself; chs 3-6 are the most variegated section and form a collection of short prophetic sayings indicting Israel for sin and injustice; chs 7-9 contain the visions of Amos, as well as the Amaziah narrative (7.10-17) and a final speech of comfort (9.11-15) addressed not to Israel but to Judah. The best approach for readers is to follow the sequence of the book itself.

The book of Amos begins and ends with references to an earthquake. (1.1 and the images of shaking in 9.1-9). We do not know the exact year (760 BCE has been proposed), but there is archaeological evidence of a catastrophe. Did this earthquake, so severe that it was recalled centuries later (Zech 14.5), offer cosmic validation of Amos's preaching? We cannot know. Still, even today we feel the aftershocks of Amos, the first in a brilliant succession of biblical prophets whose words, now preserved in written form, have left their indelible stamp on later thought about God and human history.

[Amos 1] Superscription

1 The words of Amos, who was among the shepherds of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of King Uzziah of Judah and in the days of King Jeroboam son of Joash of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

A speech against the nations

2 And he said:

The LORD roars from Zion,
and utters his voice from Jerusalem;
the pastures of the shepherds wither,
and the top of Carmel dries up.

Against Damascus

3 Thus says the LORD:

For three transgressions of Damascus,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they have threshed Gilead
with threshing sledges of iron.

4 So I will send a fire on the house of Hazael,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break the gate bars of Damascus,
and cut off the inhabitants from the Valley of Aven,
and the one who holds the scepter from Beth-eden;
and the people of Aram shall go into exile to Kir,
says the LORD.

Against Philistia

6 Thus says the LORD:

For three transgressions of Gaza,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they carried into exile entire communities,
to hand them over to Edom.

7 So I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza,
fire that shall devour its strongholds.

8 I will cut off the inhabitants from Ashdod,
and the one who holds the scepter from Ashkelon;
I will turn my hand against Ekron,
and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,
says the Lord God.

Against Tyre

9 Thus says the LORD:

For three transgressions of Tyre,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they delivered entire communities over to Edom,
and did not remember the covenant of kinship.

10 So I will send a fire on the wall of Tyre,
fire that shall devour its strongholds.

Against Edom

11 Thus says the LORD:

For three transgressions of Edom,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because he pursued his brother with the sword
and cast off all pity;
he maintained his anger perpetually,
and kept his wrath forever.

12 So I will send a fire on Teman,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Bozrah.

Against Ammon

13 Thus says the LORD:

For three transgressions of the Ammonites,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they have ripped open pregnant women in Gilead
in order to enlarge their territory.

14 So I will kindle a fire against the wall of Rabbah,
fire that shall devour its strongholds,
with shouting on the day of battle,
with a storm on the day of the whirlwind;

15 then their king shall go into exile,
he and his officials together,
says the LORD.

[Amos 2]
Against Moab

- 1 Thus says the LORD:
For three transgressions of Moab,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because he burned to lime
the bones of the king of Edom.
- 2 So I will send a fire on Moab,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Kerioth,
and Moab shall die amid uproar,
amid shouting and the sound of the trumpet;
- 3 I will cut off the ruler from its midst,
and will kill all its officials with him,
says the LORD.

Against Judah

- 4 Thus says the LORD:
For three transgressions of Judah,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they have rejected the law of the LORD,
and have not kept his statutes,
but they have been led astray by the same lies
after which their ancestors walked.
- 5 So I will send a fire on Judah,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Jerusalem.

Against Israel

- 6 Thus says the LORD:
For three transgressions of Israel,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment;
because they sell the righteous for silver,
and the needy for a pair of sandals —

- 7 they who trample the head of the poor into the dust of the earth,
and push the afflicted out of the way;
father and son go in to the same girl,
so that my holy name is profaned;
- 8 they lay themselves down beside every altar
on garments taken in pledge;
and in the house of their God they drink
wine bought with fines they imposed.
- 9 Yet I destroyed the Amorite before them,
whose height was like the height of cedars,
and who was as strong as oaks;
I destroyed his fruit above,
and his roots beneath.
- 10 Also I brought you up out of the land of Egypt,
and led you forty years in the wilderness,
to possess the land of the Amorite.
- 11 And I raised up some of your children to be prophets and some of your youths to be nazirites.
Is it not indeed so, O people of Israel?
says the LORD.
- 12 But you made the nazirites drink wine,
and commanded the prophets,
saying, "You shall not prophesy."
- 13 So, I will press you down in your place,
just as a cart presses down
when it is full of sheaves.
- 14 Flight shall perish from the swift,
and the strong shall not retain their strength,
nor shall the mighty save their lives;
- 15 those who handle the bow shall not stand,
and those who are swift of foot shall not save themselves,
nor shall those who ride horses save their lives;
- 16 and those who are stout of heart among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day,
says the LORD.

[Amos 3]Judgment speeches against Israel; a chosen people are held to a higher standard

1 Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O people of Israel, against the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt:

2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth;
 therefore I will punish you
 for all your iniquities.

A series of rhetorical questions

3 Do two walk together
 unless they have made an appointment?

4 Does a lion roar in the forest,
 when it has no prey?

 Does a young lion cry out from its den,
 if it has caught nothing?

5 Does a bird fall into a snare on the earth,
 when there is no trap for it?

 Does a snare spring up from the ground,
 when it has taken nothing?

6 Is a trumpet blown in a city,
 and the people are not afraid?

 Does disaster befall a city,
 unless the LORD has done it?

7 Surely the Lord GOD does nothing, without revealing his secret
 to his servants the prophets.

8 The lion has roared;
 who will not fear?

 The Lord GOD has spoken;
 who can but prophesy?

Neighboring nations are invited to witness the LORD's complaint

- 9 Proclaim to the strongholds in Ashdod,
 and to the strongholds in the land of Egypt,
 and say, "Assemble yourselves on Mount Samaria,
 and see what great tumults are within it,
 and what oppressions are in its midst."
 10 They do not know how to do right, says the LORD,
 those who store up violence and robbery in their strongholds.
 11 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
 An adversary shall surround the land,
 and strip you of your defense;
 and your strongholds shall be plundered.
- 12 Thus says the LORD: As the shepherd rescues from the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear, so shall the people of Israel who live in Samaria be rescued, with the corner of a couch and part of a bed.
- 13 Hear, and testify against the house of Jacob,
 says the Lord GOD, the God of hosts:
 14 On the day I punish Israel for its transgressions,
 I will punish the altars of Bethel,
 and the horns of the altar shall be cut off
 and fall to the ground.
 15 I will tear down the winter house as well as the summer house;
 and the houses of ivory shall perish,
 and the great houses shall come to an end,
 says the LORD.

[Amos 4]

Israel's luxurious excesses

- 1 Hear this word, you cows of Bashan
 who are on Mount Samaria,
 who oppress the poor, who crush the needy,
 who say to their husbands, "Bring something to drink!"

- 2 The Lord GOD has sworn by his holiness:
 The time is surely coming upon you,
 when they shall take you away with hooks,
 even the last of you with fishhooks.
- 3 Through breaches in the wall you shall leave,
 each one straight ahead;
 and you shall be flung out into Harmon,
 says the LORD.

Israel's piety is satirized

- 4 Come to Bethel — and transgress;
 to Gilgal — and multiply transgression;
 bring your sacrifices every morning,
 your tithes every three days;
- 5 bring a thank offering of leavened bread,
 and proclaim freewill offerings, publish them;
 for so you love to do, O people of Israel!
 says the Lord GOD.

Israel has ignored the divine warnings issued through plagues

- 6 I gave you cleanness of teeth in all your cities,
 and lack of bread in all your places,
 yet you did not return to me,
 says the LORD.
- 7 And I also withheld the rain from you when there were still three months to the harvest; I would send rain on one city,
 and send no rain on another city;
 one field would be rained upon,
 and the field on which it did not rain withered;
- 8 so two or three towns wandered to one town
 to drink water, and were not satisfied;
 yet you did not return to me,
 says the LORD.

9 I struck you with blight and mildew;
 I laid waste your gardens and your vineyards;
 the locust devoured your fig trees and your olive trees;
 yet you did not return to me,
 says the LORD.

10 I sent among you a pestilence after the manner of Egypt;
 I killed your young men with the sword;
 I carried away your horses;
 and I made the stench of your camp go up into your nostrils;
 yet you did not return to me,
 says the LORD.

11 I overthrew some of you,
 as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah,
 and you were like a brand snatched from the fire;
 yet you did not return to me,
 says the LORD.

12 Therefore thus I will do to you, O Israel;
 because I will do this to you,
 prepare to meet your God, O Israel!

13 For lo, the one who forms the mountains, creates the wind, reveals his thoughts to mortals,
 makes the morning darkness,
 and treads on the heights of the earth —
 the LORD, the God of hosts, is his name!

[Amos 5]
Lament for Israel

1 Hear this word that I take up over you in lamentation, O house of Israel:

2 Fallen, no more to rise,
 is maiden Israel;
 forsaken on her land,
 with no one to raise her up.

3 For thus says the Lord GOD:
 The city that marched out a thousand
 shall have a hundred left,
 and that which marched out a hundred shall have ten left.

A plea for repentance

4 For thus says the LORD to the house of Israel:
 Seek me and live;
 5 but do not seek Bethel,
 and do not enter into Gilgal
 or cross over to Beer-sheba;
 for Gilgal shall surely go into exile,
 and Bethel shall come to nothing.

6 Seek the LORD and live, or he will break out against the house of Joseph like fire,
 and it will devour Bethel, with no one to quench it.
 7 Ah, you that turn justice to wormwood,
 and bring righteousness to the ground!

The second doxology

8 The one who made the Pleiades and Orion,
 and turns deep darkness into the morning,
 and darkens the day into night,
 who calls for the waters of the sea,
 and pours them out on the surface of the earth,
 the LORD is his name,
 9 who makes destruction flash out against the strong,
 so that destruction comes upon the fortress.

Amos condemns a corrupt legal system

10 They hate the one who reproves in the gate,
 and they abhor the one who speaks the truth.

- 11 Therefore because you trample on the poor and take from them levies of grain,
you have built houses of hewn stone,
but you shall not live in them;
you have planted pleasant vineyards,
but you shall not drink their wine.
- 12 For I know how many are your transgressions,
and how great are your sins —
you who afflict the righteous, who take a bribe,
and push aside the needy in the gate.
- 13 Therefore the prudent will keep silent in such a time;
for it is an evil time.

- 14 Seek good and not evil,
that you may live;
and so the LORD, the God of hosts, will be with you,
just as you have said.
- 15 Hate evil and love good,
and establish justice in the gate;
it may be that the LORD, the God of hosts,
will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.
- 16 Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord:
In all the squares there shall be wailing;
and in all the streets they shall say, "Alas! alas!"
They shall call the farmers to mourning,
and those skilled in lamentation, to wailing;
- 17 in all the vineyards there shall be wailing,
for I will pass through the midst of you,
says the LORD.

A series of "woe" sayings; the Day of the Lord

- 18 Alas for you who desire the day of the LORD!
Why do you want the day of the LORD?
It is darkness, not light;

- 19 as if someone fled from a lion,
and was met by a bear;
or went into the house and rested a hand against the wall,
and was bitten by a snake.
20 Is not the day of the LORD darkness, not light,
and gloom with no brightness in it?

The Lord delights not in abundance of festivals and sacrifices but in justice and righteousness

- 21 I hate, I despise your festivals,
and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.
22 Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and grain offerings,
I will not accept them;
and the offerings of well-being of your fatted animals
I will not look upon.
23 Take away from me the noise of your songs;
I will not listen to the melody of your harps.
24 But let justice roll down like waters,
and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

25 Did you bring to me sacrifices and offerings the forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? 26 You shall take up Sakkuth your king, and Kaiwan your star-god, your images, which you made for yourselves; 27 therefore I will take you into exile beyond Damascus, says the LORD, whose name is the God of hosts.

[Amos 6]

An indictment of conspicuous consumption

- 1 Alas for those who are at ease in Zion,
and for those who feel secure on Mount Samaria,
the notables of the first of the nations,
to whom the house of Israel resorts!

- 2 Cross over to Calneh, and see;
 from there go to Hamath the great;
 then go down to Gath of the Philistines.
 Are you better than these kingdoms?
 Or is your territory greater than their territory,
- 3 O you that put far away the evil day,
 and bring near a reign of violence?
- 4 Alas for those who lie on beds of ivory,
 and lounge on their couches,
 and eat lambs from the flock,
 and calves from the stall;
- 5 who sing idle songs to the sound of the harp,
 and like David improvise on instruments of music;
- 6 who drink wine from bowls,
 and anoint themselves with the finest oils,
 but are not grieved over the ruin of Joseph!
- 7 Therefore they shall now be the first to go into exile,
 and the revelry of the loungers shall pass away.

Judgment on Israel

- 8 The Lord GOD has sworn by himself
 (says the LORD, the God of hosts):
 I abhor the pride of Jacob
 and hate his strongholds;
 and I will deliver up the city and all that is in it.
- 9 If ten people remain in one house, they shall die. 10 And if a relative, one who burns the dead, shall take up the body to bring it out of the house, and shall say to someone in the innermost parts of the house,
 "Is anyone else with you?" the answer will come, "No." Then the relative shall say, "Hush! We must not mention the name of the LORD."
- 11 See, the LORD commands,
 and the great house shall be shattered to bits,
 and the little house to pieces.

- 12 Do horses run on rocks?
 Does one plow the sea with oxen?
 But you have turned justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood —
- 13 you who rejoice in Lo-debar, who say, "Have we not by our own strength
 taken Karnaim for ourselves?"
- 14 Indeed, I am raising up against you a nation,
 O house of Israel, says the LORD, the God of hosts, and they shall oppress you from Lebo-hamath
 to the Wadi Arabah.

[Amos 7]

The visions of Amos; a series of three visions; judgment by locusts

- 1 This is what the Lord GOD showed me: he was forming locusts at the time the latter growth began to sprout (it was the latter growth after the king's mowings). 2 When they had finished eating the grass of the land, I said,
 "O Lord GOD, forgive, I beg you!
 How can Jacob stand?
 He is so small!"
- 3 The LORD relented concerning this;
 "It shall not be," said the LORD.

Judgment by fire

- 4 This is what the Lord GOD showed me: the Lord GOD was calling for a shower of fire, and it devoured the great deep and was eating up the land. 5 Then I said,
 "O Lord GOD, cease, I beg you!
 How can Jacob stand?
 He is so small!"
- 6 The LORD relented concerning this;
 "This also shall not be," said the Lord GOD.

Israel falls short

7 This is what he showed me: the Lord was standing beside a wall built with a plumb line, with a plumb line in his hand. 8 And the LORD said to me, "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, "A plumb line." Then the Lord said,

"See, I am setting a plumb line
in the midst of my people Israel;
I will never again pass them by;

9 the high places of Isaac shall be made desolate,
and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste, and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword."

Amos and Amaziah

10 Then Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, sent to King Jeroboam of Israel, saying, "Amos has conspired against you in the very center of the house of Israel; the land is not able to bear all his words. 11 For thus Amos has said,

'Jeroboam shall die by the sword,
and Israel must go into exile
away from his land.'

12 And Amaziah said to Amos, "O seer, go, flee away to the land of Judah, earn your bread there, and prophesy there; 13 but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is a temple of the kingdom."

14 Then Amos answered Amaziah, "I am no prophet, nor a prophet's son; but I am a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees, 15 and the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.'

16 "Now therefore hear the word of the LORD.

You say, 'Do not prophesy against Israel,
and do not preach against the house of Isaac.'

17 Therefore thus says the LORD:

'Your wife shall become a prostitute in the city,
and your sons and your daughters shall fall by the sword,
and your land shall be parceled out by line;
you yourself shall die in an unclean land,
and Israel shall surely go into exile away from its land.'

[Amos 8]

Further visions and oracles; fourth vision

1 This is what the Lord GOD showed me — a basket of summer fruit. 2 He said, "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, "A basket of summer fruit." Then the LORD said to me,

"The end has come upon my people Israel;
I will never again pass them by.

3 The songs of the temple shall become wailings in that day,"
says the Lord GOD;

"the dead bodies shall be many,
cast out in every place. Be silent!"

Judgment speeches against Israel

4 Hear this, you that trample on the needy,
and bring to ruin the poor of the land,

5 saying, "When will the new moon be over
so that we may sell grain;

and the sabbath,
so that we may offer wheat for sale?

We will make the ephah small and the shekel great,
and practice deceit with false balances,

6 buying the poor for silver
and the needy for a pair of sandals,
and selling the sweepings of the wheat."

7 The LORD has sworn by the pride of Jacob:
Surely I will never forget any of their deeds.

- 8 Shall not the land tremble on this account,
and everyone mourn who lives in it,
and all of it rise like the Nile,
and be tossed about and sink again, like the Nile of Egypt?
- 9 On that day, says the Lord GOD,
I will make the sun go down at noon,
and darken the earth in broad daylight.
- 10 I will turn your feasts into mourning,
and all your songs into lamentation;
I will bring sackcloth on all loins,
and baldness on every head;
I will make it like the mourning for an only son,
and the end of it like a bitter day.
- 11 The time is surely coming, says the Lord GOD,
when I will send a famine on the land;
not a famine of bread, or a thirst for water,
but of hearing the words of the LORD.
- 12 They shall wander from sea to sea,
and from north to east;
they shall run to and fro, seeking the word of the LORD,
but they shall not find it.
- 13 In that day the beautiful young women and the young men shall faint for thirst.
- 14 Those who swear by Ashimah of Samaria,
and say, "As your god lives, O Dan,"
and, "As the way of Beer-sheba lives" —
they shall fall, and never rise again.

[Amos 9]
Fifth vision

- 1 I saw the LORD standing beside the altar, and he said:
 Strike the capitals until the thresholds shake,
 and shatter them on the heads of all the people;
 and those who are left I will kill with the sword;
 not one of them shall flee away,
 not one of them shall escape.
- 2 Though they dig into Sheol,
 from there shall my hand take them;
 though they climb up to heaven,
 from there I will bring them down.
- 3 Though they hide themselves on the top of Carmel,
 from there I will search out and take them;
 and though they hide from my sight at the bottom of the sea,
 there I will command the sea-serpent, and it shall bite them.
- 4 And though they go into captivity in front of their enemies,
 there I will command the sword, and it shall kill them;
 and I will fix my eyes on them
 for harm and not for good.
- 5 The Lord, GOD of hosts,
 he who touches the earth and it melts,
 and all who live in it mourn,
 and all of it rises like the Nile,
 and sinks again, like the Nile of Egypt;
- 6 who builds his upper chambers in the heavens,
 and founds his vault upon the earth;
 who calls for the waters of the sea,
 and pours them out upon the surface of the earth —
 the LORD is his name.

Israel has no claim to special privilege

- 7 Are you not like the Ethiopians to me,
 O people of Israel? says the LORD.
 Did I not bring Israel up from the land of Egypt,
 and the Philistines from Caphtor and the Arameans from Kir?
- 8 The eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the face of the earth
 — except that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,
 says the LORD.
- 9 For lo, I will command,
 and shake the house of Israel among all the nations
 as one shakes with a sieve,
 but no pebble shall fall to the ground.
- 10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, "Evil shall not overtake or meet us."

An oracle of restoration

- 11 On that day I will raise up
 the booth of David that is fallen,
 and repair its breaches,
 and raise up its ruins,
 and rebuild it as in the days of old;
- 12 in order that they may possess the remnant of Edom
 and all the nations who are called by my name, says the LORD who does this.
- 13 The time is surely coming, says the LORD,
 when the one who plows shall overtake the one who reaps,
 and the treader of grapes the one who sows the seed;
 the mountains shall drip sweet wine,
 and all the hills shall flow with it.
- 14 I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel,
 and they shall rebuild the ruined cities and inhabit them;
 they shall plant vineyards and drink their wine,
 and they shall make gardens and eat their fruit.

15 I will plant them upon their land,
and they shall never again be plucked up out of the land that I have given them, says the LORD your God.

OBADIAH

Introduction

Obadiah, the briefest book in the Hebrew Bible, is located between two eighth-century prophets, Amos and Micah. Though Obadiah contains no date formula, on the basis of its allusion to the fall of Jerusalem (586 BCE), it probably stems from the first half of the sixth century. Thus, its place in the sequence of Minor Prophets is not based on chronology. It seems that thematic considerations govern its placement following Amos: The subject of Obadiah, divine judgment against the Edomites, can be associated with Am 9.12; the "Day of the Lord" is a central idea for both books. Nothing is known about the prophet Obadiah. Since the name itself means "servant of the Lord," it could simply be an appellation (see Introduction to Malachi).

The book consists of poetic declamations against the Edomites, Israel's southeastern neighbor. Many biblical passages testify to the fraternity (Gen 25; 27; 36; Num 20.14; Deut 2.4, 8; 23.7; Am 1.11; Mal 1.2) between these neighboring peoples, as well as their enmity (Num 20.18-21; 1 Sam 14.47; 2 Sam 8.12-14; 1 Kings 11.14.22; Am 1.11; Mal 1.3). There are oracles against Edom throughout the prophetic corpus (Isa 21.11-12; 34; Jer 49.7-22; Ezek 35; Joel 3.19; Am 1.11-12; Mal 1.2-5). The strongest anti-Edomite invective stems from the time of the exile, when the Edomites, according to Ps 137.7; Lam 4.21; Ezek 35.5-6, abetted the Babylonian destruction of Jerusalem (see 1 Esd 4.45 for a later exaggeration of this theme).

Against the larger background of Edomite-Israelite hostility, Obadiah, similar to the above exilic writings, also focuses on Edom's complicity in the Babylonian conquest. Indeed, as indicated in the notes to the book in the Oxford Annotated editions, Obadiah's words of judgment bear striking similarities to this larger corpus of prophetic oracles against Edom.

In a book of only twenty-one verses, it is difficult and, perhaps, unnecessary to isolate subsections. There is a slight shift in subject matter from vv. 1-18, judgment directed against Edom, to 19-21, the vindication of Israel, which includes repatriation of its exiles and expansion into territories it had gradually lost to neighbors since the eighth century.

[Obadiah 1]

Introduction; the divine judgment against Edom

1 The vision of Obadiah.

Thus says the Lord GOD concerning Edom:

We have heard a report from the LORD,

and a messenger has been sent among the nations:

"Rise up! Let us rise against it for battle!"

2 I will surely make you least among the nations;
you shall be utterly despised.

3 Your proud heart has deceived you,
you that live in the clefts of the rock,
whose dwelling is in the heights.

You say in your heart,

"Who will bring me down to the ground?"

4 Though you soar aloft like the eagle,
though your nest is set among the stars,
from there I will bring you down,
says the LORD.

A taunt against Edom

5 If thieves came to you,
if plunderers by night
— how you have been destroyed! —
would they not steal only what they wanted?
If grape-gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?

- 6 How Esau has been pillaged,
his treasures searched out!
- 7 All your allies have deceived you,
they have driven you to the border;
your confederates have prevailed against you;
those who ate your bread have set a trap for you —
there is no understanding of it.

Doomsday for Edom

- 8 On that day, says the LORD,
I will destroy the wise out of Edom,
and understanding out of Mount Esau.
- 9 Your warriors shall be shattered, O Teman,
so that everyone from Mount Esau will be cut off.
- 10 For the slaughter and violence done to your brother Jacob,
shame shall cover you,
and you shall be cut off forever.
- 11 On the day that you stood aside,
on the day that strangers carried off his wealth,
and foreigners entered his gates and cast lots for Jerusalem,
you too were like one of them.

An eightfold indictment of Edom

- 12 But you should not have gloated over your brother
on the day of his misfortune;
you should not have rejoiced over the people of Judah
on the day of their ruin;
you should not have boasted
on the day of distress.
- 13 You should not have entered the gate of my people on the day of their calamity;
you should not have joined in the gloating over Judah's disaster
on the day of his calamity;
you should not have looted his goods
on the day of his calamity.

- 14 You should not have stood at the crossings
to cut off his fugitives;
you should not have handed over his survivors
on the day of distress.

The Day of the Lord

- 15 For the day of the LORD is near against all the nations.
As you have done, it shall be done to you;
your deeds shall return on your own head.
- 16 For as you have drunk on my holy mountain,
all the nations around you shall drink;
they shall drink and gulp down,
and shall be as though they had never been.
- 17 But on Mount Zion there shall be those that escape,
and it shall be holy;
and the house of Jacob shall take possession of those who dispossessed them.
- 18 The house of Jacob shall be a fire,
the house of Joseph a flame,
and the house of Esau stubble;
they shall burn them and consume them,
and there shall be no survivor of the house of Esau;
for the LORD has spoken.

Israel's vindication

- 19 Those of the Negeb shall possess Mount Esau,
and those of the Shephelah the land of the Philistines;
they shall possess the land of Ephraim and the land of Samaria,
and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
- 20 The exiles of the Israelites who are in Halah shall possess Phoenicia as far as Zarephath;
and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad shall possess the towns of the Negeb.

21 Those who have been saved shall go up to Mount Zion
to rule Mount Esau;
and the kingdom shall be the LORD's.

JONAH

Introduction

Jonah is unique among the prophetic books. Jonah himself is never called a prophet in the text. The book contains no collections of oracles in verse against Israel and foreign nations but presents a prose narrative about the prophet himself. Instead of portraying a prophet who is an obedient servant of the Lord, calling people to repentance, it features a recalcitrant prophet who tries to flee from God and his mission and sulks when his hearers repent.

The principal figure of this deceptively simple story is presumably based on an obscure Galilean prophet from Gath-hepher who counseled Jeroboam II (788-747 BCE) in a successful conflict with the Syrians (2 Kings 14.25). The author of the book of Jonah apparently drew upon legends that had collected about this prophet and put them to new use in a brief story that contains elements of folktale, fable, satire, and allegory. The two parts of the story, chs 1-2 and 3-4, are united by their central character (Jonah), a similar plot (the ironical conversion of foreigners to faith in the Lord), and an identical theme (the breadth of God's saving love). The influence of Jeremiah and Second Isaiah in the text suggest that the author probably lived in the postexilic period. Although the linguistic evidence is indecisive, a date in the fifth or fourth century BCE is plausible.

The book of Jonah is also uncharacteristic, when compared to other writings in the prophetic tradition, in its use of humor to make its point. Humorous qualities, such as exaggerated behavior (running away from God, 1.3); inappropriate actions (sleeping through a violent storm, 1.5); outlandish situations (offering a prayer of thanksgiving from inside a fish's belly, 2.1); ludicrous commands (animals must fast and wear sackcloth, 3.7-8); and emotions either contrary to expectation (anger at mercy, 4.1-2) or out of proportion (being angry enough to die because a plant has withered, 4.9) appear throughout the story. But all of these qualities serve to underline the book's themes.

Repentance and deliverance are the dominant themes in the story of Jonah, reflected in its use in the New Testament (Mt 12.38-41; Lk 11.29-32) and as the afternoon Prophetic Bible reading on the Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement). With skill and finesse this little book calls Israel to repentance and reminds it of God's extravagant mercy and forgiveness (Ex 34.6; Joel 2.13). In spirit, therefore, the book justifies its place in the Book of the Twelve Prophets.

[Jonah 1]

Jonah's first call to preach at Nineveh

1 Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah son of Amittai, saying, 2 "Go at once to Nineveh, that great city, and cry out against it; for their wickedness has come up before me." 3 But Jonah set out to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tarshish; so he paid his fare and went on board, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of the LORD.

4 But the LORD hurled a great wind upon the sea, and such a mighty storm came upon the sea that the ship threatened to break up. 5 Then the mariners were afraid, and each cried to his god. They threw the cargo that was in the ship into the sea, to lighten it for them. Jonah, meanwhile, had gone down into the hold of the ship and had lain down, and was fast asleep. 6 The captain came and said to him, "What are you doing sound asleep? Get up, call on your god! Perhaps the god will spare us a thought so that we do not perish."

7 The sailors said to one another, "Come, let us cast lots, so that we may know on whose account this calamity has come upon us." So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. 8 Then they said to him, "Tell us why this calamity has come upon us. What is your occupation? Where do you come from? What is your country? And of what people are you?" 9 "I am a Hebrew," he replied. "I worship the LORD, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land." 10 Then the men were even more afraid, and said to him, "What is this that you have done!" For the men knew that he was fleeing from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them so.

11 Then they said to him, "What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?" For the sea was growing more and more tempestuous. 12 He said to them, "Pick me up and throw me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you; for I know it is because of me that this great storm has come upon you." 13 Nevertheless the men rowed hard to bring the ship back to land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more stormy against them. 14 Then they cried out to the LORD, "Please, O LORD, we pray, do not let us perish on account of this man's life. Do not make us guilty of innocent blood; for you, O LORD, have done as it pleased you." 15 So they picked Jonah up and threw him into the sea; and the sea ceased from its raging. 16 Then the men feared the LORD even more, and they offered a sacrifice to the LORD and made vows.

17 But the LORD provided a large fish to swallow up Jonah; and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

[Jonah 2]

Jonah is miraculously saved; Jonah's prayer and its answer

1 Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish, 2 saying,

"I called to the LORD out of my distress,
and he answered me;
out of the belly of Sheol I cried,
and you heard my voice.

3 You cast me into the deep,
into the heart of the seas,
and the flood surrounded me;
all your waves and your billows
passed over me.

- 4 Then I said, 'I am driven away
 from your sight;
 how shall I look again
 upon your holy temple?'
- 5 The waters closed in over me;
 the deep surrounded me;
 weeds were wrapped around my head
- 6 at the roots of the mountains.
 I went down to the land
 whose bars closed upon me forever;
 yet you brought up my life from the Pit,
 O LORD my God.
- 7 As my life was ebbing away,
 I remembered the LORD;
 and my prayer came to you,
 into your holy temple.
- 8 Those who worship vain idols
 forsake their true loyalty.
- 9 But I with the voice of thanksgiving
 will sacrifice to you;
 what I have vowed I will pay.
 Deliverance belongs to the LORD!"
- 10 Then the LORD spoke to the fish, and it spewed Jonah out upon the dry land.

[Jonah 3]

Jonah's preaching to Nineveh

1 The word of the LORD came to Jonah a second time, saying, 2 "Get up, go to Nineveh, that great city, and proclaim to it the message that I tell you." 3 So Jonah set out and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly large city, a three days' walk across. 4 Jonah began to go into the city, going a day's walk. And he cried out, "Forty days more, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!" 5 And the people of Nineveh believed God; they proclaimed a fast, and everyone, great and small, put on sackcloth.

6 When the news reached the king of Nineveh, he rose from his throne, removed his robe, covered himself with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. 7 Then he had a proclamation made in Nineveh: "By the decree of the king and his nobles: No human being or animal, no herd or flock, shall taste anything. They shall not feed, nor shall they drink water. 8 Human beings and animals shall be covered with sackcloth, and they shall cry mightily to God. All shall turn from their evil ways and from the violence that is in their hands. 9 Who knows? God may relent and change his mind; he may turn from his fierce anger, so that we do not perish."

10 When God saw what they did, how they turned from their evil ways, God changed his mind about the calamity that he had said he would bring upon them; and he did not do it.

[Jonah 4]

God exposes Jonah's egotism and selfishness by word and deed

1 But this was very displeasing to Jonah, and he became angry. 2 He prayed to the LORD and said, "O LORD! Is not this what I said while I was still in my own country? That is why I fled to Tarshish at the beginning; for I knew that you are a gracious God and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love, and ready to relent from punishing. 3 And now, O LORD, please take my life from me, for it is better for me to die than to live." 4 And the LORD said, "Is it right for you to be angry?" 5 Then Jonah went out of the city and sat down east of the city, and made a booth for himself there. He sat under it in the shade, waiting to see what would become of the city.

6 The LORD God appointed a bush, and made it come up over Jonah, to give shade over his head, to save him from his discomfort; so Jonah was very happy about the bush. 7 But when dawn came up the next day, God appointed a worm that attacked the bush, so that it withered. 8 When the sun rose, God prepared a sultry east wind, and the sun beat down on the head of Jonah so that he was faint and asked that he might die. He said, "It is better for me to die than to live."

9 But God said to Jonah, "Is it right for you to be angry about the bush?" And he said, "Yes, angry enough to die." 10 Then the LORD said, "You are concerned about the bush, for which you did not labor and which you did not grow; it came into being in a night and perished in a night. 11 And should I not be concerned about Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also many animals?"

MICAH

Introduction

The prophet Micah, active during the late eighth century BCE, was among the earliest of the Minor Prophets. According to 1.1, Micah prophesied in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, whose reigns spanned 759-687 BCE. Possible allusions to the fall of Samaria (1.6) and the campaign of Sennacherib (1.10-16) place the prophet in the final quarter of the eighth century BCE. As such he was a younger contemporary of Isaiah of Jerusalem. The characteristics of the era in which Micah spoke were similar to those seen in Hosea, Amos, and Isaiah 1-39. Biblical accounts of this era are 1 Kings 16-19 and Isaiah 36-37. The prophetic scroll known as Micah may have material from later periods (e.g., 4.10 speaks of the Babylonian Exile; 7.11 seems to reflect the postexilic period). Some suggest that chs 1-3 form the oldest core of the book; it is characterized by the judgmental tone for which Micah was most famous (Jer 26.18).

Micah offered a theological interpretation of the dizzying events near the end of the eighth century; the fall of Samaria, the expansion of Jerusalem fueled by emigrants from the north, and the international situation made unstable by an aggressive superpower, Assyria. Micah, from a small town southwest of Jerusalem, Moresheth-gath, had a populist message. He expressed disdain for the corruptions and pretensions of the Jerusalem establishment and its leaders. In an era of urbanization, he championed the traditions of early Israel (3.9-10; 6.3-5). Micah condemned religious practice untethered from ethical performance (6.6-8).

While Amos and Hosea condemned the high places, provincial shrines where the proper worship of the Lord was diluted by illicit elements, Micah called Jerusalem itself a high place (1.5) and announced its destruction (3.12), for which he was long remembered (Jer 26.18). At the same time, Micah never lost faith in the future. The middle section of the book, chs 4-5, contains images of a restored and glorious Zion to which the nations make pilgrimage, and of an ideal king (5.2-5).

In the organization of the Book of Twelve, Micah follows Jonah, an arrangement apparently based on chronology since, according to 2 Kings 14.25, Jonah also lived in the eighth century. Micah is connected to the book of Nahum, which follows, by catchword; compare the final section of Micah (7.18-19) with the initial unit of Nahum (1.1-3).

The book may be divided in three sections: chs 1-3; 4-5; 6-7. Chs 1-3 mainly consist of oracles of judgment; chs 4-5 of oracles of hope. The final section, chs 6-7, begins with judgment and moves to hope. We do not know whether this alternation between judgment and hope conforms to some pattern in Micah's preaching or is an organizing device of later editors.

[Micah 1] Superscription

1 The word of the LORD that came to Micah of Moresheth in the days of Kings Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

Speeches condemning Judean society and its leaders; the coming of the Lord

- 2 Hear, you peoples, all of you;
listen, O earth, and all that is in it;
and let the Lord GOD be a witness against you,
the Lord from his holy temple.
- 3 For lo, the LORD is coming out of his place,
and will come down and tread upon the high places of the earth.

- 4 Then the mountains will melt under him
and the valleys will burst open,
like wax near the fire,
like waters poured down a steep place.
- 5 All this is for the transgression of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria?
And what is the high place of Judah?
Is it not Jerusalem?
- 6 Therefore I will make Samaria a heap in the open country,
a place for planting vineyards.
I will pour down her stones into the valley,
and uncover her foundations.
- 7 All her images shall be beaten to pieces,
all her wages shall be burned with fire,
and all her idols I will lay waste;
for as the wages of a prostitute she gathered them,
and as the wages of a prostitute they shall again be used.

A lament for Samaria, and Jerusalem too

- 8 For this I will lament and wail;
I will go barefoot and naked;
I will make lamentation like the jackals,
and mourning like the ostriches.
- 9 For her wound is incurable.
It has come to Judah;
it has reached to the gate of my people,
to Jerusalem.
- 10 Tell it not in Gath,
weep not at all;
in Beth-leaphrah
roll yourselves in the dust.

- 11 Pass on your way,
inhabitants of Shaphir,
in nakedness and shame;
the inhabitants of Zaanan
do not come forth;
Beth-ezel is wailing
and shall remove its support from you.
- 12 For the inhabitants of Maroth
wait anxiously for good,
yet disaster has come down from the LORD
to the gate of Jerusalem.
- 13 Harness the steeds to the chariots,
inhabitants of Lachish;
it was the beginning of sin
to daughter Zion,
for in you were found
the transgressions of Israel.
- 14 Therefore you shall give parting gifts
to Moresheth-gath;
the houses of Achzib shall be a deception
to the kings of Israel.
- 15 I will again bring a conqueror upon you,
inhabitants of Mareshah;
the glory of Israel
shall come to Adullam.
- 16 Make yourselves bald and cut off your hair
for your pampered children;
make yourselves as bald as the eagle,
for they have gone from you into exile.

[Micah 2]

The Lord will punish the land barons

- 1 Alas for those who devise wickedness
and evil deeds on their beds!
When the morning dawns, they perform it,
because it is in their power.

- 2 They covet fields, and seize them;
houses, and take them away;
they oppress householder and house,
people and their inheritance.
- 3 Therefore thus says the LORD:
Now, I am devising against this family an evil
from which you cannot remove your necks;
and you shall not walk haughtily,
for it will be an evil time.
- 4 On that day they shall take up a taunt song against you,
and wail with bitter lamentation,
and say, "We are utterly ruined;
the LORD alters the inheritance of my people;
how he removes it from me!
Among our captors he parcels out our fields."
- 5 Therefore you will have no one to cast the line by lot in the assembly of the LORD.

The prophet responds to criticism

- 6 "Do not preach" — thus they preach —
"one should not preach of such things;
disgrace will not overtake us."
- 7 Should this be said, O house of Jacob?
Is the LORD's patience exhausted?
Are these his doings?
Do not my words do good
to one who walks uprightly?
- 8 But you rise up against my people as an enemy;
you strip the robe from the peaceful,
from those who pass by trustingly
with no thought of war.
- 9 The women of my people you drive out
from their pleasant houses;
from their young children you take away
my glory forever.

- 10 Arise and go;
 for this is no place to rest,
 because of uncleanness that destroys
 with a grievous destruction.
- 11 If someone were to go about uttering empty falsehoods, saying, "I will preach to you of wine and strong drink,"
 such a one would be the preacher for this people!

A shift to an oracle of encouragement

- 12 I will surely gather all of you, O Jacob,
 I will gather the survivors of Israel;
 I will set them together
 like sheep in a fold,
 like a flock in its pasture;
 it will resound with people.
- 13 The one who breaks out will go up before them;
 they will break through and pass the gate,
 going out by it.
 Their king will pass on before them,
 the LORD at their head.

[Micah 3]

The Lord will punish the judicial leaders

- 1 And I said:
 Listen, you heads of Jacob
 and rulers of the house of Israel!
 Should you not know justice? —
- 2 you who hate the good and love the evil,
 who tear the skin off my people,
 and the flesh off their bones;
- 3 who eat the flesh of my people,
 flay their skin off them,
 break their bones in pieces,
 and chop them up like meat in a kettle,
 like flesh in a caldron.

The Lord will punish the religious leaders

- 4 Then they will cry to the LORD,
 but he will not answer them;
 he will hide his face from them at that time,
 because they have acted wickedly.
- 5 Thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who lead my people astray,
 who cry "Peace"
 when they have something to eat,
 but declare war against those who put nothing into their mouths.
- 6 Therefore it shall be night to you, without vision,
 and darkness to you, without revelation.
 The sun shall go down upon the prophets,
 and the day shall be black over them;
- 7 the seers shall be disgraced,
 and the diviners put to shame;
 they shall all cover their lips,
 for there is no answer from God.
- 8 But as for me, I am filled with power,
 with the spirit of the LORD,
 and with justice and might,
 to declare to Jacob his transgression
 and to Israel his sin.

Summary: Its leadership corrupt, Jerusalem is doomed

- 9 Hear this, you rulers of the house of Jacob and chiefs of the house of Israel, who abhor justice
 and pervert all equity,
- 10 who build Zion with blood
 and Jerusalem with wrong!

- 11 Its rulers give judgment for a bribe,
 its priests teach for a price,
 its prophets give oracles for money;
 yet they lean upon the LORD and say,
 "Surely the LORD is with us!
 No harm shall come upon us."
 12 Therefore because of you
 Zion shall be plowed as a field;
 Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,
 and the mountain of the house a wooded height.

[Micah 4]
The ideal age

- 1 In days to come
 the mountain of the LORD's house
 shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
 and shall be raised up above the hills.
 Peoples shall stream to it,
 2 and many nations shall come and say:
 "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
 to the house of the God of Jacob;
 that he may teach us his ways
 and that we may walk in his paths."
 For out of Zion shall go forth instruction,
 and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
 3 He shall judge between many peoples,
 and shall arbitrate between strong nations far away;
 they shall beat their swords into plowshares,
 and their spears into pruning hooks;
 nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
 neither shall they learn war any more;
 4 but they shall all sit under their own vines and under their own fig trees, and no one shall make them afraid;
 for the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken.

5 For all the peoples walk,
 each in the name of its god,
 but we will walk in the name of the LORD our God
 forever and ever.

6 In that day, says the LORD,
 I will assemble the lame
 and gather those who have been driven away,
 and those whom I have afflicted.

7 The lame I will make the remnant,
 and those who were cast off, a strong nation;
 and the LORD will reign over them in Mount Zion
 now and forevermore.

8 And you, O tower of the flock,
 hill of daughter Zion,
 to you it shall come,
 the former dominion shall come,
 the sovereignty of daughter Jerusalem.

The Lord will rescue the exiles

9 Now why do you cry aloud?
 Is there no king in you?
 Has your counselor perished,
 that pangs have seized you like a woman in labor?

10 Writhe and groan, O daughter Zion,
 like a woman in labor;
 for now you shall go forth from the city
 and camp in the open country;
 you shall go to Babylon.
 There you shall be rescued,
 there the LORD will redeem you from the hands of your enemies.

Israel will crush its enemies

- 11 Now many nations
 are assembled against you,
 saying, "Let her be profaned,
 and let our eyes gaze upon Zion."
 12 But they do not know
 the thoughts of the LORD;
 they do not understand his plan,
 that he has gathered them as sheaves to the threshing floor.
 13 Arise and thresh,
 O daughter Zion,
 for I will make your horn iron
 and your hoofs bronze;
 you shall beat in pieces many peoples,
 and shall devote their gain to the LORD,
 their wealth to the Lord of the whole earth.

[Micah 5]

- 1 Now you are walled around with a wall;
 siege is laid against us;
 with a rod they strike the ruler of Israel
 upon the cheek.

A messianic poem

- 2 But you, O Bethlehem of Ephrathah,
 who are one of the little clans of Judah,
 from you shall come forth for me
 one who is to rule in Israel,
 whose origin is from of old,
 from ancient days.
 3 Therefore he shall give them up until the time
 when she who is in labor has brought forth;
 then the rest of his kindred shall return to the people of Israel.

- 4 And he shall stand and feed his flock in the strength of the LORD,
in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God.
And they shall live secure, for now he shall be great
to the ends of the earth;
5 and he shall be the one of peace.

Assyria will be defeated

- If the Assyrians come into our land
and tread upon our soil,
we will raise against them seven shepherds
and eight installed as rulers.
6 They shall rule the land of Assyria with the sword,
and the land of Nimrod with the drawn sword;
they shall rescue us from the Assyrians
if they come into our land or tread within our border.

Israel gains the upper hand

- 7 Then the remnant of Jacob,
surrounded by many peoples,
shall be like dew from the LORD,
like showers on the grass,
which do not depend upon people
or wait for any mortal.
8 And among the nations the remnant of Jacob,
surrounded by many peoples,
shall be like a lion among the animals of the forest,
like a young lion among the flocks of sheep,
which, when it goes through, treads down
and tears in pieces, with no one to deliver.
9 Your hand shall be lifted up over your adversaries,
and all your enemies shall be cut off.

But before reconstruction, demolition

- 10 In that day, says the LORD,
 I will cut off your horses from among you
 and will destroy your chariots;
- 11 and I will cut off the cities of your land
 and throw down all your strongholds;
- 12 and I will cut off sorceries from your hand,
 and you shall have no more soothsayers;
- 13 and I will cut off your images
 and your pillars from among you,
 and you shall bow down no more
 to the work of your hands;
- 14 and I will uproot your sacred poles from among you and destroy your towns.
- 15 And in anger and wrath I will execute vengeance
 on the nations that did not obey.

[Micah 6]

A prophetic sampler moves from legal indictment of Israel's guilt to liturgical affirmation of God's mercy; a divine lawsuit

- 1 Hear what the LORD says:
 Rise, plead your case before the mountains,
 and let the hills hear your voice.
- 2 Hear, you mountains, the controversy of the LORD,
 and you enduring foundations of the earth;
 for the LORD has a controversy with his people,
 and he will contend with Israel.
- 3 "O my people, what have I done to you?
 In what have I wearied you? Answer me!
- 4 For I brought you up from the land of Egypt,
 and redeemed you from the house of slavery;
 and I sent before you Moses,
 Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what King Balak of Moab devised, what Balaam son of Beor answered him,
 and what happened from Shittim to Gilgal,
 that you may know the saving acts of the LORD."

6 "With what shall I come before the LORD,
 and bow myself before God on high?
 Shall I come before him with burnt offerings,
 with calves a year old?

7 Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams,
 with ten thousands of rivers of oil?
 Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression,
 the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?"

8 He has told you, O mortal, what is good;
 and what does the LORD require of you
 but to do justice, and to love kindness,
 and to walk humbly with your God?

Jerusalem, the corrupt city, is cursed

9 The voice of the LORD cries to the city
 (it is sound wisdom to fear your name):
 Hear, O tribe and assembly of the city!

10 Can I forget the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is accursed?

11 Can I tolerate wicked scales
 and a bag of dishonest weights?

12 Your wealthy are full of violence;
 your inhabitants speak lies,
 with tongues of deceit in their mouths.

13 Therefore I have begun to strike you down, making you desolate because of your sins.

14 You shall eat, but not be satisfied,
 and there shall be a gnawing hunger within you;
 you shall put away, but not save,
 and what you save, I will hand over to the sword.

- 15 You shall sow, but not reap;
 you shall tread olives, but not anoint yourselves with oil;
 you shall tread grapes, but not drink wine.
- 16 For you have kept the statutes of Omri
 and all the works of the house of Ahab,
 and you have followed their counsels.
 Therefore I will make you a desolation, and your inhabitants an object of hissing;
 so you shall bear the scorn of my people.

[Micah 7]

A lament for a desperate society

- 1 Woe is me! For I have become like one who,
 after the summer fruit has been gathered,
 after the vintage has been gleaned,
 finds no cluster to eat;
 there is no first-ripe fig for which I hunger.
- 2 The faithful have disappeared from the land,
 and there is no one left who is upright;
 they all lie in wait for blood,
 and they hunt each other with nets.
- 3 Their hands are skilled to do evil;
 the official and the judge ask for a bribe,
 and the powerful dictate what they desire;
 thus they pervert justice.
- 4 The best of them is like a brier,
 the most upright of them a thorn hedge.
 The day of their sentinels, of their punishment, has come;
 now their confusion is at hand.
- 5 Put no trust in a friend,
 have no confidence in a loved one;
 guard the doors of your mouth
 from her who lies in your embrace;
- 6 for the son treats the father with contempt,
 the daughter rises up against her mother,
 the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
 your enemies are members of your own household.

7 But as for me, I will look to the LORD,
 I will wait for the God of my salvation;
 my God will hear me.

A final liturgy

8 Do not rejoice over me, O my enemy;
 when I fall, I shall rise;
 when I sit in darkness,
 the LORD will be a light to me.

9 I must bear the indignation of the LORD,
 because I have sinned against him,
 until he takes my side
 and executes judgment for me.
 He will bring me out to the light;
 I shall see his vindication.

10 Then my enemy will see,
 and shame will cover her who said to me,
 "Where is the LORD your God?"
 My eyes will see her downfall;
 now she will be trodden down
 like the mire of the streets.

11 A day for the building of your walls!
 In that day the boundary shall be far extended.

12 In that day they will come to you from Assyria to Egypt,
 and from Egypt to the River,
 from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.

13 But the earth will be desolate
 because of its inhabitants,
 for the fruit of their doings.

- 14 Shepherd your people with your staff,
the flock that belongs to you,
which lives alone in a forest
in the midst of a garden land;
let them feed in Bashan and Gilead
as in the days of old.
- 15 As in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt,
show us marvelous things.
- 16 The nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
they shall lay their hands on their mouths;
their ears shall be deaf;
- 17 they shall lick dust like a snake,
like the crawling things of the earth;
they shall come trembling out of their fortresses;
they shall turn in dread to the LORD our God,
and they shall stand in fear of you.
- 18 Who is a God like you, pardoning iniquity and passing over the transgression
of the remnant of your possession?
He does not retain his anger forever,
because he delights in showing clemency.
- 19 He will again have compassion upon us;
he will tread our iniquities under foot.
You will cast all our sins
into the depths of the sea.
- 20 You will show faithfulness to Jacob and unswerving loyalty to Abraham, as you have sworn to our ancestors
from the days of old.

NAHUM

Introduction

Although Nahum does not begin with a date formula, its allusions to historical events allow us to date it in the middle or late seventh century BCE. Nahum refers to the fall of Thebes (3.8) which occurred in 663 BCE. The focus of the book, the fall of Nineveh (612 BCE), is either an imminent or recent event. Nahum's placement among the Minor Prophets thus seems to be chronological, directly following Micah, who was active in the late eighth century BCE.

As is typical of Israelite prophecy, Nahum's words were prompted by the dramatic events of international history. The Assyrian Empire, whose power had for centuries been felt and feared from Mesopotamia to the Mediterranean, crumbled quickly after the death of Ashurbanipal (627 BCE). Under the combined assaults of the Medes from north of Persia and the Chaldeans from southern Babylonia, the ancient Assyrian capital city, Asshur, fell in 614. When the renowned Nineveh was destroyed in 612 BCE, Assyrian domination of the Near East was ended, though its imperial structures served as a template for subsequent empires.

The fervent reaction to the overthrow of Assyria, expressed by the peoples long subjected to its yoke, is nowhere seen more clearly than in Nahum. The core of the book is a superb, vivid poem (2.3-9; 3.1-3) extolling Nineveh's destruction. The prophet spells out the reason for the Assyrian downfall: It is the LORD's judgment against an oppressor.

This basic theme makes clear that Nahum's thought is passionately partisan. He asserts boldly that the Lord is the avenger of cruelty and immorality. Prophetic collections often include oracles against nations (e.g., Isa 13-23; Jer 46-51). In essence, the brief book of Nahum, like that of Obadiah, consists entirely of this single genre. To that extent, it fails to indicate the consequences of this divine justice for Israel itself. The book and its sentiments toward Nineveh are often contrasted with those in the book of Jonah (contrast Nah 3.11 with Jon 4.11; Nah 1.2-3 with Jon 4.1-2).

The date of Nahum's triumphal ode lies close to the events it foretells (or describes), probably between 626 and 612 BCE. Its author is identified only by his name (which means "comforted"); even the location of his home, Elkosh (1.1), is unknown.

[Nahum 1]

Title

1 An oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum of Elkosh.

A hymn to the divine warrior

- 2 A jealous and avenging God is the LORD,
 the LORD is avenging and wrathful;
 the LORD takes vengeance on his adversaries
 and rages against his enemies.
- 3 The LORD is slow to anger but great in power,
 and the LORD will by no means clear the guilty.

 His way is in whirlwind and storm,
 and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

- 4 He rebukes the sea and makes it dry,
 and he dries up all the rivers;
 Bashan and Carmel wither,
 and the bloom of Lebanon fades.

- 5 The mountains quake before him,
 and the hills melt;
 the earth heaves before him,
 the world and all who live in it.

- 6 Who can stand before his indignation?
 Who can endure the heat of his anger?
 His wrath is poured out like fire,
 and by him the rocks are broken in pieces.
- 7 The LORD is good,
 a stronghold in a day of trouble;
 he protects those who take refuge in him,
 8 even in a rushing flood.
 He will make a full end of his adversaries,
 and will pursue his enemies into darkness.
- 9 Why do you plot against the LORD?
 He will make an end;
 no adversary will rise up twice.

Alternating oracles concerning Nineveh and Judah

- 10 Like thorns they are entangled,
 like drunkards they are drunk;
 they are consumed like dry straw.
- 11 From you one has gone out who plots evil against the LORD,
 one who counsels wickedness.
- 12 Thus says the LORD,
 "Though they are at full strength and many,
 they will be cut off and pass away.
 Though I have afflicted you,
 I will afflict you no more.
- 13 And now I will break off his yoke from you and snap the bonds that bind you."
- 14 The LORD has commanded concerning you:
 "Your name shall be perpetuated no longer;
 from the house of your gods I will cut off
 the carved image and the cast image.
 I will make your grave, for you are worthless."

15 Look! On the mountains the feet of one who brings good tidings,
 who proclaims peace!
 Celebrate your festivals, O Judah,
 fulfill your vows,
 for never again shall the wicked invade you;
 they are utterly cut off.

[Nahum 2]

1 A shatterer has come up against you.
 Guard the ramparts;
 watch the road;
 gird your loins;
 collect all your strength.

2 (For the LORD is restoring the majesty of Jacob,
 as well as the majesty of Israel,
 though ravagers have ravaged them
 and ruined their branches.)

The sack of Nineveh; the assault

3 The shields of his warriors are red;
 his soldiers are clothed in crimson.
 The metal on the chariots flashes
 on the day when he musters them;
 the chargers prance.

4 The chariots race madly through the streets,
 they rush to and fro through the squares;
 their appearance is like torches,
 they dart like lightning.

5 He calls his officers;
 they stumble as they come forward;
 they hasten to the wall,
 and the mantelet is set up.

6 The river gates are opened,
 the palace trembles.

- 7 It is decreed that the city be exiled,
 its slave women led away,
 moaning like doves
 and beating their breasts.
- 8 Nineveh is like a pool
 whose waters run away.
 "Halt! Halt!" —
 but no one turns back.
- 9 "Plunder the silver,
 plunder the gold!
 There is no end of treasure!
 An abundance of every precious thing!"

The taunt: Where is the lion now?

- 10 Devastation, desolation, and destruction!
 Hearts faint and knees tremble,
 all loins quake,
 all faces grow pale!
- 11 What became of the lions' den,
 the cave of the young lions,
 where the lion goes,
 and the lion's cubs, with no one to disturb them?
- 12 The lion has torn enough for his whelps
 and strangled prey for his lionesses;
 he has filled his caves with prey
 and his dens with torn flesh.
- 13 See, I am against you, says the LORD of hosts, and I will burn your chariots in smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions; I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the voice of your messengers shall be heard no more.

[Nahum 3]
A woe oracle

- 1 Ah! City of bloodshed, utterly deceitful, full of booty —
 no end to the plunder!
- 2 The crack of whip and rumble of wheel,
 galloping horse and bounding chariot!
- 3 Horsemen charging,
 flashing sword and glittering spear,
 piles of dead,
 heaps of corpses,
 dead bodies without end —
 they stumble over the bodies!

A series of taunts

- 4 Because of the countless debaucheries of the prostitute,
 gracefully alluring, mistress of sorcery,
 who enslaves nations through her debaucheries,
 and peoples through her sorcery,
- 5 I am against you,
 says the LORD of hosts,
 and will lift up your skirts over your face;
 and I will let nations look on your nakedness
 and kingdoms on your shame.
- 6 I will throw filth at you and treat you with contempt,
 and make you a spectacle.
- 7 Then all who see you will shrink from you and say,
 "Nineveh is devastated; who will bemoan her?"
 Where shall I seek comforters for you?
- 8 Are you better than Thebes
 that sat by the Nile,
 with water around her,
 her rampart a sea,
 water her wall?

- 9 Ethiopia was her strength,
Egypt too, and that without limit;
Put and the Libyans were her helpers.
- 10 Yet she became an exile,
she went into captivity;
even her infants were dashed in pieces
at the head of every street;
lots were cast for her nobles,
all her dignitaries were bound in fetters.
- 11 You also will be drunken,
you will go into hiding;
you will seek
a refuge from the enemy.
- 12 All your fortresses are like fig trees with first-ripe figs —
if shaken they fall
into the mouth of the eater.
- 13 Look at your troops:
they are women in your midst.
The gates of your land
are wide open to your foes;
fire has devoured the bars of your gates.
- 14 Draw water for the siege,
strengthen your forts;
trample the clay,
tread the mortar,
take hold of the brick mold!
- 15 There the fire will devour you,
the sword will cut you off.
It will devour you like the locust.

Multiply yourselves like the locust,
multiply like the grasshopper!

- 16 You increased your merchants
more than the stars of the heavens.
The locust sheds its skin and flies away.
- 17 Your guards are like grasshoppers,
your scribes like swarms of locusts settling on the fences
on a cold day —
when the sun rises, they fly away;
no one knows where they have gone.
- 18 Your shepherds are asleep,
O king of Assyria;
your nobles slumber.
Your people are scattered on the mountains
with no one to gather them.
- 19 There is no assuaging your hurt,
your wound is mortal.
All who hear the news about you
clap their hands over you.
For who has ever escaped
your endless cruelty?

HABAKKUK

Introduction

Habakkuk, eighth in order among the twelve Minor Prophets, can be dated to the late seventh century BCE on the basis of the reference to the Chaldeans (1.6), whose domination of the Near East began around 612 BCE. Such a date makes the book roughly contemporaneous with its predecessor, Nahum, and successor, Zephaniah.

Although a Habakkuk legend appears in one of the additions to Daniel found in the Apocrypha (Bel 33-39), nothing is known about the life of the prophet, not even his father's name or his hometown. The book reflects the struggles of the Judahite community in the time between the death of King Josiah in 609 BCE and the first deportation of exiles to Babylon in 597 BCE (see 2 Kings 23.34-24.27).

At least three distinct literary forms can be recognized in Habakkuk. The section 1.2-2.4 is constructed as a dialogue between the prophet and God; the next section (2.5-20), consisting of five woes, is cast in classical prophetic style; and ch 3 is a lengthy poem, similar in structure to the Psalms. Despite their varied texture, the sections build on each other. In the opening dialogue, the prophet first laments the injustice of his society (1.2-4). The divine response is that the Chaldeans will serve as the instrument of judgment (1.5-11). The prophet questions the justice of this: "the wicked swallow those more righteous than they" (1.13). The Lord answers by urging the prophet to wait, faithfully, for an appointed time; this injustice will also be addressed (2.2-4).

The next section (2.5-20) is cast as the taunts addressed to Babylon by the very nations it had oppressed, once the cycle of divine judgment runs its full course ("The cup in the LORD's right hand will come around to you," 2.16). The final section, the song of Habakkuk (3.2-15), commemorates ancient triumphs of this God who comes in judgment.

This psalm serves as the basis of the prophet's resilient hope in the face of calamity and deprivation (3.17-19) and also can be seen as a prayer (3.1) to arouse God to action (3.2).

Habakkuk was a contemporary of Jeremiah, who also contended that an invading foreign power would serve as the divine instrument of judgment against Judah (cf. Hab 1.6-11 with Jer 4.13; 5.15-17; 6.22-23), and furthermore that, in time, Babylon itself would come under divine judgment (Jer 50-51). At the same time, Habakkuk articulates on behalf of his community their searching question: Is this fair? To this perennial question the prophet receives an answer that is eternally valid: God is still sovereign, and in God's own way and at the proper time will deal with the wicked. In the meantime — in fact, at all times — the righteous shall live by their faith (2.4), a persistent, patient, and tenacious adherence to the instructions and promises of God.

[Habakkuk 1]

Title

1 The oracle that the prophet Habakkuk saw.

A dialogue in two cycles; the first cycle

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry for help,
and you will not listen?

Or cry to you "Violence!"
and you will not save?

3 Why do you make me see wrongdoing
and look at trouble?

Destruction and violence are before me;
strife and contention arise.

4 So the law becomes slack
and justice never prevails.

The wicked surround the righteous —
therefore judgment comes forth perverted.

- 5 Look at the nations, and see!
 Be astonished! Be astounded!
 For a work is being done in your days
 that you would not believe if you were told.
- 6 For I am rousing the Chaldeans,
 that fierce and impetuous nation,
 who march through the breadth of the earth
 to seize dwellings not their own.
- 7 Dread and fearsome are they;
 their justice and dignity proceed from themselves.
- 8 Their horses are swifter than leopards,
 more menacing than wolves at dusk;
 their horses charge.
 Their horsemen come from far away;
 they fly like an eagle swift to devour.
- 9 They all come for violence,
 with faces pressing forward;
 they gather captives like sand.
- 10 At kings they scoff,
 and of rulers they make sport.
 They laugh at every fortress,
 and heap up earth to take it.
- 11 Then they sweep by like the wind;
 they transgress and become guilty;
 their own might is their god!

The second cycle

- 12 Are you not from of old,
 O LORD my God, my Holy One?
 You shall not die.
 O LORD, you have marked them for judgment;
 and you, O Rock, have established them for punishment.
- 13 Your eyes are too pure to behold evil,
 and you cannot look on wrongdoing;
 why do you look on the treacherous,
 and are silent when the wicked swallow
 those more righteous than they?

- 14 You have made people like the fish of the sea,
like crawling things that have no ruler.
- 15 The enemy brings all of them up with a hook;
he drags them out with his net,
he gathers them in his seine;
so he rejoices and exults.
- 16 Therefore he sacrifices to his net
and makes offerings to his seine;
for by them his portion is lavish,
and his food is rich.
- 17 Is he then to keep on emptying his net,
and destroying nations without mercy?

[Habakkuk 2]

- 1 I will stand at my watchpost,
and station myself on the rampart;
I will keep watch to see what he will say to me,
and what he will answer concerning my complaint.
- 2 Then the LORD answered me and said:
Write the vision;
make it plain on tablets,
so that a runner may read it.
- 3 For there is still a vision for the appointed time;
it speaks of the end, and does not lie.
If it seems to tarry, wait for it;
it will surely come, it will not delay.
- 4 Look at the proud!
Their spirit is not right in them,
but the righteous live by their faith.

The five woes

5 Moreover, wealth is treacherous;
the arrogant do not endure.

They open their throats wide as Sheol;
like Death they never have enough.

They gather all nations for themselves,
and collect all peoples as their own.

6 Shall not everyone taunt such people and, with mocking riddles, say about them,

"Alas for you who heap up what is not your own!"

How long will you load yourselves with goods taken in pledge?

7 Will not your own creditors suddenly rise,
and those who make you tremble wake up?

Then you will be booty for them.

8 Because you have plundered many nations,
all that survive of the peoples shall plunder you —

because of human bloodshed, and violence to the earth,
to cities and all who live in them.

9 "Alas for you who get evil gain for your houses, setting your nest on high
to be safe from the reach of harm!"

10 You have devised shame for your house
by cutting off many peoples;
you have forfeited your life.

11 The very stones will cry out from the wall,
and the plaster will respond from the woodwork.

12 "Alas for you who build a town by bloodshed, and found a city on iniquity!"

13 Is it not from the LORD of hosts that peoples labor only to feed the flames,
and nations weary themselves for nothing?

14 But the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD,
as the waters cover the sea.

- 15 "Alas for you who make your neighbors drink,
pouring out your wrath until they are drunk,
in order to gaze on their nakedness!"
- 16 You will be sated with contempt instead of glory.
Drink, you yourself, and stagger!
The cup in the LORD's right hand
will come around to you,
and shame will come upon your glory!
- 17 For the violence done to Lebanon will overwhelm you;
the destruction of the animals will terrify you —
because of human bloodshed and violence to the earth,
to cities and all who live in them.
- 18 What use is an idol
once its maker has shaped it —
a cast image, a teacher of lies?
For its maker trusts in what has been made,
though the product is only an idol that cannot speak!
- 19 Alas for you who say to the wood, "Wake up!"
to silent stone, "Rouse yourself!"
Can it teach?
See, it is gold and silver plated,
and there is no breath in it at all.
- 20 But the LORD is in his holy temple;
let all the earth keep silence before him!

[Habakkuk 3]
Habakkuk's song

- 1 A prayer of the prophet Habakkuk according to Shigionoth.
- 2 O LORD, I have heard of your renown,
and I stand in awe, O LORD, of your work.
In our own time revive it;
in our own time make it known;
in wrath may you remember mercy.

3 God came from Teman,
the Holy One from Mount Paran.

His glory covered the heavens,
and the earth was full of his praise.

4 The brightness was like the sun;
rays came forth from his hand,
where his power lay hidden.

5 Before him went pestilence,
and plague followed close behind.

6 He stopped and shook the earth;
he looked and made the nations tremble.

The eternal mountains were shattered;
along his ancient pathways
the everlasting hills sank low.

7 I saw the tents of Cushan under affliction;
the tent-curtains of the land of Midian trembled.

8 Was your wrath against the rivers, O LORD?
Or your anger against the rivers,
or your rage against the sea,
when you drove your horses,
your chariots to victory?

9 You brandished your naked bow,
sated were the arrows at your command.
You split the earth with rivers.

10 The mountains saw you, and writhed;
a torrent of water swept by;
the deep gave forth its voice.

The sun raised high its hands;
11 the moon stood still in its exalted place,
at the light of your arrows speeding by,
at the gleam of your flashing spear.

12 In fury you trod the earth,
in anger you trampled nations.

13 You came forth to save your people,
to save your anointed.
You crushed the head of the wicked house,
laying it bare from foundation to roof.

- 14 You pierced with their own arrows the head of his warriors,
who came like a whirlwind to scatter us,
gloating as if ready to devour the poor who were in hiding.
- 15 You trampled the sea with your horses,
churning the mighty waters.
- 16 I hear, and I tremble within;
my lips quiver at the sound.
Rottenness enters into my bones,
and my steps tremble beneath me.
I wait quietly for the day of calamity
to come upon the people who attack us.
- 17 Though the fig tree does not blossom,
and no fruit is on the vines;
though the produce of the olive fails,
and the fields yield no food;
though the flock is cut off from the fold,
and there is no herd in the stalls,
- 18 yet I will rejoice in the LORD;
I will exult in the God of my salvation.
- 19 GOD, the Lord, is my strength;
he makes my feet like the feet of a deer,
and makes me tread upon the heights.

To the leader: with stringed instruments.

ZEPHANIAH

Introduction

Zephaniah's place in the canonical sequence is apparently chronological; along with its predecessors, Nahum and Habakkuk, it stems from the seventh century BCE. The superscription (1.1) traces Zephaniah's ancestry back to Hezekiah and dates his ministry to the reign of Josiah (640-609 BCE). Since the name of Hezekiah is uncommon in the Hebrew Bible, this unusually long genealogical note probably refers to the famous Judean king (727/715-698/687 BCE).

Whether of royal descent or not, Zephaniah certainly was a Jerusalemite (1.10-11). His father's name, Cushi (1.1), could mean "the Cushite," and has prompted some speculation about African ancestry for the prophet (cf. 2.12; 3.10). Aside from his name (which means "Yahweh has protected") and these intriguing genealogical issues, nothing is known about the prophet.

Zephaniah's condemnation of practices prohibited by Deuteronomy (1.4-6, 8-9, 12; 3.1-13, 7) suggest that he prophesied before Josiah's reforms of 621 BCE (2 Kings 23). The oracles thus can be dated, perhaps, to 630-620 BCE, and are roughly contemporaneous with those in Nahum.

The main motif of the collected oracles is the Day of the Lord. In the initial oracle (1.2-6), the Day of the Lord is described in terms of a global catastrophe brought on by worship of other deities (1.4-6). The next two oracles (or sections of the same oracle), 1.7-13; 1.14-2.3, maintain this tone of gloom. Invoking traditions about the ancient flood (see 1.2-3), for Zephaniah it is a case of "the fire next time" (1.18). Near the end of this section, the prophet gives a muted (perhaps, 2.3) call for repentance. The next section consists of oracles against Judah's rival nations (2.4-15), followed by the speeches that indict Jerusalem

(3.1-8). Oracles of salvation (3.9-20) complete, and balance, the collection.

Superscription

1 The word of the LORD that came to Zephaniah son of Cushi son of Gedaliah son of Amariah son of Hezekiah, in the days of King Josiah son of Amon of Judah.

The threat of universal destruction

- 2 I will utterly sweep away everything
from the face of the earth, says the LORD.
- 3 I will sweep away humans and animals;
I will sweep away the birds of the air
and the fish of the sea.
I will make the wicked stumble.
I will cut off humanity
from the face of the earth, says the LORD.
- 4 I will stretch out my hand against Judah,
and against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem;
and I will cut off from this place every remnant of Baal
and the name of the idolatrous priests;
- 5 those who bow down on the roofs
to the host of the heavens;
those who bow down and swear to the LORD,
but also swear by Milcom;
- 6 those who have turned back from following the LORD,
who have not sought the LORD or inquired of him.

The Day of the Lord as a sacrifice

- 7 Be silent before the Lord GOD!
 For the day of the LORD is at hand;
 the LORD has prepared a sacrifice,
 he has consecrated his guests.
- 8 And on the day of the LORD's sacrifice
 I will punish the officials and the king's sons and all who dress themselves in foreign attire.
- 9 On that day I will punish
 all who leap over the threshold, who fill their master's house
 with violence and fraud.
- 10 On that day, says the LORD,
 a cry will be heard from the Fish Gate,
 a wail from the Second Quarter,
 a loud crash from the hills.
- 11 The inhabitants of the Mortar wail,
 for all the traders have perished;
 all who weigh out silver are cut off.
- 12 At that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps,
 and I will punish the people who rest complacently on their dregs,
 those who say in their hearts,
 "The LORD will not do good,
 nor will he do harm."
- 13 Their wealth shall be plundered,
 and their houses laid waste.
 Though they build houses,
 they shall not inhabit them;
 though they plant vineyards,
 they shall not drink wine from them.

The Day of the Lord as divine warfare

- 14 The great day of the LORD is near,
 near and hastening fast;
 the sound of the day of the LORD is bitter,
 the warrior cries aloud there.
- 15 That day will be a day of wrath,
 a day of distress and anguish,
 a day of ruin and devastation,
 a day of darkness and gloom,
 a day of clouds and thick darkness,
- 16 a day of trumpet blast and battle cry
 against the fortified cities
 and against the lofty battlements.
- 17 I will bring such distress upon people
 that they shall walk like the blind;
 because they have sinned against the LORD,
 their blood shall be poured out like dust,
 and their flesh like dung.
- 18 Neither their silver nor their gold will be able to save them
 on the day of the LORD's wrath;
 in the fire of his passion
 the whole earth shall be consumed;
 for a full, a terrible end
 he will make of all the inhabitants of the earth.

[Zephaniah 2]

A muted call to repentance

- 1 Gather together, gather,
 O shameless nation,

- 2 before you are driven away
 like the drifting chaff,
 before there comes upon you
 the fierce anger of the LORD,
 before there comes upon you
 the day of the LORD's wrath.
- 3 Seek the LORD, all you humble of the land,
 who do his commands;
 seek righteousness, seek humility;
 perhaps you may be hidden
 on the day of the LORD's wrath.

Against the nations

- 4 For Gaza shall be deserted,
 and Ashkelon shall become a desolation;
 Ashdod's people shall be driven out at noon,
 and Ekron shall be uprooted.
- 5 Ah, inhabitants of the seacoast,
 you nation of the Cherethites!
 The word of the LORD is against you,
 O Canaan, land of the Philistines;
 and I will destroy you until no inhabitant is left.
- 6 And you, O seacoast, shall be pastures, meadows for shepherds
 and folds for flocks.
- 7 The seacoast shall become the possession of the remnant of the house of Judah,
 on which they shall pasture,
 and in the houses of Ashkelon
 they shall lie down at evening.
 For the LORD their God will be mindful of them
 and restore their fortunes.

- 8 I have heard the taunts of Moab
and the revilings of the Ammonites,
how they have taunted my people
and made boasts against their territory.
- 9 Therefore, as I live, says the LORD of hosts,
the God of Israel,
Moab shall become like Sodom
and the Ammonites like Gomorrah,
a land possessed by nettles and salt pits,
and a waste forever.
The remnant of my people shall plunder them,
and the survivors of my nation shall possess them.
- 10 This shall be their lot in return for their pride, because they scoffed and boasted against the people of the LORD of hosts.
- 11 The LORD will be terrible against them;
he will shrivel all the gods of the earth,
and to him shall bow down,
each in its place,
all the coasts and islands of the nations.
- 12 You also, O Ethiopians, shall be killed by my sword.
- 13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north,
and destroy Assyria;
and he will make Nineveh a desolation,
a dry waste like the desert.
- 14 Herds shall lie down in it,
every wild animal;
the desert owl and the screech owl
shall lodge on its capitals;
the owl shall hoot at the window,
the raven croak on the threshold;
for its cedar work will be laid bare.

15 Is this the exultant city
 that lived secure,
 that said to itself,
 "I am, and there is no one else"?
 What a desolation it has become,
 a lair for wild animals!
 Everyone who passes by it
 hisses and shakes the fist.

[Zephaniah 3]
Against Jerusalem

1 Ah, soiled, defiled,
 oppressing city!
 2 It has listened to no voice;
 it has accepted no correction.
 It has not trusted in the LORD;
 it has not drawn near to its God.

3 The officials within it
 are roaring lions;
 its judges are evening wolves
 that leave nothing until the morning.

4 Its prophets are reckless,
 faithless persons;
 its priests have profaned what is sacred,
 they have done violence to the law.

5 The LORD within it is righteous;
 he does no wrong.
 Every morning he renders his judgment,
 each dawn without fail;
 but the unjust knows no shame.

6 I have cut off nations;
 their battlements are in ruins;
 I have laid waste their streets
 so that no one walks in them;
 their cities have been made desolate,
 without people, without inhabitants.

7 I said, "Surely the city will fear me,
 it will accept correction;
 it will not lose sight
 of all that I have brought upon it."
 But they were the more eager to make all their deeds corrupt.

8 Therefore wait for me, says the LORD,
 for the day when I arise as a witness.
 For my decision is to gather nations,
 to assemble kingdoms,
 to pour out upon them my indignation,
 all the heat of my anger;
 for in the fire of my passion
 all the earth shall be consumed.

Oracles of salvation

9 At that time I will change the speech of the peoples to a pure speech, that all of them may call on the name of the LORD
 and serve him with one accord.

10 From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia
 my suppliants, my scattered ones, shall bring my offering.

11 On that day you shall not be put to shame
 because of all the deeds by which you have rebelled against me;
 for then I will remove from your midst
 your proudly exultant ones,
 and you shall no longer be haughty
 in my holy mountain.

- 12 For I will leave in the midst of you
a people humble and lowly.
They shall seek refuge in the name of the LORD —
- 13 the remnant of Israel;
they shall do no wrong
and utter no lies,
nor shall a deceitful tongue
be found in their mouths.
Then they will pasture and lie down,
and no one shall make them afraid.
- 14 Sing aloud, O daughter Zion;
shout, O Israel!
Rejoice and exult with all your heart,
O daughter Jerusalem!
- 15 The LORD has taken away the judgments against you,
he has turned away your enemies.
The king of Israel, the LORD, is in your midst;
you shall fear disaster no more.
- 16 On that day it shall be said to Jerusalem:
Do not fear, O Zion;
do not let your hands grow weak.
- 17 The LORD, your God, is in your midst,
a warrior who gives victory;
he will rejoice over you with gladness,
he will renew you in his love;
he will exult over you with loud singing
- 18 as on a day of festival.
I will remove disaster from you,
so that you will not bear reproach for it.
- 19 I will deal with all your oppressors
at that time.
And I will save the lame
and gather the outcast,
and I will change their shame into praise
and renown in all the earth.

20 At that time I will bring you home,
at the time when I gather you;
for I will make you renowned and praised among all the peoples of the earth,
when I restore your fortunes
before your eyes, says the LORD.

HAGGAI

Introduction

Following three prophetic books set in the late preexilic period, Haggai, along with the subsequent Zechariah and Malachi, is set in the postexilic period. When the Persian king Cyrus conquered Babylon, he not only published a decree (538 BCE) allowing the captive Jews to return to Judah but also encouraged them to rebuild the Temple at Jerusalem (Ezra 1.1-4), a policy confirmed by Darius (Ezra 5.17-6.5). It is possible that under Sheshbazzar, the leader of those who returned, rebuilding was immediately attempted (Ezra 1.8; 2.68; 5.14-16). By 520 BCE, however, no significant progress was evident (Ezra 3.1-7; 5.16). A successful effort was then begun, and the new Temple was completed in the spring of 515 BCE (Ezra 6.14-16).

Along with Zechariah (see Introduction to Zechariah), the man principally responsible for this major accomplishment was the prophet Haggai. Outside of references to him in Ezra 5.1 and 6.14, we know nothing about Haggai. The book bearing his name contains no biographical data, beyond confirming his pivotal role in inspiring the Jewish leadership and populace to complete reconstruction of the Temple, the ritual, economic, administrative, and symbolic center of their community.

Haggai exhorted Zerrubabel the governor and Joshua the high priest, the joint leaders of the Judean community, to assume official leadership in the reconstruction of the Temple, and urged the priests to purify the practices of worship. These twin projects were, first of all, urgent practical steps toward unifying the disrupted religious life of the community. But Haggai also saw them as necessary preparations for the ideal age.

The book is organized in five sections (1.1-11; 1.12-15a; 1.15b-2.9; 2.10-19; 2.20-23), each precisely dated from the sixth through the ninth months of 520 BCE. The precision of the date formulas is rivaled among the prophets only by those of his contemporary Zechariah (cf. Zech 1.1, 7; 7.1). Four of these sections begin with date formulas and contain addresses of Haggai, and one (1.12-15a, in which the date formula is at the end rather than the beginning) records the response of Haggai's audience.

The initial section (1.1-11) is an oracle of judgment directed against the people for failing to complete the Temple. In the next section, 1.12-15a, the people respond favorably. The next two sections (1.15b-2.9; 2.10-19) are oracles encouraging the people in their efforts. The final section (2.10-23) is an oracle of salvation, promising that cosmic reversals, terrestrial justice, and national vindication will follow in the wake of the reconstruction of the Temple.

An oracle or judgment: While the Temple is in ruins, the people are cursed

1 In the second year of King Darius, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by the prophet Haggai to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest: 2 Thus says the LORD of hosts: These people say the time has not yet come to rebuild the LORD's house. 3 Then the word of the LORD came by the prophet Haggai, saying: 4 Is it a time for you yourselves to live in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins? 5 Now therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider how you have fared. 6 You have sown much, and harvested little; you eat, but you never have enough; you drink, but you never have your fill; you clothe yourselves, but no one is warm; and you that earn wages earn wages to put them into a bag with holes.

7 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider how you have fared. 8 Go up to the hills and bring wood and build the house, so that I may take pleasure in it and be honored, says the LORD. 9 You have looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when you brought it home, I blew it away. Why? says the LORD of hosts. Because my house lies in ruins, while all of you hurry off to your own houses. 10 Therefore the heavens above you have withheld the dew, and the earth has withheld its produce. 11 And I have called for a drought on the land and the hills, on the grain, the new wine, the oil, on what the soil produces, on human beings and animals, and on all their labors.

A favorable response: The people get to work

12 Then Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of the prophet Haggai, as the LORD their God had sent him; and the people feared the LORD. 13 Then Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, spoke to the people with the LORD's message, saying, I am with you, says the LORD. 14 And the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; and they came and worked on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month.

An oracle of encouragement: The new Temple will be more splendid than the old

In the second year of King Darius, [Haggai 2] 1 in the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by the prophet Haggai, saying: 2 Speak now to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to the remnant of the people, and say, 3 Who is left among you that saw this house in its former glory? How does it look to you now? Is it not in your sight as nothing? 4 Yet now take courage, O Zerubbabel, says the LORD; take courage, O Joshua, son of Jehozadak, the high priest; take courage, all you people of the land, says the LORD; work, for I am with you, says the LORD of hosts, 5 according to the promise that I made you when you came out of Egypt. My spirit abides among you; do not fear. 6 For thus says the LORD of hosts: Once again, in a little while, I will shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land; 7 and I will shake all the nations, so that the treasure of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with splendor, says the LORD of hosts. 8 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, says the LORD of hosts. 9 The latter splendor of this house shall be greater than the former, says the LORD of hosts; and in this place I will give prosperity, says the LORD of hosts.

An oracle of encouragement: Already, the curse is lifting

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came by the prophet Haggai, saying: 11 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Ask the priests for a ruling: 12 If one carries consecrated meat in the fold of one's garment, and with the fold touches bread, or stew, or wine, or oil, or any kind of food, does it become holy? The priests answered, "No." 13 Then Haggai said, "If one who is unclean by contact with a dead body touches any of these, does it become unclean?" The priests answered, "Yes, it becomes unclean." 14 Haggai then said, So is it with this people, and with this nation before me, says the LORD; and so with every work of their hands; and what they offer there is unclean. 15 But now, consider what will come to pass from this day on. Before a stone was placed upon a stone in the LORD's temple, 16 how did you fare? When one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten; when one came to the wine vat to draw fifty measures, there were but twenty. 17 I struck you and all the products of your toil with blight and mildew and hail; yet you did not return to me, says the LORD. 18 Consider from this day on, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. Since the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid, consider: 19 Is there any seed left in the barn? Do the vine, the fig tree, the pomegranate, and the olive tree still yield nothing? From this day on I will bless you.

An oracle of salvation: The ideal age is imminent

20 The word of the LORD came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month: 21 Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, I am about to shake the heavens and the earth, 22 and to overthrow the throne of kingdoms; I am about to destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the nations, and overthrow the chariots and their riders; and the horses and their riders shall fall, every one by the sword of a comrade. 23 On that day, says the LORD of hosts, I will take you, O Zerubbabel my servant, son of Shealtiel, says the LORD, and make you like a signet ring; for I have chosen you, says the LORD of hosts.

ZECHARIAH

Introduction

The book of Zechariah is the longest and most obscure of the Minor Prophets. Formally, it divides into two parts. The first, chs 1-8, consists of a series of vision reports. Often referred to as "First Zechariah," it is closely tied to the preceding book of Haggai by the date formulas in 1.1; 1.7; and 7.1 (cf. Haggai 1.1; 2.1) and the references to Joshua, the high priest of Jerusalem, and Zerubbabel, its governor.

The second section, chs 9-14, is a collection of sayings organized in two parts under the title "An Oracle" (9.1; 12.1). "Second Zechariah," as it is sometimes called, is similar in form to the subsequent book, Malachi, which itself begins with the same title (Mal 1.1). These oracles cite neither specific dates nor contemporary persons. Their concerns are for "that day," the Day of the Lord (e.g., 9.16; 12.3; 13.1; 14.1), and for unnamed persons such as a king who enters Jerusalem on a donkey (9.9) and a "shepherd" stricken by a divine sword (13.7).

The prophecies in the first part date from 520-518 BCE. Zechariah, a contemporary of Haggai, prophesied in the early days of the restoration, when returning exiles joined with those who never left to rebuild Judahite society. There are no biographical details in the book itself, but Zechariah is mentioned, along with Haggai, in Ezra 5.1 and 6.14. He shared Haggai's zeal for a rebuilt Temple, a purified community, and the coming of an ideal age. But Zechariah differs from Haggai in the form and presentation of his message. Zechariah speaks in the dialect of apocalyptic, with angelic interpreters and esoteric imagery. For his city, Zechariah had utopian expectations: The rebuilding of the Temple would inaugurate nothing short of the transformation of the world. For its leaders, Zechariah had messianic hope (4.14). Yet despite the apocalyptic style, Zech 1-8 also has a down-to-earth focus on the rebuilding of the Temple, practical concerns such as fasting (7.1-14), and a given historical moment.

The second part of the book is more difficult to date, and its historical background is elusive. The reference to "Greece" (9.13) could suggest a date after Alexander the Great's campaigns (after ca. 330 BCE) but it is unwise to rely on a single datum. Though its oracles do not mention other-worldly interpreters, Zech 9-14 also contains an apocalyptic message. Conflicts in the restoration community are described against a cosmic backdrop (see the contrast between Judah and Jerusalem in 12.1-5). The ever present vulnerability of Judah to the parade of empires finds vivid expression: The nations attack Jerusalem but the Lord intervenes to defeat them and transform Jerusalem into a kind of Eden (14.1-11).

Zechariah is best read from start to finish: chs 1-8 in conjunction with Haggai; chs 9-14 in conjunction with Malachi. In terms of the development of apocalyptic literature in the Hebrew Bible, Zechariah stands between Ezekiel (e.g., chs 38-39) and Daniel (chs 7-12).

[Zechariah 1]

Visions and oracles about the restoration of Jerusalem; a call to repentance

1 In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah son of Berechiah son of Iddo, saying: 2 The LORD was very angry with your ancestors. 3 Therefore say to them, Thus says the LORD of hosts: Return to me, says the LORD of hosts, and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. 4 Do not be like your ancestors, to whom the former prophets proclaimed, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, Return from your evil ways and from your evil deeds." But they did not hear or heed me, says the LORD. 5 Your ancestors, where are they? And the prophets, do they live forever? 6 But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not overtake your ancestors? So they repented and said, "The LORD of hosts has dealt with us according to our ways and deeds, just as he planned to do."

The eight visions of Zechariah; the first vision: the divine horsemen patrol the earth

7 On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah son of Berechiah son of Iddo; and Zechariah said, 8 In the night I saw a man riding on a red horse! He was standing among the myrtle trees in the glen; and behind him were red, sorrel, and white horses. 9 Then I said, "What are these, my lord?" The angel who talked with me said to me, "I will show you what they are." 10 So the man who was standing among the myrtle trees answered, "They are those whom the LORD has sent to patrol the earth." 11 Then they spoke to the angel of the LORD who was standing among the myrtle trees, "We have patrolled the earth, and lo, the whole earth remains at peace." 12 Then the angel of the LORD said, "O LORD of hosts, how long will you withhold mercy from Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, with which you have been angry these seventy years?" 13 Then the LORD replied with gracious and comforting words to the angel who talked with me. 14 So the angel who talked with me said to me, Proclaim this message: Thus says the LORD of hosts; I am very jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion. 15 And I am extremely angry with the nations that are at ease; for while I was only a little angry, they made the disaster worse. 16 Therefore, thus says the LORD, I have returned to Jerusalem with compassion; my house shall be built in it, says the LORD of hosts, and the measuring line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem. 17 Proclaim further: Thus says the LORD of hosts: My cities shall again overflow with prosperity; the LORD will again comfort Zion and again choose Jerusalem.

The second vision: four horns and four smiths

18 And I looked up and saw four horns. 19 I asked the angel who talked with me, "What are these?" And he answered me, "These are the horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem." 20 Then the LORD showed me four blacksmiths. 21 And I asked, "What are they coming to do?" He answered, "These are the horns that scattered Judah, so that no head could be raised; but these have come to terrify them, to strike down the horns of the nations that lifted up their horns against the land of Judah to scatter its people."

[Zechariah 2]

The third vision: a surveyor measures Jerusalem

1 I looked up and saw a man with a measuring line in his hand. 2 Then I asked, "Where are you going?" He answered me, "To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its width and what is its length." 3 Then the angel who talked with me came forward, and another angel came forward to meet him, 4 and said to him, "Run, say to that young man: Jerusalem shall be inhabited like villages without walls, because of the multitude of people and animals in it. 5 For I will be a wall of fire all around it, says the LORD, and I will be the glory within it."

A summons to the exiles

6 Up, up! Flee from the land of the north, says the LORD; for I have spread you abroad like the four winds of heaven, says the LORD. 7 Up! Escape to Zion, you that live with daughter Babylon. 8 For thus said the LORD of hosts (after his glory sent me) regarding the nations that plundered you: Truly, one who touches you touches the apple of my eye. 9 See now, I am going to raise my hand against them, and they shall become plunder for their own slaves. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me. 10 Sing and rejoice, O daughter Zion! For lo, I will come and dwell in your midst, says the LORD. 11 Many nations shall join themselves to the LORD on that day, and shall be my people; and I will dwell in your midst. And you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. 12 The LORD will inherit Judah as his portion in the holy land, and will again choose Jerusalem.

13 Be silent, all people, before the LORD; for he has roused himself from his holy dwelling.

[Zechariah 3]The fourth vision: Joshua and the Satan

1 Then he showed me the high priest Joshua standing before the angel of the LORD, and Satan standing at his right hand to accuse him. 2 And the LORD said to Satan, "The LORD rebuke you, O Satan! The LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is not this man a brand plucked from the fire?" 3 Now Joshua was dressed with filthy clothes as he stood before the angel. 4 The angel said to those who were standing before him, "Take off his filthy clothes." And to him he said, "See, I have taken your guilt away from you, and I will clothe you with festal apparel." 5 And I said, "Let them put a clean turban on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with the apparel; and the angel of the LORD was standing by.

6 Then the angel of the LORD assured Joshua, saying 7 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: If you will walk in my ways and keep my requirements, then you shall rule my house and have charge of my courts, and I will give you the right of access among those who are standing here. 8 Now listen, Joshua, high priest, you and your colleagues who sit before you! For they are an omen of things to come: I am going to bring my servant the Branch. 9 For on the stone that I have set before Joshua, on a single stone with seven facets, I will engrave its inscription, says the LORD of hosts, and I will remove the guilt of this land in a single day. 10 On that day, says the LORD of hosts, you shall invite each other to come under your vine and fig tree."

[Zechariah 4]The fifth vision: a lampstand and two olive trees

1 The angel who talked with me came again, and wakened me, as one is wakened from sleep. 2 He said to me, "What do you see?" And I said, "I see a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on the top of it; there are seven lamps on it, with seven lips on each of the lamps that are on the top of it. 3 And by it there are two olive trees, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left." 4 I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?" 5 Then the angel who talked with me answered me, "Do you not know what these are?" I said, "No, my lord." 6 He said to me, "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, says the LORD of hosts. 7 What are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain; and he shall bring out the top stone amid shouts of 'Grace, grace to it!'"

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 9 "The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also complete it. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. 10 For whoever has despised the day of small things shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel.

"These seven are the eyes of the LORD, which range through the whole earth." 11 Then I said to him, "What are these two olive trees on the right and the left of the lampstand?" 12 And a second time I said to him, "What are these two branches of the olive trees, which pour out the oil through the two golden pipes?" 13 He said to me, "Do you not know what these are?" I said, "No, my lord." 14 Then he said, "These are the two anointed ones who stand by the Lord of the whole earth."

[Zechariah 5]

The sixth vision: a flying scroll

1 Again I looked up and saw a flying scroll. 2 And he said to me, "What do you see?" I answered, "I see a flying scroll; its length is twenty cubits, and its width ten cubits." 3 Then he said to me, "This is the curse that goes out over the face of the whole land; for everyone who steals shall be cut off according to the writing on one side, and everyone who swears falsely shall be cut off according to the writing on the other side. 4 I have sent it out, says the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter the house of the thief, and the house of anyone who swears falsely by my name; and it shall abide in that house and consume it, both timber and stones."

The seventh vision: a woman in a basket

5 Then the angel who talked with me came forward and said to me, "Look up and see what this is that is coming out." 6 I said, "What is it?" He said, "This is a basket coming out." And he said, "This is their iniquity in all the land." 7 Then a leaden cover was lifted, and there was a woman sitting in the basket! 8 And he said, "This is Wickedness." So he thrust her back into the basket, and pressed the leaden weight down on its mouth. 9 Then I looked up and saw two women coming forward. The wind was in their wings; they had wings like the wings of a stork, and they lifted up the basket between earth and sky. 10 Then I said to the angel who talked with me, "Where are they taking the basket?" 11 He said to me, "To the land of Shinar, to build a house for it; and when this is prepared, they will set the basket down there on its base."

[Zechariah 6]The eighth vision: four chariots

1 And again I looked up and saw four chariots coming out from between two mountains — mountains of bronze. 2 The first chariot had red horses, the second chariot black horses, 3 the third chariot white horses, and the fourth chariot dappled gray horses. 4 Then I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?" 5 The angel answered me, "These are the four winds of heaven going out, after presenting themselves before the Lord of all the earth. 6 The chariot with the black horses goes toward the north country, the white ones go toward the west country, and the dappled ones go toward the south country." 7 When the steeds came out, they were impatient to get off and patrol the earth. And he said, "Go, patrol the earth." So they patrolled the earth. 8 Then he cried out to me, "Lo, those who go toward the north country have set my spirit at rest in the north country."

The coronation

9 The word of the LORD came to me: 10 Collect silver and gold from the exiles — from Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah — who have arrived from Babylon; and go the same day to the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah. 11 Take the silver and gold and make a crown, and set it on the head of the high priest Joshua son of Jehozadak; 12 say to him: Thus says the LORD of hosts: Here is a man whose name is Branch: for he shall branch out in his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD. 13 It is he that shall build the temple of the LORD; he shall bear royal honor, and shall sit upon his throne and rule. There shall be a priest by his throne, with peaceful understanding between the two of them. 14 And the crown shall be in the care of Heldai, Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Josiah son of Zephaniah, as a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 Those who are far off shall come and help to build the temple of the LORD; and you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. This will happen if you diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

[Zechariah 7] Various oracles

1 In the fourth year of King Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Chislev. 2 Now the people of Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regem-melech and their men, to entreat the favor of the LORD, 3 and to ask the priests of the house of the LORD of hosts and the prophets, "Should I mourn and practice abstinence in the fifth month, as I have done for so many years?" 4 Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me: 5 Say to all the people of the land and the priests: When you fasted and lamented in the fifth month and in the seventh, for these seventy years, was it for me that you fasted? 6 And when you eat and when you drink, do you not eat and drink only for yourselves? 7 Were not these the words that the LORD proclaimed by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, along with the towns around it, and when the Negeb and the Shephelah were inhabited?

8 The word of the LORD came to Zechariah, saying: 9 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Render true judgments, show kindness and mercy to one another; 10 do not oppress the widow, the orphan, the alien, or the poor; and do not devise evil in your hearts against one another. 11 But they refused to listen, and turned a stubborn shoulder, and stopped their ears in order not to hear. 12 They made their hearts adamant in order not to hear the law and the words that the LORD of hosts had sent by his spirit through the former prophets. Therefore great wrath came from the LORD of hosts. 13 Just as, when I called, they would not hear, so, when they called, I would not hear, says the LORD of hosts, 14 and I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations that they had not known. Thus the land they left was desolate, so that no one went to and fro, and a pleasant land was made desolate.

Ten sayings about Jerusalem

1 The word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying: 2 Thus says the LORD of hosts: I am jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I am jealous for her with great wrath. 3 Thus says the LORD: I will return to Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; Jerusalem shall be called the faithful city, and the mountain of the LORD of hosts shall be called the holy mountain. 4 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand because of their great age. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in its streets. 6 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Even though it seems impossible to the remnant of this people in these days, should it also seem impossible to me, says the LORD of hosts? 7 Thus says the LORD of hosts: I will save my people from the east country and from the west country; 8 and I will bring them to live in Jerusalem. They shall be my people and I will be their God, in faithfulness and in righteousness.

9 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Let your hands be strong — you that have recently been hearing these words from the mouths of the prophets who were present when the foundation was laid for the rebuilding of the temple, the house of the LORD of hosts. 10 For before those days there were no wages for people or for animals, nor was there any safety from the foe for those who went out or came in, and I set them all against one another. 11 But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people as in the former days, says the LORD of hosts. 12 For there shall be a sowing of peace; the vine shall yield its fruit, the ground shall give its produce, and the skies shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. 13 Just as you have been a cursing among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so I will save you and you shall be a blessing. Do not be afraid, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus says the LORD of hosts: Just as I purposed to bring disaster upon you, when your ancestors provoked me to wrath, and I did not relent, says the LORD of hosts, 15 so again I have purposed in these days to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah; do not be afraid. 16 These are the things that you shall do: Speak the truth to one another, render in your gates judgments that are true and make for peace, 17 do not devise evil in your hearts against one another, and love no false oath; for all these are things that I hate, says the LORD.

18 The word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying: 19 Thus says the LORD of hosts: The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be seasons of joy and gladness, and cheerful festivals for the house of Judah: therefore love truth and peace.

20 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Peoples shall yet come, the inhabitants of many cities; 21 the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, "Come, let us go to entreat the favor of the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts; I myself am going." 22 Many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to entreat the favor of the LORD. 23 Thus says the LORD of hosts: In those days ten men from nations of every language shall take hold of a Jew, grasping his garment and saying, "Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you."

[Zechariah 9]The two burdens of Zechariah; the first burden; the Lord subdues Israel's neighbors

An Oracle.

1 The word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach
and will rest upon Damascus.

For to the LORD belongs the capital of Aram,
as do all the tribes of Israel;

2 Hamath also, which borders on it,
Tyre and Sidon, though they are very wise.

3 Tyre has built itself a rampart,
and heaped up silver like dust,
and gold like the dirt of the streets.

4 But now, the Lord will strip it of its possessions and hurl its wealth into the sea,
and it shall be devoured by fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it and be afraid;
Gaza too, and shall writhe in anguish;
Ekron also, because its hopes are withered.

The king shall perish from Gaza;
Ashkelon shall be uninhabited;

6 a mongrel people shall settle in Ashdod,
and I will make an end of the pride of Philistia.

7 I will take away its blood from its mouth,
and its abominations from between its teeth;
it too shall be a remnant for our God;
it shall be like a clan in Judah,
and Ekron shall be like the Jebusites.

8 Then I will encamp at my house as a guard,
so that no one shall march to and fro;
no oppressor shall again overrun them,
for now I have seen with my own eyes.

The king of peace

- 9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter Zion!
 Shout aloud, O daughter Jerusalem!
 Lo, your king comes to you;
 triumphant and victorious is he,
 humble and riding on a donkey,
 on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
- 10 He will cut off the chariot from Ephraim and the war-horse from Jerusalem;
 and the battle bow shall be cut off,
 and he shall command peace to the nations;
 his dominion shall be from sea to sea,
 and from the River to the ends of the earth.

The Lord liberates dispersed Israelites and leads them home

- 11 As for you also, because of the blood of my covenant with you,
 I will set your prisoners free from the waterless pit.
- 12 Return to your stronghold, O prisoners of hope;
 today I declare that I will restore to you double.
- 13 For I have bent Judah as my bow;
 I have made Ephraim its arrow.
 I will arouse your sons, O Zion,
 against your sons, O Greece,
 and wield you like a warrior's sword.
- 14 Then the LORD will appear over them,
 and his arrow go forth like lightning;
 the Lord GOD will sound the trumpet
 and march forth in the whirlwinds of the south.
- 15 The LORD of hosts will protect them,
 and they shall devour and tread down the slingers;
 they shall drink their blood like wine,
 and be full like a bowl,
 drenched like the corners of the altar.

- 16 On that day the LORD their God will save them
 for they are the flock of his people;
 for like the jewels of a crown
 they shall shine on his land.
- 17 For what goodness and beauty are his!
 Grain shall make the young men flourish,
 and new wine the young women.

[Zechariah 10]

An admonition to consult the Lord for the weather

- 1 Ask rain from the LORD
 in the season of the spring rain,
 from the LORD who makes the storm clouds,
 who gives showers of rain to you,
 the vegetation in the field to everyone.
- 2 For the teraphim utter nonsense,
 and the diviners see lies;
 the dreamers tell false dreams,
 and give empty consolation.
 Therefore the people wander like sheep;
 they suffer for lack of a shepherd.

The Lord brings Israel home

- 3 My anger is hot against the shepherds,
 and I will punish the leaders;
 for the LORD of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah,
 and will make them like his proud war-horse.
- 4 Out of them shall come the cornerstone,
 out of them the tent peg,
 out of them the battle bow,
 out of them every commander.
- 5 Together they shall be like warriors in battle,
 trampling the foe in the mud of the streets;
 they shall fight, for the LORD is with them,
 and they shall put to shame the riders on horses.

- 6 I will strengthen the house of Judah,
and I will save the house of Joseph.
I will bring them back because I have compassion on them,
and they shall be as though I had not rejected them;
for I am the LORD their God and I will answer them.
- 7 Then the people of Ephraim shall become like warriors,
and their hearts shall be glad as with wine.
Their children shall see it and rejoice,
their hearts shall exult in the LORD.
- 8 I will signal for them and gather them in,
for I have redeemed them,
and they shall be as numerous as they were before.
- 9 Though I scattered them among the nations,
yet in far countries they shall remember me,
and they shall rear their children and return.
- 10 I will bring them home from the land of Egypt,
and gather them from Assyria;
I will bring them to the land of Gilead and to Lebanon,
until there is no room for them.
- 11 They shall pass through the sea of distress,
and the waves of the sea shall be struck down,
and all the depths of the Nile dried up.
The pride of Assyria shall be laid low,
and the scepter of Egypt shall depart.
- 12 I will make them strong in the LORD,
and they shall walk in his name,
says the LORD.

[Zechariah 11]

The fall of the tyrants

- 1 Open your doors, O Lebanon,
so that fire may devour your cedars!
- 2 Wail, O cypress, for the cedar has fallen,
for the glorious trees are ruined!
Wail, oaks of Bashan,
for the thick forest has been felled!

3 Listen, the wail of the shepherds,
 for their glory is despoiled!
 Listen, the roar of the lions,
 for the thickets of the Jordan are destroyed!

The worthless shepherd

4 Thus said the LORD my God: Be a shepherd of the flock doomed to slaughter. 5 Those who buy them kill them and go unpunished; and those who sell them say, "Blessed be the LORD, for I have become rich"; and their own shepherds have no pity on them. 6 For I will no longer have pity on the inhabitants of the earth, says the LORD. I will cause them, every one, to fall each into the hand of a neighbor, and each into the hand of the king; and they shall devastate the earth, and I will deliver no one from their hand.

7 So, on behalf of the sheep merchants, I became the shepherd of the flock doomed to slaughter. I took two staves; one I named Favor, the other I named Unity, and I tended the sheep. 8 In one month I disposed of the three shepherds, for I had become impatient with them, and they also detested me. 9 So I said, "I will not be your shepherd. What is to die, let it die; what is to be destroyed, let it be destroyed; and let those that are left devour the flesh of one another!" 10 I took my staff Favor and broke it, annulling the covenant that I had made with all the peoples. 11 So it was annulled on that day, and the sheep merchants, who were watching me, knew that it was the word of the LORD. 12 I then said to them, "If it seems right to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them." So they weighed out as my wages thirty shekels of silver. 13 Then the LORD said to me, "Throw it into the treasury" — this lordly price at which I was valued by them. So I took the thirty shekels of silver and threw them into the treasury in the house of the LORD. 14 Then I broke my second staff Unity, annulling the family ties between Judah and Israel.

15 Then the LORD said to me: Take once more the implements of a worthless shepherd. 16 For I am now raising up in the land a shepherd who does not care for the perishing, or seek the wandering, or heal the maimed, or nourish the healthy, but devours the flesh of the fat ones, tearing off even their hoofs.

17 Oh, my worthless shepherd, who deserts the flock!

May the sword strike his arm
and his right eye!

Let his arm be completely withered,
his right eye utterly blinded!

[Zechariah 12]

The second burden; sayings about the coming Day of the Lord

An Oracle.

1 The word of the LORD concerning Israel: Thus says the LORD, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth and formed the human spirit within: 2 See, I am about to make Jerusalem a cup of reeling for all the surrounding peoples; it will be against Judah also in the siege against Jerusalem. 3 On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples; all who lift it shall grievously hurt themselves. And all the nations of the earth shall come together against it. 4 On that day, says the LORD, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness. But on the house of Judah I will keep a watchful eye, when I strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. 5 Then the clans of Judah shall say to themselves, "The inhabitants of Jerusalem have strength through the LORD of hosts, their God."

6 On that day I will make the clans of Judah like a blazing pot on a pile of wood, like a flaming torch among sheaves; and they shall devour to the right and to the left all the surrounding peoples, while Jerusalem shall again be inhabited in its place, in Jerusalem.

7 And the LORD will give victory to the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem may not be exalted over that of Judah. 8 On that day the LORD will shield the inhabitants of Jerusalem so that the feeblest among them on that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the angel of the LORD, at their head. 9 And on that day I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 And I will pour out a spirit of compassion and supplication on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that, when they look on the one whom they have pierced, they shall mourn for him, as one mourns for an only child, and weep bitterly over him, as one weeps over a firstborn. 11 On that day the mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning for Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo. 12 The land shall mourn, each family by itself; the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; 13 the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the Shimeites by itself, and their wives by themselves; 14 and all the families that are left, each by itself, and their wives by themselves.

1 On that day a fountain shall be opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to cleanse them from sin and impurity.

2 On that day, says the LORD of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols from the land, so that they shall be remembered no more; and also I will remove from the land the prophets and the unclean spirit. 3 And if any prophets appear again, their fathers and mothers who bore them will say to them, "You shall not live, for you speak lies in the name of the LORD"; and their fathers and their mothers who bore them shall pierce them through when they prophesy. 4 On that day the prophets will be ashamed, every one, of their visions when they prophesy; they will not put on a hairy mantle in order to deceive, 5 but each of them will say, "I am no prophet, I am a tiller of the soil; for the land has been my possession since my youth." 6 And if anyone asks them, "What are these wounds on your chest?" the answer will be "The wounds I received in the house of my friends."

The stricken shepherd

- 7 "Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, against the man who is my associate,"
 says the LORD of hosts.
 Strike the shepherd, that the sheep may be scattered;
 I will turn my hand against the little ones.
- 8 In the whole land, says the LORD,
 two-thirds shall be cut off and perish,
 and one-third shall be left alive.
- 9 And I will put this third into the fire,
 refine them as one refines silver,
 and test them as gold is tested.
 They will call on my name,
 and I will answer them.
 I will say, "They are my people";
 and they will say, "The LORD is our God."

[Zechariah 14] The final battle

1 See, a day is coming for the LORD, when the plunder taken from you will be divided in your midst. 2 For I will gather all the nations against Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken and the houses looted and the women raped; half the city shall go into exile, but the rest of the people shall not be cut off from the city. 3 Then the LORD will go forth and fight against those nations as when he fights on a day of battle. 4 On that day his feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives, which lies before Jerusalem on the east; and the Mount of Olives shall be split in two from east to west by a very wide valley; so that one half of the Mount shall withdraw northward, and the other half southward. 5 And you shall flee by the valley of the LORD's mountain, for the valley between the mountains shall reach to Azal; and you shall flee as you fled from the earthquake in the days of King Uzziah of Judah. Then the LORD my God will come, and all the holy ones with him.

6 On that day there shall not be either cold or frost. 7 And there shall be continuous day (it is known to the LORD), not day and not night, for at evening time there shall be light.

8 On that day living waters shall flow out from Jerusalem, half of them to the eastern sea and half of them to the western sea; it shall continue in summer as in winter.

9 And the LORD will become king over all the earth; on that day the LORD will be one and his name one.

10 The whole land shall be turned into a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem. But Jerusalem shall remain aloft on its site from the Gate of Benjamin to the place of the former gate, to the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's wine presses. 11 And it shall be inhabited, for never again shall it be doomed to destruction; Jerusalem shall abide in security.

12 This shall be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the peoples that wage war against Jerusalem: their flesh shall rot while they are still on their feet; their eyes shall rot in their sockets, and their tongues shall rot in their mouths. 13 On that day a great panic from the LORD shall fall on them, so that each will seize the hand of a neighbor, and the hand of the one will be raised against the hand of the other; 14 even Judah will fight at Jerusalem. And the wealth of all the surrounding nations shall be collected — gold, silver, and garments in great abundance. 15 And a plague like this plague shall fall on the horses, the mules, the camels, the donkeys, and whatever animals may be in those camps.

16 Then all who survive of the nations that have come against Jerusalem shall go up year after year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the festival of booths. 17 If any of the families of the earth do not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, there will be no rain upon them. 18 And if the family of Egypt do not go up and present themselves, then on them shall come the plague that the LORD inflicts on the nations that do not go up to keep the festival of booths. 19 Such shall be the punishment of Egypt and the punishment of all the nations that do not go up to keep the festival of booths.

20 On that day there shall be inscribed on the bells of the horses, "Holy to the LORD." And the cooking pots in the house of the LORD shall be as holy as the bowls in front of the altar; 21 and every cooking pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be sacred to the LORD of hosts, so that all who sacrifice may come and use them to boil the flesh of the sacrifice. And there shall no longer be traders in the house of the LORD of hosts on that day.

MALACHI

Introduction

The final book of the Minor Prophets is Malachi, whose placement following Haggai and Zechariah is probably based on a chronological principle, since the frequent allusions to Temple activity in the book presume the success of those prophets (e.g., Hag 1.7; Zech 6.15) in the restoration of the Temple. The superscription to Malachi ("an oracle," 1.1) further binds the book to its predecessor (cf. Zech 9.1; 12.1).

Nothing is known about the person of Malachi. Even his name, which means "my messenger," may be only an appellation, based on 3.1 (cf. 2.7). Though the book neither alludes to historical events nor includes date formulas, it seems to reflect the period of the fifth century BCE, since it presumes a completed Temple (which occurred in 515 BCE) and also shared many of the concerns with Ezra and Nehemiah, normally dated to the second half of the fifth century, including tithing (3.8-12; Neh 10.37-39; 13.10-14) and mixed marriages (2.10-12; Ezra 9-10; Neh 11.23-27).

This prophetic voice was devoted to the Temple and held a high view of the priesthood and its responsibilities. He speaks frequently of the covenant (2.4, 5, 8, 10, 14; 3.1) and shows great respect for the priestly "instruction" (torah, 2.6-9). Instead of adopting the poetic style used by earlier prophets, Malachi speaks in a more prosaic voice and adopts a question-and-answer method of stating his argument. Nevertheless, his emphases upon sin, judgment, and repentance, and upon an imminent day of reckoning (3.1-5,7; 4.1-3, 6) mark him as a prophet, and he may be best understood as a "cultic prophet," like Joel.

The extravagant hopes of the restoration prophets had not materialized (Hag 2.6-9; Zech 8.1-5, 20-23). The Temple had been rebuilt but the ideal age had not begun. Malachi probably spoke to a disheartened audience which questioned both the love (1.2) and justice (2.17) of God. Malachi reversed the discussion: God, he avers, has been faithful to the covenant (1.2; 2.5-7; and esp. 3.6, "For I the Lord do not change"); it is Judah that has been faithless (1.6; 2.8, 14; 3.8). Furthermore, any lingering doubts about divine justice will be addressed and overcome, the prophet states, soon enough when the Lord comes in judgment (2.17-3.5; 3.16-4.6).

Following the superscription (1.1), the book contains six units that follow a similar pattern. The pattern is argumentative and disputational. The prophet makes a statement (e.g., "I have love you, says the Lord," 1.2a), followed by a question voiced by the prophet but attributed to the audience (e.g., "But you say, 'How have you loved us?'" 1.2b), followed by the prophet's response. The six units are 1.2-5; 1.6-2.9; 2.10-16; 2.17-3.5; 3.6-12; 3.13-4.3. Two appendices (4.4; 4.5-6), probably added later, complete the book.

Overall, the book can be read as a single argument. Against a background of ennui (see the "weariness" of the people in 1.13; of God in 3.17), the prophet emphasizes God's reliability (1.2-5) and countercharges that it is the priests (1.6-2.9) and the larger society (2.10-16) who have been unfaithful. Nevertheless, divine judgment is imminent (2.17-3.5), so the people should return to God (3.6-12). In the end, the faithful remnant in the community will be vindicated (3.13-4.3).

In Jewish Bibles, Malachi ends the Book of the Twelve and the entire prophetic collection which, in Hebrew, began with Joshua 1.1-2 (see Mal 4.4-6). In Christian Bibles it ends the Old Testament; its final words about Elijah as messenger, already in the Gospels and subsequently in Christian tradition, are traditionally interpreted to foreshadow Jesus as the Christ. For an expansion of this in early Christian tradition, see Mt 11.7-15; 17.10-13; Mk 6.14-16; Lk 1.17; cf. Sir 48.10.

[Malachi 1]
Superscription

1 An oracle. The word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi.

An affirmation of God's faithfulness to Israel

2 I have loved you, says the LORD. But you say, "How have you loved us?" Is not Esau Jacob's brother? says the LORD. Yet I have loved Jacob 3 but I have hated Esau; I have made his hill country a desolation and his heritage a desert for jackals. 4 If Edom says, "We are shattered but we will rebuild the ruins," the LORD of hosts says: They may build, but I will tear down, until they are called the wicked country, the people with whom the LORD is angry forever. 5 Your own eyes shall see this, and you shall say, "Great is the LORD beyond the borders of Israel!"

The priests have been unfaithful to their covenant

6 A son honors his father, and servants their master. If then I am a father, where is the honor due me? And if I am a master, where is the respect due me? says the LORD of hosts to you, O priests, who despise my name. You say, "How have we despised your name?" 7 By offering polluted food on my altar. And you say, "How have we polluted it?" By thinking that the LORD's table may be despised. 8 When you offer blind animals in sacrifice, is that not wrong? And when you offer those that are lame or sick, is that not wrong? Try presenting that to your governor; will he be pleased with you or show you favor? says the LORD of hosts. 9 And now implore the favor of God, that he may be gracious to us. The fault is yours. Will he show favor to any of you? says the LORD of hosts. 10 Oh, that someone among you would shut the temple doors, so that you would not kindle fire on my altar in vain! I have no pleasure in you, says the LORD of hosts, and I will not accept an offering from your hands. 11 For from the rising of the sun to its setting my name is great among the nations, and in every place incense is offered to my name, and a pure offering; for my name is great among the nations, says the LORD of hosts. 12 But you profane it when you say that the LORD's table is polluted, and the food for it may be despised. 13 "What a weariness this is," you say, and you sniff at me, says the LORD of hosts. You bring what has been taken by violence or is lame or sick, and this you bring as your offering! Shall I accept that from your hand? says the LORD. 14 Cursed be the cheat who has a male in the flock and vows to give it, and yet sacrifices to the Lord what is blemished; for I am a great King, says the LORD of hosts, and my name is revered among the nations.

1 And now, O priests, this command is for you. 2 If you will not listen, if you will not lay it to heart to give glory to my name, says the LORD of hosts, then I will send the curse on you and I will curse your blessings; indeed I have already cursed them, because you do not lay it to heart. 3 I will rebuke your offspring, and spread dung on your faces, the dung of your offerings, and I will put you out of my presence.

4 Know, then, that I have sent this command to you, that my covenant with Levi may hold, says the LORD of hosts. 5 My covenant with him was a covenant of life and well-being, which I gave him; this called for reverence, and he revered me and stood in awe of my name. 6 True instruction was in his mouth, and no wrong was found on his lips. He walked with me in integrity and uprightness, and he turned many from iniquity. 7 For the lips of a priest should guard knowledge, and people should seek instruction from his mouth, for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts. 8 But you have turned aside from the way; you have caused many to stumble by your instruction; you have corrupted the covenant of Levi, says the LORD of hosts, 9 and so I make you despised and abased before all the people, inasmuch as you have not kept my ways but have shown partiality in your instruction.

The people have been unfaithful to each other

10 Have we not all one father? Has not one God created us? Why then are we faithless to one another, profaning the covenant of our ancestors? 11 Judah has been faithless, and abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah has profaned the sanctuary of the LORD, which he loves, and has married the daughter of a foreign god. 12 May the LORD cut off from the tents of Jacob anyone who does this — any to witness or answer, or to bring an offering to the LORD of hosts.

13 And this you do as well: You cover the LORD's altar with tears, with weeping and groaning because he no longer regards the offering or accepts it with favor at your hand. 14 You ask, "Why does he not?" Because the LORD was a witness between you and the wife of your youth, to whom you have been faithless, though she is your companion and your wife by covenant. 15 Did not one God make her? Both flesh and spirit are his. And what does the one God desire? Godly offspring. So look to yourselves, and do not let anyone be faithless to the wife of his youth. 16 For I hate divorce, says the LORD, the God of Israel, and covering one's garment with violence, says the LORD of hosts. So take heed to yourselves and do not be faithless.

Judgment is coming

17 You have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet you say, "How have we wearied him?" By saying, "All who do evil are good in the sight of the LORD, and he delights in them." Or by asking, "Where is the God of justice?"

[Malachi 3]

1 See, I am sending my messenger to prepare the way before me, and the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his temple. The messenger of the covenant in whom you delight — indeed, he is coming, says the LORD of hosts. 2 But who can endure the day of his coming, and who can stand when he appears?

For he is like a refiner's fire and like fullers' soap; 3 he will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he will purify the descendants of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, until they present offerings to the LORD in righteousness. 4 Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasing to the LORD as in the days of old and as in former years.

5 Then I will draw near to you for judgment; I will be swift to bear witness against the sorcerers, against the adulterers, against those who swear falsely, against those who oppress the hired workers in their wages, the widow and the orphan, against those who thrust aside the alien, and do not fear me, says the LORD of hosts.

A call to repentance

6 For I the LORD do not change; therefore you, O children of Jacob, have not perished. 7 Ever since the days of your ancestors you have turned aside from my statutes and have not kept them. Return to me, and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. But you say, "How shall we return?"

8 Will anyone rob God? Yet you are robbing me! But you say, "How are we robbing you?" In your tithes and offerings! 9 You are cursed with a curse, for you are robbing me — the whole nation of you! 10 Bring the full tithe into the storehouse, so that there may be food in my house, and thus put me to the test, says the LORD of hosts; see if I will not open the windows of heaven for you and pour down for you an overflowing blessing. 11 I will rebuke the locust for you, so that it will not destroy the produce of your soil; and your vine in the field shall not be barren, says the LORD of hosts. 12 Then all nations will count you happy, for you will be a land of delight, says the LORD of hosts.

The righteous and wicked receive their just rewards

13 You have spoken harsh words against me, says the LORD. Yet you say, "How have we spoken against you?" 14 You have said, "It is vain to serve God. What do we profit by keeping his command or by going about as mourners before the LORD of hosts? 15 Now we count the arrogant happy; evildoers not only prosper, but when they put God to the test they escape."

16 Then those who revered the LORD spoke with one another. The LORD took note and listened, and a book of remembrance was written before him of those who revered the LORD and thought on his name. 17

They shall be mine, says the LORD of hosts, my special possession on the day when I act, and I will spare them as parents spare their children who serve them. 18 Then once more you shall see the difference between the righteous and the wicked, between one who serves God and one who does not serve him.

[Malachi 4]

1 See, the day is coming, burning like an oven, when all the arrogant and all evildoers will be stubble; the day that comes shall burn them up, says the LORD of hosts, so that it will leave them neither root nor branch. 2 But for you who revere my name the sun of righteousness shall rise, with healing in its wings. You shall go out leaping like calves from the stall. 3 And you shall tread down the wicked, for they will be ashes under the soles of your feet, on the day when I act, says the LORD of hosts.

Two appendices

4 Remember the teaching of my servant Moses, the statutes and ordinances that I commanded him at Horeb for all Israel.

5 Lo, I will send you the prophet Elijah before the great and terrible day of the LORD comes. 6 He will turn the hearts of parents to their children and the hearts of children to their parents, so that I will not come and strike the land with a curse.

INTRODUCTION TO THE APOCRYPHAL/DEUTEROCANONICAL BOOKS

Definitions

As the terms are used in the New Revised Standard Version translation, the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books are those works that were included in the Septuagint, the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible with additions, or in the Old Latin and Vulgate translations, but are not included in the Hebrew text that forms both the canon for Judaism and the Protestant Old Testament. All of these works, whether they are individual books or additions to the Hebrew texts of Esther and Daniel, have been regarded as canonical by one or more Christian communities, but not by all. (The exception to this is 4 Maccabees, which appears in an appendix to the Greek Bible.)

"Apocrypha" means "hidden things," but it is not clear why the term was chosen to describe these books. It could mean that they were "hidden" or withdrawn from common use because they were viewed as containing mysterious or esoteric teaching, too profound to be communicated to any except the initiated (see 2 Esdras 14.45-46). Or it could mean that such books deserved to be "hidden" because they were spurious or heretical. This ambivalence has continued into the present, although increasingly even scholars from traditions that do not regard these books as canonical consider them of great value for understanding Judaism in the Hellenistic and Roman periods, and thus in the wider contexts, both literary and historical, of the later books in the Hebrew Bible and of the New Testament as well.

"Deuterocanonical," along with its coordinate term "protocanonical," is used in Roman Catholic tradition to describe the status of the two groups of books of the Old Testament. The "protocanon" consists of the books of the Hebrew Bible and the "deuterocanon" of the books whose inspiration came to be recognized later, after the matter had been discussed among some theologians and local churches. This distinction, introduced by Sixtus of Sienna in 1566, acknowledges the differences between the two categories while making clear that Roman Catholics accept as fully canonical those books and parts of books that Protestants call the Apocrypha (except the Prayer of Manasseh, Psalm 151, 3 and 4 Maccabees, and 1 and 2 Esdras, which both groups regard as apocryphal). Thus, although the terms "Deuterocanonical" and "Apocryphal" can describe the same collection of writings, they clearly indicated the difference in the status of the writings among different groups. In the NRSV translation, subheadings in the table of contents for these books, and in the text itself, explain the differing canonical status of various writings.

The Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant Canons of the Old Testament

Toward the end of the fourth century CE, Pope Damasus commissioned Jerome, the most learned Christian biblical scholar of his day, to prepare a standard Latin version of the scriptures (the translation that was to become known as the Latin Vulgate). In the Old Testament Jerome followed the Hebrew canon; though he also translated the apocryphal books, he called attention to their distinct status in prefaces. Subsequent copyists of the Latin Bible, however, did not always include Jerome's prefaces, and during the medieval period the Western Church generally regarded these books as part of the holy scriptures without differentiation. In 1546 the Council of Trent decreed that the canon of the Old Testament includes them (with the exceptions as listed above). Subsequent editions of the Latin Vulgate text, officially approved by the Roman Catholic Church, place these books within the Christian sequence of the Old Testament books. Thus Tobit and Judith come after Nehemiah; the Wisdom of Solomon and Ecclesiasticus come after the Song of Solomon; Baruch (with the Letter of Jeremiah as Chapter 6) comes after Lamentations; and 1 and 2 Maccabees conclude the books of the Old Testament. Esther is given in its longer (Greek) form rather than in the version based solely on the Hebrew text; the Prayer of Azariah and Song of the Three Jews appear as vv. 24-90 of ch 3 of Daniel, and the stories of Susanna and Bel and the Dragon as chs 13 and 14 of Daniel. An appendix after the New Testament contains the Prayer of Manasseh and 1 and 2 Esdras, without implying canonical status.

The Eastern Orthodox Churches recognize several other books as authoritative. Editions of the Old Testament approved by the Holy Synod of the Greek Orthodox Church contain, besides the Roman Catholic Deuterocanonical books, 1 Esdras, Psalm 151, the Prayer of Manasseh, and 3 Maccabees, while 4 Maccabees appears in the Appendix. Slavonic Bibles approved by the Russian Orthodox Church contain besides the Deuterocanonical books, 1 and 2 Esdras (called 2 and 3 Esdras), Psalm 151, and 3 Maccabees.

The Status of the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books in Christianity

During the first centuries of the Common Era, early Christian theologians (most of whom knew no Hebrew) quoted, in Greek, passages both from books in the Hebrew canon and from these additional works without making any distinction between them. Such citations were usually preceded by a word or phrase making it clear that the writer regarded the text being cited as canonical. During this time, only a few thinkers investigated the Jewish canon or distinguished between, for instance, the Hebrew text of Daniel and the addition of the story of Susanna in the Greek version.

By the fourth century, theologians in the eastern (Greek) churches had begun to recognize a distinction between the books of the Hebrew canon and the rest, though they continued to cite all of them as scripture. During the following centuries the matter was debated and, consequently, practice varied in the East, but at the Synod of Jerusalem in 1672 (which expressed the Orthodox churches' reaction to the Protestant Reformation), Tobit, Judith, Ecclesiasticus, Wisdom, Additions to Daniel, and 1 and 2 Maccabees were expressly designated as canonical.

In the western (Latin) church, on the other hand, though there has been some variety of opinion, in general theologians have regarded these books as canonical. More than one local synodical council (e.g., Hippo, 393, and Carthage, 397 and 419) justified and authorized their use as scripture. The so-called Decretum Gelasianum, a Latin document probably dating to the sixth century, contains lists of the books to be read as scripture and of books to be avoided as apocryphal. The former list, which is not present in all the manuscripts, includes among the biblical books Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, and 1 and 2 Maccabees.

Occasionally, however, theologians questioned the status of these books, Jerome, near the end of the fourth century, thought that books not in the Hebrew canon should be classed as apocryphal, and other thinkers, though always a minority, followed his view, at least theoretically. Toward the close of the fourteenth century John Wycliffe and his disciples produced the first English version of the Bible. This translation of the Latin Vulgate included all of the disputed books, with the exception of 2 Esdras. In the Prologue to the Old Testament, however, it makes a distinction between the books of the Hebrew canon, listed there, and others which, the writer says, "shall be set among the apocrypha, that is, without authority of belief." In the books of Esther and Daniel the translators included a rendering of Jerome's notes calling the reader's attention to the additions.

At the time of the Reformation, Protestant thinkers came to the conclusion fairly early that they would need to determine which books were authoritative for the establishment of doctrine and which were not. For instance, disputes over the doctrine of Purgatory and of the usefulness of prayers and Masses for the dead involved the authority of 2 Maccabees, which contains what was held to be scriptural warrant for them (12.43-45). The first extensive Protestant discussion of the canon was Andreas Bodenstein's treatise De Canonicis Scripturis Libellus (1520). Bodenstein (or Carlstadt, after his place of birth) distinguished the books of the Hebrew Old Testament from the books of the Apocrypha, classifying the Apocrypha into two divisions. Concerning Wisdom, Sirach (Ecclesiasticus), Judith, Tobit, and 1 and 2 Maccabees, he says, "These are the Apocrypha, that is, are outside the Hebrew canon; yet they are holy writings" (sect. 114). He continues:

What they contain is not to be despised at once; still it is not right that Christians should relieve, much less slake, their thirst with them.... Before all things things the best books must be read, that is, those that are canonical beyond all controversy; afterwards, if one has the time, it is allowed to peruse the controverted books, provided that you have the set purpose of comparing and collating the non-canonical books with those which are truly canonical (§118).

The second group, 1 and 2 Esdras, Baruch, Prayer of Manasseh, and the Additions to Daniel, he declared without worth.

The first Bible in a modern vernacular language to segregate the apocryphal books from the others was the Dutch Bible published by Jacob van Liesveldt in 1526 at Antwerp. After Malachi there follows a section embodying the Apocrypha, which is titled, "The books which are not in the canon, that is to say, which one does not find among the Jews in the Hebrew."

The first edition of the Swiss-German Bible was published in six volumes (Zurich, 1527-29), the fifth of which contains the Apocrypha. The title page of this volume states, "These are the books which are not reckoned as biblical by the ancients, nor are found among the Hebrews." A one-volume edition of the Zurich Bible, which appeared in 1530, contains the apocryphal books grouped together after the New Testament. One Swiss reformer, Oecolampadius, declared in 1530: "We do not despise Judith, Tobit, Ecclesiasticus, Baruch, the last two books of Esdras, the three books of Maccabees, the Additions to Daniel; but we do not allow them divine authority with the others."

In reaction to Protestant criticism of the disputed books, on 8 April 1546, the Council of Trent gave what is regarded by Roman Catholics as the definitive declaration on the canon of the holy scriptures. After enumerating the books, which in the Old Testament include Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, Baruch, and the two books of Maccabees, the decree pronounces an anathema upon anyone who "does not accept as sacred and canonical the aforesaid books in their entirety and with all their parts, as they have been accustomed to be read in the Catholic Church and as they are contained in the old Latin Vulgate Edition" (tr. Father H.J. Schroeder). The reference to "books in their entirety and with all their parts" is intended to cover the Letter of Jeremiah as chapter 6 of Baruch, the Additions to Esther, and the chapters in Daniel including the Prayer of Azariah, the Song of the Three Jews, Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon. It is noteworthy, however, that the Prayer of Manasseh and 1 and 2 Esdras, though included in some manuscripts of the Latin Vulgate, were denied canonical status by the Council. In the official edition of the Vulgate, published in 1592, these three are printed as an appendix after the New Testament, "lest they should perish altogether."

In England, though Protestants were unanimous in declaring that the apocryphal books were not to be used to establish any doctrine, differences arose as to the proper use and place of noncanonical books. A milder view prevailed in the Church of England, and the lectionary attached to the Book of Common Prayer, from 1549 onward, has always contained prescribed lessons from the Apocrypha. In addition, portions of the Song of the Three Jews are used as a canticle, or song of praise, alongside selected Psalms in the service of Morning Prayer. In reply to those who urged the discontinuance of reading lessons from apocryphal books, as being inconsistent with the sufficiency of scripture, the bishops at the Savoy Conference, held in 1661, replied that the same objection could be raised against the preaching of sermons, and that it was much to be desired that all sermons should give as useful instruction as did the chapters selected from the Apocrypha.

The Historical Background to the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books

With the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple by the Babylonians in 586 BCE, and the subsequent exile of the leading citizens of Judah in Babylon, the history of Israel underwent a decisive break. Henceforth there would always be Jewish communities outside the land of Israel, and even after the Persian king Cyrus allowed the exiles to return in 538 BCE, large communities flourished in Babylon and elsewhere.

For two centuries the Persians controlled the Near East, but little is known about Jewish history during this time. The Persian period came to an end when Alexander the Great completed a series of conquests that put him in control of Greece, the former Persian Empire, and Egypt. When Alexander died in 323, his empire was divided among his warring generals, and two of them — Seleucus, king of Syria, and Ptolemy, king of Egypt — and their successors fought over the territory of Judah, which fell first under Ptolemaic and then Seleucid dynastic control. Despite the political changes, however, the overall cultural influence remained: This was the era of the triumph of Hellenistic culture, including the use of the Greek language as the standard for the whole empire.

There had already been, in the Hebrew Bible, contention about such issues as intermarriage (Ezra 9.1-10.44; Neh 13.23-31). Now, with large numbers of Jews living outside the land as minorities within much larger and more dominant cultures, this issue and those of other religious observances came to be much more important. Stories of faithfully observant Jews among non-Jewish populations (Tobit, 3 Maccabees) were joined by expanded versions of books that strengthened this point (Greek Esther, the Prayer of Azariah, and Song of the Three Jews in ch 3 of Daniel).

The Seleucid kings increasingly pressured the Jews to adopt Hellenistic ways in their religious observance, and in fact had some success. This effort came to a head under Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175-164). He installed Hellenizing high priests (Jason and Menelaus), against whom observant Jews rebelled. In response, Antiochus invaded Jerusalem in 169; in 167 he effectively outlawed the Jewish religion, making the teaching of the Torah a crime and establishing polytheistic worship in the Temple. This final provocation led to the ultimately successful Jewish revolt under the Hasmonean family, led by Mattathias and his five sons, one of whom, Judas, was known as Maccabeus, "the hammer." The revolt and the subsequent establishment of a Jewish government (which took more than twenty years to accomplish) are therefore referred to as Maccabean. This rule lasted for eighty years, until (because of constant power struggles among the various factions of Jews) the Romans were able to intervene and take direct control of the territory in 63 BCE.

Kinds of Literature in the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books

The Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books contain several different literary genres, including histories, historical fiction, wisdom, devotional writings, letters, and an apocalypse. Though several of the books combine more than one of these genres, most of the books can be classified as predominantly one or another. Thus 1 Esdras, 1 Maccabees, and, in a certain sense, 2 Maccabees are histories. First Esdras summarizes 2 Chr 35.1-36.23 and reproduces all of Ezra and Neh 7.38-8.12. Only 1 Esd 3.1-5.6 is a significant addition. First Maccabees recounts the history of the Seleucid persecutions and the rebellion and rise of the Maccabees. Second Maccabees, with its bombastic rhetoric and abundant use of invectives against the Seleucid tyrants and Hellenizing Jews, is an example of a popular Hellenistic genre, the "pathetic history," which uses highly charged language, exhortation, exaggeration, and other methods to stimulate the imaginations and emotions ("pathos") of readers. Third Maccabees is misleadingly named: It actually has nothing to do with the Maccabean period or the Seleucid dynasty, but deals with a period a half-century earlier and concerns the sufferings of the Jewish community in Egypt under the Ptolemaic rulers. It is a religious novel, written in Greek by an Alexandrian Jew sometime between 100 BCE and 70 CE. Using legendary elements, it tells three stories of conflict between Ptolemy IV (221-205 BCE) and the Jewish community in Egypt. The most dramatic section (5.1-6.21) describes Ptolemy's scheme to martyr the Jews: They were to be herded into an arena near Alexandria to be trampled under the foot of five hundred intoxicated elephants. The king's plan was finally foiled when angelic intervention terrorized those supervising the persecutions and also frightened the elephants into turning upon the Egyptian soldiers.

Fourth Maccabees is not a historical narrative but rather a Greek philosophical treatise addressed to Jews on the supremacy of reason over the passions of the body and soul. In the form of a Stoic diatribe, or popular address, it uses narratives of exemplary behavior, and the conversations and arguments of character in the narratives, to explore philosophical issues. The author begins with a philosophical exposition of his theme, which he then illustrates at length with examples of the martyrs drawn from 2 Maccabees, who preferred death to committing apostasy. The book was probably written by a Hellenistic Jew before 70 CE. In early Christianity the Maccabean martyrs were venerated as saints and eventually accorded a yearly festival in the ecclesiastical calendar (August 1).

Judith, Tobit, Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon are short historical fictions written to convey a moral point, as well as to entertain. Except for Judith, which is set in Judah, the rest are sometimes referred to as "Diaspora novels" since they are all set in the Jewish Diaspora of Mesopotamia. Yet they differ from one another in other respects. Like the canonical stories of Daniel 1-6, Bel and the Dragon are court tales, in which the hero's relationship with the king and other members of the court provides the conflict of the plot. The motif of the lion's den, which occurs in Daniel 6, also occurs in the story of the dragon. In contrast to the earlier Daniel tales, however, Bel and the Dragon is preoccupied with the theme of the exposure of idols as false gods and their priests as fraudulent (see also the Letter of Jeremiah). Bel and the Dragon and Susanna are sometimes referred to as ancient examples of the detective story. Whereas Daniel functioned as an interpreter of dreams and visions in Daniel 1-6, in these stories Daniel uses cleverness and logical deduction to disclose deception.

Although Tobit, like Daniel, is represented as a court official of a Mesopotamian king, the story is concerned with personal and family affairs, not a rivalry at court. Thematically, Tobit maybe be compared with the prose story of Job, since it concerns the suffering of the righteous (both Tobit and his daughter-in-law Sarah). The book of Tobit is distinguished by the use of various folktale motifs (e.g., the motifs of the grateful dead, the angel in disguise, the dangerous bride, and the demon lover), and by its reference to Ahikar, the hero of a non-Jewish folktale from Mesopotamia.

Judith might seem to bear comparison with 1 and 2 Maccabees, since it concerns a threat to the people from a foreign army. But whereas 1 and 2 Maccabees are histories, the fictional nature of Judith is evident from the story's flagrant historical inaccuracies (describing Nebuchadnezzar as king of Assyria and the invasion as taking place after the people's return from exile!). A better comparison might be between Judith and Esther. Though set in Judah rather than in the Diaspora, Judith, like Esther, tells how a courageous Jewish woman saves her people from enemies bent on destroying them.

Didactic literature is represented in the Apocrypha by the two treatises on wisdom: the Wisdom of Solomon, and the Wisdom of Jesus son of Sirach (also known as Ecclesiasticus). Sirach, which was originally composed in Hebrew ca. 180 BCE, shows particularly close connections with the style and content of the book of Proverbs in the Hebrew Bible, from which it is a natural development. The Wisdom of Solomon, by contrast, contains no proverbial material, such as characterizes the Hebrew wisdom tradition. It does, however, share with Proverbs and Sirach an interest in the figure of wisdom personified as a woman. What makes the Wisdom of Solomon distinctive is the strong influence of Greek literary styles and philosophical ideas. Thus, it comes from the Greek-speaking Diaspora, most probably from Alexandria.

The Prayer of Manasseh is a hymnic lament of great feeling and literary skill. The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews are both modeled on psalms that are liturgical in form. In addition to the 150 psalms comprising the Book of Psalms in the Hebrew Bible, during the Hellenistic and Roman periods such hymns were composed in Hebrew and in other languages; there are a number of such compositions in the Dead Sea Scrolls. Another, which celebrates the prowess of young David at slaying Goliath, is appended (as Ps 151) to the Psalter in Greek manuscripts.

The Hebrew Bible contains no books that are in the form of a letter, although letters (or excerpts) occur at various places. There are decrees (Ezra 1.1-6), diplomatic correspondence (1 Kings 5.2-6), royal commands (2 Sam 11.14-15), even forgeries (1 Kings 21.8-10), but all are used to advance the narratives in which they occur, or explain incidents that follow, so it is unclear how representative they are. Twenty-one of the twenty-seven books of the New Testament are in the form of letters, though some (for instance, Hebrews) are more like sermons than letters. The Letter of Jeremiah, which dates from the Hellenistic period, may have provided later, Christian writers with an example of how this literary form could be used for religious purposes, combining theological content with a direct personal approach.

Finally, 2 Esdras, a book that purports to reveal the future, is a specimen of apocalypse. An apocalypse is literally "an unveiling." Like the last six chapters of Daniel in the Hebrew Bible and the book of Revelation in the New Testament, which are also apocalypses, 2 Esdras uses metaphoric language, symbolic numbers and animals (including composites, like the eagle with three heads and numerous wings in ch 11), and angelic messengers who reveal hidden information.

Despite this diversity of genres, most of which parallel or are developed from similar ones in the Hebrew Bible, there is no correlative to classical prophecy. Even within the prophetic books of the Hebrew Bible, apocalyptic elements had already begun to supplant strict prophecy (for instance, Isaiah chs 24-27; Ezekiel chs 38-39; Joel ch 2; Zechariah chs 9-14). This absence perhaps supports the view that Josephus, the Jewish historian, expressed (Ag. Ap. 1.8), that "the exact succession of the prophets" had been broken after the Persian period; a similar idea is found in later rabbinic literature. Sometimes there is a direct statement that "prophets ceased to appear" (1 Macc 9.27); at other times the writers express the hope that prophecy might one day return (1 Macc 4.46; 14.41). When a writer imitates prophetic style, as in the book of Baruch, he repeats with slight modifications the language of the older prophets. But the introductory phrase, "Thus says the LORD," which occurs so frequently in the prophetic literature of the Hebrew Bible, is absent from the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books.

The Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books within Judaism

All of the writings in the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books are Jewish in origin, but it is not clear that they were collected by any particular community of Jews. Some of them (for instance, Sirach) were quoted by the rabbis, but for others no evidence exists that they were regarded as central to the Jewish community at any point. Some (Tobit, parts of Sirach, the Letter of Jeremiah, and Psalm 151) are among the Dead Sea Scrolls, and were therefore presumably of importance to the Essene community there, but whether or not they were considered "canonical" is not clear.

Nevertheless, influences from some of these works are apparent within Judaism. As mentioned above, rabbinic literature quotes and appropriates sayings from Sirach. The martyrdom of the woman and her seven sons (2 Macc 7.1-42; 4 Macc 8.3-18.24) is recounted in several places (Lam. Rab 1. 50; Git. 57b; Seder Eliyahu R 29).

First and Second Maccabees (1 Macc 4.36-59; 2 Macc 10.1-8) provide the original accounts of the purification of the Temple in 164 BCE, which is commemorated in the festival of Hanukkah. The Talmudic legend (Shab. 21b) that oil in the Temple, though only enough for one day, nevertheless burned for eight — the supposed reason for the eight-day length of the observance — is not found in the books of the Maccabees. Judith was, during the Middle Ages, associated with Hanukkah as well, on the grounds that both had to do with rallying an oppressed Jewish population to overthrow a threatening or occupying power.

Both Tobit and 2 Esdras influenced later Jewish literature and were popular during the Middle Ages. Baruch may have been read in synagogues at one time (see Bar 1.14), and Baruch himself, and therefore his writing, were regarded in some rabbinic writings as sharing Jeremiah's prophetic status (Sifre Num 78; Seder Olam R 20; Bab Meg. 14b; Jer Sot. 9.12). Susanna's story is recounted in the Babylonian Talmud (b. San. 93a).

New Testament Uses of the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books

None of the books of the New Testament quote directly from any Apocryphal book, in distinction from the frequent quotation of the thirty-nine books in the Hebrew Bible. On the other hand, several New Testament writers make allusions to one or more apocryphal books. For example, what seem to be literary echoes from the Wisdom of Solomon are present in Paul's Letter to the Romans (cf Rom 1.20-29 with Wis 13.5, 8; 14.24, 27; and Rom 9.20-23 with Wis 12.12, 20; 15.7) and in his correspondence with the Corinthians (compare 2 Cor 5.1, 4 with Wis 9.15). The short Letter of James, a typical bit of "wisdom literature" in the New Testament, contains allusions not only to the book of Proverbs in the Hebrew Bible but to gnomic sayings in Sirach as well (cf Jas 1.19 with Sir 5.11; and Jas 1.13 with Sir 15.11-12).

The Further Influence of the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books

The influence of the Apocrypha has been widespread, inspiring homilies, meditations, and liturgical forms, and providing subjects for poets, dramatists, composers, and artists. Some common expressions and proverbs have come from the Apocrypha. The sayings, "A good name endures forever" and "You can't touch pitch without being defiled," are derived from Sir 41.13 and 13.1. The affirmation in 1 Esd 4.41, "Great is Truth, and mighty above all things" (King James Version), or its Latin form, Magna est veritas et praevalet, has been used as a motto or maxim in a wide variety of contexts.

The importance of these books extends to the information they supply concerning the development of Jewish life and thought just prior to the beginning of the Common Era. The stirring political fortunes of the Jews in the time of the Maccabees; the rise of what has been called normative Judaism, and the emergence of the sects of the Pharisees and Sadducees; the lush growth of popular belief in the activities of angels and demons, and the use of magic to drive away malevolent influences; the first reflections on "original sin" and its relation to the "evil inclination" present in every person; the blossoming of apocalyptic hopes relating to the messiah, the resurrection of the body, and the vindication of the righteous — all these and many other topics receive welcome light from the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books.

TOBIT

Introduction

Combining ethical exhortation, prayers, and doxologies with broad humor, a rollicking plot, and vivid characters, the book of Tobit is a splendid example of the Jewish novella. In addition to its entertainment value, it offers to historians information about the postexilic period and to theologians a view of a God who tests the faithful, responds to prayers, and redeems the covenant community.

The title character, Tobit, was exiled with his wife Anna from the region of Galilee held by the tribe of Naphtali. Removed to Assyria, he eventually, like Joseph, Mordecai, and Daniel, found himself in the service of a foreign ruler — in Tobit's case, as an officer of the court of Shalmaneser. This pious Israelite too is tested: First he is removed from his official position and then he is persecuted by Shalmaneser's successor for his insistence on burying the corpses of his fellow Jews. Most ignominious of all: One evening, following yet another burial, Tobit is blinded by a bird with unfortunate aim. Forced to depend on others, including his wife, for support, and following an argument with her in which she questions the value of his piety, Tobit prays for death.

At the same time his relative Sarah is also praying for death. The demon Asmodeus, who has fallen in love with her, has killed each of her seven successive grooms on the wedding night. To resolve these somewhat improbable situations, the angel Raphael will escort Tobit's son, Tobias, first to Media to exorcise the demon and marry Sarah and then back to Nineveh to cure Tobit.

The relatively complex plot is tied together by the parallel situations of older father and bride-to-be, frequent doxologies, almost incessant references to almsgiving, and the shifting of scenes between Nineveh and Ecbatana. The humorous aspects of the tale — from the angel in disguise to the attack of a magical fish — make the stories of Tobit and Sarah border on the farcical and so prevent the book from becoming tragic or maudlin. Readers familiar with biblical motifs will recognize various genres and themes incorporated in the volume: wisdom sayings, the antipathy between Sarah of Genesis and her maidservant Hagar, the search for a bride for Isaac, the success of the Jew in the royal court, the problems of life in the Diaspora, Job's trials, the role of angels, the centrality of Jerusalem, the fulfillment of prophecy and, especially, the importance of charity. The numerous personal prayers, found also in the stories of Judith, Daniel and the Additions (Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews, Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon), the Greek Additions to Esther, and elsewhere in Jewish postexilic literature, emphasize the universal authority and righteousness of God.

The book of Tobit is also replete with information concerning family life, travel, burial and eating customs, gender roles, and medicine. More than mere data, these various matters testify to the author's interest in providing guidance for life in exile: Where Temple sacrifice is unavailable and the people are scattered, the story insists that Jews maintain their identity not only through piety and practice, but also through strong bonds between parents and children, between husbands and wives, and with family members and fellow Jews. To preserve the community, Tobit also insists that his son imitate Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, who "took wives from among their kindred" (4.12-13).

In addition to its references to biblical prophecy, characters, and theology, the volume offers connections to well-known folktale motifs, including the dangerous bride, the monster in the nuptial chamber, the supernatural being in disguise, the miraculous animal, and the grateful dead. Specifically mentioned are the characters of Ahikar and his nephew, whose story was well known in antiquity; there may also be some hints of Homer's 'Odyssey.'

Although the original language of the document was likely Aramaic, that text has not survived. The translation below is based on the Greek text of Codex Sinaiticus; other versions include the Old Latin, Jerome's Vulgate, a medieval Aramaic rendering, Coptic, Syriac, Ethiopic, Armenian, and even fragments in both Hebrew and Aramaic from Qumran (the Dead Sea Scrolls). The book dates to the early postexilic period, likely sometime in the third century BCE; its place of composition remains unknown, with plausible suggestions including the eastern Diaspora, Egypt, and Israel.

[Tobit 1]

Exilic context

1 This book tells the story of Tobit son of Tobiel son of Hananiel son of Aduel son of Gabael son of Raphael son of Raguel of the descendants of Asiel, of the tribe of Naphtali, 2 who in the days of King Salmaneser of the Assyrians was taken into captivity from Thisbe, which is to the south of Kedesh Naphtali in Upper Galilee, above Asher toward the west, and north of Phogor.

Tobit's background

3 I, Tobit, walked in the ways of truth and righteousness all the days of my life. I performed many acts of charity for my kindred and my people who had gone with me in exile to Nineveh in the land of the Assyrians. 4 When I was in my own country, in the land of Israel, while I was still a young man, the whole tribe of my ancestor Naphtali deserted the house of David and Jerusalem. This city had been chosen from among all the tribes of Israel, where all the tribes of Israel should offer sacrifice and where the temple, the dwelling of God, had been consecrated and established for all generations forever.

5 All my kindred and our ancestral house of Naphtali sacrificed to the calf that King Jeroboam of Israel had erected in Dan and on all the mountains of Galilee. 6 But I alone went often to Jerusalem for the festivals, as it is prescribed for all Israel by an everlasting decree. I would hurry off to Jerusalem with the first fruits of the crops and the firstlings of the flock, the tithes of the cattle, and the first shearings of the sheep. 7 I would give these to the priests, the sons of Aaron, at the altar; likewise the tenth of the grain, wine, olive oil, pomegranates, figs, and the rest of the fruits to the sons of Levi who ministered at Jerusalem. Also for six years I would save up a second tenth in money and go and distribute it in Jerusalem. 8 A third tenth I would give to the orphans and widows and to the converts who had attached themselves to Israel. I would bring it and give it to them in the third year, and we would eat it according to the ordinance decreed concerning it in the law of Moses and according to the instructions of Deborah, the mother of my father Tobiel, for my father had died and left me an orphan. 9 When I became a man I married a woman, a member of our own family, and by her I became the father of a son whom I named Tobias.

Early captivity

10 After I was carried away captive to Assyria and came as a captive to Nineveh, everyone of my kindred and my people ate the food of the Gentiles, 11 but I kept myself from eating the food of the Gentiles. 12 Because I was mindful of God with all my heart, 13 the Most High gave me favor and good standing with Shalmaneser, and I used to buy everything he needed. 14 Until his death I used to go into Media, and buy for him there. While in the country of Media I left bags of silver worth ten talents in trust with Gabael, the brother of Gabri. 15 But when Shalmaneser died, and his son Sennacherib reigned in his place, the highways into Media became unsafe and I could no longer go there.

16 In the days of Shalmaneser I performed many acts of charity to my kindred, those of my tribe. 17 I would give my food to the hungry and my clothing to the naked; and if I saw the dead body of any of my people thrown out behind the wall of Nineveh, I would bury it. 18 I also buried any whom King Sennacherib put to death when he came fleeing from Judea in those days of judgment that the king of heaven executed upon him because of his blasphemies. For in his anger he put to death many Israelites; but I would secretly remove the bodies and bury them. So when Sennacherib looked for them he could not find them. 19 Then one of the Ninevites went and informed the king about me, that I was burying them; so I hid myself. But when I realized that the king knew about me and that I was being searched for to be put to death, I was afraid and ran away. 20 Then all my property was confiscated; nothing was left to me that was not taken into the royal treasury except my wife Anna and my son Tobias.

21 But not forty days passed before two of Sennacherib's sons killed him, and they fled to the mountains of Ararat, and his son Esar-haddon reigned after him. He appointed Ahikar, the son of my brother Hanael over all the accounts of his kingdom, and he had authority over the entire administration. 22 Ahikar interceded for me, and I returned to Nineveh. Now Ahikar was chief cupbearer, keeper of the signet, and in charge of administration of the accounts under King Sennacherib of Assyria; so Esar-haddon reappointed him. He was my nephew and so a close relative.

Tobit's blindness

1 Then during the reign of Esar-haddon I returned home, and my wife Anna and my son Tobias were restored to me. At our festival of Pentecost, which is the sacred festival of weeks, a good dinner was prepared for me and I reclined to eat. 2 When the table was set for me and an abundance of food placed before me, I said to my son Tobias, "Go, my child, and bring whatever poor person you may find of our people among the exiles in Nineveh, who is wholeheartedly mindful of God, and he shall eat together with me. I will wait for you, until you come back." 3 So Tobias went to look for some poor person of our people. When he had returned he said, "Father!" And I replied, "Here I am, my child." Then he went on to say, "Look, father, one of our own people has been murdered and thrown into the market place, and now he lies there strangled." 4 Then I sprang up, left the dinner before even tasting it, and removed the body from the square and laid it in one of the rooms until sunset when I might bury it. 5 When I returned, I washed myself and ate my food in sorrow. 6 Then I remembered the prophecy of Amos, how he said against Bethel,

"Your festivals shall be turned into mourning,
and all your songs into lamentation."
And I wept.

7 When the sun had set, I went and dug a grave and buried him. 8 And my neighbors laughed and said, "Is he still not afraid? He has already been hunted down to be put to death for doing this, and he ran away; yet here he is again burying the dead!" 9 That same night I washed myself and went into my courtyard and slept by the wall of the courtyard; and my face was uncovered because of the heat. 10 I did not know that there were sparrows on the wall; their fresh droppings fell into my eyes and produced white films. I went to physicians to be healed, but the more they treated me with ointments the more my vision was obscured by the white films, until I became completely blind. For four years I remained unable to see. All my kindred were sorry for me, and Ahikar took care of me for two years before he went to Elymais.

The argument

11 At that time, also, my wife Anna earned money at women's work. 12 She used to send what she made to the owners and they would pay wages to her. One day, the seventh of Dystrus, when she cut off a piece she had woven and sent it to the owners, they paid her full wages and also gave her a young goat for a meal. 13 When she returned to me, the goat began to bleat. So I called her and said, "Where did you get this goat? It is surely not stolen, is it? Return it to the owners; for we have no right to eat anything stolen." 14 But she said to me, "It was given to me as a gift in addition to my wages." But I did not believe her, and told her to return it to the owners. I became flushed with anger against her over this. Then she replied to me, "Where are your acts of charity? Where are your righteous deeds? These things are known about you!"

[Tobit 3]Tobit's prayer

1 Then with much grief and anguish of heart I wept, and with groaning began to pray:

2 "You are righteous, O Lord,
and all your deeds are just;
all your ways are mercy and truth;
you judge the world.

3 And now, O Lord, remember me
and look favorably upon me.
Do not punish me for my sins
and for my unwitting offenses
and those that my ancestors committed before you.

They sinned against you,
4 and disobeyed your commandments.
So you gave us over to plunder, exile, and death,
to become the talk, the byword, and an object of reproach
among all the nations among whom you have dispersed us.

5 And now your many judgments are true
in exacting penalty from me for my sins.
For we have not kept your commandments
and have not walked in accordance with truth before you.

6 So now deal with me as you will;
command my spirit to be taken from me, so that I may be released from the face of the earth and become dust.

For it is better for me to die than to live,
because I have had to listen to undeserved insults,
and great is the sorrow within me.

Command, O Lord, that I be released from this distress;
release me to go to the eternal home,
and do not, O Lord, turn your face away from me.

For it is better for me to die than to see so much distress in my life and to listen to insults."

Sarah's plight and prayer

7 On the same day, at Ecbatana in Media, it also happened that Sarah, the daughter of Raguel, was reproached by one of her father's maids. 8 For she had been married to seven husbands, and the wicked demon Asmodeus had killed each of them before they had been with her as is customary for wives. So the maid said to her, "You are the one who kills your husbands! See, you have already been married to seven husbands and have not borne the name of a single one of them. 9 Why do you beat us? Because your husbands are dead? Go with them! May we never see a son or daughter of yours!"

10 On that day she was grieved in spirit and wept. When she had gone up to her father's upper room, she intended to hang herself. But she thought it over and said, "Never shall they reproach my father, saying to him, 'You had only one beloved daughter but she hanged herself because of her distress.' And I shall bring my father in his old age down in sorrow to Hades. It is better for me not to hang myself, but to pray the Lord that I may die and not listen to these reproaches anymore." 11 At that same time, with hands outstretched toward the window, she prayed and said,

"Blessed are you, merciful God!
 Blessed is your name forever;
 let all your works praise you forever.

12 And now, Lord, I turn my face to you,
 and raise my eyes toward you.

13 Command that I be released from the earth and not listen to such reproaches any more.

14 You know, O Master, that I am innocent
 of any defilement with a man,

15 and that I have not disgraced my name or the name of my father in the land of my exile.
 I am my father's only child;
 he has no other child to be his heir;
 and he has no close relative or other kindred for whom I should keep myself as wife.
 Already seven husbands of mine have died.
 Why should I still live?
 But if it is not pleasing to you, O Lord, to take my life, hear me in my disgrace."

Divine response

16 At that very moment, the prayers of both of them were heard in the glorious presence of God. 17 So Raphael was sent to heal both of them: Tobit, by removing the white films from his eyes, so that he might see God's light with his eyes; and Sarah, daughter of Raguel, by giving her in marriage to Tobias son of Tobit, and by setting her free from the wicked demon Asmodeus. For Tobias was entitled to have her before all others who had desired to marry her. At the same time that Tobit returned from the courtyard into his house, Sarah daughter of Raguel came down from her upper room.

[Tobit 4]

Tobit's advice on the family

1 That same day Tobit remembered the money that he had left in trust with Gabael at Rages in Media, 2 and he said to himself, "Now I have asked for death. Why do I not call my son Tobias and explain to him about the money before I die?" 3 Then he called his son Tobias, and when he came to him he said, "My son, when I die, give me a proper burial. Honor your mother and do not abandon her all the days of her life. Do whatever pleases her, and do not grieve her in anything. 4 Remember her, my son, because she faced many dangers for you while you were in her womb. And when she dies, bury her beside me in the same grave.

5 "Revere the Lord all your days, my son, and refuse to sin or to transgress his commandments. Live uprightly all the days of your life, and do not walk in the ways of wrongdoing; 6 for those who act in accordance with truth will prosper in all their activities. To all those who practice righteousness 7 give alms from your possessions, and do not let your eye begrudge the gift when you make it. Do not turn your face away from anyone who is poor, and the face of God will not be turned away from you. 8 If you have many possessions, make your gift from them in proportion; if few, do not be afraid to give according to the little you have. 9 So you will be laying up a good treasure for yourself against the day of necessity. 10 For almsgiving delivers from death and keeps you from going into the Darkness. 11 Indeed, almsgiving, for all who practice it, is an excellent offering in the presence of the Most High.

12 "Beware, my son, of every kind of fornication. First of all, marry a woman from among the descendants of your ancestors; do not marry a foreign woman, who is not of your father's tribe; for we are the descendants of the prophets. Remember, my son, that Noah, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, our ancestors of old, all took wives from among their kindred. They were blessed in their children, and their posterity will inherit the land. 13 So now, my son, love your kindred, and in your heart do not disdain your kindred, the sons and daughters of your people, by refusing to take a wife for yourself from among them. For in pride there is ruin and great confusion. And in idleness there is loss and dire poverty, because idleness is the mother of famine.

14 "Do not keep over until the next day the wages of those who work for you, but pay them at once. If you serve God you will receive payment. Watch yourself, my son, in everything you do, and discipline yourself in all your conduct. 15 And what you hate, do not do to anyone. Do not drink wine to excess or let drunkenness go with you on your way. 16 Give some of your food to the hungry, and some of your clothing to the naked. Give all your surplus as alms, and do not let your eye begrudge your giving of alms. 17 Place your bread on the grave of the righteous, but give none to sinners. 18 Seek advice from every wise person and do not despise any useful counsel. 19 At all times bless the Lord God, and ask him that your ways may be made straight and that all your paths and plans may prosper. For none of the nations has understanding, but the Lord himself will give them good counsel; but if he chooses otherwise, he casts down to deepest Hades. So now, my child, remember these commandments, and do not let them be erased from your heart.

Obtaining funds left in trust

20 "And now, my son, let me explain to you that I left ten talents of silver in trust with Gabael son of Gabrias, at Rages in Media. 21 Do not be afraid, my son, because we have become poor. You have great wealth if you fear God and flee from every sin and do what is good in the sight of the Lord your God."

[Tobit 5] Raphael's disguise

1 Then Tobias answered his father Tobit, "I will do everything that you have commanded me, father; 2 but how can I obtain the money from him, since he does not know me and I do not know him? What evidence am I to give him so that he will recognize and trust me, and give me the money? Also, I do not know the roads to Media, or how to get there." 3 Then Tobit answered his son Tobias, "He gave me his bond and I gave him my bond. I divided his in two; we each took one part, and I put one with the money. And now twenty years have passed since I left this money in trust. So now, my son, find yourself a trustworthy man to go with you, and we will pay him wages until you return. But get back the money from Gabael."

4 So Tobias went out to look for a man to go with him to Media, someone who was acquainted with the way. He went out and found the angel Raphael standing in front of him; but he did not perceive that he was an angel of God. 5 Tobias said to him, "Where do you come from, young man?" "From your kindred, the Israelites," he replied, "and I have come here to work." Then Tobias said to him, "Do you know the way to go to Media?" 6 "Yes," he replied, "I have been there many times; I am acquainted with it and know all the roads. I have often traveled to Media, and would stay with our kinsman Gabael who lives in Rages of Media. It is a journey of two days from Ecbatana to Rages; for it lies in a mountainous area, while Ecbatana is in the middle of the plain." 7 Then Tobias said to him, "Wait for me, young man, until I go in and tell my father; for I do need you to travel with me, and I will pay you your wages." 8 He replied, "All right, I will wait; but do not take too long."

9 So Tobias went in to tell his father Tobit and said to him, "I have just found a man who is one of our own Israelite kindred!" He replied, "Call the man in, my son, so that I may learn about his family and to what tribe he belongs, and whether he is trustworthy enough to go with you."

10 Then Tobias went out and called him, and said, "Young man, my father is calling for you." So he went in to him, and Tobit greeted him first. He replied, "Joyous greetings to you!" But Tobit retorted, "What joy is left for me any more? I am a man without eyesight; I cannot see the light of heaven, but I lie in darkness like the dead who no longer see the light. Although still alive, I am among the dead. I hear people but I cannot see them." But the young man said, "Take courage; the time is near for God to heal you; take courage." Then Tobit said to him, "My son Tobias wishes to go to Media. Can you accompany him and guide him? I will pay your wages, brother." He answered, "I can go with him and I know all the roads, for I have often gone to Media and have crossed all its plains, and I am familiar with its mountains and all of its roads."

11 Then Tobit said to him, "Brother, of what family are you and from what tribe? Tell me, brother." 12 He replied, "Why do you need to know my tribe?" But Tobit said, "I want to be sure, brother, whose son you are and what your name is." 13 He replied, "I am Azariah, the son of the great Hananiah, one of your relatives." 14 Then Tobit said to him, "Welcome! God save you, brother. Do not feel bitter toward me, brother, because I wanted to be sure about your ancestry. It turns out that you are a kinsman, and of good and noble lineage. For I knew Hananiah and Nathan, the two sons of Shemeliah, and they used to go with me to Jerusalem and worshiped with me there, and were not led astray. Your kindred are good people; you come of good stock. Hearty welcome!"

15 Then he added, "I will pay you a drachma a day as wages, as well as expenses for yourself and my son. So go with my son, 16 and I will add something to your wages." Raphael answered, "I will go with him; so do not fear. We shall leave in good health and return to you in good health, because the way is safe." 17 So Tobit said to him, "Blessings be upon you, brother."

Then he called his son and said to him, "Son, prepare supplies for the journey and set out with your brother. May God in heaven bring you safely there and return you in good health to me; and may his angel, my son, accompany you both for your safety."

Before he went out to start his journey, he kissed his father and mother. Tobit then said to him, "Have a safe journey."

Anna's lament

18 But his mother began to weep, and said to Tobit, "Why is it that you have sent my child away? Is he not the staff of our hand as he goes in and out before us? 19 Do not heap money upon money, but let it be a ransom for our child. 20 For the life that is given to us by the Lord is enough for us." 21 Tobit said to her, "Do not worry; our child will leave in good health and return to us in good health. Your eyes will see him on the day when he returns to you in good health. Say no more! Do not fear for them, my sister. 22 For a good angel will accompany him; his journey will be successful, and he will come back in good health." [Tobit 6] 1a So she stopped weeping.

Dangerous journey

1b The young man went out and the angel went with him; 2 and the dog came out with him and went along with them. So they both journeyed along, and when the first night overtook them they camped

by the Tigris river. 3 Then the young man went down to wash his feet in the Tigris river. Suddenly a large fish leaped up from the water and tried to swallow the young man's foot, and he cried out. 4 But the angel said to the young man, "Catch hold of the fish and hang on to it!" So the young man grasped the fish and drew it up on the land. 5 Then the angel said to him, "Cut open the fish and take out its gall, heart, and liver. Keep them with you, but throw away the intestines. For its gall, heart, and liver are useful as medicine." 6 So after cutting open the fish the young man gathered together the gall, heart, and liver; then he roasted and ate some of the fish, and kept some to be salted.

The two continued on their way together until they were near Media. 7 Then the young man questioned the angel and said to him, "Brother Azariah, what medicinal value is there in the fish's heart and liver, and in the gall?" 8 He replied, "As for the fish's heart and liver, you must burn them to make a smoke in the presence of a man or woman afflicted by a demon or evil spirit, and every affliction will flee away and never remain with that person any longer. 9 And as for the gall, anoint a person's eyes where white films have appeared on them; blow upon them, upon the white films, and the eyes will be healed."

Pre-nuptial instructions

10 When he entered Media and already was approaching Ecbatana, 11 Raphael said to the young man, "Brother Tobias." "Here I am," he answered. Then Raphael said to him, "We must stay this night in the home of Raguel. He is your relative, and he has a daughter named Sarah. 12 He has no male heir and no daughter except Sarah only, and you, as next of kin to her, have before all other men a hereditary claim on her. Also it is right for you to inherit her father's possessions. Moreover, the girl is sensible, brave, and very beautiful, and her father is a good man." 13 He continued, "You have every right to take her in marriage. So listen to me, brother; tonight I will speak to her father about the girl, so that we may take her to be your bride. When we return from Rages we will celebrate her marriage. For I know that Raguel can by no means keep her from you or promise her to another man without incurring the penalty of death according to the decree of the book of Moses. Indeed he knows that you, rather than any other man, are entitled to marry his daughter. So now listen to me, brother, and tonight we shall speak concerning the girl and arrange her engagement to you. And when we return from Rages we will take her and bring her back with us to your house."

14 Then Tobias said in answer to Raphael, "Brother Azariah, I have heard that she already has been married to seven husbands and that they died in the bridal chamber. On the night when they went in to her, they would die. I have heard people saying that it was a demon that killed them. 15 It does not harm her, but it kills anyone who desires to approach her. So now, since I am the only son my father has, I am afraid that I may die and bring my father's and mother's life down to their grave, grieving for me — and they have no other son to bury them."

16 But Raphael said to him, "Do you not remember your father's orders when he commanded you to take a wife from your father's house? Now listen to me, brother, and say no more about this demon. Take her. I know that this very night she will be given to you in marriage. 17 When you enter the bridal chamber, take some of the fish's liver and heart, and put them on the embers of the incense. An odor will be given off; 18 the demon will smell it and flee, and will never be seen near her any more. Now when you are about to go to bed with her, both of you must first stand up and pray, imploring the Lord of heaven that mercy and safety may be granted to you. Do not be afraid, for she was set apart for you before the world was made. You will save her, and she will go with you. I presume that you will have children by her, and they will be as brothers to you. Now say no more!" When Tobias heard the words of Raphael and learned that she was his kinswoman, related through his father's lineage, he loved her very much, and his heart was drawn to her.

[Tobit 7]

Tobit and Sarah marry

1 Now when they entered Ecbatana, Tobias said to him, "Brother Azariah, take me straight to our brother Raguel." So he took him to Raguel's house, where they found him sitting beside the courtyard door. They greeted him first, and he replied, "Joyous greetings, brothers; welcome and good health!" Then he brought them into his house. 2 He said to his wife Edna, "How much the young man resembles my kinsman Tobit!" 3 Then Edna questioned them, saying, "Where are you from, brothers?" They answered, "We belong to the descendants of Naphtali who are exiles in Nineveh." 4 She said to them, "Do you know our kinsman Tobit?" And they replied, "Yes, we know him." Then she asked them, "Is he in good health?" 5 They replied, "He is alive and in good health." And Tobias added, "He is my father!" 6 At that Raguel jumped up and kissed him and wept. 7 He also spoke to him as follows, "Blessings on you, my child, son of a good and noble father! O most miserable of calamities that such an upright and beneficent man has become blind!" He then embraced his kinsman Tobias and wept. 8 His wife Edna also wept for him, and their daughter Sarah likewise wept. 9 Then Raguel slaughtered a ram from the flock and received them very warmly.

When they had bathed and washed themselves and had reclined to dine, Tobias said to Raphael, "Brother Azariah, ask Raguel to give me my kinswoman Sarah." 10 But Raguel overheard it and said to the lad, "Eat and drink, and be merry tonight. For no one except you, brother, has the right to marry my daughter Sarah. Likewise I am not at liberty to give her to any other man than yourself, because you are my nearest relative. But let me explain to you the true situation more fully, my child. 11 I have given her to seven men of our kinsmen, and all died on the night when they went in to her. But now, my child, eat and drink, and the Lord will act on behalf of you both." But Tobias said, "I will neither eat nor drink anything until you settle the things that pertain to me." So Raguel said, "I will do so. She is given to you in accordance with the decree in the book of Moses, and it has been decreed from heaven that she be given to you. Take your kinswoman; from now on you are her brother and she is your sister. She is given to you from today and forever. May the Lord of heaven, my child, guide and prosper you both this night and grant you mercy and peace." 12 Then Raguel summoned his daughter Sarah. When she came to him he took her by the hand and gave her to Tobias, saying, "Take her to be your wife in accordance with the law and decree written in the book of Moses. Take her and bring her safely to your father. And may the God of heaven prosper your journey with his peace." 13 Then he called her mother and told her to bring writing material; and he wrote out a copy of a marriage contract, to the effect that he gave her to him as wife according to the decree of the law of Moses. 14 Then they began to eat and drink.

15 Raguel called his wife Edna and said to her, "Sister, get the other room ready, and take her there." 16 So she went and made the bed in the room as he had told her, and brought Sarah there. She wept for her daughter. Then, wiping away the tears, she said to her, "Take courage, my daughter; the Lord of heaven grant you joy in place of your sorrow. Take courage, my daughter." Then she went out.

[Tobit 8]

Asmodeus is exorcised

1 When they had finished eating and drinking they wanted to retire; so they took the young man and brought him into the bedroom. 2 Then Tobias remembered the words of Raphael, and he took the fish's liver and heart out of the bag where he had them and put them on the embers of the incense. 3 The odor of the fish so repelled the demon that he fled to the remotest parts of Egypt. But Raphael followed him, and at once bound him there hand and foot.

4 When the parents had gone out and shut the door of the room, Tobias got out of bed and said to Sarah, "Sister, get up, and let us pray and implore our Lord that he grant us mercy and safety." 5 So she got up, and they began to pray and implore that they might be kept safe. Tobias began by saying,

"Blessed are you, O God of our ancestors,
and blessed is your name in all generations forever.
Let the heavens and the whole creation bless you forever.

6 You made Adam, and for him you made his wife Eve
as a helper and support.

From the two of them the human race has sprung.
You said, 'It is not good that the man should be alone;
let us make a helper for him like himself.'

7 I now am taking this kinswoman of mine,
 not because of lust,
 but with sincerity.

Grant that she and I may find mercy
 and that we may grow old together."

8 And they both said, "Amen, Amen." 9 Then they went to sleep for the night.

Raguel's fears are assuaged

But Raguel arose and called his servants to him, and they went and dug a grave, 10 for he said, "It is possible that he will die and we will become an object of ridicule and derision." 11 When they had finished digging the grave, Raguel went into his house and called his wife, 12 saying, "Send one of the maids and have her go in to see if he is alive.
 But if he is dead, let us bury him without anyone knowing it." 13 So they sent the maid, lit a lamp, and opened the door; and she went in and found them sound asleep together. 14 Then the maid came out and informed them that he was alive and that nothing was wrong. 15
 So they blessed the God of heaven, and Raguel said,

"Blessed are you, O God, with every pure blessing;
 let all your chosen ones bless you.
 Let them bless you forever.

16 Blessed are you because you have made me glad.
 It has not turned out as I expected,
 but you have dealt with us according to your great mercy.

17 Blessed are you because you had compassion
 on two only children.

Be merciful to them, O Master, and keep them safe;
 bring their lives to fulfillment
 in happiness and mercy."

18 Then he ordered his servants to fill in the grave before daybreak.

The wedding celebrated and tasks fulfilled

19 After this he asked his wife to bake many loaves of bread; and he went out to the herd and brought two steers and four rams and ordered them to be slaughtered. So they began to make preparations.

20 Then he called for Tobias and swore on oath to him in these words: "You shall not leave here for fourteen days, but shall stay here eating and drinking with me; and you shall cheer up my daughter, who has been depressed. 21 Take at once half of what I own and return in safety to your father; the other half will be yours when my wife and I die. Take courage, my child. I am your father and Edna is your mother, and we belong to you as well as to your wife now and forever. Take courage, my child."

[Tobit 9]

1 Then Tobias called Raphael and said to him, 2 "Brother Azariah, take four servants and two camels with you and travel to Rages. Go to the home of Gabael, give him the bond, get the money, and then bring him with you to the wedding celebration. 4 For you know that my father must be counting the days, and if I delay even one day I will upset him very much. 3 You are witness to the oath Raguel has sworn, and I cannot violate his oath." 5 So Raphael with the four servants and two camels went to Rages in Media and stayed with Gabael. Raphael gave him the bond and informed him that Tobit's son Tobias had married and was inviting him to the wedding celebration. So Gabael got up and counted out to him the money bags, with their seals intact; then they loaded them on the camels. 6 In the morning they both got up early and went to the wedding celebration. When they came into Raguel's house they found Tobias reclining at table. He sprang up and greeted Gabael, who wept and blessed him with the words, "Good and noble son of a father good and noble, upright and generous! May the Lord grant the blessing of heaven to you and your wife, and to your wife's father and mother. Blessed be God, for I see in Tobias the very image of my cousin Tobit."

[Tobit 10]

Anxiety at home

1 Now, day by day, Tobit kept counting how many days Tobias would need for going and for returning. And when the days had passed and his son did not appear, 2 he said, "Is it possible that he has been detained? Or that Gabael has died, and there is no one to give him the money?" 3 And he began to worry. 4 His wife Anna said, "My child has perished and is no longer among the living." And she began to weep and mourn for her son, saying, 5 "Woe to me, my child, the light of my eyes, that I let you make the journey." 6 But Tobit kept saying to her, "Be quiet and stop worrying, my dear; he is all right. Probably something unexpected has happened there. The man who went with him is trustworthy and is one of our own kin. Do not grieve for him, my dear; he will soon be here." 7 She answered him, "Be quiet yourself! Stop trying to deceive me! My child has perished." She would rush out every day and watch the road her son had taken, and would heed no one. When the sun had set she would go in and mourn and weep all night long, getting no sleep at all.

Return to Nineveh

Now when the fourteen days of the wedding celebration had ended that Raguel had sworn to observe for his daughter, Tobias came to him and said, "Send me back, for I know that my father and mother do not believe that they will see me again. So I beg of you, father, to let me go so that I may return to my own father. I have already explained to you how I left him." 8 But Raguel said to Tobias, "Stay, my child, stay with me; I will send messengers to your father Tobit and they will inform him about you." 9 But he said, "No! I beg you to send me back to my father." 10 So Raguel promptly gave Tobias his wife Sarah, as well as half of all his property: male and female slaves, oxen and sheep, donkeys and camels, clothing, money, and household goods. 11 Then he saw them safely off; he embraced Tobias and said, "Farewell, my child; have a safe journey. The Lord of heaven prosper you and your wife Sarah, and may I see children of yours before I die." 12 Then he kissed his daughter Sarah and said to her, "My daughter, honor your father-in-law and your mother-in-law, since from now on they are as much your parents as those who gave you birth. Go in peace, daughter, and may I hear a good report about you as long as I live." Then he bade them farewell and let them go. Then Edna said to Tobias, "My child and dear brother, the Lord of heaven bring you back safely, and may I live long enough to see children of you and of my daughter Sarah before I die. In the sight of the Lord I entrust my daughter to you; do nothing to grieve her all the days of your life. Go in peace, my child.

From now on I am your mother and Sarah is your beloved wife. May we all prosper together all the days of our lives." Then she kissed them both and saw them safely off. 13 Tobias parted from Raguel with happiness and joy, praising the Lord of heaven and earth, King over all, because he had made his journey a success. Finally, he blessed Raguel and his wife Edna, and said, "I have been commanded by the Lord to honor you all the days of my life."

[Tobit 11]

Tobias returns

1 When they came near to Kaserin, which is opposite Nineveh, Raphael said, 2 "You are aware of how we left your father. 3 Let us run ahead of your wife and prepare the house while they are still on the way." 4 As they went on together Raphael said to him, "Have the gall ready." And the dog went along behind them.

5 Meanwhile Anna sat looking intently down the road by which her son would come. 6 When she caught sight of him coming, she said to his father, "Look, your son is coming, and the man who went with him!"

Tobit is healed

7 Raphael said to Tobias, before he had approached his father, "I know that his eyes will be opened. 8 Smear the gall of the fish on his eyes; the medicine will make the white films shrink and peel off from his eyes, and your father will regain his sight and see the light."

9 Then Anna ran up to her son and threw her arms around him, saying, "Now that I have seen you, my child, I am ready to die." And she wept. 10 Then Tobit got up and came stumbling out through the courtyard door. Tobias went up to him, 11 with the gall of the fish in his hand, and holding him firmly, he blew into his eyes, saying, "Take courage, father." With this he applied the medicine on his eyes, 12 and it made them smart. 13 Next, with both his hands he peeled off the white films from the corners of his eyes. Then Tobit saw his son and threw his arms around him, 14 and he wept and said to him, "I see you, my son, the light of my eyes!" Then he said,

"Blessed be God,
and blessed be his great name,
and blessed be all his holy angels.
May his holy name be blessed throughout all the ages.

15 Though he afflicted me,
he has had mercy upon me.
Now I see my son Tobias!"

So Tobit went in rejoicing and praising God at the top of his voice. Tobias reported to his father that his journey had been successful, that he had brought the money, that he had married Raguel's daughter Sarah, and that she was, indeed, on her way there, very near to the gate of Nineveh.

16 Then Tobit, rejoicing and praising God, went out to meet his daughter-in-law at the gate of Nineveh. When the people of Nineveh saw him coming, walking along in full vigor and with no one leading him, they were amazed. 17 Before them all, Tobit acknowledged that God had been merciful to him and had restored his sight. When Tobit met Sarah the wife of his son Tobias, he blessed her saying, "Come in, my daughter, and welcome. Blessed be your God who has brought you to us, my daughter. Blessed be your father and your mother, blessed be my son Tobias, and blessed be you, my daughter. Come in now to your home, and welcome, with blessing and joy. Come in, my daughter." So on that day there was rejoicing among all the Jews who were in Nineveh. 18 Ahikar and his nephew Nadab were also present to share Tobit's joy. With merriment they celebrated Tobias's wedding feast for seven days, and many gifts were given to him.

[Tobit 12] Raphael's revelations

1 When the wedding celebration was ended, Tobit called his son Tobias and said to him, "My child, see to paying the wages of the man who went with you, and give him a bonus as well." 2 He replied, "Father, how much shall I pay him? It would do no harm to give him half of the possessions brought back with me. 3 For he has led me back to you safely, he cured my wife, he brought the money back with me, and he healed you. How much extra shall I give him as a bonus?" 4 Tobit said, "He deserves, my child, to receive half of all that he brought back." 5 So Tobias called him and said, "Take for your wages half of all that you brought back, and farewell."

6 Then Raphael called the two of them privately and said to them, "Bless God and acknowledge him in the presence of all the living for the good things he has done for you. Bless and sing praise to his name. With fitting honor declare to all people the deeds of God. Do not be slow to acknowledge him. 7 It is good to conceal the secret of a king, but to acknowledge and reveal the works of God, and with fitting honor to acknowledge him. Do good and evil will not overtake you. 8 Prayer with fasting is good, but better than both is almsgiving with righteousness. A little with righteousness is better than wealth with wrongdoing. It is better to give alms than to lay up gold. 9 For almsgiving saves from death and purges away every sin. Those who give alms will enjoy a full life, 10 but those who commit sin and do wrong are their own worst enemies.

11 "I will now declare the whole truth to you and will conceal nothing from you. Already I have declared it to you when I said, 'It is good to conceal the secret of a king, but to reveal with due honor the works of God.' 12 So now when you and Sarah prayed, it was I who brought and read the record of your prayer before the glory of the Lord, and likewise whenever you would bury the dead. 13 And that time when you did not hesitate to get up and leave your dinner to go and bury the dead, 14 I was sent to you to test you. And at the same time God sent me to heal you and Sarah your daughter-in-law. 15 I am Raphael, one of the seven angels who stand ready and enter before the glory of the Lord."

16 The two of them were shaken; they fell face down, for they were afraid. 17 But he said to them, "Do not be afraid; peace be with you. Bless God forevermore. 18 As for me, when I was with you, I was not acting on my own will, but by the will of God. Bless him each and every day; sing his praises. 19 Although you were watching me, I really did not eat or drink anything — but what you saw was a vision. 20 So now get up from the ground, and acknowledge God. See, I am ascending to him who sent me. Write down all these things that have happened to you." And he ascended. 21 Then they stood up, and could see him no more. 22 They kept blessing God and singing his praises, and they acknowledged God for these marvelous deeds of his, when an angel of God had appeared to them.

[Tobit 13]

Tobit's hymn

1 Then Tobit said:

"Blessed be God who lives forever,
because his kingdom lasts throughout all ages.

2 For he afflicts, and he shows mercy;
he leads down to Hades in the lowest regions of the earth,
and he brings up from the great abyss,
and there is nothing that can escape his hand.

3 Acknowledge him before the nations, O children of Israel;
for he has scattered you among them.

4 He has shown you his greatness even there.
Exalt him in the presence of every living being,
because he is our Lord and he is our God;
he is our Father and he is God forever.

5 He will afflict you for your iniquities,
but he will again show mercy on all of you.
He will gather you from all the nations
among whom you have been scattered.

- 6 If you turn to him with all your heart and with all your soul,
to do what is true before him,
then he will turn to you
and will no longer hide his face from you.
So now see what he has done for you;
acknowledge him at the top of your voice.
Bless the Lord of righteousness,
and exalt the King of the ages.
In the land of my exile I acknowledge him,
and show his power and majesty to a nation of sinners:
'Turn back, you sinners, and do what is right before him;
perhaps he may look with favor upon you and show you mercy.'
- 7 As for me, I exalt my God,
and my soul rejoices in the King of heaven.
- 8 Let all people speak of his majesty,
and acknowledge him in Jerusalem.
- 9 O Jerusalem, the holy city,
he afflicted you for the deeds of your hands,
but will again have mercy on the children of the righteous.
- 10 Acknowledge the Lord, for he is good,
and bless the King of the ages,
so that his tent may be rebuilt in you in joy.
May he cheer all those within you who are captives,
and love all those within you who are distressed,
to all generations forever.
- 11 A bright light will shine to all the ends of the earth;
many nations will come to you from far away,
the inhabitants of the remotest parts of the earth to your holy name, bearing gifts in their hands for the King of heaven.
Generation after generation will give joyful praise in you;
the name of the chosen city will endure forever.

- 12 Cursed are all who speak a harsh word against you;
 cursed are all who conquer you
 and pull down your walls,
 all who overthrow your towers
 and set your homes on fire.
 But blessed forever will be all who revere you.
- 13 Go, then, and rejoice over the children of the righteous,
 for they will be gathered together
 and will praise the Lord of the ages.
- 14 Happy are those who love you,
 and happy are those who rejoice in your prosperity.
 Happy also are all people who grieve with you because of your afflictions;
 for they will rejoice with you and witness all your glory forever.
- 15 My soul blesses the Lord, the great King!
- 16 For Jerusalem will be built as his house for all ages.
 How happy I will be if a remnant of my descendants should survive
 to see your glory and acknowledge the King of heaven.
 The gates of Jerusalem will be built with sapphire and emerald,
 and all your walls with precious stones.
 The towers of Jerusalem will be built with gold,
 and their battlements with pure gold.
 The streets of Jerusalem will be paved with ruby and with stones of Ophir.
- 17 The gates of Jerusalem will sing hymns of joy,
 and all her houses will cry, 'Hallelujah!
 Blessed be the God of Israel!
 and the blessed will bless the holy name forever and ever."

[Tobit 14] 1 So ended Tobit's words of praise.

Tobit's testament

2 Tobit died in peace when he was one hundred twelve years old, and was buried with great honor in Nineveh. He was sixty-two years old when he lost his eyesight, and after regaining it he lived in prosperity, giving alms and continually blessing God and acknowledging God's majesty.

3 When he was about to die, he called his son Tobias and the seven sons of Tobias and gave this command: "My son, take your children 4 and hurry off to Media, for I believe the word of God that Nahum spoke about Nineveh, that all these things will take place and overtake Assyria and Nineveh. Indeed, everything that was spoken by the prophets of Israel, whom God sent, will occur. None of all their words will fail, but all will come true at their appointed times. So it will be safer in Media than in Assyria and Babylon. For I know and believe that whatever God has said will be fulfilled and will come true; not a single word of the prophecies will fail. All of our kindred, inhabitants of the land of Israel, will be scattered and taken as captives from the good land; and the whole land of Israel will be desolate, even Samaria and Jerusalem will be desolate. And the temple of God in it will be burned to the ground, and it will be desolate for a while.

5 "But God will again have mercy on them, and God will bring them back into the land of Israel; and they will rebuild the temple of God, but not like the first one until the period when the times of fulfillment shall come. After this they all will return from their exile and will rebuild Jerusalem in splendor; and in it the temple of God will be rebuilt, just as the prophets of Israel have said concerning it. 6 Then the nations in the whole world will all be converted and worship God in truth. They will all abandon their idols, which deceitfully have led them into their error; 7 and in righteousness they will praise the eternal God. All the Israelites who are saved in those days and are truly mindful of God will be gathered together; they will go to Jerusalem and live in safety forever in the land of Abraham, and it will be given over to them. Those who sincerely love God will rejoice, but those who commit sin and injustice will vanish from all the earth. 8,9 So now, my children, I command you, serve God faithfully and do what is pleasing in his sight. Your children are also to be commanded to do what is right and to give alms, and to be mindful of God and to bless his name at all times with sincerity and with all their strength. So now, my son, leave Nineveh; do not remain here. 10 On whatever day you bury your mother beside me, do not stay overnight within the confines of the city. For I see that there is much wickedness within it, and that much deceit is practiced within it, while the people are without shame. See, my son, what Nadab did to Ahikar who had reared him. Was he not, while still alive, brought down into the earth? For God repaid him to his face for this shameful treatment. Ahikar came out into the light, but Nadab went into the eternal darkness, because he tried to kill Ahikar. Because he gave alms, Ahikar escaped the fatal trap that Nadab had set for him, but Nadab fell into it himself, and was destroyed. ¹¹ So now, my children, see what almsgiving accomplishes, and what injustice does — it brings death! But now my breath fails me."

Tobit and Anna die

Then they laid him on his bed, and he died; and he received an honorable funeral. ¹² When Tobias's mother died, he buried her beside his father. Then he and his wife and children returned to Media and settled in Ecbatana with Raguel his father-in-law. ¹³ He treated his parents-in-law with great respect in their old age, and buried them in Ecbatana of Media. He inherited both the property of Raguel and that of his father Tobit. ¹⁴ He died highly respected at the age of one hundred seventeen years. ¹⁵ Before he died he heard of the destruction of Nineveh, and he saw its prisoners being led into Media, those whom King Cyaxares of Media had taken captive. Tobias praised God for all he had done to the people of Nineveh and Assyria; before he died he rejoiced over Nineveh, and he blessed the Lord God forever and ever. Amen.

JUDITH

Introduction

Judith, perhaps more than any other biblical book, consistently reverses the reader's expectations. The potent Assyrian army, able to defeat mighty nations both east and west, is routed by the tiny town of Bethulia. Judith, a Jewish widow, so beguiles Holofernes, the invincible head of the Assyrian army, and all his servants and soldiers that she is able to assassinate him in the middle of his camp and sneak away without being caught. The book's characters and scenes resonate with irony, humor, wordplay, suspense, and the unexpected. The story's characters are vividly drawn and take on lives of their own. Judith is an especially compelling figure. She is morally ambiguous: Although pious, faithful, and religiously observant, she lies, seduces, and murders. She is introduced as a traditionally ideal Jewish woman in many aspects: beautiful, well-connected, devoted to God and her late husband; yet it is she, and not the male rulers of Bethulia, who acts to save the town and rallies the people to her cause. She has often been viewed as a model for human liberation, and her courage and complexity have fascinated artists, writers, and composers for centuries.

The book of Judith is a well-crafted work of fiction, an example of the ancient Jewish novel in the Greco-Roman period. Its tone is exaggerated throughout; it contains historical inaccuracies so great that they strike a reader as absurd; and many of the geographical sites, including the principal scene of the action (the town of Bethulia), are unknown. Religion is a primary concern of the book. The plot's central conflict revolves around the question of whether true power lies with Israel's God or with the military might of a foreign ruler. The work provides evidence of traditional religious practices, including prayer, fasting, and observation of dietary laws.

The unity of plot and detail suggests that the book of Judith is almost certainly the work of a single anonymous author. Because the story reflects Assyrian, Babylonian, Persian, and Hellenistic persons and practices, it is difficult to know when the book was originally composed. Most scholars agree that it was written at some point during the Hasmonean dynasty (165-37 BCE). As 1 Clement mentions Judith in the first century CE, it is clear that the book was completed and well known by this time. The geographical setting of the story in Palestine, along with its emphasis upon worship in Jerusalem, may suggest that it was composed by a Palestinian Jew.

The figure of Judith and her mode of operation have been variously compared to the biblical characters of Jael and Deborah (Judg 4.4-5.31), Moses, Esther, Abraham, Delilah (Judg 16), and Woman Wisdom (Prov 8). Yet she also may have been fashioned after the real-life persons Judas Maccabeus (hence her name "Judith") or the popular queen Salome Alexandra. It is probably best to view Judith as a fabricated character, a composite of the traits and activities of many other figures from the Bible and from history.

Although the character after whom the book is named does not appear until ch 8, the first seven chapters establish the narrative themes that frame the entire story: fear, deceit, hearing, blessing, and the proper recipient of worship. Contrasts such as weakness and strength, innocence and guilt, courage and timidity, and godliness and ungodliness should be noted. False appearances and misunderstandings occur regularly; for instance, the Assyrian army only seems strong. Judith's lies are often interpreted as wisdom, and the success of her mission is achieved by means of cosmetic adornment.

The book is divided into two main parts, each with a chiasmic structure and thematic repetition. The first part (1.1-7.32), which narrates the Assyrian campaign and revenge against western nations, begins with Nebuchadnezzar's campaign against Arphaxad (1.1-16), his commissioning Holofernes's campaign, the people of other nations surrender (2.14-3.10), and consequently Israel is afraid and Joakim prepares for war (4.1-15). After advising Holofernes, Achior is expelled (5.1-6.11). Then the pattern reverses itself: Achior is received into Bethulia and advises the Israelites (6.12-21); when Holofernes prepares for war, Israel is afraid (7.1-5); and in the campaign against Bethulia, the people wish to surrender (7.6-32). In the second part Judith accomplishes her victory over the Assyrians (8.1-16.25). Judith is introduced (8.1-8) and plans to save Israel (8.9-10.8). Judith and her servant leave Bethulia (10.9-10), and Judith's stratagem succeeds: She overcomes Holofernes (10.11-13.10a). Then the pattern in part two reverses itself: Judith and her servant return to Bethulia (13.10b-11), Judith plans to destroy Israel's enemy (13.12-16.20), and the narrative concludes with a summary of Judith's remaining life (16.21-25).

[Judith 1]

Nebuchadnezzar is introduced. He declares war on Arphaxad, the king of Media

1 It was the twelfth year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, who ruled over the Assyrians in the great city of Nineveh. In those days Arphaxad ruled over the Medes in Ecbatana. 2 He built walls around Ecbatana with hewn stones three cubits thick and six cubits long; he made the walls seventy cubits high and fifty cubits wide. 3 At its gates he raised towers one hundred cubits high and sixty cubits wide at the foundations. 4 He made its gates seventy cubits high and forty cubits wide to allow his armies to march out in force and his infantry to form their ranks. 5 Then King Nebuchadnezzar made war against King Arphaxad in the great plain that is on the borders of Ragau. 6 There rallied to him all the people of the hill country and all those who lived along the Euphrates, the Tigris, and the Hydaspes, and, on the plain, Arioch, king of the Elymeans. Thus, many nations joined the forces of the Chaldeans.

The Persians and the western nations disregard Nebuchadnezzar's pleas for assistance

7 Then Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, sent messengers to all who lived in Persia and to all who lived in the west, those who lived in

Cilicia and Damascus, Lebanon and Antilebanon, and all who lived along the seacoast, 8 and those among the nations of Carmel and Gilead, and Upper Galilee and the great plain of Esdraelon, 9 and all who were in Samaria and its towns, and beyond the Jordan as far as Jerusalem and Bethany and Chelous and Kadesh and the river of Egypt, and Tahpanhes and Raamses and the whole land of Goshen, 10 even beyond Tanis and Memphis, and all who lived in Egypt as far as the borders of Ethiopia. 11 But all who lived in the whole region disregarded the summons of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, and refused to join him in the war; for they were not afraid of him, but regarded him as only one man. So they sent back his messengers empty-handed and in disgrace.

12 Then Nebuchadnezzar became very angry with this whole region, and swore by his throne and kingdom that he would take revenge on the whole territory of Cilicia and Damascus and Syria, that he would kill with his sword also all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the people of Ammon, and all Judea, and every one in Egypt, as far as the coasts of the two seas.

13 In the seventeenth year he led his forces against King Arphaxad and defeated him in battle, overthrowing the whole army of Arphaxad and all his cavalry and all his chariots. 14 Thus he took possession of his towns and came to Ecbatana, captured its towers, plundered its markets, and turned its glory into disgrace. 15 He captured Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragau and struck him down with his spears, thus destroying him once and for all. 16 Then he returned to Nineveh, he and all his combined forces, a vast body of troops; and there he and his forces rested and feasted for one hundred twenty days.

1 In the eighteenth year, on the twenty-second day of the first month, there was talk in the palace of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, about carrying out his revenge on the whole region, just as he had said. 2 He summoned all his ministers and all his nobles and set before them his secret plan and recounted fully, with his own lips, all the wickedness of the region. 3 They decided that every one who had not obeyed his command should be destroyed.

4 When he had completed his plan, Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, called Holofernes, the chief general of his army, second only to himself, and said to him, 5 "Thus says the Great King, the lord of the whole earth: Leave my presence and take with you men confident in their strength, one hundred twenty thousand foot soldiers and twelve thousand cavalry. 6 March out against all the land to the west, because they disobeyed my orders. 7 Tell them to prepare earth and water, for I am coming against them in my anger, and will cover the whole face of the earth with the feet of my troops, to whom I will hand them over to be plundered. 8 Their wounded shall fill their ravines and gullies, and the swelling river shall be filled with their dead. 9 I will lead them away captive to the ends of the whole earth. 10 You shall go and seize all their territory for me in advance. They must yield themselves to you, and you shall hold them for me until the day of their punishment. 11 But to those who resist show no mercy, but hand them over to slaughter and plunder throughout your whole region. 12 For as I live, and by the power of my kingdom, what I have spoken I will accomplish by my own hand. 13 And you — take care not to transgress any of your lord's commands, but carry them out exactly as I have ordered you; do it without delay."

Holofernes musters an enormous army, attacking and defeating the western nations

14 So Holofernes left the presence of his lord, and summoned all the commanders, generals, and officers of the Assyrian army. 15 He mustered the picked troops by divisions as his lord had ordered him to do, one hundred twenty thousand of them, together with twelve thousand archers on horseback, 16 and he organized them as a great army is marshaled for a campaign. 17 He took along a vast number of camels and donkeys and mules for transport, and innumerable sheep and oxen and goats for food; 18 also ample rations for everyone, and a huge amount of gold and silver from the royal palace.

19 Then he set out with his whole army, to go ahead of King Nebuchadnezzar and to cover the whole face of the earth to the west with their chariots and cavalry and picked foot soldiers. 20 Along with them went a mixed crowd like a swarm of locusts, like the dust of the earth — a multitude that could not be counted.

21 They marched for three days from Nineveh to the plain of Bectileth, and camped opposite Bectileth near the mountain that is to the north of Upper Cilicia. 22 From there Holofernes took his whole army, the infantry, cavalry, and chariots, and went up into the hill country. 23 He ravaged Put and Lud, and plundered all the Rassisites and the Ishmaelites on the border of the desert, south of the country of the Chelleans. 24 Then he followed the Euphrates and passed through Mesopotamia and destroyed all the fortified towns along the brook Abron, as far as the sea. 25 He also seized the territory of Cilicia, and killed everyone who resisted him. Then he came to the southern borders of Japheth, facing Arabia. 26 He surrounded all the Midianites, and burned their tents and plundered their sheepfolds. 27 Then he went down into the plain of Damascus during the wheat harvest, and burned all their fields and destroyed their flocks and herds and sacked their towns and ravaged their lands and put all their young men to the sword.

The peoples of the seacoast become afraid and surrender

28 So fear and dread of him fell upon all the people who lived along the seacoast, at Sidon and Tyre, and those who lived in Sur and Ocina and all who lived in Jamnia. Those who lived in Azotus and Ascalon feared him greatly.

[Judith 3]

1 They therefore sent messengers to him to sue for peace in these words: 2 "We, the servants of Nebuchadnezzar, the Great King, lie prostrate before you. Do with us whatever you will. 3 See, our buildings and all our land and all our wheat fields and our flocks and herds and all our encampments lie before you; do with them as you please. 4 Our towns and their inhabitants are also your slaves; come and deal with them as you see fit."

Despite the peoples' submission, Holofernes destroys their religious sites

5 The men came to Holofernes and told him all this. 6 Then he went down to the seacoast with his army and stationed garrisons in the fortified towns and took picked men from them as auxiliaries. 7 These people and all in the countryside welcomed him with garlands and dances and tambourines. 8 Yet he demolished all their shrines and cut down their sacred groves; for he had been commissioned to destroy all the gods of the land, so that all nations should worship Nebuchadnezzar alone, and that all their dialects and tribes should call upon him as a god.

9 Then he came toward Esdraelon, near Dothan, facing the great ridge of Judea; 10 he camped between Geba and Scythopolis, and remained for a whole month in order to collect all the supplies for his army.

[Judith 4]The Israelites become afraid, prepare for battle, and pray

1 When the Israelites living in Judea heard of everything that Holofernes, the general of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of the Assyrians, had done to the nations, and how he had plundered and destroyed all their temples, 2 they were therefore greatly terrified at his approach; they were alarmed both for Jerusalem and for the temple of the Lord their God. 3 For they had only recently returned from exile, and all the people of Judea had just now gathered together, and the sacred vessels and the altar and the temple had been consecrated after their profanation. 4 So they sent word to every district of Samaria, and to Kona, Beth-horon, Belmain, and Jericho, and to Choba and Aesora, and the valley of Salem. 5 They immediately seized all the high hilltops and fortified the villages on them and stored up food in preparation for war — since their fields had recently been harvested.

6 The high priest, Joakim, who was in Jerusalem at the time, wrote to the people of Bethulia and Betomesthaim, which faces Esdraelon opposite the plain near Dothan, 7 ordering them to seize the mountain passes, since by them Judea could be invaded; and it would be easy to stop any who tried to enter, for the approach was narrow, wide enough for only two at a time to pass.

8 So the Israelites did as they had been ordered by the high priest Joakim and the senate of the whole people of Israel, in session at Jerusalem. 9 And every man of Israel cried out to God with great fervor, and they humbled themselves with much fasting. 10 They and their wives and their children and their cattle and every resident alien and hired laborer and purchased slave — they all put sackcloth around their waists. 11 And all the Israelite men, women, and children living at Jerusalem prostrated themselves before the temple and put ashes on their heads and spread out their sackcloth before the Lord. 12 They even draped the altar with sackcloth and cried out in unison, praying fervently to the God of Israel not to allow their infants to be carried off and their wives to be taken as booty, and the towns they had inherited to be destroyed, and the sanctuary to be profaned and desecrated to the malicious joy of the Gentiles.

13 The Lord heard their prayers and had regard for their distress; for the people fasted many days throughout Judea and in Jerusalem before the sanctuary of the Lord Almighty. 14 The high priest Joakim and all the priests who stood before the Lord and ministered to the Lord, with sackcloth around their loins, offered the daily burnt offerings, the votive offerings, and freewill offerings of the people. 15 With ashes on their turbans, they cried out to the Lord with all their might to look with favor on the whole house of Israel.

[Judith 5]Holofernes questions the unique character of the Israelites

1 It was reported to Holofernes, the general of the Assyrian army, that the people of Israel had prepared for war and had closed the mountain passes and fortified all the high hilltops and set up barricades in the plains. 2 In great anger he called together all the princes of Moab and the commanders of Ammon and all the governors of the coastland, 3 and said to them, "Tell me, you Canaanites, what people is this that lives in the hill country? What towns do they inhabit? How large is their army, and in what does their power and strength consist? Who rules over them as king and leads their army? 4 And why have they alone, of all who live in the west, refused to come out and meet me?"

Achior instructs Holofernes by outlining the history of the Israelites

5 Then Achior, the leader of all the Ammonites, said to him, "May my lord please listen to a report from the mouth of your servant, and I will tell you the truth about this people that lives in the mountain district near you. No falsehood shall come from your servant's mouth. 6 These people are descended from the Chaldeans. 7 At one time they lived in Mesopotamia, because they did not wish to follow the gods of their ancestors who were in Chaldea. 8 Since they had abandoned the ways of their ancestors, and worshiped the God of heaven, the God they had come to know, their ancestors drove them out from the presence of their gods. So they fled to Mesopotamia, and lived there for a long time. 9 Then their God commanded them to leave the place where they were living and go to the land of Canaan. There they settled, and grew very prosperous in gold and silver and very much livestock. 10 When a famine spread over the land of Canaan they went down to Egypt and lived there as long as they had food. There they became so great a multitude that their race could not be counted. 11 So the king of Egypt became hostile to them; he exploited them and forced them to make bricks. 12 They cried out to their God, and he afflicted the whole land of Egypt with incurable plagues. So the Egyptians drove them out of their sight. 13 Then God dried up the Red Sea before them, 14 and he led them by the way of Sinai and Kadesh-barnea. They drove out all the people of the desert, 15 and took up residence in the land of the Amorites, and by their might destroyed all the inhabitants of Heshbon; and crossing over the Jordan they took possession of all the hill country. 16 They drove out before them the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Shechemites, and all the Gergesites, and lived there a long time.

17 "As long as they did not sin against their God they prospered, for the God who hates iniquity is with them. 18 But when they departed from the way he had prescribed for them, they were utterly defeated in many battles and were led away captive to a foreign land. The temple of their God was razed to the ground, and their towns were occupied by their enemies. 19 But now they have returned to their God, and have come back from the places where they were scattered, and have occupied Jerusalem, where their sanctuary is, and have settled in the hill country, because it was uninhabited.

20 "So now, my master and lord, if there is any oversight in this people and they sin against their God and we find out their offense, then we can go up and defeat them. 21 But if they are not a guilty nation, then let my lord pass them by; for their Lord and God will defend them, and we shall become the laughingstock of the whole world."

22 When Achior had finished saying these things, all the people standing around the tent began to complain; Holofernes' officers and all the inhabitants of the seacoast and Moab insisted that he should be cut to pieces. 23 They said, "We are not afraid of the Israelites; they are a people with no strength or power for making war. 24 Therefore let us go ahead, Lord Holofernes, and your vast army will swallow them up."

[Judith 6]

Holofernes denounces Achior and ejects him from the camp

1 When the disturbance made by the people outside the council had died down, Holofernes, the commander of the Assyrian army, said to Achior in the presence of all the foreign contingents:

2 "Who are you, Achior and you mercenaries of Ephraim, to prophesy among us as you have done today and tell us not to make war against the people of Israel because their God will defend them? What god is there except Nebuchadnezzar? He will send his forces and destroy them from the face of the earth. Their God will not save them; 3 we the king's servants will destroy them as one man. They cannot resist the might of our cavalry. 4 We will overwhelm them; their mountains will be drunk with their blood, and their fields will be full of their dead. Not even their footprints will survive our attack; they will utterly perish. So says King Nebuchadnezzar, lord of the whole earth. For he has spoken; none of his words shall be in vain.

5 "As for you, Achior, you Ammonite mercenary, you have said these words in a moment of perversity; you shall not see my face again from this day until I take revenge on this race that came out of Egypt. 6 Then at my return the sword of my army and the spear of my servants shall pierce your sides, and you shall fall among their wounded. 7 Now my slaves are going to take you back into the hill country and put you in one of the towns beside the passes. 8 You will not die until you perish along with them. 9 If you really hope in your heart that they will not be taken, then do not look downcast! I have spoken, and none of my words shall fail to come true."

10 Then Holofernes ordered his slaves, who waited on him in his tent, to seize Achior and take him away to Bethulia and hand him over to the Israelites. 11 So the slaves took him and led him out of the camp into the plain, and from the plain they went up into the hill country and came to the springs below Bethulia. 12 When the men of the town saw them, they seized their weapons and ran out of the town to the top of the hill, and all the slingers kept them from coming up by throwing stones at them. 13 So having taken shelter below the hill, they bound Achior and left him lying at the foot of the hill, and returned to their master.

The Israelites find and rescue Achior, bringing him into Bethulia

14 Then the Israelites came down from their town and found him; they untied him and brought him into Bethulia and placed him before the magistrates of their town, 15 who in those days were Uzziah son of Micah, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris son of Gothoniel, and Charmis son of Melchiel. 16 They called together all the elders of the town, and all their young men and women ran to the assembly. They set Achior in the midst of all their people, and Uzziah questioned him about what had happened. 17 He answered and told them what had taken place at the council of Holofernes, and all that he had said in the presence of the Assyrian leaders, and all that Holofernes had boasted he would do against the house of Israel. 18 Then the people fell down and worshiped God, and cried out:

19 "O Lord God of heaven, see their arrogance, and have pity on our people in their humiliation, and look kindly today on the faces of those who are consecrated to you."

20 Then they reassured Achior, and praised him highly. 21 Uzziah took him from the assembly to his own house and gave a banquet for the elders; and all that night they called on the God of Israel for help.

[Judith 7]

The Assyrians begin war preparations; the Israelites are again frightened and prepare to fight

1 The next day Holofernes ordered his whole army, and all the allies who had joined him, to break camp and move against Bethulia, and to seize the passes up into the hill country and make war on the Israelites. 2 So all their warriors marched off that day; their fighting forces numbered one hundred seventy thousand infantry and twelve thousand cavalry, not counting the baggage and the foot soldiers handling it, a very great multitude. 3 They encamped in the valley near Bethulia, beside the spring, and they spread out in breadth over Dothan as far as Balbaim and in length from Bethulia to Cyamon, which faces Esdraelon.

4 When the Israelites saw their vast numbers, they were greatly terrified and said to one another, "They will now strip clean the whole land; neither the high mountains nor the valleys nor the hills will bear their weight." 5 Yet they all seized their weapons, and when they had kindled fires on their towers, they remained on guard all that night.

Holofernes, on the advice of his leaders, decides to seize Bethulia's water supply

6 On the second day Holofernes led out all his cavalry in full view of the Israelites in Bethulia. 7 He reconnoitered the approaches to their town, and visited the springs that supplied their water; he seized them and set guards of soldiers over them, and then returned to his army.

8 Then all the chieftains of the Edomites and all the leaders of the Moabites and the commanders of the coastland came to him and said, 9 "Listen to what we have to say, my lord, and your army will suffer no losses. 10 This people, the Israelites, do not rely on their spears but on the height of the mountains where they live, for it is not easy to reach the tops of their mountains. 11 Therefore, my lord, do not fight against them in regular formation, and not a man of your army will fall. 12 Remain in your camp, and keep all the men in your forces with you; let your servants take possession of the spring of water that flows from the foot of the mountain, 13 for this is where all the people of Bethulia get their water. So thirst will destroy them, and they will surrender their town. Meanwhile, we and our people will go up to the tops of the nearby mountains and camp there to keep watch to see that no one gets out of the town. 14 They and their wives and children will waste away with famine, and before the sword reaches them they will be strewn about in the streets where they live. 15 Thus you will pay them back with evil, because they rebelled and did not receive you peaceably."

16 These words pleased Holofernes and all his attendants, and he gave orders to do as they had said. 17 So the army of the Ammonites moved forward, together with five thousand Assyrians, and they encamped in the valley and seized the water supply and the springs of the Israelites. 18 And the Edomites and Ammonites went up and encamped in the hill country opposite Dothan; and they sent some of their men toward the south and the east, toward Egrebeh, which is near Chusi beside the Wadi Mochmur. The rest of the Assyrian army encamped in the plain, and covered the whole face of the land. Their tents and supply trains spread out in great number, and they formed a vast multitude.

Driven to desperation, the citizens of Bethulia urge the leaders to surrender

19 The Israelites then cried out to the Lord their God, for their courage failed, because all their enemies had surrounded them, and there was no way of escape from them. 20 The whole Assyrian army, their infantry, chariots, and cavalry, surrounded them for thirty-four days, until all the water containers of every inhabitant of Bethulia were empty; 21 their cisterns were going dry, and on no day did they have enough water to drink, for their drinking water was rationed. 22 Their children were listless, and the women and young men fainted from thirst and were collapsing in the streets of the town and in the gateways; they no longer had any strength.

23 Then all the people, the young men, the women, and the children, gathered around Uzziah and the rulers of the town and cried out with a loud voice, and said before all the elders, 24 "Let God judge between you and us! You have done us a great injury in not making peace with the Assyrians. 25 For now we have no one to help us; God has sold us into their hands, to be strewn before them in thirst and exhaustion. 26 Now summon them and surrender the whole town as booty to the army of Holofernes and to all his forces. 27 For it would be better for us to be captured by them. We shall indeed become slaves, but our lives will be spared, and we shall not witness our little ones dying before our eyes, and our wives and children drawing their last breath. 28 We call to witness against you heaven and earth and our God, the Lord of our ancestors, who punishes us for our sins and the sins of our ancestors; do today the things that we have described!"

Uzziah advises instead a delay of five days

29 Then great and general lamentation arose throughout the assembly, and they cried out to the Lord God with a loud voice. 30 But Uzziah said to them, "Courage, my brothers and sisters! Let us hold out for five days more; by that time the Lord our God will turn his mercy to us again, for he will not forsake us utterly. 31 But if these days pass by, and no help comes for us, I will do as you say."

32 Then he dismissed the people to their various posts, and they went up on the walls and towers of their town. The women and children he sent home. In the town they were in great misery.

[Judith 8]

Judith is introduced

1 Now in those days Judith heard about these things: she was the daughter of Merari son of Ox son of Joseph son of Oziel son of Elkiah son of Ananias son of Gideon son of Raphain son of Ahitub son of Elijah son of Hilkiah son of Eliab son of Nathanael son of Salamiel son of Sarasadai son of Israel. 2 Her husband Manasseh, who belonged to her tribe and family, had died during the barley harvest. 3 For as he stood overseeing those who were binding sheaves in the field, he was overcome by the burning heat, and took to his bed and died in his town Bethulia. So they buried him with his ancestors in the field between Dothan and Balamon. 4 Judith remained as a widow for three years and four months 5 at home where she set up a tent for herself on the roof of her house. She put sackcloth around her waist and dressed in widow's clothing. 6 She fasted all the days of her widowhood, except the day before the sabbath and the sabbath itself, the day before the new moon and the day of the new moon, and the festivals and days of rejoicing of the house of Israel. 7 She was beautiful in appearance, and was very lovely to behold. Her husband Manasseh had left her gold and silver, men and women slaves, livestock, and fields; and she maintained this estate. 8 No one spoke ill of her, for she feared God with great devotion.

Judith upbraids the Bethulian leaders

9 When Judith heard the harsh words spoken by the people against the ruler, because they were faint for lack of water, and when she heard all that Uzziah said to them, and how he promised them under oath to surrender the town to the Assyrians after five days, 10 she sent her maid, who was in charge of all she possessed, to summon Uzziah and

Chabris and Charmis, the elders of her town. 11 They came to her, and she said to them:

"Listen to me, rulers of the people of Bethulia! What you have said to the people today is not right; you have even sworn and pronounced this oath between God and you, promising to surrender the town to our enemies unless the Lord turns and helps us within so many days. 12 Who are you to put God to the test today, and to set yourselves up in the place of God in human affairs? 13 You are putting the Lord Almighty to the test, but you will never learn anything! 14 You cannot plumb the depths of the human heart or understand the workings of the human mind; how do you expect to search out God, who made all these things, and find out his mind or comprehend his thought? No, my brothers, do not anger the Lord our God. 15 For if he does not choose to help us within these five days, he has power to protect us within any time he pleases, or even to destroy us in the presence of our enemies. 16 Do not try to bind the purposes of the Lord our God; for God is not like a human being, to be threatened, or like a mere mortal, to be won over by pleading. 17 Therefore, while we wait for his deliverance, let us call upon him to help us, and he will hear our voice, if it pleases him.

18 "For never in our generation, nor in these present days, has there been any tribe or family or people or town of ours that worships gods made with hands, as was done in days gone by. 19 That was why our ancestors were handed over to the sword and to pillage, and so they suffered a great catastrophe before our enemies. 20 But we know no other god but him, and so we hope that he will not disdain us or any of our nation. 21 For if we are captured, all Judea will be captured and our sanctuary will be plundered; and he will make us pay for its desecration with our blood. 22 The slaughter of our kindred and the captivity of the land and the desolation of our inheritance — all this he will bring on our heads among the Gentiles, wherever we serve as slaves; and we shall be an offense and a disgrace in the eyes of those who acquire us. 23 For our slavery will not bring us into favor, but the Lord our God will turn it to dishonor.

24 "Therefore, my brothers, let us set an example for our kindred, for their lives depend upon us, and the sanctuary — both the temple and the altar — rests upon us. 25 In spite of everything let us give thanks to the Lord our God, who is putting us to the test as he did our ancestors. 26 Remember what he did with Abraham, and how he tested Isaac, and what happened to Jacob in Syrian Mesopotamia, while he was tending the sheep of Laban, his mother's brother. 27 For he has not tried us with fire, as he did them, to search their hearts, nor has he taken vengeance on us; but the Lord scourges those who are close to him in order to admonish them."

The leaders acknowledge Judith's wisdom and she vows to deliver the city

28 Then Uzziah said to her, "All that you have said was spoken out of a true heart, and there is no one who can deny your words. 29 Today is not the first time your wisdom has been shown, but from the beginning of your life all the people have recognized your understanding, for your heart's disposition is right. 30 But the people were so thirsty that they compelled us to do for them what we have promised, and made us take an oath that we cannot break. 31 Now since you are a God-fearing woman, pray for us, so that the Lord may send us rain to fill our cisterns. Then we will no longer feel faint from thirst."

32 Then Judith said to them, "Listen to me. I am about to do something that will go down through all generations of our descendants. 33 Stand at the town gate tonight so that I may go out with my maid; and within the days after which you have promised to surrender the town to our enemies, the Lord will deliver Israel by my hand. 34 Only, do not try to find out what I am doing; for I will not tell you until I have finished what I am about to do."

35 Uzziah and the rulers said to her, "Go in peace, and may the Lord God go before you, to take vengeance on our enemies." 36 So they returned from the tent and went to their posts.

[Judith 9]
The Prayer of Judith

1 Then Judith prostrated herself, put ashes on her head, and uncovered the sackcloth she was wearing. At the very time when the evening incense was being offered in the house of God in Jerusalem, Judith cried out to the Lord with a loud voice, and said,

2 "O Lord God of my ancestor Simeon, to whom you gave a sword to take revenge on those strangers who had torn off a virgin's clothing to defile her, and exposed her thighs to put her to shame, and polluted her womb to disgrace her; for you said, 'It shall not be done' — yet they did it; 3 so you gave up their rulers to be killed, and their bed, which was ashamed of the deceit they had practiced, was stained with blood, and you struck down slaves along with princes, and princes on their thrones. 4 You gave up their wives for booty and their daughters to captivity, and all their booty to be divided among your beloved children who burned with zeal for you and abhorred the pollution of their blood and called on you for help. O God, my God, hear me also, a widow.

5 "For you have done these things and those that went before and those that followed. You have designed the things that are now, and those that are to come. What you had in mind has happened; 6 the things you decided on presented themselves and said, 'Here we are!' For all your ways are prepared in advance, and your judgment is with foreknowledge.

7 "Here now are the Assyrians, a greatly increased force, priding themselves in their horses and riders, boasting in the strength of their foot soldiers, and trusting in shield and spear, in bow and sling. They do not know that you are the Lord who crushes wars; the Lord is your name. 8 Break their strength by your might, and bring down their power in your anger; for they intend to defile your sanctuary, and to pollute the tabernacle where your glorious name resides, and to break off the horns of your altar with the sword. 9 Look at their pride, and send your wrath upon their heads. Give to me, a widow, the strong hand to do what I plan. 10 By the deceit of my lips strike down the slave with the prince and the prince with his servant; crush their arrogance by the hand of a woman.

11 "For your strength does not depend on numbers, nor your might on the powerful. But you are the God of the lowly, helper of the oppressed, upholder of the weak, protector of the forsaken, savior of those without hope. 12 Please, please, God of my father, God of the heritage of Israel, Lord of heaven and earth, Creator of the waters, King of all your creation, hear my prayer! 13 Make my deceitful words bring wound and bruise on those who have planned cruel things against your covenant, and against your sacred house, and against Mount Zion, and against the house your children possess. 14 Let your whole nation and every tribe know and understand that you are God, the God of all power and might, and that there is no other who protects the people of Israel but you alone!"

[Judith 10]

Judith bathes and dresses in preparation for her mission

1 When Judith had stopped crying out to the God of Israel, and had ended all these words, 2 she rose from where she lay prostrate. She called her maid and went down into the house where she lived on sabbaths and on her festal days. 3 She removed the sackcloth she had been wearing, took off her widow's garments, bathed her body with water, and anointed herself with precious ointment. She combed her hair, put on a tiara, and dressed herself in the festive attire that she used to wear while her husband Manasseh was living. 4 She put sandals on her feet, and put on her anklets, bracelets, rings, earrings, and all her other jewelry. Thus she made herself very beautiful, to entice the eyes of all the men who might see her. 5 She gave her maid a skin of wine and a flask of oil, and filled a bag with roasted grain, dried fig cakes, and fine bread; then she wrapped up all her dishes and gave them to her to carry.

The elders bless Judith and she and her servant leave Bethulia

6 Then they went out to the town gate of Bethulia and found Uzziah standing there with the elders of the town, Chabris and Charmis. 7

When they saw her transformed in appearance and dressed differently, they were very greatly astounded at her beauty and said to her, 8 "May the God of our ancestors grant you favor and fulfill your plans, so that the people of Israel may glory and Jerusalem may be exalted." She bowed down to God.

9 Then she said to them, "Order the gate of the town to be opened for me so that I may go out and accomplish the things you have just said to me." So they ordered the young men to open the gate for her, as she requested. 10 When they had done this, Judith went out, accompanied by her maid. The men of the town watched her until she had gone down the mountain and passed through the valley, where they lost sight of her.

The two women are captured by the Assyrians and brought to Holofernes

11 As the women were going straight on through the valley, an Assyrian patrol met her 12 and took her into custody. They asked her, "To what people do you belong, and where are you coming from, and where are you going?" She replied, "I am a daughter of the Hebrews, but I am fleeing from them, for they are about to be handed over to you to be devoured. 13 I am on my way to see Holofernes the commander of your army, to give him a true report; I will show him a way by which he can go and capture all the hill country without losing one of his men, captured or slain."

14 When the men heard her words, and observed her face — she was in their eyes marvelously beautiful — they said to her, 15 "You have saved your life by hurrying down to see our lord. Go at once to his tent; some of us will escort you and hand you over to him. 16 When you stand before him, have no fear in your heart, but tell him what you have just said, and he will treat you well."

17 They chose from their number a hundred men to accompany her and her maid, and they brought them to the tent of Holofernes. 18 There was great excitement in the whole camp, for her arrival was reported from tent to tent. They came and gathered around her as she stood outside the tent of Holofernes, waiting until they told him about her. 19 They marveled at her beauty and admired the Israelites, judging them by her. They said to one another, "Who can despise these people, who have women like this among them? It is not wise to leave one of their men alive, for if we let them go they will be able to beguile the whole world!"

20 Then the guards of Holofernes and all his servants came out and led her into the tent. 21 Holofernes was resting on his bed under a canopy that was woven with purple and gold, emeralds and other precious stones. 22 When they told him of her, he came to the front of the tent, with silver lamps carried before him. 23 When Judith came into the presence of Holofernes and his servants, they all marveled at the beauty of her face. She prostrated herself and did obeisance to him, but his slaves raised her up.

[Judith 11]

Holofernes welcomes Judith

1 Then Holofernes said to her, "Take courage, woman, and do not be afraid in your heart, for I have never hurt anyone who chose to serve Nebuchadnezzar, king of all the earth. 2 Even now, if your people who live in the hill country had not slighted me, I would never have lifted my spear against them. They have brought this on themselves. 3 But now tell me why you have fled from them and have come over to us. In any event, you have come to safety. Take courage! You will live tonight and ever after. 4 No one will hurt you. Rather, all will treat you well, as they do the servants of my lord King Nebuchadnezzar."

Judith's explanation of her departure commends her to Holofernes and his advisors

5 Judith answered him, "Accept the words of your slave, and let your servant speak in your presence. I will say nothing false to my lord this night. 6 If you follow out the words of your servant, God will accomplish something through you, and my lord will not fail to achieve his purposes. 7 By the life of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the whole earth, and by the power of him who has sent you to direct every living being!

Not only do human beings serve him because of you, but also the animals of the field and the cattle and the birds of the air will live, because of your power, under Nebuchadnezzar and all his house. 8 For we have heard of your wisdom and skill, and it is reported throughout the whole world that you alone are the best in the whole kingdom, the most informed and the most astounding in military strategy.

9 "Now as for Achior's speech in your council, we have heard his words, for the people of Bethulia spared him and he told them all he had said to you. 10 Therefore, lord and master, do not disregard what he said, but keep it in your mind, for it is true. Indeed our nation cannot be punished, nor can the sword prevail against them, unless they sin against their God.

11 "But now, in order that my lord may not be defeated and his purpose frustrated, death will fall upon them, for a sin has overtaken them by which they are about to provoke their God to anger when they do what is wrong. 12 Since their food supply is exhausted and their water has almost given out, they have planned to kill their livestock and have determined to use all that God by his laws has forbidden them to eat. 13 They have decided to consume the first fruits of the grain and the tithes of the wine and oil, which they had consecrated and set aside for the priests who minister in the presence of our God in Jerusalem — things it is not lawful for any of the people even to touch with their hands. 14 Since even the people in Jerusalem have been doing this, they have sent messengers there in order to bring back permission from the council of the elders. 15 When the response reaches them and they act upon it, on that very day they will be handed over to you to be destroyed.

16 "So when I, your slave, learned all this, I fled from them. God has sent me to accomplish with you things that will astonish the whole world wherever people shall hear about them. 17 Your servant is indeed God-fearing and serves the God of heaven night and day. So, my lord, I will remain with you; but every night your servant will go out into the valley and pray to God. He will tell me when they have committed their sins. 18 Then I will come and tell you, so that you may go out with your whole army, and not one of them will be able to withstand you. 19 Then I will lead you through Judea, until you come to Jerusalem; there I will set your throne. You will drive them like sheep that have no shepherd, and no dog will so much as growl at you. For this was told me to give me foreknowledge; it was announced to me, and I was sent to tell you."

20 Her words pleased Holofernes and all his servants. They marveled at her wisdom and said, 21 "No other woman from one end of the earth to the other looks so beautiful or speaks so wisely!" 22 Then Holofernes said to her, "God has done well to send you ahead of the people, to strengthen our hands and bring destruction on those who have despised my lord. 23 You are not only beautiful in appearance, but wise in speech. If you do as you have said, your God shall be my God, and you shall live in the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar and be renowned throughout the whole world."

[Judith 12]

Judith establishes a pattern of leaving the camp for prayer

1 Then he commanded them to bring her in where his silver dinnerware was kept, and ordered them to set a table for her with some of his own delicacies, and with some of his own wine to drink. 2 But Judith said, "I cannot partake of them, or it will be an offense; but I will have enough with the things I brought with me." 3 Holofernes said to her, "If your supply runs out, where can we get you more of the same? For none of your people are here with us." 4 Judith replied, "As surely as you live, my lord, your servant will not use up the supplies I have with me before the Lord carries out by my hand what he has determined."

5 Then the servants of Holofernes brought her into the tent, and she slept until midnight. Toward the morning watch she got up 6 and sent this message to Holofernes: "Let my lord now give orders to allow your servant to go out and pray." 7 So Holofernes commanded his guards not to hinder her. She remained in the camp three days. She went out each night to the valley of Bethulia, and bathed at the spring in the camp. 8 After bathing, she prayed the Lord God of Israel to direct her way for the triumph of his people. 9 Then she returned purified and stayed in the tent until she ate her food toward evening.

Holofernes invites Judith to a banquet

10 On the fourth day Holofernes held a banquet for his personal attendants only, and did not invite any of his officers. 11 He said to Bagoas, the eunuch who had charge of his personal affairs, "Go and persuade the Hebrew woman who is in your care to join us and to eat and drink with us. 12 For it would be a disgrace if we let such a woman go without having intercourse with her. If we do not seduce her, she will laugh at us."

13 So Bagoas left the presence of Holofernes, and approached her and said, "Let this pretty girl not hesitate to come to my lord to be honored in his presence, and to enjoy drinking wine with us, and to become today like one of the Assyrian women who serve in the palace of Nebuchadnezzar." 14 Judith replied, "Who am I to refuse my lord? Whatever pleases him I will do at once, and it will be a joy to me until the day of my death." 15 So she proceeded to dress herself in all her woman's finery. Her maid went ahead and spread for her on the ground before Holofernes the lambskins she had received from Bagoas for her daily use in reclining.

16 Then Judith came in and lay down. Holofernes' heart was ravished with her and his passion was aroused, for he had been waiting for an opportunity to seduce her from the day he first saw her. 17 So Holofernes said to her, "Have a drink and be merry with us!" 18 Judith said, "I will gladly drink, my lord, because today is the greatest day in my whole life." 19 Then she took what her maid had prepared and ate and drank before him. 20 Holofernes was greatly pleased with her, and drank a great quantity of wine, much more than he had ever drunk in any one day since he was born.

[Judith 13]

Judith, alone with Holofernes, decapitates him

1 When evening came, his slaves quickly withdrew. Bagoas closed the tent from outside and shut out the attendants from his master's presence. They went to bed, for they all were weary because the banquet had lasted so long. 2 But Judith was left alone in the tent, with Holofernes stretched out on his bed, for he was dead drunk.

3 Now Judith had told her maid to stand outside the bedchamber and to wait for her to come out, as she did on the other days; for she said she would be going out for her prayers. She had said the same thing to Bagoas. 4 So everyone went out, and no one, either small or great, was left in the bedchamber. Then Judith, standing beside his bed, said in her heart, "O Lord God of all might, look in this hour on the work of my hands for the exaltation of Jerusalem. 5 Now indeed is the time to help your heritage and to carry out my design to destroy the enemies who have risen up against us."

6 She went up to the bedpost near Holofernes' head, and took down his sword that hung there. 7 She came close to his bed, took hold of the hair of his head, and said, "Give me strength today, O Lord God of Israel!" 8 Then she struck his neck twice with all her might, and cut off his head. 9 Next she rolled his body off the bed and pulled down the canopy from the posts. Soon afterward she went out and gave Holofernes' head to her maid, 10 who placed it in her food bag.

Judith flees the enemy camp and returns to Bethulia

Then the two of them went out together, as they were accustomed to do for prayer. They passed through the camp, circled around the valley, and went up the mountain to Bethulia, and came to its gates. 11 From a distance Judith called out to the sentries at the gates, "Open, open the gate! God, our God, is with us, still showing his power in Israel and his strength against our enemies, as he has done today!"

12 When the people of her town heard her voice, they hurried down to the town gate and summoned the elders of the town. 13 They all ran together, both small and great, for it seemed unbelievable that she had returned. They opened the gate and welcomed them. Then they lit a fire to give light, and gathered around them. 14 Then she said to them with a loud voice, "Praise God, O praise him! Praise God, who has not withdrawn his mercy from the house of Israel, but has destroyed our enemies by my hand this very night!"

15 Then she pulled the head out of the bag and showed it to them, and said, "See here, the head of Holofernes, the commander of the Assyrian army, and here is the canopy beneath which he lay in his drunken stupor. The Lord has struck him down by the hand of a woman. 16 As the Lord lives, who has protected me in the way I went, I swear that it was my face that seduced him to his destruction, and that he committed no sin with me, to defile and shame me."

17 All the people were greatly astonished. They bowed down and worshiped God, and said with one accord, "Blessed are you our God, who have this day humiliated the enemies of your people."

18 Then Uzziah said to her, "O daughter, you are blessed by the Most High God above all other women on earth; and blessed be the Lord God, who created the heavens and the earth, who has guided you to cut off the head of the leader of our enemies. 19 Your praise will never depart from the hearts of those who remember the power of God. 20 May God grant this to be a perpetual honor to you, and may he reward you with blessings, because you risked your own life when our nation was brought low, and you averted our ruin, walking in the straight path before our God." And all the people said, "Amen. Amen."

[Judith 14]

Judith directs the Israelites' military strategy

1 Then Judith said to them, "Listen to me, my friends. Take this head and hang it upon the parapet of your wall. 2 As soon as day breaks and the sun rises on the earth, each of you take up your weapons, and let every able-bodied man go out of the town; set a captain over them, as if you were going down to the plain against the Assyrian outpost; only do not go down. 3 Then they will seize their arms and go into the camp and rouse the officers of the Assyrian army. They will rush into the tent of Holofernes and will not find him. Then panic will come over them, and they will flee before you. 4 Then you and all who live within the borders of Israel will pursue them and cut them down in their tracks. 5 But before you do all this, bring Achior the Ammonite to me so that he may see and recognize the man who despised the house of Israel and sent him to us as if to his death."

Achior identifies the head of Holofernes and converts

6 So they summoned Achior from the house of Uzziah. When he came and saw the head of Holofernes in the hand of one of the men in the assembly of the people, he fell down on his face in a faint. 7 When they raised him up he threw himself at Judith's feet, and did obeisance to her, and said, "Blessed are you in every tent of Judah! In every nation those who hear your name will be alarmed. 8 Now tell me what you have done during these days."

So Judith told him in the presence of the people all that she had done, from the day she left until the moment she began speaking to them. 9 When she had finished, the people raised a great shout and made a joyful noise in their town. 10 When Achior saw all that the God of Israel had done, he believed firmly in God. So he was circumcised, and joined the house of Israel, remaining so to this day.

The enemy discovers Holofernes's death

11 As soon as it was dawn they hung the head of Holofernes on the wall. Then they all took their weapons, and they went out in companies to the mountain passes. 12 When the Assyrians saw them they sent word to their commanders, who then went to the generals and the captains and to all their other officers. 13 They came to Holofernes' tent and said to the steward in charge of all his personal affairs, "Wake up our lord, for the slaves have been so bold as to come down against us to give battle, to their utter destruction."

14 So Bagoas went in and knocked at the entry of the tent, for he supposed that he was sleeping with Judith. 15 But when no one answered, he opened it and went into the bedchamber and found him sprawled on the floor dead, with his head missing. 16 He cried out with a loud voice and wept and groaned and shouted, and tore his clothes. 17 Then he went to the tent where Judith had stayed, and when he did not find her, he rushed out to the people and shouted, 18 "The slaves have tricked us! One Hebrew woman has brought disgrace on the house of King Nebuchadnezzar. Look, Holofernes is lying on the ground, and his head is missing!"

19 When the leaders of the Assyrian army heard this, they tore their tunics and were greatly dismayed, and their loud cries and shouts rose up throughout the camp.

[Judith 15]

The Assyrians flee in panic; the Israelites follow and lay waste to them

1 When the men in the tents heard it, they were amazed at what had happened. 2 Overcome with fear and trembling, they did not wait for one another, but with one impulse all rushed out and fled by every path across the plain and through the hill country. 3 Those who had camped in the hills around Bethulia also took to flight. Then the Israelites, everyone that was a soldier, rushed out upon them. 4 Uzziah sent men to Betomasthaim and Choba and Kola, and to all the frontiers of Israel, to tell what had taken place and to urge all to rush out upon the enemy to destroy them. 5 When the Israelites heard it, with one accord they fell upon the enemy, and cut them down as far as Choba. Those in Jerusalem and all the hill country also came, for they were told what had happened in the camp of the enemy. The men in Gilead and in Galilee outflanked them with great slaughter, even beyond Damascus and its borders. 6 The rest of the people of Bethulia fell upon the Assyrian camp and plundered it, acquiring great riches. 7 And the Israelites, when they returned from the slaughter, took possession of what remained. Even the villages and towns in the hill country and in the plain got a great amount of booty, since there was a vast quantity of it.

Judith is honored and leads in triumph to Jerusalem

8 Then the high priest Joakim and the elders of the Israelites who lived in Jerusalem came to witness the good things that the Lord had done for Israel, and to see Judith and to wish her well. 9 When they met her, they all blessed her with one accord and said to her, "You are the glory of Jerusalem, you are the great boast of Israel, you are the great pride of our nation! 10 You have done all this with your own hand; you have done great good to Israel, and God is well pleased with it. May the Almighty Lord bless you forever!" And all the people said, "Amen."

11 All the people plundered the camp for thirty days. They gave Judith the tent of Holofernes and all his silver dinnerware, his beds, his bowls, and all his furniture. She took them and loaded her mules and hitched up her carts and piled the things on them.

12 All the women of Israel gathered to see her, and blessed her, and some of them performed a dance in her honor. She took ivy-wreathed wands in her hands and distributed them to the women who were with her; 13 and she and those who were with her crowned themselves with olive wreaths. She went before all the people in the dance, leading all the women, while all the men of Israel followed, bearing their arms and wearing garlands and singing hymns.

Judith and the people sing a thanksgiving psalm

14 Judith began this thanksgiving before all Israel, and all the people loudly sang this song of praise. [Judith 16] 1 And Judith said,

Begin a song to my God with tambourines,
sing to my Lord with cymbals.

Raise to him a new psalm;
exalt him, and call upon his name.

2 For the Lord is a God who crushes wars;
he sets up his camp among his people;
he delivered me from the hands of my pursuers.

3 The Assyrian came down from the mountains of the north;
he came with myriads of his warriors;
their numbers blocked up the wadis,
and their cavalry covered the hills.

4 He boasted that he would burn up my territory,
and kill my young men with the sword,
and dash my infants to the ground,
and seize my children as booty,
and take my virgins as spoil.

- 5 But the Lord Almighty has foiled them
by the hand of a woman.
- 6 For their mighty one did not fall by the hands of the young men,
nor did the sons of the Titans strike him down,
nor did tall giants set upon him;
but Judith daughter of Merari
with the beauty of her countenance undid him.
- 7 For she put away her widow's clothing
to exalt the oppressed in Israel.
She anointed her face with perfume;
- 8 she fastened her hair with a tiara
and put on a linen gown to beguile him.
- 9 Her sandal ravished his eyes,
her beauty captivated his mind,
and the sword severed his neck!
- 10 The Persians trembled at her boldness,
the Medes were daunted at her daring.
- 11 Then my oppressed people shouted;
my weak people cried out, and the enemy trembled;
they lifted up their voices, and the enemy were turned back.
- 12 Sons of slave-girls pierced them through and wounded them like the children of fugitives;
they perished before the army of my Lord.
- 13 I will sing to my God a new song:
O Lord, you are great and glorious,
wonderful in strength, invincible.
- 14 Let all your creatures serve you,
for you spoke, and they were made.
You sent forth your spirit, and it formed them;
there is none that can resist your voice.
- 15 For the mountains shall be shaken to their foundations with the waters;
before your glance the rocks shall melt like wax.
But to those who fear you
you show mercy.

16 For every sacrifice as a fragrant offering is a small thing, and the fat of all whole burnt offerings to you is a very little thing; but whoever fears the Lord is great forever.

17 Woe to the nations that rise up against my people!
The Lord Almighty will take vengeance on them in the day of judgment; he will send fire and worms into their flesh;
they shall weep in pain forever.

The procession arrives in Jerusalem

18 When they arrived at Jerusalem, they worshiped God. As soon as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, their freewill offerings, and their gifts. 19 Judith also dedicated to God all the possessions of Holofernes, which the people had given her; and the canopy that she had taken for herself from his bedchamber she gave as a votive offering. 20 For three months the people continued feasting in Jerusalem before the sanctuary, and Judith remained with them.

Judith's subsequent life

21 After this they all returned home to their own inheritances. Judith went to Bethulia, and remained on her estate. For the rest of her life she was honored throughout the whole country. 22 Many desired to marry her, but she gave herself to no man all the days of her life after her husband Manasseh died and was gathered to his people. 23 She became more and more famous, and grew old in her husband's house, reaching the age of one hundred five. She set her maid free. She died in Bethulia, and they buried her in the cave of her husband Manasseh; 24 and the house of Israel mourned her for seven days. Before she died she distributed her property to all those who were next of kin to her husband Manasseh, and to her own nearest kindred. 25 No one ever again spread terror among the Israelites during the lifetime of Judith,
or for a long time after her death.

ADDITIONS TO ESTHER

ADDITIONS TO ESTHER

NOTE. The deuterocanonical portions of the Book of Esther are several additional passages found in the Greek translation of the Hebrew Book of Esther, a translation that differs also in other respects from the Hebrew text (the latter is translated in the NRSV Old Testament). The disordered chapter numbers come from the displacement of the additions to the end of the canonical Book of Esther by Jerome in his Latin translation and from the subsequent division of the Bible into chapters by Stephen Langton, who numbered the additions consecutively as though they formed a direct continuation of the Hebrew text. So that the additions may be read in their proper context, the whole of the Greek version is here translated, though certain familiar names are given according to their Hebrew rather than their Greek form; for example, Mordecai and Vashti instead of Mardocheus and Astin. The order followed is that of the Greek text, but the chapter and verse numbers conform to those of the King James or Authorized Version. The additions, conveniently indicated by the letters A-F, are located as follows: A, before 1.1; B, after 3.13; C and D, after 4.17; E, after 8.12; F, after 10.3.

Most importantly, the following textual order follows the Greek edition of Esther found in the New Oxford Annotated Bible with the Apocrypha: New Revised Standard Version. 3rd edition, ed. Michael D. Coogan (Oxford University Press, 2001).

Introduction

The Greek version of Esther is a translation of the canonical Hebrew book of Esther (i.e., the one included in the "Hebrew Scriptures") portion of this New Revised Standard Version Bible). The translation was made for Greek-speaking Jews in the second and first century BCE.

The translator — very likely the Lysimachus of Jerusalem mentioned in 11.1 — produced a systematic but relatively free translation of the Hebrew. Besides numerous small but often significant omissions and additions, the Greek version includes six extra sections that have no counterparts in the Hebrew. These additional sections are clearly intrusive and secondary, for they contradict the Hebrew at a number of points. While they sometimes make the characters and events more vivid or dramatic, their main purpose is to transform the comparatively subtle and enigmatic Hebrew story of Esther into a more conventional tale of divine intervention and exemplary Jewish piety.

The Additions to the book of Esther comprise 107 verses. Their contents are as follows:

- *Addition A: Mordecai's dream (11.2-12) and his discovery of a plot against the king (12.1-6)
- *Addition B: The royal edict dictated by Haman, decreeing the extermination of the Jews (13.1-7)
- *Addition C: The prayers of Mordecai (13.8-18) and Esther (14.1-19)
- *Addition D: Esther's appearing unsummoned, before the king (15.4-19)
- *Addition E: The royal edict dictated by Mordecai, counteracting the edict sent by Haman (16.1-24)
- *Addition F: The interpretation of Mordecai's dream (10.4-13) and the colophon (an inscription at the end of a manuscript) to the Greek version (1.11)

Although there is no mention of God in the Hebrew narrative, in the Greek version the terms "Lord" or "God" appear more than fifty times. Most of these occurrences are in the Additions, but occasionally the Greek translation inserts references to God into verses that correspond to the canonical Hebrew text (see 2.20; 4.8; 6.13).

The additions provided their authors with an opportunity to express their own particular theological views. Additions A and F introduce apocalyptic motifs to emphasize God's providential care for the people Israel in a universally hostile world. Addition C attests to the efficacy of prayer and expresses Queen Esther's abhorrence at being married to a Gentile, her loathing of all things worldly and courtly, and her strict observance of Jewish dietary laws — none of which is so much as hinted at in the Hebrew. Thanks largely to Addition D, the climax of the Greek version is reached when God miraculously changes to gentleness the king's "fierce anger" at Esther's unannounced entrance. Taken together, the six additions deemphasize the establishment of Purim and express a deep distrust of Gentiles.

Besides giving the story a more explicitly religious character, the additions create new emphases. A and F, which frame the story, graft onto it a new apocalyptic perspective of cosmic struggle between good and evil. The juxtaposition of C's extensive praise of God, with similar terms and phrases applied to Ahasuerus in D, makes explicit the Greek version's intent to contrast the capricious earthly king with God the trustworthy heavenly king. Similarly, the royal decrees in B and E highlight the theme of human commandments versus the law of Moses to which Esther also alludes when she prays in C.

Originally, A, C, D, and F were probably composed in either Hebrew or Aramaic (both Semitic languages) and, if so, were already part of that particular Semitic text used by the Greek translator. The florid phraseology of B and E indicates that they must originally have been composed in Greek, perhaps in Alexandria, a sophisticated Greek-Jewish center.

The additions were not composed at the same time. The latest possible date for B, C, D, and E is 93 CE, when the historian Josephus paraphrased them in his 'Jewish Antiquities.' The colophon's location (11.1) immediately after F suggests that A as well as F were part of the Semitic text at the time that Lysimachus made his Greek translation in the late second or first century BCE.

Esther (The Greek Version Containing the Additional Chapters)

ADDITION A

[Esther 11]

Mordecai's prophetic dream of impending danger to the Jews

2 In the second year of the reign of Artaxerxes the Great, on the first day of Nisan, Mordecai son of Jair son of Shimei son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin, had a dream. 3 He was a Jew living in the city of Susa, a great man, serving in the court of the king. 4 He was one of the captives whom King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had brought from Jerusalem with King Jeconiah of Judea. And this was his dream: 5 Noises and confusion, thunders and earthquake, tumult on the earth! 6 Then two great dragons came forward, both ready to fight, and they roared terribly. 7 At their roaring every nation prepared for war, to fight against the righteous nation. 8 It was a day of darkness and gloom, of tribulation and distress, affliction and great tumult on the earth! 9 And the whole righteous nation was troubled; they feared the evils that threatened them, and were ready to perish. 10 Then they cried out to God; and at their outcry, as though from a tiny spring, there came a great river, with abundant water; 11 light came, and the sun rose, and the lowly were exalted and devoured those held in honor.

12 Mordecai saw in this dream what God had determined to do, and after he awoke he had it on his mind, seeking all day to understand it in every detail.

[Esther 12]

Mordecai saves the king's life

1 Now Mordecai took his rest in the courtyard with Gabatha and Tharra, the two eunuchs of the king who kept watch in the courtyard. 2 He overheard their conversation and inquired into their purposes, and learned that they were preparing to lay hands on King Artaxerxes; and he informed the king concerning them. 3 Then the king examined the two eunuchs, and after they had confessed it, they were led away to execution. 4 The king made a permanent record of these things, and Mordecai wrote an account of them. 5 And the king ordered Mordecai to serve in the court, and rewarded him for these things. 6 But Haman son of Hammedatha, a Bougean, who was in great honor with the king, determined to injure Mordecai and his people because of the two eunuchs of the king.

[Esther 1]

Artaxerxes's banquet

1 It was after this that the following things happened in the days of Artaxerxes, the same Artaxerxes who ruled over one hundred twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia. 2 In those days, when King Artaxerxes was enthroned in the city of Susa, 3 in the third year of his reign, he gave a banquet for his Friends and other persons of various nations, the Persians and Median nobles, and the governors of the provinces. 4 After this, when he had displayed to them the riches of his kingdom and the splendor of his bountiful celebration during the course of one hundred eighty days, 5 at the end of the festivity the king gave a drinking party for the people of various nations who lived in the city. This was held for six days in the courtyard of the royal palace, 6 which was adorned with curtains of fine linen and cotton, held by cords of purple linen attached to gold and silver blocks on pillars of marble and other stones. Gold and silver couches were placed on a mosaic floor of emerald, mother-of-pearl, and marble. There were coverings of gauze, embroidered in various colors, with roses arranged around them. 7 The cups were of gold and silver, and a miniature cup was displayed, made of ruby, worth thirty thousand talents. There was abundant sweet wine, such as the king himself drank. 8 The drinking was not according to a fixed rule; but the king wished to have it so, and he commanded his stewards to comply with his pleasure and with that of the guests.

9 Meanwhile, Queen Vashti gave a drinking party for the women in the palace where King Artaxerxes was.

The fall of Vashti and the king's first edict

10 On the seventh day, when the king was in good humor, he told Haman, Bazan, Tharra, Boraze, Zatholtha, Abataza, and Tharaba, the seven eunuchs who served King Artaxerxes, 11 to escort the queen to him in order to proclaim her as queen and to place the diadem on her head, and to have her display her beauty to all the governors and the people of various nations, for she was indeed a beautiful woman. 12 But Queen Vashti refused to obey him and would not come with the eunuchs. This offended the king and he became furious. 13 He said to his Friends, "This is how Vashti has answered me. Give therefore your ruling and judgment on this matter." 14 Arkesaeus, Sarsathaeus, and Malesear, then the governors of the Persians and Medes who were closest to the king — Arkesaeus, Sarsathaeus, and Malesear, who sat beside him in the chief seats — came to him 15 and told him what must be done to Queen Vashti for not obeying the order that the king had sent her by the eunuchs. 16 Then Muchaeus said to the king and the governors, "Queen Vashti has insulted not only the king but also all the king's governors and officials" 17 (for he had reported to them what the queen had said and how she had defied the king). "And just as she defied King Artaxerxes, 18 so now the other ladies who are wives of the Persian and Median governors, on hearing what she has said to the king, will likewise dare to insult their husbands. 19 If therefore it pleases the king, let him issue a royal decree, inscribed in accordance with the laws of the Medes and Persians so that it may not be altered, that the queen may no longer come into his presence; but let the king give her royal rank to a woman better than she. 20 Let whatever law the king enacts be proclaimed in his kingdom, and thus all women will give honor to their husbands, rich and poor alike." 21 This speech pleased the king and the governors, and the king did as Muchaeus had recommended. 22 The king sent the decree into all his kingdom, to every province in its own language, so that in every house respect would be shown to every husband.

[Esther 2]Esther becomes the new queen

1 After these things, the king's anger abated, and he no longer was concerned about Vashti or remembered what he had said and how he had condemned her. 2 Then the king's servants said, "Let beautiful and virtuous girls be sought out for the king. 3 The king shall appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, and they shall select beautiful young virgins to be brought to the harem in Susa, the capital. Let them be entrusted to the king's eunuch who is in charge of the women, and let ointments and whatever else they need be given them. 4 And the woman who pleases the king shall be queen instead of Vashti." This pleased the king, and he did so.

Mordecai and Esther

5 Now there was a Jew in Susa the capital whose name was Mordecai son of Jair son of Shimei son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin; 6 he had been taken captive from Jerusalem among those whom King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had captured. 7 And he had a foster child, the daughter of his father's brother, Aminadab, and her name was Esther. When her parents died, he brought her up to womanhood as his own. The girl was beautiful in appearance. 8 So, when the decree of the king was proclaimed, and many girls were gathered in Susa the capital in custody of Gai, Esther also was brought to Gai, who had custody of the women. 9 The girl pleased him and won his favor, and he quickly provided her with ointments and her portion of food, as well as seven maids chosen from the palace; he treated her and her maids with special favor in the harem. 10 Now Esther had not disclosed her people or country, for Mordecai had commanded her not to make it known. 11 And every day Mordecai walked in the courtyard of the harem, to see what would happen to Esther.

Esther becomes queen

12 Now the period after which a girl was to go to the king was twelve months. During this time the days of beautification are completed — six months while they are anointing themselves with oil of myrrh, and six months with spices and ointments for women. 13 Then she goes in to the king; she is handed to the person appointed, and goes with him from the harem to the king's palace. 14 In the evening she enters and in the morning she departs to the second harem, where Gai the king's eunuch is in charge of the women; and she does not go in to the king again unless she is summoned by name.

15 When the time was fulfilled for Esther daughter of Aminadab, the brother of Mordecai's father, to go in to the king, she neglected none of the things that Gai, the eunuch in charge of the women, had commanded. Now Esther found favor in the eyes of all who saw her. 16 So Esther went in to King Artaxerxes in the twelfth month, which is Adar, in the seventh year of his reign. 17 And the king loved Esther and she found favor beyond all the other virgins, so he put on her the queen's diadem. 18 Then the king gave a banquet lasting seven days for all his Friends and the officers to celebrate his marriage to Esther; and he granted a remission of taxes to those who were under his rule.

Mordecai and Esther save the king's life

19 Meanwhile Mordecai was serving in the courtyard. 20 Esther had not disclosed her country — such were the instructions of Mordecai; but she was to fear God and keep his laws, just as she had done when she was with him. So Esther did not change her mode of life.

21 Now the king's eunuchs, who were chief bodyguards, were angry because of Mordecai's advancement, and they plotted to kill King Artaxerxes. 22 The matter became known to Mordecai, and he warned Esther, who in turn revealed the plot to the king. 23 He investigated the two eunuchs and hanged them. Then the king ordered a memorandum to be deposited in the royal library in praise of the goodwill shown by Mordecai.

[Esther 3]

Haman plots to annihilate the Jews

1 After these events King Artaxerxes promoted Haman son of Hammedatha, a Bougean, advancing him and granting him precedence over all the king's Friends. 2 So all who were at court used to do obeisance to Haman, for so the king had commanded to be done. Mordecai, however, did not do obeisance. 3 Then the king's courtiers said to Mordecai, "Mordecai, why do you disobey the king's command?" 4 Day after day they spoke to him, but he would not listen to them. Then they informed Haman that Mordecai was resisting the king's command. Mordecai had told them that he was a Jew. 5 So when Haman learned that Mordecai was not doing obeisance to him, he became furiously angry, 6 and plotted to destroy all the Jews under Artaxerxes' rule.

7 In the twelfth year of King Artaxerxes Haman came to a decision by casting lots, taking the days and the months one by one, to fix on one day to destroy the whole race of Mordecai. The lot fell on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar.

8 Then Haman said to King Artaxerxes, "There is a certain nation scattered among the other nations in all your kingdom; their laws are different from those of every other nation, and they do not keep the laws of the king. It is not expedient for the king to tolerate them. 9 If it pleases the king, let it be decreed that they are to be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the king's treasury." 10 So the king took off his signet ring and gave it to Haman to seal the decree that was to be written against the Jews. 11 The king told Haman, "Keep the money, and do whatever you want with that nation."

12 So on the thirteenth day of the first month the king's secretaries were summoned, and in accordance with Haman's instructions they wrote in the name of King Artaxerxes to the magistrates and the governors in every province from India to Ethiopia. There were one hundred twenty-seven provinces in all, and the governors were addressed each in his own language. 13 Instructions were sent by couriers throughout all the empire of Artaxerxes to destroy the Jewish people on a given day of the twelfth month, which is Adar, and to plunder their goods.

ADDITION B[Esther 13]*The text of the king's letter authorizing the slaughter of the Jews

1 This is a copy of the letter: "The Great King, Artaxerxes, writes the following to the governors of the hundred twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia and to the officials under them:

2 "Having become ruler of many nations and master of the whole world (not elated with presumption of authority but always acting reasonably and with kindness), I have determined to settle the lives of my subjects in lasting tranquility and, in order to make my kingdom peaceable and open to travel throughout all its extent, to restore the peace desired by all people.

3 "When I asked my counselors how this might be accomplished, Haman — who excels among us in sound judgment, and is distinguished for his unchanging goodwill and steadfast fidelity, and has attained the second place in the kingdom — 4 pointed out to us that among all the nations in the world there is scattered a certain hostile people, who have laws contrary to those of every nation and continually disregard the ordinances of kings, so that the unifying of the kingdom that we honorably intend cannot be brought about. 5 We understand that this people, and it alone, stands constantly in opposition to every nation, perversely following a strange manner of life and laws, and is ill-disposed to our government, doing all the harm they can so that our kingdom may not attain stability.

6 "Therefore we have decreed that those indicated to you in the letters written by Haman, who is in charge of affairs and is our second father, shall all — wives and children included — be utterly destroyed by the swords of their enemies, without pity or restraint, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of this present year, 7 so that those who have long been hostile and remain so may in a single day go down in violence to Hades, and leave our government completely secure and untroubled hereafter."

END OF ADDITION B[Esther 3]*Haman and the king celebrate the publication of the decree

14 Copies of the document were posted in every province, and all the nations were ordered to be prepared for that day. 15 The matter was expedited also in Susa. And while the king and Haman caroused together, the city of Susa was thrown into confusion.

[Esther 4]Mordecai persuades Queen Esther to risk her life and save her people

1 When Mordecai learned of all that had been done, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth, and sprinkled himself with ashes; then he rushed through the street of the city, shouting loudly: "An innocent nation is being destroyed!" 2 He got as far as the king's gate, and there he stopped, because no one was allowed to enter the courtyard clothed in sackcloth and ashes. 3 And in every province where the king's proclamation had been posted there was a loud cry of mourning and lamentation among the Jews, and they put on sackcloth and ashes. 4 When the queen's maids and eunuchs came and told her, she was deeply troubled by what she heard had happened, and sent some clothes to Mordecai to put on instead of sackcloth; but he would not consent. 5 Then Esther summoned Hachratheus, the eunuch who attended her, and ordered him to get accurate information for her from Mordecai.

7 So Mordecai told him what had happened and how Haman had promised to pay ten thousand talents into the royal treasury to bring about the destruction of the Jews. 8 He also gave him a copy of what had been posted in Susa for their destruction, to show to Esther; and he told him to charge her to go in to the king and plead for his favor in behalf of the people. "Remember," he said, "the days when you were an ordinary person, being brought up under my care — for Haman, who stands next to the king, has spoken against us and demands our death. Call upon the Lord; then speak to the king in our behalf, and save us from death."

9 Hachratheus went in and told Esther all these things. 10 And she said to him, "Go to Mordecai and say, 11 'All nations of the empire know that if any man or woman goes to the king inside the inner court without being called, there is no escape for that person. Only the one to whom the king stretches out the golden scepter is safe — and it is now thirty days since I was called to go to the king.'"

12 When Hachratheus delivered her entire message to Mordecai, 13 Mordecai told him to go back and say to her, "Esther, do not say to yourself that you alone among all the Jews will escape alive. 14 For if you keep quiet at such a time as this, help and protection will come to the Jews from another quarter, but you and your father's family will perish. Yet, who knows whether it was not for such a time as this that you were made queen?" 15 Then Esther gave the messenger this answer to take back to Mordecai: 16 "Go and gather all the Jews who are in Susa and fast on my behalf; for three days and nights do not eat or drink, and my maids and I will also go without food. After that I will go to the king, contrary to the law, even if I must die." 17 So Mordecai went away and did what Esther had told him to do.

[Esther 13]

The prayers of Mordecai and Esther

8 Then Mordecai prayed to the Lord, calling to remembrance all the works of the Lord.

9 He said, "O Lord, Lord, you rule as King over all things, for the universe is in your power and there is no one who can oppose you when it is your will to save Israel, 10 for you have made heaven and earth and every wonderful thing under heaven. 11 You are Lord of all, and there is no one who can resist you, the Lord. 12 You know all things; you know, O Lord, that it was not in insolence or pride or for any love of glory that I did this, and refused to bow down to this proud Haman; 13 for I would have been willing to kiss the soles of his feet to save Israel! 14 But I did this so that I might not set human glory above the glory of God, and I will not bow down to anyone but you, who are my Lord; and I will not do these things in pride. 15 And now, O Lord

God and King, God of Abraham, spare your people; for the eyes of our foes are upon us to annihilate us, and they desire to destroy the inheritance that has been yours from the beginning. 16 Do not neglect your portion, which you redeemed for yourself out of the land of Egypt. 17 Hear my prayer, and have mercy upon your inheritance; turn our mourning into feasting that we may live and sing praise to your name, O Lord; do not destroy the lips of those who praise you."

18 And all Israel cried out mightily, for their death was before their eyes.

[Esther 14]

Esther humbly petitions God

1 Then Queen Esther, seized with deadly anxiety, fled to the Lord. 2 She took off her splendid apparel and put on the garments of distress and mourning, and instead of costly perfumes she covered her head with ashes and dung, and she utterly humbled her body; every part that she loved to adorn she covered with her tangled hair. 3 She prayed to the Lord God of Israel, and said: "O my Lord, you only are our king; help me, who am alone and have no helper but you, 4 for my danger is in my hand. 5 Ever since I was born I have heard in the tribe of my family that you, O Lord, took Israel out of all the nations, and our ancestors from among all their forebears, for an everlasting inheritance, and that you did for them all that you promised. 6 And now we have sinned before you, and you have handed us over to our enemies 7 because we glorified their gods. You are righteous, O Lord! 8 And now they are not satisfied that we are in bitter slavery, but they have covenanted with their idols 9 to abolish what your mouth has ordained, and to destroy your inheritance, to stop the mouths of those who praise you and to quench your altar and the glory of your house, 10 to open the mouths of the nations for the praise of vain idols, and to magnify forever a mortal king.

11 "O Lord, do not surrender your scepter to what has no being; and do not let them laugh at our downfall; but turn their plan against them, and make an example of him who began this against us. 12 Remember, O Lord; make yourself known in this time of our affliction, and give me courage, O King of the gods and Master of all dominion! 13 Put eloquent speech in my mouth before the lion, and turn his heart to hate the man who is fighting against us, so that there may be an end of him and those who agree with him. 14 But save us by your hand, and help me, who am alone and have no helper but you, O Lord. 15 You have knowledge of all things, and you know that I hate the splendor of the wicked and abhor the bed of the uncircumcised and of any alien. 16 You know my necessity — that I abhor the sign of my proud position, which is upon my head on days when I appear in public. I abhor it like a filthy rag, and I do not wear it on the days when I am at leisure. 17 And your servant has not eaten at Haman's table, and I have not honored the king's feast or drunk the wine of libations. 18 Your servant has had no joy since the day that I was brought here until now, except in you, O Lord God of Abraham. 19 O God, whose might is over all, hear the voice of the despairing, and save us from the hands of evildoers. And save me from my fear!"

[Esther 15]

Esther approaches the king

1 On the third day, when she ended her prayer, she took off the garments in which she had worshiped, and arrayed herself in splendid attire. 2 Then, majestically adorned, after invoking the aid of the all-seeing God and Savior, she took two maids with her; 3 on one she leaned gently for support, 4 while the other followed, carrying her train. 5 She was radiant with perfect beauty, and she looked happy, as if beloved, but her heart was frozen with fear. 6 When she had gone through all the doors, she stood before the king. He was seated on his royal throne, clothed in the full array of his majesty, all covered with gold and precious stones. He was most terrifying.

7 Lifting his face, flushed with splendor, he looked at her in fierce anger. The queen faltered, and turned pale and faint, and collapsed on the head of the maid who went in front of her. 8 Then God changed the spirit of the king to gentleness, and in alarm he sprang from his throne and took her in his arms until she came to herself. He comforted her with soothing words, and said to her, 9 "What is it, Esther? I am your husband. Take courage; 10 You shall not die, for our law applies only to our subjects. Come near."

11 Then he raised the golden scepter and touched her neck with it; 12 he embraced her, and said, "Speak to me." 13 She said to him, "I saw you, my lord, like an angel of God, and my heart was shaken with fear at your glory. 14 For you are wonderful, my lord, and your countenance is full of grace." 15 And while she was speaking, she fainted and fell. 16 Then the king was agitated, and all his servants tried to comfort her.

[Esther 5]

Esther invites the king and Haman to dinner

3 The king said to her, "What do you wish, Esther? What is your request? It shall be given you, even to half of my kingdom." 4 And Esther said, "Today is a special day for me. If it pleases the king, let him and Haman come to the dinner that I shall prepare today." 5 Then the king said, "Bring Haman quickly, so that we may do as Esther desires." So they both came to the dinner that Esther had spoken about. 6 While they were drinking wine, the king said to Esther, "What is it, Queen Esther? It shall be granted you." 7 She said, "My petition and request is: 8 if I have found favor in the sight of the king, let the king and Haman come to the dinner that I shall prepare them, and tomorrow I will do as I have done today."

Haman's happiness is spoiled

9 So Haman went out from the king joyful and glad of heart. But when he saw Mordecai the Jew in the courtyard, he was filled with anger. 10 Nevertheless, he went home and summoned his friends and his wife Zosara. 11 And he told them about his riches and the honor that the king had bestowed on him, and how he had advanced him to be the first in the kingdom. 12 And Haman said, "The queen did not invite anyone to the dinner with the king except me; and I am invited again tomorrow. 13 But these things give me no pleasure as long as I see Mordecai the Jew in the courtyard." 14 His wife Zosara and his friends said to him, "Let a gallows be made, fifty cubits high, and in the morning tell the king to have Mordecai hanged on it. Then, go merrily with the king to the dinner." This advice pleased Haman, and so the gallows was prepared.

[Esther 6]

Mordecai's triumph

1 That night the Lord took sleep from the king, so he gave orders to his secretary to bring the book of daily records, and to read to him. 2 He found the words written about Mordecai, how he had told the king about the two royal eunuchs who were on guard and sought to lay hands on King Artaxerxes. 3 The king said, "What honor or dignity did we bestow on Mordecai?" The king's servants said, "You have not done anything for him." 4 While the king was inquiring about the goodwill shown by Mordecai, Haman was in the courtyard. The king asked, "Who is in the courtyard?" Now Haman had come to speak to the king about hanging Mordecai on the gallows that he had prepared. 5 The servants of the king answered, "Haman is standing in the courtyard." And the king said, "Summon him." 6 Then the king said to Haman, "What shall I do for the person whom I wish to honor?" And Haman said to himself, "Whom would the king wish to honor more than me?" 7 So he said to the king, "For a person whom the king wishes to honor, 8 let the king's servants bring out the fine linen robe that the king has worn, and the horse on which the king rides, 9 and let both be given to one of the king's honored Friends, and let him robe the person whom the king loves and mount him on the horse, and let it be proclaimed through the open square of the city, saying, 'Thus shall it be done to everyone whom the king honors.'" 10 Then the king said to Haman, "You have made an excellent suggestion! Do just as you have said for Mordecai the Jew, who is on duty in the courtyard. And let nothing be omitted from what you have proposed." 11 So Haman got the robe and the horse; he put the robe on Mordecai and made him ride through the open square of the city, proclaiming, "Thus shall it be done to everyone whom the king wishes to honor." 12 Then

Mordecai returned to the courtyard, and Haman hurried back to his house, mourning and with his head covered. 13 Haman told his wife Zosara and his friends what had befallen him. His friends and his wife said to him, "If Mordecai is of the Jewish people, and you have begun to be humiliated before him, you will surely fall. You will not be able to defend yourself, because the living God is with him."

Esther's second banquet and Haman's fall

14 While they were still talking, the eunuchs arrived and hurriedly brought Haman to the banquet that Esther had prepared. [Esther 7] 1 So the king and Haman went in to drink with the queen. 2 And the second day, as they were drinking wine, the king said, "What is it, Queen Esther? What is your petition and what is your request? It shall be granted to you, even to half of my kingdom." 3 She answered and said, "If I have found favor with the king, let my life be granted me at my petition, and my people at my request. 4 For we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, plundered, and made slaves — we and our children — male and female slaves. This has come to my knowledge. Our antagonist brings shame on the king's court." 5 Then the king said, "Who is the person that would dare to do this thing?" 6 Esther said, "Our enemy is this evil man Haman!" At this, Haman was terrified in the presence of the king and queen.

7 The king rose from the banquet and went into the garden, and Haman began to beg for his life from the queen, for he saw that he was in serious trouble. 8 When the king returned from the garden, Haman had thrown himself on the couch, pleading with the queen. The king said, "Will he dare even assault my wife in my own house?" Haman, when he heard, turned away his face. 9 Then Bugathan, one of the eunuchs, said to the king, "Look, Haman has even prepared a gallows for Mordecai, who gave information of concern to the king; it is standing at Haman's house, a gallows fifty cubits high." So the king said, "Let Haman be hanged on that." 10 So Haman was hanged on the gallows he had prepared for Mordecai. With that the anger of the king abated.

1 On that very day King Artaxerxes granted to Esther all the property of the persecutor Haman. Mordecai was summoned by the king, for Esther had told the king that he was related to her. 2 The king took the ring that had been taken from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai; and Esther set Mordecai over everything that had been Haman's.

3 Then she spoke once again to the king and, falling at his feet, she asked him to avert all the evil that Haman had planned against the Jews. 4 The king extended his golden scepter to Esther, and she rose and stood before the king. 5 Esther said, "If it pleases you, and if I have found favor, let an order be sent rescinding the letters that Haman wrote and sent to destroy the Jews in your kingdom. 6 How can I look on the ruin of my people? How can I be safe if my ancestral nation is destroyed?" 7 The king said to Esther, "Now that I have granted all of Haman's property to you and have hanged him on a tree because he acted against the Jews, what else do you request? 8 Write in my name what you think best and seal it with my ring; for whatever is written at the king's command and sealed with my ring cannot be contravened."

9 The secretaries were summoned on the twenty-third day of the first month, that is, Nisan, in the same year; and all that he commanded with respect to the Jews was given in writing to the administrators and governors of the provinces from India to Ethiopia, one hundred twenty-seven provinces, to each province in its own language. 10 The edict was written with the king's authority and sealed with his ring, and sent out by couriers. 11 He ordered the Jews in every city to observe their own laws, to defend themselves, and to act as they wished against their opponents and enemies 12 on a certain day, the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is Adar, throughout all the kingdom of Artaxerxes.

ADDITION E

[Esther 16]

The king's second letter denounces Haman, praises Mordecai and Esther, and directs his subjects to help the Jews

1 The following is a copy of this letter:

"The Great King, Artaxerxes, to the governors of the provinces from India to Ethiopia, one hundred twenty-seven provinces, and to those who are loyal to our government, greetings.

2 "Many people, the more they are honored with the most generous kindness of their benefactors, the more proud do they become, 3 and not only seek to injure our subjects, but in their inability to stand prosperity, they even undertake to scheme against their own benefactors. 4 They not only take away thankfulness from others, but, carried away by the boasts of those who know nothing of goodness, they even assume that they will escape the evil-hating justice of God, who always sees everything. 5 And often many of those who are set in places of authority have been made in part responsible for the shedding of innocent blood, and have been involved in irremediable calamities, by the persuasion of friends who have been entrusted with the administration of public affairs, 6 when these persons by the false trickery of their evil natures beguile the sincere goodwill of their sovereigns.

7 "What has been wickedly accomplished through the pestilent behavior of those who exercise authority unworthily can be seen, not so much from the more ancient records that we hand on, as from investigation of matters close at hand. 8 In the future we will take care to render our kingdom quiet and peaceable for all, 9 by changing our methods and always judging what comes before our eyes with more equitable consideration. 10 For Haman son of Hammedatha, a Macedonian (really an alien to the Persian blood, and quite devoid of our kindness), having become our guest, 11 enjoyed so fully the goodwill that we have for every nation that he was called our father and was continually bowed down to by all as the person second to the royal throne. 12 But, unable to restrain his arrogance, he undertook to deprive us of our kingdom and our life, 13 and with intricate craft and deceit asked for the destruction of Mordecai, our savior and perpetual benefactor, and of Esther, the blameless partner of our kingdom, together with their whole nation. 14 He thought that by these methods he would catch us undefended and would transfer the kingdom of the Persians to the Macedonians.

15 "But we find that the Jews, who were consigned to annihilation by this thrice-accursed man, are not evildoers, but are governed by most righteous laws 16 and are children of the living God, most high, most mighty, who has directed the kingdom both for us and for our ancestors in the most excellent order.

17 "You will therefore do well not to put in execution the letters sent by Haman son of Hammedatha, 18 since he, the one who did these things, has been hanged at the gate of Susa with all his household — for God, who rules over all things, has speedily inflicted on him the punishment that he deserved.

19 "Therefore post a copy of this letter publicly in every place, and permit the Jews to live under their own laws. 20 And give them reinforcements, so that on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, on that very day, they may defend themselves against those who attack them at the time of oppression. 21 For God, who rules over all things, has made this day to be a joy for his chosen people instead of a day of destruction for them.

22 "Therefore you shall observe this with all good cheer as a notable day among your commemorative festivals, 23 so that both now and hereafter it may represent deliverance for you and the loyal Persians, but that it may be a reminder of destruction for those who plot against us.

24 "Every city and country, without exception, that does not act accordingly shall be destroyed in wrath with spear and fire. It shall be made not only impassable for human beings, but also most hateful to wild animals and birds for all time.

[Esther 8]

Dispatch and posting of the king's decree

13 "Let copies of the decree be posted conspicuously in all the kingdom, and let all the Jews be ready on that day to fight against their enemies."

14 So the messengers on horseback set out with all speed to perform what the king had commanded; and the decree was published also in Susa. 15 Mordecai went out dressed in the royal robe and wearing a gold crown and a turban of purple linen. The people in Susa rejoiced on seeing him. 16 And the Jews had light and gladness 17 in every city and province wherever the decree was published; wherever the proclamation was made, the Jews had joy and gladness, a banquet and a holiday. And many of the Gentiles were circumcised and became Jews out of fear of the Jews.

[Esther 9]

The Jews triumph over their enemies

1 Now on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is Adar, the decree written by the king arrived. 2 On that same day the enemies of the Jews perished; no one resisted, because they feared them. 3 The chief provincial governors, the princes, and the royal secretaries were paying honor to the Jews, because fear of Mordecai weighed upon them. 4 The king's decree required that Mordecai's name be held in honor throughout the kingdom. 6 Now in the city of Susa the Jews killed five hundred people, 7 including Pharsannestain, Delphon, Phasga, 8 Pharadatha, Barea, Sarbacha, 9 Marmasima, Aruphaeus, Arsaesus, Zabutheus, 10 the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the Bougean, the enemy of the Jews — and they indulged themselves in plunder.

11 That very day the number of those killed in Susa was reported to the king. 12 The king said to Esther, "In Susa, the capital, the Jews have destroyed five hundred people. What do you suppose they have done in the surrounding countryside? Whatever more you ask will be done for you." 13 And Esther said to the king, "Let the Jews be allowed to do the same tomorrow. Also, hang up the bodies of Haman's ten sons." 14 So he permitted this to be done, and handed over to the Jews of the city the bodies of Haman's sons to hang up. 15 The Jews who were in Susa gathered on the fourteenth and killed three hundred people, but took no plunder.

16 Now the other Jews in the kingdom gathered to defend themselves, and got relief from their enemies. They destroyed fifteen thousand of them, but did not engage in plunder. 17 On the fourteenth day they rested and made that same day a day of rest, celebrating it with joy and gladness. 18 The Jews who were in Susa, the capital, came together also on the fourteenth, but did not rest. They celebrated the fifteenth with joy and gladness. 19 On this account then the Jews who are scattered around the country outside Susa keep the fourteenth of Adar as a joyful holiday, and send presents of food to one another, while those who live in the large cities keep the fifteenth day of Adar as their joyful holiday, also sending presents to one another.

20 Mordecai recorded these things in a book, and sent it to the Jews in the kingdom of Artaxerxes both near and far, 21 telling them that they should keep the fourteenth and fifteenth days of Adar, 22 for on these days the Jews got relief from their enemies. The whole month (namely, Adar), in which their condition had been changed from sorrow into gladness and from a time of distress to a holiday, was to be celebrated as a time for feasting and gladness and for sending presents of food to their friends and to the poor.

23 So the Jews accepted what Mordecai had written to them 24 — how Haman son of Hammedatha, the Macedonian, fought against them, how he made a decree and cast lots to destroy them, 25 and how he went in to the king, telling him to hang Mordecai; but the wicked plot he had devised against the Jews came back upon himself, and he and his sons were hanged. 26 Therefore these days were called "Purim," because of the lots (for in their language this is the word that means "lots"). And so, because of what was written in this letter, and because of what they had experienced in this affair and what had befallen them, Mordecai established this festival, 27 and the Jews took upon themselves, upon their descendants, and upon all who would join them, to observe it without fail. These days of Purim should be a memorial and kept from generation to generation, in every city, family, and country. 28 These days of Purim were to be observed for all time, and the commemoration of them was never to cease among their descendants.

29 Then Queen Esther daughter of Aminadab along with Mordecai the Jew wrote down what they had done, and gave full authority to the letter about Purim. 30 Letters were sent to all the Jews, to the one hundred twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, in words of peace and truth. 31 And Mordecai and Queen Esther established this decision on their own responsibility, pledging their own well-being to the plan. 32 Esther established it by a decree forever, and it was written for a memorial.

[Esther 10]

The greatness of Ahasuerus and Mordecai

1 The king levied a tax upon his kingdom both by land and sea. 2 And as for his power and bravery, and the wealth and glory of his kingdom, they were recorded in the annals of the kings of the Persians and the Medes. 3 Mordecai acted with authority on behalf of King Artaxerxes and was great in the kingdom, as well as honored by the Jews. His way of life was such as to make him beloved to his whole nation.

Epilogue: Mordecai's dream explained

4 And Mordecai said, "These things have come from God; 5 for I remember the dream that I had concerning these matters, and none of them has failed to be fulfilled. 6 There was the little spring that became a river, and there was light and sun and abundant water — the river is Esther, whom the king married and made queen. 7 The two dragons are Haman and myself. 8 The nations are those that gathered to destroy the name of the Jews. 9 And my nation, this is Israel, who cried out to God and was saved. The Lord has saved his people; the Lord has rescued us from all these evils; God has done great signs and wonders, wonders that have never happened among the nations. 10 For this purpose he made two lots, one for the people of God and one for all the nations, 11 and these two lots came to the hour and moment and day of decision before God and among all the nations. 12 And God remembered his people and vindicated his inheritance. 13 So they will observe these days in the month of Adar, on the fourteenth and fifteenth of that month, with an assembly and joy and gladness before God, from generation to generation forever among his people Israel."

[Esther 11]

The Colophon to Greek Esther

1 In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who said that he was a priest and a Levite, and his son Ptolemy brought to Egypt the preceding Letter about Purim, which they said was authentic and had been translated by Lysimachus son of Ptolemy, one of the residents of Jerusalem.

THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON

Introduction

The Wisdom of Solomon was written as a message of encouragement and exhortation for Jews living somewhere in the Diaspora (the Jewish communities outside the land of Israel) during the Greco-Roman era. Immersed in a cosmopolitan, pagan culture, one that generally viewed Judaism with suspicion if not contempt, many Jews felt hard-pressed to remain loyal to the basic principles and practices of their faith. This book simultaneously affirms the basis of that faith and critiques those who oppose it, in the interests of promoting adherence to Jewish traditions in changing, difficult circumstances.

Although the author claims to be King Solomon (with parts of ch 9 based on his prayer for wisdom in 1 Kings 3.6-9), this ascription has been recognized as a literary fiction since ancient times. Instead, the author is an anonymous Hellenistic Jew writing sometime in the late first century BCE or early first century CE. The book's bitter polemic against Egyptian religion (see, for instance, ch 12) suggests Alexandria as a location, and anti-Jewish uprisings in that city may provide part of the background for the author's reflections.

Composed in Greek, this book is among the most Hellenized works of the Apocrypha; that is, it reflects extensive interaction with Greek literary and philosophical conventions (see, for example, the use of the standard list of cardinal virtues in 8.7). The author's intention, however, is not to promote the achievements of Greek culture, but to appropriate them, so as to prove the excellence of Judaism in categories relevant to his readers' multicultural environment. As for its literary genre, many modern critics describe the Wisdom of Solomon as a form of didactic exhortation that demonstrates the superiority of a particular way of life or school of philosophy (in this case, Judaism) over its competitors and detractors. (This is technically called "protreptic discourse.") So, for example, while the author can describe wisdom as an emanation of divine power that pervades the entire world, he contends that it comes to most perfect expression in God's revelation to Israel, and depicts it in terms familiar from the personified Wisdom (Greek, "Sophia") of biblical texts like Proverbs 8, Job 28, Sirach 24, and Baruch 3-4. Above all, the author is concerned to portray wisdom as the guiding force of divine providence, saving righteous Israelites and punishing their wicked adversaries. In conjunction with this aim, the book also asserts the significance of Jewish faith in terms of the ultimate benefits it confers. Thus persecutors, sinners, and idolaters face divine retribution in the afterlife, while the faithful will "live forever" (5.15). This emphasis on immortality represents one of the book's distinctive features, as well as something of a new development in Jewish thought (see 3.4n).

The book consists of three major sections. The first, chs 1-6, contrasts the lives of the just and the wicked, dramatizing the eschatological destinies of the two groups. The section begins and ends with exhortation to seek wisdom and righteousness (1.1-15; 6.1-25). The next section, chs 7-10, celebrates the figure of divine Sophia. The author's persona as Solomon emerges most clearly here, as the king describes wisdom and his pursuit of her. The third section, chs 11-19, adopts the approach of historical comparison, presenting an elaborate system of contrasts based largely on Exodus 7-14. A series of digressions in 11.17-15.19 explains why God's judgment manifested itself differently in dealing with the Egyptians and the Israelites. This adaptation of the Exodus story is meant to complement the arguments of the first two sections, providing biblical examples of the righteous and the unrighteous, and demonstrating how the power of divine wisdom operates in human history.

This book is included among the deuterocanonical books of the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches, but is considered one of the Apocrypha by the Protestant churches.

[Wisdom of Solomon 1]A discourse contrasting the righteous and the wicked; Prologue

- 1 Love righteousness, you rulers of the earth,
 think of the Lord in goodness
 and seek him with sincerity of heart;
- 2 because he is found by those who do not put him to the test,
 and manifests himself to those who do not distrust him.
- 3 For perverse thoughts separate people from God,
 and when his power is tested, it exposes the foolish;
- 4 because wisdom will not enter a deceitful soul,
 or dwell in a body enslaved to sin.
- 5 For a holy and disciplined spirit will flee from deceit,
 and will leave foolish thoughts behind,
 and will be ashamed at the approach of unrighteousness.
- 6 For wisdom is a kindly spirit,
 but will not free blasphemers from the guilt of their words;
 because God is witness of their inmost feelings,
 and a true observer of their hearts, and a hearer of their tongues.
- 7 Because the spirit of the Lord has filled the world,
 and that which holds all things together knows what is said,
- 8 therefore those who utter unrighteous things will not escape notice,
 and justice, when it punishes, will not pass them by.
- 9 For inquiry will be made into the counsels of the ungodly,
 and a report of their words will come to the Lord,
 to convict them of their lawless deeds;
- 10 because a jealous ear hears all things,
 and the sound of grumbling does not go unheard.
- 11 Beware then of useless grumbling,
 and keep your tongue from slander;
 because no secret word is without result,
 and a lying mouth destroys the soul.
- 12 Do not invite death by the error of your life,
 or bring on destruction by the works of your hands;
- 13 because God did not make death,
 and he does not delight in the death of the living.

- 14 For he created all things so that they might exist;
 the generative forces of the world are wholesome,
 and there is no destructive poison in them,
 and the dominion of Hades is not on earth.
- 15 For righteousness is immortal.

The deluded reasoning of the ungodly

- 16 But the ungodly by their words and deeds summoned death;
 considering him a friend, they pined away
 and made a covenant with him, because they are fit to belong to his company.

[Wisdom of Solomon 2]

- 1 For they reasoned unsoundly, saying to themselves,
 "Short and sorrowful is our life,
 and there is no remedy when a life comes to its end,
 and no one has been known to return from Hades.
- 2 For we were born by mere chance, and hereafter we shall be as though we had never been,
 for the breath in our nostrils is smoke,
 and reason is a spark kindled by the beating of our hearts;
- 3 when it is extinguished, the body will turn to ashes,
 and the spirit will dissolve like empty air.
- 4 Our name will be forgotten in time,
 and no one will remember our works;
 our life will pass away like the traces of a cloud,
 and be scattered like mist
 that is chased by the rays of the sun
 and overcome by its heat.
- 5 For our allotted time is the passing of a shadow,
 and there is no return from our death,
 because it is sealed up and no one turns back.
- 6 "Come, therefore, let us enjoy the good things that exist,
 and make use of the creation to the full as in youth.

- 7 Let us take our fill of costly wine and perfumes,
and let no flower of spring pass us by.
- 8 Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds before they wither.
- 9 Let none of us fail to share in our revelry;
everywhere let us leave signs of enjoyment,
because this is our portion, and this our lot.
- 10 Let us oppress the righteous poor man;
let us not spare the widow
or regard the gray hairs of the aged.
- 11 But let our might be our law of right,
for what is weak proves itself to be useless."
- 12 "Let us lie in wait for the righteous man,
because he is inconvenient to us and opposes our actions;
he reproaches us for sins against the law,
and accuses us of sins against our training.
- 13 He professes to have knowledge of God,
and calls himself a child of the Lord.
- 14 He became to us a reproof of our thoughts;
15 the very sight of him is a burden to us,
because his manner of life is unlike that of others,
and his ways are strange.
- 16 We are considered by him as something base,
and he avoids our ways as unclean;
he calls the last end of the righteous happy,
and boasts that God is his father.
- 17 Let us see if his words are true,
and let us test what will happen at the end of his life;
- 18 for if the righteous man is God's child, he will help him,
and will deliver him from the hand of his adversaries.
- 19 Let us test him with insult and torture,
so that we may find out how gentle he is,
and make trial of his forbearance.
- 20 Let us condemn him to a shameful death,
for, according to what he says, he will be protected."
- 21 Thus they reasoned, but they were led astray,
for their wickedness blinded them,

22 and they did not know the secret purposes of God,
 nor hoped for the wages of holiness,
 nor discerned the prize for blameless souls;
 23 for God created us for incorruption,
 and made us in the image of his own eternity, 24 but through the devil's envy death entered the world,
 and those who belong to his company experience it.

[Wisdom of Solomon 3]
 The reward of the righteous

1 But the souls of the righteous are in the hand of God,
 and no torment will ever touch them.
 2 In the eyes of the foolish they seemed to have died,
 and their departure was thought to be a disaster,
 3 and their going from us to be their destruction;
 but they are at peace.
 4 For though in the sight of others they were punished,
 their hope is full of immortality.
 5 Having been disciplined a little, they will receive great good,
 because God tested them and found them worthy of himself;
 6 like gold in the furnace he tried them,
 and like a sacrificial burnt offering he accepted them.
 7 In the time of their visitation they will shine forth,
 and will run like sparks through the stubble.
 8 They will govern nations and rule over peoples,
 and the Lord will reign over them forever.
 9 Those who trust in him will understand truth,
 and the faithful will abide with him in love,
 because grace and mercy are upon his holy ones,
 and he watches over his elect.

Rewards and punishments

10 But the ungodly will be punished as their reasoning deserves, those who disregarded the righteous
 and rebelled against the Lord;

- 11 for those who despise wisdom and instruction are miserable.
 Their hope is vain, their labors are unprofitable,
 and their works are useless.
- 12 Their wives are foolish, and their children evil;
 13 their offspring are accursed.
 For blessed is the barren woman who is undefiled,
 who has not entered into a sinful union;
 she will have fruit when God examines souls.
- 14 Blessed also is the eunuch whose hands have done no lawless deed,
 and who has not devised wicked things against the Lord;
 for special favor will be shown him for his faithfulness,
 and a place of great delight in the temple of the Lord.
- 15 For the fruit of good labors is renowned,
 and the root of understanding does not fail.
- 16 But children of adulterers will not come to maturity,
 and the offspring of an unlawful union will perish.
- 17 Even if they live long they will be held of no account,
 and finally their old age will be without honor.
- 18 If they die young, they will have no hope
 and no consolation on the day of judgment.
- 19 For the end of an unrighteous generation is grievous.

[Wisdom of Solomon 4]

- 1 Better than this is childlessness with virtue,
 for in the memory of virtue is immortality,
 because it is known both by God and by mortals.
- 2 When it is present, people imitate it,
 and they long for it when it has gone;
 throughout all time it marches, crowned in triumph,
 victor in the contest for prizes that are undefiled.
- 3 But the prolific brood of the ungodly will be of no use, and none of their illegitimate seedlings will strike a deep root or take a firm hold.
- 4 For even if they put forth boughs for a while,
 standing insecurely they will be shaken by the wind,
 and by the violence of the winds they will be uprooted.

- 5 The branches will be broken off before they come to maturity,
and their fruit will be useless,
not ripe enough to eat, and good for nothing.
- 6 For children born of unlawful unions are witnesses of evil against their parents when God examines them.

The blessedness of the righteous despite early death

- 7 But the righteous, though they die early, will be at rest.
- 8 For old age is not honored for length of time,
or measured by number of years;
- 9 but understanding is gray hair for anyone,
and a blameless life is ripe old age.
- 10 There were some who pleased God and were loved by him,
and while living among sinners were taken up.
- 11 They were caught up so that evil might not change their understanding
or guile deceive their souls.
- 12 For the fascination of wickedness obscures what is good,
and roving desire perverts the innocent mind.
- 13 Being perfected in a short time, they fulfilled long years;
- 14 for their souls were pleasing to the Lord,
therefore he took them quickly from the midst of wickedness.
- 15 Yet the peoples saw and did not understand,
or take such a thing to heart,
that God's grace and mercy are with his elect,
and that he watches over his holy ones.
- 16 The righteous who have died will condemn the ungodly who are living, and youth that is quickly perfected will condemn the prolonged old age of the unrighteous.
- 17 For they will see the end of the wise,
and will not understand what the Lord purposed for them,
and for what he kept them safe.

- 18 The unrighteous will see, and will have contempt for them,
 but the Lord will laugh them to scorn.
 After this they will become dishonored corpses,
 and an outrage among the dead forever;
- 19 because he will dash them speechless to the ground,
 and shake them from the foundations;
 they will be left utterly dry and barren,
 and they will suffer anguish,
 and the memory of them will perish.

The final judgment

- 20 They will come with dread when their sins are reckoned up,
 and their lawless deeds will convict them to their face.

[Wisdom of Solomon 5]

- 1 Then the righteous will stand with great confidence in the presence of those who have oppressed them
 and those who make light of their labors.
- 2 When the unrighteous see them, they will be shaken with dreadful fear, and they will be amazed at the unexpected salvation of the righteous.
- 3 They will speak to one another in repentance,
 and in anguish of spirit they will groan, and say,
- 4 "These are persons whom we once held in derision
 and made a byword of reproach — fools that we were!
 We thought that their lives were madness
 and that their end was without honor.
- 5 Why have they been numbered among the children of God?
 And why is their lot among the saints?
- 6 So it was we who strayed from the way of truth,
 and the light of righteousness did not shine on us,
 and the sun did not rise upon us.

- 7 We took our fill of the paths of lawlessness and destruction,
and we journeyed through trackless deserts,
but the way of the Lord we have not known.
- 8 What has our arrogance profited us?
And what good has our boasted wealth brought us?
- 9 "All those things have vanished like a shadow,
and like a rumor that passes by;
10 like a ship that sails through the billowy water,
and when it has passed no trace can be found,
no track of its keel in the waves;
11 or as, when a bird flies through the air,
no evidence of its passage is found;
the light air, lashed by the beat of its pinions
and pierced by the force of its rushing flight,
is traversed by the movement of its wings,
and afterward no sign of its coming is found there;
12 or as, when an arrow is shot at a target,
the air, thus divided, comes together at once,
so that no one knows its pathway.
- 13 So we also, as soon as we were born, ceased to be,
and we had no sign of virtue to show,
but were consumed in our wickedness."
- 14 Because the hope of the ungodly is like thistledown carried by the wind, and like a light frost driven away by a storm;
it is dispersed like smoke before the wind,
and it passes like the remembrance of a guest who stays
but a day.
- 15 But the righteous live forever,
and their reward is with the Lord;
the Most High takes care of them.
- 16 Therefore they will receive a glorious crown and a beautiful diadem from the hand of the Lord,
because with his right hand he will cover them,
and with his arm he will shield them.

- 17 The Lord will take his zeal as his whole armor,
and will arm all creation to repel his enemies;
- 18 he will put on righteousness as a breastplate,
and wear impartial justice as a helmet;
- 19 he will take holiness as an invincible shield, 20 and sharpen stern wrath for a sword,
and creation will join with him to fight against his frenzied foes.
- 21 Shafts of lightning will fly with true aim,
and will leap from the clouds to the target, as from a well-drawn bow,
- 22 and hailstones full of wrath will be hurled as from a catapult;
the water of the sea will rage against them,
and rivers will relentlessly overwhelm them;
- 23 a mighty wind will rise against them,
and like a tempest it will winnow them away.
Lawlessness will lay waste the whole earth,
and evildoing will overturn the thrones of rulers.

[Wisdom of Solomon 6]
Exhortation to seek wisdom

- 1 Listen therefore, O kings, and understand;
learn, O judges of the ends of the earth.
- 2 Give ear, you that rule over multitudes,
and boast of many nations.
- 3 For your dominion was given you from the Lord,
and your sovereignty from the Most High;
he will search out your works and inquire into your plans.
- 4 Because as servants of his kingdom you did not rule rightly,
or keep the law,
or walk according to the purpose of God,
- 5 he will come upon you terribly and swiftly,
because severe judgment falls on those in high places.
- 6 For the lowliest may be pardoned in mercy,
but the mighty will be mightily tested.

- 7 For the Lord of all will not stand in awe of anyone,
or show deference to greatness;
because he himself made both small and great,
and he takes thought for all alike.
- 8 But a strict inquiry is in store for the mighty.
- 9 To you then, O monarchs, my words are directed,
so that you may learn wisdom and not transgress.
- 10 For they will be made holy who observe holy things in holiness, and those who have been taught them will find a defense.
- 11 Therefore set your desire on my words;
long for them, and you will be instructed.
- 12 Wisdom is radiant and unfading,
and she is easily discerned by those who love her,
and is found by those who seek her.
- 13 She hastens to make herself known to those who desire her.
- 14 One who rises early to seek her will have no difficulty,
for she will be found sitting at the gate.
- 15 To fix one's thought on her is perfect understanding,
and one who is vigilant on her account will soon be free
from care,
- 16 because she goes about seeking those worthy of her,
and she graciously appears to them in their paths,
and meets them in every thought.
- 17 The beginning of wisdom is the most sincere desire for instruction,
and concern for instruction is love of her,
- 18 and love of her is the keeping of her laws,
and giving heed to her laws is assurance of immortality,
- 19 and immortality brings one near to God;
- 20 so the desire for wisdom leads to a kingdom.
- 21 Therefore if you delight in thrones and scepters, O monarchs over the peoples, honor wisdom, so that you may reign forever.

- 22 I will tell you what wisdom is and how she came to be,
 and I will hide no secrets from you,
 but I will trace her course from the beginning of creation,
 and make knowledge of her clear,
 and I will not pass by the truth;
- 23 nor will I travel in the company of sickly envy,
 for envy does not associate with wisdom.
- 24 The multitude of the wise is the salvation of the world,
 and a sensible king is the stability of any people.
- 25 Therefore be instructed by my words, and you will profit.

[Wisdom of Solomon 7]

King Solomon and the quest for wisdom; Solomon's Speech

- 1 I also am mortal, like everyone else,
 a descendant of the first-formed child of earth;
 and in the womb of a mother I was molded into flesh,
- 2 within the period of ten months, compacted with blood,
 from the seed of a man and the pleasure of marriage.
- 3 And when I was born, I began to breathe the common air,
 and fell upon the kindred earth;
 my first sound was a cry, as is true of all.
- 4 I was nursed with care in swaddling cloths.
- 5 For no king has had a different beginning of existence;
- 6 there is for all one entrance into life, and one way out.
- 7 Therefore I prayed, and understanding was given me;
 I called on God, and the spirit of wisdom came to me.
- 8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones,
 and I accounted wealth as nothing in comparison with her.
- 9 Neither did I liken to her any priceless gem,
 because all gold is but a little sand in her sight,
 and silver will be accounted as clay before her.
- 10 I loved her more than health and beauty,
 and I chose to have her rather than light,
 because her radiance never ceases.
- 11 All good things came to me along with her,
 and in her hands uncounted wealth.

- 12 I rejoiced in them all, because wisdom leads them;
but I did not know that she was their mother.
- 13 I learned without guile and I impart without grudging;
I do not hide her wealth,
- 14 for it is an unfailing treasure for mortals;
those who get it obtain friendship with God,
commended for the gifts that come from instruction.
- 15 May God grant me to speak with judgment,
and to have thoughts worthy of what I have received;
for he is the guide even of wisdom
and the corrector of the wise.
- 16 For both we and our words are in his hand,
as are all understanding and skill in crafts.
- 17 For it is he who gave me unerring knowledge of what exists, to know the structure of the world and the activity of the elements;
- 18 the beginning and end and middle of times,
the alternations of the solstices and the changes of the seasons,
- 19 the cycles of the year and the constellations of the stars, 20 the natures of animals and the tempers of wild animals,
the powers of spirits and the thoughts of human beings,
the varieties of plants and the virtues of roots;
- 21 I learned both what is secret and what is manifest,
22 for wisdom, the fashioner of all things, taught me.

The divine essence and activity of wisdom

There is in her a spirit that is intelligent, holy,
unique, manifold, subtle,
mobile, clear, unpolluted,
distinct, invulnerable, loving the good, keen,
irresistible, 23 beneficent, humane,
steadfast, sure, free from anxiety,
all-powerful, overseeing all,
and penetrating through all spirits
that are intelligent, pure, and altogether subtle.

- 24 For wisdom is more mobile than any motion;
because of her pureness she pervades and penetrates all things.
- 25 For she is a breath of the power of God,
and a pure emanation of the glory of the Almighty;
therefore nothing defiled gains entrance into her.
- 26 For she is a reflection of eternal light,
a spotless mirror of the working of God,
and an image of his goodness.
- 27 Although she is but one, she can do all things,
and while remaining in herself, she renews all things;
in every generation she passes into holy souls
and makes them friends of God, and prophets;
- 28 for God loves nothing so much as the person who lives with wisdom.
- 29 She is more beautiful than the sun,
and excels every constellation of the stars.
Compared with the light she is found to be superior,
- 30 for it is succeeded by the night,
but against wisdom evil does not prevail.

[Wisdom of Solomon 8]

- 1 She reaches mightily from one end of the earth to the other,
and she orders all things well.

The many benefits of a relationship with wisdom

- 2 I loved her and sought her from my youth;
I desired to take her for my bride,
and became enamored of her beauty.
- 3 She glorifies her noble birth by living with God,
and the Lord of all loves her.
- 4 For she is an initiate in the knowledge of God,
and an associate in his works.
- 5 If riches are a desirable possession in life,
what is richer than wisdom, the active cause of all things?
- 6 And if understanding is effective,
who more than she is fashioner of what exists?

- 7 And if anyone loves righteousness,
her labors are virtues;
for she teaches self-control and prudence,
justice and courage;
nothing in life is more profitable for mortals than these.
- 8 And if anyone longs for wide experience,
she knows the things of old, and infers the things to come;
she understands turns of speech and the solutions of riddles;
she has foreknowledge of signs and wonders
and of the outcome of seasons and times.
- 9 Therefore I determined to take her to live with me, knowing that she would give me good counsel
and encouragement in cares and grief.
- 10 Because of her I shall have glory among the multitudes and honor in the presence of the elders, though I am young.
- 11 I shall be found keen in judgment,
and in the sight of rulers I shall be admired.
- 12 When I am silent they will wait for me,
and when I speak they will give heed;
if I speak at greater length,
they will put their hands on their mouths.
- 13 Because of her I shall have immortality,
and leave an everlasting remembrance to those who come after me.
- 14 I shall govern peoples,
and nations will be subject to me;
- 15 dread monarchs will be afraid of me when they hear of me;
among the people I shall show myself capable, and courageous in war.
- 16 When I enter my house, I shall find rest with her;
for companionship with her has no bitterness,
and life with her has no pain, but gladness and joy.
- 17 When I considered these things inwardly,
and pondered in my heart
that in kinship with wisdom there is immortality,

18 and in friendship with her, pure delight,
 and in the labors of her hands, unfailing wealth,
 and in the experience of her company, understanding,
 and renown in sharing her words,
 I went about seeking how to get her for myself.
 19 As a child I was naturally gifted,
 and a good soul fell to my lot;
 20 or rather, being good, I entered an undefiled body.

Solomon's prayer for wisdom

21 But I perceived that I would not possess wisdom unless God gave her to me — and it was a mark of insight to know whose gift
 she was — so I appealed to the Lord and implored him,
 and with my whole heart I said:

[Wisdom of Solomon 9]

1 "O God of my ancestors and Lord of mercy,
 who have made all things by your word,
 2 and by your wisdom have formed humankind
 to have dominion over the creatures you have made,
 3 and rule the world in holiness and righteousness,
 and pronounce judgment in uprightness of soul, 4 give me the wisdom that sits by your throne,
 and do not reject me from among your servants.
 5 For I am your servant the son of your serving girl,
 a man who is weak and short-lived,
 with little understanding of judgment and laws;
 6 for even one who is perfect among human beings will be regarded as nothing without the wisdom that comes from you.
 7 You have chosen me to be king of your people
 and to be judge over your sons and daughters.
 8 You have given command to build a temple on your holy mountain,
 and an altar in the city of your habitation,
 a copy of the holy tent that you prepared from the beginning.

- 9 With you is wisdom, she who knows your works
and was present when you made the world;
she understands what is pleasing in your sight
and what is right according to your commandments.
- 10 Send her forth from the holy heavens,
and from the throne of your glory send her,
that she may labor at my side,
and that I may learn what is pleasing to you.
- 11 For she knows and understands all things,
and she will guide me wisely in my actions
and guard me with her glory.
- 12 Then my works will be acceptable,
and I shall judge your people justly,
and shall be worthy of the throne of my father.
- 13 For who can learn the counsel of God?
Or who can discern what the Lord wills?
- 14 For the reasoning of mortals is worthless,
and our designs are likely to fail;
- 15 for a perishable body weighs down the soul,
and this earthy tent burdens the thoughtful mind.
- 16 We can hardly guess at what is on earth,
and what is at hand we find with labor;
but who has traced out what is in the heavens?
- 17 Who has learned your counsel, unless you have given wisdom
and sent your holy spirit from on high?
- 18 And thus the paths of those on earth were set right,
and people were taught what pleases you,
and were saved by wisdom."

[Wisdom of Solomon 10]

Historical illustrations of wisdom's saving and punitive power

- 1 Wisdom protected the first-formed father of the world, when he alone had been created; she delivered him from his transgression,

- 2 and gave him strength to rule all things.
- 3 But when an unrighteous man departed from her in his anger,
he perished because in rage he killed his brother.
- 4 When the earth was flooded because of him, wisdom again saved it, steering the righteous man by a paltry piece of wood.
- 5 Wisdom also, when the nations in wicked agreement had been put to confusion, recognized the righteous man and preserved him blameless before God, and kept him strong in the face of his compassion for his child.
- 6 Wisdom rescued a righteous man when the ungodly were perishing;
he escaped the fire that descended on the Five Cities.
- 7 Evidence of their wickedness still remains:
a continually smoking wasteland,
plants bearing fruit that does not ripen,
and a pillar of salt standing as a monument to an unbelieving soul.
- 8 For because they passed wisdom by,
they not only were hindered from recognizing the good,
but also left for humankind a reminder of their folly,
so that their failures could never go unnoticed.
- 9 Wisdom rescued from troubles those who served her.
- 10 When a righteous man fled from his brother's wrath,
she guided him on straight paths;
she showed him the kingdom of God,
and gave him knowledge of holy things;
she prospered him in his labors,
and increased the fruit of his toil.
- 11 When his oppressors were covetous,
she stood by him and made him rich.
- 12 She protected him from his enemies,
and kept him safe from those who lay in wait for him;
in his arduous contest she gave him the victory,
so that he might learn that godliness is more powerful than anything else.

13 When a righteous man was sold, wisdom did not desert him,
but delivered him from sin.

She descended with him into the dungeon,
14 and when he was in prison she did not leave him,
until she brought him the scepter of a kingdom
and authority over his masters.

Those who accused him she showed to be false,
and she gave him everlasting honor.

15 A holy people and blameless race
wisdom delivered from a nation of oppressors.

16 She entered the soul of a servant of the Lord,
and withstood dread kings with wonders and signs.

17 She gave to holy people the reward of their labors;
she guided them along a marvelous way,
and became a shelter to them by day,
and a starry flame through the night.

18 She brought them over the Red Sea,
and led them through deep waters;

19 but she drowned their enemies,
and cast them up from the depth of the sea.

20 Therefore the righteous plundered the ungodly;
they sang hymns, O Lord, to your holy name,
and praised with one accord your defending hand;

21 for wisdom opened the mouths of those who were mute,
and made the tongues of infants speak clearly.

[Wisdom of Solomon 11]

A historical meditation contrasting God's dealings with the Israelites and the Egyptians; the first contrast

1 Wisdom prospered their works by the hand of a holy prophet.

2 They journeyed through an uninhabited wilderness,
and pitched their tents in untrodden places.

3 They withstood their enemies and fought off their foes.

4 When they were thirsty, they called upon you,
and water was given them out of flinty rock,
and from hard stone a remedy for their thirst.

5 For through the very things by which their enemies were punished,
they themselves received benefit in their need.

6 Instead of the fountain of an ever-flowing river,
stirred up and defiled with blood

7 in rebuke for the decree to kill the infants,
you gave them abundant water unexpectedly,

8 showing by their thirst at that time
how you punished their enemies.

9 For when they were tried, though they were being disciplined in mercy, they learned how the ungodly were tormented when judged in wrath.

10 For you tested them as a parent does in warning, but you examined the ungodly as a stern king does in condemnation.

11 Whether absent or present, they were equally distressed, 12 for a twofold grief possessed them,
and a groaning at the memory of what had occurred.

13 For when they heard that through their own punishments
the righteous had received benefit, they perceived it was the LORD's doing.

14 For though they had mockingly rejected him who long before had been cast out and exposed, at the end of the events they marveled at him, when they felt thirst in a different way from
the righteous.

15 In return for their foolish and wicked thoughts, which led them astray to worship irrational serpents and worthless animals, you sent upon them a multitude of irrational creatures to punish them,

16 so that they might learn that one is punished by the very things by which one sins.

A series of digressions; God exercises power and mercy in judgment

17 For your all-powerful hand,
which created the world out of formless matter,
did not lack the means to send upon them a multitude of bears,
or bold lions,

- 18 or newly-created unknown beasts full of rage,
 or such as breathe out fiery breath,
 or belch forth a thick pall of smoke,
 or flash terrible sparks from their eyes;
- 19 not only could the harm they did destroy people,
 but the mere sight of them could kill by fright.
- 20 Even apart from these, people could fall at a single breath
 when pursued by justice
 and scattered by the breath of your power.
 But you have arranged all things by measure and number and weight.
- 21 For it is always in your power to show great strength,
 and who can withstand the might of your arm?
- 22 Because the whole world before you is like a speck that tips the scales, and like a drop of morning dew that falls on the ground.
- 23 But you are merciful to all, for you can do all things,
 and you overlook people's sins, so that they may repent.
- 24 For you love all things that exist,
 and detest none of the things that you have made,
 for you would not have made anything if you had hated it.
- 25 How would anything have endured if you had not willed it?
 Or how would anything not called forth by you have been preserved?
- 26 You spare all things, for they are yours, O Lord, you who love the living.

[Wisdom of Solomon 12]

Divine righteousness and forbearance

- 1 For your immortal spirit is in all things.
- 2 Therefore you correct little by little those who trespass, and you remind and warn them of the things through which they sin, so that they may be freed from wickedness and put their trust in you, O Lord.

- 3 Those who lived long ago in your holy land
4 you hated for their detestable practices,
 their works of sorcery and unholy rites,
5 their merciless slaughter of children,
 and their sacrificial feasting on human flesh and blood.
 These initiates from the midst of a heathen cult,
6 these parents who murder helpless lives,
 you willed to destroy by the hands of our ancestors,
7 so that the land most precious of all to you might receive a worthy colony of the servants of God.
8 But even these you spared, since they were but mortals,
 and sent wasps as forerunners of your army
 to destroy them little by little, 9 though you were not unable to give the ungodly into the hands of the righteous in battle, or to destroy them at one blow by dread wild animals or your stern word.
10 But judging them little by little you gave them an opportunity to repent,
 though you were not unaware that their origin was evil
 and their wickedness inborn,
 and that their way of thinking would never change.
11 For they were an accursed race from the beginning, and it was not through fear of anyone that you left them unpunished for their sins.
- 12 For who will say, "What have you done?"
 or will resist your judgment?
 Who will accuse you for the destruction of nations that you made?
 Or who will come before you to plead as an advocate for the unrighteous?
- 13 For neither is there any god besides you, whose care is for all people,
 to whom you should prove that you have not judged unjustly; 14 nor can any king or monarch confront you about those whom you have punished.
- 15 You are righteous and you rule all things righteously, deeming it alien to your power
 to condemn anyone who does not deserve to be punished.

- 16 For your strength is the source of righteousness,
and your sovereignty over all causes you to spare all.
- 17 For you show your strength when people doubt the completeness of your power,
and you rebuke any insolence among those who know it.
- 18 Although you are sovereign in strength, you judge with mildness,
and with great forbearance you govern us;
for you have power to act whenever you choose.
- 19 Through such works you have taught your people that the righteous must be kind,
and you have filled your children with good hope,
because you give repentance for sins.
- 20 For if you punished with such great care and indulgence
the enemies of your servants and those deserving of death, granting them time and opportunity to give up their wickedness,
- 21 with what strictness you have judged your children, to whose ancestors you gave oaths and covenants full of good promises!
- 22 So while chastening us you scourge our enemies ten thousand times more, so that, when we judge, we may meditate upon your goodness, and when we are judged, we may expect mercy.
- 23 Therefore those who lived unrighteously, in a life of folly,
you tormented through their own abominations.
- 24 For they went far astray on the paths of error,
accepting as gods those animals that even their enemies despised;
they were deceived like foolish infants.
- 25 Therefore, as though to children who cannot reason,
you sent your judgment to mock them.
- 26 But those who have not heeded the warning of mild rebukes will experience the deserved judgment of God.
- 27 For when in their suffering they became incensed at those creatures that they had thought to be gods, being punished by means of them, they saw and recognized as the true God the one whom they had before refused to know.
Therefore the utmost condemnation came upon them.

[Wisdom of Solomon 13]The folly of false worship; critique of nature worship

- 1 For all people who were ignorant of God were foolish by nature;
and they were unable from the good things that are seen to know the one who exists, nor did they recognize the artisan while paying heed to his works;
- 2 but they supposed that either fire or wind or swift air,
or the circle of the stars, or turbulent water,
or the luminaries of heaven were the gods that rule the world.
- 3 If through delight in the beauty of these things people assumed them to be gods,
let them know how much better than these is their Lord,
for the author of beauty created them.
- 4 And if people were amazed at their power and working,
let them perceive from them
how much more powerful is the one who formed them.
- 5 For from the greatness and beauty of created things
comes a corresponding perception of their Creator.
- 6 Yet these people are little to be blamed,
for perhaps they go astray
while seeking God and desiring to find him.
- 7 For while they live among his works, they keep searching, and they trust in what they see, because the things that are seen are beautiful.
- 8 Yet again, not even they are to be excused;
9 for if they had the power to know so much that they could investigate the world, how did they fail to find sooner the Lord of these things?

Polemic against idolatry

- 10 But miserable, with their hopes set on dead things, are those who give the name "gods" to the works of human hands, gold and silver fashioned with skill,
and likenesses of animals,
or a useless stone, the work of an ancient hand.

- 11 A skilled woodcutter may saw down a tree easy to handle and skillfully strip off all its bark,
 and then with pleasing workmanship
 make a useful vessel that serves life's needs,
- 12 and burn the cast-off pieces of his work
 to prepare his food, and eat his fill.
- 13 But a cast-off piece from among them, useful for nothing,
 a stick crooked and full of knots,
 he takes and carves with care in his leisure,
 and shapes it with skill gained in idleness;
 he forms it in the likeness of a human being,
- 14 or makes it like some worthless animal, giving it a coat of red paint and coloring its surface red and covering every blemish in it with paint;
- 15 then he makes a suitable niche for it,
 and sets it in the wall, and fastens it there with iron.
- 16 He takes thought for it, so that it may not fall,
 because he knows that it cannot help itself,
 for it is only an image and has need of help.
- 17 When he prays about possessions and his marriage and children,
 he is not ashamed to address a lifeless thing.
- 18 For health he appeals to a thing that is weak;
 for life he prays to a thing that is dead;
 for aid he entreats a thing that is utterly inexperienced;
 for a prosperous journey, a thing that cannot take a step;
- 19 for money-making and work and success with his hands
 he asks strength of a thing whose hands have no strength.

[Wisdom of Solomon 14]

- 1 Again, one preparing to sail and about to voyage over raging waves calls upon a piece of wood more fragile than the ship that carries him.
- 2 For it was desire for gain that planned that vessel,
 and wisdom was the artisan who built it;
- 3 but it is your providence, O Father, that steers its course,
 because you have given it a path in the sea,
 and a safe way through the waves,

- 4 showing that you can save from every danger,
so that even a person who lacks skill may put to sea.
- 5 It is your will that works of your wisdom should not be without effect; therefore people trust their lives even to the smallest piece of wood, and passing through the billows on a raft they come safely to land.
- 6 For even in the beginning, when arrogant giants were perishing, the hope of the world took refuge on a raft, and guided by your hand left to the world the seed of a new generation.
- 7 For blessed is the wood by which righteousness comes.
- 8 But the idol made with hands is accursed, and so is the one who made it — he for having made it, and the perishable thing because it was named a god.
- 9 For equally hateful to God are the ungodly and their ungodliness;
10 for what was done will be punished together with the one who did it.
- 11 Therefore there will be a visitation also upon the heathen idols, because, though part of what God created, they became an abomination, snares for human souls and a trap for the feet of the foolish.

Idols are the invention of human vanity

- 12 For the idea of making idols was the beginning of fornication, and the invention of them was the corruption of life;
13 for they did not exist from the beginning, nor will they last forever.
- 14 For through human vanity they entered the world, and therefore their speedy end has been planned.
- 15 For a father, consumed with grief at an untimely bereavement, made an image of his child, who had been suddenly taken from him; he now honored as a god what was once a dead human being, and handed on to his dependents secret rites and initiations.

- 16 Then the ungodly custom, grown strong with time, was kept as a law, and at the command of monarchs carved images were worshiped.
- 17 When people could not honor monarchs in their presence, since they lived at a distance, they imagined their appearance far away, and made a visible image of the king whom they honored, so that by their zeal they might flatter the absent one as though present.
- 18 Then the ambition of the artisan impelled even those who did not know the king to intensify their worship.
- 19 For he, perhaps wishing to please his ruler, skillfully forced the likeness to take more beautiful form,
- 20 and the multitude, attracted by the charm of his work, now regarded as an object of worship the one whom shortly before they had honored as a human being.
- 21 And this became a hidden trap for humankind, because people, in bondage to misfortune or to royal authority, bestowed on objects of stone or wood the name that ought not to be shared.

The repercussions of idolatry

- 22 Then it was not enough for them to err about the knowledge of God, but though living in great strife due to ignorance, they call such great evils peace.
- 23 For whether they kill children in their initiations, or celebrate secret mysteries, or hold frenzied revels with strange customs,
- 24 they no longer keep either their lives or their marriages pure, but they either treacherously kill one another, or grieve one another by adultery,
- 25 and all is a raging riot of blood and murder, theft and deceit, corruption, faithlessness, tumult, perjury,
- 26 confusion over what is good, forgetfulness of favors, defiling of souls, sexual perversion, disorder in marriages, adultery, and debauchery.
- 27 For the worship of idols not to be named is the beginning and cause and end of every evil.

- 28 For their worshipers either rave in exultation,
or prophesy lies, or live unrighteously, or readily commit perjury;
29 for because they trust in lifeless idols
they swear wicked oaths and expect to suffer no harm.
30 But just penalties will overtake them on two counts:
because they thought wrongly about God in devoting themselves to idols, and because in deceit they swore unrighteously through contempt for holiness.
31 For it is not the power of the things by which people swear,
but the just penalty for those who sin,
that always pursues the transgression of the unrighteous.

[Wisdom of Solomon 15]
The benefits of true worship

- 1 But you, our God, are kind and true,
patient, and ruling all things in mercy.
2 For even if we sin we are yours, knowing your power;
but we will not sin, because we know that you acknowledge us as yours.
3 For to know you is complete righteousness,
and to know your power is the root of immortality.
4 For neither has the evil intent of human art misled us,
nor the fruitless toil of painters,
a figure stained with varied colors,
5 whose appearance arouses yearning in fools,
so that they desire the lifeless form of a dead image.
6 Lovers of evil things and fit for such objects of hope are those who either make or desire or worship them.

The fabrication of idols

- 7 A potter kneads the soft earth
and laboriously molds each vessel for our service, fashioning out of the same clay
both the vessels that serve clean uses and those for contrary uses, making all alike;
but which shall be the use of each of them
the worker in clay decides.
- 8 With misspent toil, these workers form a futile god from the same clay — these mortals who were made of earth a short time before and after a little while go to the earth from which all mortals are taken, when the time comes to return the souls that were borrowed.
- 9 But the workers are not concerned that mortals are destined to die or that their life is brief,
but they compete with workers in gold and silver,
and imitate workers in copper;
and they count it a glorious thing to mold counterfeit gods.
- 10 Their heart is ashes, their hope is cheaper than dirt,
and their lives are of less worth than clay,
- 11 because they failed to know the one who formed them
and inspired them with active souls
and breathed a living spirit into them.
- 12 But they considered our existence an idle game,
and life a festival held for profit, for they say one must get money however one can, even by base means.
- 13 For these persons, more than all others, know that they sin
when they make from earthy matter fragile vessels and carved images.
- 14 But most foolish, and more miserable than an infant,
are all the enemies who oppressed your people.

- 15 For they thought that all their heathen idols were gods, though these have neither the use of their eyes to see with,
 nor nostrils with which to draw breath,
 nor ears with which to hear,
 nor fingers to feel with,
 and their feet are of no use for walking.
- 16 For a human being made them,
 and one whose spirit is borrowed formed them;
 for none can form gods that are like themselves.
- 17 People are mortal, and what they make with lawless hands is dead;
 for they are better than the objects they worship,
 since they have life, but the idols never had.
- 18 Moreover, they worship even the most hateful animals, which are worse than all others when judged by their lack of intelligence;
- 19 and even as animals they are not so beautiful in appearance that one would desire them, but they have escaped both the praise of God and his blessing.

[Wisdom of Solomon 16]

The second contrast

- 1 Therefore those people were deservedly punished through such creatures, and were tormented by a multitude of animals.
- 2 Instead of this punishment you showed kindness to your people,
 and you prepared quails to eat,
 a delicacy to satisfy the desire of appetite;
- 3 in order that those people, when they desired food,
 might lose the least remnant of appetite
 because of the odious creatures sent to them,
 while your people, after suffering want a short time,
 might partake of delicacies.
- 4 For it was necessary that upon those oppressors inescapable want should come, while to these others it was merely shown how their enemies were being tormented.

The third contrast

- 5 For when the terrible rage of wild animals came upon your people and they were being destroyed by the bites of writhing serpents, your wrath did not continue to the end;
- 6 they were troubled for a little while as a warning, and received a symbol of deliverance to remind them of your law's command.
- 7 For the one who turned toward it was saved, not by the thing that was beheld, but by you, the Savior of all.
- 8 And by this also you convinced our enemies
that it is you who deliver from every evil.
- 9 For they were killed by the bites of locusts and flies,
and no healing was found for them,
because they deserved to be punished by such things.
- 10 But your children were not conquered even by the fangs of venomous serpents, for your mercy came to their help and healed them.
- 11 To remind them of your oracles they were bitten,
and then were quickly delivered,
so that they would not fall into deep forgetfulness
and become unresponsive to your kindness.
- 12 For neither herb nor poultice cured them,
but it was your word, O Lord, that heals all people.
- 13 For you have power over life and death;
you lead mortals down to the gates of Hades and back again.
- 14 A person in wickedness kills another,
but cannot bring back the departed spirit,
or set free the imprisoned soul.

The fourth contrast

- 15 To escape from your hand is impossible;
- 16 for the ungodly, refusing to know you,
were flogged by the strength of your arm,
pursued by unusual rains and hail and relentless storms,
and utterly consumed by fire.

- 17 For — most incredible of all — in water, which quenches all things,
the fire had still greater effect,
for the universe defends the righteous.
- 18 At one time the flame was restrained, so that it might not consume the creatures sent against the ungodly, but that seeing this they might know that they were being pursued by the judgment of God;
- 19 and at another time even in the midst of water it burned more intensely than fire, to destroy the crops of the unrighteous land.
- 20 Instead of these things you gave your people food of angels, and without their toil you supplied them from heaven with bread ready to eat, providing every pleasure and suited to every taste.
- 21 For your sustenance manifested your sweetness toward your children; and the bread, ministering to the desire of the one who took it, was changed to suit everyone's liking.
- 22 Snow and ice withstood fire without melting,
so that they might know that the crops of their enemies were being destroyed by the fire that blazed in the hail and flashed in the showers of rain;
- 23 whereas the fire, in order that the righteous might be fed,
even forgot its native power.
- 24 For creation, serving you who made it,
exerts itself to punish the unrighteous,
and in kindness relaxes on behalf of those who trust in you.
- 25 Therefore at that time also, changed into all forms,
it served your all-nourishing bounty,
according to the desire of those who had need,
- 26 so that your children, whom you loved, O Lord, might learn that it is not the production of crops that feeds humankind
but that your word sustains those who trust in you.
- 27 For what was not destroyed by fire was melted when simply warmed by a fleeting ray of the sun, 28 to make it known that one must rise before the sun to give you thanks, and must pray to you at the dawning of the light;
- 29 for the hope of an ungrateful person will melt like wintry frost,
and flow away like waste water.

[Wisdom of Solomon 17]
The fifth contrast

- 1 Great are your judgments and hard to describe;
therefore uninstructed souls have gone astray.
- 2 For when lawless people supposed that they held the holy nation in their power, they themselves lay as captives of darkness and prisoners of long night, shut in under their roofs, exiles from eternal providence.
- 3 For thinking that in their secret sins they were unobserved behind a dark curtain of forgetfulness,
they were scattered, terribly alarmed,
and appalled by specters.
- 4 For not even the inner chamber that held them protected them from fear, but terrifying sounds rang out around them,
and dismal phantoms with gloomy faces appeared.
- 5 And no power of fire was able to give light,
nor did the brilliant flames of the stars
avail to illumine that hateful night.
- 6 Nothing was shining through to them except a dreadful, self-kindled fire, and in terror they deemed the things that they saw
to be worse than that unseen appearance.
- 7 The delusions of their magic art lay humbled,
and their boasted wisdom was scornfully rebuked.
- 8 For those who promised to drive off the fears and disorders of a sick soul were sick themselves with ridiculous fear.
- 9 For even if nothing disturbing frightened them, yet, scared by the passing of wild animals and the hissing of snakes
- 10 they perished in trembling fear, refusing to look even at the air, though it nowhere could be avoided.
- 11 For wickedness is a cowardly thing, condemned by its own testimony;
distressed by conscience, it has always exaggerated the difficulties.

- 12 For fear is nothing but a giving up of the helps that come from reason;
- 13 and hope, defeated by this inward weakness, prefers ignorance of what causes the torment.
- 14 But throughout the night, which was really powerless and which came upon them from the recesses of powerless Hades, they all slept the same sleep,
- 15 and now were driven by monstrous specters, and now were paralyzed by their souls' surrender; for sudden and unexpected fear overwhelmed them.
- 16 And whoever was there fell down, and thus was kept shut up in a prison not made of iron;
- 17 for whether they were farmers or shepherds or workers who toiled in the wilderness, they were seized, and endured the inescapable fate; for with one chain of darkness they all were bound.
- 18 Whether there came a whistling wind, or a melodious sound of birds in wide-spreading branches, or the rhythm of violently rushing water,
- 19 or the harsh crash of rocks hurled down, or the unseen running of leaping animals, or the sound of the most savage roaring beasts, or an echo thrown back from a hollow of the mountains, it paralyzed them with terror.
- 20 For the whole world was illumined with brilliant light, and went about its work unhindered,
- 21 while over those people alone heavy night was spread, an image of the darkness that was destined to receive them; but still heavier than darkness were they to themselves.

[Wisdom of Solomon 18]

- 1 But for your holy ones there was very great light. Their enemies heard their voices but did not see their forms, and counted them happy for not having suffered,
- 2 and were thankful that your holy ones, though previously wronged, were doing them no injury; and they begged their pardon for having been at variance with them.

- 3 Therefore you provided a flaming pillar of fire
 as a guide for your people's unknown journey,
 and a harmless sun for their glorious wandering.
- 4 For their enemies deserved to be deprived of light and imprisoned in darkness, those who had kept your children imprisoned, through whom the imperishable light of the law was to be given to the world.

The sixth contrast

- 5 When they had resolved to kill the infants of your holy ones,
 and one child had been abandoned and rescued,
 you in punishment took away a multitude of their children;
 and you destroyed them all together by a mighty flood.
- 6 That night was made known beforehand to our ancestors, so that they might rejoice in sure knowledge of the oaths in which they trusted.
- 7 The deliverance of the righteous and the destruction of their enemies were expected by your people.
- 8 For by the same means by which you punished our enemies
 you called us to yourself and glorified us.
- 9 For in secret the holy children of good people offered sacrifices,
 and with one accord agreed to the divine law,
 so that the saints would share alike the same things,
 both blessings and dangers;
 and already they were singing the praises of the ancestors.
- 10 But the discordant cry of their enemies echoed back,
 and their piteous lament for their children was spread abroad.
- 11 The slave was punished with the same penalty as the master,
 and the commoner suffered the same loss as the king;
- 12 and they all together, by the one form of death,
 had corpses too many to count.
 For the living were not sufficient even to bury them, since in one instant their most valued children had been destroyed.
- 13 For though they had disbelieved everything because of their magic arts, yet, when their firstborn were destroyed, they acknowledged your people to be God's child.

- 14 For while gentle silence enveloped all things,
and night in its swift course was now half gone, 15 your all-powerful word leaped from heaven, from the royal throne, into the midst of the land that was doomed, a stern warrior 16 carrying the sharp sword of your authentic command,
and stood and filled all things with death,
and touched heaven while standing on the earth.
- 17 Then at once apparitions in dreadful dreams greatly troubled them,
and unexpected fears assailed them;
18 and one here and another there, hurled down half dead,
made known why they were dying;
19 for the dreams that disturbed them forewarned them of this,
so that they might not perish without knowing why they suffered.
- 20 The experience of death touched also the righteous,
and a plague came upon the multitude in the desert,
but the wrath did not long continue.
- 21 For a blameless man was quick to act as their champion;
he brought forward the shield of his ministry,
prayer and propitiation by incense;
he withstood the anger and put an end to the disaster,
showing that he was your servant.
- 22 He conquered the wrath not by strength of body,
not by force of arms,
but by his word he subdued the avenger,
appealing to the oaths and covenants given to our ancestors.
- 23 For when the dead had already fallen on one another in heaps,
he intervened and held back the wrath,
and cut off its way to the living.
- 24 For on his long robe the whole world was depicted,
and the glories of the ancestors were engraved on the four rows of stones, and your majesty was on the diadem upon his head.
- 25 To these the destroyer yielded, these he feared;
for merely to test the wrath was enough.

[Wisdom of Solomon 19]
The seventh contrast

- 1 But the ungodly were assailed to the end by pitiless anger,
for God knew in advance even their future actions:
- 2 how, though they themselves had permitted your people to depart and hastily sent them out,
they would change their minds and pursue them.
- 3 For while they were still engaged in mourning,
and were lamenting at the graves of their dead,
they reached another foolish decision,
and pursued as fugitives those whom they had begged and compelled to leave.
- 4 For the fate they deserved drew them on to this end,
and made them forget what had happened, in order that they might fill up the punishment that their torments still lacked,
- 5 and that your people might experience an incredible journey,
but they themselves might meet a strange death.

- 6 For the whole creation in its nature was fashioned anew,
complying with your commands,
so that your children might be kept unharmed.
- 7 The cloud was seen overshadowing the camp,
and dry land emerging where water had stood before,
an unhindered way out of the Red Sea,
and a grassy plain out of the raging waves,
- 8 where those protected by your hand passed through as one nation,
after gazing on marvelous wonders.
- 9 For they ranged like horses,
and leaped like lambs,
praising you, O Lord, who delivered them.
- 10 For they still recalled the events of their sojourn,
how instead of producing animals the earth brought forth gnats,
and instead of fish the river spewed out vast numbers of frogs.
- 11 Afterward they saw also a new kind of birds,
when desire led them to ask for luxurious food;

- 12 for, to give them relief, quails came up from the sea.
- 13 The punishments did not come upon the sinners without prior signs in the violence of thunder,
 for they justly suffered because of their wicked acts;
 for they practiced a more bitter hatred of strangers.
- 14 Others had refused to receive strangers when they came to them, but these made slaves of guests who were their benefactors.
- 15 And not only so — but, while punishment of some sort will come upon the former for having received strangers with hostility, 16 the latter, having first received them with festal celebrations, afterward afflicted with terrible sufferings
 those who had already shared the same rights.
- 17 They were stricken also with loss of sight —
 just as were those at the door of the righteous man —
 when, surrounded by yawning darkness,
 all of them tried to find the way through their own doors.
- 18 For the elements changed places with one another,
 as on a harp the notes vary the nature of the rhythm,
 while each note remains the same.
 This may be clearly inferred from the sight of what took place.
- 19 For land animals were transformed into water creatures,
 and creatures that swim moved over to the land.
- 20 Fire even in water retained its normal power,
 and water forgot its fire-quenching nature.
- 21 Flames, on the contrary, failed to consume
 the flesh of perishable creatures that walked among them, nor did they melt the crystalline, quick-melting kind of heavenly food.

The concluding doxology

- 22 For in everything, O Lord, you have exalted and glorified your people, and you have not neglected to help them at all times and in all places.

SIRACH

(Ecclesiasticus, or the Wisdom of Jesus Son of Sirach)

Introduction

The names by which this book is known reflect something of its origin and history. Sirach is the name of the author, Jesus son of Eleazar son of Sirach (50.27), in Hebrew, Yeshua be El-azar ben Sira. Although the book was highly regarded in rabbinic literature and even cited in the Talmud, it did not achieve canonical status. The early Christian church, however, did consider it canonical. Although originally it was titled "The Wisdom of Jesus son of Sirach" in Greek and Old Latin manuscripts, many manuscripts of the Latin Vulgate referred to it as "Ecclesiasticus," that is, "the Church's book." The Protestant reformers, in keeping with their practice of conforming the Christian Old Testament to the book deemed canonical in the Hebrew scriptures, relegated it to the Apocrypha.

Because the book was not canonical in Judaism, the original Hebrew text was lost to the western world from about 400 to 1900 CE; the book survived in Greek, Latin, Syriac, and other translations. Since about 1900 CE fragmentary copies of the Hebrew, dating from antiquity to the Middle Ages, have been discovered in various places: Qumran, Masada, and the Geniza (i.e., storage room) of a medieval Cairo synagogue. In this way two-thirds of the Hebrew text has been recovered. The translation here is one of a critically established text, using both Hebrew and other witnesses to the original. The reader will occasionally find a slightly different verse numbering from that in traditional renderings, since the NRSV follows the numbering of the critical text edited by J. Ziegler.

Ben Sira composed his work in Jerusalem sometime before 180 BCE (see his description in 50.1-24 of Simon II, high priest from 219-196). Thus he wrote before the persecution of the Jews by Antiochus IV Epiphanes and the ensuing Maccabean revolt (168-164 BCE). Sometime after 132 BCE (see the Prologue) his grandson translated the original Hebrew into Greek. The grandson rightly stresses Ben Sira's profound knowledge of Hebrew traditions (designated in the Prologue as "the Law and the Prophets and the other books" — already the threefold division of the Hebrew Bible was in formation).

Like the book of Proverbs, Sirach stresses characteristic wisdom teachings: prudent speech, wealth and poverty, honesty, diligence, choice of friends, sin and death, retribution, and wisdom itself. Unlike Proverbs 10ff., individual proverbs are not set apart, but are incorporated into smooth-flowing poems of some length (often 22 lines in accordance with the number of letters of the Hebrew alphabet). The doctrine is surprisingly traditional, almost as if Job and Ecclesiastes had never been written. Ben Sira is not unaware of the problem of suffering (2.1-6; 11.14; 40.1-10), but he firmly believes in the justice of divine retribution. God will reward all according to their deserts (15.11-16.23). There is no intimation of a future life with God in the Hebrew text as one begins to find in some Jewish literature of the Hellenistic age (e.g., 2 Macc 7.9; Wis 5.15-16); rather, all go to Sheol, the traditional abode of the dead (14.12-19; 38.16-23). This is the usual view of the Hebrew Bible, where immortality is understood only in terms of one's progeny and good name (44.13-15).

The earlier biblical wisdom literature lacks reference to Israel's sacred history and covenantal traditions. Sirach, in contrast, reprises biblical history in the "Hymn in Honor of Our Ancestors" (chs 44-49), and clearly identifies the figure of Wisdom with the Torah or law (24.23). Unlike earlier wisdom writings, Sirach is immersed in the environment of Jerusalem Temple worship and sacrifice (35.1-12; 50.1-24). Nevertheless, the book belongs definitely to the genre of wisdom literature, with its stress on the lessons of experience and on the "fear of the Lord" (1.11-30; 25.10-11; 40.25-27).

Ben Sira describes his profession as a "scribe," or scholar of the sacred writings (39.1-11) and invites students to his school (51.23). The work's original addresses were young men preparing for leading adult roles in the Jewish community. This is evident in many aspects of the book, including its treatment of women. The vivid portrayal of Wisdom as a sublime woman, sometimes with erotic overtones (e.g., 14.20-27; 15.2; and especially the Hebrew version of 51.13.30), seem particularly designed to capture the imagination of Ben Sira's young male students. Ben Sira's teachings about actual women are androcentric at best, as in his advice concerning marriage (26.13-18; 36.26-31); at times he expresses an untempered misogyny (e.g., 42.13-14).

Sirach's teachings are not arranged in a logical sequence. Reading straight through the book from beginning to end, therefore is not necessarily the best approach. Good places to start reading Sirach are the two pivotal poems on personified Wisdom (1.1-30; 24.1-34; each introduces a major collection of instructional material) and the hymn of praise to Israel's ancestors (44.1-49.16).

The book consists of three major blocks of teaching: 1.1-23.27; 24.1-42.14; and 42.15-50.24) In its current form these are preceded by the Prologue and followed by concluding comments and additions (50.25-51.30). Each of the first two collections begin with a poem of praise of Wisdom (1.1-30; 24.1-34); the third collection consists entirely of hymns of praise, of the creator (42.15-43.33), of Israel's ancestors (44.1-49.16), and of the high priest Simon (50.1-24).

Sirach

THE PROLOGUE

Many great teachings have been given to us through the Law and the Prophets and the others that followed them, and for these we should praise Israel for instruction and wisdom. Now, those who read the scriptures must not only themselves understand them, but must also as lovers of learning be able through the spoken and written word to help the outsiders. So my grandfather Jesus, who had devoted himself especially to the reading of the Law and the Prophets and the other books of our ancestors, and had acquired considerable proficiency in them, was himself also led to write something pertaining to instruction and wisdom, so that by becoming familiar also with his book those who love learning might make even greater progress in living according to the law.

You are invited therefore to read it with goodwill and attention, and to be indulgent in cases where, despite our diligent labor in translating, we may seem to have rendered some phrases imperfectly. For what was originally expressed in Hebrew does not have exactly the same sense when translated into another language. Not only this book, but even the Law itself, the Prophecies, and the rest of the books differ not a little when read in the original.

When I came to Egypt in the thirty-eighth year of the reign of Euergetes and stayed for some time, I found opportunity for no little instruction. It seemed highly necessary that I should myself devote some diligence and labor to the translation of this book. During that time I have applied my skill day and night to complete and publish the book for those living abroad who wished to gain learning and are disposed to live according to the law.

[Sirach 1]

Wisdom, God's unfathomable gift

- 1 All wisdom is from the Lord,
and with him it remains forever.
- 2 The sand of the sea, the drops of rain,
and the days of eternity — who can count them?
- 3 The height of heaven, the breadth of the earth,
the abyss, and wisdom — who can search them out?
- 4 Wisdom was created before all other things,
and prudent understanding from eternity.
- 5 The source of wisdom is God's word in the highest heaven,
and her ways are the eternal commandments.
- 6 The root of wisdom — to whom has it been revealed?
Her subtleties — who knows them?

7 The knowledge of wisdom — to whom was it manifested?
 And her abundant experience — who has understood it?

8 There is but one who is wise, greatly to be feared,
 seated upon his throne — the Lord.

9 It is he who created her;
 he saw her and took her measure;
 he poured her out upon all his works,
 10 upon all the living according to his gift;
 he lavished her upon those who love him.
 Love of the Lord is glorious wisdom; to those whom he appears he apportions her, that they may see him.

Wisdom as fear of the Lord

11 The fear of the Lord is glory and exultation, and gladness and a crown of rejoicing.

12 The fear of the Lord delights the heart,
 and gives gladness and joy and long life.
 The fear of the Lord is a gift from the Lord;
 also for love he makes firm paths.

13 Those who fear the Lord will have a happy end;
 on the day of their death they will be blessed.

14 To fear the Lord is the beginning of wisdom;
 she is created with the faithful in the womb.

15 She made among human beings an eternal foundation,
 and among their descendants she will abide faithfully.

16 To fear the Lord is fullness of wisdom;
 she inebriates mortals with her fruits;

17 she fills their whole house with desirable goods,
 and their storehouses with her produce.

18 The fear of the Lord is the crown of wisdom,
 making peace and perfect health to flourish.
 Both are gifts of God for peace;
 glory opens out for those who love him.
 He saw her and took her measure.

19 She rained down knowledge and discerning comprehension, and she heightened the glory of those who held her fast.

20 To fear the Lord is the root of wisdom,
and her branches are long life.

21 The fear of the Lord drives away sins;
and where it abides, it will turn away all anger.

22 Unjust anger cannot be justified,
for anger tips the scale to one's ruin.

23 Those who are patient stay calm until the right moment,
and then cheerfulness comes back to them.

24 They hold back their words until the right moment;
then the lips of many tell of their good sense.

25 In the treasuries of wisdom are wise sayings,
but godliness is an abomination to a sinner.

26 If you desire wisdom, keep the commandments,
and the Lord will lavish her upon you.

27 For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and discipline,
fidelity and humility are his delight.

28 Do not disobey the fear of the Lord;
do not approach him with a divided mind.

29 Do not be a hypocrite before others,
and keep watch over your lips.

30 Do not exalt yourself, or you may fall
and bring dishonor upon yourself.

The Lord will reveal your secrets
and overthrow you before the whole congregation, because you did not come in the fear of the Lord,
and your heart was full of deceit.

[Sirach 2]
Trust in God

- 1 My child, when you come to serve the Lord,
prepare yourself for testing.
- 2 Set your heart right and be steadfast,
and do not be impetuous in time of calamity.
- 3 Cling to him and do not depart,
so that your last days may be prosperous.
- 4 Accept whatever befalls you,
and in times of humiliation be patient.
- 5 For gold is tested in the fire,
and those found acceptable, in the furnace of humiliation.
In sickness and poverty put your trust in him.
- 6 Trust in him, and he will help you;
make your ways straight, and hope in him.

- 7 You who fear the Lord, wait for his mercy;
do not stray, or else you may fall.
- 8 You who fear the Lord, trust in him,
and your reward will not be lost.
- 9 You who fear the Lord, hope for good things, for lasting joy and mercy. For his reward is an everlasting gift with joy.
- 10 Consider the generations of old and see:
has anyone trusted in the Lord and been disappointed?
Or has anyone persevered in the fear of the Lord and been forsaken?
Or has anyone called upon him and been neglected?
- 11 For the Lord is compassionate and merciful;
he forgives sins and saves in time of distress.

- 12 Woe to timid hearts and to slack hands,
and to the sinner who walks a double path!
- 13 Woe to the fainthearted who have no trust!
Therefore they will have no shelter.
- 14 Woe to you who have lost your nerve!
What will you do when the LORD's reckoning comes?

- 15 Those who fear the Lord do not disobey his words,
and those who love him keep his ways.
- 16 Those who fear the Lord seek to please him,
and those who love him are filled with his law.
- 17 Those who fear the Lord prepare their hearts,
and humble themselves before him.
- 18 Let us fall into the hands of the Lord,
but not into the hands of mortals;
for equal to his majesty is his mercy,
and equal to his name are his works.

[Sirach 3]
Honor of parents

- 1 Listen to me your father, O children;
act accordingly, that you may be kept in safety.
- 2 For the Lord honors a father above his children,
and he confirms a mother's right over her children.
- 3 Those who honor their father atone for sins,
4 and those who respect their mother are like those who lay up treasure.
- 5 Those who honor their father will have joy in their own children,
and when they pray they will be heard.
- 6 Those who respect their father will have long life,
and those who honor their mother obey the Lord;
- 7 Those who fear the Lord honor their father;
they will serve their parents as their masters.
- 8 Honor your father by word and deed,
that his blessing may come upon you.
- 9 For a father's blessing strengthens the houses of the children,
but a mother's curse uproots their foundations.
- 10 Do not glorify yourself by dishonoring your father,
for your father's dishonor is no glory to you.
- 11 The glory of one's father is one's own glory,
and it is a disgrace for children not to respect their mother.

- 12 My child, help your father in his old age,
and do not grieve him as long as he lives;
13 even if his mind fails, be patient with him;
because you have all your faculties do not despise him.
14 For kindness to a father will not be forgotten,
and will be credited to you against your sins;
15 in the day of your distress it will be remembered in your favor;
like frost in fair weather, your sins will melt away.
16 Whoever forsakes a father is like a blasphemer,
and whoever angers a mother is cursed by the Lord.

Humility

- 17 My child, perform your tasks with humility;
then you will be loved by those whom God accepts.
18 The greater you are, the more you must humble yourself;
so you will find favor in the sight of the Lord.
19 Many are lofty and renowned,
but to the humble he reveals his secrets.
20 For great is the might of the Lord;
but by the humble he is glorified.
21 Neither seek what is too difficult for you,
nor investigate what is beyond your power.
22 Reflect upon what you have been commanded,
for what is hidden is not your concern.
23 Do not meddle in matters that are beyond you,
for more than you can understand has been shown you.
24 For their conceit has led many astray,
and wrong opinion has impaired their judgment.

Stubbornness

- 25 Without eyes there is no light;
without knowledge there is no wisdom.
26 A stubborn mind will fare badly at the end,
and whoever loves danger will perish in it.
27 A stubborn mind will be burdened by troubles,
and the sinner adds sin to sins.

- 28 When calamity befalls the proud, there is no healing,
for an evil plant has taken root in him.
- 29 The mind of the intelligent appreciates proverbs,
and an attentive ear is the desire of the wise.

Care for the Poor

- 30 As water extinguishes a blazing fire,
so almsgiving atones for sin.
- 31 Those who repay favors give thought to the future;
when they fall they will find support.

[Sirach 4]

- 1 My child, do not cheat the poor of their living,
and do not keep needy eyes waiting.
- 2 Do not grieve the hungry,
or anger one in need.
- 3 Do not add to the troubles of the desperate,
or delay giving to the needy.
- 4 Do not reject a suppliant in distress,
or turn your face away from the poor.
- 5 Do not avert your eye from the needy,
and give no one reason to curse you;
- 6 for if in bitterness of soul some should curse you,
their Creator will hear their prayer.
- 7 Endear yourself to the congregation;
bow your head low to the great.
- 8 Give a hearing to the poor,
and return their greeting politely.
- 9 Rescue the oppressed from the oppressor;
and do not be hesitant in giving a verdict.
- 10 Be a father to orphans,
and be like a husband to their mother;
you will then be like a son of the Most High,
and he will love you more than does your mother.

Wisdom's rewards and trials

- 11 Wisdom teaches her children and gives help to those who seek her.
- 12 Whoever loves her loves life,
and those who seek her from early morning are filled with joy.
- 13 Whoever holds her fast inherits glory,
and the Lord blesses the place she enters.
- 14 Those who serve her minister to the Holy One;
the Lord loves those who love her.
- 15 Those who obey her will judge the nations,
and all who listen to her will live secure.
- 16 If they remain faithful, they will inherit her;
their descendants will also obtain her.
- 17 For at first she will walk with them on tortuous paths;
she will bring fear and dread upon them,
and will torment them by her discipline
until she trusts them,
and she will test them with her ordinances.
- 18 Then she will come straight back to them again and gladden them,
and will reveal her secrets to them.
- 19 If they go astray she will forsake them,
and hand them over to their ruin.

On reticence, true and false

- 20 Watch for the opportune time, and beware of evil,
and do not be ashamed to be yourself.
- 21 For there is a shame that leads to sin,
and there is a shame that is glory and favor.
- 22 Do not show partiality, to your own harm,
or deference, to your downfall.
- 23 Do not refrain from speaking at the proper moment,
and do not hide your wisdom.
- 24 For wisdom becomes known through speech,
and education through the words of the tongue.
- 25 Never speak against the truth,
but be ashamed of your ignorance.

26 Do not be ashamed to confess your sins,
and do not try to stop the current of a river.

27 Do not subject yourself to a fool,
or show partiality to a ruler.

28 Fight to the death for truth,
and the Lord God will fight for you.

29 Do not be reckless in your speech,
or sluggish and remiss in your deeds.

30 Do not be like a lion in your home,
or suspicious of your servants.

31 Do not let your hand be stretched out to receive and closed when it is time to give.

[Sirach 5]

Against presumption; false reliance on wealth

1 Do not rely on your wealth,
or say, "I have enough."

2 Do not follow your inclination and strength in pursuing the desires of your heart.

3 Do not say, "Who can have power over me?"
for the Lord will surely punish you.

4 Do not say, "I sinned, yet what has happened to me?"
for the Lord is slow to anger.

5 Do not be so confident of forgiveness
that you add sin to sin.

6 Do not say, "His mercy is great,
he will forgive the multitude of my sins,"
for both mercy and wrath are with him,
and his anger will rest on sinners.

7 Do not delay to turn back to the Lord,
and do not postpone it from day to day;
for suddenly the wrath of the Lord will come upon you,
and at the time of punishment you will perish.

8 Do not depend on dishonest wealth,
for it will not benefit you on the day of calamity.

Honesty and self-control

- 9 Do not winnow in every wind,
 or follow every path, so it is with the double-tongued sinner.
- 10 Stand firm for what you know,
 and let your speech be consistent.
- 11 Be quick to hear,
 but deliberate in answering.
- 12 If you know what to say, answer your neighbor;
 but if not, put your hand over your mouth.
- 13 Honor and dishonor come from speaking,
 and the tongue of mortals may be their downfall.
- 14 Do not be called double-tongued
 and do not lay traps with your tongue;
 for shame comes to the thief,
 and severe condemnation to the double-tongued.
- 15 In great and small matters cause no harm,

[Sirach 6]

- 1 and do not become an enemy instead of a friend;
 for a bad name incurs shame and reproach;
 so it is with the double-tongued sinner.
- 2 Do not fall into the grip of passion,
 or you may be torn apart as by a bull.
- 3 Your leaves will be devoured and your fruit destroyed,
 and you will be left like a withered tree.
- 4 Evil passion destroys those who have it,
 and makes them the laughingstock of their enemies.

True and false friendship

- 5 Pleasant speech multiplies friends,
 and a gracious tongue multiplies courtesies.
- 6 Let those who are friendly with you be many,
 but let your advisers be one in a thousand.

- 7 When you gain friends, gain them through testing,
and do not trust them hastily.
- 8 For there are friends who are such when it suits them,
but they will not stand by you in time of trouble.
- 9 And there are friends who change into enemies,
and tell of the quarrel to your disgrace.
- 10 And there are friends who sit at your table,
but they will not stand by you in time of trouble.
- 11 When you are prosperous, they become your second self,
and lord it over your servants;
- 12 but if you are brought low, they turn against you,
and hide themselves from you.
- 13 Keep away from your enemies,
and be on guard with your friends.
- 14 Faithful friends are a sturdy shelter:
whoever finds one has found a treasure.
- 15 Faithful friends are beyond price;
no amount can balance their worth.
- 16 Faithful friends are life-saving medicine;
and those who fear the Lord will find them.
- 17 Those who fear the Lord direct their friendship aright,
for as they are, so are their neighbors also.

Wisdom's discipline

- 18 My child, from your youth choose discipline,
and when you have gray hair you will still find wisdom.
- 19 Come to her like one who plows and sows,
and wait for her good harvest.
For when you cultivate her you will toil but little,
and soon you will eat of her produce.
- 20 She seems very harsh to the undisciplined;
fools cannot remain with her.
- 21 She will be like a heavy stone to test them,
and they will not delay in casting her aside.
- 22 For wisdom is like her name;
she is not readily perceived by many.

- 23 Listen, my child, and accept my judgment;
do not reject my counsel.
- 24 Put your feet into her fetters,
and your neck into her collar.
- 25 Bend your shoulders and carry her,
and do not fret under her bonds.
- 26 Come to her with all your soul,
and keep her ways with all your might.
- 27 Search out and seek, and she will become known to you;
and when you get hold of her, do not let her go.
- 28 For at last you will find the rest she gives,
and she will be changed into joy for you.
- 29 Then her fetters will become for you a strong defense,
and her collar a glorious robe.
- 30 Her yoke is a golden ornament,
and her bonds a purple cord.
- 31 You will wear her like a glorious robe,
and put her on like a splendid crown.
- 32 If you are willing, my child, you can be disciplined,
and if you apply yourself you will become clever.
- 33 If you love to listen you will gain knowledge,
and if you pay attention you will become wise.
- 34 Stand in the company of the elders.
Who is wise? Attach yourself to such a one.
- 35 Be ready to listen to every godly discourse,
and let no wise proverbs escape you.
- 36 If you see an intelligent person, rise early to visit him;
let your foot wear out his doorstep.
- 37 Reflect on the statutes of the Lord,
and meditate at all times on his commandments.
It is he who will give insight to your mind,
and your desire for wisdom will be granted.

[Sirach 7]
Ethical conduct

- 1 Do no evil, and evil will never overtake you.
- 2 Stay away from wrong, and it will turn away from you.
- 3 Do not sow in the furrows of injustice,
and you will not reap a sevenfold crop.

- 4 Do not seek from the Lord high office,
or the seat of honor from the king.
- 5 Do not assert your righteousness before the Lord,
or display your wisdom before the king.
- 6 Do not seek to become a judge,
or you may be unable to root out injustice;
you may be partial to the powerful,
and so mar your integrity.
- 7 Commit no offense against the public,
and do not disgrace yourself among the people.

- 8 Do not commit a sin twice;
not even for one will you go unpunished.
- 9 Do not say, "He will consider the great number of my gifts, and when I make an offering to the Most High God, he will accept it."

- 10 Do not grow weary when you pray;
do not neglect to give alms.
- 11 Do not ridicule a person who is embittered in spirit,
for there is One who humbles and exalts.
- 12 Do not devise a lie against your brother,
or do the same to a friend.
- 13 Refuse to utter any lie,
for it is a habit that results in no good.
- 14 Do not babble in the assembly of the elders,
and do not repeat yourself when you pray.

- 15 Do not hate hard labor
or farm work, which was created by the Most High.

- 16 Do not enroll in the ranks of sinners;
remember that retribution does not delay.
- 17 Humble yourself to the utmost,
for the punishment of the ungodly is fire and worms.

Authority in the household

- 18 Do not exchange a friend for money,
or a real brother for the gold of Ophir.
- 19 Do not dismiss a wise and good wife,
for her charm is worth more than gold.
- 20 Do not abuse slaves who work faithfully,
or hired laborers who devote themselves to their task.
- 21 Let your soul love intelligent slaves;
do not withhold from them their freedom.
- 22 Do you have cattle? Look after them;
if they are profitable to you, keep them.
- 23 Do you have children? Discipline them,
and make them obedient from their youth.
- 24 Do you have daughters? Be concerned for their chastity, and do not show yourself too indulgent with them.
- 25 Give a daughter in marriage, and you complete a great task;
but give her to a sensible man.
- 26 Do you have a wife who pleases you? Do not divorce her;
but do not trust yourself to one whom you detest.
- 27 With all your heart honor your father,
and do not forget the birth pangs of your mother.
- 28 Remember that it was of your parents you were born;
how can you repay what they have given to you?

Obligations to priests and to the poor

- 29 With all your soul fear the Lord,
and revere his priests.
- 30 With all your might love your Maker,
and do not neglect his ministers.

- 31 Fear the Lord and honor the priest,
and give him his portion, as you have been commanded:
the first fruits, the guilt offering, the gift of the shoulders, the sacrifice of sanctification, and the first fruits of the holy things.
- 32 Stretch out your hand to the poor,
so that your blessing may be complete.
- 33 Give graciously to all the living;
do not withhold kindness even from the dead.
- 34 Do not avoid those who weep,
but mourn with those who mourn.
- 35 Do not hesitate to visit the sick,
because for such deeds you will be loved.
- 36 In all you do, remember the end of your life,
and then you will never sin.

[Sirach 8]

Caution in relationships

- 1 Do not contend with the powerful,
or you may fall into their hands.
- 2 Do not quarrel with the rich,
in case their resources outweigh yours;
for gold has ruined many,
and has perverted the minds of kings.
- 3 Do not argue with the loud of mouth,
and do not heap wood on their fire.
- 4 Do not make fun of one who is ill-bred,
or your ancestors may be insulted.
- 5 Do not reproach one who is turning away from sin;
remember that we all deserve punishment.
- 6 Do not disdain one who is old,
for some of us are also growing old.
- 7 Do not rejoice over anyone's death;
remember that we must all die.

- 8 Do not slight the discourse of the sages,
but busy yourself with their maxims;
because from them you will learn discipline
and how to serve princes.
- 9 Do not ignore the discourse of the aged,
for they themselves learned from their parents;
from them you learn how to understand and to give an answer when the need arises.
- 10 Do not kindle the coals of sinners,
or you may be burned in their flaming fire.
- 11 Do not let the insolent bring you to your feet,
or they may lie in ambush against your words.
- 12 Do not lend to one who is stronger than you;
but if you do lend anything, count it as a loss.
- 13 Do not give surety beyond your means;
but if you give surety, be prepared to pay.
- 14 Do not go to law against a judge,
for the decision will favor him because of his standing.
- 15 Do not go traveling with the reckless,
or they will be burdensome to you;
for they will act as they please,
and through their folly you will perish with them.
- 16 Do not pick a fight with the quick-tempered,
and do not journey with them through lonely country,
because bloodshed means nothing to them,
and where no help is at hand, they will strike you down.
- 17 Do not consult with fools,
for they cannot keep a secret.
- 18 In the presence of strangers do nothing that is to be kept secret,
for you do not know what they will divulge.
- 19 Do not reveal your thoughts to anyone,
or you may drive away your happiness.

[Sirach 9]Warnings about women

- 1 Do not be jealous of the wife of your bosom,
or you will teach her an evil lesson to your own hurt.
- 2 Do not give yourself to a woman and let her trample down your strength.
- 3 Do not go near a loose woman,
or you will fall into her snares.
- 4 Do not dally with a singing girl,
or you will be caught by her tricks.
- 5 Do not look intently at a virgin,
or you may stumble and incur penalties for her.
- 6 Do not give yourself to prostitutes,
or you may lose your inheritance.
- 7 Do not look around in the streets of a city,
or wander about in its deserted sections.
- 8 Turn away your eyes from a shapely woman,
and do not gaze at beauty belonging to another;
many have been seduced by a woman's beauty,
and by it passion is kindled like a fire.
- 9 Never dine with another man's wife,
or revel with her at wine;
or your heart may turn aside to her,
and in blood you may be plunged into destruction.

Friends and associates

- 10 Do not abandon old friends,
for new ones cannot equal them.
A new friend is like new wine;
when it has aged, you can drink it with pleasure.
- 11 Do not envy the success of sinners,
for you do not know what their end will be like.
- 12 Do not delight in what pleases the ungodly;
remember that they will not be held guiltless all their lives.

- 13 Keep far from those who have power to kill,
 and you will not be haunted by the fear of death.
 But if you approach them, make no misstep,
 or they may rob you of your life.
 Know that you are stepping among snares,
 and that you are walking on the city battlements.
- 14 As much as you can, aim to know your neighbors,
 and consult with the wise.
- 15 Let your conversation be with intelligent people, and let all your discussion be about the law of the Most High.
- 16 Let the righteous be your dinner companions,
 and let your glory be in the fear of the Lord.

Concerning Rulers

- 17 A work is praised for the skill of the artisan;
 so a people's leader is proved wise by his words.
- 18 The loud of mouth are feared in their city,
 and the one who is reckless in speech is hated.

[Sirach 10]

- 1 A wise magistrate educates his people, and the rule of an intelligent person is well ordered.
- 2 As the people's judge is, so are his officials;
 as the ruler of the city is, so are all its inhabitants.
- 3 An undisciplined king ruins his people, but a city becomes fit to live in through the understanding of its rulers.
- 4 The government of the earth is in the hand of the Lord,
 and over it he will raise up the right leader for the time.
- 5 Human success is in the hand of the Lord,
 and it is he who confers honor upon the lawgiver.

Concerning arrogance and pride

- 6 Do not get angry with your neighbor for every injury,
and do not resort to acts of insolence.
- 7 Arrogance is hateful to the Lord and to mortals,
and injustice is outrageous to both.
- 8 Sovereignty passes from nation to nation
on account of injustice and insolence and wealth.
- 9 How can dust and ashes be proud?
Even in life the human body decays.
Nothing is more wicked than one who loves money,
for such a person puts his own soul up for sale.
- 10 A long illness baffles the physician;
the king of today will die tomorrow.
- 11 For when one is dead
he inherits maggots and vermin and worms.
- 12 The beginning of human pride is to forsake the Lord;
the heart has withdrawn from its Maker.
- 13 For the beginning of pride is sin,
and the one who clings to it pours out abominations.
Therefore the Lord brings upon them unheard-of calamities,
and destroys them completely.
- 14 The Lord overthrows the thrones of rulers,
and enthrones the lowly in their place.
- 15 The Lord plucks up the roots of the nations,
and plants the humble in their place.
- 16 The Lord lays waste the lands of the nations,
and destroys them to the foundations of the earth.
- 17 He removes some of them and destroys them,
and erases the memory of them from the earth.
- 18 Pride was not created for human beings,
or violent anger for those born of women.

True honor is compatible with humility

- 19 Whose offspring are worthy of honor?
Human offspring.
Whose offspring are worthy of honor?
Those who fear the Lord.
Whose offspring are unworthy of honor?
Human offspring.
Whose offspring are unworthy of honor?
Those who break the commandments.
- 20 Among family members their leader is worthy of honor,
but those who fear the Lord are worthy of honor in his eyes.
- 21 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of acceptance;
obduracy and pride are the beginning of rejection.
- 22 The rich, and the eminent, and the poor —
their glory is the fear of the Lord.
- 23 It is not right to despise one who is intelligent but poor,
and it is not proper to honor one who is sinful.
- 24 The prince and the judge and the ruler are honored, but none of them is greater than the one who fears the Lord.
- 25 Free citizens will serve a wise servant,
and an intelligent person will not complain.
- 26 Do not make a display of your wisdom when you do your work,
and do not boast when you are in need.
- 27 Better is the worker who has goods in plenty than the boaster who lacks bread.
- 28 My child, honor yourself with humility,
and give yourself the esteem you deserve.
- 29 Who will acquit those who condemn themselves?
And who will honor those who dishonor themselves?
- 30 The poor are honored for their knowledge,
while the rich are honored for their wealth.
- 31 One who is honored in poverty, how much more in wealth!
And one dishonored in wealth, how much more in poverty!

[Sirach 11]

- 1 The wisdom of the humble lifts their heads high,
and seats them among the great.
- 2 Do not praise individuals for their good looks,
or loathe anyone because of appearance alone.
- 3 The bee is small among flying creatures,
but what it produces is the best of sweet things.
- 4 Do not boast about wearing fine clothes,
and do not exalt yourself when you are honored;
for the works of the Lord are wonderful,
and his works are concealed from humankind.
- 5 Many kings have had to sit on the ground,
but one who was never thought of has worn a crown.
- 6 Many rulers have been utterly disgraced,
and the honored have been handed over to others.

Against hasty and rash actions

- 7 Do not find fault before you investigate;
examine first, and then criticize.
- 8 Do not answer before you listen,
and do not interrupt when another is speaking.
- 9 Do not argue about a matter that does not concern you,
and do not sit with sinners when they judge a case.

Do not strive for material security

- 10 My child, do not busy yourself with many matters;
if you multiply activities, you will not be held blameless.
If you pursue, you will not overtake,
and by fleeing you will not escape.
- 11 There are those who work and struggle and hurry,
but are so much the more in want.
- 12 There are others who are slow and need help,
who lack strength and abound in poverty;
but the eyes of the Lord look kindly upon them;
he lifts them out of their lowly condition

- 13 and raises up their heads to the amazement of the many.
- 14 Good things and bad, life and death,
poverty and wealth, come from the Lord.
- 15 Wisdom, understanding, and knowledge of the law come from the Lord; affection and the ways of good works come from him.
- 16 Error and darkness were created with sinners;
evil grows old with those who take pride in malice.
- 17 The LORD's gift remains with the devout,
and his favor brings lasting success.
- 18 One becomes rich through diligence and self-denial,
and the reward allotted to him is this:
- 19 when he says, "I have found rest,
and now I shall feast on my goods!"
he does not know how long it will be until he leaves them to others and dies.

Retribution

- 20 Stand by your agreement and attend to it,
and grow old in your work.
- 21 Do not wonder at the works of a sinner,
but trust in the Lord and keep at your job;
for it is easy in the sight of the Lord
to make the poor rich suddenly, in an instant.
- 22 The blessing of the Lord is the reward of the pious,
and quickly God causes his blessing to flourish.
- 23 Do not say, "What do I need,
and what further benefit can be mine?"
- 24 Do not say, "I have enough,
and what harm can come to me now?"
- 25 In the day of prosperity, adversity is forgotten,
and in the day of adversity, prosperity is not remembered.
- 26 For it is easy for the Lord on the day of death
to reward individuals according to their conduct.
- 27 An hour's misery makes one forget past delights,
and at the close of one's life one's deeds are revealed.

28 Call no one happy before his death;
by how he ends, a person becomes known.

Choosing companions

29 Do not invite everyone into your home,
for many are the tricks of the crafty.
30 Like a decoy partridge in a cage, so is the mind of the proud,
and like spies they observe your weakness;
31 for they lie in wait, turning good into evil,
and to worthy actions they attach blame.
32 From a spark many coals are kindled,
and a sinner lies in wait to shed blood.
33 Beware of scoundrels, for they devise evil,
and they may ruin your reputation forever.
34 Receive strangers into your home and they will stir up trouble for you, and will make you a stranger to your own family.

[Sirach 12]

1 If you do good, know to whom you do it,
and you will be thanked for your good deeds.
2 Do good to the devout, and you will be repaid —
if not by them, certainly by the Most High.
3 No good comes to one who persists in evil
or to one who does not give alms.
4 Give to the devout, but do not help the sinner.
5 Do good to the humble, but do not give to the ungodly;
hold back their bread, and do not give it to them,
for by means of it they might subdue you;
then you will receive twice as much evil
for all the good you have done to them.
6 For the Most High also hates sinners
and will inflict punishment on the ungodly,
and he is keeping them for the day of their punishment.
7 Give to the one who is good, but do not help the sinner.
8 A friend is not known in prosperity,
nor is an enemy hidden in adversity.

- 9 One's enemies are friendly when one prospers,
but in adversity even one's friend disappears.
- 10 Never trust your enemy,
for like corrosion in copper, so is his wickedness.
- 11 Even if he humbles himself and walks bowed down,
take care to be on your guard against him.
Be to him like one who polishes a mirror,
to be sure it does not become completely tarnished.
- 12 Do not put him next to you,
or he may overthrow you and take your place.
Do not let him sit at your right hand,
or else he may try to take your own seat,
and at last you will realize the truth of my words,
and be stung by what I have said.
- 13 Who pities a snake charmer when he is bitten,
or all those who go near wild animals?
- 14 So no one pities a person who associates with a sinner and becomes involved in the other's sins.
- 15 He stands by you for a while,
but if you falter, he will not be there.
- 16 An enemy speaks sweetly with his lips,
but in his heart he plans to throw you into a pit;
an enemy may have tears in his eyes, but if he finds an opportunity he will never have enough of your blood.
- 17 If evil comes upon you, you will find him there ahead of you;
pretending to help, he will trip you up.
- 18 Then he will shake his head, and clap his hands,
and whisper much, and show his true face.

[Sirach 13]Warnings about associates

- 1 Whoever touches pitch gets dirty,
and whoever associates with a proud person becomes like him.

- 2 Do not lift a weight too heavy for you,
or associate with one mightier and richer than you.
How can the clay pot associate with the iron kettle?
The pot will strike against it and be smashed.
- 3 A rich person does wrong, and even adds insults;
a poor person suffers wrong, and must add apologies.
- 4 A rich person will exploit you if you can be of use to him,
but if you are in need he will abandon you.
- 5 If you own something, he will live with you;
he will drain your resources without a qualm.
- 6 When he needs you he will deceive you,
and will smile at you and encourage you;
he will speak to you kindly and say, "What do you need?"
- 7 He will embarrass you with his delicacies,
until he has drained you two or three times,
and finally he will laugh at you.
Should he see you afterwards, he will pass you by
and shake his head at you.
- 8 Take care not to be led astray
and humiliated when you are enjoying yourself.
- 9 When an influential person invites you, be reserved,
and he will invite you more insistently.
- 10 Do not be forward, or you may be rebuffed;
do not stand aloof, or you will be forgotten.
- 11 Do not try to treat him as an equal,
or trust his lengthy conversations;
for he will test you by prolonged talk,
and while he smiles he will be examining you.
- 12 Cruel are those who do not keep your secrets;
they will not spare you harm or imprisonment.
- 13 Be on your guard and very careful,
for you are walking about with your own downfall.
- 14 When you hear these things in your sleep, wake up!
During all your life love the Lord, and call on him for your salvation.

Rich and poor

- 15 Every creature loves its like,
and every person the neighbor.
- 16 All living beings associate with their own kind,
and people stick close to those like themselves.
- 17 What does a wolf have in common with a lamb?
No more has a sinner with the devout.
- 18 What peace is there between a hyena and a dog?
And what peace between the rich and the poor?
- 19 Wild asses in the wilderness are the prey of lions;
likewise the poor are feeding grounds for the rich.
- 20 Humility is an abomination to the proud;
likewise the poor are an abomination to the rich.
- 21 When the rich person totters, he is supported by friends, but when the humble falls, he is pushed away even by friends.
- 22 If the rich person slips, many come to the rescue;
he speaks unseemly words, but they justify him.
If the humble person slips, they even criticize him;
he talks sense, but is not given a hearing.
- 23 The rich person speaks and all are silent;
they extol to the clouds what he says.
The poor person speaks and they say, "Who is this fellow?"
And should he stumble, they even push him down.

Wealth and conscience

- 24 Riches are good if they are free from sin;
poverty is evil only in the opinion of the ungodly.
- 25 The heart changes the countenance, either for good or for evil, and a glad heart
makes a cheerful countenance.
- 26 The sign of a happy heart is a cheerful face,
but to devise proverbs requires painful thinking.

[Sirach 14]

- 1 Happy are those who do not blunder with their lips,
and need not suffer remorse for sin.
- 2 Happy are those whose hearts do not condemn them,
and who have not given up their hope.

The proper use of wealth

- 3 Riches are inappropriate for a small-minded person;
and of what use is wealth to a miser?
- 4 What he denies himself he collects for others;
and others will live in luxury on his goods.
- 5 If one is mean to himself, to whom will he be generous?
He will not enjoy his own riches.
- 6 No one is worse than one who is grudging to himself;
this is the punishment for his meanness.
- 7 If ever he does good, it is by mistake;
and in the end he reveals his meanness.
- 8 The miser is an evil person;
he turns away and disregards people.
- 9 The eye of the greedy person is not satisfied with his share;
greedy injustice withers the soul.
- 10 A miser begrudges bread,
and it is lacking at his table.
- 11 My child, treat yourself well, according to your means,
and present worthy offerings to the Lord.
- 12 Remember that death does not tarry,
and the decree of Hades has not been shown to you.
- 13 Do good to friends before you die,
and reach out and give to them as much as you can.
- 14 Do not deprive yourself of a day's enjoyment;
do not let your share of desired good pass by you.
- 15 Will you not leave the fruit of your labors to another,
and what you acquired by toil to be divided by lot?
- 16 Give, and take, and indulge yourself,
because in Hades one cannot look for luxury.

- 17 All living beings become old like a garment,
 for the decree from of old is, "You must die!"
- 18 Like abundant leaves on a spreading tree
 that sheds some and puts forth others,
 so are the generations of flesh and blood:
 one dies and another is born.
- 19 Every work decays and ceases to exist,
 and the one who made it will pass away with it.

The search for Wisdom and her blessings

- 20 Happy is the person who meditates on wisdom
 and reasons intelligently,
- 21 who reflects in his heart on her ways
 and ponders her secrets,
- 22 pursuing her like a hunter,
 and lying in wait on her paths;
- 23 who peers through her windows
 and listens at her doors;
- 24 who camps near her house
 and fastens his tent peg to her walls;
- 25 who pitches his tent near her,
 and so occupies an excellent lodging place;
- 26 who places his children under her shelter,
 and lodges under her boughs;
- 27 who is sheltered by her from the heat,
 and dwells in the midst of her glory.

[Sirach 15]

- 1 Whoever fears the Lord will do this,
 and whoever holds to the law will obtain wisdom.
- 2 She will come to meet him like a mother,
 and like a young bride she will welcome him.
- 3 She will feed him with the bread of learning,
 and give him the water of wisdom to drink.
- 4 He will lean on her and not fall,
 and he will rely on her and not be put to shame.

- 5 She will exalt him above his neighbors,
and will open his mouth in the midst of the assembly.
- 6 He will find gladness and a crown of rejoicing,
and will inherit an everlasting name.
- 7 The foolish will not obtain her,
and sinners will not see her.
- 8 She is far from arrogance,
and liars will never think of her.
- 9 Praise is unseemly on the lips of a sinner,
for it has not been sent from the Lord.
- 10 For in wisdom must praise be uttered,
and the Lord will make it prosper.

Human responsibility

- 11 Do not say, "It was the LORD's doing that I fell away";
for he does not do what he hates.
- 12 Do not say, "It was he who led me astray";
for he has no need of the sinful.
- 13 The Lord hates all abominations;
such things are not loved by those who fear him.
- 14 It was he who created humankind in the beginning,
and he left them in the power of their own free choice.
- 15 If you choose, you can keep the commandments,
and to act faithfully is a matter of your own choice.
- 16 He has placed before you fire and water;
stretch out your hand for whichever you choose.
- 17 Before each person are life and death,
and whichever one chooses will be given.
- 18 For great is the wisdom of the Lord;
he is mighty in power and sees everything;
- 19 his eyes are on those who fear him,
and he knows every human action.
- 20 He has not commanded anyone to be wicked,
and he has not given anyone permission to sin.

[Sirach 16]The certainty of punishment for sin

- 1 Do not desire a multitude of worthless children,
and do not rejoice in ungodly offspring.
- 2 If they multiply, do not rejoice in them,
unless the fear of the Lord is in them.
- 3 Do not trust in their survival, or rely on their numbers;
for one can be better than a thousand,
and to die childless is better than to have ungodly children.
For you will groan in untimely mourning,
and will know of their sudden end.
- 4 For through one intelligent person a city can be filled with people,
but through a clan of outlaws it becomes desolate.

- 5 Many such things my eye has seen,
and my ear has heard things more striking than these.
- 6 In an assembly of sinners a fire is kindled,
and in a disobedient nation wrath blazes up.
- 7 He did not forgive the ancient giants who revolted in their might.
- 8 He did not spare the neighbors of Lot,
whom he loathed on account of their arrogance.
- 9 He showed no pity on the doomed nation,
on those dispossessed because of their sins
(All these things he did to the hard-hearted nations, and by the multitude of his holy ones he was not appeased),
- 10 or on the six hundred thousand foot soldiers who assembled in their stubbornness. Chastising, showing mercy, striking, healing, the Lord persisted in mercy and discipline.
- 11 Even if there were only one stiff-necked person,
it would be a wonder if he remained unpunished.
For mercy and wrath are with the Lord;
he is mighty to forgive — but he also pours out wrath.
- 12 Great as is his mercy, so also is his chastisement;
he judges a person according to his or her deeds.
- 13 The sinner will not escape with plunder,
and the patience of the godly will not be frustrated.

- 14 He makes room for every act of mercy;
everyone receives in accordance with his or her deeds.
- 15 The Lord hardened Pharaoh so that he did not recognize him,
in order that his works might be known under heaven.
- 16 His mercy is manifest to the whole of creation, and he divided his light and darkness with a plumb line.
- 17 Do not say, "I am hidden from the Lord,
and who from on high has me in mind?
Among so many people I am unknown,
for what am I in a boundless creation?"
- 18 Lo, heaven and the highest heaven,
the abyss and the earth, tremble at his visitation!
The whole world past and present is in his will.
- 19 The very mountains and the foundations of the earth
quiver and quake when he looks upon them.
- 20 But no human mind can grasp this,
and who can comprehend his ways?
- 21 Like a tempest that no one can see,
so most of his works are concealed.
- 22 Who is to announce his acts of justice?
Or who can await them? For his decree is far off."
(If I sin, no eye can see me, and if I am disloyal all in secret, who is to know?)
- 23 Such are the thoughts of one devoid of understanding;
a senseless and misguided person thinks foolishly.

God's own wisdom in creation

- 24 Listen to me, my child, and acquire knowledge, and pay close attention to my words.
- 25 I will impart discipline precisely and declare knowledge accurately.
- 26 When the Lord created his works from the beginning,
and, in making them, determined their boundaries,

- 27 he arranged his works in an eternal order,
and their dominion for all generations.
They neither hunger nor grow weary,
and they do not abandon their tasks.
- 28 They do not crowd one another,
and they never disobey his word.
- 29 Then the Lord looked upon the earth,
and filled it with his good things.
- 30 With all kinds of living beings he covered its surface,
and into it they must return.

[Sirach 17]

- 1 The Lord created human beings out of earth,
and makes them return to it again.
- 2 He gave them a fixed number of days,
but granted them authority over everything on the earth.
- 3 He endowed them with strength like his own,
and made them in his own image.
- 4 He put the fear of them in all living beings,
and gave them dominion over beasts and birds.
- 5 They obtained the use of the five faculties of the Lord;
as sixth he distributed to them the gift of the mind, and
as seventh, reason, the interpreter of one's faculties.
- 6 Discretion and tongue and eyes,
ears and a mind for thinking he gave them.
- 7 He filled them with knowledge and understanding,
and showed them good and evil.
- 8 He put the fear of him into their hearts
to show them the majesty of his works.
- 10 And they will praise his holy name,
9 to proclaim the grandeur of his works.
- 11 He bestowed knowledge upon them,
and allotted to them the law of life,
so that they may know that they who are alive now are mortal.
- 12 He established with them an eternal covenant,
and revealed to them his decrees.

- 13 Their eyes saw his glorious majesty,
and their ears heard the glory of his voice.
14 He said to them, "Beware of all evil."
And he gave commandment to each of them concerning the neighbor.

The divine judge

- 15 Their ways are always known to him;
they will not be hid from his eyes.
16 Their ways from youth tend toward evil,
and they are unable to make for themselves hearts
of flesh in place of their stony hearts.
- 17 For in division of the nations of the whole earth,
he appointed a ruler for every nation,
but Israel is the LORD's own portion, 18 whom being his firstborn, he brings up with discipline,
and allotting to him the light of his love,
he does not neglect them.
- 19 All their works are as clear as the sun before him,
and his eyes are ever upon their ways.
20 Their iniquities are not hidden from him,
and all their sins are before the Lord.
21 But the Lord, who is gracious and knows how they are formed, has neither left them nor abandoned them, but has spared them.
- 22 One's almsgiving is like a signet ring with the Lord, and he will keep a person's kindness like the apple of his eye,
apportioning repentance to his sons and daughters.
23 Afterward he will rise up and repay them,
and he will bring their recompense on their heads.
24 Yet to those who repent he grants a return,
and he encourages those who are losing hope.

A call to repentance

- 25 Turn back to the Lord and forsake your sins;
 pray in his presence and lessen your offense.
- 26 Return to the Most High and turn away from iniquity,
 and hate intensely what he abhors,
 for he will lead you out of darkness to the light of health.
- 27 Who will sing praises to the Most High in Hades
 in place of the living who give thanks?
- 28 From the dead, as from one who does not exist, thanksgiving has ceased; those who are alive and well sing the LORD's praises.
- 29 How great is the mercy of the Lord,
 and his forgiveness for those who return to him!
- 30 For not everything is within human capability,
 since human beings are not immortal.
- 31 What is brighter than the sun? Yet it can be eclipsed.
 So flesh and blood devise evil.
- 32 He marshals the host of the height of heaven;
 but all human beings are dust and ashes.

[Sirach 18]

In praise of God's majesty and mercy

- 1 He who lives forever created the whole universe;
 2 the Lord alone is just, and there is no other beside him;
 3 he steers the world with the span of his hand, and all things obey his will; for he is the king of all things by his power, separating among them the holy things from the profane.
- 4 To none has he given power to proclaim his works;
 and who can search out his mighty deeds?
- 5 Who can measure his majestic power?
 And who can fully recount his mercies?
- 6 It is not possible to diminish or increase them,
 nor is it possible to fathom the wonders of the Lord.
- 7 When human beings have finished, they are just beginning,
 and when they stop, they are still perplexed.

- 8 What are human beings, and of what use are they?
What is good in them, and what is evil?
- 9 The number of days in their life is great if they reach one hundred years, but the death of each one is beyond the calculation of all.
- 10 Like a drop of water from the sea and a grain of sand, so are a few years among the days of eternity.
- 11 That is why the Lord is patient with them and pours out his mercy upon them.
- 12 He sees and recognizes that their end is miserable; therefore he grants them forgiveness all the more.
- 13 The compassion of human beings is for their neighbors, but the compassion of the Lord is for every living thing. He rebukes and trains and teaches them, and turns them back, as a shepherd his flock.
- 14 He has compassion on those who accept his discipline and who are eager for his precepts.

Advice for living

- 15 My child, do not mix reproach with your good deeds, or spoil your gift by harsh words.
- 16 Does not the dew give relief from the scorching heat? So a word is better than a gift.
- 17 Indeed, does not a word surpass a good gift? Both are to be found in a gracious person.
- 18 A fool is ungracious and abusive, and the gift of a grudging giver makes the eyes dim.
- 19 Before you speak, learn; and before you fall ill, take care of your health.
- 20 Before judgment comes, examine yourself; and at the time of scrutiny you will find forgiveness.
- 21 Before falling ill, humble yourself; and when you have sinned, repent.
- 22 Let nothing hinder you from paying a vow promptly, and do not wait until death to be released from it.

- 23 Before making a vow, prepare yourself;
do not be like one who puts the Lord to the test.
- 24 Think of his wrath on the day of death,
and of the moment of vengeance when he turns away his face.
- 25 In the time of plenty think of the time of hunger;
in days of wealth think of poverty and need.
- 26 From morning to evening conditions change;
all things move swiftly before the Lord.
- 27 One who is wise is cautious in everything;
when sin is all around, one guards against wrongdoing.
- 28 Every intelligent person knows wisdom,
and praises the one who finds her.
- 29 Those who are skilled in words become wise themselves,
and pour forth apt proverbs.
Better is confidence in the one Lord than clinging with a dead heart to a dead one.

SELF-CONTROL

- 30 Do not follow your base desires,
but restrain your appetites.
- 31 If you allow your soul to take pleasure in base desire,
it will make you the laughingstock of your enemies.
- 32 Do not revel in great luxury,
or you may become impoverished by its expense.
- 33 Do not become a beggar by feasting with borrowed money, when you have nothing in your purse, for you will be plotting against your own life.

[Sirach 19]

- 1 The one who does this [alcoholism] will not become rich;
one who despises small things will fail little by little.
- 2 Wine and women lead intelligent men astray,
and the man who consorts with prostitutes is reckless.
- 3 Decay and worms will take possession of him,
and the reckless person will be snatched away.

- 4 One who trusts others too quickly has a shallow mind,
and one who sins does wrong to himself.
- 5 One who rejoices in wickedness will be condemned,
but one who withstands pleasures crowns his life.
- 6 One who controls the tongue will live without strife,
and one who hates gossip has less evil.
- 7 Never repeat a conversation,
and you will lose nothing at all.
- 8 With friend or foe do not report it,
and unless it would be a sin for you, do not reveal it;
- 9 for someone may have heard you and watched you,
and in time will hate you.
- 10 Have you heard something? Let it die with you.
Be brave, it will not make you burst!
- 11 Having heard something, the fool suffers birth pangs
like a woman in labor with a child.
- 12 Like an arrow stuck in a person's thigh,
so is gossip inside a fool.
- 13 Question a friend; perhaps he did not do it;
or if he did, so that he may not do it again.
- 14 Question a neighbor; perhaps he did not say it;
or if he said it, so that he may not repeat it.
- 15 Question a friend, for often it is slander;
so do not believe everything you hear.
- 16 A person may make a slip without intending it.
Who has not sinned with his tongue?
- 17 Question your neighbor before you threaten him;
and let the law of the Most High take its course,
and do not be angry.
- 18 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of acceptance,
and wisdom obtains his love.
- 19 The knowledge of the LORD's commandments is life-giving discipline; and those who do what is pleasing to him enjoy the fruit of the tree of immortality.

Wisdom and cleverness contrasted

- 20 The whole of wisdom is fear of the Lord,
and in all wisdom there is the fulfillment of the law,
and the knowledge of his omnipotence.
- 21 When a slaves says to his master, "I will not act as you wish,"
even if later he does it, he angers the one who supports him.
- 22 The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom,
nor is there prudence in the counsel of sinners.
- 23 There is a cleverness that is detestable,
and there is a fool who merely lacks wisdom.
- 24 Better are the God-fearing who lack understanding than the highly intelligent who transgress the law.
- 25 There is a cleverness that is exact but unjust,
and there are people who abuse favors to gain a verdict.
- 26 There is the villain bowed down in mourning,
but inwardly he is full of deceit.
- 27 He hides his face and pretends not to hear,
but when no one notices, he will take advantage of you.
- 28 Even if lack of strength keeps him from sinning,
he will nevertheless do evil when he finds the opportunity.
- 29 A person is known by his appearance,
and a sensible person is known when first met, face to face.
- 30 A person's attire and hearty laughter,
and the way he walks, show what he is.

[Sirach 20]

Speech and silence

- 1 There is a rebuke that is untimely,
and there is the person who is wise enough to keep silent.
- 2 How much better it is to rebuke than to fume!
- 3 And the one who admits his fault will be kept from failure.
- 4 Like a eunuch lusting to violate a girl
is the person who does right under compulsion.
- 5 Some people keep silent and are thought to be wise,
while others are detested for being talkative.

- 6 Some people keep silent because they have nothing to say,
while others keep silent because they know when to speak.
- 7 The wise remain silent until the right moment,
but a boasting fool misses the right moment.
- 8 Whoever talks too much is detested,
and whoever pretends to authority is hated.
How good it is to show repentance when you are reprov'd,
for so you will escape deliberate sin!

Paradoxical appearances

- 9 There may be good fortune for a person in adversity,
and a windfall may result in a loss.
- 10 There is the gift that profits you nothing,
and the gift to be paid back double.
- 11 There are losses for the sake of glory,
and there are some who have raised their heads from humble circumstances.
- 12 Some buy much for little,
but pay for it seven times over.
- 13 The wise make themselves beloved by only few words,
but the courtesies of fools are wasted.
- 14 A fool's gift will profit you nothing, so it is with the envious who give under compulsion,
for he looks for recompense sevenfold.
- 15 He gives little and upbraids much;
he opens his mouth like a town crier.
Today he lends and tomorrow he asks it back;
such a one is hateful to God and humans.
- 16 The fool says, "I have no friends,
and I get no thanks for my good deeds.
Those who eat my bread are evil-tongued."
- 17 How many will ridicule him, and how often,
for he has not honestly received what he has, and what he does not have is unimportant to him!

Inappropriate speech

- 18 A slip on the pavement is better than a slip of the tongue;
the downfall of the wicked will occur just as speedily.
- 19 A coarse person is like an inappropriate story, continually on the lips of the ignorant.
- 20 A proverb from a fool's lips will be rejected,
for he does not tell it at the proper time.

Shameful circumstances

- 21 One may be prevented from sinning by poverty;
so when he rests he feels no remorse.
- 22 One may lose his life through shame,
or lose it because of human respect.
- 23 Another out of shame makes promises to a friend,
and so makes an enemy for nothing.
- 24 A lie is an ugly blot on a person;
it is continually on the lips of the ignorant.
- 25 A thief is preferable to a habitual liar,
but the lot of both is ruin.
- 26 A liar's way leads to disgrace,
and his shame is ever with him.

PROVERBIAL SAYINGS

Wise counsel

- 27 The wise person advances himself by his words,
and one who is sensible pleases the great.
- 28 Those who cultivate the soil heap up their harvest,
and those who please the great atone for injustice.
- 29 Favors and gifts blind the eyes of the wise;
like a muzzle on the mouth they stop reproofs.
- 30 Hidden wisdom and unseen treasure,
of what value is either?
- 31 Better are those who hide their folly
than those who hide their wisdom.

32 Unwearied endurance in seeking the Lord is better than a masterless charioteer of one's own life.

[Sirach 21]

Warnings against sin

- 1 Have you sinned, my child? Do so no more,
but ask forgiveness for your past sins.
- 2 Flee from sin as from a snake;
for if you approach sin, it will bite you.
Its teeth are lion's teeth,
and can destroy human lives.
- 3 All lawlessness is like a two-edged sword;
there is no healing for the wound it inflicts.
- 4 Panic and insolence will waste away riches;
thus the house of the proud will be laid waste.
- 5 The prayer of the poor goes from their lips to the ears of God,
and his judgment comes speedily.
- 6 Those who hate reproof walk in the sinner's steps,
but those who fear the Lord repent in their heart.
- 7 The mighty in speech are widely known;
when they slip, the sensible person knows it.
- 8 Whoever builds his house with other people's money is like one who gathers stones for his burial mound.
- 9 An assembly of the wicked is like a bundle of tow,
and their end is a blazing fire.
- 10 The way of sinners is paved with smooth stones,
but at its end is the pit of Hades.

A series of contrasts between the wise and fools

- 11 Whoever keeps the law controls his thoughts, and the fulfillment of the fear of the Lord is wisdom.
- 12 The one who is not clever cannot be taught,
but there is a cleverness that increases bitterness.

- 13 The knowledge of the wise will increase like a flood,
and their counsel like a life-giving spring.
- 14 The mind of a fool is like a broken jar;
it can hold no knowledge.
- 15 When an intelligent person hears a wise saying,
he praises it and adds to it;
when a fool hears it, he laughs at it and throws it behind his back.
- 16 A fool's chatter is like a burden on a journey,
but delight is found in the speech of the intelligent.
- 17 The utterance of a sensible person is sought in the assembly,
and they ponder his words in their minds.
- 18 Like a house in ruins is wisdom to a fool,
and to the ignorant, knowledge is talk that has no meaning.
- 19 To a senseless person education is fetters on his feet,
and like manacles on his right hand.
- 20 A fool raises his voice when he laughs,
but the wise smile quietly.
- 21 To the sensible person education is like a golden ornament,
and like a bracelet on the right arm.
- 22 The foot of a fool rushes into a house,
but an experienced person waits respectfully outside.
- 23 A boor peers into the house from the door,
but a cultivated person remains outside.
- 24 It is ill-mannered for a person to listen at a door;
the discreet would be grieved by the disgrace.
- 25 The lips of babblers speak of what is not their concern,
but the words of the prudent are weighed in the balance.
- 26 The mind of fools is in their mouth,
but the mouth of the wise is in their mind.
- 27 When an ungodly person curses an adversary,
he curses himself.
- 28 A whisperer degrades himself
and is hated in his neighborhood.

[Sirach 22]
On laziness

- 1 The idler is like a filthy stone,
 and every one hisses at his disgrace.
 2 The idler is like the filth of dunghills;
 anyone that picks it up will shake it off his hand.

On children

- 3 It is a disgrace to be the father of an undisciplined son,
 and the birth of a daughter is a loss.
 4 A sensible daughter obtains a husband of her own,
 but one who acts shamefully is a grief to her father.
 5 An impudent daughter disgraces father and husband,
 and is despised by both.
 6 Like music in time of mourning is ill-timed conversation,
 but a thrashing and discipline are at all times wisdom.
 7 Children who are brought up in a good life, conceal the lowly birth of their parents.
 8 Children who are disdainfully and boorishly haughty stain
 the nobility of their kindred.

On fools

- 9 Whoever teaches a fool is like one who glues potsherds together, or who rouses a sleeper from deep slumber.
 10 Whoever tells a story to a fool tells it to a drowsy man;
 and at the end he will say, "What is it?"
 11 Weep for the dead, for he has left the light behind;
 and weep for the fool, for he has left intelligence behind.
 Weep less bitterly for the dead, for he is at rest;
 but the life of the fool is worse than death.
 12 Mourning for the dead lasts seven days, but for the foolish or the ungodly it lasts all the days of their lives.

- 13 Do not talk much with a senseless person or visit an unintelligent person.
For being without sense he will despise everything about you.
Stay clear of him, or you may have trouble,
and be spattered when he shakes himself off.
Avoid him and you will find rest,
and you will never be wearied by his lack of sense.
- 14 What is heavier than lead?
And what is its name except "Fool"?
- 15 Sand, salt, and a piece of iron are easier to bear than a stupid person.
- 16 A wooden beam firmly bonded into a building
is not loosened by an earthquake;
so the mind firmly resolved after due reflection
will not be afraid in a crisis.
- 17 A mind settled on an intelligent thought is like stucco decoration that makes a wall smooth.
- 18 Fences set on a high place
will not stand firm against the wind;
so a timid mind with a fool's resolve
will not stand firm against any fear.

Preserving friendship

- 19 One who pricks the eye brings tears,
and one who pricks the heart makes clear its feelings.
- 20 One who throws a stone at birds scares them away,
and one who reviles a friend destroys a friendship.
- 21 Even if you draw your sword against a friend,
do not despair, for there is a way back.
- 22 If you open your mouth against your friend,
do not worry, for reconciliation is possible.
But as for reviling, arrogance, disclosure of secrets,
or a treacherous blow — in these cases any friend
will take to flight.

- 23 Gain the trust of your neighbor in his poverty,
 so that you may rejoice with him in his prosperity.
 Stand by him in time of distress,
 so that you may share with him in his inheritance.
 For one should not always despise restricted circumstances,
 or admire a rich person who is stupid.
- 24 The vapor and smoke of the furnace precede the fire;
 so insults precede bloodshed.
- 25 I am not ashamed to shelter a friend,
 and I will not hide from him.
- 26 But if harm should come to me because of him,
 whoever hears of it will beware of him.

A prayer for self-control

- 27 Who will set a guard over my mouth,
 and an effective seal upon my lips,
 so that I may not fall because of them,
 and my tongue may not destroy me?

[Sirach 23]

- 1 O Lord, Father and Master of my life,
 do not abandon me to their designs,
 and do not let me fall because of them!
- 2 Who will set whips over my thoughts,
 and the discipline of wisdom over my mind,
 so as not to spare me in my errors,
 and not overlook my sins?
- 3 Otherwise my mistakes may be multiplied,
 and my sins may abound,
 and I may fall before my adversaries,
 and my enemy may rejoice over me.
 From them the hope of your mercy is remote.
- 4 O Lord, Father and God of my life,
 do not give me haughty eyes,
 5 and remove evil desire from me.

6 Let neither gluttony nor lust overcome me,
and do not give me over to shameless passion.

DISCIPLINE OF THE TONGUE

Sinful speech

7 Listen, my children, to instruction concerning the mouth;
the one who observes it will never be caught.

8 Sinners are overtaken through their lips;
by them the reviler and the arrogant are tripped up.

9 Do not accustom your mouth to oaths,
nor habitually utter the name of the Holy One;

10 for as a servant who is constantly under scrutiny
will not lack bruises,
so also the person who always swears and utters the Name
will never be cleansed from sin.

11 The one who swears many oaths is full of iniquity,
and the scourge will not leave his house.

If he swears in error, his sin remains on him,
and if he disregards it, he sins doubly;
if he swears a false oath, he will not be justified,
for his house will be filled with calamities.

12 There is a manner of speaking comparable to death;
may it never be found in the inheritance of Jacob!
Such conduct will be far from the godly,
and they will not wallow in sins.

13 Do not accustom your mouth to coarse, foul language,
for it involves sinful speech.

14 Remember your father and mother
when you sit among the great,
or you may forget yourself in their presence,
and behave like a fool through bad habit;
then you will wish that you had never been born,
and you will curse the day of your birth.

15 Those who are accustomed to using abusive language will never become disciplined as long as they live.

Sexual misconduct

- 16 Two kinds of individuals multiply sins,
and a third incurs wrath.
Hot passion that blazes like a fire
will not be quenched until it burns itself out;
one who commits fornication with his near of kin
will never cease until the fire burns him up.
- 17 To a fornicator all bread is sweet;
he will never weary until he dies.
- 18 The one who sins against his marriage bed
says to himself, "Who can see me?
Darkness surrounds me, the walls hide me,
and no one sees me. Why should I worry?
The Most High will not remember sins."
- 19 His fear is confined to human eyes and he does not realize that the eyes of the Lord
are ten thousand times brighter than the sun;
they look upon every aspect of human behavior
and see into hidden corners.
- 20 Before the universe was created, it was known to him,
and so it is since its completion.
- 21 This man will be punished in the streets of the city,
and where he least suspects it, he will be seized.
- 22 So it is with a woman who leaves her husband and presents him with an heir by another man.
- 23 For first of all, she has disobeyed the law of the Most High;
second, she has committed an offense against her husband;
and third, through her fornication she has committed adultery and brought forth children by another man.
- 24 She herself will be brought before the assembly,
and her punishment will extend to her children.
- 25 Her children will not take root,
and her branches will not bear fruit.
- 26 She will leave behind an accursed memory
and her disgrace will never be blotted out.

- 27 Those who survive her will recognize that nothing is better than the fear of the Lord, and nothing sweeter than to heed the commandments of the Lord.
 28 It is a great honor to follow God,
 and to be received by him is long life.

THE PRAISE OF WISDOM

[Sirach 24]

Praise of Wisdom

- 1 Wisdom praises herself,
 and tells of her glory in the midst of her people.
 2 In the assembly of the Most High she opens her mouth,
 and in the presence of his hosts she tells of her glory:
 3 "I came forth from the mouth of the Most High,
 and covered the earth like a mist.
 4 I dwelt in the highest heavens,
 and my throne was in a pillar of cloud.
 5 Alone I compassed the vault of heaven and traversed the depths of the abyss.
 6 Over waves of the sea, over all the earth,
 and over every people and nation I have held sway.
 7 Among all these I sought a resting place;
 in whose territory should I abide?

 8 "Then the Creator of all things gave me a command,
 and my Creator chose the place for my tent.
 He said, 'Make your dwelling in Jacob,
 and in Israel receive your inheritance.'
 9 Before the ages, in the beginning, he created me, and for all the ages I shall not cease to be.
 10 In the holy tent I ministered before him,
 and so I was established in Zion.
 11 Thus in the beloved city he gave me a resting place,
 and in Jerusalem was my domain.
 12 I took root in an honored people,
 in the portion of the Lord, his heritage.

- 13 "I grew tall like a cedar in Lebanon,
and like a cypress on the heights of Hermon.
- 14 I grew tall like a palm tree in En-gedi,
and like rosebushes in Jericho;
like a fair olive tree in the field,
and like a plane tree beside water I grew tall.
- 15 Like cassia and camel's thorn I gave forth perfume,
and like choice myrrh I spread my fragrance,
like galbanum, onycha, and stacte,
and like the odor of incense in the tent.
- 16 Like a terebinth I spread out my branches,
and my branches are glorious and graceful.
- 17 Like the vine I bud forth delights,
and my blossoms become glorious and abundant fruit.
- 18 I am the mother of beautiful love, of fear, of knowledge, and of holy hope; being eternal, I am given to all my children,
to those who are named by him.
- 19 "Come to me, you who desire me,
and eat your fill of my fruits.
- 20 For the memory of me is sweeter than honey,
and the possession of me sweeter than the honeycomb.
- 21 Those who eat of me will hunger for more,
and those who drink of me will thirst for more.
- 22 Whoever obeys me will not be put to shame,
and those who work with me will not sin."
- 23 All this is the book of the covenant of the Most High God,
the law that Moses commanded us
as an inheritance for the congregations of Jacob.
- 24 "Do not cease to be strong in the Lord, cling to him so that he may strengthen you; the Lord Almighty alone is God, and besides him there is no savior."
- 25 It overflows, like the Pishon, with wisdom, and like the Tigris at the time of the first fruits.
- 26 It runs over, like the Euphrates, with understanding,
and like the Jordan at harvest time.
- 27 It pours forth instruction like the Nile,
like the Gihon at the time of vintage.

- 28 The first man did not know wisdom fully,
nor will the last one fathom her.
- 29 For her thoughts are more abundant than the sea,
and her counsel deeper than the great abyss.
- 30 As for me, I was like a canal from a river,
like a water channel into a garden.
- 31 I said, "I will water my garden and drench my flower-beds."
And lo, my canal became a river,
and my river a sea.
- 32 I will again make instruction shine forth like the dawn,
and I will make it clear from far away.
- 33 I will again pour out teaching like prophecy,
and leave it to all future generations.
- 34 Observe that I have not labored for myself alone,
but for all who seek wisdom.

[Sirach 25]

Numerical sayings

- 1 I take pleasure in three things,
and they are beautiful in the sight of God and of mortals:
agreement among brothers and sisters, friendship among neighbors, and a wife and a husband who live in harmony.
- 2 I hate three kinds of people,
and I loathe their manner of life:
a pauper who boasts, a rich person who lies,
and an old fool who commits adultery.

Wisdom and maturity

- 3 If you gathered nothing in your youth,
how can you find anything in your old age?
- 4 How attractive is sound judgment in the gray-haired,
and for the aged to possess good counsel!

- 5 How attractive is wisdom in the aged,
and understanding and counsel in the venerable!
6 Rich experience is the crown of the aged,
and their boast is the fear of the Lord.

A numerical saying of ten blessings

- 7 I can think of nine whom I would call blessed,
and a tenth my tongue proclaims:
a man who can rejoice in his children;
a man who lives to see the downfall of his foes.
8 Happy the man who lives with a sensible wife,
and the one who does not plow with ox and ass together.
Happy is the one who does not sin with the tongue,
and the one who has not served an inferior.
9 Happy is the one who finds a friend,
and the one who speaks to attentive listeners.
10 How great is the one who finds wisdom!
But none is superior to the one who fears the Lord.
11 Fear of the Lord surpasses everything;
to whom can we compare the one who has it?
12 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of love for him,
and faith is the beginning of clinging to him.

Woeful women and bad wives

- 13 Any wound, but not a wound of the heart!
Any wickedness, but not the wickedness of a woman!
14 Any suffering, but not suffering from those who hate!
And any vengeance, but not the vengeance of enemies!
15 There is no venom worse than a snake's venom,
and no anger worse than a woman's wrath.

16 I would rather live with a lion and a dragon
than live with an evil woman.
17 A woman's wickedness changes her appearance,
and darkens her face like that of a bear.

- 18 Her husband sits among the neighbors,
and he cannot help sighing bitterly.
- 19 Any iniquity is small compared to a woman's iniquity;
may a sinner's lot befall her!
- 20 A sandy ascent for the feet of the aged —
such is a garrulous wife to a quiet husband.
- 21 Do not be ensnared by a woman's beauty,
and do not desire a woman for her possessions.
- 22 There is wrath and impudence and great disgrace
when a wife supports her husband.
- 23 Dejected mind, gloomy face,
and wounded heart come from an evil wife.
Drooping hands and weak knees
come from the wife who does not make her husband happy.
- 24 From a woman sin had its beginning,
and because of her we all die.
- 25 Allow no outlet to water,
and no boldness of speech to an evil wife.
- 26 If she does not go as you direct,
separate her from yourself.

[Sirach 26]
The good wife

- 1 Happy is the husband of a good wife;
the number of his days will be doubled.
- 2 A loyal wife brings joy to her husband,
and he will complete his years in peace.
- 3 A good wife is a great blessing;
she will be granted among the blessings of the man who fears the Lord.
- 4 Whether rich or poor, his heart is content,
and at all times his face is cheerful.

More objectionable women

- 5 Of three things my heart is frightened,
and of a fourth I am in great fear:
Slander in the city, the gathering of a mob,
and false accusation — all these are worse than death.
- 6 But it is heartache and sorrow when a wife is jealous of a rival,
and a tongue-lashing makes it known to all.
- 7 A bad wife is a chafing yoke;
taking hold of her is like grasping a scorpion.
- 8 A drunken wife arouses great anger;
she cannot hide her shame.
- 9 The haughty stare betrays an unchaste wife;
her eyelids give her away.
- 10 Keep strict watch over a headstrong daughter,
or else, when she finds liberty, she will make use of it.
- 11 Be on guard against her impudent eye,
and do not be surprised if she sins against you.
- 12 As a thirsty traveler opens his mouth
and drinks from any water near him,
so she will sit in front of every tent peg
and open her quiver to the arrow.

Praise of the good wife

- 13 A wife's charm delights her husband,
and her skill puts flesh on his bones.
- 14 A silent wife is a gift from the Lord,
and nothing is so precious as her self-discipline.
- 15 A modest wife adds charm to charm,
and no scales can weigh the value of her chastity.
- 16 Like the sun rising in the heights of the Lord,
so is the beauty of a good wife in her well-ordered home.
- 17 Like the shining lamp on the holy lampstand,
so is a beautiful face on a stately figure.
- 18 Like golden pillars on silver bases,
so are shapely legs and steadfast feet.

Other ancient authorities add verses 19–27:
Further teaching concerning women

- 19 My child, keep sound the bloom of your youth,
and do not give your strength to strangers.
- 20 Seek a fertile field within the whole plain,
and sow it with your own seed, trusting in your fine stock.
- 21 So your offspring will prosper,
and, having confidence in their good descent, will grow great.
- 22 A prostitute is regarded as spittle,
and a married woman as a tower of death to her lovers.
- 23 A godless wife is given as a portion to a lawless man,
but a pious wife is given to the man who fears the Lord.
- 24 A shameless woman constantly acts disgracefully,
but a modest daughter will even be embarrassed before her husband.
- 25 A headstrong wife is regarded as a dog,
but one who has a sense of shame will fear the Lord.
- 26 A wife honoring her husband will seem wise to all,
but if she dishonors him in her pride she will be known to all as ungodly.
Happy is the husband of a good wife;
for the number of his years will be doubled.
- 27 A loud-voiced and garrulous wife is like a trumpet sounding the charge, and every person like this lives in the anarchy of war.

Tests of character

- 28 At two things my heart is grieved,
and because of a third anger comes over me:
a warrior in want through poverty,
intelligent men who are treated contemptuously,
and a man who turns back from righteousness to sin —
the Lord will prepare him for the sword!
- 29 A merchant can hardly keep from wrongdoing,
nor is a tradesman innocent of sin.

[Sirach 27]

- 1 Many have committed sin for gain,
and those who seek to get rich will avert their eyes.
- 2 As a stake is driven firmly into a fissure between stones,
so sin is wedged in between selling and buying.
- 3 If a person is not steadfast in the fear of the Lord,
his house will be quickly overthrown.

- 4 When a sieve is shaken, the refuse appears;
so do a person's faults when he speaks.
- 5 The kiln tests the potter's vessels;
so the test of a person is in his conversation.
- 6 Its fruit discloses the cultivation of a tree;
so a person's speech discloses the cultivation of his mind.
- 7 Do not praise anyone before he speaks,
for this is the way people are tested.

- 8 If you pursue justice, you will attain it and wear it like a glorious robe.
- 9 Birds roost with their own kind,
so honesty comes home to those who practice it.
- 10 A lion lies in wait for prey;
so does sin for evildoers.

- 11 The conversation of the godly is always wise,
but the fool changes like the moon.
- 12 Among stupid people limit your time,
but among thoughtful people linger on.
- 13 The talk of fools is offensive,
and their laughter is wantonly sinful.
- 14 Their cursing and swearing make one's hair stand on end,
and their quarrels make others stop their ears.
- 15 The strife of the proud leads to bloodshed,
and their abuse is grievous to hear.

Damaged relationships

- 16 Whoever betrays secrets destroys confidence,
and will never find a congenial friend.
- 17 Love your friend and keep faith with him;
but if you betray his secrets, do not follow after him.
- 18 For as a person destroys his enemy,
so you have destroyed the friendship of your neighbor.
- 19 And as you allow a bird to escape from your hand,
so you have let your neighbor go, and will not catch him again.
- 20 Do not go after him, for he is too far off,
and has escaped like a gazelle from a snare.
- 21 For a wound may be bandaged,
and there is reconciliation after abuse,
but whoever has betrayed secrets is without hope.
- 22 Whoever winks the eye plots mischief,
and those who know him will keep their distance.
- 23 In your presence his mouth is all sweetness,
and he admires your words;
but later he will twist his speech
and with your own words he will trip you up.
- 24 I have hated many things, but him above all;
even the Lord hates him.
- 25 Whoever throws a stone straight up throws it on his own head,
and a treacherous blow opens up many wounds.
- 26 Whoever digs a pit will fall into it,
and whoever sets a snare will be caught in it.
- 27 If a person does evil, it will roll back upon him,
and he will not know where it came from.
- 28 Mockery and abuse issue from the proud,
but vengeance lies in wait for them like a lion.
- 29 Those who rejoice in the fall of the godly will be caught in a snare,
and pain will consume them before their death.
- 30 Anger and wrath, these also are abominations,
yet a sinner holds on to them.

[Sirach 28]

- 1 The vengeful will face the LORD's vengeance,
for he keeps a strict account of their sins.
- 2 Forgive your neighbor the wrong he has done,
and then your sins will be pardoned when you pray.
- 3 Does anyone harbor anger against another,
and expect healing from the Lord?
- 4 If one has no mercy toward another like himself,
can he then seek pardon for his own sins?
- 5 If a mere mortal harbors wrath,
who will make an atoning sacrifice for his sins?
- 6 Remember the end of your life, and set enmity aside;
remember corruption and death, and be true to the commandments.
- 7 Remember the commandments, and do not be angry with your neighbor; remember the covenant of the Most High,
and overlook faults.

- 8 Refrain from strife, and your sins will be fewer;
for the hot-tempered kindle strife,
- 9 and the sinner disrupts friendships
and sows discord among those who are at peace.
- 10 In proportion to the fuel, so will the fire burn,
and in proportion to the obstinacy, so will strife increase;
in proportion to a person's strength will be his anger,
and in proportion to his wealth he will increase his wrath.
- 11 A hasty quarrel kindles a fire,
and a hasty dispute sheds blood.
- 12 If you blow on a spark, it will glow;
if you spit on it, it will be put out;
yet both come out of your mouth.

- 13 Curse the gossips and the double-tongued,
for they destroy the peace of many.

- 14 Slander has shaken many,
and scattered them from nation to nation;
it has destroyed strong cities,
and overturned the houses of the great.
- 15 Slander has driven virtuous women from their homes,
and deprived them of the fruit of their toil.
- 16 Those who pay heed to slander will not find rest,
nor will they settle down in peace.
- 17 The blow of a whip raises a welt,
but a blow of the tongue crushes the bones.
- 18 Many have fallen by the edge of the sword,
but not as many as have fallen because of the tongue.
- 19 Happy is the one who is protected from it,
who has not been exposed to its anger,
who has not borne its yoke,
and has not been bound with its fetters.
- 20 For its yoke is a yoke of iron,
and its fetters are fetters of bronze;
- 21 its death is an evil death,
and Hades is preferable to it.
- 22 It has no power over the godly;
they will not be burned in its flame.
- 23 Those who forsake the Lord will fall into its power;
it will burn among them and will not be put out.
It will be sent out against them like a lion;
like a leopard it will mangle them.
- 24a As you fence in your property with thorns, 25b so make a door and a bolt for your mouth.
- 24b As you lock up your silver and gold, 25a so make balances and scales for your words.
- 26 Take care not to err with your tongue,
and fall victim to one lying in wait.

[Sirach 29]Loans, alms, surety

- 1 The merciful lend to their neighbors;
by holding out a helping hand they keep the commandments.
- 2 Lend to your neighbor in his time of need;
repay your neighbor when a loan falls due.
- 3 Keep your promise and be honest with him,
and on every occasion you will find what you need.
- 4 Many regard a loan as a windfall,
and cause trouble to those who help them.
- 5 One kisses another's hands until he gets a loan,
and is deferential in speaking of his neighbor's money;
but at the time for repayment he delays,
and pays back with empty promises,
and finds fault with the time.
- 6 If he can pay, his creditor will hardly get back half,
and will regard that as a windfall.
If he cannot pay, the borrower has robbed the other of his money, and he has needlessly made him an enemy;
he will repay him with curses and reproaches,
and instead of glory will repay him with dishonor.
- 7 Many refuse to lend, not because of meanness,
but from fear of being defrauded needlessly.
- 8 Nevertheless, be patient with someone in humble circumstances,
and do not keep him waiting for your alms.
- 9 Help the poor for the commandment's sake,
and in their need do not send them away empty-handed.
- 10 Lose your silver for the sake of a brother or a friend, and do not let it rust under a stone and be lost.
- 11 Lay up your treasure according to the commandments of the Most High, and it will profit you more than gold.
- 12 Store up almsgiving in your treasury,
and it will rescue you from every disaster;
- 13 better than a stout shield and a sturdy spear,
it will fight for you against the enemy.

- 14 A good person will be surety for his neighbor,
but the one who has lost all sense of shame will fail him.
- 15 Do not forget the kindness of your guarantor,
for he has given his life for you.
- 16 A sinner wastes the property of his guarantor, 17 and the ungrateful person abandons his rescuer.
- 18 Being surety has ruined many who were prosperous,
and has tossed them about like waves of the sea;
it has driven the influential into exile,
and they have wandered among foreign nations.
- 19 The sinner comes to grief through surety;
his pursuit of gain involves him in lawsuits.
- 20 Assist your neighbor to the best of your ability,
but be careful not to fall yourself.

Frugality

- 21 The necessities of life are water, bread, and clothing,
and also a house to assure privacy.
- 22 Better is the life of the poor under their own crude roof than sumptuous food in the house of others.
- 23 Be content with little or much,
and you will hear no reproach for being a guest.
- 24 It is a miserable life to go from house to house;
as a guest you should not open your mouth;
25 you will play the host and provide drink without being thanked,
and besides this you will hear rude words like these:
- 26 "Come here, stranger, prepare the table;
let me eat what you have there."
- 27 "Be off, stranger, for an honored guest is here;
my brother has come for a visit, and I need the guest-room."
- 28 It is hard for a sensible person to bear scolding about lodging and the insults of the moneylender.

CONCERNING CHILDREN[Sirach 30]*Training of children

- 1 He who loves his son will whip him often,
so that he may rejoice at the way he turns out.
- 2 He who disciplines his son will profit by him,
and will boast of him among acquaintances.
- 3 He who teaches his son will make his enemies envious,
and will glory in him among his friends.
- 4 When the father dies he will not seem to be dead,
for he has left behind him one like himself,
- 5 whom in his life he looked upon with joy
and at death, without grief.
- 6 He has left behind him an avenger against his enemies,
and one to repay the kindness of his friends.

- 7 Whoever spoils his son will bind up his wounds,
and will suffer heartache at every cry.
- 8 An unbroken horse turns out stubborn,
and an unchecked son turns out headstrong.
- 9 Pamper a child, and he will terrorize you;
play with him, and he will grieve you.
- 10 Do not laugh with him, or you will have sorrow with him,
and in the end you will gnash your teeth.
- 11 Give him no freedom in his youth,
and do not ignore his errors.
- 12 Bow down his neck in his youth,
and beat his sides while he is young,
or else he will become stubborn and disobey you,
and you will have sorrow of soul from him.
- 13 Discipline your son and make his yoke heavy,
so that you may not be offended by his shamelessness.

On health and enjoyment of life

- 14 Better off poor, healthy, and fit
than rich and afflicted in body.

- 15 Health and fitness are better than any gold,
and a robust body than countless riches.
- 16 There is no wealth better than health of body,
and no gladness above joy of heart.
- 17 Death is better than a life of misery,
and eternal sleep than chronic sickness.

CONCERNING FOODS

- 18 Good things poured out upon a mouth that is closed
are like offerings of food placed upon a grave.
- 19 Of what use to an idol is a sacrifice?
For it can neither eat nor smell.
So is the one punished by the Lord;
20 he sees with his eyes and groans
as a eunuch groans when embracing a girl.
So is the person who does right under compulsion.
- 21 Do not give yourself over to sorrow,
and do not distress yourself deliberately.
- 22 A joyful heart is life itself,
and rejoicing lengthens one's life span.
- 23 Indulge yourself and take comfort,
and remove sorrow far from you,
for sorrow has destroyed many,
and no advantage ever comes from it.
- 24 Jealousy and anger shorten life,
and anxiety brings on premature old age.
- 25 Those who are cheerful and merry at table
will benefit from their food.

[Sirach 31] On wealth

- 1 Wakefulness over wealth wastes away one's flesh,
and anxiety about it drives away sleep.
- 2 Wakeful anxiety prevents slumber,
and a severe illness carries off sleep.

- 3 The rich person toils to amass a fortune,
and when he rests he fills himself with his dainties.
- 4 The poor person toils to make a meager living,
and if ever he rests he becomes needy.
- 5 One who loves gold will not be justified;
one who pursues money will be led astray by it.
- 6 Many have come to ruin because of gold,
and their destruction has met them face to face.
- 7 It is a stumbling block to those who are avid for it,
and every fool will be taken captive by it.
- 8 Blessed is the rich person who is found blameless,
and who does not go after gold.
- 9 Who is he, that we may praise him?
For he has done wonders among his people.
- 10 Who has been tested by it and been found perfect?
Let it be for him a ground for boasting.
Who has had the power to transgress and did not transgress,
and to do evil and did not do it?
- 11 His prosperity will be established,
and the assembly will proclaim his acts of charity.

Temperance in eating and drinking

- 12 Are you seated at the table of the great?
Do not be greedy at it,
and do not say, "How much food there is here!"
- 13 Remember that a greedy eye is a bad thing.
What has been created more greedy than the eye?
Therefore it sheds tears for any reason.
- 14 Do not reach out your hand for everything you see,
and do not crowd your neighbor at the dish.
- 15 Judge your neighbor's feelings by your own,
and in every matter be thoughtful.
- 16 Eat what is set before you like a well brought-up person,
and do not chew greedily, or you will give offense.
- 17 Be the first to stop, as befits good manners,
and do not be insatiable, or you will give offense.

- 18 If you are seated among many persons,
do not help yourself before they do.
- 19 How ample a little is for a well-disciplined person!
He does not breathe heavily when in bed.
- 20 Healthy sleep depends on moderate eating;
he rises early, and feels fit.
The distress of sleeplessness and of nausea
and colic are with the glutton.
- 21 If you are overstuffed with food,
get up to vomit, and you will have relief.
- 22 Listen to me, my child, and do not disregard me,
and in the end you will appreciate my words.
In everything you do be moderate,
and no sickness will overtake you.
- 23 People bless the one who is liberal with food,
and their testimony to his generosity is trustworthy.
- 24 The city complains of the one who is stingy with food,
and their testimony to his stinginess is accurate.
- 25 Do not try to prove your strength by wine-drinking,
for wine has destroyed many.
- 26 As the furnace tests the work of the smith,
so wine tests hearts when the insolent quarrel.
- 27 Wine is very life to human beings
if taken in moderation.
What is life to one who is without wine?
It has been created to make people happy.
- 28 Wine drunk at the proper time and in moderation
is rejoicing of heart and gladness of soul.
- 29 Wine drunk to excess leads to bitterness of spirit,
to quarrels and stumbling.
- 30 Drunkenness increases the anger of a fool to his own hurt,
reducing his strength and adding wounds.
- 31 Do not reprove your neighbor at a banquet of wine,
and do not despise him in his merrymaking;
speak no word of reproach to him,
and do not distress him by making demands of him.

[Sirach 32]

- 1 If they make you master of the feast, do not exalt yourself;
 be among them as one of their number.
 Take care of them first and then sit down;
- 2 when you have fulfilled all your duties, take your place,
 so that you may be merry along with them
 and receive a wreath for your excellent leadership.
- 3 Speak, you who are older, for it is your right,
 but with accurate knowledge, and do not interrupt the music.
- 4 Where there is entertainment, do not pour out talk;
 do not display your cleverness at the wrong time.
- 5 A ruby seal in a setting of gold
 is a concert of music at a banquet of wine.
- 6 A seal of emerald in a rich setting of gold
 is the melody of music with good wine.
- 7 Speak, you who are young, if you are obliged to,
 but no more than twice, and only if asked.
- 8 Be brief; say much in few words;
 be as one who knows and can still hold his tongue.
- 9 Among the great do not act as their equal;
 and when another is speaking, do not babble.
- 10 Lightning travels ahead of the thunder,
 and approval goes before one who is modest.
- 11 Leave in good time and do not be the last;
 go home quickly and do not linger.
- 12 Amuse yourself there to your heart's content,
 but do not sin through proud speech.
- 13 But above all bless your Maker,
 who fills you with his good gifts.

The God-fearing person contrasted with the sinner

- 14 The one who seeks God will accept his discipline, and those who rise early to seek him will find favor.

- 15 The one who seeks the law will be filled with it,
but the hypocrite will stumble at it.
- 16 Those who fear the Lord will form true judgments,
and they will kindle righteous deeds like a light.
- 17 The sinner will shun reproof,
and will find a decision according to his liking.
- 18 A sensible person will not overlook a thoughtful suggestion;
an insolent and proud person will not be deterred by fear.
- 19 Do nothing without deliberation,
but when you have acted, do not regret it.
- 20 Do not go on a path full of hazards,
and do not stumble at an obstacle twice.
- 21 Do not be overconfident on a smooth road, 22 and give good heed to your paths.
- 23 Guard yourself in every act,
for this is the keeping of the commandments.
- 24 The one who keeps the law preserves himself,
and the one who trusts the Lord will not suffer loss.

[Sirach 33]

- 1 No evil will befall the one who fears the Lord,
but in trials such a one will be rescued again and again.
- 2 The wise will not hate the law,
but the one who is hypocritical about it is like a boat in a storm.
- 3 The sensible person will trust in the law;
for such a one the law is as dependable as a divine oracle.
- 4 Prepare what to say, and then you will be listened to;
draw upon your training, and give your answer.
- 5 The heart of a fool is like a cart wheel,
and his thoughts like a turning axle.
- 6 A mocking friend is like a stallion that neighs no matter who the rider is.

Divinely ordained opposites in creation

- 7 Why is one day more important than another,
when all the daylight in the year is from the sun?
- 8 By the LORD'S wisdom they were distinguished,
and he appointed the different seasons and festivals.
- 9 Some days he exalted and hallowed,
and some he made ordinary days.
- 10 All human beings come from the ground,
and humankind was created out of the dust.
- 11 In the fullness of his knowledge the Lord distinguished them and appointed their different ways.
- 12 Some he blessed and exalted,
and some he made holy and brought near to himself;
but some he cursed and brought low,
and turned them out of their place.
- 13 Like clay in the hand of the potter,
to be molded as he pleases,
so all are in the hand of their Maker,
to be given whatever he decides.
- 14 Good is the opposite of evil,
and life the opposite of death;
so the sinner is the opposite of the godly.
- 15 Look at all the works of the Most High;
they come in pairs, one the opposite of the other.

The author's qualifications

- 16 Now I was the last to keep vigil;
I was like a gleaner following the grape-pickers;
- 17 by the blessing of the Lord I arrived first,
and like a grape-picker I filled my wine press.
- 18 Consider that I have not labored for myself alone,
but for all who seek instruction.
- 19 Hear me, you who are great among the people,
and you leaders of the congregation, pay heed!

On property and slaves

- 20 To son or wife, to brother or friend,
do not give power over yourself, as long as you live;
and do not give your property to another,
in case you change your mind and must ask for it.
- 21 While you are still alive and have breath in you,
do not let anyone take your place.
- 22 For it is better that your children should ask from you than that you should look to the hand of your children.
- 23 Excel in all that you do;
bring no stain upon your honor.
- 24 At the time when you end the days of your life,
in the hour of death, distribute your inheritance.
- 25 Fodder and a stick and burdens for a donkey;
bread and discipline and work for a slave.
- 26 Set your slave to work, and you will find rest;
leave his hands idle, and he will seek liberty.
- 27 Yoke and thong will bow the neck,
and for a wicked slave there are racks and tortures.
- 28 Put him to work, in order that he may not be idle, 29 for idleness teaches much evil.
- 30 Set him to work, as is fitting for him,
and if he does not obey, make his fetters heavy.
Do not be overbearing toward anyone,
and do nothing unjust.
- 31 If you have but one slave, treat him like yourself,
because you have bought him with blood.
If you have but one slave, treat him like a brother,
for you will need him as you need your life.
- 32 If you ill-treat him, and he leaves you and runs away, 33 which way will you go to seek him?

[Sirach 34]The vanity of dreams and omens

- 1 The senseless have vain and false hopes,
and dreams give wings to fools.
- 2 As one who catches at a shadow and pursues the wind,
so is anyone who believes in dreams.
- 3 What is seen in dreams is but a reflection,
the likeness of a face looking at itself.
- 4 From an unclean thing what can be clean?
And from something false what can be true?
- 5 Divinations and omens and dreams are unreal,
and like a woman in labor, the mind has fantasies.
- 6 Unless they are sent by intervention from the Most High,
pay no attention to them.
- 7 For dreams have deceived many,
and those who put their hope in them have perished.
- 8 Without such deceptions the law will be fulfilled,
and wisdom is complete in the mouth of the faithful.

Learning from experience

- 9 An educated person knows many things, and one with much experience knows what he is talking about.
- 10 An inexperienced person knows few things, 11 but he that has traveled acquires much cleverness.
- 12 I have seen many things in my travels,
and I understand more than I can express.
- 13 I have often been in danger of death,
but have escaped because of these experiences.
- 14 The spirit of those who fear the Lord will live, 15 for their hope is in him who saves them.
- 16 Those who fear the Lord will not be timid,
or play the coward, for he is their hope.
- 17 Happy is the soul that fears the Lord!
- 18 To whom does he look? And who is his support?

- 19 The eyes of the Lord are on those who love him,
 a mighty shield and strong support,
 a shelter from scorching wind and a shade from noonday sun,
 a guard against stumbling and a help against falling.
- 20 He lifts up the soul and makes the eyes sparkle;
 he gives health and life and blessing.

Unacceptable sacrifices

- 21 If one sacrifices ill-gotten goods, the offering is blemished;
 22 the gifts of the lawless are not acceptable.
- 23 The Most High is not pleased with the offerings of the ungodly, nor for a multitude of sacrifices does he forgive sins.
- 24 Like one who kills a son before his father's eyes is the person who offers a sacrifice from the property of the poor.
- 25 The bread of the needy is the life of the poor;
 whoever deprives them of it is a murderer.
- 26 To take away a neighbor's living is to commit murder;
 27 to deprive an employee of wages is to shed blood.
- 28 When one builds and another tears down,
 what do they gain but hard work?
- 29 When one prays and another curses,
 to whose voice will the Lord listen?
- 30 If one washes after touching a corpse, and touches it again,
 what has been gained by washing?
- 31 So if one fasts for his sins,
 and goes again and does the same things,
 who will listen to his prayer?
 And what has he gained by humbling himself?

[Sirach 35]

Acceptable sacrifices

- 1 The one who keeps the law makes many offerings;
 2 one who heeds the commandments makes an offering of well-being.
- 3 The one who returns a kindness offers choice flour,
 4 and one who gives alms sacrifices a thank offering.

- 5 To keep from wickedness is pleasing to the Lord,
and to forsake unrighteousness is an atonement.
- 6 Do not appear before the Lord empty-handed,
7 for all that you offer is in fulfillment of the commandment.
- 8 The offering of the righteous enriches the altar,
and its pleasing odor rises before the Most High.
- 9 The sacrifice of the righteous is acceptable,
and it will never be forgotten.
- 10 Be generous when you worship the Lord,
and do not stint the first fruits of your hands.
- 11 With every gift show a cheerful face,
and dedicate your tithe with gladness.
- 12 Give to the Most High as he has given to you,
and as generously as you can afford.
- 13 For the Lord is the one who repays,
and he will repay you sevenfold.

A warning against exploitation of the poor

- 14 Do not offer him a bribe, for he will not accept it;
15 and do not rely on a dishonest sacrifice;
for the Lord is the judge,
and with him there is no partiality.
- 16 He will not show partiality to the poor;
but he will listen to the prayer of one who is wronged.
- 17 He will not ignore the supplication of the orphan,
or the widow when she pours out her complaint.
- 18 Do not the tears of the widow run down her cheek 19 as she cries out against the one who causes them to fall?
- 20 The one whose service is pleasing to the Lord will be accepted,
and his prayer will reach to the clouds.
- 21 The prayer of the humble pierces the clouds,
and it will not rest until it reaches its goal;
it will not desist until the Most High responds

22 and does justice for the righteous, and executes judgment.
 Indeed, the Lord will not delay,
 and like a warrior will not be patient until he crushes the loins of the unmerciful 23 and repays vengeance on the nations;
 until he destroys the multitude of the insolent,
 and breaks the scepters of the unrighteous;
 24 until he repays mortals according to their deeds,
 and the works of all according to their thoughts;
 25 until he judges the case of his people
 and makes them rejoice in his mercy.
 26 His mercy is as welcome in time of distress
 as clouds of rain in time of drought.

[Sirach 36]

A prayer for the deliverance and restoration of Israel

1 Have mercy upon us, O God of all,
 2 and put all the nations in fear of you.
 3 Lift up your hand against foreign nations and let them see your might.
 4 As you have used us to show your holiness to them,
 so use them to show your glory to us.
 5 Then they will know, as we have known,
 that there is no God but you, O Lord.
 6 Give new signs, and work other wonders;
 7 make your hand and right arm glorious.
 8 Rouse your anger and pour out your wrath;
 9 destroy the adversary and wipe out the enemy.
 10 Hasten the day, and remember the appointed time,
 and let people recount your mighty deeds.
 11 Let survivors be consumed in the fiery wrath,
 and may those who harm your people meet destruction.
 12 Crush the heads of hostile rulers
 who say, "There is no one but ourselves."
 13 Gather all the tribes of Jacob,

[Owing to a dislocation in the Greek manuscripts of Sirach, the verse numbers 14 and 15 and not used in Chapter 36, though no text is missing.]

- 16 and give them their inheritance, as at the beginning.
 17 Have mercy, O Lord, on the people called by your name, on Israel, whom you have named your firstborn,
 18 Have pity on the city of your sanctuary,
 Jerusalem, the place of your dwelling.
 19 Fill Zion with your majesty,
 and your temple with your glory.
 20 Bear witness to those whom you created in the beginning,
 and fulfill the prophecies spoken in your name.
 21 Reward those who wait for you and let your prophets be found trustworthy.
 22 Hear, O Lord, the prayer of your servants,
 according to your goodwill toward your people,
 and all who are on the earth will know that you are the Lord, the God of the ages.

Concerning discrimination

- 23 The stomach will take any food,
 yet one food is better than another.
 24 As the palate tastes the kinds of game,
 so an intelligent mind detects false words.
 25 A perverse mind will cause grief,
 but a person with experience will pay him back.

On choices in marriage

- 26 A woman will accept any man as a husband,
 but one girl is preferable to another.
 27 A woman's beauty lights up a man's face,
 and there is nothing he desires more.
 28 If kindness and humility mark her speech,
 her husband is more fortunate than other men.

- 29 He who acquires a wife gets his best possession,
a helper fit for him and a pillar of support.
- 30 Where there is no fence, the property will be plundered; and where there is no wife, a man will become a fugitive and a wanderer.
- 31 For who will trust a nimble robber
that skips from city to city?
So who will trust a man that has no nest,
but lodges wherever night overtakes him?

[Sirach 37]
False friends

- 1 Every friend says, "I too am a friend";
but some friends are friends only in name.
- 2 Is it not a sorrow like that for death itself
when a dear friend turns into an enemy?
- 3 O inclination to evil, why were you formed to cover the land with deceit?
- 4 Some companions rejoice in the happiness of a friend,
but in time of trouble they are against him.
- 5 Some companions help a friend for their stomachs' sake,
yet in battle they will carry his shield.
- 6 Do not forget a friend during the battle,
and do not be unmindful of him when you distribute your spoils.

On taking counsel

- 7 All counselors praise the counsel they give,
but some give counsel in their own interest.
- 8 Be wary of a counselor,
and learn first what is his interest,
for he will take thought for himself.
He may cast the lot against you
- 9 and tell you, "Your way is good,"
and then stand aside to see what happens to you.
- 10 Do not consult the one who regards you with suspicion;
hide your intentions from those who are jealous of you.

- 11 Do not consult with a woman about her rival
 or with a coward about war,
 with a merchant about business or with a buyer about selling,
 with a miser about generosity
 or with the merciless about kindness, with an idler about any work
 or with a seasonal laborer about completing his work, with a lazy servant about a big task —
 pay no attention to any advice they give.
- 12 But associate with a godly person whom you know to be a keeper of the commandments,
 who is like-minded with yourself,
 and who will grieve with you if you fail.
- 13 And heed the counsel of your own heart, for no one is more faithful to you than it is.
- 14 For our own mind sometimes keeps us better informed than seven sentinels sitting high on a watchtower.
- 15 But above all pray to the Most High
 that he may direct your way in truth.

Enduring wisdom

- 16 Discussion is the beginning of every work,
 and counsel precedes every undertaking.
- 17 The mind is the root of all conduct; 18 it sprouts four branches,
 good and evil, life and death;
 and it is the tongue that continually rules them.
- 19 Some people may be clever enough to teach many,
 and yet be useless to themselves.
- 20 A skillful speaker may be hated;
 he will be destitute of all food,
 21 for the Lord has withheld the gift of charm,
 since he is lacking in all wisdom.
- 22 If a person is wise to his own advantage,
 the fruits of his good sense will be praiseworthy.

- 23 A wise person instructs his own people,
and the fruits of his good sense will endure.
- 24 A wise person will have praise heaped upon him,
and all who see him will call him happy.
- 25 The days of a person's life are numbered,
but the days of Israel are without number.
- 26 One who is wise among his people will inherit honor,
and his name will live forever.

Temperance

- 27 My child, test yourself while you live;
see what is bad for you and do not give in to it.
- 28 For not everything is good for everyone,
and no one enjoys everything.
- 29 Do not be greedy for every delicacy,
and do not eat without restraint;
- 30 for overeating brings sickness,
and gluttony leads to nausea.
- 31 Many have died of gluttony,
but the one who guards against it prolongs his life.

[Sirach 38]

Concerning physicians

- 1 Honor physicians for their services,
for the Lord created them;
- 2 for their gift of healing comes from the Most High,
and they are rewarded by the king.
- 3 The skill of physicians makes them distinguished,
and in the presence of the great they are admired.
- 4 The Lord created medicines out of the earth,
and the sensible will not despise them.
- 5 Was not water made sweet with a tree
in order that its power might be known?
- 6 And he gave skill to human beings
that he might be glorified in his marvelous works.
- 7 By them the physician heals and takes away pain;

- 8 the pharmacist makes a mixture from them.
 God's works will never be finished;
 and from him health spreads over all the earth.
- 9 My child, when you are ill, do not delay,
 but pray to the Lord, and he will heal you.
- 10 Give up your faults and direct your hands rightly,
 and cleanse your heart from all sin.
- 11 Offer a sweet-smelling sacrifice, and a memorial portion of choice flour,
 and pour oil on your offering, as much as you can afford.
- 12 Then give the physician his place, for the Lord created him;
 do not let him leave you, for you need him.
- 13 There may come a time when recovery lies in the hands of physicians,
- 14 for they too pray to the Lord
 that he grant them success in diagnosis
 and in healing, for the sake of preserving life.
- 15 He who sins against his Maker,
 will be defiant toward the physician.

On mourning and grief

- 16 My child, let your tears fall for the dead,
 and as one in great pain begin the lament.
 Lay out the body with due ceremony,
 and do not neglect the burial.
- 17 Let your weeping be bitter and your wailing fervent;
 make your mourning worthy of the departed,
 for one day, or two, to avoid criticism;
 then be comforted for your grief.
- 18 For grief may result in death,
 and a sorrowful heart saps one's strength.
- 19 When a person is taken away, sorrow is over;
 but the life of the poor weighs down the heart.
- 20 Do not give your heart to grief;
 drive it away, and remember your own end.

- 21 Do not forget, there is no coming back;
 you do the dead no good, and you injure yourself.
- 22 Remember his fate, for yours is like it;
 yesterday it was his, and today it is yours.
- 23 When the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest too,
 and be comforted for him when his spirit has departed.

Skilled workers contrasted with the scribe

- 24 The wisdom of the scribe depends on the opportunity of leisure;
 only the one who has little business can become wise.
- 25 How can one become wise who handles the plow,
 and who glories in the shaft of a goad,
 who drives oxen and is occupied with their work,
 and whose talk is about bulls?
- 26 He sets his heart on plowing furrows,
 and he is careful about fodder for the heifers.
- 27 So it is with every artisan and master artisan who labors by night as well as by day;
 those who cut the signets of seals,
 each is diligent in making a great variety;
 they set their heart on painting a lifelike image,
 and they are careful to finish their work.
- 28 So it is with the smith, sitting by the anvil,
 intent on his iron-work;
 the breath of the fire melts his flesh,
 and he struggles with the heat of the furnace;
 the sound of the hammer deafens his ears,
 and his eyes are on the pattern of the object.
 He sets his heart on finishing his handiwork,
 and he is careful to complete its decoration.
- 29 So it is with the potter sitting at his work
 and turning the wheel with his feet;
 he is always deeply concerned over his products,
 and he produces them in quantity.

30 He molds the clay with his arm
 and makes it pliable with his feet;
 he sets his heart to finish the glazing,
 and he takes care in firing the kiln.

31 All these rely on their hands,
 and all are skillful in their own work.

32 Without them no city can be inhabited,
 and wherever they live, they will not go hungry.
 Yet they are not sought out for the council of the people,

33 nor do they attain eminence in the public assembly.
 They do not sit in the judge's seat,
 nor do they understand the decisions of the courts;
 they cannot expound discipline or judgment,
 and they are not found among the rulers.

34a But they maintain the fabric of the world,
 and their concern is for the exercise of their trade.

Praise of the scribe

34b How different the one who devotes himself to the study of the law of the Most High!

[Sirach 39]

1 He seeks out the wisdom of all the ancients,
 and is concerned with prophecies;
 2 he preserves the sayings of the famous
 and penetrates the subtleties of parables;
 3 he seeks out the hidden meanings of proverbs
 and is at home with the obscurities of parables.
 4 He serves among the great and appears before rulers;
 he travels in foreign lands
 and learns what is good and evil in the human lot.

- 5 He sets his heart to rise early to seek the Lord who made him,
and to petition the Most High;
he opens his mouth in prayer
and asks pardon for his sins.
- 6 If the great Lord is willing,
he will be filled with the spirit of understanding;
he will pour forth words of wisdom of his own and give thanks to the Lord in prayer.
- 7 The Lord will direct his counsel and knowledge,
as he meditates on his mysteries.
- 8 He will show the wisdom of what he has learned,
and will glory in the law of the LORD's covenant.
- 9 Many will praise his understanding;
it will never be blotted out.
His memory will not disappear,
and his name will live through all generations.
- 10 Nations will speak of his wisdom,
and the congregation will proclaim his praise.
- 11 If he lives long, he will leave a name greater than a thousand,
and if he goes to rest, it is enough for him.

A hymn of praise

- 12 I have more on my mind to express;
I am full like the full moon.
- 13 Listen to me, my faithful children, and blossom
like a rose growing by a stream of water.
- 14 Send out fragrance like incense,
and put forth blossoms like a lily.
Scatter the fragrance, and sing a hymn of praise;
bless the Lord for all his works.
- 15 Ascribe majesty to his name
and give thanks to him with praise,
with songs on your lips, and with harps;
this is what you shall say in thanksgiving:

- 16 "All the works of the Lord are very good,
and whatever he commands will be done at the appointed time.
- 17 No one can say, 'What is this?' or 'Why is that?' —
for at the appointed time all such questions will be answered.
At his word the waters stood in a heap,
and the reservoirs of water at the word of his mouth.
- 18 When he commands, his every purpose is fulfilled,
and none can limit his saving power.
- 19 The works of all are before him,
and nothing can be hidden from his eyes.
- 20 From the beginning to the end of time he can see everything,
and nothing is too marvelous for him.
- 21 No one can say, 'What is this?' or 'Why is that?' —
for everything has been created for its own purpose.
- 22 "His blessing covers the dry land like a river,
and drenches it like a flood.
- 23 But his wrath drives out the nations,
as when he turned a watered land into salt.
- 24 To the faithful his ways are straight,
but full of pitfalls for the wicked.
- 25 From the beginning good things were created for the good,
but for sinners good things and bad.
- 26 The basic necessities of human life are water and fire and iron and salt and wheat flour and milk and honey,
the blood of the grape and oil and clothing.
- 27 All these are good for the godly,
but for sinners they turn into evils.
- 28 "There are winds created for vengeance,
and in their anger they can dislodge mountains;
on the day of reckoning they will pour out their strength and calm the anger of their Maker.
- 29 Fire and hail and famine and pestilence,
all these have been created for vengeance;
- 30 the fangs of wild animals and scorpions and vipers,
and the sword that punishes the ungodly with destruction.

31 They take delight in doing his bidding,
 always ready for his service on earth;
 and when their time comes they never disobey his command."

32 So from the beginning I have been convinced of all this and have thought it out and left it in writing:

33 All the works of the Lord are good,
 and he will supply every need in its time.

34 No one can say, "This is not as good as that,"
 for everything proves good in its appointed time.

35 So now sing praise with all your heart and voice,
 and bless the name of the Lord.

[Sirach 40]

Reflections on the human condition

1 Hard work was created for everyone, and a heavy yoke is laid on the children of Adam,
 from the day they come forth from their mother's womb
 until the day they return to the mother of all the living.

2 Perplexities and fear of heart are theirs,
 and anxious thought of the day of their death.

3 From the one who sits on a splendid throne
 to the one who grovels in dust and ashes,

4 from the one who wears purple and a crown
 to the one who is clothed in burlap,

5 there is anger and envy and trouble and unrest,
 and fear of death, and fury and strife.

And when one rests upon his bed,
 his sleep at night confuses his mind.

6 He gets little or no rest;
 he struggles in his sleep as he did by day.
 He is troubled by the visions of his mind
 like one who has escaped from the battlefield.

7 At the moment he reaches safety he wakes up,
 astonished that his fears were groundless.

8 To all creatures, human and animal,
 but to sinners seven times more,

- 9 come death and bloodshed and strife and sword,
calamities and famine and ruin and plague.
- 10 All these were created for the wicked,
and on their account the flood came.
- 11 All that is of earth returns to earth,
and what is from above returns above.
- 12 All bribery and injustice will be blotted out,
but good faith will last forever.
- 13 The wealth of the unjust will dry up like a river,
and crash like a loud clap of thunder in a storm.
- 14 As a generous person has cause to rejoice,
so lawbreakers will utterly fail.
- 15 The children of the ungodly put out few branches;
they are unhealthy roots on sheer rock.
- 16 The reeds by any water or river bank
are plucked up before any grass;
- 17 but kindness is like a garden of blessings,
and almsgiving endures forever.
- 18 Wealth and wages make life sweet,
but better than either is finding a treasure.
- 19 Children and the building of a city establish one's name,
but better than either is the one who finds wisdom.
Cattle and orchards make one prosperous;
but a blameless wife is accounted better than either.
- 20 Wine and music gladden the heart,
but the love of friends is better than either.
- 21 The flute and the harp make sweet melody,
but a pleasant voice is better than either.
- 22 The eye desires grace and beauty,
but the green shoots of grain more than either.
- 23 A friend or companion is always welcome,
but a sensible wife is better than either.
- 24 Kindred and helpers are for a time of trouble,
but almsgiving rescues better than either.
- 25 Gold and silver make one stand firm,
but good counsel is esteemed more than either.

26 Riches and strength build up confidence,
 but the fear of the Lord is better than either.
 There is no want in the fear of the Lord,
 and with it there is no need to seek for help.
 27 The fear of the Lord is like a garden of blessing, and covers a person better than any glory.

28 My child, do not lead the life of a beggar;
 it is better to die than to beg.
 29 When one looks to the table of another,
 one's way of life cannot be considered a life.
 One loses self-respect with another person's food,
 but one who is intelligent and well instructed guards
 against that.
 30 In the mouth of the shameless begging is sweet,
 but it kindles a fire inside him.

[Sirach 41]

1 O death, how bitter is the thought of you to the one at peace among possessions, who has nothing to worry about and is prosperous in everything,
 and still is vigorous enough to enjoy food!
 2 O death, how welcome is your sentence
 to one who is needy and failing in strength,
 worn down by age and anxious about everything;
 to one who is contrary, and has lost all patience!
 3 Do not fear death's decree for you;
 remember those who went before you and those who will come after.
 4 This is the LORD's decree for all flesh;
 why then should you reject the will of the Most High?
 Whether life lasts for ten years or a hundred or a thousand,
 there are no questions asked in Hades.
 5 The children of sinners are abominable children,
 and they frequent the haunts of the ungodly.

6 The inheritance of the children of sinners will perish,
and on their offspring will be a perpetual disgrace.

7 Children will blame an ungodly father,
for they suffer disgrace because of him.

8 Woe to you, the ungodly,
who have forsaken the law of the Most High God!

9 If you have children, calamity will be theirs;
you will beget them only for groaning.

When you stumble, there is lasting joy;
and when you die, a curse is your lot.

10 Whatever comes from earth returns to earth;
so the ungodly go from curse to destruction.

11 The human body is a fleeting thing,
but a virtuous name will never be blotted out.

12 Have regard for your name, since it will outlive you longer than a thousand hoards of gold.

13 The days of a good life are numbered,
but a good name lasts forever.

A poem on shame, true and false

14 My children, be true to your training and be at peace;
hidden wisdom and unseen treasure — of what value is either?

15 Better are those who hide their folly
than those who hide their wisdom.

16 Therefore show respect for my words;
for it is not good to feel shame in every circumstance,
nor is every kind of abashment to be approved.

17 Be ashamed of sexual immorality, before your father or mother;
and of a lie, before a prince or a ruler;

18 of a crime, before a judge or magistrate;
and of a breach of the law, before the congregation and the people; of unjust dealing, before your partner or your friend;

- 19 and of theft, in the place where you live.
 Be ashamed of breaking an oath or agreement,
 and of leaning on your elbow at meals;
 of surliness in receiving or giving,
 20 and of silence, before those who greet you;
 of looking at a prostitute, 21 and of rejecting the appeal of a relative;
 of taking away someone's portion or gift,
 and of gazing at another man's wife;
 22 of meddling with his servant-girl —
 and do not approach her bed;
 of abusive words, before friends —
 and do not be insulting after making a gift.

[Sirach 42]

- 1 Be ashamed of repeating what you hear,
 and of betraying secrets.
 Then you will show proper shame,
 and will find favor with everyone.
 Of the following things do not be ashamed,
 and do not sin to save face:
 2 Do not be ashamed of the law of the Most High and his covenant,
 and of rendering judgment to acquit the ungodly;
 3 of keeping accounts with a partner or with traveling companions,
 and of dividing the inheritance of friends;
 4 of accuracy with scales and weights,
 and of acquiring much or little;
 5 of profit from dealing with merchants,
 and of frequent disciplining of children,
 and of drawing blood from the back of a wicked slave.
 6 Where there is an untrustworthy wife, a seal is a good thing;
 and where there are many hands, lock things up.
 7 When you make a deposit, be sure it is counted and weighed,
 and when you give or receive, put it all in writing.

8 Do not be ashamed to correct the stupid or foolish or the aged who are guilty of sexual immorality.
 Then you will show your sound training,
 and will be approved by all.

A man's anxiety over daughters

9 A daughter is a secret anxiety to her father,
 and worry over her robs him of sleep;
 when she is young, for fear she may not marry,
 or if married, for fear she may be disliked;
 10 while a virgin, for fear she may be seduced
 and become pregnant in her father's house;
 or having a husband, for fear she may go astray,
 or, though married, for fear she may be barren.
 11 Keep strict watch over a headstrong daughter,
 or she may make you a laughingstock to your enemies,
 a byword in the city and the assembly of the people,
 and put you to shame in public gatherings.
 See that there is no lattice in her room,
 no spot that overlooks the approaches to the house.
 12 Do not let her parade her beauty before any man,
 or spend her time among married women; 13 for from garments comes the moth,
 and from a woman comes woman's wickedness.
 14 Better is the wickedness of a man than a woman who does good;
 it is woman who brings shame and disgrace.

In praise of God and the wonders of creation

15 I will now call to mind the works of the Lord, and will declare what I have seen.
 By the word of the Lord his works are made;
 and all his creatures do his will.
 16 The sun looks down on everything with its light, and the work of the Lord is full of his glory.

- 17 The Lord has not empowered even his holy ones
to recount all his marvelous works, which the Lord the Almighty has established
so that the universe may stand firm in his glory.
- 18 He searches out the abyss and the human heart;
he understands their innermost secrets.
For the Most High knows all that may be known;
he sees from of old the things that are to come.
- 19 He discloses what has been and what is to be,
and he reveals the traces of hidden things.
- 20 No thought escapes him,
and nothing is hidden from him.
- 21 He has set in order the splendors of his wisdom;
he is from all eternity one and the same.
Nothing can be added or taken away,
and he needs no one to be his counselor.
- 22 How desirable are all his works,
and how sparkling they are to see!
- 23 All these things live and remain forever;
each creature is preserved to meet a particular need.
- 24 All things come in pairs, one opposite the other,
and he has made nothing incomplete.
- 25 Each supplements the virtues of the other.
Who could ever tire of seeing his glory?

[Sirach 43]

- 1 The pride of the higher realms is the clear vault of the sky,
as glorious to behold as the sight of the heavens.
- 2 The sun, when it appears, proclaims as it rises
what a marvelous instrument it is, the work of the Most High.
- 3 At noon it parches the land,
and who can withstand its burning heat?
- 4 A man tending a furnace works in burning heat,
but three times as hot is the sun scorching the mountains;
it breathes out fiery vapors,
and its bright rays blind the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord who made it;
at his orders it hurries on its course.

6 It is the moon that marks the changing seasons,
governing the times, their everlasting sign.

7 From the moon comes the sign for festal days,
a light that wanes when it completes its course.

8 The new moon, as its name suggests, renews itself;
how marvelous it is in this change,
a beacon to the hosts on high,
shining in the vault of the heavens!

9 The glory of the stars is the beauty of heaven,
a glittering array in the heights of the Lord.

10 On the orders of the Holy One they stand in their appointed places;
they never relax in their watches.

11 Look at the rainbow, and praise him who made it;
it is exceedingly beautiful in its brightness.

12 It encircles the sky with its glorious arc;
the hands of the Most High have stretched it out.

13 By his command he sends the driving snow
and speeds the lightnings of his judgment.

14 Therefore the storehouses are opened,
and the clouds fly out like birds.

15 In his majesty he gives the clouds their strength,
and the hailstones are broken in pieces.

17a The voice of his thunder rebukes the earth;

16 when he appears, the mountains shake.

At his will the south wind blows;

17b so do the storm from the north and the whirlwind.

He scatters the snow like birds flying down,
and its descent is like locusts alighting.

18 The eye is dazzled by the beauty of its whiteness,
and the mind is amazed as it falls.

19 He pours frost over the earth like salt,
and icicles form like pointed thorns.

- 20 The cold north wind blows,
and ice freezes on the water;
it settles on every pool of water,
and the water puts it on like a breastplate.
- 21 He consumes the mountains and burns up the wilderness,
and withers the tender grass like fire.
- 22 A mist quickly heals all things;
the falling dew gives refreshment from the heat.
- 23 By his plan he stilled the deep and planted islands in it.
- 24 Those who sail the sea tell of its dangers,
and we marvel at what we hear.
- 25 In it are strange and marvelous creatures,
all kinds of living things, and huge sea-monsters.
- 26 Because of him each of his messengers succeeds,
and by his word all things hold together.
- 27 We could say more but could never say enough;
let the final word be: "He is the all."
- 28 Where can we find the strength to praise him?
For he is greater than all his works.
- 29 Awesome is the Lord and very great,
and marvelous is his power.
- 30 Glorify the Lord and exalt him as much as you can,
for he surpasses even that.
When you exalt him, summon all your strength,
and do not grow weary, for you cannot praise him enough.
- 31 Who has seen him and can describe him?
Or who can extol him as he is?
- 32 Many things greater than these lie hidden,
for I have seen but few of his works.
- 33 For the Lord has made all things,
and to the godly he has given wisdom.

HYMN IN HONOR OF OUR ANCESTORS[Sirach 44]*In praise of Israel's ancestors; Introduction

- 1 Let us now sing the praises of famous men,
our ancestors in their generations.
- 2 The Lord apportioned to them great glory,
his majesty from the beginning.
- 3 There were those who ruled in their kingdoms,
and made a name for themselves by their valor;
those who gave counsel because they were intelligent;
those who spoke in prophetic oracles;
- 4 those who led the people by their counsels
and by their knowledge of the people's lore;
they were wise in their words of instruction;
- 5 those who composed musical tunes,
or put verses in writing;
- 6 rich men endowed with resources,
living peacefully in their homes —
- 7 all these were honored in their generations,
and were the pride of their times.
- 8 Some of them have left behind a name,
so that others declare their praise.
- 9 But of others there is no memory;
they have perished as though they had never existed;
they have become as though they had never been born,
they and their children after them.
- 10 But these also were godly men, whose righteous deeds have not been forgotten;
- 11 their wealth will remain with their descendants,
and their inheritance with their children's children.
- 12 Their descendants stand by the covenants;
their children also, for their sake.
- 13 Their offspring will continue forever,
and their glory will never be blotted out.
- 14 Their bodies are buried in peace,
but their name lives on generation after generation.

15 The assembly declares their wisdom,
and the congregation proclaims their praise.

Enoch

16 Enoch pleased the Lord and was taken up,
an example of repentance to all generations.

Noah

17 Noah was found perfect and righteous;
in the time of wrath he kept the race alive;
therefore a remnant was left on the earth
when the flood came.

18 Everlasting covenants were made with him that all flesh should never again be blotted out by a flood.

Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob/Israel

19 Abraham was the great father of a multitude of nations, and no one has been found like him in glory.

20 He kept the law of the Most High,
and entered into a covenant with him;
he certified the covenant in his flesh,
and when he was tested he proved faithful.

21 Therefore the Lord assured him with an oath that the nations would be blessed through his offspring;
that he would make him as numerous as the dust of the earth,
and exalt his offspring like the stars,
and give them an inheritance from sea to sea
and from the Euphrates to the ends of the earth.

22 To Isaac also he gave the same assurance for the sake of his father Abraham.
 The blessing of all people and the covenant 23a he made to rest on the head of Jacob;
 he acknowledged him with his blessings,
 and gave him his inheritance;
 he divided his portions,
 and distributed them among twelve tribes.

Moses

23b From his descendants the Lord brought forth a godly man, who found favor in the sight of all

[Sirach 45]

1 and was beloved by God and people,
 Moses, whose memory is blessed.
 2 He made him equal in glory to the holy ones,
 and made him great, to the terror of his enemies.
 3 By his words he performed swift miracles;
 the Lord glorified him in the presence of kings.
 He gave him commandments for his people,
 and revealed to him his glory.
 4 For his faithfulness and meekness he consecrated him,
 choosing him out of all humankind.
 5 He allowed him to hear his voice,
 and led him into the dark cloud,
 and gave him the commandments face to face,
 the law of life and knowledge,
 so that he might teach Jacob the covenant,
 and Israel his decrees.

Aaron and Phinehas

6 He exalted Aaron, a holy man like Moses who was his brother, of the tribe of Levi.

- 7 He made an everlasting covenant with him,
and gave him the priesthood of the people.
He blessed him with stateliness,
and put a glorious robe on him.
- 8 He clothed him in perfect splendor,
and strengthened him with the symbols of authority,
the linen undergarments, the long robe, and the ephod.
- 9 And he encircled him with pomegranates,
with many golden bells all around,
to send forth a sound as he walked,
to make their ringing heard in the temple
as a reminder to his people;
- 10 with the sacred vestment, of gold and violet
and purple, the work of an embroiderer;
with the oracle of judgment, Urim and Thummim;
- 11 with twisted crimson, the work of an artisan;
with precious stones engraved like seals,
in a setting of gold, the work of a jeweler,
to commemorate in engraved letters
each of the tribes of Israel;
- 12 with a gold crown upon his turban,
inscribed like a seal with "Holiness,"
a distinction to be prized, the work of an expert,
a delight to the eyes, richly adorned.
- 13 Before him such beautiful things did not exist.
No outsider ever put them on,
but only his sons
and his descendants in perpetuity.
- 14 His sacrifices shall be wholly burned
twice every day continually.
- 15 Moses ordained him,
and anointed him with holy oil;
it was an everlasting covenant for him
and for his descendants as long as the heavens endure, to minister to the Lord and serve as priest
and bless his people in his name.

- 16 He chose him out of all the living
to offer sacrifice to the Lord, incense and a pleasing odor as a memorial portion,
to make atonement for the people.
- 17 In his commandments he gave him authority and statutes and judgments,
to teach Jacob the testimonies,
and to enlighten Israel with his law.
- 18 Outsiders conspired against him,
and envied him in the wilderness, Dathan and Abiram and their followers
and the company of Korah, in wrath and anger.
- 19 The Lord saw it and was not pleased,
and in the heat of his anger they were destroyed;
he performed wonders against them
to consume them in flaming fire.
- 20 He added glory to Aaron
and gave him a heritage;
he allotted to him the best of the first fruits,
and prepared bread of first fruits in abundance;
- 21 for they eat the sacrifices of the Lord,
which he gave to him and his descendants.
- 22 But in the land of the people he has no inheritance,
and he has no portion among the people;
for the Lord himself is his portion and inheritance.
- 23 Phinehas son of Eleazar ranks third in glory
for being zealous in the fear of the Lord,
and standing firm, when the people turned away,
in the noble courage of his soul;
and he made atonement for Israel.
- 24 Therefore a covenant of friendship was established with him, that he should be leader of the sanctuary and of his people,
that he and his descendants should have the dignity of the priesthood forever.

25 Just as a covenant was established with David son of Jesse of the tribe of Judah,
 that the king's heritage passes only from son to son,
 so the heritage of Aaron is for his descendants alone.

A prayer for high priests

26 And now bless the Lord who has crowned you with glory.
 May the Lord grant you wisdom of mind
 to judge his people with justice,
 so that their prosperity may not vanish,
 and that their glory may endure through all their generations.

[Sirach 46]

Joshua, Caleb, the judges, and Samuel

1 Joshua son of Nun was mighty in war,
 and was the successor of Moses in the prophetic office.
 He became, as his name implies,
 a great savior of God's elect,
 to take vengeance on the enemies that rose against them,
 so that he might give Israel its inheritance.

2 How glorious he was when he lifted his hands and brandished his sword against the cities!

3 Who before him ever stood so firm?
 For he waged the wars of the Lord.

4 Was it not through him that the sun stood still and one day became as long as two?

5 He called upon the Most High, the Mighty One,
 when enemies pressed him on every side,
 and the great Lord answered him
 with hailstones of mighty power.

6 He overwhelmed that nation in battle,
 and on the slope he destroyed his opponents,
 so that the nations might know his armament,
 that he was fighting in the sight of the Lord;
 for he was a devoted follower of the Mighty One.

- 7 And in the days of Moses he proved his loyalty,
he and Caleb son of Jephunneh:
they opposed the congregation,
restrained the people from sin,
and stilled their wicked grumbling.
- 8 And these two alone were spared
out of six hundred thousand infantry,
to lead the people into their inheritance,
the land flowing with milk and honey.
- 9 The Lord gave Caleb strength,
which remained with him in his old age,
so that he went up to the hill country,
and his children obtained it for an inheritance,
- 10 so that all the Israelites might see how good it is to follow the Lord.
- 11 The judges also, with their respective names,
whose hearts did not fall into idolatry and who did not turn away from the Lord —
may their memory be blessed!
- 12 May their bones send forth new life from where they lie,
and may the names of those who have been honored
live again in their children!
- 13 Samuel was beloved by his Lord;
a prophet of the Lord, he established the kingdom and anointed rulers over his people.
- 14 By the law of the Lord he judged the congregation,
and the Lord watched over Jacob.
- 15 By his faithfulness he was proved to be a prophet,
and by his words he became known as a trustworthy seer.
- 16 He called upon the Lord, the Mighty One,
when his enemies pressed him on every side,
and he offered in sacrifice a suckling lamb.
- 17 Then the Lord thundered from heaven,
and made his voice heard with a mighty sound;
- 18 he subdued the leaders of the enemy
and all the rulers of the Philistines.

- 19 Before the time of his eternal sleep,
 Samuel bore witness before the Lord and his anointed:
 "No property, not so much as a pair of shoes,
 have I taken from anyone!"
 And no one accused him.
- 20 Even after he had fallen asleep, he prophesied
 and made known to the king his death,
 and lifted up his voice from the ground
 in prophecy, to blot out the wickedness of the people.

[Sirach 47]

Nathan, David, and Solomon

- 1 After him Nathan rose up to prophesy in the days of David.
- 2 As the fat is set apart from the offering of well-being,
 so David was set apart from the Israelites.
- 3 He played with lions as though they were young goats,
 and with bears as though they were lambs of the flock.
- 4 In his youth did he not kill a giant,
 and take away the people's disgrace,
 when he whirled the stone in the sling
 and struck down the boasting Goliath?
- 5 For he called on the Lord, the Most High,
 and he gave strength to his right arm
 to strike down a mighty warrior,
 and to exalt the power of his people.
- 6 So they glorified him for the tens of thousands he conquered,
 and praised him for the blessings bestowed by the Lord,
 when the glorious diadem was given to him.
- 7 For he wiped out his enemies on every side,
 and annihilated his adversaries the Philistines;
 he crushed their power to our own day.
- 8 In all that he did he gave thanks to the Holy One, the Most High, proclaiming his glory;
 he sang praise with all his heart,
 and he loved his Maker.

- 9 He placed singers before the altar,
to make sweet melody with their voices,
and daily they sing his praises.
- 10 He gave beauty to the festivals,
and arranged their times throughout the year,
while they praised God's holy name,
and the sanctuary resounded from early morning.
- 11 The Lord took away his sins,
and exalted his power forever;
he gave him a covenant of kingship
and a glorious throne in Israel.
- 12 After him a wise son rose up
who because of him lived in security:
- 13 Solomon reigned in an age of peace,
because God made all his borders tranquil,
so that he might build a house in his name
and provide a sanctuary to stand forever.
- 14 How wise you were when you were young!
You overflowed like the Nile with understanding.
- 15 Your influence spread throughout the earth,
and you filled it with proverbs having deep meaning.
- 16 Your fame reached to far-off islands,
and you were loved for your peaceful reign.
- 17 Your songs, proverbs, and parables,
and the answers you gave astounded the nations.
- 18 In the name of the Lord God,
who is called the God of Israel,
you gathered gold like tin
and amassed silver like lead.
- 19 But you brought in women to lie at your side,
and through your body you were brought into subjection.
- 20 You stained your honor,
and defiled your family line,
so that you brought wrath upon your children,
and they were grieved at your folly,
- 21 because the sovereignty was divided
and a rebel kingdom arose out of Ephraim.

22 But the Lord will never give up his mercy,
 or cause any of his works to perish;
 he will never blot out the descendants of his chosen one,
 or destroy the family line of him who loved him.
 So he gave a remnant to Jacob,
 and to David a root from his own family.

Kings and prophets; Solomon's son, Rehoboam; Jeroboam

23 Solomon rested with his ancestors,
 and left behind him one of his sons,
 broad in folly and lacking in sense,
 Rehoboam, whose policy drove the people to revolt.
 Then Jeroboam son of Nebat led Israel into sin
 and started Ephraim on its sinful ways.
 24 Their sins increased more and more,
 until they were exiled from their land.
 25 For they sought out every kind of wickedness,
 until vengeance came upon them.

[Sirach 48] Elijah

1 Then Elijah arose, a prophet like fire,
 and his word burned like a torch.
 2 He brought a famine upon them,
 and by his zeal he made them few in number.
 3 By the word of the Lord he shut up the heavens,
 and also three times brought down fire.
 4 How glorious you were, Elijah, in your wondrous deeds!
 Whose glory is equal to yours?
 5 You raised a corpse from death
 and from Hades, by the word of the Most High.
 6 You sent kings down to destruction,
 and famous men, from their sickbeds.
 7 You heard rebuke at Sinai
 and judgments of vengeance at Horeb.

- 8 You anointed kings to inflict retribution,
and prophets to succeed you.
- 9 You were taken up by a whirlwind of fire,
in a chariot with horses of fire.
- 10 At the appointed time, it is written, you are destined to calm the wrath of God before it breaks out in fury,
to turn the hearts of parents to their children,
and to restore the tribes of Jacob.
- 11 Happy are those who saw you
and were adorned with your love!
For we also shall surely live.

Elisha

- 12 When Elijah was enveloped in the whirlwind,
Elisha was filled with his spirit.
He performed twice as many signs,
and marvels with every utterance of his mouth.
Never in his lifetime did he tremble before any ruler,
nor could anyone intimidate him at all.
- 13 Nothing was too hard for him,
and when he was dead, his body prophesied.
- 14 In his life he did wonders,
and in death his deeds were marvelous.
- 15 Despite all this the people did not repent,
nor did they forsake their sins,
until they were carried off as plunder from their land,
and were scattered over all the earth.
The people were left very few in number,
but with a ruler from the house of David.
- 16 Some of them did what was right,
but others sinned more and more.

Rulers and prophets in the kingdom of Judah; Hezekiah

- 17 Hezekiah fortified his city,
and brought water into its midst;
he tunneled the rock with iron tools,
and built cisterns for the water.
- 18 In his days Sennacherib invaded the country;
he sent his commander from Lachish and departed;
he shook his fist against Zion,
and made great boasts in his arrogance.
- 19 Then their hearts were shaken and their hands trembled,
and they were in anguish, like women in labor.
- 20 But they called upon the Lord who is merciful,
spreading out their hands toward him.
The Holy One quickly heard them from heaven,
and delivered them through Isaiah.
- 21 The Lord struck down the camp of the Assyrians,
and his angel wiped them out.
- 22 For Hezekiah did what was pleasing to the Lord,
and he kept firmly to the ways of his ancestor David,
as he was commanded by the prophet Isaiah,
who was great and trustworthy in his visions.

Isaiah

- 23 In Isaiah's days the sun went backward,
and he prolonged the life of the king.
- 24 By his dauntless spirit he saw the future,
and comforted the mourners in Zion.
- 25 He revealed what was to occur to the end of time,
and the hidden things before they happened.

[Sirach 49]Josiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Job, and the Twelve Prophets

- 1 The name of Josiah is like blended incense prepared by the skill of the perfumer;
his memory is as sweet as honey to every mouth,
and like music at a banquet of wine.
- 2 He did what was right by reforming the people,
and removing the wicked abominations.
- 3 He kept his heart fixed on the Lord;
in lawless times he made godliness prevail.

- 4 Except for David and Hezekiah and Josiah,
all of them were great sinners,
for they abandoned the law of the Most High;
the kings of Judah came to an end.
- 5 They gave their power to others,
and their glory to a foreign nation,
- 6 who set fire to the chosen city of the sanctuary,
and made its streets desolate,
as Jeremiah had foretold.
- 7 For they had mistreated him,
who even in the womb had been consecrated a prophet,
to pluck up and ruin and destroy,
and likewise to build and to plant.

- 8 It was Ezekiel who saw the vision of glory,
which God showed him above the chariot of the cherubim.
- 9 For God also mentioned Job
who held fast to all the ways of justice.
- 10 May the bones of the Twelve Prophets send forth new life from where they lie,
for they comforted the people of Jacob
and delivered them with confident hope.

Leaders of the restoration: Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and Nehemiah

- 11 How shall we magnify Zerubbabel?
 He was like a signet ring on the right hand,
 12 and so was Jeshua son of Jozadak;
 in their days they built the house
 and raised a temple holy to the Lord,
 destined for everlasting glory.
 13 The memory of Nehemiah also is lasting;
 he raised our fallen walls,
 and set up gates and bars,
 and rebuilt our ruined houses.

Conclusion of the historical review

- 14 Few have ever been created on earth like Enoch,
 for he was taken up from the earth.
 15 Nor was anyone ever born like Joseph;
 even his bones were cared for.
 16 Shem and Seth and Enosh were honored,
 but above every other created living being was Adam.

[Sirach 50]

Simon, son of Onias

- 1 The leader of his brothers and the pride of his people was the high priest, Simon son of Onias,
 who in his life repaired the house,
 and in his time fortified the temple.
 2 He laid the foundations for the high double walls,
 the high retaining walls for the temple enclosure.
 3 In his days a water cistern was dug,
 a reservoir like the sea in circumference.
 4 He considered how to save his people from ruin,
 and fortified the city against siege.
 5 How glorious he was, surrounded by the people,
 as he came out of the house of the curtain.

- 6 Like the morning star among the clouds,
like the full moon at the festal season;
- 7 like the sun shining on the temple of the Most High,
like the rainbow gleaming in splendid clouds;
- 8 like roses in the days of first fruits,
like lilies by a spring of water,
like a green shoot on Lebanon on a summer day;
- 9 like fire and incense in the censer,
like a vessel of hammered gold studded with all kinds of precious stones;
- 10 like an olive tree laden with fruit,
and like a cypress towering in the clouds.
- 11 When he put on his glorious robe
and clothed himself in perfect splendor,
when he went up to the holy altar,
he made the court of the sanctuary glorious.
- 12 When he received the portions from the hands of the priests,
as he stood by the hearth of the altar
with a garland of brothers around him,
he was like a young cedar on Lebanon surrounded by the trunks of palm trees.
- 13 All the sons of Aaron in their splendor held the LORD's offering in their hands
before the whole congregation of Israel.
- 14 Finishing the service at the altars,
and arranging the offering to the Most High, the Almighty,
- 15 he held out his hand for the cup
and poured a drink offering of the blood of the grape;
he poured it out at the foot of the altar,
a pleasing odor to the Most High, the king of all.
- 16 Then the sons of Aaron shouted;
they blew their trumpets of hammered metal;
they sounded a mighty fanfare
as a reminder before the Most High.

- 17 Then all the people together quickly fell to the ground on their faces to worship their Lord,
the Almighty, God Most High.
- 18 Then the singers praised him with their voices
in sweet and full-toned melody.
- 19 And the people of the Lord Most High offered their prayers before the Merciful One,
until the order of worship of the Lord was ended,
and they completed his ritual.
- 20 Then Simon came down and raised his hands
over the whole congregation of Israelites,
to pronounce the blessing of the Lord with his lips,
and to glory in his name;
- 21 and they bowed down in worship a second time,
to receive the blessing from the Most High.
- 22 And now bless the God of all,
who everywhere works great wonders,
who fosters our growth from birth,
and deals with us according to his mercy.
- 23 May he give us gladness of heart,
and may there be peace in our days
in Israel, as in the days of old.
- 24 May he entrust to us his mercy,
and may he deliver us in our days!

An invective against Idumeans

- 25 Two nations my soul detests,
and the third is not even a people:
- 26 Those who live in Seir, and the Philistines,
and the foolish people that live in Shechem.

A postscript

- 27 Instruction in understanding and knowledge
 I have written in this book,
 Jesus son of Eleazar son of Sirach of Jerusalem,
 whose mind poured forth wisdom.
- 28 Happy are those who concern themselves with these things,
 and those who lay them to heart will become wise.
- 29 For if they put them into practice, they will be equal to anything,
 for the fear of the Lord is their path.

PRAYER OF JESUS SON OF SIRACH

[Sirach 51]

AppendicesA psalm of thanksgiving for deliverance

- 1 I give you thanks, O Lord and King,
 and praise you, O God my Savior.
 I give thanks to your name,
- 2 for you have been my protector and helper
 and have delivered me from destruction
 and from the trap laid by a slanderous tongue,
 from lips that fabricate lies.
- In the face of my adversaries
 you have been my helper 3 and delivered me,
 in the greatness of your mercy and of your name,
 from grinding teeth about to devour me,
 from the hand of those seeking my life,
 from the many troubles I endured,
- 4 from choking fire on every side,
 and from the midst of fire that I had not kindled,
- 5 from the deep belly of Hades,
 from an unclean tongue and lying words —
- 6 the slander of an unrighteous tongue to the king.
 My soul drew near to death,
 and my life was on the brink of Hades below.

- 7 They surrounded me on every side,
 and there was no one to help me;
 I looked for human assistance,
 and there was none.
- 8 Then I remembered your mercy, O Lord,
 and your kindness from of old,
 for you rescue those who wait for you and save them from the hand of their enemies.
- 9 And I sent up my prayer from the earth,
 and begged for rescue from death.
- 10 I cried out, "Lord, you are my Father;
 do not forsake me in the days of trouble,
 when there is no help against the proud.
- 11 I will praise your name continually,
 and will sing hymns of thanksgiving."
 My prayer was heard,
- 12 for you saved me from destruction
 and rescued me in time of trouble.
 For this reason I thank you and praise you,
 and I bless the name of the Lord.

The Hebrew text adds:

Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
 for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the God of praises,
 for his mercy endures forever;
 Give thanks to the guardian of Israel,
 for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who formed all things,
 for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the redeemer of Israel,
 for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who gathers the dispersed of Israel,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who rebuilt his city and his sanctuary,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who makes a horn to sprout for the house of David, for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who has chosen the sons of Zadok
to be priests, for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the shield of Abraham,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the rock of Isaac,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the mighty one of Jacob,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to him who has chosen Zion,
for his mercy endures forever;

Give thanks to the King of the kings of kings,
for his mercy endures forever;

He has raised up a horn for his people,
praise for all his loyal ones.

For the children of Israel, the people close to him.
Praise the LORD!

An acrostic poem about the author's love for Wisdom

13 While I was still young, before I went on my travels,
I sought wisdom openly in my prayer.

14 Before the temple I asked for her,
and I will search for her until the end.

15 From the first blossom to the ripening grape
my heart delighted in her;
my foot walked on the straight path;
from my youth I followed her steps.

16 I inclined my ear a little and received her,
and I found for myself much instruction.

17 I made progress in her;
to him who gives wisdom I will give glory.

18 For I resolved to live according to wisdom,
and I was zealous for the good,
and I shall never be disappointed.

19 My soul grappled with wisdom,
and in my conduct I was strict;

I spread out my hands to the heavens,
and lamented my ignorance of her.

20 I directed my soul to her,
and in purity I found her.

With her I gained understanding from the first;
therefore I will never be forsaken.

21 My heart was stirred to seek her;
therefore I have gained a prize possession.

22 The Lord gave me my tongue as a reward,
and I will praise him with it.

23 Draw near to me, you who are uneducated,
and lodge in the house of instruction.

24 Why do you say you are lacking in these things,
and why do you endure such great thirst?

- 25 I opened my mouth and said,
Acquire wisdom for yourselves without money.
- 26 Put your neck under her yoke,
and let your souls receive instruction;
it is to be found close by.
- 27 See with your own eyes that I have labored but little and found for myself much serenity.
- 28 Hear but a little of my instruction,
and through me you will acquire silver and gold.
- 29 May your soul rejoice in God's mercy,
and may you never be ashamed to praise him.
- 30 Do your work in good time,
and in his own time God will give you your reward.

BARUCH

Introduction

The book of Baruch was probably written sometime between 200 and 60 BCE; it is set, however, during the Babylonian exile of the early sixth century BCE and attributed to Jeremiah's friend and secretary, Baruch son of Neriah (Jer 32.12; 36.4; 43.3; 45.1). Although Jeremiah and Baruch both are reported in the book of Baruch and other Jewish sources (Seder Olam Rabbah 36; Midrash Rabbah Song 5.5; Babylonian Talmud Megillah 16b), that Baruch went to Babylon. The number of historical errors in the introduction (1.1-14) makes it unlikely that the book was written by Baruch or near the time of the exile. Although few clues to the date of the composition exist, allusions to Sir 24 (ca. 180 BCE) and Dan 9 (ca. 165 BCE) imply a date not earlier than the middle of the second century BCE.

Most of Baruch is made up of pastiches of biblical passages copied or paraphrased (e.g., Dan 9; Job 28; Isa 40-66). This mosaic technique was popular in the late Second Temple period. Authors recombined texts in new ways both as a means of interpreting canonical literature and as a means of creating new literary entities.

Baruch falls into two main sections, each of which consists of two parts. The first section, in prose, includes an introduction (1.1-14) and a corporate confession of sin (1.15-3.8) for Jews in Jerusalem to recite at the altar there, along with appropriate sacrifices, on various festival days and seasons. The idea of a letter or scroll written in Babylon to be read aloud in Jerusalem is derived from the exchange of letters recorded in Jer 29 and the scroll of Jeremiah's oracles penned by Baruch and read before King Jehoiakim in 605 BCE (Jer 36). The corporate confession is modeled on Dan 9.4-19 (cf. Ezra 9.6-15; Neh 9.6-37).

The second section consists of two poems. The first (3.9-4.4) is a paean of praise of Wisdom. Drawing on Job 28 and Sir 24, it describes Wisdom as elusive but also as the Torah, God's precious gift to Israel. The second contains an address by Jerusalem to the people of Israel (4.5-29) and a rhetorical address to Jerusalem (4.30-5.9), inspired no doubt by Isa 51.17-52.10; 54; and 60-62.

The text on which the following translation is based is the Greek Septuagint; ancient Syriac, Latin, Coptic, Ethiopic, Arabic, and Armenian versions based on the Greek also exist. The prose section (1.1-3.8) has long been viewed as a translation of a lost Hebrew original.

Each of the major sections of the book has distinctive stylistic aspects that may indicate different authors. For instance, different names for God are used in the confession ("Lord"), in the wisdom poem ("God"), and in the Zion poem ("the Everlasting"). Judgment as to whether Baruch is the product of a single author or of an editor who compiled already existing materials is complicated by the heavy dependence of the confession and the poems on various scriptural models, since the dependence may account for much of the variation in style and theological perspective.

The book of Baruch would have well served Jewish communities in Judah and the Diaspora during the Seleucid and later eras of suffering and repression, since it deals with theological themes of particular interest to Jews at that time: the confession of corporate sin in the context of biblical history, the Torah as the gift of divine wisdom, and the restoration of Zion. There is no evidence, however, that any Jewish community afforded Baruch canonical status. In Christianity it is included among the deuterocanonical books of the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches, but is listed in the Apocrypha by Protestant churches.

[Baruch 1]
Historical introduction

1 These are the words of the book that Baruch son of Neriah son of Mahseiah son of Zedekiah son of Hasadiah son of Hilkiyah wrote in Babylon, 2 in the fifth year, on the seventh day of the month, at the time when the Chaldeans took Jerusalem and burned it with fire.

3 Baruch read the words of this book to Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and to all the people who came to hear the book, 4 and to the nobles and the princes, and to the elders, and to all the people, small and great, all who lived in Babylon by the river Sud.

5 Then they wept, and fasted, and prayed before the Lord; 6 they collected as much money as each could give, 7 and sent it to Jerusalem to the high priest Jehoiakim son of Hilkiyah son of Shallum, and to the priests, and to all the people who were present with him in Jerusalem. 8 At the same time, on the tenth day of Sivan, Baruch took the vessels of the house of the Lord, which had been carried away from the temple, to return them to the land of Judah — the silver vessels that Zedekiah son of Josiah, king of Judah, had made, 9 after King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had carried away from Jerusalem Jeconiah and the princes and the prisoners and the nobles and the people of the land, and brought them to Babylon.

10 They said: Here we send you money; so buy with the money burnt offerings and sin offerings and incense, and prepare a grain offering, and offer them on the altar of the Lord our God; 11 and pray for the life of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and for the life of his son Belshazzar, so that their days on earth may be like the days of heaven. 12 The Lord will give us strength, and light to our eyes; we shall live under the protection of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and under the protection of his son Belshazzar, and we shall serve them many days and find favor in their sight. 13 Pray also for us to the Lord our God, for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and to this day the anger of the Lord and his wrath have not turned away from us. 14 And you shall read aloud this scroll that we are sending you, to make your confession in the house of the Lord on the days of the festivals and at appointed seasons.

Confession of sin

15 And you shall say: The Lord our God is in the right, but there is open shame on us today, on the people of Judah, on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 16 and on our kings, our rulers, our priests, our prophets, and our ancestors, 17 because we have sinned before the Lord. 18 We have disobeyed him, and have not heeded the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in the statutes of the Lord that he set before us. 19 From the time when the Lord brought our ancestors out of the land of Egypt until today, we have been disobedient to the Lord our God, and we have been negligent, in not heeding his voice. 20 So to this day there have clung to us the calamities and the curse that the Lord declared through his servant Moses at the time when he brought our ancestors out of the land of Egypt to give to us a land flowing with milk and honey. 21 We did not listen to the voice of the Lord our God in all the words of the prophets whom he sent to us, 22 but all of us followed the intent of our own wicked hearts by serving other gods and doing what is evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

[Baruch 2]

1 So the Lord carried out the threat he spoke against us: against our judges who ruled Israel, and against our kings and our rulers and the people of Israel and Judah. 2 Under the whole heaven there has not been done the like of what he has done in Jerusalem, in accordance with the threats that were written in the law of Moses. 3 Some of us ate the flesh of their sons and others the flesh of their daughters. 4 He made them subject to all the kingdoms around us, to be an object of scorn and a desolation among all the surrounding peoples, where the Lord has scattered them. 5 They were brought down and not raised up, because our nation sinned against the Lord our God, in not heeding his voice.

6 The Lord our God is in the right, but there is open shame on us and our ancestors this very day. 7 All those calamities with which the Lord threatened us have come upon us. 8 Yet we have not entreated the favor of the Lord by turning away, each of us, from the thoughts of our wicked hearts. 9 And the Lord has kept the calamities ready, and the Lord has brought them upon us, for the Lord is just in all the works that he has commanded us to do. 10 Yet we have not obeyed his voice, to walk in the statutes of the Lord that he set before us.

11 And now, O Lord God of Israel, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand and with signs and wonders and with great power and outstretched arm, and made yourself a name that continues to this day, 12 we have sinned, we have been ungodly, we have done wrong, O Lord our God, against all your ordinances. 13 Let your anger turn away from us, for we are left, few in number, among the nations where you have scattered us. 14 Hear, O Lord, our prayer and our supplication, and for your own sake deliver us, and grant us favor in the sight of those who have carried us into exile; 15 so that all the earth may know that you are the Lord our God, for Israel and his descendants are called by your name.

16 O Lord, look down from your holy dwelling, and consider us. Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; 17 open your eyes, O Lord, and see, for the dead who are in Hades, whose spirit has been taken from their bodies, will not ascribe glory or justice to the Lord; 18 but the person who is deeply grieved, who walks bowed and feeble, with failing eyes and famished soul, will declare your glory and righteousness, O Lord.

19 For it is not because of any righteous deeds of our ancestors or our kings that we bring before you our prayer for mercy, O Lord our God. 20 For you have sent your anger and your wrath upon us, as you declared by your servants the prophets, saying: 21 Thus says the Lord: Bend your shoulders and serve the king of Babylon, and you will remain in the land that I gave to your ancestors. 22 But if you will not obey the voice of the Lord and will not serve the king of Babylon, 23 I will make to cease from the towns of Judah and from the region around Jerusalem the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, and the whole land will be a desolation without inhabitants.

24 But we did not obey your voice, to serve the king of Babylon; and you have carried out your threats, which you spoke by your servants the prophets, that the bones of our kings and the bones of our ancestors would be brought out of their resting place; 25 and indeed they have been thrown out to the heat of day and the frost of night. They perished in great misery, by famine and sword and pestilence. 26 And the house that is called by your name you have made as it is today, because of the wickedness of the house of Israel and the house of Judah.

27 Yet you have dealt with us, O Lord our God, in all your kindness and in all your great compassion, 28 as you spoke by your servant Moses on the day when you commanded him to write your law in the presence of the people of Israel, saying, 29 "If you will not obey my voice, this very great multitude will surely turn into a small number among the nations, where I will scatter them. 30 For I know that they will not obey me, for they are a stiff-necked people. But in the land of their exile they will come to themselves 31 and know that I am the Lord their God. I will give them a heart that obeys and ears that hear; 32 they will praise me in the land of their exile, and will remember my name 33 and turn from their stubbornness and their wicked deeds; for they will remember the ways of their ancestors, who sinned before the Lord. 34 I will bring them again into the land that I swore to give to their ancestors, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they will rule over it; and I will increase them, and they will not be diminished. 35 I will make an everlasting covenant with them to be their God and they shall be my people; and I will never again remove my people Israel from the land that I have given them."

1 O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, the soul in anguish and the wearied spirit cry out to you. 2 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy, for we have sinned before you. 3 For you are enthroned forever, and we are perishing forever. 4 O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, hear now the prayer of the people of Israel, the children of those who sinned before you, who did not heed the voice of the Lord their God, so that calamities have clung to us. 5 Do not remember the iniquities of our ancestors, but in this crisis remember your power and your name. 6 For you are the Lord our God, and it is you, O Lord, whom we will praise. 7 For you have put the fear of you in our hearts so that we would call upon your name; and we will praise you in our exile, for we have put away from our hearts all the iniquity of our ancestors who sinned against you. 8 See, we are today in our exile where you have scattered us, to be reproached and cursed and punished for all the iniquities of our ancestors, who forsook the Lord our God.

Wisdom, found by God, was given to Israel as the Torah

- 9 Hear the commandments of life, O Israel;
 give ear, and learn wisdom!
- 10 Why is it, O Israel, why is it that you are in the land of your enemies,
 that you are growing old in a foreign country,
 that you are defiled with the dead,
- 11 that you are counted among those in Hades?
- 12 You have forsaken the fountain of wisdom.
- 13 If you had walked in the way of God,
 you would be living in peace forever.
- 14 Learn where there is wisdom,
 where there is strength,
 where there is understanding,
 so that you may at the same time discern where there is length of days, and life,
 where there is light for the eyes, and peace.
- 15 Who has found her place?
 And who has entered her storehouses?
- 16 Where are the rulers of the nations,
 and those who lorded it over the animals on earth;
- 17 those who made sport of the birds of the air,
 and who hoarded up silver and gold
 in which people trust,
 and there is no end to their getting;
- 18 those who schemed to get silver, and were anxious,
 but there is no trace of their works?

- 19 They have vanished and gone down to Hades,
and others have arisen in their place.
- 20 Later generations have seen the light of day,
and have lived upon the earth;
but they have not learned the way to knowledge,
nor understood her paths,
nor laid hold of her.
- 21 Their descendants have strayed far from her way.
- 22 She has not been heard of in Canaan,
or seen in Teman;
- 23 the descendants of Hagar, who seek for understanding on the earth,
the merchants of Merran and Teman,
the story-tellers and the seekers for understanding,
have not learned the way to wisdom,
or given thought to her paths.
- 24 O Israel, how great is the house of God,
how vast the territory that he possesses!
- 25 It is great and has no bounds;
it is high and immeasurable.
- 26 The giants were born there, who were famous of old,
great in stature, expert in war.
- 27 God did not choose them,
or give them the way to knowledge;
- 28 so they perished because they had no wisdom,
they perished through their folly.
- 29 Who has gone up into heaven, and taken her,
and brought her down from the clouds?
- 30 Who has gone over the sea, and found her,
and will buy her for pure gold?
- 31 No one knows the way to her,
or is concerned about the path to her.
- 32 But the one who knows all things knows her,
he found her by his understanding.
The one who prepared the earth for all time filled it with four-footed creatures;

- 33 the one who sends forth the light, and it goes;
 he called it, and it obeyed him, trembling;
 34 the stars shone in their watches, and were glad;
 he called them, and they said, "Here we are!"
 They shone with gladness for him who made them.
 35 This is our God;
 no other can be compared to him.
 36 He found the whole way to knowledge,
 and gave her to his servant Jacob
 and to Israel, whom he loved.
 37 Afterward she appeared on earth and lived with humankind.

[Baruch 4]

- 1 She is the book of the commandments of God,
 the law that endures forever.
 All who hold her fast will live,
 and those who forsake her will die.
 2 Turn, O Jacob, and take her;
 walk toward the shining of her light.
 3 Do not give your glory to another,
 or your advantages to an alien people.
 4 Happy are we, O Israel,
 for we know what is pleasing to God.

Poem of comfort and restoration

- 5 Take courage, my people,
 who perpetuate Israel's name!
 6 It was not for destruction
 that you were sold to the nations, but you were handed over to your enemies
 because you angered God.
 7 For you provoked the one who made you
 by sacrificing to demons and not to God.
 8 You forgot the everlasting God, who brought you up,
 and you grieved Jerusalem, who reared you.

- 9 For she saw the wrath that came upon you from God,
and she said:
Listen, you neighbors of Zion,
God has brought great sorrow upon me;
10 for I have seen the exile of my sons and daughters,
which the Everlasting brought upon them.
11 With joy I nurtured them,
but I sent them away with weeping and sorrow.
12 Let no one rejoice over me, a widow and bereaved of many;
I was left desolate because of the sins of my children,
because they turned away from the law of God.
13 They had no regard for his statutes;
they did not walk in the ways of God's commandments,
or tread the paths his righteousness showed them.
14 Let the neighbors of Zion come;
remember the capture of my sons and daughters,
which the Everlasting brought upon them.
15 For he brought a distant nation against them,
a nation ruthless and of a strange language,
which had no respect for the aged
and no pity for a child.
16 They led away the widow's beloved sons,
and bereaved the lonely woman of her daughters.
- 17 But I, how can I help you?
18 For he who brought these calamities upon you will deliver you from the hand of your enemies.
19 Go, my children, go;
for I have been left desolate.
20 I have taken off the robe of peace
and put on sackcloth for my supplication;
I will cry to the Everlasting all my days.
- 21 Take courage, my children, cry to God,
and he will deliver you from the power and hand of the enemy.

- 22 For I have put my hope in the Everlasting to save you,
and joy has come to me from the Holy One,
because of the mercy that will soon come to you
from your everlasting savior.
- 23 For I sent you out with sorrow and weeping,
but God will give you back to me with joy and gladness forever.
- 24 For as the neighbors of Zion have now seen your capture,
so they soon will see your salvation by God,
which will come to you with great glory
and with the splendor of the Everlasting.
- 25 My children, endure with patience the wrath that has come upon you from God. Your enemy has overtaken you, but you will soon see their destruction
and will tread upon their necks.
- 26 My pampered children have traveled rough roads;
they were taken away like a flock carried off by the enemy.
- 27 Take courage, my children, and cry to God, for you will be remembered by the one who brought this upon you.
- 28 For just as you were disposed to go astray from God,
return with tenfold zeal to seek him.
- 29 For the one who brought these calamities upon you will bring you everlasting joy with your salvation.
- 30 Take courage, O Jerusalem,
for the one who named you will comfort you.
- 31 Wretched will be those who mistreated you and who rejoiced at your fall.
- 32 Wretched will be the cities that your children served as slaves;
wretched will be the city that received your offspring.
- 33 For just as she rejoiced at your fall
and was glad for your ruin,
so she will be grieved at her own desolation.
- 34 I will take away her pride in her great population,
and her insolence will be turned to grief.
- 35 For fire will come upon her from the Everlasting for many days,
and for a long time she will be inhabited by demons.

36 Look toward the east, O Jerusalem, and see the joy that is coming to you from God.
 37 Look, your children are coming, whom you sent away;
 they are coming, gathered from east and west,
 at the word of the Holy One,
 rejoicing in the glory of God.

[Baruch 5]

1 Take off the garment of your sorrow and affliction, O Jerusalem, and put on forever the beauty of the glory from God.
 2 Put on the robe of the righteousness that comes from God;
 put on your head the diadem of the glory of the Everlasting;
 3 for God will show your splendor everywhere under heaven.
 4 For God will give you evermore the name,
 "Righteous Peace, Godly Glory."

 5 Arise, O Jerusalem, stand upon the height;
 look toward the east,
 and see your children gathered from west and east
 at the word of the Holy One,
 rejoicing that God has remembered them.
 6 For they went out from you on foot, led away by their enemies;
 but God will bring them back to you,
 carried in glory, as on a royal throne.
 7 For God has ordered that every high mountain and the everlasting hills be made low and the valleys filled up, to make level ground, so that Israel may walk safely in the glory of God.
 8 The woods and every fragrant tree
 have shaded Israel at God's command.
 9 For God will lead Israel with joy,
 in the light of his glory,
 with the mercy and righteousness that come from him.

LETTER OF JEREMIAH

Introduction

These seventy-three verses purport to be a letter composed by Jeremiah for those about to be taken into exile from Judah to Babylonia in 597 BCE by Nebuchadnezzar's forces. It was undoubtedly inspired by Jeremiah's letter (Jer 29.1-23) to those taken hostage in 597, a decade before the final defeat of Judah and the destruction of Jerusalem. The Letter of Jeremiah is an impassioned sermon against idol worship and polytheism based on Jer 10, and particularly Jer 10.11: "The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth and from under the heavens." The Letter is also influenced, however, by other biblical polemics against idol worship (Ps 115.4-8; 135.15-18; Isa 40.18.20; 41.6-7; 44.9-20; 46.1-7; etc.). The body of the letter is composed of a series of ten warnings to Jews, who might be attracted to idol worship, to recognize and be wary of idolatry. Each part ends on a common refrain, with variations, insisting that idols are not gods nor to be confused with the one, true God (vv. 16, 23, 29, 40, 44, 52, 56, 65, 69, 72).

Although all surviving manuscripts of the letter are in Greek, including one fragment from Cave 7 at Qumran, the Letter was probably composed originally in Hebrew or Aramaic. Most scholars date the Letter to the Hellenistic period. The reference in v. 3 to an exile lasting seven generations (280 years) has been taken as a clue to the date of composition of the letter (317 BCE), but the reference to seven generations is probably symbolic. The allusion to the Letter in 2 Macc 2.1-3 would indicate a date no later than the second century BCE.

The Letter has different placements in various manuscripts and versions of the Bible. It stands as a discrete work between Lamentations and Ezekiel in two major Greek Septuagint manuscripts (fourth-century Vaticanus and fifth-century Alexandrius), in the Milan Syriac Hexapla, and in Arabic. In other Greek and Syriac manuscripts, and in the Latin version, it appears as the sixth chapter of Baruch. Since it is, however, clearly independent of Baruch, the New Revised Standard Version treats it as a separate book. This pseudepigraphical work was written for a Jewish audience, perhaps in Palestine. It is not included in either the Jewish or Protestant canons, but is one of the deuterocanonical books of the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches.

[Letter of Jeremiah 6] Historical introduction

1 A copy of a letter that Jeremiah sent to those who were to be taken to Babylon as exiles by the king of the Babylonians, to give them the message that God had commanded him.

The People Face a Long Captivity

2 Because of the sins that you have committed before God, you will be taken to Babylon as exiles by Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Babylonians. 3 Therefore when you have come to Babylon you will remain there for many years, for a long time, up to seven generations; after that I will bring you away from there in peace. 4 Now in Babylon you will see gods made of silver and gold and wood, which people carry on their shoulders, and which cause the heathen to fear. 5 So beware of becoming at all like the foreigners or of letting fear for these gods possess you 6 when you see the multitude before and behind them worshipping them. But say in your heart, "It is you, O Lord, whom we must worship." 7 For my angel is with you, and he is watching over your lives.

Condemnation of idolatry

8 Their tongues are smoothed by the carpenter, and they themselves are overlaid with gold and silver; but they are false and cannot speak. 9 People take gold and make crowns for the heads of their gods, as they might for a girl who loves ornaments. 10 Sometimes the priests secretly take gold and silver from their gods and spend it on themselves, 11 or even give some of it to the prostitutes on the terrace. They deck their gods out with garments like human beings — these gods of silver and gold and wood 12 that cannot save themselves from rust and corrosion. When they have been dressed in purple robes, 13 their faces are wiped because of the dust from the temple, which is thick upon them. 14 One of them holds a scepter, like a district judge, but is unable to destroy anyone who offends it. 15 Another has a dagger in its right hand, and an ax, but cannot defend itself from war and robbers. 16 From this it is evident that they are not gods; so do not fear them.

Uselessness and helplessness of idols

17 For just as someone's dish is useless when it is broken, 18 so are their gods when they have been set up in the temples. Their eyes are full of the dust raised by the feet of those who enter. And just as the gates are shut on every side against anyone who has offended a king, as though under sentence of death, so the priests make their temples secure with doors and locks and bars, in order that they may not be plundered by robbers. 19 They light more lamps for them than they light for themselves, though their gods can see none of them. 20 They are just like a beam of the temple, but their hearts, it is said, are eaten away when crawling creatures from the earth devour them and their robes. They do not notice 21 when their faces have been blackened by the smoke of the temple. 22 Bats, swallows, and birds alight on their bodies and heads; and so do cats. 23 From this you will know that they are not gods; so do not fear them.

Idols are unable to feel or move

24 As for the gold that they wear for beauty — it will not shine unless someone wipes off the tarnish; for even when they were being cast, they did not feel it. 25 They are bought without regard to cost, but there is no breath in them. 26 Having no feet, they are carried on the shoulders of others, revealing to humankind their worthlessness. And those who serve them are put to shame 27 because, if any of these gods falls to the ground, they themselves must pick it up. If anyone sets

it upright, it cannot move itself; and if it is tipped over, it cannot straighten itself. Gifts are placed before them just as before the dead. 28 The priests sell the sacrifices that are offered to these gods and use the money themselves. Likewise their wives preserve some of the meat with salt, but give none to the poor or helpless. 29 Sacrifices to them may even be touched by women in their periods or at childbirth. Since you know by these things that they are not gods, do not fear them.

Idols cannot repay good or evil, or help worshipers

30 For how can they be called gods? Women serve meals for gods of silver and gold and wood; 31 and in their temples the priests sit with their clothes torn, their heads and beards shaved, and their heads uncovered. 32 They howl and shout before their gods as some do at a funeral banquet. 33 The priests take some of the clothing of their gods to clothe their wives and children. 34 Whether one does evil to them or good, they will not be able to repay it. They cannot set up a king or depose one. 35 Likewise they are not able to give either wealth or money; if one makes a vow to them and does not keep it, they will not require it. 36 They cannot save anyone from death or rescue the weak from the strong. 37 They cannot restore sight to the blind; they cannot rescue one who is in distress. 38 They cannot take pity on a widow or do good to an orphan. 39 These things that are made of wood and overlaid with gold and silver are like stones from the mountain, and those who serve them will be put to shame. 40 Why then must anyone think that they are gods, or call them gods?

The Chaldeans dishonor their own idols

Besides, even the Chaldeans themselves dishonor them; for when they see someone who cannot speak, they bring Bel and pray that the mute may speak, as though Bel were able to understand! 41 Yet they themselves cannot perceive this and abandon them, for they have no sense. 42 And the women, with cords around them, sit along the passageways, burning bran for incense. 43 When one of them is led off by one of the passers-by and is taken to bed by him, she derides the woman next to her, because she was not as attractive as herself and her cord was not broken. 44 Whatever is done for these idols is false. Why then must anyone think that they are gods, or call them gods?

Idols are but the work of human hands

45 They are made by carpenters and goldsmiths; they can be nothing but what the artisans wish them to be. 46 Those who make them will certainly not live very long themselves; 47 how then can the things that are made by them be gods? They have left only lies and reproach for those who come after. 48 For when war or calamity comes upon them, the priests consult together as to where they can hide themselves and their gods. 49 How then can one fail to see that these are not gods, for they cannot save themselves from war or calamity? 50 Since they are made of wood and overlaid with gold and silver, it will afterward be known that they are false. 51 It will be manifest to all the nations and kings that they are not gods but the work of human hands, and that there is no work of God in them. 52 Who then can fail to know that they are not gods?

The impotence of idols

53 For they cannot set up a king over a country or give rain to people. 54 They cannot judge their own cause or deliver one who is wronged, for they have no power; 55 they are like crows between heaven and earth. When fire breaks out in a temple of wooden gods overlaid with gold or silver, their priests will flee and escape, but the gods will be burned up like timbers. 56 Besides, they can offer no resistance to king or enemy. Why then must anyone admit or think that they are gods?

Idols are helpless, useless, and not to be compared with celestial phenomena

57 Gods made of wood and overlaid with silver and gold are unable to save themselves from thieves or robbers. 58 Anyone who can will strip them of their gold and silver and of the robes they wear, and go off with this booty, and they will not be able to help themselves. 59 So it is better to be a king who shows his courage, or a household utensil that serves its owner's need, than to be these false gods; better even the door of a house that protects its contents, than these false gods; better also a wooden pillar in a palace, than these false gods.

60 For sun and moon and stars are bright, and when sent to do a service, they are obedient. 61 So also the lightning, when it flashes, is widely seen; and the wind likewise blows in every land. 62 When God commands the clouds to go over the whole world, they carry out his command. 63 And the fire sent from above to consume mountains and woods does what it is ordered. But these idols are not to be compared with them in appearance or power. 64 Therefore one must not think that they are gods, nor call them gods, for they are not able either to decide a case or to do good to anyone. 65 Since you know then that they are not gods, do not fear them.

The helplessness of idols

66 They can neither curse nor bless kings; 67 they cannot show signs in the heavens for the nations, or shine like the sun or give light like the moon. 68 The wild animals are better than they are, for they can flee to shelter and help themselves. 69 So we have no evidence whatever that they are gods; therefore do not fear them.

Idols are compared with a scarecrow, thornbush, and corpse

70 Like a scarecrow in a cucumber bed, which guards nothing, so are their gods of wood, overlaid with gold and silver. 71 In the same way, their gods of wood, overlaid with gold and silver, are like a thornbush in a garden on which every bird perches; or like a corpse thrown out in the darkness. 72 From the purple and linen that rot upon them you will know that they are not gods; and they will finally be consumed themselves, and be a reproach in the land. 73 Better, therefore, is someone upright who has no idols; such a person will be far above reproach.

THE ADDITIONS TO DANIEL

The Additions to the Greek Book of Daniel

- The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews
- Susanna
- Bel and the Dragon

THE ADDITIONS TO DANIEL

Greek manuscripts of both the Septuagint and the Theodotion versions of the book of Daniel add three Additions to the twelve original Hebrew and Aramaic chapters: "The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews," "Susanna," and "Bel and the Dragon." Behind the Greek may lie Hebrew or Aramaic originals, although no such versions of the three stories have been found even among the Dead Sea Scrolls, and there is no indisputable Talmudic reference to them. Like the folktales in Dan 1-6, the Additions in all probability originated prior to the Maccabean revolt in the mid-second century BCE; they may be originally composed as early as the Persian period (fifth-fourth century BCE). Scholars debate the place of composition: a Semitic (Hebrew or Aramaic) original would suggest a provenance in Alexandria. The Additions, which do not cite each other, likely circulated independently and only later, perhaps ca. 100 BCE when the book of Daniel was translated into Greek, were they added to the Danielic corpus. The first independent citations of the Additions date from the church fathers of the second century CE.

The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews are found in all Greek versions between Dan 3.23 and 3.24. The Septuagint locates the other two Additions at the end of the book of Daniel, after 12.13; Theodotion's version places Susanna at the opening of the book of Daniel, and Bel and the Dragon at the conclusion of ch 6. Other ancient versions follow Theodotian's order. The NRSV follows Theodotian's text but places the Additions by themselves in the Apocrypha rather than integrating them into the text.

THE PRAYER OF AZARIAH AND THE SONG OF THE THREE JEWS

Introduction

The Prayer of Azariah (vv. 1-22) and the Song of the Three Jews (vv. 28-68), along with a brief prose paragraph (vv. 23-27) concerning the fate of the three in Nebuchadnezzar's furnace, are placed by ancient manuscripts between Dan 3.23 and 3.24. Likely composed independently in the second or first century BCE, the Prayer and Song (with the exception of the end of the Song) may have originally had no connection to the book of Daniel. They appear as numbers 7 and 8 of the fifteen "Odes" added to the Psalter in a few manuscripts of the Septuagint, a placement that complements the resemblance of these Additions to Ps 148 in terms of theme and Ps 136 in terms of structure. Their placement in Dan 3 gives their general emphasis on hope for deliverance, national repentance, and divine faithfulness a poignant focus as the three Jews face death in Babylonian exile.

Similar prayers and hymns are a hallmark of Second Temple Jewish texts, and they are found in such works as Judith, Tobit, and Baruch, as well as in Dan 9 and among the scrolls discovered at Qumran (the Dead Sea Scrolls); they may represent early forms of synagogue liturgies. The Additions to Daniel are, in particular, comparable to the Additions to Esther: In both, prose narrative is supplemented with prayer and song that emphasize the piety of the main characters. The Prayer of Azariah resembles other postexilic works highlighting divine righteousness, the failure of the covenant community to remain faithful, assertion of divine mercy, and appeal for mercy (Ps 106; Ezra 9.6-15; Neh 1.5-11; Bar

1.15-3.8; and some Qumran texts). The Song of the Three Jews has allusions to numerous psalmic and prophetic passages in its exhortations to the heavens (vv. 36-41), nature (vv. 42-51), earth and its creatures (vv. 52-59), and humanity (vv. 60-68). Unlike the book of Daniel and the Prayer of Azariah, however, it does not suggest a period of persecution or a time when the Temple was either destroyed or profaned.

Whether the Prayer and Song were initially written in Hebrew or Aramaic or even Greek remains debated; their place of composition does as well, although the Prayer contains several references that correspond to the time of Antiochus IV (175-164 BCE).

The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews The Prayer of Azariah

(Additions to Daniel, inserted between 3.23 and 3.24)

1 They walked around in the midst of the flames, singing hymns to God and blessing the Lord. 2 Then Azariah stood still in the fire and prayed aloud:

3 "Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our ancestors, and worthy of praise; and glorious is your name forever!

4 For you are just in all you have done;
all your works are true and your ways right,
and all your judgments are true.

5 You have executed true judgments in all you have brought upon us and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our ancestors;
by a true judgment you have brought all this upon us because of our sins.

6 For we have sinned and broken your law in turning away from you;
in all matters we have sinned grievously.

7 We have not obeyed your commandments,
we have not kept them or done what you have commanded us for our own good.

- 8 So all that you have brought upon us,
and all that you have done to us,
you have done by a true judgment.
- 9 You have handed us over to our enemies, lawless and hateful rebels, and to an unjust king, the most wicked in all the world.
- 10 And now we cannot open our mouths;
we, your servants who worship you, have become a shame and a reproach.
- 11 For your name's sake do not give us up forever,
and do not annul your covenant.
- 12 Do not withdraw your mercy from us,
for the sake of Abraham your beloved and for the sake of your servant Isaac and Israel your holy one,
- 13 to whom you promised to multiply their descendants like the stars of heaven and like the sand on the shore of the sea.
- 14 For we, O Lord, have become fewer than any other nation, and are brought low this day in all the world because of our sins.
- 15 In our day we have no ruler, or prophet, or leader,
no burnt offering, or sacrifice, or oblation, or incense,
no place to make an offering before you and to find mercy.
- 16 Yet with a contrite heart and a humble spirit may we be accepted,
- 17 as though it were with burnt offerings of rams and bulls,
or with tens of thousands of fat lambs;
such may our sacrifice be in your sight today,
and may we unreservedly follow you,
for no shame will come to those who trust in you.
- 18 And now with all our heart we follow you;
we fear you and seek your presence.
- 19 Do not put us to shame,
but deal with us in your patience
and in your abundant mercy.
- 20 Deliver us in accordance with your marvelous works,
and bring glory to your name, O Lord.
- 21 Let all who do harm to your servants be put to shame;
let them be disgraced and deprived of all power,
and let their strength be broken.

22 Let them know that you alone are the Lord God, glorious over the whole world."

Protection in the furnace

23 Now the king's servants who threw them in kept stoking the furnace with naphtha, pitch, tow, and brushwood. 24 And the flames poured out above the furnace forty-nine cubits, 25 and spread out and burned those Chaldeans who were caught near the furnace. 26 But the angel of the Lord came down into the furnace to be with Azariah and his companions, and drove the fiery flame out of the furnace, 27 and made the inside of the furnace as though a moist wind were whistling through it. The fire did not touch them at all and caused them no pain or distress.

Song of thanksgiving

28 Then the three with one voice praised and glorified and blessed God in the furnace:

29 "Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our ancestors,
and to be praised and highly exalted forever;

30 And blessed is your glorious, holy name,
and to be highly praised and highly exalted forever.

31 Blessed are you in the temple of your holy glory,
and to be extolled and highly glorified forever.

32 Blessed are you who look into the depths from your throne on the cherubim, and to be praised and highly exalted forever.

33 Blessed are you on the throne of your kingdom,
and to be extolled and highly exalted forever.

34 Blessed are you in the firmament of heaven,
and to be sung and glorified forever.

The litany of praise

35 "Bless the Lord, all you works of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.

- 36 Bless the Lord, you heavens;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 37 Bless the Lord, you angels of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 38 Bless the Lord, all you waters above the heavens;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 39 Bless the Lord, all you powers of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 40 Bless the Lord, sun and moon;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 41 Bless the Lord, stars of heaven;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 42 "Bless the Lord, all rain and dew;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 43 Bless the Lord, all you winds;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 44 Bless the Lord, fire and heat;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 45 Bless the Lord, winter cold and summer heat;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 46 Bless the Lord, dews and falling snow;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 47 Bless the Lord, nights and days;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 48 Bless the Lord, light and darkness;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 49 Bless the Lord, ice and cold;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 50 Bless the Lord, frosts and snows;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 51 Bless the Lord, lightnings and clouds;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 52 "Let the earth bless the Lord;
let it sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 53 Bless the Lord, mountains and hills;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.

- 54 Bless the Lord, all that grows in the ground;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 55 Bless the Lord, seas and rivers;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 56 Bless the Lord, you springs;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 57 Bless the Lord, you whales and all that swim in the waters;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 58 Bless the Lord, all birds of the air;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 59 Bless the Lord, all wild animals and cattle;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 60 "Bless the Lord, all people on earth;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 61 Bless the Lord, O Israel;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 62 Bless the Lord, you priests of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 63 Bless the Lord, you servants of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 64 Bless the Lord, spirits and souls of the righteous;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 65 Bless the Lord, you who are holy and humble in heart;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- 66 "Bless the Lord, Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
For he has rescued us from Hades and saved us from the power of death, and delivered us from the midst of the burning fiery furnace; from the midst of the fire he has delivered us.
- 67 Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good,
for his mercy endures forever.
- 68 All who worship the Lord, bless the God of gods,
sing praise to him and give thanks to him,
for his mercy endures forever."

SUSANNA

Introduction

Often called the first detective story, this Addition to the book of Daniel appears in two different forms and locations in the early textual traditions. The Septuagint (and the Vulgate) locate it after Dan 13; Theodotion, the version followed in this as well as most modern translations, locates the story at the beginning of the book of Daniel, since Sus 45 describes Daniel as a "young man." Perhaps composed as early as the Persian period (fifth-fourth century BCE), Susanna's tale was added to the Danielic literature probably ca. 100 BCE. The story may originally not have been about Daniel, and the naming of the rescuing lad Daniel thus a secondary attribute of the story, added when the tale was attached to the other materials concerning Daniel, just as the Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews may not have had an original connection to Dan 3. Susanna's setting in peaceful Babylon, in which the enemies are not wicked pagan kings but corrupt Jewish judges, contrasts with threats emphasized in Dan 1-6.

Like Greek Esther, Judith, and Sarah of the book of Tobit, Susanna is beautiful and chaste, and as in those books, prayer and piety are major motifs. Indeed, with the exception of the villainous elders, all the characters — including the narrator — mention God. First cited as having canonical status by the church father Irenaeus of Lyons in the late second century CE, Susanna's story was also adopted by Samaritan and medieval Jewish (including Falashic) writers.

Susanna

Susanna's beauty attracts two elders

1 There was a man living in Babylon whose name was Joakim. 2 He married the daughter of Hilkiyah, named Susanna, a very beautiful woman and one who feared the Lord. 3 Her parents were righteous, and had trained their daughter according to the law of Moses. 4 Joakim was very rich, and had a fine garden adjoining his house; the Jews used to come to him because he was the most honored of them all.

5 That year two elders from the people were appointed as judges. Concerning them the Lord had said: "Wickedness came forth from Babylon, from elders who were judges, who were supposed to govern the people." 6 These men were frequently at Joakim's house, and all who had a case to be tried came to them there.

7 When the people left at noon, Susanna would go into her husband's garden to walk. 8 Every day the two elders used to see her, going in and walking about, and they began to lust for her. 9 They suppressed their consciences and turned away their eyes from looking to Heaven or remembering their duty to administer justice. 10 Both were overwhelmed with passion for her, but they did not tell each other of their distress, 11 for they were ashamed to disclose their lustful desire to seduce her. 12 Day after day they watched eagerly to see her.

13 One day they said to each other, "Let us go home, for it is time for lunch." So they both left and parted from each other. 14 But turning back, they met again; and when each pressed the other for the reason, they confessed their lust. Then together they arranged for a time when they could find her alone.

The attempted rape

15 Once, while they were watching for an opportune day, she went in as before with only two maids, and wished to bathe in the garden, for it was a hot day. 16 No one was there except the two elders, who had hidden themselves and were watching her. 17 She said to her maids, "Bring me olive oil and ointments, and shut the garden doors so that I can bathe." 18 They did as she told them: they shut the doors of the garden and went out by the side doors to bring what they had been commanded; they did not see the elders, because they were hiding.

19 When the maids had gone out, the two elders got up and ran to her. 20 They said, "Look, the garden doors are shut, and no one can see us. We are burning with desire for you; so give your consent, and lie with us. 21 If you refuse, we will testify against you that a young man was with you, and this was why you sent your maids away."

Susanna's response

22 Susanna groaned and said, "I am completely trapped. For if I do this, it will mean death for me; if I do not, I cannot escape your hands. 23 I choose not to do it; I will fall into your hands, rather than sin in the sight of the Lord."

24 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and the two elders shouted against her. 25 And one of them ran and opened the garden doors. 26 When the people in the house heard the shouting in the garden, they rushed in at the side door to see what had happened to her. 27 And when the elders told their story, the servants felt very much ashamed, for nothing like this had ever been said about Susanna.

The Elders Testify against Susanna

28 The next day, when the people gathered at the house of her husband Joakim, the two elders came, full of their wicked plot to have Susanna put to death. In the presence of the people they said, 29 "Send for Susanna daughter of Hilkiah, the wife of Joakim." 30 So they sent for her. And she came with her parents, her children, and all her relatives.

31 Now Susanna was a woman of great refinement and beautiful in appearance. 32 As she was veiled, the scoundrels ordered her to be unveiled, so that they might feast their eyes on her beauty. 33 Those who were with her and all who saw her were weeping.

34 Then the two elders stood up before the people and laid their hands on her head. 35 Through her tears she looked up toward Heaven, for her heart trusted in the Lord. 36 The elders said, "While we were walking in the garden alone, this woman came in with two maids, shut the garden doors, and dismissed the maids. 37 Then a young man, who was hiding there, came to her and lay with her. 38 We were in a corner of the garden, and when we saw this wickedness we ran to them. 39 Although we saw them embracing, we could not hold the man, because he was stronger than we, and he opened the doors and got away. 40 We did, however, seize this woman and asked who the young man was, 41 but she would not tell us. These things we testify."

Because they were elders of the people and judges, the assembly believed them and condemned her to death.

Susanna's prayer

42 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said, "O eternal God, you know what is secret and are aware of all things before they come to be; 43 you know that these men have given false evidence against me. And now I am to die, though I have done none of the wicked things that they have charged against me!"

Daniel responds

44 The Lord heard her cry. 45 Just as she was being led off to execution, God stirred up the holy spirit of a young lad named Daniel, 46 and he shouted with a loud voice, "I want no part in shedding this woman's blood!"

Daniel Rescues Susanna

47 All the people turned to him and asked, "What is this you are saying?" 48 Taking his stand among them he said, "Are you such fools, O Israelites, as to condemn a daughter of Israel without examination and without learning the facts? 49 Return to court, for these men have given false evidence against her."

Susanna's acquittal

50 So all the people hurried back. And the rest of the elders said to him, "Come, sit among us and inform us, for God has given you the standing of an elder." 51 Daniel said to them, "Separate them far from each other, and I will examine them."

52 When they were separated from each other, he summoned one of them and said to him, "You old relic of wicked days, your sins have now come home, which you have committed in the past, 53 pronouncing unjust judgments, condemning the innocent and acquitting the guilty, though the Lord said, 'You shall not put an innocent and righteous person to death.' 54 Now then, if you really saw this woman, tell me this: Under what tree did you see them being intimate with each other?" He answered, "Under a mastic tree." 55 And Daniel said, "Very well! This lie has cost you your head, for the angel of God has received the sentence from God and will immediately cut you in two."

56 Then, putting him to one side, he ordered them to bring the other. And he said to him, "You offspring of Canaan and not of Judah, beauty has beguiled you and lust has perverted your heart. 57 This is how you have been treating the daughters of Israel, and they were intimate with you through fear; but a daughter of Judah would not tolerate your wickedness. 58 Now then, tell me: Under what tree did you catch them being intimate with each other?" He answered, "Under an evergreen oak." 59 Daniel said to him, "Very well! This lie has cost you also your head, for the angel of God is waiting with his sword to split you in two, so as to destroy you both."

60 Then the whole assembly raised a great shout and blessed God, who saves those who hope in him. 61 And they took action against the two elders, because out of their own mouths Daniel had convicted them of bearing false witness; they did to them as they had wickedly planned to do to their neighbor. 62 Acting in accordance with the law of Moses, they put them to death. Thus innocent blood was spared that day.

63 Hilkiash and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, and so did her husband Joakim and all her relatives, because she was found innocent of a shameful deed.

Epilogue

64 And from that day onward Daniel had a great reputation among the people.

BEL AND THE DRAGON

Introduction

Perhaps composed as early as the Persian period (fifth-fourth centuries BCE) as a midrash on Jer 51; these idol parodies which appear as ch 14 of the Greek version of the book of Daniel display the foolishness of pagan worship, divine protection of the faithful Jews, and the cleverness of the court favorite, Daniel. In the account of Bel, Daniel demonstrates that the idol is not a god by proving that it does not eat the food set out for it each night; the second story reverses this scenario as Daniel proves the dragon is not divine by feeding it a noxious concoction that kills it. This second story recapitulates the account of Daniel in the lion's den (Dan 6.16-24) and adds to it Daniel's own miraculous feeding by the prophet Habbakuk. Food references culminate at the end, when Daniel's enemies are eaten by the lions into whose den Daniel had been thrown.

Bel and the Dragon

Daniel in the Persian court

1 When King Astyages was laid to rest with his ancestors, Cyrus the Persian succeeded to his kingdom. 2 Daniel was a companion of the king, and was the most honored of all his Friends.

The worship of Bel

3 Now the Babylonians had an idol called Bel, and every day they provided for it twelve bushels of choice flour and forty sheep and six measures of wine. 4 The king revered it and went every day to worship it. But Daniel worshiped his own God.

So the king said to him, "Why do you not worship Bel?" 5 He answered, "Because I do not revere idols made with hands, but the living God, who created heaven and earth and has dominion over all living creatures."

6 The king said to him, "Do you not think that Bel is a living god? Do you not see how much he eats and drinks every day?" 7 And Daniel laughed, and said, "Do not be deceived, O king, for this thing is only clay inside and bronze outside, and it never ate or drank anything."

Bel's trial

8 Then the king was angry and called the priests of Bel and said to them, "If you do not tell me who is eating these provisions, you shall die. 9 But if you prove that Bel is eating them, Daniel shall die, because he has spoken blasphemy against Bel." Daniel said to the king, "Let it be done as you have said."

10 Now there were seventy priests of Bel, besides their wives and children. So the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel. 11 The priests of Bel said, "See, we are now going outside; you yourself, O king, set out the food and prepare the wine, and shut the door and seal it with your signet. 12 When you return in the morning, if you do not find that Bel has eaten it all, we will die; otherwise Daniel will, who is telling lies about us." 13 They were unconcerned, for beneath the table they had made a hidden entrance, through which they used to go in regularly and consume the provisions. 14 After they had gone out, the king set out the food for Bel. Then Daniel ordered his servants to bring ashes, and they scattered them throughout the whole temple in the presence of the king alone. Then they went out, shut the door and sealed it with the king's signet, and departed. 15 During the night the priests came as usual, with their wives and children, and they ate and drank everything.

16 Early in the morning the king rose and came, and Daniel with him.
17 The king said, "Are the seals unbroken, Daniel?" He answered, "They are unbroken, O king." 18 As soon as the doors were opened, the king looked at the table, and shouted in a loud voice, "You are great, O Bel, and in you there is no deceit at all!"

19 But Daniel laughed and restrained the king from going in. "Look at the floor," he said, "and notice whose footprints these are." 20 The king said, "I see the footprints of men and women and children."

21 Then the king was enraged, and he arrested the priests and their wives and children. They showed him the secret doors through which they used to enter to consume what was on the table. 22 Therefore the king put them to death, and gave Bel over to Daniel, who destroyed it and its temple.

The destruction of the dragon

23 Now in that place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians revered. 24 The king said to Daniel, "You cannot deny that this is a living god; so worship him." 25 Daniel said, "I worship the Lord my God, for he is the living God. 26 But give me permission, O king, and I will kill the dragon without sword or club." The king said, "I give you permission."

27 Then Daniel took pitch, fat, and hair, and boiled them together and made cakes, which he fed to the dragon. The dragon ate them, and burst open. Then Daniel said, "See what you have been worshiping!"

Daniel in the lion pit

28 When the Babylonians heard about it, they were very indignant and conspired against the king, saying, "The king has become a Jew; he has destroyed Bel, and killed the dragon, and slaughtered the priests." 29 Going to the king, they said, "Hand Daniel over to us, or else we will kill you and your household." 30 The king saw that they were pressing him hard, and under compulsion he handed Daniel over to them.

Daniel in the Lions' Den

31 They threw Daniel into the lions' den, and he was there for six days.
32 There were seven lions in the den, and every day they had been given two human bodies and two sheep; but now they were given nothing, so that they would devour Daniel.

33 Now the prophet Habakkuk was in Judea; he had made a stew and had broken bread into a bowl, and was going into the field to take it to the reapers. 34 But the angel of the Lord said to Habakkuk, "Take the food that you have to Babylon, to Daniel, in the lions' den." 35 Habakkuk said, "Sir, I have never seen Babylon, and I know nothing about the den." 36 Then the angel of the Lord took him by the crown of his head and carried him by his hair; with the speed of the wind he set him down in Babylon, right over the den.

37 Then Habakkuk shouted, "Daniel, Daniel! Take the food that God has sent you." 38 Daniel said, "You have remembered me, O God, and have not forsaken those who love you." 39 So Daniel got up and ate. And the angel of God immediately returned Habakkuk to his own place.

40 On the seventh day the king came to mourn for Daniel. When he came to the den he looked in, and there sat Daniel! 41 The king shouted with a loud voice, "You are great, O Lord, the God of Daniel, and there is no other besides you!" 42 Then he pulled Daniel out, and threw into the den those who had attempted his destruction, and they were instantly eaten before his eyes.

1 MACCABEES

Introduction

Set in the tumultuous years of 175-143 BCE, 1 Maccabees narrates the history of the revolt against Seleucid rule in Judea led by Judas Maccabeus and his brothers. Although the book opens with a brief historical summary of events leading up to the revolt, a word of background on the religious situation will be helpful to the reader. Judea had known a long period of relative peace and prosperity, first under Alexander the Great (332-323 BCE), then under the Ptolemies, the successors to Alexander's rule in Egypt (323-198 BCE). As a result of Alexander's rule, Hellenism, a mixture of Greek and Semitic cultures, had dominated all the countries of the eastern Mediterranean basin. The book of Sirach and the translation of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek (the Septuagint) demonstrate the influence of Greek ideas on Judaism during the fourth and third centuries BCE. By the second century, however, when Judea came under the control of the Seleucids, the successors to Alexander's rule in Mesopotamia and Syria, Jews were divided over the problem of accommodating to Gentile culture. The upper class in Jerusalem, the Hellenizers, had long adopted Greek ways, while the poorer people of the rural areas tended to cling to the customs of their ancestors. The conflict among Judeans is evident at the beginning of 1 Maccabees (1.11-15) and is present throughout the book.

In this situation of complex religious, economic, and political tensions, the actions of the Seleucid ruler Antiochus IV were a match in a tinderbox. Motivated perhaps by a political desire to remove Jewish religious law as a source of conflict and potential rebellion within Judea, Antiochus tried to eradicate the distinctive identity of the Jews. By plundering the Temple and outlawing religious practices, however, Antiochus instead sparked the first Jewish war of independence as well as the first Jewish martyrdoms. The first chapters of 1 Maccabees describe this edict and its immediate consequences. Jews were prohibited from making daily offerings in the Temple, keeping the sabbath, and circumcising their sons, and were required to make sacrifices to other gods. Those who obeyed the Torah rather than the king were publicly put to death, and those who withdrew to the wilderness were slaughtered on the sabbath, when they would not fight.

Into this crisis the author introduces the priestly family of Mattathias and his sons Judas (whose epithet Maccabeus, "the hammer," gives rise to the name Maccabees), Jonathan, and Simon as the deliverers of Judea. Fearing that the Seleucids would kill all observant Jews and that the Hellenizers would destroy Judaism, Judas Maccabeus and his men mounted a campaign of armed resistance against both enemies. Using a combination of guerrilla warfare and diplomacy, they succeeded in recovering and purifying the Temple after Antiochus had defiled it, fortifying Jerusalem and securing a measure of independence for Judaea. The book is organized into sections that recount the history of each hero: Mattathias (ch 2); Judas Maccabeus (3.1-9.22); Jonathan (9.23-12.53); Simon (13.1-15.41); and John (16.1-24). By the end of the book three generations of Mattathias's family had fought for Judea's independence from the Seleucids and had established a ruling dynasty, which was called Hasmonean after their ancestor. The family of Mattathias is known as Hasmoneans from a traditional ancestor Hashmonia, not mentioned in 1 Maccabees but named in Josephus (Ant. 12.6.1). The name may be a rendering of Simeon, the grandfather of Mattathias. Joarib was first in the list of divisions of priests (1 Chr 24.7; Neh 11.10). Modein, in the hills on the road from Beth-horon, about 30 km (18 mi) northwest of Jerusalem. The Hasmoneans would remain in power until the Roman occupation in 63 BCE.

First Maccabees is written in the straightforward style of historical narrative filled with realistic detail. Scholars consider it the most reliable historical resource for the study of the Maccabean revolt. The author used both Jerusalem archives and Seleucid annals as sources; diplomatic correspondence and royal edicts are cited fourteen times in the book. Oral traditions of Jewish history probably supplemented written sources. Following the conventions of both biblical and Hellenistic historiography, the author placed eloquent speeches in the mouths of major characters at critical points in the narrative. These compositions provide the reader with clues to some of the important religious themes in the book. The author used the Jewish scriptures as a literary model and consultant backdrop for his story. The book is organized in the manner of the historical books of the Hebrew Bible, which tend to mark periods in Israel's history by the deaths of divinely appointed deliverers (Josh 1.1; Judg 1.1; 2 Sam 1.17; 1 Kings 11.41-43). In 1 Maccabees the reader is clearly guided by refrains signaling the peaceful passing of leadership from one member of the Hasmonean family to the next (2.69-70; 9.19-22; 13.25-30). There are no accounts of miraculous interventions, but the author believes that God was working through the Maccabees, as he did through the deliverers in Israel (5.62; cf. Judg 2.16; 6.14).

Frequent allusions to Israel's history and the use of biblical vocabulary guide the reader to see Mattathias and his sons as heirs of biblical heroes. Mattathias is portrayed in language that evokes the stories of Phineas (2.23-26; Num 25.6-9) and Jacob (2.49-70; Gen 49), while Judas is likened to Jonathan son of Saul (3.16-22; 1 Sam 14.6) and to Solomon (4.52-58; 1 Kings 8). Even a simple phrase like "he tore down their altars" (5.68) evokes the story of Gideon (Judg 6.25) and the commands of Moses (Deut 7.5; 12.3). The use of anachronistic terms like "Philistines" and "Israel" link the Maccabean battles with the times of Joshua and David. The most overt guide for the reader is the set of ten poetic pieces scattered throughout the narrative. Their vocabulary and style evoke the poetry of ancient Israel, especially the Psalms, and their allusions often bring to mind the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians in 586 BCE. Like the poetry in the narratives of the Hebrew Bible (e.g., Ex 15; 1 Sam 2; 2 Sam 1; 2 Sam 22), they provide the reader with theological commentary on the action of the story. In short, the author has woven scriptural allusions into the history of the Maccabean revolt.

The work was written between the rule of John Hyrcanus I, introduced at the end of the book (134-104 BCE), and Pompey's conquest of Rome in 63 BCE. Josephus used it as a source when he began his Jewish Antiquities in about 75 CE. The earliest extant manuscripts are from the fourth and fifth centuries CE in Greek and Latin. Scholars since the time of Jerome have noticed that the Greek of 1 Maccabees reads like a translation from Hebrew, almost certainly the book's original language.

[1 Maccabees 1]

Introduction; Summary of history from Alexander to Antiochus IV

1 After Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian, who came from the land of Kittim, had defeated King Darius of the Persians and the Medes, he succeeded him as king. (He had previously become king of Greece.) 2 He fought many battles, conquered strongholds, and put to death the kings of the earth. 3 He advanced to the ends of the earth, and plundered many nations. When the earth became quiet before him, he was exalted, and his heart was lifted up. 4 He gathered a very strong army and ruled over countries, nations, and princes, and they became tributary to him.

5 After this he fell sick and perceived that he was dying. 6 So he summoned his most honored officers, who had been brought up with him from youth, and divided his kingdom among them while he was still alive. 7 And after Alexander had reigned twelve years, he died.

8 Then his officers began to rule, each in his own place. 9 They all put on crowns after his death, and so did their descendants after them for many years; and they caused many evils on the earth.

10 From them came forth a sinful root, Antiochus Epiphanes, son of King Antiochus; he had been a hostage in Rome. He began to reign in the one hundred thirty-seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

Conflicts over Hellenization

11 In those days certain renegades came out from Israel and misled many, saying, "Let us go and make a covenant with the Gentiles around us, for since we separated from them many disasters have come upon us." 12 This proposal pleased them, 13 and some of the people eagerly went to the king, who authorized them to observe the ordinances of the Gentiles. 14 So they built a gymnasium in Jerusalem, according to Gentile custom, 15 and removed the marks of circumcision, and abandoned the holy covenant. They joined with the Gentiles and sold themselves to do evil.

Antiochus invades Egypt and Palestine

16 When Antiochus saw that his kingdom was established, he determined to become king of the land of Egypt, in order that he might reign over both kingdoms. 17 So he invaded Egypt with a strong force, with chariots and elephants and cavalry and with a large fleet. 18 He engaged King Ptolemy of Egypt in battle, and Ptolemy turned and fled before him, and many were wounded and fell. 19 They captured the fortified cities in the land of Egypt, and he plundered the land of Egypt.

20 After subduing Egypt, Antiochus returned in the one hundred forty-third year. He went up against Israel and came to Jerusalem with a strong force. 21 He arrogantly entered the sanctuary and took the golden altar, the lampstand for the light, and all its utensils. 22 He took also the table for the bread of the Presence, the cups for drink offerings, the bowls, the golden censers, the curtain, the crowns, and the gold decoration on the front of the temple; he stripped it all off. 23 He took the silver and the gold, and the costly vessels; he took also the hidden treasures that he found. 24 Taking them all, he went into his own land.

He shed much blood,
and spoke with great arrogance.
25 Israel mourned deeply in every community,

26 rulers and elders groaned,
young women and young men became faint,
the beauty of the women faded.
27 Every bridegroom took up the lament;
she who sat in the bridal chamber was mourning.
28 Even the land trembled for its inhabitants,
and all the house of Jacob was clothed with shame.

29 Two years later the king sent to the cities of Judah a chief collector of tribute, and he came to Jerusalem with a large force. 30 Deceitfully he spoke peaceable words to them, and they believed him; but he suddenly fell upon the city, dealt it a severe blow, and destroyed many people of Israel. 31 He plundered the city, burned it with fire, and tore down its houses and its surrounding walls. 32 They took captive the women and children, and seized the livestock. 33 Then they fortified the city of David with a great strong wall and strong towers, and it became their citadel. 34 They stationed there a sinful people, men who were renegades. These strengthened their position; 35 they stored up arms and food, and collecting the spoils of Jerusalem they stored them there, and became a great menace, 36 for the citadel became an ambush against the sanctuary,
an evil adversary of Israel at all times.
37 On every side of the sanctuary they shed innocent blood;
they even defiled the sanctuary.
38 Because of them the residents of Jerusalem fled;
she became a dwelling of strangers;
she became strange to her offspring,
and her children forsook her.
39 Her sanctuary became desolate like a desert;
her feasts were turned into mourning,
her sabbaths into a reproach,
her honor into contempt.
40 Her dishonor now grew as great as her glory;
her exaltation was turned into mourning.

Desecration of the Temple

41 Then the king wrote to his whole kingdom that all should be one people, 42 and that all should give up their particular customs. 43 All the Gentiles accepted the command of the king. Many even from Israel gladly adopted his religion; they sacrificed to idols and profaned the sabbath. 44 And the king sent letters by messengers to Jerusalem and the towns of Judah; he directed them to follow customs strange to the land, 45 to forbid burnt offerings and sacrifices and drink offerings in the sanctuary, to profane sabbaths and festivals, 46 to defile the sanctuary and the priests, 47 to build altars and sacred precincts and shrines for idols, to sacrifice swine and other unclean animals, 48 and to leave their sons uncircumcised. They were to make themselves abominable by everything unclean and profane, 49 so that they would forget the law and change all the ordinances. 50 He added, "And whoever does not obey the command of the king shall die."

51 In such words he wrote to his whole kingdom. He appointed inspectors over all the people and commanded the towns of Judah to offer sacrifice, town by town. 52 Many of the people, everyone who forsook the law, joined them, and they did evil in the land; 53 they drove Israel into hiding in every place of refuge they had.

54 Now on the fifteenth day of Chislev, in the one hundred forty-fifth year, they erected a desolating sacrilege on the altar of burnt offering. They also built altars in the surrounding towns of Judah, 55 and offered incense at the doors of the houses and in the streets. 56 The books of the law that they found they tore to pieces and burned with fire. 57 Anyone found possessing the book of the covenant, or anyone who adhered to the law, was condemned to death by decree of the king. 58 They kept using violence against Israel, against those who were found month after month in the towns. 59 On the twenty-fifth day of the month they offered sacrifice on the altar that was on top of the altar of burnt offering. 60 According to the decree, they put to death the women who had their children circumcised, 61 and their families and those who circumcised them; and they hung the infants from their mothers' necks.

62 But many in Israel stood firm and were resolved in their hearts not to eat unclean food. 63 They chose to die rather than to be defiled by food or to profane the holy covenant; and they did die. 64 Very great wrath came upon Israel.

[1 Maccabees 2]
Revolt of Mattathias

1 In those days Mattathias son of John son of Simeon, a priest of the family of Joarib, moved from Jerusalem and settled in Modein. 2 He had five sons, John surnamed Gaddi, 3 Simon called Thassi, 4 Judas called Maccabeus, 5 Eleazar called Avaran, and Jonathan called Apphus. 6 He saw the blasphemies being committed in Judah and Jerusalem, 7 and said,

"Alas! Why was I born to see this,
the ruin of my people, the ruin of the holy city,
and to live there when it was given over to the enemy,
the sanctuary given over to aliens?"

8 Her temple has become like a person without honor;

9 her glorious vessels have been carried into exile.

Her infants have been killed in her streets,
her youths by the sword of the foe.

10 What nation has not inherited her palaces
and has not seized her spoils?

11 All her adornment has been taken away;
no longer free, she has become a slave.

12 And see, our holy place, our beauty,
and our glory have been laid waste;
the Gentiles have profaned them.

13 Why should we live any longer?"

14 Then Mattathias and his sons tore their clothes, put on sackcloth, and mourned greatly.

15 The king's officers who were enforcing the apostasy came to the town of Modein to make them offer sacrifice. 16 Many from Israel came to them; and Mattathias and his sons were assembled. 17 Then the king's officers spoke to Mattathias as follows: "You are a leader, honored and great in this town, and supported by sons and brothers. 18 Now be the first to come and do what the king commands, as all the Gentiles and the people of Judah and those that are left in Jerusalem have done. Then you and your sons will be numbered among the Friends of the king, and you and your sons will be honored with silver and gold and many gifts."

19 But Mattathias answered and said in a loud voice: "Even if all the nations that live under the rule of the king obey him, and have chosen to obey his commandments, everyone of them abandoning the religion of their ancestors, 20 I and my sons and my brothers will continue to live by the covenant of our ancestors. 21 Far be it from us to desert the law and the ordinances. 22 We will not obey the king's words by turning aside from our religion to the right hand or to the left."

23 When he had finished speaking these words, a Jew came forward in the sight of all to offer sacrifice on the altar in Modein, according to the king's command. 24 When Mattathias saw it, he burned with zeal and his heart was stirred. He gave vent to righteous anger; he ran and killed him on the altar. 25 At the same time he killed the king's officer who was forcing them to sacrifice, and he tore down the altar. 26 Thus he burned with zeal for the law, just as Phinehas did against Zimri son of Salu.

27 Then Mattathias cried out in the town with a loud voice, saying: "Let every one who is zealous for the law and supports the covenant come out with me!" 28 Then he and his sons fled to the hills and left all that they had in the town.

29 At that time many who were seeking righteousness and justice went down to the wilderness to live there, 30 they, their sons, their wives, and their livestock, because troubles pressed heavily upon them. 31 And it was reported to the king's officers, and to the troops in Jerusalem the city of David, that those who had rejected the king's command had gone down to the hiding places in the wilderness. 32 Many pursued them, and overtook them; they encamped opposite them and prepared for battle against them on the sabbath day. 33 They said to them, "Enough of this! Come out and do what the king commands, and you will live." 34 But they said, "We will not come out, nor will we do what the king commands and so profane the sabbath day." 35 Then the enemy quickly attacked them. 36 But they did not answer them or hurl a stone at them or block up their hiding places, 37 for they said, "Let us all die in our innocence; heaven and earth testify for us that you are killing us unjustly." 38 So they attacked them on the sabbath, and they died, with their wives and children and livestock, to the number of a thousand persons.

39 When Mattathias and his friends learned of it, they mourned for them deeply. 40 And all said to their neighbors: "If we all do as our kindred have done and refuse to fight with the Gentiles for our lives and for our ordinances, they will quickly destroy us from the earth." 41 So they made this decision that day: "Let us fight against anyone who comes to attack us on the sabbath day; let us not all die as our kindred died in their hiding places."

42 Then there united with them a company of Hasideans, mighty warriors of Israel, all who offered themselves willingly for the law. 43 And all who became fugitives to escape their troubles joined them and reinforced them. 44 They organized an army, and struck down sinners in their anger and renegades in their wrath; the survivors fled to the Gentiles for safety. 45 And Mattathias and his friends went around and tore down the altars; 46 they forcibly circumcised all the uncircumcised boys that they found within the borders of Israel. 47 They hunted down the arrogant, and the work prospered in their hands. 48 They rescued the law out of the hands of the Gentiles and kings, and they never let the sinner gain the upper hand.

Last Words of Mattathias

49 Now the days drew near for Mattathias to die, and he said to his sons: "Arrogance and scorn have now become strong; it is a time of ruin and furious anger. 50 Now, my children, show zeal for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of our ancestors.

51 "Remember the deeds of the ancestors, which they did in their generations; and you will receive great honor and an everlasting name. 52 Was not Abraham found faithful when tested, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness? 53 Joseph in the time of his distress kept the commandment, and became lord of Egypt. 54 Phinehas our ancestor, because he was deeply zealous, received the covenant of everlasting priesthood. 55 Joshua, because he fulfilled the command, became a judge in Israel. 56 Caleb, because he testified in the assembly, received an inheritance in the land. 57 David, because he was merciful, inherited the throne of the kingdom forever. 58 Elijah, because of great zeal for the law, was taken up into heaven. 59 Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael believed and were saved from the flame. 60 Daniel, because of his innocence, was delivered from the mouth of the lions.

61 "And so observe, from generation to generation, that none of those who put their trust in him will lack strength. 62 Do not fear the words of sinners, for their splendor will turn into dung and worms. 63 Today they will be exalted, but tomorrow they will not be found, because they will have returned to the dust, and their plans will have perished. 64 My children, be courageous and grow strong in the law, for by it you will gain honor.

65 "Here is your brother Simeon who, I know, is wise in counsel; always listen to him; he shall be your father. 66 Judas Maccabeus has been a mighty warrior from his youth; he shall command the army for you and fight the battle against the peoples. 67 You shall rally around you all who observe the law, and avenge the wrong done to your people. 68 Pay back the Gentiles in full, and obey the commands of the law."

69 Then he blessed them, and was gathered to his ancestors. 70 He died in the one hundred forty-sixth year and was buried in the tomb of his ancestors at Modein. And all Israel mourned for him with great lamentation.

[1 Maccabees 3] Defeat of Apollonius

1 Then his son Judas, who was called Maccabeus, took command in his place. 2 All his brothers and all who had joined his father helped him; they gladly fought for Israel.

3 He extended the glory of his people.
Like a giant he put on his breastplate;
he bound on his armor of war and waged battles,
protecting the camp by his sword.

4 He was like a lion in his deeds,
like a lion's cub roaring for prey.

5 He searched out and pursued those who broke the law;
he burned those who troubled his people.

6 Lawbreakers shrank back for fear of him;
all the evildoers were confounded;
and deliverance prospered by his hand.

7 He embittered many kings,
but he made Jacob glad by his deeds,
and his memory is blessed forever.

8 He went through the cities of Judah;
he destroyed the ungodly out of the land;
thus he turned away wrath from Israel.

9 He was renowned to the ends of the earth;
he gathered in those who were perishing.

10 Apollonius now gathered together Gentiles and a large force from Samaria to fight against Israel. 11 When Judas learned of it, he went out to meet him, and he defeated and killed him. Many were wounded and fell, and the rest fled. 12 Then they seized their spoils; and Judas took the sword of Apollonius, and used it in battle the rest of his life.

Battle of Beth-horon

13 When Seron, the commander of the Syrian army, heard that Judas had gathered a large company, including a body of faithful soldiers who stayed with him and went out to battle, 14 he said, "I will make a name for myself and win honor in the kingdom. I will make war on Judas and his companions, who scorn the king's command." 15 Once again a strong army of godless men went up with him to help him, to take vengeance on the Israelites.

16 When he approached the ascent of Beth-horon, Judas went out to meet him with a small company. 17 But when they saw the army coming to meet them, they said to Judas, "How can we, few as we are, fight against so great and so strong a multitude? And we are faint, for we have eaten nothing today." 18 Judas replied, "It is easy for many to be hemmed in by few, for in the sight of Heaven there is no difference between saving by many or by few. 19 It is not on the size of the army that victory in battle depends, but strength comes from Heaven. 20 They come against us in great insolence and lawlessness to destroy us and our wives and our children, and to despoil us; 21 but we fight for our lives and our laws. 22 He himself will crush them before us; as for you, do not be afraid of them."

23 When he finished speaking, he rushed suddenly against Seron and his army, and they were crushed before him. 24 They pursued them down the descent of Beth-horon to the plain; eight hundred of them fell, and the rest fled into the land of the Philistines. 25 Then Judas and his brothers began to be feared, and terror fell on the Gentiles all around them. 26 His fame reached the king, and the Gentiles talked of the battles of Judas.

Campaigns of Lysias

27 When King Antiochus heard these reports, he was greatly angered; and he sent and gathered all the forces of his kingdom, a very strong army. 28 He opened his coffers and gave a year's pay to his forces, and ordered them to be ready for any need. 29 Then he saw that the money in the treasury was exhausted, and that the revenues from the country were small because of the dissension and disaster that he had caused in the land by abolishing the laws that had existed from the earliest days. 30 He feared that he might not have such funds as he had before for his expenses and for the gifts that he used to give more lavishly than preceding kings. 31 He was greatly perplexed in mind;

then he determined to go to Persia and collect the revenues from those regions and raise a large fund.

32 He left Lysias, a distinguished man of royal lineage, in charge of the king's affairs from the river Euphrates to the borders of Egypt. 33 Lysias was also to take care of his son Antiochus until he returned. 34 And he turned over to Lysias half of his forces and the elephants, and gave him orders about all that he wanted done. As for the residents of Judea and Jerusalem, 35 Lysias was to send a force against them to wipe out and destroy the strength of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem; he was to banish the memory of them from the place, 36 settle aliens in all their territory, and distribute their land by lot. 37 Then the king took the remaining half of his forces and left Antioch his capital in the one hundred and forty-seventh year. He crossed the Euphrates river and went through the upper provinces.

Preparations for Battle

38 Lysias chose Ptolemy son of Dorymenes, and Nicanor and Gorgias, able men among the Friends of the king, 39 and sent with them forty thousand infantry and seven thousand cavalry to go into the land of Judah and destroy it, as the king had commanded. 40 So they set out with their entire force, and when they arrived they encamped near Emmaus in the plain. 41 When the traders of the region heard what was said to them, they took silver and gold in immense amounts, and fetters, and went to the camp to get the Israelites for slaves. And forces from Syria and the land of the Philistines joined with them.

42 Now Judas and his brothers saw that misfortunes had increased and that the forces were encamped in their territory. They also learned what the king had commanded to do to the people to cause their final destruction. 43 But they said to one another, "Let us restore the ruins of our people, and fight for our people and the sanctuary." 44 So the congregation assembled to be ready for battle, and to pray and ask for mercy and compassion.

45 Jerusalem was uninhabited like a wilderness;
 not one of her children went in or out.
 The sanctuary was trampled down,
 and aliens held the citadel;
 it was a lodging place for the Gentiles.
 Joy was taken from Jacob;
 the flute and the harp ceased to play.

46 Then they gathered together and went to Mizpah, opposite Jerusalem, because Israel formerly had a place of prayer in Mizpah. 47 They fasted that day, put on sackcloth and sprinkled ashes on their heads, and tore their clothes. 48 And they opened the book of the law to inquire into those matters about which the Gentiles consulted the likenesses of their gods. 49 They also brought the vestments of the priesthood and the first fruits and the tithes, and they stirred up the nazirites who had completed their days; 50 and they cried aloud to Heaven, saying,

"What shall we do with these?

Where shall we take them?

51 Your sanctuary is trampled down and profaned,
 and your priests mourn in humiliation.

52 Here the Gentiles are assembled against us to destroy us;
 you know what they plot against us.

53 How will we be able to withstand them,
 if you do not help us?"

54 Then they sounded the trumpets and gave a loud shout. 55 After this Judas appointed leaders of the people, in charge of thousands and hundreds and fifties and tens. 56 Those who were building houses, or were about to be married, or were planting a vineyard, or were fainthearted, he told to go home again, according to the law. 57 Then the army marched out and encamped to the south of Emmaus.

58 And Judas said, "Arm yourselves and be courageous. Be ready early in the morning to fight with these Gentiles who have assembled against us to destroy us and our sanctuary. 59 It is better for us to die in battle than to see the misfortunes of our nation and of the sanctuary. 60 But as his will in heaven may be, so shall he do."

The Battle at Emmaus [1 Maccabees 4]

1 Now Gorgias took five thousand infantry and one thousand picked cavalry, and this division moved out by night 2 to fall upon the camp of the Jews and attack them suddenly. Men from the citadel were his guides. 3 But Judas heard of it, and he and his warriors moved out to attack the king's force in Emmaus 4 while the division was still absent from the camp. 5 When Gorgias entered the camp of Judas by night, he found no one there, so he looked for them in the hills, because he said, "These men are running away from us."

6 At daybreak Judas appeared in the plain with three thousand men, but they did not have armor and swords such as they desired. 7 And they saw the camp of the Gentiles, strong and fortified, with cavalry all around it; and these men were trained in war. 8 But Judas said to those who were with him, "Do not fear their numbers or be afraid when they charge. 9 Remember how our ancestors were saved at the Red Sea, when Pharaoh with his forces pursued them. 10 And now, let us cry to Heaven, to see whether he will favor us and remember his covenant with our ancestors and crush this army before us today. 11 Then all the Gentiles will know that there is one who redeems and saves Israel."

12 When the foreigners looked up and saw them coming against them, 13 they went out from their camp to battle. Then the men with Judas blew their trumpets 14 and engaged in battle. The Gentiles were crushed, and fled into the plain, 15 and all those in the rear fell by the sword. They pursued them to Gazara, and to the plains of Idumea, and to Azotus and Jamnia; and three thousand of them fell. 16 Then Judas and his force turned back from pursuing them, 17 and he said to the people, "Do not be greedy for plunder, for there is a battle before us; 18 Gorgias and his force are near us in the hills. But stand now against our enemies and fight them, and afterward seize the plunder boldly."

19 Just as Judas was finishing this speech, a detachment appeared, coming out of the hills. 20 They saw that their army had been put to flight, and that the Jews were burning the camp, for the smoke that was seen showed what had happened. 21 When they perceived this, they were greatly frightened, and when they also saw the army of Judas drawn up in the plain for battle, 22 they all fled into the land of the Philistines. 23 Then Judas returned to plunder the camp, and they seized a great amount of gold and silver, and cloth dyed blue and sea purple, and great riches. 24 On their return they sang hymns and praises to Heaven — "For he is good, for his mercy endures forever." 25 Thus Israel had a great deliverance that day.

First Campaign of Lysias

26 Those of the foreigners who escaped went and reported to Lysias all that had happened. 27 When he heard it, he was perplexed and discouraged, for things had not happened to Israel as he had intended, nor had they turned out as the king had ordered. 28 But the next year he mustered sixty thousand picked infantry and five thousand cavalry to subdue them. 29 They came into Idumea and encamped at Beth-zur, and Judas met them with ten thousand men.

30 When he saw that their army was strong, he prayed, saying, "Blessed are you, O Savior of Israel, who crushed the attack of the mighty warrior by the hand of your servant David, and gave the camp of the Philistines into the hands of Jonathan son of Saul, and of the man who carried his armor. 31 Hem in this army by the hand of your people Israel, and let them be ashamed of their troops and their cavalry. 32 Fill them with cowardice; melt the boldness of their strength; let them tremble in their destruction. 33 Strike them down with the sword of those who love you, and let all who know your name praise you with hymns."

34 Then both sides attacked, and there fell of the army of Lysias five thousand men; they fell in action. 35 When Lysias saw the rout of his troops and observed the boldness that inspired those of Judas, and how ready they were either to live or to die nobly, he withdrew to Antioch and enlisted mercenaries in order to invade Judea again with an even larger army.

Rededication of the Temple

36 Then Judas and his brothers said, "See, our enemies are crushed; let us go up to cleanse the sanctuary and dedicate it." 37 So all the army assembled and went up to Mount Zion. 38 There they saw the sanctuary desolate, the altar profaned, and the gates burned. In the courts they saw bushes sprung up as in a thicket, or as on one of the mountains. They saw also the chambers of the priests in ruins. 39 Then they tore their clothes and mourned with great lamentation; they sprinkled themselves with ashes 40 and fell face down on the ground. And when the signal was given with the trumpets, they cried out to Heaven.

41 Then Judas detailed men to fight against those in the citadel until he had cleansed the sanctuary. 42 He chose blameless priests devoted to the law, 43 and they cleansed the sanctuary and removed the defiled stones to an unclean place. 44 They deliberated what to do about the altar of burnt offering, which had been profaned. 45 And they thought it best to tear it down, so that it would not be a lasting shame to them that the Gentiles had defiled it. So they tore down the altar, 46 and stored the stones in a convenient place on the temple hill until a prophet should come to tell what to do with them. 47 Then they took unhewn stones, as the law directs, and built a new altar like the former one. 48 They also rebuilt the sanctuary and the interior of the temple, and consecrated the courts. 49 They made new holy vessels, and brought the lampstand, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. 50 Then they offered incense on the altar and lit the lamps on the lampstand, and these gave light in the temple. 51 They placed the bread on the table and hung up the curtains. Thus they finished all the work they had undertaken.

52 Early in the morning on the twenty-fifth day of the ninth month, which is the month of Chislev, in the one hundred forty-eighth year, 53 they rose and offered sacrifice, as the law directs, on the new altar of burnt offering that they had built. 54 At the very season and on the very day that the Gentiles had profaned it, it was dedicated with songs and harps and lutes and cymbals. 55 All the people fell on their faces and worshiped and blessed Heaven, who had prospered them. 56 So they celebrated the dedication of the altar for eight days, and joyfully offered burnt offerings; they offered a sacrifice of well-being and a thanksgiving offering. 57 They decorated the front of the temple with golden crowns and small shields; they restored the gates and the chambers for the priests, and fitted them with doors. 58 There was very great joy among the people, and the disgrace brought by the Gentiles was removed.

59 Then Judas and his brothers and all the assembly of Israel determined that every year at that season the days of dedication of the altar should be observed with joy and gladness for eight days, beginning with the twenty-fifth day of the month of Chislev.

60 At that time they fortified Mount Zion with high walls and strong towers all around, to keep the Gentiles from coming and trampling them down as they had done before. 61 Judas stationed a garrison there to guard it; he also fortified Beth-zur to guard it, so that the people might have a stronghold that faced Idumea.

[1 Maccabees 5]

Judas gathers Jews into Judea

1 When the Gentiles all around heard that the altar had been rebuilt and the sanctuary dedicated as it was before, they became very angry, 2 and they determined to destroy the descendants of Jacob who lived among them. So they began to kill and destroy among the people. 3 But Judas made war on the descendants of Esau in Idumea, at Akrabattene, because they kept lying in wait for Israel. He dealt them a heavy blow and humbled them and despoiled them. 4 He also remembered the wickedness of the sons of Baeon, who were a trap and a snare to the people and ambushed them on the highways. 5 They were shut up by him in their towers; and he encamped against them, vowed their complete destruction, and burned with fire their towers and all who were in them. 6 Then he crossed over to attack the Ammonites, where he found a strong band and many people, with Timothy as their leader. 7 He engaged in many battles with them, and they were crushed before him; he struck them down. 8 He also took Jazer and its villages; then he returned to Judea.

9 Now the Gentiles in Gilead gathered together against the Israelites who lived in their territory, and planned to destroy them. But they fled to the stronghold of Dathema, 10 and sent to Judas and his brothers a letter that said, "The Gentiles around us have gathered together to destroy us. 11 They are preparing to come and capture the stronghold to which we have fled, and Timothy is leading their forces. 12 Now then, come and rescue us from their hands, for many of us have fallen, 13 and all our kindred who were in the land of Tob have been killed; the enemy have captured their wives and children and goods, and have destroyed about a thousand persons there."

14 While the letter was still being read, other messengers, with their garments torn, came from Galilee and made a similar report; 15 they said that the people of Ptolemais and Tyre and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles, had gathered together against them "to annihilate us." 16 When Judas and the people heard these messages, a great assembly was called to determine what they should do for their kindred who were in distress and were being attacked by enemies. 17 Then Judas said to his brother Simon, "Choose your men and go and rescue your kindred in Galilee; Jonathan my brother and I will go to Gilead." 18 But he left Joseph, son of Zechariah, and Azariah, a leader of the people, with the rest of the forces, in Judea to guard it; 19 and he gave them this command, "Take charge of this people, but do not engage in battle with the Gentiles until we return." 20 Then three thousand men were assigned to Simon to go to Galilee, and eight thousand to Judas for Gilead.

21 So Simon went to Galilee and fought many battles against the Gentiles, and the Gentiles were crushed before him. 22 He pursued them to the gate of Ptolemais; as many as three thousand of the Gentiles fell, and he despoiled them. 23 Then he took the Jews of Galilee and Arbatta, with their wives and children, and all they possessed, and led them to Judea with great rejoicing.

24 Judas Maccabeus and his brother Jonathan crossed the Jordan and made three days' journey into the wilderness. 25 They encountered the Nabateans, who met them peaceably and told them all that had happened to their kindred in Gilead: 26 "Many of them have been shut up in Bozrah and Bosor, in Alema and Chaspho, Maked and Carnaim" — all these towns were strong and large — 27 "and some have been shut up in the other towns of Gilead; the enemy are getting ready to attack the strongholds tomorrow and capture and destroy all these people in a single day."

28 Then Judas and his army quickly turned back by the wilderness road to Bozrah; and he took the town, and killed every male by the edge of the sword; then he seized all its spoils and burned it with fire. 29 He left the place at night, and they went all the way to the stronghold of Dathema. 30 At dawn they looked out and saw a large company, which could not be counted, carrying ladders and engines of war to capture the stronghold, and attacking the Jews within. 31 So Judas saw that the battle had begun and that the cry of the town went up to Heaven, with trumpets and loud shouts, 32 and he said to the men of his forces, "Fight today for your kindred!" 33 Then he came up behind them in three companies, who sounded their trumpets and cried aloud in prayer. 34 And when the army of Timothy realized that it was Maccabeus, they fled before him, and he dealt them a heavy blow. As many as eight thousand of them fell that day.

35 Next he turned aside to Maapha, and fought against it and took it; and he killed every male in it, plundered it, and burned it with fire. 36 From there he marched on and took Chaspho, Maked, and Bosor, and the other towns of Gilead.

37 After these things Timothy gathered another army and encamped opposite Raphon, on the other side of the stream. 38 Judas sent men to spy out the camp, and they reported to him, "All the Gentiles around us have gathered to him; it is a very large force. 39 They also have hired Arabs to help them, and they are encamped across the stream, ready to come and fight against you." And Judas went to meet them.

40 Now as Judas and his army drew near to the stream of water, Timothy said to the officers of his forces, "If he crosses over to us first, we will not be able to resist him, for he will surely defeat us. 41 But if he shows fear and camps on the other side of the river, we will cross over to him and defeat him." 42 When Judas approached the stream of water, he stationed the officers of the army at the stream and gave them this command, "Permit no one to encamp, but make them all enter the battle." 43 Then he crossed over against them first, and the whole army followed him. All the Gentiles were defeated before him, and they threw away their arms and fled into the sacred precincts at Carnaim. 44 But he took the town and burned the sacred precincts with fire, together with all who were in them. Thus Carnaim was conquered; they could stand before Judas no longer.

45 Then Judas gathered together all the Israelites in Gilead, the small and the great, with their wives and children and goods, a very large company, to go to the land of Judah. 46 So they came to Ephron. This was a large and very strong town on the road, and they could not go around it to the right or to the left; they had to go through it. 47 But the people of the town shut them out and blocked up the gates with stones.

48 Judas sent them this friendly message, "Let us pass through your land to get to our land. No one will do you harm; we will simply pass by on foot." But they refused to open to him. 49 Then Judas ordered proclamation to be made to the army that all should encamp where they were. 50 So the men of the forces encamped, and he fought against the town all that day and all the night, and the town was delivered into his hands. 51 He destroyed every male by the edge of the sword, and razed and plundered the town. Then he passed through the town over the bodies of the dead.

52 Then they crossed the Jordan into the large plain before Beth-shan. 53 Judas kept rallying the laggards and encouraging the people all the way until he came to the land of Judah. 54 So they went up to Mount Zion with joy and gladness, and offered burnt offerings, because they had returned in safety; not one of them had fallen.

55 Now while Judas and Jonathan were in Gilead and their brother Simon was in Galilee before Ptolemais, 56 Joseph son of Zechariah, and Azariah, the commanders of the forces, heard of their brave deeds and of the heroic war they had fought. 57 So they said, "Let us also make a name for ourselves; let us go and make war on the Gentiles around us." 58 So they issued orders to the men of the forces that were with them and marched against Jamnia. 59 Gorgias and his men came out of the town to meet them in battle. 60 Then Joseph and Azariah were routed, and were pursued to the borders of Judea; as many as two thousand of the people of Israel fell that day. 61 Thus the people suffered a great rout because, thinking to do a brave deed, they did not listen to Judas and his brothers. 62 But they did not belong to the family of those men through whom deliverance was given to Israel.

63 The man Judas and his brothers were greatly honored in all Israel and among all the Gentiles, wherever their name was heard. 64 People gathered to them and praised them.

65 Then Judas and his brothers went out and fought the descendants of Esau in the land to the south. He struck Hebron and its villages and tore down its strongholds and burned its towers on all sides. 66 Then he marched off to go into the land of the Philistines, and passed through Marisa. 67 On that day some priests, who wished to do a brave deed, fell in battle, for they went out to battle unwisely. 68 But Judas turned aside to Azotus in the land of the Philistines; he tore down their altars, and the carved images of their gods he burned with fire; he plundered the towns and returned to the land of Judah.

[1 Maccabees 6]

Death of Antiochus Epiphanes IV and accession of Antiochus V

1 King Antiochus was going through the upper provinces when he heard that Elymais in Persia was a city famed for its wealth in silver and gold. 2 Its temple was very rich, containing golden shields, breastplates, and weapons left there by Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian king who first reigned over the Greeks. 3 So he came and tried to take the city and plunder it, but he could not because his plan had become known to the citizens 4 and they withstood him in battle. So he fled and in great disappointment left there to return to Babylon.

5 Then someone came to him in Persia and reported that the armies that had gone into the land of Judah had been routed; 6 that Lysias had gone first with a strong force, but had turned and fled before the Jews; that the Jews had grown strong from the arms, supplies, and abundant spoils that they had taken from the armies they had cut down; 7 that they had torn down the abomination that he had erected on the altar in Jerusalem; and that they had surrounded the sanctuary with high walls as before, and also Beth-zur, his town.

8 When the king heard this news, he was astounded and badly shaken. He took to his bed and became sick from disappointment, because things had not turned out for him as he had planned. 9 He lay there for many days, because deep disappointment continually gripped him, and he realized that he was dying. 10 So he called all his Friends and said to them, "Sleep has departed from my eyes and I am downhearted with worry. 11 I said to myself, 'To what distress I have come! And into what a great flood I now am plunged! For I was kind and beloved in my power.' 12 But now I remember the wrong I did in Jerusalem. I seized all its vessels of silver and gold, and I sent to destroy the inhabitants of Judah without good reason. 13 I know that it is because of this that these misfortunes have come upon me; here I am, perishing of bitter disappointment in a strange land."

14 Then he called for Philip, one of his Friends, and made him ruler over all his kingdom. 15 He gave him the crown and his robe and the signet, so that he might guide his son Antiochus and bring him up to be king. 16 Thus King Antiochus died there in the one hundred forty-ninth year. 17 When Lysias learned that the king was dead, he set up Antiochus the king's son to reign. Lysias had brought him up from boyhood; he named him Eupator.

Attack on the citadel and second battle at Beth-zur

18 Meanwhile the garrison in the citadel kept hemming Israel in around the sanctuary. They were trying in every way to harm them and strengthen the Gentiles. 19 Judas therefore resolved to destroy them, and assembled all the people to besiege them. 20 They gathered together and besieged the citadel in the one hundred fiftieth year; and he built siege towers and other engines of war. 21 But some of the garrison escaped from the siege and some of the ungodly Israelites joined them. 22 They went to the king and said, "How long will you fail to do justice and to avenge our kindred? 23 We were happy to serve your father, to live by what he said, and to follow his commands. 24 For this reason the sons of our people besieged the citadel and became hostile to us; moreover, they have put to death as many of us as they have caught, and they have seized our inheritances. 25 It is not against us alone that they have stretched out their hands; they have also attacked all the lands on their borders. 26 And see, today they have encamped against the citadel in Jerusalem to take it; they have fortified both the sanctuary and Beth-zur; 27 unless you quickly prevent them, they will do still greater things, and you will not be able to stop them."

28 The king was enraged when he heard this. He assembled all his Friends, the commanders of his forces and those in authority. 29 Mercenary forces also came to him from other kingdoms and from islands of the seas. 30 The number of his forces was one hundred thousand foot soldiers, twenty thousand horsemen, and thirty-two elephants accustomed to war. 31 They came through Idumea and encamped against Beth-zur, and for many days they fought and built engines of war; but the Jews sallied out and burned these with fire, and fought courageously.

32 Then Judas marched away from the citadel and encamped at Beth-zechariah, opposite the camp of the king. 33 Early in the morning the king set out and took his army by a forced march along the road to Beth-zechariah, and his troops made ready for battle and sounded their trumpets. 34 They offered the elephants the juice of grapes and mulberries, to arouse them for battle. 35 They distributed the animals among the phalanxes; with each elephant they stationed a thousand men armed with coats of mail, and with brass helmets on their heads; and five hundred picked horsemen were assigned to each beast. 36 These took their position beforehand wherever the animal was; wherever it went, they went with it, and they never left it. 37 On the elephants were wooden towers, strong and covered; they were fastened on each animal by special harness, and on each were four armed men who fought from there, and also its Indian driver. 38 The rest of the cavalry were stationed on either side, on the two flanks of the army, to harass the enemy while being themselves protected by the phalanxes. 39 When the sun shone on the shields of gold and brass, the hills were ablaze with them and gleamed like flaming torches.

40 Now a part of the king's army was spread out on the high hills, and some troops were on the plain, and they advanced steadily and in good order. 41 All who heard the noise made by their multitude, by the marching of the multitude and the clanking of their arms, trembled, for the army was very large and strong. 42 But Judas and his army advanced to the battle, and six hundred of the king's army fell. 43 Now Eleazar, called Avaran, saw that one of the animals was equipped with royal armor. It was taller than all the others, and he supposed that the king was on it. 44 So he gave his life to save his people and to win for himself an everlasting name. 45 He courageously ran into the midst of the phalanx to reach it; he killed men right and left, and they parted before him on both sides. 46 He got under the elephant, stabbed it from beneath, and killed it; but it fell to the ground upon him and he died. 47 When the Jews saw the royal might and the fierce attack of the forces, they turned away in flight.

48 The soldiers of the king's army went up to Jerusalem against them, and the king encamped in Judea and at Mount Zion. 49 He made peace with the people of Beth-zur, and they evacuated the town because they had no provisions there to withstand a siege, since it was a sabbatical year for the land. 50 So the king took Beth-zur and stationed a guard there to hold it. 51 Then he encamped before the sanctuary for many days. He set up siege towers, engines of war to throw fire and stones, machines to shoot arrows, and catapults. 52 The Jews also made engines of war to match theirs, and fought for many days. 53 But they had no food in storage, because it was the seventh year; those who had found safety in Judea from the Gentiles had consumed the last of the stores. 54 Only a few men were left in the sanctuary; the rest scattered to their own homes, for the famine proved too much for them.

Lysias makes peace

55 Then Lysias heard that Philip, whom King Antiochus while still living had appointed to bring up his son Antiochus to be king, 56 had returned from Persia and Media with the forces that had gone with the king, and that he was trying to seize control of the government. 57 So he quickly gave orders to withdraw, and said to the king, to the commanders of the forces, and to the troops, "Daily we grow weaker, our food supply is scant, the place against which we are fighting is strong, and the affairs of the kingdom press urgently on us. 58 Now then let us come to terms with these people, and make peace with them and with all their nation. 59 Let us agree to let them live by their laws as they did before; for it was on account of their laws that we abolished that they became angry and did all these things."

60 The speech pleased the king and the commanders, and he sent to the Jews an offer of peace, and they accepted it. 61 So the king and the commanders gave them their oath. On these conditions the Jews evacuated the stronghold. 62 But when the king entered Mount Zion and saw what a strong fortress the place was, he broke the oath he had sworn and gave orders to tear down the wall all around. 63 Then he set off in haste and returned to Antioch. He found Philip in control of the city, but he fought against him, and took the city by force.

[1 Maccabees 7]

Demetrius I becomes king

1 In the one hundred fifty-first year Demetrius son of Seleucus set out from Rome, sailed with a few men to a town by the sea, and there began to reign. 2 As he was entering the royal palace of his ancestors, the army seized Antiochus and Lysias to bring them to him. 3 But when this act became known to him, he said, "Do not let me see their faces!" 4 So the army killed them, and Demetrius took his seat on the throne of his kingdom.

Alcimus as high priest

5 Then there came to him all the renegade and godless men of Israel; they were led by Alcimus, who wanted to be high priest. 6 They brought to the king this accusation against the people: "Judas and his brothers have destroyed all your Friends, and have driven us out of our land. 7 Now then send a man whom you trust; let him go and see all the ruin that Judas has brought on us and on the land of the king, and let him punish them and all who help them."

8 So the king chose Bacchides, one of the king's Friends, governor of the province Beyond the River; he was a great man in the kingdom and was faithful to the king. 9 He sent him, and with him he sent the ungodly Alcimus, whom he made high priest; and he commanded him to take vengeance on the Israelites. 10 So they marched away and came with a large force into the land of Judah; and he sent messengers to Judas and his brothers with peaceable but treacherous words. 11 But they paid no attention to their words, for they saw that they had come with a large force.

12 Then a group of scribes appeared in a body before Alcimus and Bacchides to ask for just terms. 13 The Hasideans were first among the Israelites to seek peace from them, 14 for they said, "A priest of the line of Aaron has come with the army, and he will not harm us." 15 Alcimus spoke peaceable words to them and swore this oath to them, "We will not seek to injure you or your friends." 16 So they trusted him; but he seized sixty of them and killed them in one day, in accordance with the word that was written,

17 "The flesh of your faithful ones and their blood
they poured out all around Jerusalem,
and there was no one to bury them."

18 Then the fear and dread of them fell on all the people, for they said, "There is no truth or justice in them, for they have violated the agreement and the oath that they swore."

19 Then Bacchides withdrew from Jerusalem and encamped in Bethzaith. And he sent and seized many of the men who had deserted to him, and some of the people, and killed them and threw them into a great pit. 20 He placed Alcimus in charge of the country and left with him a force to help him; then Bacchides went back to the king.

21 Alcimus struggled to maintain his high priesthood, 22 and all who were troubling their people joined him. They gained control of the land of Judah and did great damage in Israel. 23 And Judas saw all the wrongs that Alcimus and those with him had done among the Israelites; it was more than the Gentiles had done. 24 So Judas went out into all the surrounding parts of Judea, taking vengeance on those who had deserted and preventing those in the city from going out into the country. 25 When Alcimus saw that Judas and those with him had grown strong, and realized that he could not withstand them, he returned to the king and brought malicious charges against them.

Defeat of Nicanor

26 Then the king sent Nicanor, one of his honored princes, who hated and detested Israel, and he commanded him to destroy the people. 27 So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a large force, and treacherously sent to Judas and his brothers this peaceable message, 28 "Let there be no fighting between you and me; I shall come with a few men to see you face to face in peace."

29 So he came to Judas, and they greeted one another peaceably; but the enemy were preparing to kidnap Judas. 30 It became known to Judas that Nicanor had come to him with treacherous intent, and he was afraid of him and would not meet him again. 31 When Nicanor learned that his plan had been disclosed, he went out to meet Judas in battle near Caphar-salama. 32 About five hundred of the army of Nicanor fell, and the rest fled into the city of David.

33 After these events Nicanor went up to Mount Zion. Some of the priests from the sanctuary and some of the elders of the people came out to greet him peaceably and to show him the burnt offering that was being offered for the king. 34 But he mocked them and derided them and defiled them and spoke arrogantly, 35 and in anger he swore this oath, "Unless Judas and his army are delivered into my hands this time, then if I return safely I will burn up this house." And he went out in great anger. 36 At this the priests went in and stood before the altar and the temple; they wept and said,

37 "You chose this house to be called by your name, and to be for your people a house of prayer and supplication.
 38 Take vengeance on this man and on his army,
 and let them fall by the sword;
 remember their blasphemies,
 and let them live no longer."

39 Now Nicanor went out from Jerusalem and encamped in Beth-horon, and the Syrian army joined him. 40 Judas encamped in Adasa with three thousand men. Then Judas prayed and said, 41 "When the messengers from the king spoke blasphemy, your angel went out and struck down one hundred eighty-five thousand of the Assyrians. 42 So also crush this army before us today; let the rest learn that Nicanor has spoken wickedly against the sanctuary, and judge him according to this wickedness."

43 So the armies met in battle on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar. The army of Nicanor was crushed, and he himself was the first to fall in the battle. 44 When his army saw that Nicanor had fallen, they threw down their arms and fled. 45 The Jews pursued them a day's journey, from Adasa as far as Gazara, and as they followed they kept sounding the battle call on the trumpets. 46 People came out of all the surrounding villages of Judea, and they outflanked the enemy and drove them back to their pursuers, so that they all fell by the sword; not even one of them was left. 47 Then the Jews seized the spoils and the plunder; they cut off Nicanor's head and the right hand that he had so arrogantly stretched out, and brought them and displayed them just outside Jerusalem. 48 The people rejoiced greatly and celebrated that day as a day of great gladness. 49 They decreed that this day should be celebrated each year on the thirteenth day of Adar. 50 So the land of Judah had rest for a few days.

[1 Maccabees 8] Treaty with Rome

1 Now Judas heard of the fame of the Romans, that they were very strong and were well-disposed toward all who made an alliance with them, that they pledged friendship to those who came to them, 2 and that they were very strong. He had been told of their wars and of the brave deeds that they were doing among the Gauls, how they had defeated them and forced them to pay tribute, 3 and what they had done in the land of Spain to get control of the silver and gold mines there, 4 and how they had gained control of the whole region by their planning and patience, even though the place was far distant from them. They also subdued the kings who came against them from the ends of the earth, until they crushed them and inflicted great disaster on them; the rest paid them tribute every year. 5 They had crushed in battle and conquered Philip, and King Perseus of the Macedonians, and the others who rose up against them. 6 They also had defeated Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who went to fight against them with one hundred twenty elephants and with cavalry and chariots and a very large army. He was crushed by them; 7 they took him alive and decreed that he and those who would reign after him should pay a heavy tribute and give hostages and surrender some of their best provinces, 8 the countries of India, Media, and Lydia. These they took from him and gave to King Eumenes. 9 The Greeks planned to come and destroy them, 10 but this became known to them, and they sent a general against the Greeks and attacked them. Many of them were wounded and fell, and the Romans took captive their wives and children; they plundered them, conquered the land, tore down their strongholds, and enslaved them to this day. 11 The remaining kingdoms and islands, as many as ever opposed them, they destroyed and enslaved; 12 but with their friends and those who rely on them they have kept friendship. They have subdued kings far and near, and as many as have heard of their fame have feared them. 13 Those whom they wish to help and to make kings, they make kings, and those whom they wish they depose; and they have been greatly exalted. 14 Yet for all this not one of them has put on a crown or worn purple as a mark of pride, 15 but they have built for themselves a senate chamber, and every day three hundred twenty senators constantly deliberate concerning the people, to govern them well. 16 They trust one man each year to rule over them and to control all their land; they all heed the one man, and there is no envy or jealousy among them.

17 So Judas chose Eupolemus son of John son of Accos, and Jason son of Eleazar, and sent them to Rome to establish friendship and alliance, 18 and to free themselves from the yoke; for they saw that the kingdom of the Greeks was enslaving Israel completely. 19 They went to Rome, a very long journey; and they entered the senate chamber and spoke as follows: 20 "Judas, who is also called Maccabeus, and his brothers and the people of the Jews have sent us to you to establish alliance and peace with you, so that we may be enrolled as your allies and friends." 21 The proposal pleased them, 22 and this is a copy of the letter that they wrote in reply, on bronze tablets, and sent to Jerusalem to remain with them there as a memorial of peace and alliance:

23 "May all go well with the Romans and with the nation of the Jews at sea and on land forever, and may sword and enemy be far from them. 24 If war comes first to Rome or to any of their allies in all their dominion, 25 the nation of the Jews shall act as their allies wholeheartedly, as the occasion may indicate to them. 26 To the enemy that makes war they shall not give or supply grain, arms, money, or ships, just as Rome has decided; and they shall keep their obligations without receiving any return. 27 In the same way, if war comes first to the nation of the Jews, the Romans shall willingly act as their allies, as the occasion may indicate to them. 28 And to their enemies there shall not be given grain, arms, money, or ships, just as Rome has decided; and they shall keep these obligations and do so without deceit. 29 Thus on these terms the Romans make a treaty with the Jewish people. 30 If after these terms are in effect both parties shall determine to add or delete anything, they shall do so at their discretion, and any addition or deletion that they may make shall be valid.

31 "Concerning the wrongs that King Demetrius is doing to them, we have written to him as follows, 'Why have you made your yoke heavy on our friends and allies the Jews? 32 If now they appeal again for help against you, we will defend their rights and fight you on sea and on land.'"

[1 Maccabees 9] Death of Judas

1 When Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his army had fallen in battle, he sent Bacchides and Alcimus into the land of Judah a second time, and with them the right wing of the army. 2 They went by the road that leads to Gilgal and encamped against Mesaloth in Arbela, and they took it and killed many people. 3 In the first month of the one hundred fifty-second year they encamped against Jerusalem; 4 then they marched off and went to Berea with twenty thousand foot soldiers and two thousand cavalry.

5 Now Judas was encamped in Elasa, and with him were three thousand picked men. 6 When they saw the huge number of the enemy forces, they were greatly frightened, and many slipped away from the camp, until no more than eight hundred of them were left.

7 When Judas saw that his army had slipped away and the battle was imminent, he was crushed in spirit, for he had no time to assemble them. 8 He became faint, but he said to those who were left, "Let us get up and go against our enemies. We may have the strength to fight them." 9 But they tried to dissuade him, saying, "We do not have the strength. Let us rather save our own lives now, and let us come back with our kindred and fight them; we are too few." 10 But Judas said, "Far be it from us to do such a thing as to flee from them. If our time has come, let us die bravely for our kindred, and leave no cause to question our honor."
